TERSE AND TIMELY

Editor's Note.—We are offering this little column for the consideration of those of our readers who are gluttons for punishment. Of course these utterances will seem crude to many, but it may be that their crudeness, if nothing else, will provoke an occasional grin. Those whimsical sayings that we quote from others may prove a partial offset for the bluntness of our own.

About the time that we think that life is hardly worth living and that we are unworried by the note that the brilliant paragrapher of the Lexington Herald seldom breaks into the literary sweet's page of quoted topics.

As a contrast to the first Christmas when a little group of wise men came to the manger to see the new-born king, there are now the groups of bank clerks who watch for the "little fellow" to appear on the post office box name on the bank ledger, which is just another bit of irony in the "holiday cheer."

Since the skirts are now made longer those who originally objected to the "shortening" needn't get so "cranky" about it.

While the sending of Senator Sackett to Germany meets with approval of most Kentuckians, it has provoked the query from some of the more savage Democrats: "Why couldn't it have been done about 12 years ago?"

The Cincinnati Democrat remarks: "Four cases of small-pox in the Richmond jail prove prisoners will break out of all of which reminds us that there must be a constant epidemic of terrorism and vigilance."

And it further reminds us that one of the prisoners who "broke out" with the last squad had been sent there for "safe keeping." Sit down your sarcastic sun-of-a-gun we didn't ask you for anything.

We suppose, too, that every boy in Mexico has a chance of some day being President, but most of them are lucky enough to avoid it—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Supposition is that the Texas girl who married a Cleveland man over the telephone just hung on until she finally got the victim's number—The Lexington Herald.

They had to make the skirts longer or they wouldn't be skirts any longer—Virginia Pilot.

In reviewing the past year, how much do you remember of what the public speaker said, and how much of that did you any good?—Elizabethtown News.

DAIRYMEN

ARE FIRST TO ENLIST IN DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION FOR CURRENT YEAR—HAVE FOLLOWED PROGRAM CLOSELY AND BENEFITS ARE FOUND

Mr. R. B. Huey and son, the first dairymen in Boone county to enroll in the Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association, in the 1927-28 season and the 1929-30 association had the honor last week of being the first dairymen to enroll in the 1930-31 association that will begin work of the new year on February 1st.

Mr. Huey and Franklin have followed a complete program of dairy herd improvement for the past two years. During this time the feed and milk production costs have been lowered, production per cow increased and a complete breeding improvement program put into force.

Franklin Huey, the junior member and co-operator of the farm has served the association as an efficient vice-president in the 1929-30 association.

NEW FACES IN NEW PLACES AT COURT HOUSE ON JANUARY 6TH

SHERIFF'S AND JAILER'S POSTS FILLED BY NEW MEN—2 NEW MEMBERS OF FISCAL COURT AND ONE ON BOARD OF EDUCATION—NEW DEPUTY COUNTY CLERK

Several changes in Boone county's official personnel took place as of last Monday. While many regarded January 1st as the date for the passing out of the "old" and the coming in of the "new," yet the official changes did not take place until Monday, January 6th.

Elmer Kirkpatrick, the new jailer, assumed his duties several days prior to the day he was sworn in, but acted as a deputy under Jailer C. B. Fowler, who has been anxious to relinquish his post for some time owing to the fact that his health and strength have not been the best for several months.

Mr. Kirkpatrick had assumed charge of affairs at the court house and the jail in a manner that augurs well for the protection and care of these public properties for the next four years, but, nevertheless, "it ain't the same old place" without Mr. Fowler, than whom no more conscientious and painstaking official could be found. He has been jailer for twelve years and during that time has proven himself to be a most likable and capable officer.

Another change as a matter of course occurs in the office of the sheriff, where L. T. Utz surrenders the reins to Hubert Snyder, both of whom have been connected with the office for eight years. These two men started their official careers with the late B. B. Hume at the beginning of his last term in 1922.

Mr. Utz leaves the sheriff's office with the assurance that he has served well and faithfully. He always has been on the alert with duty uppermost in his mind.

With Mr. Snyder's training and experience no one has reason to doubt that the affairs to be handled in and from that corner of the court house will suffer under his regime.

With Tax Commissioner J. S. Cason, County Clerk A. G. McMullen, County Judge N. E. Riddell, and County Attorney B. H. Riley, continuing in office, the two above referred to are the only major changes to take place. However, Deputy County Clerk Mark Cook is retiring from his employment under Mr. McMullen, being succeeded by Mr. McMullen's niece, Mrs. Howard Ryle, formerly Miss Dorothy McMullen. Mr. Cook will assist Mr. Cason as deputy Tax Commissioner temporarily, it is reported.

Mr. Cook has displayed marked ability in the clerk's office and has made many true friends among those who have had occasion to seek that office in the course of business, being most loyal of these friends, being those who have had the closest and most frequent contact with him. Mr. Cook also assumed his duties as a

DOCTRINAL SERMONS

A series of Doctrinal Discussions is being conducted at the Union Baptist church by the Rev. V. L. Stephenson, each Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. These discussions are principles but include the outstanding doctrines of the Bible. The first four themes to be discussed are as follows:

Jan. 9—The Person of God.
Jan. 16—Knowledge of God.
Jan. 23—Creation.
Jan. 30—Righteousness of Christ.

A Question Box will be kept at the church and questions from individuals will be answered after consideration of the subject for the evening.

Deaths

MR. J. MATHEW ROSE

Mr. J. Mathew Rose, aged 73 years, passed away early Wednesday morning at his home 108 Locust Street, Erlanger, Ky., after an illness of 4 years. The remains were kept at the Tallaferris Funeral Home until Friday when they were taken to the Christian church at Gardnersville, Ky., where services were held at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Lewis, interment following in the cemetery.

Mr. Rose is survived by his widow and one son besides other relatives and friends.

MRS. ROSE E. HERRMAN

Mrs. Rose E. Herrman, aged 46 years, wife of Fen Herrman, passed away Thursday morning at her home in Erlanger, Ky., after a long illness. Her funeral was held at the late residence at 18 St. Louis street with a requiem high mass at St. Henry's church, Monday at 9 o'clock by the Rev. Geo. C. Beiler, after which the remains were taken to St. Mary's cemetery for interment.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Herrman is survived by two sons, Edward and Walter, three brothers and two sisters, besides a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her departure.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferris had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. MARY L. ROBINSON

Mrs. Mary L. Robinson, aged 68 years, wife of L. B. Robinson, passed away Christmas eve at her home on Sanders Drive near Florence. The remains were taken to the Tallaferris Funeral Home, Erlanger, where funeral services were held Friday morning at 10 o'clock, interment being in Florence cemetery.

She was a member of the Elmore Baptist church and her pastor, the Rev. J. A. Miller, had charge of the service.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Robinson is survived by one son, Raymond Johnson, and two married daughters who reside in Ironton and Cincinnati, Ohio.

BOONE COUNTY HAS A SANTA CLAUS

This fact has been clearly proven both this Christmas season and also a year ago. This Santa Claus lives in the heart of one family who appreciated that "True Life is in Giving," and acting on this knowledge placed $100 in my hands with a request that I play the role of Santa Claus for them, for those folks of the county who approach the birthday of the Christ-child totally unable to make preparation for his inception in their lives and homes.

It was with great joy that together we planned for these folks, the gifts that we felt would bring to them, comforts they were lacking, holiday cheer, and above all the Spirit of Christmas, deep down in their hearts, that realization of the presence of the Christ-child totally unable to make preparation for his inception in their lives and homes.

Seventeen families were visited on the three days preceding Christmas day and baskets of groceries, fruits and candies were delivered to them with also gifts of warm bed clothes, clothing, and in some cases money when the circumstances indicated that to be the most appropriate gift.

Unless you were seeking out the homes where illness and misfortune had wrought havoc to home life, I rather doubt if you can realize how big a ministry this one hundred dollars rendered, and I know unless it should be your happy privilege to be the messenger to make the delivery visits you can in no manner realize the divine satisfaction that the task awards. To see faces brightened, eyes beaming with gratitude, and to hear tongues attempt to tell you of the happiness which they felt, and in some cases to say "Thanks" when I almost knew it to be the first time they had occasion to use the word because of such an act of kindness.

We talk a great deal about "Peace and Good Will to Men" at the Christmas season, this good family actually gave the "Peace" that comes to desolate souls by realizing the love of other fellow human beings—and the "Good Will" that is best expressed by such deeds rather than words.

SPELLING BEE

UNDER AUSPICES OF COURIER-JOURNAL TO BE CONDUCTED BY THEM FOR 5TH STRAIGHT TIME.

Four counties have selected champions in the Courier-Journal statewide Spelling Bee. So far, 67 counties have entered. Boone county is among those who have agreed to send representatives to the State finals to be held at Louisville in April.

Willa Avery, Upton, triumphed over Richard Clark, Elizabethtown, in the Madison County finals. Christine Bannister, Summit, finished third. In the Bracken County, Pearlle Watt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Watts, Lost Creek, defeated Carrie Cope, Moret, for the county championship. This was the second match held between these contestants. Three hundred spectators attended the final.

A prize of ten dollars from the County Board of Education and the

SERGEANT WOODFILL GREETED BY ENTHUSIASTIC ADMIRERS

POULTRY PROBLEMS

The fourth annual winter poultry school held in the interest of more profitable poultry raising will be held at the Odd-Fellows Hall at Florence on Friday, January 17th.

Plans are under way for the arrangement of the programs and other features of the school. This event coming just before the hatching season when the straws point the way to next year's profits is of special interest to all Boone county poultrymen.

BASKET BALL

(By Walter Brown)

Friday night the Burlington team journeyed to California, Ky., accompanied by a few loyal rooters. California is 42 miles from Burlington, but what is an 84 mile trip if both teams win?

Girls Game

Coach Hearin started three substitutes and despite the Kittens most valiant efforts, the California girls rang up 8 points before the game was fairly started. 9 to 1 it was when the frantic "Prof" rushed in the remaining regulars. Trailing from 6 to 10 points up to the last three minutes of the third period, our girls suddenly came to life and when the final gong rang the score showed Kittens 19, California 15. Amid the thundering roar of approval from the Burlington contingent, there was no outstanding star for the Kittens.

Confirmed was in which they hung on turned the tide in their favor, and also showed that the term "Kitten" does not necessarily mean "no cur" up."

Boys Game

Not for many years has the Burlington school put anything on the basket ball court as fast as these "Tom Cats." They threw everything thru the baskets but their sweat shirts and coach Lamb, and when the final whistle blew the score was Tom Cats 23, California 18. The boys displayed a wonderful brand of basket ball, their team work beautiful to watch. The California boys were simply out classed, and though they played a clean hard game, they just couldn't stop the raging Cats. The game was replete with difficult shots, "Mopie" Ryle, the debonair Burlington guard, dropping one in from center with all the grace and complacency of youth. Maurer was the high scorer of the Cats, scoring of the teams points. He is one of the best if not the best forward that ever wore old RHS colors. The success of the "Cats" is due to the untiring efforts of Coach Lamb, who, with his knowledge of the game and popularity with the boys, has given us a team of whom we are proud.

MOST NOTED WAR HERO MAKES FAVORABLE IMPRESSION UPON THOSE WHO MET HIM—30 NEW MEMBERS FOR BOONE POST NO. 4—SECOND MEETING HERE JAN. 10.

The man who has been recognized by all constituted authorities, and thousands of private citizens, as the outstanding World War hero, paid this village a visit during the Christmas holidays.

The name of the man to whom we have reference is Sergeant Samuel W. Woodfill; and the occasion of his visit was a "day" meeting for the re-organization of the Boone county Post No. 4 of the American Legion. Other legion notables were present, but naturally Sergeant Woodfill was the center of interest of those who attended. Vice-Commander Milton D. Campbell, Jr., of Cincinnati, or the National organization of the legion, was here, as well as contact officer Florence, of the Kentucky organization.

All three of these men delivered short addresses relative to the significance of the legion. Much of the meeting was supplied by an orchestra from the Dramatic Club of St. Paul's Church at Florence.

After the talks from these men had been completed the meeting received itself into a re-organization of the legion, when thirty men became members of Boone Post No. 4.

Officers of the post were elected as follows: Commander, Rufus Tanner; Vice-Commander, George Walton; and J. B. Pettit; Adjutant C. L. Cropper; Finance officer, Jas. C. Heston; G. G. Kelly; Chaplain, Wm. Presser; and Master at Arms, Leslie Sorrell.

The following Executive Committee: J. B. H. Riley, Ross Russ, J. T. Williams, O. W. Clesk.

At the close of the meeting supper was served to those in attendance, who numbered about seventy-five.

Arrangements also were made at the meeting for a subsequent meeting to be held at the court house in Burlington for the purpose of a further discussion of matters pertaining to the continuance of the activities of the organization. All of those now belonging are urged to be present and to bring with them some veterans who is not a member.

Thirty new members were added to the organization at the meeting December 30th, and members of the legion hope that every World War vet in the county will be added to this number before long.

Of course all present regarded Sergeant Woodfill's presence as a distinct honor.

FARM BUREAU

PLANS EXTENSIVE EXPANSION CAMPAIGN—MEETINGS TO BE HELD ON THREE DIFFERENT DATES IN BOONE COUNTY

The Boone County Farm Bureau is making plans for the enlargement and expansion of the services rendered to Boone county farmers, according to an announcement made by the directors last week.

A number of meetings will be held this coming week to inform the farmers of the county of the developments and progress being made by farmers of other sections. The meetings will be held at the following places:

Monday January 13th
Burlington Farm Bureau Building at 8 p. m.

Tuesday January 14th
Florence Farm Bureau Building at 8 p. m. (fast time).

Wednesday January 15th
Holtson Odd-Fellows Hall 8 p. m. (fast time).

Thursday January 16th
Watson Picture Show House at 7:30 p. m.

A special program with speakers of special interest to all attending will be given. Every one interested in agricultural work is invited to attend.

Reward of Merit For 25 Years of Continuous Service

Prof. L. H. Voshell, of Union, brought us the news last Monday that his nephew Harry Voshell recently had been re-appointed chief of the Indianapolis fire department. Mr. Voshell, the Hoosier fire chief, has a number of relatives in Boone county and is a brother of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Voshell White, who passed away recently.

We take a great deal of pleasure in quoting a very complimentary story from the Indianapolis Star in reference to Mr. Voshell's appointment, which follows:

"Reappointment of Harry E. Voshell, a Democrat, as chief of the Indianapolis fire department, was announced Wednesday by the newly appointed board of safety named by Reginald B. Sullivan, mayor-elect."

In announcing the appointment of Chief Voshell, who has been head of the city's fire fighting force for the last twenty-one months, Charles

R. Myers, president-elect of the incoming board of safety, asserted that there was "not a single protest registered against his retention."

The naming of Voshell completes major appointments in the police and fire-fighting organizations for the new administration. In the last few days, the incoming board of safety announced the appointment of Jeremiah E. Kinney as chief of police, the reappointment of Harry Springsteen as city market master, and the appointment of Fred Simon as head of the city detective bureau.

Says Place Was Not Solicited

"A large number of complimentary testimonials in behalf of Chief Voshell were received by the board of safety since his appointment," says Mr. Myers. "His work has been highly satisfactory, and his reappointment met with the approval of Mayor-elect Sullivan." He added that Chief Voshell, on the other hand, did not solicit the reappointment.

Chief Voshell, completed twenty-five years of service as a member of the Indianapolis fire department October 1, 1905. He was born on a Dearborn county farm and moved to Kentucky with his parents when four years of age. His common school education was received in the Kentucky grade schools, and he was graduated from the Aurora (Ind.) High School. Thereafter, he farmed in Kentucky until twenty-nine years old and moved to Jackson, Indiana, where he operated a farm near Connersville for several years.

After being in the livery business in Seymour for a short time, he moved to Indianapolis. For several years he worked for the Indianapolis Street Railway Company and also as a life insurance agent. He was appointed to the city fire department October 1, 1904, and was assigned to Station 18 at 1915 West Washington street. He served six years as a private, three years as a lieutenant, eight as a captain and six as a battalion chief. During that time he was assigned to five different stations, 18, 19, 10, 21 and 28.

Fought Many Big Fires

In January, 1924, while serving as acting assistant chief at department headquarters, Alabama and New York streets, he was appointed head of the department to succeed James A. Rutell, chief in the administration of former Mayor John L. Du Vall.

In the quarter of a century Chief Voshell has been a member of the fire department he has participated in fighting many big fires, suffering injuries on a number of occasions. Chief Voshell is married and has three children, all of whom are married. He lives at 3111 East Washington street.

FEDERAL AID FOR THE SMALL BUSINESS MAN

Even as we laud the splendid efforts of these leaders of industry," said Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, speaking at the business conference in Washington, "let us not lose sight of the unnamed hundreds of thousands of 'little fellows' in the business world—the corner grocer, the small-town druggist, the hardware dealer in a modest way, the woman selling notions, the restaurant proprietor with a neighborhood trade.

These smaller merchants, with their innumerable stores where business, in whatever volume, constantly proceeds, form the backbone of our American business organism. That was a splendid tribute to a class of citizens among whom are many who have been feeling lately as if they and their kind did not count for much in the scheme of things. What with chain stores opening up everywhere to compete with the local merchant, and the attitude of the public centered on what the "big fellows" are doing, no wonder many a small grocer or druggist has felt as if it were no use to try to keep on going, that there wasn't room in the world any more for his kind of a business, or at least for him as a business man.

It is one of the most encouraging signs of the time that the Federal Government recognizes the importance of the local merchant and that a man of Dr. Klein's ability and influence should stand out as the spokesman for the small business establishment. The Department of Commerce has been making a study of the reasons for the failure of local merchants in several communities as the first step toward helping independent business men to hold their trade and share in the nation's prosperity. "Facts and their efficient application," says Dr. Klein, are the indispensable road workers on the highway of success." And he and his assistants have discovered that most of the failures are due to ignorance of the facts about their own business. Only about five or six per cent of the failures of neighborhood stores are traceable to chain store competition; many more are due to carelessness in credits and collections to inaccurate book-keeping, to inability to grasp the essential points of good merchandising and to inefficiency.

This is a great work, and the facts discovered and their implications are available to everybody who will ask the Department of Commerce for them.

DOES THE WORLD REALLY WANT PEACE?

The Naval Disarmament Conference which is about to meet in London is of immense importance to the whole world, but of more immediate importance to the United States than any other country. We pride ourselves on being the most peace-loving people in the world, yet we spend more money to-day on military and naval preparations for war than any other nation!

Perhaps we are wrong in believing that we love peace more than other people do. Hon. Charles H. Houston, then and then to London, suggested as much in his address on assuming the position of Chairman of the Commission on International Justice and Good Will that the Federal Council of Churches. Pointing out that the United States has managed to get into at least one important war during every generation since the Republic was established, he said that his knowledge of European nations convinced him that each of them honestly thinks, as we do, its people love peace more than any other.

If something of that understanding of the peace-loving nature of humanity in general, and some measure of belief in the good intentions of other nations toward us, gets into the spirit of the Disarmament Conference, there is hope that our delegates may come back with a program, agreed upon by all, which will reduce our naval burden and that of the rest of the world, and provide tangible evidence that we—and the other countries—do actually desire peace.

They're making the new movies bigger and showing 'em in colors and talking and everything, and they're going to show 'em in three dimensions like living statues. There are only two or three more improvements needed to make 'em perfect, seems to us. One is to put some sense into the plots and another would be to hire a few real actors.

and Holy Spirit—the three Persons in the one Godhead.

Heights and depths can follow in quick succession in our lives as well as in that of the Master Teacher. Numerous major purposes converge during the following forty days of temptation in the wilderness. Jesus sought retirement that He might give further thought to all the meaning of the baptism and the active presence of the Holy Spirit. Those who believe in the growing consciousness of Jesus concerning His mission will declare that for the first time. He fully realized what He must undertake. Others are sure that He knew the purpose of His life even when he talked to the doctors of the law at the age of twelve in Jerusalem's temple. From the standpoint of God it was a period of probation. The devil used the occasion as a time of the greatest temptation. Herein was a line of tragedy that has been used as a setting by the great poet Milton. Real both "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained."

In brief, during those forty days Jesus was tempted with all the temptations that have come to mankind. "He was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin." There was a pause and Jesus became conscious of the hunger and weakness due to those days of continuous fasting. At that strategic moment Satan used the three-fold temptations which are corded in our lives on text and parables each attack by his steadfast faith in His Father. The reply is in Scripture quotation. At last Satan in Scripture asked when the Son calls him by name. The glorious picture is when angels come and minister to the victor. All of us can stand in the midst of any temptation as we contend against Satan in the Jesus-way.

The Naval Observatory says that we do not know positively that any star which we see is now actually in existence; but the continued existence of the stars generally may be assumed since no change is known why they should cease to exist.

Democrats Look Forward to Control of National Houses

By FRED HOLMES
(Washington Cor. for Recorder)
Washington—Congress adjourned for the holidays, but Borah is still in session. So, apparently, is Senator Brookhart.

No one seems to know for a certainty the trend of the Idaho Senator's activities, but the gentlemen from Iowa wants Secretary Mellon to refrain from slamming the door when he passes out. Mr. Brookhart did a splendid job in dusting off the Secretary's hat and courteously explained to Mr. Mellon as he handed him his Fedora that there was no necessity for haste on the part of the latter in making his departure. So, the guardian of the Treasury is still on guard, and warms our hearts with the New announcement that "1930 business will be good."

It seems that President Hoover and Senator Borah have been writing letters to each other. The mystery attending this exchange of correspondence, assumed to be on the subject of prohibition enforcement, in violation has challenged Washington curiosity. Both the President and the Senator have refrained from discussing their letters. The report that Senator Borah had written to the President had White House confirmation, but reports that the Senator had received an answer to his communication could not be confirmed.

At this writing the views exchanged continue to be carefully guarded, with reports as to the contents of the letters widely varied. Senator Borah has maintained that the dry laws never would be enforced by the present personnel "from top to bottom," and it has been assumed that his written expressions to Mr. Hoover dealt with that topic.

At their conference last week, it was understood that Senator Borah urged the President to move against a number of district attorneys and had demanded their resignations as the first step in a clean-up. After that he issued a statement asserting that there were saloons running in city after city and that the alcohol permit system administration amounted to a scandal.

Washington welcomed the advent of the New Year with the usual tooting of horns and ringing of bells, but that brought little joy to those here who hold office by the grace of a vacillating constituency, because the year 1930 betokens casualties all along the road. The signs are portentous, and unless they fall, the complexion of both the House and the Senate will materially change ere another year rolls around. In not a few instances men whose names are almost household words are seriously threatened and may fall by the wayside. Leaving out the individual and concerning ourselves only with the two major parties, the Democrats are looking forward to control of that there would have to be a most decided overturn in the House, although in the Senate it would be a matter of surprise if they didn't.

In an effort to make the best stand possible in the bi-election contests, President Hoover's aids are working overtime to put his and his party's house in order. Concededly, there is much work to be done. Some of the rough spots have been ironed out, or at least as nearly ironed out as could be done. And in the ironing out process the function of the Republican national committeeman, Claudius Huston, has been clearly established.

Limitation of grain production has stirred up a new debate between members of the agricultural bloc in the Senate and the Federal Farm Board. In a recent address before the American Farm Economic Association Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, advocated a 20 per cent reduction in grain acreage, on the theory that it would give the farmer a higher price level. He estimates that such a curtailment of production would bring the farmer 20 per cent more for his grain than he is now getting.

The soundness of this policy is challenged by Senators Brookhart and Norbeck. The former takes the position that a large agricultural exportable surplus is a good thing. He believes the farmer should have the benefit of high prices and large crops for foreign markets too. Apparently he hopes that some power can intervene to suspend the laws of economics in the farmers' behalf.

Senator Norbeck complains against the strangeness of the logic that "idleness is bad for labor, but good for the farmer." But no industry can run on a policy of production to full capacity, regardless of markets. The steel mills are not producing at full capacity because the ducing at full capacity because the market would become overstocked. In recent months the automobile industry has materially reduced production to conform to demands both here and abroad. Why should the farmer go on producing as much as possible and expect Government aid to take care of the surplus which runs prices down?

In all lines of industry the less efficient are put out of operation. In agriculture the least efficient continue to produce. The ultimate question is not one of limiting every farmer to 80 per cent of his present production, but of taking unprofitable land out of cultivation. If submarginal land were diverted to forest production or other use, as the Secretary of Agriculture has repeatedly advocated, the average farmer would be able to produce to capacity without creating an unmanageable surplus. Until practical means of accomplishing this are found artificial crop limitation is necessary if prices are to be kept up. The laws of economics can not be flouted.

BAPTISM AND TEMPTATION OF JESUS

Matthew 3:13-17

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
Though we spend six months in studying the Life of Christ as recorded in Matthew, many important items are omitted in the selected portions of Scripture. It will be necessary for each to study the intervening facts. This time become well acquainted with John the Baptist. Read Luke 1 and Matthew 3. John was really an Old Testament character. Jesus says of him that no born of woman was greater. This appreciation is reason enough for careful research.

In Luke 2:40-52 you will have a fascinating glimpse at the growing Jesus, when he was 12 years old and made the trip to the Passover Feast at Jerusalem. Then there were 13 more growing years at Nazareth in Galilee. At last the time of his public ministry arrived and He appears at the Jordan where John is preaching his denunciations against sins, together with a fervent appeal to make confession of sin through the form of baptism. One day Jesus asked for such baptism, not because He was a sinner but that he might formally take man's law-place with respect to sin. John at first declined to act but yielded at the command of Jesus. It was an act of wonderful humility on the part of the Son of God.

Forthwith testimony was given by the Father that was evident to all. The Holy Spirit, in the form of a dove, descended upon Jesus Christ, and the voice of Jehovah was heard in the words of our Golden Text: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." This testimony was most convincing to John and very heartening to Jesus as he thus entered upon His public mission, during which he was to suffer many things and at last be crucified on the cross at Calvary. Here is a manifestation of the Trinity, the Father, Son

RAISING RABBITS IS MONEY MAKING ENTERPRISE

Money is being made with rabbits on many farms, says the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The rabbit raising industry undoubtedly has a great future.

The decreasing supply of wild fur-bearing animals and the increasing demand for clothing are steadily increasing the demand for rabbit skin, which is now the most extensively used fur. In the United States, alone, about 100,000,000 rabbit skins are used annually, of which 98 per cent are imported. The flesh of young hutch rabbits resembles the white meat of chicken.

Feed costs of rabbit production are low. Alfalfa hay, oats and barley, and roots especially carrots, and some green feed such as lawn clippings are extensively used. Buildings need not be expensive. By using multiple hut-ches, a large number may be produced on a small area in back yards. A prolific doe will easily produce 20 to 25 young in a year. Young rabbits may be bred at 7 to 8 months of age. The Chinchilla, American White, American Blue, New Zealand White, New Zealand Red, and White Flemish are the varieties most extensively produced in the United States. Size, texture of fur, color, and the care given the pet after removing are the chief factors in the price of rabbit skins. Fine pelts are often spoiled by careless handling. Chinchilla White, and Red, in the order named take precedence over other colors. Marketing methods are being improved so that small breeders are now able to obtain the full commercial value for their pelts, the Foundation adds.

The Masonic Lodge at this place elected the following as officers on the 27th ult.: Fountain Riddell Master; Edgar Cropper Senior Warden; Everett Walton Junior Warden; W. L. Riddell, Secretary; L. H. Dills, Treasurer; W. T. German Steward and Tyler. The officers will be installed next Saturday evening.

Geo. Blythe took in the masque ball in Rising Sun, last Thursday evening. He pronounces it a boss affair.

Last Sunday evening, as some of the people were going to church they saw in the graveyard a light which they took to be "Jack-with-the-lantern." May it not have been Harry-and-Stewie-with-the-lantern.

Mrs. Fannie Gaines will be buried in the graveyard at this place, but the time is not yet appointed.

J. M. Conner and wife, of Covington, were in town Saturday and Sunday.

Petersburg

The quietest Christmas since the Indians turned this reservation over to the pale faces, was celebrated here last week. Very little powder was exploded, it was too cold to drink cider and the fresh and festive oyster failed to come to time. So many disappointments were a damper to the enthusiasm. Two or three white men and about a dozen Africans came home from Aurora full of the holidays and with arms indiscriminately around each other's necks, paraded the streets on their homeward march. Our usual mail carrier got into a Christmas bulge and turned his business over to the son of a postmaster. He made two efforts on Christmas day to get a mail for us. The first time he found the Lawrenceburg office locked and its keeper on a business tour of the free saloons in town. Next time our representative found the Lawrenceburg man running considerably at large on the streets. By dint of hard swearing and likely parrot, he made him understand that he needed the Petersburg mail. He rushed around and gave our messenger the first mail bag he reached, took another drink and sent him home happy. But when our postmaster man had unlocked the bag and examined its contents he found letters, etc., in it for every office in the United Kingdom except Sweet Petersburg. In fact, if this had been the first of April, more deceptive and disappointing tricks could scarcely have been played.

IS THIS TRUE OF YOU?

(By Emel Laubach)

Christmas comes but once a year, (Thank Goodness) to send out cheer.

Yes, cheer for the other fellow, maybe, But, to be honest, not much to me.

It's a time when nobody is just quite true, It's a fact, I know it, and so do you.

You have to be pleased, whatever you get, But you know you'll not use it, not on a bet.

You began in the Fall to worry and fret, About what to give, and you don't know yet.

Just a few more days and not a thing sent, But you keep on buying 'till your money's all spent.

Home after shopping, and you're ready to drop, But now comes the wrapping—there's no place to stop.

In all probability you forgot seals and strings, You haven't enough boxes and "thing-a-ma-things."

"Oh, what's the use?" you say with a dash, You've worked the whole year to have ready cash.

To buy needed things, to make folks happy, To buy yourself clothes, to make you look snappy.

You've planned for a coat, a table or chair, And you'll have to admit, that it doesn't seem fair.

To see your hopes vanish as ice before fire, And know there's no chance to fulfill your desire.

We've got it all wrong, at this time of year, God wants us to sing, to be filled with cheer.

When Jesus was born in Bethlehem old, The Angels sang "Peace On Earth" we are told.

His gift was Peace, and Joy and Love, When He sent His son from heaven above.

That Wonderful Gift, Tired Heart don't you see, Was meant for us all, even you and me.

So why be so burdened, why worry or fret, Things shall be righted, for God loves us yet.

Oh, sweet, blessed thought! I'll have no more fear, But begin work right now for Christmas next year.

JOHNNY MUSKRAT TO BROADCAST ON SEVEN STATIONS

Johnny Muskrat, broadcaster on fur trapping and fur marketing for the Sears-Robuck Agricultural Foundation, is a mighty busy man these days. Not only does he give fur talks from station WLS, Chicago, as he has for several years, but also makes hurry-up trips to Minneapolis to talk to trappers over station WCCO. In addition Johnny is writing for market letters for stations KIR, Seattle; KMBC Kansas City; WCAU Philadelphia; KOA Denver, and WFAA Dallas, which will be broadcast regularly during the fur season.

Johnny Muskrat draws on a lifetime of actual experience in instructing trappers how to catch furs, how to correctly prepare them for sale, and when to ship them. The Foundation has found these talks to be useful not only for informing trappers on fur market conditions from day to day but also in helping them take more and better furs.

In addition to telling of his own experiences, Johnny frequently broadcasts the interesting letters he receives from his trapper friends. Occasionally, one of his old friends drops into the studio and is introduced to the radio audience. Among the interesting characters to be introduced by Johnny at various times during the present season will be El Comancho, noted writer and authority on outdoor and pioneer life. El Comancho is also scheduled to officiate as one of the Fur Show judges when the prize winning pelts are to be selected.

In spite of all his radio duties Johnny finds time to keep track of entries for the First National Fur Show and reports that judging by those pelts already received the show should be a truly wonderful exhibition of the trapper's skill in skinning, stretching, and drying pelts.

The fast Hebron basket ball team journeyed to Dry Ridge Friday night. The girls added another step to their ladder of fame. Only after a game which was fast and furious from the first sound of the whistle to the last, Hebron girls boasted a 21-25 advantage. Miss Adella Riddell, one of the fast five, was unable to assist them in victory but was proud of their substitute Miss Mary Ledford, who showed great enthusiasm and school spirit in their stirring struggle. Although they never allowed Dry Ridge to advance above their score in even one point. The boys weakened by lack of practice during the holidays and past week, were defeated, though not by a bad score, as the score indicated both our teams exhibited a strong defense.

INTEREST IN MODERN WOODMEN CAMPAIGN CONTINUES WITHIN THE COUNTY

Petersburg and Florence Camps held their regular meetings in their respective halls installing the new officers for the year, and caring for the other necessary business before them. Deputies Jones and Ruggles held the officers at Petersburg day night and Sunday. The Deputies are busy seeing the prospects, endeavoring to get a goodly number of applicants for each, and every camp in the county.

Patriarch Camp at Burlington held their regular weekly meeting at Guley & Pettit's Hall Tuesday evening, installing officers and doing degree work.

Big Bone Camp plans an open meeting at their Hall for Thursday evening, all in that vicinity are urged to attend. Deputies Jones and Ruggles will address the audience in the interest of the campaign, and Woodcraft in general.

Grange Hall Camp will also have an open meeting for Friday night with Deputies Jones and Ruggles as speakers. All that are interested in the civic and social life of these communities should be present.

On January 26th, 1887, she was united in marriage with James W. White. To this union were born five children, three of whom had passed on ahead of the mother.

She united with Bellevue Baptist church later transferring her membership to Petersburg Baptist church where it remained at the time of her death. She was also a member of Evergreen Rebecca Lodge No. 324, of Bellevue.

She was always willing and glad to lend a helping hand in sickness or misfortune and has spent many hours ministering to the sick. Her last illness has been prolonged and during the last few months, marked with intense suffering, which she has endured very patiently.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, one son William, one daughter Mrs. Raymond Randie, one granddaughter Jean Ann, to whom she was devotedly attached, besides three brothers Charles L. of Moores Hill, Ind., Harry E., of Indianapolis, Ind., and Francis M., of this place, one-half sister Florence, of Los Angeles and relatives.

So live that when thy summons comes to join that innumerable caravan, which moves to that mysterious realm, where each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death. Thou go not like the quarry slave at night, scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an unflinching trust.

Approach thy grave like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all who were so kind and thoughtful to us during the illness and at the death of wife and mother, Mrs. James W. White. We thank Bro. Lucas and Bro. Bell for their timely message, the singers for the beautiful songs, C. Scott Chambers and assistant for their services, to the donors of beautiful floral pieces, heartfelt thanks are rendered and to all who assisted in any way, their kindness will never be forgotten.

James W. White and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father Thomas J. Dinn. Especially do we thank donors of the floral offerings, also Rev. Runyan and Rev. Harold Beemon for their kindness and comforting words of sympathy, the pall-bearers and the choir for the beautiful songs, and W. A. Bullock for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral.

The Bereaved Wife, Children and Grandchildren.

Local Happenings

Mrs. Maggie Clarkson, of Walton R. D. spent Monday with her sister-in-law Mrs. Ora Ross. While in Burlington she called at the Recorder office and arranged for another year in our reading circle.

F. A. Hall, who is sojourning in Newport during the winter months was a Burlington visitor last Sunday.

John Craddock, a brother of W. W. Craddock, of near Burlington, is undergoing surgical treatment in a Cincinnati hospital.

Edward Easton and wife, were the Sunday guests of Reuben Akin and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fowler were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fowler New Year's day.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Albeis and Mrs. Reese, and little daughter, of Cincinnati, were supper guests of Mrs. Lavina Kirkpatrick New Year's day.

Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Sr., was the guest of Chas. Maxwell and family Saturday.

Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., spent the week-end with her mother Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett, of Laddow.

H. R. Forkner and family moved Wednesday to the property owned by L. W. Gulley and Newton Sullivan, Jr.

J. J. Smith, of Gunpowder, paid the Recorder office a visit last Monday. Mr. Smith is one of the numerous Jim Smith's that Boone county has produced and says that he recalls a certain court day when five men bearing the usages exchanged simultaneous greetings in front of the court house.

Prof. L. H. Voshell, of Union, who long ago has qualified as one of Boone county's foremost octogenarians, made one of his increasingly rare pilgrimages to the county seat last Monday. Prof. Voshell jokingly remarked that he debated long on the question of whether he would make his first visit after the New Year to Burlington, Frankfort or Washington and finally decided upon the former. Prof. Voshell always appears to derive a great deal of enjoyment from his visits to the county seat, which enjoyment is mutually shared by those he meets here.

The Florence P. T. A. will have their monthly meeting Friday Jan. 10th, at the school house at eight o'clock. All members please be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Berkshire have returned after spending the holidays with relatives in Cincinnati.

Just to demonstrate that he is not growing old and that he keeps his "lamps trimmed and burning" L. A. Conner brought down ten birds and crippled one in thirteen shots on the last day of the legal hunting season.

Mrs. Lorena Cropper spent the week-end with friends in Erlanger.

Mrs. Ida Balsy entertained a number of friends Monday, her guests including Dr. S. B. Nunneley, of Bullittsville, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee Cropper, Mrs. Lillie Gaar, of Erlanger, Mrs. Lou Stephens, of Missouri, and Mrs. Lorena Cropper.

Mrs. O. S. Eddins still is confined to her home here having suffered for the past two weeks with neuralgia and influenza.

We certainly regret to learn of the death of our old friend and former school teacher, Mrs. Katie Craig, of Rabbit Hash.

Grant Williamson, of Limaburg neighborhood, left on Xmas day for Flemingsburg near which town he is employed by the State Highway Department in the construction of roads.

Mrs. Leon Aylor returned Sunday from Cincinnati where she had been at the bedside of her mother-in-law Mrs. Aylor. Mrs. Aylor has been very ill, but had improved sufficiently for the former Mrs. Aylor to return.

The Recorder is prepared to furnish you with blank deeds and mortgages. Call at this office.

SERGEANT WOODFILL

(Continued from First Page) tinct humor, who, as a speaker remarked, owns more "personal hardware" than any other living man. Sergeant Woodfill is known to have killed 19 of the Germans and captured 3 in one day, all of which was done single handed. While this was his "biggest" day, yet he was active all along the line and continually went out of his line of duty to serve the cause in his daring, capable way.

In spite of his many daring exploits Sergeant Woodfill is a modest, unassuming man, of a most pleasing personality and apparently willing to discuss his experiences with anyone who cares to listen. Many Boone county people have read his book—"Sergeant Woodfill of the Regulars"—and all pronounce it both interesting and thrilling. It is now on sale at the Stewart Kidd Book Store, in Cincinnati, at a nominal price, and it would be worth anyone's time and money to pay a visit to that store to procure this lucid account of the experiences of this noted hero.

SPELLING BEE

Lucille Wilson, pupil of Sunny View School, won the Green County Bee. Mary Bibb was runner-up. Lucille, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson, will be awarded a trip to the State finale at Louisville by the County Board of Education as her prize in the county match.

NEW FACES

Two new magistrates were ushered into the realm of the fiscal court at its meeting last Tuesday in the person of Wm. Presser, of Carlton, and Chester Tanner, of Florence. They succeed E. C. Kirtley and Geo. B. Miller, respectively. The other four members of the court remain as for the past four years, namely, E. J. Aylor, G. C. Ransom, A. S. Burcham and Joseph A. Huey.

PLAY A SUCCESS

A large crowd gathered at the Grange Hall lodge meeting hall to witness the show sponsored and played by members of Grange Hall camp M. W. A. last Saturday evening.

The minstrel was decided success in every respect, and every one who attended was more than delighted with the program as rendered. Each player did his part well and was commended by those in attendance. These players go to Rabbit Hash for the entertainment of the folks in that community Saturday night of this week.

If you want to have two hours of laughter do not miss this show. The same players will give the play at Burlington High School auditorium Wednesday evening of this week.

NOTICE

We wish to announce that the Limaburg saw and grist mill is now operating under new management. We are grinding each Tuesday. Whole wheat flour and water-ground corn meal a specialty.

DOLWICK & BRUCE,

Owners.

A CARD

I want to thank the citizens of Boone county for the many courtesies shown me while employed as Deputy County Clerk for the past four years, also the County Clerk and other officers in the court house for the splendid treatment accorded me. I certainly appreciate and feel grateful for the numerous friendships formed and acquaintances made while a deputy clerk.

Respectfully,

MARK COOK

CARD OF THANKS

The Mt. Zion Eagles wish to thank the Editors of the Boone County Recorder and the Walton Advertiser for publishing the many articles that were sent in to them. Also wish to thank the leaders and the County Agent for the interest they have taken in our club.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS

I wish to take this means of extending to all my patrons my very great appreciation to them for the business they have given to me during the past year. I have endeavored to give them the best service that good materials and skilled labor could supply and hope that it has been satisfactory. Trusting that I may see all of you again during the present year, I am,

Most Respectfully Yours,

CALVIN CRESS

This Old Couple In 'Guess Who'

41ST OF SERIES

As promised in our last issue in 1929, our list entry in this series for 1930 is a double one. Now who are they?

In order to clear up a certain misunderstanding in regard to this series we desire to make an explanation.

Many followers of this series have not understood how we get the pictures for this feature, or the method we have followed in their selection. We have the "cuts" on our shelves and each week select one from this number. We do not solicit any contributions, as we have hundreds of "cuts" here, many of which are unknown to us and merely selected at random.

However, we have received several photographs from people who did not know this and who had pictures of those they desired to have entered in this series. There is a cost to the production of these "cuts" and, since we already have enough to last for several years of this series, we can only accept these contributions upon the condition that the one who sends them is willing to bear the expense. The Recorder, however, will have those that have been sent in up to this time developed at its own expense.

Sadness came into many hearts at the announcement of the death of Mrs. Mary L. Robinson (nee McClure) beloved wife of L. B. Robinson, of Sanders Drive. She had been in bad health for several months and her gentle spirit was released Tuesday morning Dec. 24th. She was highly regarded by a wide circle of friends who sincerely regret her passing. While her loved ones are deeply grieved, their sorrow not as those who have no hope. She loved her church and pastor and her funeral was conducted Friday morning at 10 a. m. from the Taliaferro Funeral Home at Erlanger. She leaves a husband and two children, one brother Wm. McClure of Erlanger, and a number of relatives and friends. Her popularity was demonstrated by the large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends who attended her funeral to pay their last and tribute of respect to this good christian woman, and many followed the remains to their last resting place in Florence cemetery. May God graciously comfort the husband and children in their sad loss.

Currency Rule

According to Gresham's law, when two kinds of currency are in circulation the inferior or more depreciated one tends to drive the other out of circulation, owing to the hoarding and exportation of the latter. In other words, "bad money drives good money out of circulation." The law was first clearly stated by Sir Thomas Gresham, an English diplomat and merchant, who died in 1579.

Lemon Secret

Lemons that have become hard, or that can be bought cheaper because they have dried, can be restored to excellent condition by placing them in a pan of water a day or so overnight. They have even finer flavor than when they are fresh, because they are ripen.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE

In loving remembrance of our dear mother Sarah E. Carpenter, Dec. 17, 1898.

Jesus while our hearts are bleeding, O'er the souls that death has won, We would at this solemn parting Calmly say—Thy will be done.

Though auctied not alone,

Though auctied not alone,

Thou didn't give and thou hast taken Blessed Lord "Thy will be done."

It was on a rainy Monday,

We shall never forget the day,

When came the Silent Reaper

And took our beloved one away.

Although unable to speak to us

And could not say good-bye,

We knew her thoughts were with us

When she was called to die.

When the evening shades are falling

And we are sitting all alone,

In our hearts there comes a longing

If you only could come home.

Oh and oft our hearts do wander

To a grave not far away,

Where we laid our dearest mother,

Just one year ago today.

Sadly missed by her children.

Indians Outstrip Deer

In Fleetness of Foot

The greatest runners in the world are the Tarahumara Indians, who have been known to continue 170 miles without stopping. A few years ago Thompson, Zafra, and Leonardo San Miguel, members of this tribe, did a distance of 62 1/2 miles on the highway from Panchico to Mexico City in 9 hours and 57 minutes without any evidence of fatigue. Translated "Tarahumara" is foot runners. They are said to be insensible to heat and cold, using the same blankets summer and winter. They love to tell how their forefathers were the couriers of the Aztec monarchs. Today the Mexicans employ them to run wild horses into the corals. The Tarahumara prove the expression poets love to use, "fleet as a deer," to be true, for when they are on the chase they outstrip their antlered prey.

Running is not confined to the men of this tribe; the women enter into it with the same zest. As with the Zuni, there is much preparation for the sporting event. The priests practice many kinds of sorcery; human bones are hidden along the course, and to the runner whose foot uncovers one! Each man taking part is rubbed down by the "shaman," or priest, to protect him against evil influences.

Old Custom of Telling

Bees of Owner's Death

A reader in the United States sends me a cutting from an American newspaper telling how the late Dr. Charles James, chemist and mineralogist, owned 14 hives of bees, and how after his death one swarm disappeared and was found bustling about the flowers on his grave more than two miles away, Peter Simple writes, in the London Post.

Apparently, we are told, the bees had not been informed of his death in accordance with the ancient custom, which is still religiously fulfilled in country places.

I am afraid I can not enlighten my correspondents who pass on to me the query of the journal in question: "Who first thought of telling the bees of the death of their master?"

As far as history carries us back we have some record of the keeping of bees, and the custom of telling the bees is very likely almost as old as bee-keeping. It has all the appearance of a rite which originated in very early times, and the fact that it still survives is a touching proof that we still cling to some things at least, to the wisdom—or folly—of our ancestors.

Paper's Varying Qualities

Philatelic nomenclature includes the adjectives wove, laid, granite, quadrille and pelure as applied to postal paper. In a general way the distinctions are these: Wove paper is of the plain, even texture used for books and newspapers; laid paper is watermarked with parallel lines, close together; the lines may be either vertical or horizontal; quadrille paper is watermarked with both vertical and horizontal lines, which thus form squares or oblongs; granite paper shows colored fibers in its texture, the fibers are tiny pieces of silk thread, and the reverse of the stamp has a mottled appearance; pelure paper is thin like tissue paper, semi-transparent, but tougher and harder than the others; texture and usually grayish in color.

Those "Good Old Days"

Although there were few roads and little traffic in Colonial days, traffic laws were rigidly enforced. Sunday traveling was illegal in some of the colonies, the statute defining Sunday as lasting from sundown Saturday until sundown on the Sabbath. It is related that a traveler, about to resume his journey, once left the tavern on Sunday evening, and standing beside his horse, waited until the sun, as he thought, had set and retired for the night. Then he mounted and rode off. Just then a last sunbeam pierced the clouds for an instant, whereupon he was arrested by the vigilant town constable and fined.

Hydrophobia Danger

Mind dogs, and, less frequently, mad cats, can by their bite transmit hydrophobia to human beings. Hydrophobia does not develop in a pet dog or cat unless that particular pet animal has been bitten by some other animal which has the disease. Generally, pet dogs and cats are not likely to transmit the disease. If they are bitten by a street dog, danger of developing the disease remains for at least six months.

Differences in Dancing

According to a dancing expert, there is no difference between clog and tap dancing in the modern sense. Tap dancing is sometimes called clogging. These dances are composed chiefly of motions of the feet which result in combinations of various sounds made by different parts of the foot tapping or beating on the floor, and these sounds or beats are called taps. Clog dancing is a more general term.

Tibetan Woman a Worker

A married woman in Tibet not only manages her household and does the light housework, but she even helps erect her house. Cooking, sweeping and water carrying do not encompass her talents. She helps the men sow, reap and plow, and develops her muscles by cutting firewood and carrying huge bundles to her abode.

Real New Orleans Revealed As City of Night Coffee Drinkers

Coffee and doughnuts—that is all they serve at this shop in the old French Market but New Orleans likes its coffee as can be seen by the number of sipping customers.

NEW ORLEANS—If you want to see "New Orleans—the real, care-free democratic New Orleans—visit the old French Market any morning after midnight. There you will find the city at its favorite diversion—drinking coffee.

This city rides itself on its coffee and its coffee drinking. And though taste may govern one's judgment of the coffee, there can be no doubt but what the New Orleans can justly claim to be a coffee drinker.

Coffee here is roasted very black and is very strong. Often it is drunk without cream and with several spoonfuls of sugar. Strangers find it "different" but they all seem to become converted to the blacker brew.

New Orleans' coffee drinking privileges are demonstrated by the scene at the French Market. There

The Morning Call coffee shop is the rendezvous of coffee drinkers as it has been for the last forty-four years. Customers sit around the mirrored walls. Sawdust covers the floor. And sitting on revolving stools sipping their coffee are people from all walks of life—women in evening gowns and men in tuxedos toting by on the way home from the dance and men in overalls on their way to work at the docks. Trade revolves in the shop and special waiters scurry about the sidewalks serving coffee to customers who park their cars along the curb.

Nothing is served but coffee and doughnuts. A cup of coffee with two doughnuts or without them—ten cents. The lace opens at seven in the evening and closes at eleven in the morning. Between those hours it dispenses between 3, 10 and 150 cups of coffee. On New Year's

Even the consumption runs to 10,000 cups.

French Market coffee is made by the drip process, the favorite method in New Orleans. A pound of coffee is used to a gallon of water and the coffee is made fresh every twelve minutes.

While the coffee is dripping, milk is brought to a galloping boil. Then the coffee is put into one pot and the milk into another. Cups are filled by pouring from both pots simultaneously, one being held in the left hand and the other in the right. On request one may have his cup topped off with a dab of the thick cream skimmed off the boiling milk.

"We could not sell coffee like this if it kept people awake," said Peter Jurisch, one of the proprietors. "But coffee properly made will not keep you awake—it's good for you."

FIRST NATIONAL FUR SHOW IS ANNOUNCED

With the approach of cold weather thoughts of fur and trapping are in the minds of every trapper, boy or man. The call of the lawless is reaching hundreds of thousands of red-blooded Americans to inspect their traps and plan their sets for the coming season. And this year a new zest has been added to make trapping more profitable for shippers. The First National Fur Show offering $5,000 in cash has been officially announced by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The show will take place in Chicago from April 15 to May 1. Beginning now, entries may be sent to any one of the six Sears, Roebuck and Co. fur marketing service branches. In order to compete, pelts must be legally taken during the 1929-30 fur season and must be received not later than April 15, 1930.

Johann Muskrat, official broadcaster on fur and trapping, in speaking of the show stated that all fur shippers regardless of where they live or the kinds of fur animals they trap, will have the same chance of sharing in the $5,000 because pelts are to be judged primarily on skill used in skinning, stretching, and drying, and not on section of origin or value of species. Johnny went on to say, "I consider that this show will prove a great boon to fur shippers by showing them how more careful preparation of pelts for market will increase the prices paid. Not only will each fur shipper have an opportunity to win up to $2,000 in cash, but also he will get the highest possible market prices for his pelts. There will be entries from all parts of the United States and Alaska, North, South, East, and West and I expect the fur chasers for final exhibit to be the finest collection of raw pelts ever assembled. Nationally known fur authorities will be the final judges. The show will not only demonstrate to trappers how they can realize higher returns through better handling but will also be in line with the policy of conserving the nation's fur resources by encouraging trapping only the very finest and primest of pelts."

COL. JIM MARET'S BOOK PUBLISHED

Distances and Routes Over 300,000 Miles of Highways Given in Volume by Good Roads Booster.

Col. Jim Maret, who organized the first good roads association in Kentucky in his home town of Mr. Vernon, after the enactment of the Bonoworth goodroads bill in 1912, has published a book on roads and distances which he calls "Maret's Highways Guide," and which gives information on 300,000 miles of information on the distance between Lexington and practically every city and town of importance in the U. S. and Canada.

The Kentucky Press, at its summer session in 1929, voted to endorse a movement to raise funds to buy a home for Col. Maret, in recognition of his work for good roads in Kentucky, but the Colonel did not encourage the matter and nothing came of it. He is publishing this book, which he has been working on for nearly a year, and his friends are hoping that its merits will be recognized throughout the state, as it may be used by other cities and towns of Kentucky or other states, simply by adding or subtracting the distance from such city or town to Lexington, as four main federal highways run through that city.

Through Col. Maret's efforts, backed by the good roads associations he assisted in organizing, bond issues were voted for the construction of Boone Way from Crab Orchard to Cumberland Gap and he also took a prominent part in the promotion work on the East Dixie Highway, which was routed South from Mt. Vernon over the Boone Way to Cumberland Gap.

Col. Maret also assisted in the promotion of the Ky.-Va. (Kentucky-Virginia) road, from Lexington, through Winchester, Jackson, Hazard, Whitesburg and Jenkins, to Pound Gap, Va.

Col. Maret also was a director and promoter of the Cincinnati-Lookout Mountain Airline, through Lexington, Nicholasville, Lancaster, Stanford, Somerset and Burnside, into Chattanooga.

Col. Maret's book shows not only the distances from Lexington to all important points in the U. S. and Canada but the numbers of the roads, State and Federal, which the automobilist drives over to reach these cities. It is well worth the $1.00 he asks for it to any driver of an automobile and a large sale is expected for the volume, as one of the most useful of its kind ever published.

Col. Maret will fill orders as rapidly as received by him at Lexington, Kentucky. Those who order the book may send either checks or currency in payment, or P. O. Money Order, which ever is more convenient to them.

BETTY LOU

As they sat alone in silence In this sad and lonely world, Something descended from the heavens, A darling baby girl.

She was so fat and chubby, With sparkling eyes of blue, They could think of nothing sweeter So they called her "Betty Lou." Each day she grew more sweeter 'Till she reached the age of two, Then "Jesus" called this little babe And closed her eyes of blue.

He took her back to Heaven With his happy Sunbeam Band, So she could help them brighter Some far and distant land.

It was hard to part with her But the dear Lord knows best, And we are all so thankful She has found eternal rest. Sadly missed by her loved ones.

ONLY THE BEST

In this day and age, people insist on the best of everything. Old, inefficient ways of doing things must give way before the march of Progress, and the business which cannot keep pace must drop out of line.

Our line of service is no exception to the Rule. There are constant changes in technical methods, constant improvement in equipment and merchandise. The funeral director must keep on the alert.

We believe only the best is good enough for those we serve. That is why we are constantly improving our methods, and service.

—Say Thousands

Including Tuxedo Dairy in the ration makes amazing increases in milk production. Thousands of cow owners say so.

Experts are surprised at its quick results; just a few days and there's a lot more milk. Old-timers are astounded by its lasting effects; Tuxedo does lengthen the lactation period; it does build up the cow's health.

The right grains, the correct mineral salts, and pure cane molasses, all measured and milled the Tuxedo way—there you have the reason for this remarkable success. We have it—for you.

ON DISPLAY TODAY

THE NEW OAKLAND 8

$1045 AND UP

General Motors' Lowest-Priced Eight . . . the Car with Superior Performance

Today a new eight-cylinder motor car makes its appearance. It is the newest General Motors eight and by several hundreds of dollars the lowest in price. It is the New Oakland Eight with bodies by Fisher.

The New Oakland Eight develops 85 horsepower and is the first stock car of its size and weight to employ an engine of such high power. Since performance depends largely on the ratio between horsepower and weight, the New Oakland Eight is exceptionally fast and powerful because it produces one horsepower to 37 pounds of car weight.

The New Oakland Eight has all the smoothness which results from the overlapping power impulses inherent in eight-cylinder engine design. In addition, it enjoys exclusive mechanical advantages which make it even smoother and more delightful to drive.

Several of the engineers who participated in creating General Motors' first eight back in 1914 were responsible for the development of the New Oakland Eight. To this latest task they brought a wide knowledge of eight-cylinder design. It is reasonable to expect that the Oakland is a finer eight because of this fact.

A demonstration will reveal how well the New Oakland Eight merits the description "the car with superior performance."

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, f.o.b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

NEW SERIES PONTIAC BIG 6

$745 AND UP

A Famous Name—A Finer Car . . . Introducing Important Improvements

The announcement of the first Pontiac in 1926 brought to the low-price field a new order of beauty, performance and reliability. And each Pontiac announcement since that time has introduced a car which represented an improvement, even over its own highly regarded predecessors.

Now comes the New Series Pontiac Big Six—an even finer car with a famous name. It retains all those excellent qualities which have been responsible for Pontiac's success in the past. And in addition it introduces many improvements. New bodies by Fisher make this latest Pontiac Big Six more beautiful than ever.

The smoothness of Pontiac's 60-horsepower engine is further increased by the use of rubber engine mountings. Pontiac's non-squeak four-wheel brakes are now even more efficient. A sloping non-glare windshield adds to its safety. Greater handling ease results from the use of a new type of steering mechanism. Improved Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers give increased riding comfort.

Come to our showroom and see this finer car with a famous name—the New Series Pontiac Big Six.

The New Series Pontiac Big Six, $745 and up, f.o.b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Shock absorbers standard equipment. Bumpers and spring covers at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f.o.b.) price when comparing automobile values. . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

TERSE AND TIMELY

Last week this column provoked the following comment from one of our interested readers: "I think that your Terse and Timely topics tend to tell the tenor of the times, tender, tactful, and to temper the tempestuous tirades of the town Tomcat."

But how did he overlook the "tinnabulations of the tumbling, teeming torrent?"

Anyway we've finally got it down to a "tinnabulation."

Now that the Highway Commission has accepted the bids for the bridge bonds must people be wondering whether during the next sixty days they will try to bridge the creeks and rivers, or to bridge the political gap between the commission and the legislature.

A news dispatch says: "Reds advance in Manchuria"—but what is worrying most of us hereabouts is their recent futile efforts to advance in the National League.

Another dispatch from China—"Chinese die by thousands"—reminds us of that famous cryptic remark from the proverbial Israelite: "Well, say can afford it."

Since one boy already has been reported to have developed a locked jaw caused from chewing gum while playing basket ball, maybe it will serve to break up the only objection we ever had to the game.

How can the Federal Farm Board ever expect to help the crippled farm industry when it is trying to function with only one leg (Chairman Legge)?

One dispatch states that Fred Vinson will NOT try to regain his seat in Congress from the 9th Kentucky, while another says he will. We're waiting to hear what Fred has to say about it.

The present slogan of the big boys in sports is—"Clean up Athletics"—but our advice to them is to consult Joe McCarthy and the Cubs about it before they go ahead and make fools of themselves.

No use complaining about the size of the auto license plates, they've just got to give us something.

The foreign dress artist who comes out with the recommendation that modest women's dresses be at least the "width of the hand" below the knee fails to make satisfactory allowance for the dangerous fact that is no safe place for the hand.—Lexington Herald.

Mrs. Inez Davess, of Louisville, denies that she bought twenty cases of liquor from a Cincinnati rum runner. That does sound like a good deal for a lady too busy at one time.

A lot of the recent "good buys" in Wall Street turned out to be "fare wells."—Arkansas Gazette.

Still, it can't be said that the Hoover administration doesn't play fair. When it abolished poverty it gave us something just as good.—Macon Telegraph.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION ORDERS ACTION ON BOONE PROJECTS

A. B. ROUSE, MEMBER OF BODY INSTRUMENTAL IN GETTING ORDER THROUGH—BELLEVUE AND VERONA ROADS AFFECTED

State Highway Commissioner A. B. Rouse was instrumental in having the commission enter an order at their meeting Tuesday, which order provided that the plans and specifications for the road from Burlington to McVie, via Bellevue, and the road from Walton to the Gallatin county line, via Verona, be completed at the earliest possible time and that deeds for the right of way be mended to the county officials.

County Judge N. E. Riddell has received the blue prints of the Burlington-McVie road and expects to receive the blue prints of the Walton-Gallatin road within a few days. Just as soon as the deeds have been secured the Highway commission will advertise for bids for the construction of these roads.

The advertisement for bids, however, cannot be received until after the adjournment of the present legislature, as it is said that bills have been introduced that if they should be passed, will reduce the money that has been paid into the state road fund. Of course any reduction in the funds available will mean a curtailment of construction.

Bills also have been introduced in the legislature, which, it is claimed, will cause a change in the personnel of the Highway Commission and reduce the general road condition to a state of chaos.

Many claim that such bills are introduced for political purposes and that, if they become laws, actually do not benefit the taxpayers of the state.

HEBRON LOCAL

RE-ELECTS ALL OFFICERS WHO SERVED IN 1929—CO-OPERATIVE MILK ORGANIZATION ONE OF STRONGEST IN COUNTY

The Hebron Community Local of the Co-operative Pure Milk Association at its regular meeting last Friday night elected E. J. Aylor, chairman of the organization, Benj. Paddock, vice-chairman and Frank Hossman, secretary-treasurer. All of the above officers served in the above capacity during 1929 and were re-elected on the efficient way they served the past year.

The Hebron organization is one of the strongest community co-operative organizations in the county and has been an organization that many progressive dairy movements for its members have been put into force. Discussions and deals for co-operative purchasing of feeds, discussions on butter fat testing of milk, T. B. testing of cattle and other progressive activities have had their beginnings at the local meetings.

A full style oyster supper with plenty of soup, sandwiches and coffee were served by the wives of the co-operative members following the business meeting. More than one hundred dairymen, their wives and children attended the meeting.

BASKET BALL

Kittens 28 Union 25

After many years of sparse thriving at the hands of the heretofore invincible Union girls the Kittens came thru with a victory over them last Friday night. It is indeed a long time since the Burlington girls have been able to conquer Union.

Although the score Friday night was only 28-25, yet at the half Burlington led by a count of 20 to 7 which is evidence enough that Union still has plenty of class and fight in them. If they get sufficient practice they will be heard from in the tournament again, though the Kittens also are entertaining healthy ambitions in the same direction.

For Union Misses Lucile Wilson and Pauline Townsend divided the scoring honors, while for the Kittens three girls, Misses Mary Phillips, Mary B. Rouse and Lucile Rice were the back-bone of the offense.

The Union girls clearly outplayed the Kittens during the second half, though the Kittens marked superiority displayed during the first half gave them sufficient margin to carry them thru.

Tomcats 39 Verona 15

In the second game of the evening last Friday the Tomcats defeated Verona 39 to 15. Coach Lamb had an opportunity to use a number of substitutes during the game and all performed in splendid fashion. The game of course was devoid of thrill inasmuch as the score was never close, but the Verona boys put up a good fight.

On Friday night of this week the Independence teams came here for two games and Coach Lamb of the Tomcats hopes to regain laurels lost to this team when they defeated his team at Independence several weeks ago. William Grenap, one of the high schools best performers, will be eligible for the first time this season when the teams take the floor Friday evening. Coach Hearn has no fears as to the result for the Kittens, as they defeated Independence before and he is confident they can do so again.

WALTON BIDS

FOR 1930 BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT—FORMERLY HELD AT COVINGTON—BEARCATS PRESENT A STRONG TEAM WITH ELEVEN STRAIGHT VICTORIES

That the Walton Bearcats merit their claim to a State Championship was evidenced last Saturday night by the manner in which they so decisively defeated the State Champs in "B" Class on the Corinth floor.

The victory over Corinth was the eleventh in a row for Walton, their successive string including defeats of Renaker High, Dry Ridge, Independence, Petersburg, Augusta, (Independent), Butler, Western Union, (Cincinnati), Owenton, Dot Coffee (Covington).

All of these victories were by decisive scores, Owenton, Corinth and the Dot Coffee put up stubborn battles, the Owenton score being the

W. W. GAINES KEEPS UP WITH OLD FRIENDS IN RECORDER

We have received a letter from the Hon. W. W. Gaines, of Atlanta, Georgia, in which he encloses remittance for subscription to the Recorder. We were very much interested in the following portion of Mr. Gaines' letter:

"I have been taking the Recorder for these 37 years that I have been away from the county, and believe that I was for several years the Recorder's correspondent from Bulletsville. I expect that makes me one of your oldest subscribers."

The Recorder has always been a part of a letter from home for me. I particularly have been interested in reading the Bulletsville and Union and Idlewild news where I went to school for a time, and also the Personal in the paper. Through the Recorder and through my almost annual visits to the section I have kept up pretty well with things in my native community for one who has been absent so long. I am always saying that I am proud to be a Kentuckian."

HOPEFUL CHURCH

There will be evangelistic services at Hopeful church next Sunday night, beginning at 7:30 (fast time). Gospel songs, special music. Everybody invited. The pastor will preach. These services will be continued on each alternate Sunday night until Easter. Regular services as usual on the morning of the second and fourth Sundays.

"Guess Who"

42ND OF SERIES

A letter from Mrs. W. S. Stephens informs us that the large double picture in "Guess Who" last week was that of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wilson, who lived for so many years near Rabbit Hash. Very few of our readers in this section of the county recognized the Wilsons.

Now for number Forty-two. The closest, 27-23. The Corinth score was 10-12.

The Walton schedule for the remainder of the season includes a group of the foremost teams in Northern Kentucky, a complete of which we will publish in these columns next week. Ludlow will play at Walton next Friday evening, January 17th.

Walton is bidding for the Northern Kentucky scholastic tournament next year, claiming that they have the facilities and urging other Boone county schools to support them in their effort to bring the tournament to this county.

ORGANIZATION OF LEGISLATURE, AS SEEN BY OUR CORRESPONDENT

Deaths

MRS. SUSIE D. SMITH
Mrs. Susie D. Smith, aged 65 years, beloved wife of Spencer S. Smith, passed away Tuesday evening at her home near Union, Ky., after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Smith had long been a faithful member of Hopeful Lutheran church and her pastor, Rev. F. B. Helbert, had charge of the services which were held at the Union Baptist church at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Rice cemetery near Union.

The pall-bearers were Harry Riley, Emerson Smith, Elbert Riley, Mr. Osborn, Lewis Weaver and Carl Swann.

She is survived by her husband, one son, a sister Mrs. Phillip Fall and brother Dolph Riley, besides many other relatives and friends.

Funeral Director Philip Talarro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. ELIZABETH RYAN

Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan, widow of the late Elizabeth Ryan, of Beaver neighborhood, passed away Saturday morning at the age of 72 years, following an illness from pleurisy and arterio sclerosis. She leaves four sons, four daughters, several grandchildren and a host of relatives to mourn her passing. Funeral services from St. Patrick church, Verona, conducted by Rev. Pools. In the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends. Burial in St. Patrick cemetery. C. Smith Chambers and Assistant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

PARALYSIS

CAUSES SUDDEN DEMISE OF J. L. KITE, WELL KNOWN BOONE COUNTY CITIZEN, SUNDAY AFTERNOON—STRICKEN SATURDAY

A death, the suddenness of which paralleled the deep grief and concern which was generally felt in Boone county, occurred here Sunday when J. L. Kite answered the final summons at about 2:15 P. M.

Mr. Kite was the victim of a stroke of paralysis shortly before noon Saturday, his illness lasting but a trifle over one day. He had been on a mission to his farm near Waterloo and had returned to his home in Burlington, when, in taking a drink of water, his wife noted that he was spilling it on the floor. When she told him of it, he agreed that there was something wrong.

Dr. Yelton was called and he readily learned his real condition. He did what could be done for his relief, but shortly after midnight those watching at his bedside perceived that his remaining arm and limb were becoming useless. The doctor again was called, but medical efforts were of no avail and his condition steadily grew worse until death came at approximately the hour above mentioned.

MILLIKEN WINS SPEAKERS POST, AS OPPOSITION FARES—ADAMS LOSES IN RACE FOR PRESIDENT PRO TEM OF SENATE—ELECTIC SESSION IN PROSPECT

(By William Henderson)

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 13.—Spirited by a bitter battle over election of a Speaker to preside over the House of Representatives during the 1930 Kentucky General Assembly, Kentucky's law-making body formally opened here Tuesday, promising to give to political and governmental observers a legislative session teeming with life.

Hated that had been well established during the dying hours of the Speaker's campaign, killed the chances of the anti-Milliken forces in the Democratic caucus to bring about the defeat of John S. Milliken, Simpson county, who served as Speaker of the House at the 1925 session. Milliken defeated his opponent, Andrew W. Nichols, Hardtown, by a vote of 84 to 80.

Irritated by last minute developments, William B. Ardery, Bourbon county, a strong contender in the three-cornered race for Speaker, withdrew from the race ten minutes before the Democratic caucus and threw his strength to Milliken.

Even the majority of Ardery's backers, who for two nights had slept but little in their efforts for him, were dumfounded when they heard their choice for Speaker cast his vote for Milliken early in the roll call. For the most part, the backing Ardery and Nichols was divided among the anti-Milliken Democrats.

There had been much talk of the Ardery-Nichols forces dropping either Ardery or Nichols in a last minute effort to defeat Milliken. But no one dreamed that Ardery himself would carry his personal grudge against Nichols into an open line-up for Milliken, whom both Ardery and Nichols set out to defeat.

The Democratic House caucus was anything but tame. From the beginning of the caucus to its end the members were on the alert. Suspicion that some move might be made that would upset the workings of the Milliken forces made the greater desire to watch with an eagle eye each move.

Hardly had Milliken been voted into the Speaker's chair when Ralph Gilbert, Shelby county, attempted, unsuccessfully at that time, to introduce a resolution. James B. Dorman, who defeated Brooks L. Hargrave for caucus chairman by a substantial majority, ruled Mr. Gilbert out of order, holding that minor offices in the House should be filled before the resolution was sent to the desk.

Later in the day, however, Gilbert was recognized. His resolution, assigned to take the power of committee appointments away from the speaker and lay it in the hands of a committee with the speaker as chairman, the chairman of the Democratic caucus and one member of the other nine Congressional districts, drew the ire of the Milliken supporters and even those who had supported Nichols, but pleased harmony after the election.

Restoration of Birth Place of Robert E. Lee to Be Urged in WHAS Broadcast

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 13.—(Special Correspondence) Interest among Kentuckians in the project to acquire and restore Stratford Hall, birthplace of General Robert E. Lee, will be greatly stimulated next Sunday and Monday nights (Jan. 19 and 20) when radio programs of outstanding merit are to be broadcast in celebration of the 122nd birthday anniversary of General Lee. This announcement was made today by Mrs. Thomas Floyd Smith, of Glenview, Ky., who is a director for Kentucky of the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation now engaged with the task of raising funds to lift the mortgages from the famous and historic old mansion and converting the ancient homestead into a national shrine.

The broadcast Sunday night will be from 9:45 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. over WHAS, Louisville, and associated radio stations. The program will be heard from coast to coast and the entire nation will be informed of the efforts to preserve Stratford Hall to posterity forever. The introductory talk will be given by Mrs. Orton B. Brown, Director of

New Hampshire, daughter of General John B. Gordon of C. S. A. of Georgia, who was one of General Lee's beloved friends. The principal address will be given by U. S. Senator Harry E. Hawes of Missouri whose subject will be "General Lee and Stratford Hall." Senator Hawes' father and each of his uncles served under General Lee in the Army of Northern Virginia. The program will be heard over stations affiliated with the Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company as follows: WFAE WCAE WJAY WOW WKE WJFJ WFJZ WIOD WOC WGT

WRC WEGC KOA KGO and WEPH. On Monday night, from 10 to 11 p. m., a special Lee and Jackson radio program will be heard over WHAS. The principal address will be given by the Rev. Dr. John B. Sampson, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, whose subject will be "Lee and Jackson." (Gen. Thomas "Stonewall" Jackson was born January 21, 1824.) Mrs. John L. Woodbury, Louisville, will have for her theme "The Jefferson Davis Highway" while "Stratford Hall—Birthplace of Robert E. Lee" will be the subject of Mrs. Thomas Floyd Smith's address. The program will be marked by the debut of the WHAS stock players who will give the second act of "The Little Rebel." The players are Gertrude Sweet, Joseph Eaton and C. N. McNeen. Marie Wathen will be heard in Southern Songs and melodies of the Old South will be rendered by the WHAS orchestra. A musical setting will mark the reading by Mr. Mullican, of the poem "Fort That Banned."

The sum of $10,000 has been paid in Kentucky for the work of the foundation, Mrs. Smith said. Of this sum Louisville and Jefferson county have contributed $12,000 while $1,000 has been received from the various other counties. No one has been established for the various other states, Mrs. Smith said, but a tentative goal of $30,000 has been set for Kentucky. The Foundation has made an initial payment of $50,000 on the historic Lee Homestead which was acquired at a cost of $240,000. Additional payments of principal and interest on the unpaid balance are now due. It was pointed out.

BEAUTIFYING THE ROADSIDE

The next step in highway improvement will be to make the roads more attractive. The first and most important object of road improvement is, of course, to make it easier to get from one place to another. But after that is done, attention ought to be given to the beautification of the roadside.

Several states have begun this work. In Massachusetts all new or relocated roads are made wide enough to provide for a belt of shade trees on each side and trees and shrubs are planted by the State nursery. Connecticut has a State landscape division which not only plants trees but lays out flower gardens at appropriate intervals along State roads. In California trees have been planted along 685 miles of highway and the lands adjacent to State roads have been surveyed for the purpose of planning ways to make them more attractive. Delaware, Illinois, Georgia, Missouri, Wisconsin and Kentucky are all making a beginning toward similar highway beautification, in some instances with the cooperation of local civic bodies and women's clubs. For years the women's clubs of Florida have been planting flowers along the roads.

Under an amendment to the Federal aid act, passed in 1928, Government funds may be used in part for such purposes on Federal aid roads.

There is more to this than simply a protest against ugliness. There is sound dollars-and-cents value in beautiful roads. People who live on them not only take pride in them but can get more for their building sites. Towns which the tourist approaches through arching trees and bowers of flowers gain reputation and business thereby.

Europe is way ahead of America in roadside improvement. Not only are its highways generally tree-lined but in some regions fruit and nut trees are planted, the harvest from which is sold to provide funds for road maintenance. That is an economy which might not operate so well in America, but there is nothing but time to prevent us from making every road beautiful.

WE BELIEVE IN THE U. S.

Christmas business for 1929 was as good as a year before, according to reports from every part of the country. Merchants had expected a decline of 15 or 20 per cent. People who make it their business to analyze economic forces say that one reason why people did not cut down on their Christmas shopping after the Wall Street slump was because the President's business conferences in Washington had restored public confidence in the soundness of the Nation's industries and reassured the timid ones.

If that is true, it is a good augur for the new year. The President's purpose in calling business leaders to disclose their plans for the future and in urging Governors and Congress to accelerate the spending of public funds for roads, waterways, buildings and other public works, was the hope that the responses would prove so encouraging as to allay fear for the future. That turned out to be the case.

Mr. Hoover recognized the truth of Woodrow Wilson's famous statement that good times and bad times are usually the result of the mental attitude of the crowd. Business men of today understand that. If the mass of the people believes that things are going to go well, and proves that belief by spending money as freely as ever, then things do go well. If the majority is timid and hesitant about purchases and investments, things go badly and we have hard times.

The year 1930 has hardly begun brighter than it looked a couple of months ago. The public has realized more completely and speedily than had been hoped that the U. S. is still moving steadily toward its destiny, which is that of a nation in which neither poverty nor suffering shall befall even the least of its citizens except as the individual himself wills it.

"Political Gesture" From Sen. Joseph Grundy is Innovation

(BY FRED HOLMES)
Washington Correspondent for Recorder

WASHINGTON—When the Polly got through with the parrot, Catty studiously scrutinized his entire wardrobe, transformed into a green, red and yellow mat at the base of his pedestal, and indulged in the historic remark: "I guess I talk a damn much."

It is to be doubted if there is a single Washington correspondent who has not, at one time or another, said, possibly in the privacy of his own chamber, of course—the same thing.

Governor Fisher's appointment of Joseph Grundy as junior senator from Pennsylvania was anything but a popular move. In fact, if there is anyone in the United States, apart from directly interested parties, who had a good word to say for the appointment, no one here has had notice of the incident. Grundy, by his own voluntary testimony, had demonstrated that he did not measure up to even present-day senatorial standards—not to say that he clearly proved actual unfitness.

But, no sooner are such observations duly chronicled than Mr. Grundy on the floor of the Senate, springs an innovation so radical, and yet so essentially and understandably decent and honorable, that the public—including Washington correspondents—marvels and the Senate blushes. The incident took place during the roll-call on the question of raising the duty on wool yarn of which Senator Grundy is a manufacturer. When called on for a vote the new senator arose and replied: "I am interested in the industry which I sheltered under this paragraph. Therefore, I would like to withhold my vote on this amendment."

Since the higher rate was adopted by a margin of six votes, it has been suggested that Mr. Grundy's action was nothing more than a well-timed political gesture. But if gestures of this kind were more frequent in the Senate, that body would find itself gaining in self-respect and public esteem. In fact, Senator Grundy has given the Senate a lesson in political ethics. There is little chance that senators in general will emulate his example, but it is doubtful if any member of that body will be able to arise and plead for duties that would put money in his own pocket without running the risk of being reminded of Senator Grundy's action.

Prosaic and hard-boiled Washington was treated to another thrill last week. A mighty good-looking young fellow, with bristling black hair carefully parted in the middle, who might easily pass for an undergraduate in any of our colleges, was the central figure in the most far-reaching fracas within Republican ranks in the last quarter-century. That young man was Robert M. La Follette Jr., of Wisconsin, Progressive Republican, who will celebrate his 35th birthday on February 6. The issue of the moment was whether "Young Bob" should become a member of the Senate Finance Committee. A forthcoming issue is whether the President shall dictate Old Guard domination of this powerful committee.

When the two-day row in the committee on committees had come to an end the Progressives not only had Senator La Follette on the Finance Committee, but Senator Thomas, of Idaho, as well. In addition, they had Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, on the hitherto very conservative Committee on Banking and Currency, and also on the just conservative Committee on Privileges and Elections. Thus what had threatened to become an open airing of Republican troubles on the floor of the Senate was the committee room behind closed doors. But it was not settled in any conciliatory way, in any spirit of give and take, with everyone looking to the welfare of the party as a whole. It was settled by brute force.

The possibilities of the imbroglio are without number, but it is thought here that the most probable outcome will be a widening of the already expansive split in the Republican party—an issue which the Progressives will undoubtedly carry into the campaign. The issue was joined when the Old Guard members of the Republican Committee on Committees undertook to shoulde: "Young Bob" out of the running for a place on the Finance Committee alleged to be at the instigation of President Hoover. That the President has taken a hand in the selection of committee members was largely accepted as an open secret on the floor of the Senate—and this alleged intervention created deep resentment. However, the White House was kept busy asserting that it had no hand in the matter.

Nothing succeeds like success, and there is an old adage which runs "Never quarrel with success." Wherefore, even those who do not look with favor upon some of President Hoover's policies, or with his methods of making them effective, or who are not in accord with the principles of his party, recalling that so far as known his foot has never slipped on any rung of the ladder, may with propriety look with respect upon his counsel. And President Hoover says that he sees the peace of the world at stake in the forthcoming effort to reduce navies, at London.

At an informal breakfast in the White House, the President said "Good-bye, bon voyage and God speed you" to members of the American delegation to the London Naval Conference and some of the technical advisors. It was a very hopeful if cautious message which the President delivered orally and informally to his breakfast guests. That he looks to the conference to accomplish results in the way of preserving the world's peace was emphasized. Especially was he emphatic in pointing out that actual reduction in fighting fleets should be the aim of the American delegation.

He warns his fellow-countrymen not to expect an instantaneous and sweeping success at the London conference, and in this he is well advised. His words of measured caution are his best: our delegates goodbye are sufficient proof of what was otherwise well known, that he has been impressed with the magnitude and complexity of the undertaking at London, the more he has studied it and the fuller the information about it which has come to him from diplomatic sources. He is wise today as well as helpful in lecturing the nation know what to look for when he virtually takes as his motto the saying about not boasting while you are putting on the harness.

In a way it is more than an implied compliment to our delegates that they are sent forth with a cheerful God speed at the very moment when the arduous nature of their efforts is emphasized. Strenuous labor is cut-out for them, but most of us believe that they are equal to it. They may be sure that their activities will be followed with eager interest by Americans and that they will carry with them the hopes and prayers of all who believe with President Hoover that mighty issues of peace and security for the whole world hang upon the outcome at London.

Sunday School Lesson

JESUS BEGINS HIS MINISTRY

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

"From that time," the opening words of the lesson has a very definite implication and presents a subject for special study. John the Baptist had been a voice in the wilderness until he was silenced by the closing of prison doors when Herod did not fancy the message of denunciation after he had taken his brother's wife. Use either Kerr's or Robinson's "Harmony of the Gospels" for all the intervening items, otherwise you will miss much as we spend these six months in the life of Christ. We are now in the spring of the second year of His public ministry. The time is A. D. 28; April to May and the general location is in Galilee. The call is the same whether given by Jesus or John the Baptist. It is "Repent ye; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." This is still the challenging truth to command the attention of every one. Turn to the Gospel of John for the events in the first year's ministry.

At the very beginning of His public life Jesus began to call individuals to His side. Some of the followers of John the Baptist were thus summoned at the time of the Baptism of the Jesus in the Jordan. They do not appear very prominently during that first year while the Master is apparently working with individuals, such as Nicodemus, recorded in John 3. These men could not forget the impressions as they were with Him, especially as they sat about the camp fire at night and rested during the noon siesta. Many pertinent problems that related to the inner life were discussed at those times.

Jesus never purposed to be an arbitrary dictator. He would be both a Teacher and a Leader. He would have disciples, learners, who would go about with Him. Herein are many suggestions about teacher training, which is an essential subject in connection with the work of religious education today. Some who had been invited to become his friends a year ago at the Jordan were now sought as more constant companions in service. Andrew and Peter, James and John. There were many disciples; at one time seventy are named. From these, twelve apostles were chosen at a later date. These men, upon whom kingdom-building responsibilities were to rest about two years later, were selected from the general class of workmen rather than from among the book-learned people who were in the big city centers. The horny-handed toilers were first called and they responded forthwith. Today, those in the more ordinary walks of life are carrying on the heavier activities in the church and Sunday School. Those who thus serve will receive blessings accordingly in the day of final reckoning.

A three-fold ministry is indicated: teaching, preaching and healing. The work of the Church is carried on under similar heads in the present day. In foreign missions, too, there is schooling, evangelism and medical work. Such unselfish ministries soon attracted much attention. People came from curiosity and also with a sincere purpose to learn essential truths. Jesus had a message for all. His approach was direct rather than abrupt. Sin was the supreme disease and He told about its unfailing remedy. He was the world's Great Physician. By divine power every malady could be cured. He was the Specialist and never had need to call in another for consultation.

"Auto Licenses Too High" Says Herald, in Urging Reduction

(The Lexington Herald)

State Senator Gates Young has announced that the first bill he will introduce in the senate hopper will be a proposal for the reduction of the automobile license plates.

The measure which he will introduce is based on the provision of the Indiana law and will occasion a reduction of more than half.

License plates for one of the makes of small cars in Kentucky now cost $13.35, while in Indiana they cost $5.25. The same plates when purchased for one of the more expensive makes of cars cost in Kentucky $28.85 and in Indiana $10.25.

The Ohio license cost even less than those of Indiana. However, the Indiana law was considered by members of the legislative committee representing automobile clubs, by Senator Young and others who had given consideration to the matter to be a fair law based upon a practical plan.

FREE BOLOGNA?

Evidently bemoaning the fact that times ain't what they used to be, one of our readers has sent us the following interesting bit of philosophy designed as a contrast to the times now of those of thirty years ago. However, we offer the alteration that everybody hands out the free "bologna" now, instead of merely the butcher, as in yore olden days. The quotation he sends follows:

Thirty years ago eggs were 8c a dozen; butter 10c a pound; milk 5c a quart; the butcher gave away liver and treated the kids with bologna; the hired girl received $2.00 a week and did the washing.

Women concealed their ankles and did not powder and paint (in public) smoke, vote or play poker. Men wore whiskers and boots, chewed tobacco, spat on the sidewalks and Kentucky's automobile license plate charges are out of line in comparison with those of all adjoining states. This contributes to "bootlegging" of licenses and the purchasing of licenses from border states.

For a long time it has been the belief of many who have given consideration to the problem that revenue should be derived principally from the gasoline taxes which are a more suitable source for revenue than the motor license plates. Of course, any proposed reduction in revenue will meet with some decided opposition. Particularly is this true when such reduction will affect the road building fund, for the people of Kentucky desire to see the road building program carried forward and completed.

The motor licenses, however, are too high in the state of Kentucky and injustice is never a proper manner in which to gain an end no matter how desirable it may be.

cussed. Beer was 5c and the lunch free. Laborers worked ten hours and never went on a strike, the hat check grafter was unknown. A kerosene hanging lamp and a stereoscope in the parlor were luxuries. No one was operated on for appendicitis or had their faces revamped. Microbes were unheard of. Folks lived to a good ripe old age and every year good reasons to wish their friends the seasons greetings. Today everybody rides in automobiles or flies, plays golf, shoot craps, play the piano with their feet, go to the talkies, rightly, smoke cigarettes, drink everything, blame the high cost of living on their neighbors, never go to bed the same day they get up, and think they are having a hell of a time.

These are the days of bootlegging, high taxes, crime, speed and nerves, but we still think life's worth living.

There is talk of Jim Crisler, of batchelor notoriety, becoming a partner with G. W. Popham in the dry goods and grocery store at this place.

Zack Bondurant has refitted the old mill known as Pile's mill, with an entirely new wheel, and is prepared to do the best work of any water mill in the county. The making new of this mill revives reminiscences of the past, when there were a grocery and saloon here, when there was a three days election, when the people enjoyed come day go, day, and bless the Lord when he sent Sunday. To remind one of yesteryear, we only have to look at the walls of yonder old mansion, and read the hand writing thereon. It bears a striking comparison to a lunch sign, sweet cider, root beer at any and all hours.

STATIC OFF CAPITOL DOME

(By Elizabeth Nelson, Special Staff Writer Helen News Service)
Boomed for the Senate! Rumors fly that Cal Coolidge may be induced to run for Senator from Massachusetts. But considering that Mr. Vare paid considerably more than half a million for a Senate seat he failed to get, Cal might consider the office too expensive.

Of course a Senatorial toga from one of the eastern "forward" states like Pennsylvania or Massachusetts would materially come high. Economy Cal might prefer to be a "common" Senator from one of the "back ward" states.

"I do not choose to spend for Senator in 1937" may be Calvin Coolidge's next ten word statement, if rumors persist that his hat is in the Senatorial ring.

A truce for three minutes! Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth chatted pleasantly together for three minutes at the New Year's White House reception. But three minutes is not so long for two ladies to divide up talking to each other. The little episode gave Washington society a thrill, but in reality it was hardly more than the customary hand-shake between pugilists going into the ring.

Contrary to long established custom, neither Mrs. Longworth nor Mrs. Gann held any receptions during the holiday season—ostensibly to avoid any clash of precedence between the two. Also the White House social functions for the season have been made up so as not to include both ladies at the same party. Who knows but what the Gann-Longworth controversy will be an issue in 1937?

President Hoover and Senator Borah have been exchanging "Lunatic" notes on the prohibition question. Borah says the failure to enforce the law is an outrage. The President has taken no stand on the enforcement issue. Is Borah out for President in 1937? The issue might well be the sinking of enforcement on the high and "dry" sea of prohibition.

Senator Brookhart demands Melon's scalp, for failure to enforce the prohibition law. It looks as if between Brookhart and Borah there will be some prohibition fireworks right soon.

"Allan Hoover throws a party" ran Washington newspaper headlines after the younger son of the President had given a holiday dinner for his young friends. The East room resounded with jazz and dancing youth for the first time in history. A peppy hotel orchestra, and the Marine Band furnished the music. The old order changed.

"Fighting Bol" won out! After a death grapple with the Old Guard, young La Follette of Wisconsin won a place on the powerful Finance Committee.

Horror of horrors! Old veteran regulars were shocked as Smoot, evidently reading the writing on the wall, voted to seat the Insurgent La Follette. "Smoot flopped" was the gossip of the hour on Capitol Hill.

The battle to seat La Follette on the Finance Committee, said to be "packed" with Senators from the industrial East, would seem to mark the last stand of the Old Guard. The Western victory shows that though the East has the wealth the West has the power.

To make matters worse much of this wealth has been stripped from the plains of the "Jackass" country. Western farmers have contributed billions of their hard-earned capital to the country in the form of low-priced products for the past nine years. Part of the country prosperous and part depressed appears to confirm Rudyard Kipling's prophecy that the twin of East and West never shall meet.

Grundy talks in whispers! He would not even vote on the woolen tariff schedules because he said he was "interested" in them in a financial way.

Some weeks ago lobbyist Grundy told the Western Senators to "talk damned small." Now Senator Grundy talks small himself. Perhaps he thought to give an example—especially after he knew the woolen yarn tariff increases would pass anyway.

Women fled from the Senate galleries as Senator Blease read profane passages from a book which he said was available for all youth to read. The shocking quotations which the Senator read would not legally go through the mails and the press dared not publish them. Senator Blease next exploded into an attack on crime in the National Capital, and demanded a clean-up of Washington.

General Pershing took only seven words to spike the boom for his nomination.

BRITISH SOCIETY TO GIVE CUP TO KENTUCKY SOUTHDOWN BREEDERS

Blue Grass State Sheep Men Honored For Improving Famous English Breed

The Southdown Society of England, through its secretary, the Hon. Walter Stride has awarded to the Kentucky Accredited Purebred Sheep Breeders' Association a sterling silver trophy in recognition of the development of the Southdown breed of sheep in Kentucky, Richard C. Miller, of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky, announces. Mr. Miller is secretary of the Kentucky Association.

The action of the English sheep breeders is considered a high honor in Kentucky, since similar trophies have been awarded only to the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago, and to breeders' organizations in New Zealand and South America.

Kentucky is now recognized as the leading Southdown state in America. Much progress has been made here in improving the quality of this famous English breed. Importations of highly-bred stock have been made from England and Canada, and some of the best flocks in America have been established in the Blue Grass state.

The Kentucky Accredited Purebred Breeders' Association and the College of Agriculture are cooperating in an extensive campaign to improve the sheep industry. Not only have they increased the numbers of sheep on the farms of the state, but they have improved quality until Kentucky spring lambs lead the nation and annually bring millions of dollars to Kentucky farmers.

ANNUAL FARM AND HOME CONVENTION

The Annual Farm and Home Convention which is really a week's short course under a large number of leading farm authorities of the U. S. will be held at the University of Kentucky on January 28th, 29th, 30th and 31st.

A wide number of farm subjects will be covered with up-to-date information on important farm problems by farmers, agricultural college teachers, business men, research investigators and others interested in vital farm problems. Special poultry and bee keeping short courses will also be included this year.

A number of Boone county farmers who are making plans to attend this convention have requested information as to the date and program. A number of programs will be available at the county agents' office at Burlington in the near future. They will be mailed to farmers requesting same.

Overdoing Patriotism
Chauvinism derives its name from Nicholas Chauvin, a soldier in the army of Napoleon, who was ridiculed by his comrades for his demonstrative and unreasoning patriotism. The term has come to be applied to anyone exhibiting preposterous patriotism or an excessive enthusiasm for national ascendancy.

Horse Measurement
A "hand" is a unit of measure supposed to be equal to the breadth of a grown person's hand. As a rule, three hands make a foot, the hand, when officially adopted as a unit of measure of a horse, being four inches.

Good Teaching Method
"Heuristic" is derived from the Greek "heuretikos," meaning "inquisitive." The heuristic method is one which incites the pupil to find out things for himself and use his own initiative.

ination as Senator from Nebraska. "My decision must be regarded as final" he wired, referring to a former statement that he would not be a candidate for office. The General is more economical than Cal Coolidge when it comes to public statements.

Senator Norris is thus freed from the danger of a powerful rival in the coming Senatorial campaign.

Senator Borah is to look over and scrutinize carefully any naval cut offering the U. S. delegation may offer. If Idaho Senator had gone to London as a member of the delegation, as he was urged to do, he would not have had this much power. No wonder he preferred to stay at home.

It's hard to figure out just what the House is doing these days. While the Senate is wrestling with the tariff the lower branch is enjoying something of a holiday. When things get a bit dull there is always prohibition to talk about. Recently the house applauded, for the second time the killing of a rum runner. The dregs seem to be still on top, but it's getting harder every day to explain the widespread violation of the prohibition law.

BY THE COUNTY AGENT

PLANS FOR THREE HUNDRED BUSHEL CLUB

A 300 hundred bushel per acre potato club was planned in Florence Community Program of Work meeting held at the Farm Bureau at Florence last Saturday night. After running demonstrations showing certified seed, seed treatment, control of blight with use of Bordeaux mixture and use of fertilizers were profitable as a result of increased yield of market potatoes a county potato growing contest was planned. The contest will be open to all potato growers of the county on application to the county agent.

Bean spot control demonstrations more complete fruit spraying schedule, use of lime and phosphate on alfalfa fields, pasture improvement, Dairy Herd Improvement Association work, model poultry houses, complete poultry flock records, increased use of Korean lespedeza and 4-H club work received favorable comment from the 1935 program and additional work for 1936 was planned.

The community project leaders selected to supervise the work for 1936 were Sterling Rouse on truck crops and fruits; O. R. Russ, alfalfa; Eli Surface and Chester Tanner, pasture improvement; Grant Maddox and Jas. Gallenstein, poultry; Theo. Carpenter and O. R. Russ, Dairy Herd Improvement Association work; Chester Tanner, Korean lespedeza; Eli Surface, Grant Maddox and Ira Long on 4-H club work.

"LESSON CHICK LOSSES" DISCUSSED AT POULTRY SCHOOL

The Boone county poultry school that will be held at Florence this coming Friday, January 17th, will be of most important to Boone county poultrymen according to County Agent H. R. Forkner.

Mr. James Humphrey, field agent from the Kentucky College of Agriculture, will be in charge of the school, and plans are for a number of leading poultrymen to be on the program. The school will be held at the Odd-Fellows Hall at Florence and will begin at 10 a. m. and close at 3 p. m., all time.

All Boone county poultrymen and anyone else interested in poultry are invited and urged to attend.

NUGENT SPEAKS TO FARMERS AT MEETINGS

Mr. N. B. Nugent, executive secretary of the State Farm Bureau and representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation spoke to the farmers of Boone county on Farm Bureau Principles at meetings held at Burlington, Florence and Hebron on last Monday afternoon, night and Tuesday night, respectively. The executive secretary of the Ohio State Farm Bureau was to speak to the farmers at Walton on Wednesday night.

Mr. Nugent pointed out that farmers were sticking together and were getting results. The state organization at the present time is sponsoring a bill in the legislature that will provide for one cent of the five cent gasoline tax to be returned to the county for use on mud and slide roads. This law will bring between fifteen and seventeen thousand dollars to Boone county for road purposes. The Federal Farm Board was to a large extent the result of Farm Bureau action.

The Farm Bureau is so planned as to include all rural activities, social, recreational, educational and economic. The community local organization is the basis for the county organization. The local organizations were advised not to put all their eggs in one basket but to include as full a community program as possible.

ty, joined Gilbert in support of the resolution. There followed a barrage of speeches on the floor of the caucus. Gilbert and Smith argued that the Speaker ruled with an iron hand the deliberations of the House itself when he picked the committees which he alone had authority to appoint.

On a motion of Harry Myers, Kentucky county, to table the resolution, in substance a move to send it to its death, the House Democrats rallied to an overwhelming vote.

Besides Gilbert and Smith only three other members favored taking the appointive power from the Speaker.

The miscounted action of Ardrey throws new light on the workings of the House. Time was when it seemed certain that the Ardrey allies and the Nichols backers would fight hand in hand for their legislation. The wide-open break between these two groups may force a complete change in the plans of the anti-Milliken wing of the Democratic party.

However, as usual, there have been many words uttered advocating a policy of peace. The Democratic party, however, during the past few years of its history has not been gifted along that line. One thing might be observed, however. Those who bitterly fought the election of Milliken, turned to his support on the Gilbert resolution and added materially to its defeat.

Some Democratic leaders point to this move as a certain step toward harmony among the House Democrats.

Ben Johnson, ousted Chairman of the State Highway Commission, who supported Nichols for Speaker, was a conspicuous observer of the activities of the House caucus. Soon after the caucus Mr. Johnson and Mr. Milliken held a lengthy conference.

Mr. Johnson is said by his friends to be firm in his stand to force a legislative investigation of affairs of the State Highway Commission and the Highway Department. He was ousted from office a few weeks ago by an executive order of Gov. Flein D. Sampson. Mr. Johnson took his case to the Courts, and it was thrown out by Judge Ben G. Williams in the Franklin Circuit Court. He then appealed to the Court of Appeals where his case is now pending.

Mr. Johnson is expected to be a factor in the General Assembly that will be well worth watching. He has been known throughout his political career as a fighter to the finish.

The Senate Democratic caucus took shape in a much swifter fashion. A pre-caucus agreement that had been reached in private caucuses in the hotel rooms here carried the slate prepared by the Senate leaders of both political groups here and went through without a slip. Allie W. Young, Rowan county, a long time figure in the Senate deliberations was unanimously elected caucus chairman. In the same steamroller fashion W. A. Yates, Barren county, was elected, unopposed, as president Pro Tem.

Former State Senator William A. Perry, Jefferson county, was elected Clerk of the Senate. Miss Maja Eudaly, secretary of the State Central Executive Committee, was elected secretary of the caucus. Oscar Wick, Crittenden county, and Forl Fields, Carter county, son of former Gov. William J. Fields, were chosen assistant Clerks. Both Fields and Wicker were candidates for Clerk of the Senate.

The defeat of Senator Samuel W. Adams, Kenton county, who has been a much-spoken of candidate for President pro tem, was a surprise to political circles. His defeat was credited largely to Gates F. Young, Davies county, who openly fought for more patronage for Western Kentucky Democrats.

September 13th, 1871, and died on January 12th, 1930, being a little more than 58 years of age. He was a faithful member of both the Odd Fellows Lodge and the Christian church, both at Bellevue, having been a member of the Christian church for over forty years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Leila Cowen Kite and one brother J. G. Kite, of Waterloo, one sister having preceded him to the grave.

Funeral services were held at the Burlington Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, January 14th, at one o'clock, which were in charge of Rev. F. E. Walker, the local pastor, and Rev. R. H. Carter, of Petersburg, who delivered the discourse over the remains. Rev. Carter was a friend of the deceased of close association and long standing. Mr. Kite having been the first man to greet Rev. Carter upon the occasion of his first visit to Boone county about 24 years ago.

The remarks made by Rev. Carter were in his own inimitable style portraying the Christian character of the deceased, than whom the speaker said he had known none more devout, and interweaving the traits and characteristics of Mr. Kite with the true Christian philosophy. He took as the general theme of his discourse the thought—"He was a good man."

The spacious auditorium of the church was filled to its capacity, being one of the largest gatherings ever to attend a funeral service here. The vast number who paid their last respects to J. L. Kite attested his standing in the communities in which he had spent his life, devoted to his friends, his lodge, his church, and to every public enterprise that he considered worthy.

His remains were borne to their last resting place in the L. O. O. F. cemetery here by Kirby Clore, John Smith, Sherman Burcham, Everett Hickman, Ephraim Clore and John Maurer, all of whom were members of the Odd-Fellows fraternity.

The Recorder takes the liberty to publicly extend to his bereaved widow and brother the sympathy of the citizens of the communities in which he was the best known.

AGENT IN BARREN COUNTY 10 YEARS

Outstanding Progress Made Through Decades of Agricultural Depression

J. O. Haring recently completed his tenth year as agricultural agent in Barren county, Ky. It is interesting to note what has happened farming in Barren county in that decade of national agricultural depression.

In 1920, when Mr. Haring began his work, Barren county farmers were selling no cream. Last year they sold $550,000 worth of cream. There were only two purebred flocks of poultry in the county 13 years ago; now there are 250 highly bred flocks. From these flocks farmers sold $7,000 worth of hatching eggs last year, against no sales of hatching eggs 10 years ago.

Two farmers in the county were using limestone in 1920, while 58 farmers applied limestone to increase crop production last year. One hundred and twenty tons of nitrate of soda were used in the county last year, compared with two tons used in 1920.

Scrub sires were in universal use in the herds and flocks of the county when Mr. Haring took up his work. Practically all sires are purebred now.

The number of sheep in the county has increased from 3,500 to 10,000 in the decade. The acreage of grass had reached a low mark in 1920, while it has grown steadily every year that Mr. Haring has been in the county. There were no soybeans, sweet clover, lespedeza or alfalfa grown in the county in 1920, compared with large acreages of these feed crops and soil builders today.

There was no community road work in 1920, while 100 farmers cooperated in improving the roads last year.

Deposits in Barren county banks grew from $1,700,000 in 1920 to $4,400,000 in 1929.

Hancock county sheep raisers have organized a Golden Hoof Club to assist in enforcing of the dog law. Only 12 dogs were licensed in the county last year. There are $600 in unpaid sheep claims.

FARMERS TO HEAR NOTED SPEAKERS

Stone and Poole on Program of Farm and Home Convention

James C. Stone, vice-chairman of the Federal Farm Board, and Jas. E. Poole, marketing specialist of the Chicago Livestock Exchange, are two noted men who have been secured to speak at the eighteenth annual Farm and Home Convention to be held at the University of Kentucky at Lexington January 28-31.

Mr. Stone will deliver two addresses. In one he will discuss the operation and purposes of the Federal Farm Board, and in the other he will talk directly about the actual operation of farming. Known personally to thousands of Kentucky farmers, a large audience no doubt will hear him on Wednesday morning, Jan. 29, and again on Thursday morning, Jan. 30.

This will be the third consecutive year that Mr. Poole has appeared on the Farm and Home Convention program. Mr. Poole has been reporting livestock markets for more than 40 years, and is known personally or through his writing to livestock men everywhere.

The Farm and Home Convention will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 28, and continue through Friday, Jan. 31st. Speakers the first day will discuss tobacco growing and marketing, soil management and sheep raising. Pasture improvement and dairying will constitute the major part of the second day's program. On Thursday, livestock improvement and disease control will be featured. Farm economics and beef cattle will be the central themes on Friday.

Poultry keepers, meeting Tuesday and Wednesday, will consider the first day the improvement of poultry by selection and breeding, and the second day the brooding of chicks, including the control of disease, sanitation and feeding.

Veterinarians and beekeepers will meet during the week.

DAIRYMEN IN THREE COUNTIES ORGANIZE

Farmers in Nelson, Larue and Hardin counties have organized the ardstown Dairy Herd Improvement Association to test their cows and improve their feeding practices, the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky announces. There are now 12 dairy herd improvement associations in the state, with more than 5,000 cows on test. The 11 associations in operation last month reported 4,450 cows in 255 herds on test. Seventy-nine cows produced 50 pounds or more of butterfat each last month, while 181 cows produced 40 to 50 pounds each. Thirty-eight cows were culled out, testing showing that they were unprofitable.

The highest average production was reported by the Shelby-Henry Dairy Herd Improvement Association. The 510 cows owned in this association, 80 of which were dry, averaged 475 pounds of milk containing 25.7 pounds of butterfat last month. Second place went to the Kentucky-Indiana association, cows in this association having an average production of 24 pounds a fat.

The College of Agriculture announces the resignation of Joe Nagotte, field agent in dairying, to accept a similar position in Pennsylvania.

The College's monthly review of dairy progress in the State calls attention to the annual Farm and Home Convention to be held at Lexington Jan. 28-31. Dairymen especially are urged to attend on Wednesday, Jan. 29, when subjects pertaining to dairying and to dairy cattle feed crops will be discussed. Among the speakers on that will be Dr. J. C. McDowell, of the bureau of dairy industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

OAKLAND EIGHT 'LEVELS' HILLS OF PITTSBURGH Climbs With Ease Negley and Tokio Grades

The new Oakland Eight, distinguished for its hill climbing ability, recently added new deeds to its ascension records by leveling out Pittsburgh's toughest grades.

Stopping at the foot of Tokio Hill, a grade approximately 16 per cent, the driver challenged his four passengers:

"Here's $20 she will go up in high gear without a murmur of protest." No one took the bet, for they already had observed the car's superior performance on level streets.

With a roar the motor that should have produced plenty of vibration, but didn't, the Oakland Eight lunged ed at the hill. A standing start in low, a short run in second, then into high. All the way up the car gained speed, and after the top the driver had to blow down the top at better than 30 miles an hour.

South Negley Hill was the next victim. Like Tokio, it is a well known grade. But the car, with its powerful 85-horse-power engine, purred up that tortuous climb in high gear without a murmur. South Negley might as well have been a speedway. Tokio only a prairie, and Federal street extension and Murray avenue, the next two ascents to be conquered, nothing more than level super-highways.

The new Oakland's prowess on hills was first tested and proved at the General Motors Proving Ground. It climbed the 11 per cent grade there in 43 seconds, starting at 10 miles an hour and attaining 32 miles an hour at the top.

Term of Derision

A nincompoop is a foolish or silly person; a boob. The origin of the word is uncertain. Some think it is a corruption of Latin legal phrase "non compeo," which is a shortened form or "non compeo mentis," meaning not possessed of one's mind.

"Liripoo" is also applied to a silly person.

Spinning-Wheel Idea Old
The spinning wheel, developed from the primitive article, became known in Europe about the middle of the sixteenth century, but it appears to have been in use for cotton spinning in the East from time immemorial. At later times, which cannot be exactly fixed, various improvements were made.

Episode of War of 1812
Gen. William Hull, in command of United States troops, invaded Canada at Sandwich, near Detroit, Mich., on July 12, 1812. He attacked Fort Malden in Canada, but was turned back. The invasion was a failure.

Local Happenings

J. M. Botts tells us that he was the mail carrier mentioned in the Petersburg Items of 50 years ago in our last issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Snow entertained the young (?) folks with an old time dance at their home on the East Bend road last Saturday evening. W. A. Pettit was the leader of the string band, which is said to have caused even some of the older ones to find the legendary fountain of youth.

Don't forget W. T. McMullen's sale next Saturday afternoon near McVine, on Bellevue and Waterloo pike.

Mrs. Eugene Randall and little son returned to Louisville, Ky., last Saturday after a visit of several weeks with Walter Arnold and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Easton were guests of C. T. Easton and family last Friday evening.

Walter Craddock and family were week-end guests of W. W. Craddock and wife.

Rev. Peter Walker and wife, pastor of the local M. E. church, left Tuesday for Florida to visit their son.

Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., was on the sick list last week.

Miss Fernella Corbin has been ill for the past few weeks.

Read W. T. McMullen's sale ad in another column of this issue.

Mrs. James Rice of this place was rushed to a Cincinnati hospital late Sunday afternoon suffering from an attack of appendicitis. Her condition was such that an operation could not be performed until Monday. As we go to press it is reported that her condition is considered critical.

Since our issue of last week it has been learned that Mrs. Leon Aylor has been called back to the bedside of Mrs. Mary Aylor, who sustained severe injuries from a fall down the stairs in her home. The injuries consisted of torn ligaments in her limb.

The Recorder and hundreds of other Boone county friends were gravely concerned over the sudden death of Dr. N. F. Penn, Covington optician, which occurred last week. Dr. Penn has been a subscriber to the advertising columns of this newspaper for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ogden, of the Limaburg neighborhood, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Aylor and family.

Patrons of the Consolidated Telephone Company will regret to learn that Miss Mamie Hawes, veteran operator at the local exchange, has been suffering from an injury to her arm sustained in a fall. Her place at the switch board has been filled by Mrs. Geo. A. Porter.

The sale of W. T. McMullen will be held next Saturday afternoon one mile from McVine.

Garnett W. Tolin, who spends his winters in Covington, was calling on his father, Senator S. W. Tolin, Friday evening.

Quite a number of young folks from here journeyed to Corinth last Saturday night to witness the basketball game played by Walton and Corinth.

RUBY MAE ROGERS

The Burlington community was deeply grieved early Tuesday to learn of the sudden death of Ruby Mae Rogers, aged ten years. The little child, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ott Rogers, of the Petersburg pike, had been ill but five days. She was stricken with an attack of the flu, which early developed into pneumonia, death occurring at 2 a. m., Tuesday, January 15th.

The bereaved family has the profound sympathy of this and surrounding communities in the unexpected loss of their child.

UNION

Mrs. Susie Riley-Smith was born in Union Feb. 3, 1862, died Jan. 7, 1930. She was married to Spencer Smith in 1883. To this union three sons were born: Robert and Wallace who preceded her to the grave years ago, and Harry, who survives her.

She united with Hopeful Lutheran church in her early married life and lived a faithful member to the end. She is survived by her husband and son, one sister, Mrs. Jennie Fell and one brother A. D. Riley, both of Alexandria, Ind., besides a number of other relatives and a host of friends who will sadly miss her. Funeral services were held at the Union Baptist church after which the remains were laid to rest in the Rice cemetery by the side of those of her sons. Deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved husband and son, also to all other surviving relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith entertained Sunday in honor of Mr. J. L. Frazier, it being his birthday. Here's wishing him many more happy ones.

Mrs. Geo. Rouse is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. E. Schour.

A. M. Holtzworth and family are again residents of Union.

COMMISSARY

The friends of Mrs. Orville Rice are glad to know that she has recovered from her recent illness.

Mrs. Geo. Rouse is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. E. Schour.

A. M. Holtzworth and family are again residents of Union.

Mrs. Will Smith and children, of Warsaw, have returned to their home after a pleasant visit with her mother, Mrs. Leo Walton and son.

Mrs. J. B. Walton spent last week end at Walton with her mother Mrs. Lulu J. Hudson.

Miss Pearl Botts called on Mrs. Frank Voshell last Friday.

The December meeting of the Boone County Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. Missouri Rice. Owing to the inclement weather we were sorry so many were unable to attend. Those present spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

Appropriate to the season the program consisted of articles by the various members honoring the birth of the Christ-child and the Spirit of Christmas. Seasonal music, sacred to the hearts of all, was rendered by several members in an inspiring manner.

After the program the hostess added to the Yuletide cheer by serving Christmas dainties. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Edgar Perksch January 16th. All members are cordially urged to be present.

W. M. A. NEWS NOTES

Activities of the Deputies in securing applications for memberships to the several camps within the county continues. Several new names have been added to the rosters of Burlington and Petersburg camps.

The standing of the ring contestants to-date are as follows: Chas. Pepper 2050 points; Wilton Stephens 4025 points; and John Burns 5000 points. Other contestants are pulling hard to get into the fight, and the black horse may come to the roop.

DELEGATES TO ATTEND HOMEMAKERS' MEETING

Women's Organizations to be Represented at Annual Farm and Home Convention

Homemakers' associations will send 250 to 275 delegates to the annual Farm and Home Convention at Lexington Jan. 28-31. Plans have been made in the 26 counties having associations to be officially represented by two to 20 women each during the entire four days of the convention.

Miss Myrtle Weldon, in charge of home demonstration work in the state, has invited all women to attend the meetings. An attractive program of speaking, music and demonstrations has been arranged. Rural recreation and dramatics, and household management will comprise the central themes.

Among the speakers will be Prof. W. R. Gordon, of Pennsylvania, recreational specialist; Miss Ruth Lindquist, of the University of Cincinnati; Miss Mary Barber, Battle Creek, Michigan; Mrs. M. E. Cravens and Mrs. R. E. Tipton, Kentucky master homemakers, and Miss Lucile Reynolds, St. Paul, Minn.

There will be demonstrations in baking, canning and other household arts, a style show, special entertainment and other features for the homemakers.

Miss Reynolds will confer the honor of master homemaker on five Kentucky farm women. This will be the third year that the profession of homemaking has been officially recognized and honored in Kentucky, through the cooperation of The Farmer's Wife, national women's magazine.

COMMUNITY PROGRAM MEETINGS PLANNED BY COUNTY AGT

The county agent reports that community agricultural improvement programs of work will be organized in every community of Boone county lending itself to this work during the months of January and February.

In planning the program of work the agent will meet with leading farmers and business men in the various communities and go over work planned in 1929 and work accomplished last year, completed and unnecessary projects will be eliminated and a complete program of work to be carried on in each community during 1930 planned.

The community program of work plan is one in which all the county agent's work to be carried on in the various communities is planned at a meeting held early in the year and is one that has been highly successful in Boone county. Last year 15 community programs of work were planned with a total of 157 adults co-operating. Numerous new crops were introduced, field meetings and tours held, demonstrations started and improved practices adopted by Boone county farmers the past year as the result of work planned on the above basis.

The meeting dates and places of the various community program meetings will be published from time to time. All farmers, business men and others interested in the agricultural improvement work in their community are invited to attend and take part in the work planned for 1930.

At a recent meeting of the board of trustees of the University of Kentucky, the names of 8 students candidates for degrees at the close of the 1929 summer season, were voted on and passed by members of the board. Those students granted degrees at that time had successfully completed their courses during the summer session and are eligible to graduation. It was also announced at the meeting of the board that there will hereafter be three commencements each year instead of one, one to be held at mid-semester and one in mid-summer.

Among those receiving degrees from Boone County are the following: Adolph Monroe Edwards, Walton; Bachelor of Laws; Denzil Bruce Carpenter, Burlington; Master of Arts; Mary Lucile West, Walton; Master of Arts.

BANK STATEMENTS READY

Just before we go to press the last of the statements of the financial condition of Boone county's banks has reached us. These statements reveal the condition of these institutions at the close of business on December 31st, but necessarily will be delayed until our next issue.

FARM SOLD

J. W. Aylor, of near Big Bone Church, traded his farm last week to a Mr. Nead, of Erlanger, for property in that city. His farm consisted of approximately 188 acres, the deal being handled by Woodward & Delehanty, of Florence.

The M. W. A. will give an entertainment at Bellevue Friday night, Jan. 17th.

TO GIVE POULTRY TALKS OVER RADIO

The College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky has announced a series of radio talks on poultry raising, beginning January 15. They will deal in main with the problems of the hatching season, on the theory that the profits of the entire year hinge on success in hatching, brooding and raising the young pullets.

The talks will be given from the University of Kentucky extension studio of station WHAS. Each talk will be at 12:45, central standard time. The schedule follows:

Jan. 15—The Production and Care of Hatching Eggs, C. O. Warren.

Jan. 22—The Feeding and Care of the Breeding Pen, J. E. Humphrey.

Jan. 29—Count Your Chickens before They are Hatched, J. Holmes Martin.

Feb. 10—Necessary Equipment for Breeding Chicks, C. E. Harris.

Feb. 12—How, What and When to Feed Chicks, W. M. Insko, Jr.

Feb. 17—How to Raise a Large Percentage of the Chicks Hatched, Stanley Caton.

March 10—Sanitation in Chick Raising, J. E. Humphrey.

The Fayette County Certified Seed Potato Growers' Association produced 6,000 bushels of certified seed last year.

Simpson county farmers report a good demand for Korean lespedeza seed. Many plan to sow small acreages for home seed production.

POINT PLEASANT

For the past few years during the months of January, February and March we have had no services at our church on account of the bad weather and bad roads. This year we have turned over a new leaf and will have services the third Lord's day in each month—trusting in the good Lord for better weather and our county officials for better roads.

So do not forget that next Sunday Jan. 19th, is the third Lord's day.

Sunday School at 10 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m., and 2:30 p. m. Central Standard time. Lunch at noon.

Would be glad to have all members present as we have a real nice surprise for you. Everyone is cordially invited to meet with us and enjoy these services.

BEES MAY BE HUNGRY

Bees may require feeding on account of their activity during the several weeks of mild weather in December, points out Prof. W. A. Price, head of the department of entomology and botany of the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

Beekeepers noted a large amount of flying during the warm period. This increased activity means that more stores have been consumed, and as a result some colonies which appeared to have sufficient food in the fall may now be running short. It is likely, also, that many colonies went into the winter short of stores.

Considering these facts, it is only reasonable to conclude that many colonies now are in the bread line. The wise beekeeper will minister to their wants with a little syrup and thus tide them over the critical period of their existence, and later reap a harvest of honey. Attention to this matter is important. It means on the one hand a strong colony with surplus honey later in the season, and on the other hand a dead colony, in many cases.

Honey that is free from foulbrood is good to feed during this period. If such honey is not easily procured, then give sugar syrup, using two parts of sugar to one part of water. If possible, this should be placed just above the winter cluster.

Feeding bees is one of the interesting subjects that will be discussed at the beekeepers' short course to be held during the annual Farm and Home Convention at Lexington January 28-31.

Modern Curative Process

In the old days when meat, bacon, pork, or ham was preserved or cured it was done by the method of covering it with salt. But the modern curer has found that salt extracts water and so it has been discarded. When commodities are cured nowadays the chemical process keeps in all the water.

STARCH FOODS

Winter is the season of good appetites and their appeasing without regard to consequences; a man recently had me estimate his blood-pressure, who weighed 275 pounds; said he "just could not get rid of any flesh." His health was, in fact, superb—I never saw finer; but he was fearfully overloaded with ballast, and he was the chap that had been shovelling it in.

Starchy foods lead in variety. The great staples, wheat, corn, potatoes and beans are principally starch. In fact, starch is one of the most important foods, but, like anything else that is good, it can be fearfully overdone. I advise my patrons to cut down starchy foods in their diet.

One starch, not four or five, is a rule that I try to enforce.

Potatoes may be prepared in a dozen tempting ways—and wheat flour—there is no limit to the culinary inventor's art and skill. The result is, five times as much starch is taken into the body as is actually needed; the result, it is stored away in an increase of "flesh" that sometimes becomes alarming.

I had a lady patient of mine who was overweight, leave off all starches for four days—told her I didn't care what she ate, just so it wasn't starchy food. With a reluctance that was almost horror, she ate meat exclusively during that period. She lost the "heavy, loggy, tired feeling," that we meet so frequently and which is not a disease at all—just an overloaded vehicle with starch bulging the sideboards!

The non-meat-eating fad has done its share to provide excess of starches, equally distressing. I'd as soon take my pork without the beans, as my beans without the pork, if I were experimenting; either way spells disaster. I prefer to eat wisely if not scientifically—and take a little of both; just what my internal economy demands, and no more. That seems to me the horse sense of the matter.

THE GARDEN

Start Gardening Now
(By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture)

To discuss gardens now, with almost two months of winter ahead, may appear as being somewhat previous, but since there are preparations that must be made in order that the actual gardening may go forward with dispatch when the time comes to start it, these preparations may as well be made now.

A very important item is ground preparation. Those gardeners who were fortunate enough, or foresighted enough, to have had their gardens broken last fall have gone a long way toward assuring themselves of success this season. Unless the soil is inclined to run together, such a garden needs no preparation beyond a thorough disking, following by a drag to make the seed bed level and fine.

A coat of stable manure spread at any time, on the rough land, and mixed with the soil during the disking, is always a good investment.

Those gardens that were sown to a winter cover of rye or rye and vetch or crimson clover, will need to be rebroken. Breaking should be done as late in the spring as to take all possible advantage of the growth of the cover crop, but early enough to give the turned-over growth opportunity to break down. Stable manure may be spread at any time during the winter.

Those gardens that are still in the condition the frost found them, a wilderness of crab grass and other weeds, vegetable stalks and vines, bean poles and tomato stakes, and perhaps even the "brush" on which the early peas were trained, need special mention, for they present a special problem.

Such gardens are unsightly, and the weed growth is likely to impede the work when gardening operations are begun.

It is the far-too-common practice to clean up and burn up this "trash" just before breaking. This is wrong, for weed growth furnishes humus, such as it is, and gardens almost always lack humus. Of course, many gardeners are in position to make up the humus deficiency through yearly manurings, but many are not. These latters, particularly, will do well to conserve whatever growth there is, even of weeds, to keep their soils easily workable.

Plowing under any growth just previously to seeding is poor practice, especially in a season of drought. This is particularly true of dry weed growth. The earlier it is turned under, the better; the best time was last fall. Next best, is to break such a garden just as soon as breaking can be done. Even though the ground is scarcely dry enough to make a good job of it, no harm to the soil will result, if freezing weather follows.

There will surely be "breaking weather" in what remains of January, and during February, and a gardener whose garden boasts nothing but last year's garden "trash" should grasp his earliest opportunity to have it broken.

THE STATE SPELLING BEE

Donald McSwain, Director

Ethel Webb, 9 years old, spelled her way to victory in The Courier-Journal's Edmonson County Spelling Bee over 3,600 pupils of the graded schools of that county. Ethel was in the fifth grade last year, and finished fourth in the county match. This year, as a sixth grader, she won the county championship after Sybil James misspelled the word "sponge."

Ethel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb, Sweden, Ky. She will represent her county in The Courier-Journal State Spelling Bee to be held in Louisville April 16.

The first champion selected this year is Miss Willis Avery, Upton, who triumphed in the Hardin finals held at Elizabethtown. Willis will compete for a trip to Washington and $500 in cash prizes offered by The Courier-Journal in the State finals. The State Bee this year, as in former years, will be the opening feature of the annual convention of the Kentucky Education Association.

BEEF SIRE ADDS TO VEAL CALF VALUE

Farmers who are not interested in building up a dairy herd, but who sell calves as veal, are overlooking an important item in veal calf production if they fail to breed their cows to good beef bulls, according to W. J. Harris, of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

Veal calves sired by good bulls will return more than twice as much as calves out of similar cows that are sired by scrub or dairy bulls. Last year two calves were sold from the Experiment Station herd that illustrate the importance of good breeding. Both were from good sires and the same age. One had been sired by a purebred Aberdeen-Angus bull and the other by a grade or scrub. The one by the Angus bull sold for $31.50 and the other one for $14.75. It would be conservative, according to Mr. Harris, to say that a good beef bull will add $10 to the sale value of each veal calf he sires.

If dairymen or farmers are trying to breed up a herd of dairy cattle they must use high-class dairy bulls, and of course cannot expect to make much money from the sale of calves. However, if they are interested only in milking cows and mean money in their pockets if they breed to a beef bull. The farmer or dairymen should decide which system he will follow and then breed accordingly.

Calves with dairy blood in them make good veal if given plenty of milk, but under no condition will they make good feeding steers, Mr. Harris said.

BLUE GRASS HERDS MAKE HIGH RETURN OVER FEED COSTS

The 686 cows comprising the 23 herds in the Blue Grass Dairy Herd Improvement Association produced products valued at an average of $121 per cow recently ended, according to Andrew Kostrer, tester, in his report to the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. The average milk production per cow was 6,168 pounds and of butterfat 267 pounds. The average value of products per cow was $197, and of feed consumed $73. The total value of the products of the association was $100,717.

The average feed cost per pound of butterfat was 27 cents, and per 100 pounds of milk $1.18. For every dollar spent for feed, members of the association received $2.66, on the average.

The leading herd was owned by W. S. Jones in Fayette county. His 31 cows averaged 7,392 pounds of milk and 328 pounds of butterfat, and returned an average per cow above feed cost of $161.

The best producing cow was a grade Guernsey owned by W. M. McCullough, her production for the year being 13,833 pounds of milk containing 641 pounds of butterfat. There were 218 cows in the association that produced between 150 and 250 pounds of butterfat; 158 that produced between 250 and 350 pounds, and 47 that produced more than 350 pounds.

A GOOD way to avoid the rings often leaves on woodwork or other painted surfaces, is to cover the head of the hammer with a piece of soft, thick cloth.

A salad dressing that is especially good on cabbage or fresh salad greens, can be made in almost no time at all by blending powdered sugar in sour cream, with vinegar added to taste.

To separate two glasses that have stuck together, put cold water in the inner one, and hold the outer one in warm water.

ONLY THE BEST

In this day and age, people insist on the best of everything. Old, inefficient ways of doing things must give way before the march of Progress, and the business which cannot keep pace must drop out of line.

Our line of service is no exception to the Rule. There are constant changes in technical methods, constant improvement in equipment and merchandise. The funeral director must keep on the alert.

We believe only the best is good enough for those we serve. That is why we are constantly improving our methods, and service.

SOME WAYS TO GET MORE WINTER EGGS

The College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky offers the following suggestions to poultry raisers who wish to secure maximum production during the time of high egg prices.

Sell small, poorly developed pullets. These pullets will not lay until late winter or early spring. They take up house room and eat feed that should go to the good layers.

Keep a good mash before the hens in a hopper. This may be home-mixed or a commercial mash. A good home mash is made up of 200 lbs. of ground yellow corn and 100 lbs. each of bran, shorts and meat scrap or tankage. Try to avoid changing from one mash to another, and do so gradually, if it must be done.

Keep the birds in good flesh by feeding a liberal supply of grain. For each 100 hens feed 12 to 15 pounds of grain daily. Whole yellow corn is sufficient as a grain feed. The heavy grain feeding should be in the evening.

Winter production will be greater if a warm wet mash is given once each day. Mix a few pounds of the mash being fed with warm water or milk to a crumbly consistency and feed about noon.

Water must be kept before the hens at all times, if high production is to be maintained. This requires watering several times each day during extremely cold weather.

High production cannot be expected from lousy hens. Lice may be killed by applying blackleaf 40 to the roost poles on a mild day. This should be done just before the birds go to roost.

Winter production will be greater where lights are used. If electricity is available it will pay to use lights in the poultry house. Lights should be turned on about 4 o'clock in the morning.

There's More Work for Electricity to do in Kentucky

KENTUCKY'S economic progress is marked by a steadily increasing use of electric energy for the operation of labor-saving equipment in the factory, on the farm and in the home; and for the illumination of streets and buildings of every kind.

Thus, during the twelve months ending December 31st, the number of communities which we supply with electric service increased from 212 to 283; the number of rural customers from 2,670 to 3,539; the number of commercial power customers from 2,702 to 3,148, including 219 coal mines; the number of residential customers from about 50,000 to about 58,000.

This constant growth of our service requires a steady expansion of equipment and lines for producing and distributing electricity. To meet public needs we have to plan and build from one to five years ahead of actual demand.

A year ago we had some 1,600 miles of transmission lines. Today we have about 1,920 miles, covering most of the important sections of the state.

During 1930 we will spend close to $3,000,000 for construction and maintenance; for providing the advantages of electric service to additional factories, farms, homes, stores, offices, etc.

More than 1,200 men and women compose the Kentucky Utilities Company organization. They trust the public views our power stations and transmission lines as symbols of satisfactory service, square dealing and steady progress, because they constantly strive to merit such recognition.

Kentucky Utilities Company

L. B. HERRINGTON, President

PUBLIC UTILITIES
PROGRESS PROMISED

(By L. B. Herrington)

President of Kentucky Utilities Company

As the new year gets under way, the Kentucky Utilities Company organization looks backward with satisfaction and forward with confidence.

The company has grown and prospered in the twelve months just ended. This has been due mostly to the men and women of the organization who have done their best to provide essential utility services—electricity, gas, water and ice—for nearly 100,000 customers, in a way to win and hold public esteem.

We expect this growth to continue in 1930. The organization will keep up its standard of service and constantly strive to expand and better it. Indeed, the public needs and good-will demand such a program.

Civilization is successful only in the degree that the people of the world strive for the greatest good to the greatest number. Just so, the efforts of our organization to meet adequately the requirements of a wide-flung population depend considerably on a fair and friendly attitude by the public served. This we ask.

As its contribution to the prosperity of Kentucky, in 1930 our company will spend $2,879,347 for construction and maintenance during the coming twelve months. The figure includes scheduled activities of Old Dominion Power Company, a subsidiary, and Kentucky Power and Light Company, which is under Kentucky Utilities Company management.

The anticipated expenditure will furnish employment to several hundred men who otherwise might be out of work. It will take care of normal growth.

The itemized budget is: Kentucky Utilities Company, for new projects, $2,186,037; for maintenance, $350,000. Old Dominion Power Company, for new projects, $327,755; for maintenance, $20,000. Kentucky Power and Light Company, for new projects, $267,100; for maintenance, $33,460.

The confidence felt by public utility executives in the immediate industrial future of America contemplate spending almost $2,000,000,000 during 1930 for new construction and expansion of facilities, and for improvement to existing properties. This will exceed the 1929 budget by more than $100,000,000.

This gigantic expenditure will not only be sufficient to keep utility employment at a high level, but will provide enormous orders to be filled by many thousands of employes in related industries.

The public utilities are probably the best existing barometer of American progress and prosperity. Their plans for the coming year will make it the greatest period of progress in their history.

Elliott county 4-H club members made outstanding demonstrations of the value of improved agricultural methods in 1929. A girl grew 40 bushels of potatoes on a tenth of an acre, a boy grew 110 bushels of corn on an acre, and another boy grew 3½ tons of soy bean hay on an acre.

Luther Hall, a Shelby county farmer, received $152 more for tobacco grown on an acre treated with 500 pounds of fertilizer costing $10, than from an acre of similar land unfertilized.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Gibbs and mother.
Mr. Harry Carter is the pleasant guest of Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Carter.
Mrs. Bernard Berkshire spent Wednesday night and Thursday with W. T. Berkshire.
The citizens of this community are incensed over the many thefts that have been made lately, and some will be shot if they are caught some hen houses, etc.

We wish this young couple a long life. News of the death of J. L. Kite, Burlington. We have known Mr. Kite personally for a number of years, and admired his fine character. His good wife has the sympathy of this community.
The many friends of Walton R. Berkshire, second son of Mr. W. T. Berkshire, were greatly surprised to learn of his marriage to Miss Hazel Hipe, of Asheville, N. C., Dec. 29. Mr. Berkshire and his bride are expected here soon for a visit with Mr. W. T. Berkshire and his sister, Mrs. E. Weindel Keim and Mr. Keim. We wish these young people a long and prosperous life.

PRODUCT OF

THE NEW OAKLAND

GENERAL MOTORS'
Lowest-priced Eight—

$1045 AND UP

Three years of actual designing and testing preceded the announcement of the New Oakland Eight. In addition it incorporates General Motors' sixteen years' experience in building fine eight-cylinder automobiles. This mature background accounts for its sound basic design.

Superior Performance

The New Oakland has an 85-horsepower engine. This is the highest power ever employed in a car of Oakland's size and weight, racing cars excepted. Oakland develops one horsepower to 37 pounds of car weight. That's why few cars are as fast. That's why few, if any, can pass it on the hills. That's why it accelerates so rapidly. In fact, that is the reason for its superior performance.

Eight-Cylinder Performance

With its high speed and fast acceleration, the new Oakland combines the smoothness resulting from the overlapping power impulses inherent in eight-cylinder design. This smoothness is intensified by such features as its complete down-draft fuel distribution, its patented laminated spring and rubber engine mountings and a new type of cylinder head which assures uniform combustion.

Only a close inspection and a demonstration will enable you to understand fully the many advantages provided by the New Oakland Eight.

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Layaway Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

NEW SERIES PONTIAC BIG 6

A FAMOUS NAME—
A Finer Car—

$745 AND UP

Once again Pontiac has improved upon a car already noted for its excellent qualities. To the hundreds of thousands who own Pontiacs, and to everyone interested in low-priced automobiles, this announcement is important. For it introduces the New Series Pontiac Big Six—a new and finer car with a famous name.

New Beauty, Smoothness, Safety

Smart new bodies by Fisher make the New Series Big Six a more beautiful Pontiac. Pontiac's smoothness is increased by a new type of rubber supports for its 60-horsepower engine.

Improved non-squeak four-wheel brakes and a new sloping non-glare windshield add to the car's safety.

Time-Tried Performance

When these and other improvements were being made, all of Pontiac's basic big car excellence was retained.

Come in. Let us show you the many advantages of this finer car with a famous name—the New Series Pontiac Big Six.

The New Series Pontiac Big Six, $745 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Shock absorbers standard equipment. Bumpers and spring covers at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values. . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

TERSE AND TIMELY

The fellow who sent to a certain daily paper the score of the Erlanger Burlington boys high school basketball game last Tuesday night must have come in late and left early. Anyway, he left out the scores of the high school girls and independent boys, both of which were won by the locals.

Local dairymen who worry over the fluctuation of the price of milk should breed cows like the famed "freak cow," which has an udder on her back. Then milk would be sure to go up.

Mr. Hoover's theory of "work" as the best antidote for "hard times" is good, and about the soundest doctrine he has advanced, but, like some other sound doctrines such as the law of Moses, it's not likely to prove very popular with a lot of folks.

While Governor Sampson has attracted a lot of satirical comment by creating so many "colonels," the members of the present legislature will undoubtedly make "nuts" of themselves if they pass the bill permitting one senatorial district to name the Highway Commission.

Our good friend, Senator Brent Spence, may not have knocked the "persimmon" in his past campaigns for Congress, but he may yet pick the "grapes," if a lot of others talk like Oliver Apple did in Sunday's Kentucky Post.

The antique individual who took up golf for the first time at 104 is ample proof of the truth of the proverb, "that an old fool is the wisest fool."

Ripley, the cartoonist, says that there are 2,154,069,888,000 different ways of counting up to 2,056. Now, if Mr. Ripley will just be so kind as to tell us who counted them to see, we'll be much obliged.

We wonder why Gov. Breathitt assigned the bill to the Fish and Game Commission, which sought to prevent the Kentucky foot ball team from playing games outside the state. It was "fishy" enough, indeed, but by not a "moot" question.

Although these times may cause "tough sledding" for some of us it's not that way with Calvin Cress, local blacksmith, as he has made and sold more than a score of farm sleds in this vicinity this winter.

WOMEN'S CLUB

The Boone County Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. Ed. Berkshire for their January meeting.

The roll-call was answered with original articles and resolutions pertaining to the New Year. The outstanding feature of the program was the well given debate between the two members. Each one had a convincing argument which entertained the other members and held them in suspense until the decision of the judges was read. A sketch of "Child Harold" by Lord Byron, given by another member proved instructive.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served tasty refreshments and a pleasant social time was enjoyed by all. The February session will be at the home of Mrs. Lulu Huey.

P. T. A. MEETING

A meeting of the Burlington Parent-Teacher Association will be held at the court house next Monday evening at 7 o'clock for the purpose of celebrating the thirty third anniversary of the birth of the national organization.

Program is as follows:—

Prayer—Everett Hickman
Talk—Founding of the National Congress of Parent-Teachers by Prof. D. H. Norris.
The Birthday Cake presented by 11 girls.
The Gift—By Prof. Lamb.
Small offering will be taken at this time.
Reading—From Mothers to Teachers.

Refreshments served.

PLATTSBURG FARMER IS PROUD POSSESSOR OF BEAUTIFUL CUP

Leslie Sebree, of Plattsburg neighborhood, who recently was crowned the champion ton litter producer of the state, stopped in Burlington one afternoon last week on his way home from Cincinnati. He was proudly exhibiting the handsome silver loving cup that had been awarded him by the Early & Daniel Company and which he had just received that day. No doubt this is the first state honor that ever has come to the thriving city of Plattsburg and its citizens should be justly proud of Mr. Sebree. It is no mean distinction, indeed, a rare achievement, to produce a litter of pigs, farrowed and reared by one lonesome sow, which develop into more than a ton and half of ham, lard and bacon within the short space of six months. The litter weighed 3223 pounds. Mope power to "Les" and his porkers.

BASKET BALL

Both High Teams Lose

Thirteen proved an unlucky figure for the Kittens last Friday night at Piner. That was their scoring limit against this team, who rang up a total of 26, but whom they had easily beaten in their previous engagements this season.

Albion often are timely and full of solace and, consequently, they present the plea that two of their regulars were out. Mary B. Rouse was absent from the line-up due to a bad ankle, while Virginia Yelton was unable to accompany the team on account of the death of her grandfather.

To substantiate the alibi it is pointed out that the Piner score in the former game was 39 to 12 in favor of the Kittens. Mary Phillips again led in the scoring with eight points, while Lucile Rice accounted for the remaining five.

Tomcats Score Closer

Though the Tomcats also were on the losing end their score was much closer and approximately the same as on the occasion of the first game with Piner, which was played here. The Tomcats lost both games, the first 28-26 and the game Friday night (Continued on page 5)

LEGION MEETING

Boone Post No. 4 will hold their first regular meeting in Burlington on Monday night, February 3rd. Officers request the presence of all present members and urge new ones to come and affiliate with them. Regular monthly meetings will be held hereafter on the first Monday night in each month.

Templeton Gaines Graves, son of Charles C. and Maria Gaines Graves, was born in Boone County, Ky., February 25th, 1852, and died January 20th, 1930, near Thayer, Missouri at the home of his widowed sister Mrs. Artie Clore, with whom he had made his home since October 1928.

While his health had not been good for several months, due to heart trouble, he was confined to his bed only eight days preceding his death.

The greater part of his life was spent in Boone county, where he was well known and highly respected. He was a consistent and devoted member of the Sand Run Baptist church, where he has been a member since he left Kentucky in 1915.

He leaves two sisters Mrs. Artie Clore, near Thayer, Mo., and Mrs. Nettie Pugh, of Sredeborg, Mo., three brothers T. O. Graves, of Clayton, California, J. D. Graves, of McCredie, Mo., and C. M. Graves, of Kansas City, Mo. Beside these he leaves many relatives and friends who are saddened by his passing.

Knowing him well, I feel that the following lines from Tennyson would be expressive of his sentiment.

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no mourning at thy well
When I embark.

For though from out our bourne of Time and Place,
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

ENTERPRISING LAND OWNERS ARE "COMING ACROSS" WITH SUBSTANTIAL DONATIONS—MEETING TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Citizens and abutting land owners residing along the road leading from the J. J. Tanner residence on the Florence pike to Gunpowder, near the home of W. H. Rouse, are becoming enthused over their prospects for a new hard surfaced road.

For many years they have plodded thru the mud, and, indeed, some times they were scarcely able to get over the road at all, even with horse drawn vehicles. Automobiles have been out of the question for weeks at a time during the winter and spring seasons.

Some time ago a movement was started to build a road. A solicitor was started out after subscriptions. Then fortune smiled when the Covington Y. M. C. A. purchased a tract of land for a camp site near the corner end of the road. Philanthropic citizens are behind this organization. prominent among whom is former United States Senator Richard P. Ernst. Mr. Ernst came to Burlington and met with the residents of the community, who were working the road, and promised substantial help.

W. H. Rouse was guiding the paper about Burlington last Monday and announced that the subscriptions had amounted to approximately $3,000.00. The Fiscal Court will help to whatever extent the funds can be spared from the road fund, while all of the stone necessary has been procured by land owners along the road.

A meeting of those interested in the project will be held at the court house next Friday afternoon at one o'clock. Everyone is urged to attend who is in any way interested in a good road for this section.

OFFICERS NAMED

AT MEETING OF FARM BUREAU HERE MONDAY — BENJ. PADBACK, OF HEBRON, RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT

The officers and directors of the Boone County Farm Bureau for 1930 were elected at the annual meeting held in Burlington last Monday. A report of the year's business showed that progress had been made and that the Bureau was in a strong position for the coming year.

Mr. Barker, of Fayette county, spoke to the members on the principles of organization and cooperation. He pointed out to the members that farmers were cooperating, were getting together on economic, legislative and educational problems and that only thru such organization and cooperation was progress for the farmer being made.

Mr. Ben Padback of Hebron, was reelected president; O. R. Russ, of Florence, vice-president; Mark Cook, of Burlington, secretary; and the Peoples Deposit Bank and Florence Deposit Bank, treasurers. The other directors for 1930 are Bert Rouse, Burlington; E. H. Surface, Florence; director at large, Sterling Rouse, of Constance; L. L. Weaver, Union; and J. Colin Kelly of Rabbit Hash.

DIXIE PARK OPEN

The beautiful and popular dance hall at Dixie Park will be open on and after Wednesday, February 5th. Both old time and modern dancing. Charles Lunsford will be in charge.

Col. Lute Bradford, the loquacious auctioneer from Union, announces that he will soon have a lot of cattle to sell at auction. Watch for the advertising some time in February.

"RIPPER" BILLS

FEATURE ACTIVITIES OF LEGISLATORS IN BLUE GRASS CAPITAL CITY

(By William Henderson)

FRANKFORT, KY., Jan. 27.—Doubts of the wisdom of laying into certain hands the patronage power that anti-Sampson followers are attempting to snatch from the Governor has thrown leaders of one element in the Democratic party into a state of perplexity.

Ralph Gilbert, Democrat, Shelby county, who is alleged with the so-called Beckham wing of the Democratic forces first voiced such a feeling last week on the floor of the House. Representative Gilbert frankly admitted that he was disturbed regarding the proper steps to take.

The boldness with which Senator Allie W. Young, Democrat, Rowan county, has opened a fight on Gov. Flem D. Sampson in the Senate, likewise has disturbed one faction of the Democratic political leaders.

At first glance at the happenings of the first two weeks of the 1930 General Assembly it seems that things look gloomy for Gov. Sampson. But, on the other hand, there is ample foundation for a belief that there will be a blunder before the many "ripper" bills have passed thru all the channels of legislation.

Many observers here are predicting a sharp clash between the Democratic forces over the proper place to put the patronage power, if the move to take it away from the Governor ends successfully.

Both branches of the General Assembly this year settled down to real work sooner than has been the custom in past years. A resolution calling for inquiry into the Senate Textbook Commission row, which has been the subject of attention in Kentucky for more than a year, was among a flood of bills introduced in both Houses early in the session. The House adopted the resolution unanimously.

One of the surprising developments in the House came when Harry J. Meyer, Kenton county, Democrat, who supported Gov. Sampson's measures in 1928, urged the adoption of the resolution calling for the textbook probe.

Under the resolution adopted John S. Milliken, Speaker of the House would appoint a committee of five to investigate the textbook body.

The Cumberland Falls issue was pitched into the House when Representative Leonard Cook, Boone county, introduced a resolution, which was adopted by a unanimous vote, promising that a committee of ten from both branches of the Assembly invite former Senator T. Coleman Du Pont, Delaware, to place before the Assembly his offer to purchase Cumberland Falls and dedicate it as

THE ST. PAUL DRAMATIC CLUB TO PRESENT ANOTHER AMATEUR MUSICAL COMEDY

The St. Paul Dramatic Club has made arrangements with the John E. Rogers Producing Company of Fostoria, Ohio, who make a specialty of staging amateur productions, to stage their well known musical comedy "Kathleen" at the St. Paul Hall, Florence, Ky. February 13th and 14th.

This ought to be one of the big events of the year in Amateur theatricals owing to the fact that "Kathleen" is not only full of tuneful music—but contains a plot that is very consistent and holds the attention of the audience from the beginning of the opening chorus to the final curtain.

The music for "Kathleen" was written by Clayton Hotchkiss, who is now head of the Music Department of Harvard University, and who is very prominent in musical circles of the East, while the book and lyrics were written by Luther Yantis, who is well known to many theatre goers as he not only has had several years of experience on the professional stage, but has written some very funny comedies and one act plays which have been staged by United States.

Mr. Yantis is now collaborating with Oliver Morosco in many of his activities on the Western Coast.

A Dissertation on Kentucky State Highway Problems

(Contributed)

No part of the income for the State Highway Commission should be reduced or diverted for other purposes. If any part of the State Road Fund is diverted—none of the roads in Boone county could be constructed by the State Highway Commission. The work on reconstructing the road from Burlington to Bellevue and from Walton to Verona would be delayed at last two years, and possibly longer. The county officials have been assured that if none of the funds now going to the State road fund are not reduced or diverted these roads will be advertised for reconstruction just as soon as deeds for the right-of-way have been secured, and the Highway Commission knows that none of their funds will be diverted or reduced. If the tag tax is reduced, 50% of the road fund will be reduced approximately $2,225,000.00 each year, and a diversion of one fifth of the gasoline tax would reduce that fund, approximately $1,500,000.00 each year. It is also proposed to divert part of the ad valorem tax equal to $1,000,000.00 each year. These reductions would lessen the road funds approximately $4,725,000 each year, which would stop all state road work except work on Federal Aid roads.

The State Highway Engineer, H. D. Palmore, has made an estimate of the effect of this change in the state road funds for the prior year of 1929, which should be read by all and is as follows:

If bills now pending in Congress pass there will be available in Kentucky approximately $6,500,000 of Federal Aid and Flood Relief Funds for the two year period ending March 31, 1932.

The Federal Aid fund may only be spent on the Federal Aid system of 3,170 miles which touches 107 of the 120 counties. Of the thirteen counties not touched by the Federal Aid system all but three have a surfaced outlet from the county seat.

The expenditure of Federal Aid is limited to $15,000.00 per mile in addition to 50% of the cost of bridges over 20 feet in span. A large mileage of the Federal Aid system has already been graded with the use of Federal Aid funds, with the result that considerably less than $15,000 per mile from Federal Aid funds will be available for surfacing. It is, therefore, estimated that it will take approximately $9,500,000 of State's money to absorb the $6,500,000.00 of Federal Aid funds.

If the revenues now appropriated to the Road Fund are not disturbed and the additional Federal Aid revenues become available, it is estimated that the total construction budget for the two year period ending March 31, 1932 will be approximately twenty or twenty-one million dollars. This twenty-one million dollars would be spent as follows:

Construction on Federal Aid system approximately $16,000,000.00
Construction on other than Federal Aid roads $5,000,000.00

Total $21,000,000.00

If automobile license taxes were cut in half it would cause a loss of funds to construct new roads and surface old roads, approximately $4,500,000.00. If 1-5 of the gasoline tax were distributed to counties the loss to construct new roads and surface old roads approximately 3,000,000. If the ad valorem tax were diverted to other uses the loss of funds to construct new roads and surface old roads approximately 2,000,000. Making a total loss of approximately $9,500,000.

Leaving for the construction of new roads and surfacing the old roads $11,500,000.

These diversions of the Road Fund would mean that the Federal Aid funds could not be absorbed during the next two year period and would cause Kentucky to lose a portion of its Federal Aid Allotment. As the regulation governing Federal Aid appropriations requires the states to absorb those funds within three years from the date on which they become available. If Federal Aid funds are not matched within the designated time they are reallocated to other states. Even though Federal Funds may be allotted they are of no value unless they are matches in accordance with Federal regulations.

If the Road Funds are reduced more than five million dollars for the next two year period, not only would Kentucky lose a portion of its Federal Aid allotment but it could NOT construct ANY other than Federal Aid roads.

State Highway Engineer

"MAN ON HORSEBACK"

At a dangerous street corner in New York city where two street car lines cross at an angle in front of a Subway station and heavy cross-town traffic complicates an already difficult situation, stands a sign in the shape of a tombstone. It reads "Sacred to the Memory of 1,846 persons killed by automobiles in the city this year." The number is changed every day. It never grows smaller; the dead do not come back to life.

Ohio for some years marked the scene of every fatal accident on a State highway with a white cross. It is reported that the state has abandoned this practice; the crosses became too thick in some spots. This is a step in the wrong direction. Warnings like that may be disregarded and usually are by most motorists; but enough drivers will be shocked into at least temporary caution to be more careful at that particular spot.

It is not merely for the protection of drivers and their passengers that such warnings are needed. The man on foot still has first rights on the highway, and his life is as valuable as that of the man who rides. Out of all the immense toll of motor deaths in 1929, nearly a third were of pedestrians struck by automobiles.

In the old feudal days in Europe the man on horseback felt that he was superior being, and the poor people who had no horses had to agree with him or be ridden down. One of the things our fathers came to America for was to change all that. It would almost seem as if we were losing ground. There is something about driving a car which makes many persons utterly reckless of the rights of others. That these reckless ones are not always very young and are not necessarily intoxicated, only makes the situation all the worse.

A GREAT AMERICAN

Edward Bok came to this country from Holland at the age of six. He died the other day at 66. In his sixty years of life in America he set an example of Americanism which every native born citizen would do well to emulate.

No more inspiring record of a man's life has ever been written than Bok's own biography. "The Americanization of Edward Bok" ought to have a place in every school library; it should be required reading in every course in civics.

It is the fashion among the critics who sneer at everything which has made America great to belittle Bok and his work. He did more than any other man to make American homes more beautiful, American family life more attractive, to establish new and higher standards of good taste to turn the minds of Americans toward the appreciation of beauty and culture in all forms. All this as the editor of a woman's magazine. But he made a fortune and that, of course, is the unpardonable sin in the eyes of the unsuccessful and the incompetent!

Glass Banking Bill May Start Senatorial Finance Inquiry

(Washington correspondent)

Washington. — Once upon a time a hideous dragon held captive a beautiful princess. Along came a fellow named George — subsequently canonized for his valor and made Saint George — who slew the hideous dragon and rescued the beautiful princess. There was, it is recounted, the usual "lived happily ever after" sequel.

We have with us to-day quite a few dragons, not the least hideous of which — stripped of its disguises — is Speculation. We also seem to have with us a Would-be Saint George. More power to him.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, once Secretary of the Treasury, after months of study has introduced a bill to curb the use of Federal Reserve facilities in speculation and will propose before a meeting of the Senate banking committee an inquiry into the banking situation.

Senator Glass has drafted a modified resolution of inquiry for the resolution proposed last spring by Senator King, of Utah, who is not on the committee. Committee members predicted that the Glass substitute would be approved.

The Virginian hopes that the bill he has drafted will be the basis for the proposed investigation by the Senate. His measure also would restrict chain banking, allow greater income for member banks of the Federal Reserve System and permit an expansion of branch banking.

The substitute resolution covers much the same ground proposed by the Utah Senator, but it is more condensed. It will propose a study by the Senate banking committee, or by a select committee of the Senate of the banking situation generally, of the use of the Federal Reserve facilities in the speculative markets and of the situation surrounding the increasing amount of brokers' loans by member banks of the Federal Reserve.

Chairman Norbeck, of the banking committee, has called a session at which the Glass proposals will be considered. Should the committee act favorably upon the resolution of inquiry, it would have to be approved then by the Senate before the study could be undertaken.

Just what attitude will be taken by the Senate has not been disclosed. Likewise, the position of the administration has not been shown.

Congressional leaders were loath to take any step during the recent unsettled condition of the stock market which would hinder a recovery of stability. They now feel that stability has returned, and there appears to be a prevailing sentiment in the Senate banking committee for studying the situation.

Senator Glass is generally credited with the authorship with much of the Federal Reserve Act which was a leader in financial affairs in the House. He helped to administer that act as Secretary of the Treasury. Members of the Senate banking committee are inclined to heed his leadership on matters touching the act.

Pending the meeting of the committee, Senator Glass withheld the text of his resolution of inquiry and also of his banking bill. The bill is a voluminous affair and covers a wide range, including amendments to both the Federal Reserve Act and to the National Banking Act.

Definite things that business and industry have turned the corner from the temporary period of emergency that followed deflation of the speculative market were seen by President Hoover and Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce, in two important developments.

President Hoover announced at the White House that the Department of Labor had reported that for the first time since the speculative market crisis, employment had increased substantially throughout the country.

More than one hundred representative key industries in the construction, building equipment and supply fields assured Secretary Lamont in a conference here to-day that the real period of emergency had passed for them, with application of President Hoover's prescription of "work" as the only formula necessary to assure continued prosperity.

In the light of these assurances and others that have been forthcoming during the last six weeks, the administration is confident that the maintenance of prosperity and renewed progress in all lines is brighter than at any time since late October, when deflation of the stock market began. Confidence is being strengthened daily.

President Hoover's announcement that labor conditions were showing marked improvement followed the regular meeting of the Cabinet to-day, at which James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, furnished him with statistics on conditions since December 15, when the Department of Labor completed its first official compilation of nationwide statistics.

True to our vow that we never will have anything to say on the subject of prohibition, we beg to announce that Secretary Mellon appeared before the House committee on expenditures in executive departments to voice his approval of the transfer of prohibition enforcement from his jurisdiction to that of the Department of Justice.

The Secretary of the Treasury set forth his views in a short statement: "I refused to enter into a discussion with the wets of the committee over the controversial subject of enforcement. But when the Commissioner of Prohibition, Dr. James M. Doran, followed his chief to the stand, such a clash developed over what was proper evidence for the committee to consider that adjournment had to be taken until a definite procedure could be agreed upon."

Secretary Mellon stated that the original selection of the Treasury for enforcement of the dry law was an "illogical choice," and that prohibition is "unrelated to the duties of the Treasury Department and to the purposes for which the department was created."

Sitting near the head of the committee, with Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition, seated to his right and with Commissioner Doran standing behind his chair, the secretary slowly read his statement. He hardly had completed it when the wets began their unanswered questions.

Set about a quarter-inch deep they uncover sprouting weed seed, uproot the smaller weeds and cut off the larger ones. Moreover, the surface of the soil is left level and with a pulverized "finish" to catch and hold whatever rain may fall. By means of the scraper-attachment the crust the packing rains leave may be broken up, and a seed bed prepared considerably in advance of seed sowing may be kept fresh.

The cultivator teeth have not perhaps as many uses as the scrapers, but they are quite useful enough to be included. They may be used when deeper stirring is needed, as in the instance of a seedbed that has run together, somewhat. They cannot be expected to undo damage done by wet plowing, and using them cannot complete a hurriedly done job of seedbed fitting, but within their limitations, the cultivator teeth attachment has many uses.

The wheel hoes themselves are of many kinds of construction but they fall into two classes: Those with two wheels and those with only one. With a two-wheeled type the row may be straddled and both sides of it worked. The single-wheel type struts only one side of the row at a time, but it works the "middle" as well. It is more easily steered than the double-wheel model, and this enables the operator to do a closer job. Both double-wheel and single-wheel hoes have their distinct uses, but of the two the single-wheel type is the more generally useful.

The size of the wheel varies with the manufacturer. A large wheel may get over rough ground better than a small wheel, but it is more difficult to steer. All things considered, the small-wheel or "as the gardeners know them, the "low-wheel" type, is the best to buy.

To sum up the matter, a "low-wheel" single-wheel hoe, fitted with the scraper attachment will help any gardener make a better garden. He may include a set of cultivator teeth, and know that he has an extremely well chosen outfit.

Sunday School Lesson

PUTTING GOD'S KINGDOM FIRST

Matthew 6:5-13: 19-p; 31-33

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

This is the second lesson study taken from the Sermon on the Mount. Though the few verses indicated are rich with helpful truth, the entire chapter should be considered. This is another choice portion of Scripture to commit to memory. The traditional place for the delivery of this general message is the House of Hattin, just back from the Sea of Galilee.

The prayer life of Jesus is mentioned frequently. He spent the night in solitary prayer before giving this address to the multitude and selecting His twelve apostles. Many knew Him, for it was in the very midst of His public ministry. Prayer is vital in the life of every one. This activity is noted in every race, though the function varies greatly. To avoid throwing stones at ourselves, it can be said that the Moslem prays with much ostentation when the call comes from the minaret of the temple. Prayer wheels are a device with some who believe that they are credited with a prayer every time that wheel turns around. More intelligent people may be just as ineffective when they assume to pray.

Each one who really approaches the Throne of God has a place, or places of prayer. Thither we resort that we may be alone with our Father. At times it takes longer to pray the door shut, so we are consciously together with Him, than it does to offer our thanksgiving and petitions at the Throne of Grace.

Luke gives the Lord's prayer as Jesus' reply to the request of the disciples. "Lord, teach us to pray, even as John also taught his disciples," 11:2-4. The Teacher proposed to indicate principles in prayer rather than to give the exact words of utterance. And yet this form, as recorded in Matthew, has become the most frequently offered prayer in all history. It is the joy of adults as well as of children. It does more to bind mankind together than any or form. It is used in health and when too sick to think for one's self. In it you will find elements that should enter into general prayer, such as adoration, worship, confession, petition, and thanksgiving. One great limiting condition is introduced: that we are to be forgiven in proportion as we are gracious to others.

The general theme of this sermon is about the Kingdom of God and its content. Treasures naturally enter into the reckoning. The Master Teacher seeks to do His utmost for the hearers by calling their attention to the values which are permanent and which will be current in the life that is eternal. In an early pastorate a man and woman came rather unexpectedly before the session and sought admission to the church. When I asked them what had especially influenced them they replied that it was a verse which I had used at the funeral of their baby: "Where thy treasure is there will thy heart be also."

Anxious thought can be stopped when we rest our lives in the All-Giver. Worry does not help any or bring our problem to a conclusion. As has been so often said, but always very truly, "We cannot worry and pray at the same time." The Golden Text is a resultful working principle: "Seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Matthew 6:33.

ONLY THE BEST

In this day and age, people insist on the best of everything. Old, inefficient ways of doing things must give way before the march of Progress, and the business which cannot keep pace must drop out of line.

Our line of service is no exception to the Rule. There are constant changes in technical methods, constant improvement in equipment and merchandise. The funeral director must keep on the alert.

We believe only the best is good enough for those we serve. That is why we are constantly improving our methods, and service.

Thinking The Problem Through

(Cincinnati Post)

Nothing that has come to the editor's desk is more appreciated than the comment of a reader, an ardent advocate of prohibition, who writes:

"I like the tone of your editorials on prohibition because they are a appeal to people who really are trying to think a problem thru."

Whether deserved or not, the compliment warms the cockles of our heart, because that is exactly what we are trying to do—to present arguments that are based on reason and not on prejudice, to appeal to folk who are "trying to think a problem thru."

Those who have been accused of both by die-hards in each camp, this newspaper is neither "dry" nor "wet." There are good arguments on both sides of the question, but we believe the more weighty arguments are against absolute prohibition, now enshrined in our fundamental law.

Those who guide the policy of this newspaper have no desire to wallow or force their fellow citizens to wallow in an unrestricted flood of alcoholic liquor; neither do they desire the return of the saloon with its degrading, corrupting influence.

But they have been forced to the conclusion, after 10 years of a "no-be experiment" that the natural appetites of man cannot be controlled by prohibitory legislation; that prohibition has brought with it a train of evils—universal bootlegging, widespread disregard for law, temperate drinking as a social function, racketeering, dabachery of youth and womanhood and brutal killing in enforcement—evils that outweigh the good that prohibition was expected to do.

No law can be enforced without an overwhelming public opinion behind it—a mere majority will not do. Increasing severity of punishment for violations will not do it. History furnishes plenty of proof. A couple of centuries ago in England death was the penalty for smuggling. But the great body of the English people believed in free trade in principle. They dealt with, protected and glorified the smuggler, despite frequent hangings of smugglers, smuggling was universal.

Millions of American citizens are against prohibition in principle and because of that millions flout the law, despite the incessant raids on private homes, despite the shooting down of violators, despite more and more severe penalties.

Such are the facts. Let's face them. Let's not be blinded by prejudice. If we have made a mistake and everything indicates that we have, let's undo it and start afresh. With the bog of prohibition out of the way, let us then, wet and dry alike, work for the abolition of temperance in a sane and lasting way—the conversion of men to a realization of the evils of excessive drinking and the benefits of abstinence. During 10 years of fighting over prohibition we have completely ignored the real problem.

Let's get back to it and "think the problem through."

Early Garden Suggestions

Garden tools.

(By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture)

Although simply a hoe and a rake, consistently used, will serve to make a satisfactory garden, the gardener may be so much more satisfactorily and easily done if a wheel hoe or "garden plow" is included in the gardener's equipment. Disparagement of the old-fashioned hand tools is not intended, for hoes and rakes are invaluable in close quarters. Neither is it suggested that the gardener clutter up his toolshed with a complete assortment of all the wheel hoe attachments he can find, for while some of them are vital, the usefulness of some are so limited that discrimination should be exercised in selecting them.

Cultivation has for its only object the control of weeds, as exhaustive experiment has shown; that is to say, cultivation is merely weeding. As everybody knows, the earlier weeds are removed from competition with the vegetables the easier the job is, for only a very shallow stirring of the ground is needed. In fact, experimenters have found that simply shaving off the weeds at the ground line is entirely adequate.

This brings us to choosing the correct wheel hoe attachments. There are two: The cultivator teeth and the scrapers or scuffle hoes. Of these two, the scrapers are the more useful, for they do, in effect, shave the

Hint's for the Home by Nancy Hart

Protection for Food

In most homes the kitchen cupboard or pantry shelf is filled with the food staples which are necessary for the preparation of meals. Coffee, flour, sugar, rice, spices, and so on, are among the products that need to be on hand, and that most women keep in air-tight containers.

It is just as important for food cleanliness that the containers themselves be kept in spotless condition. They get almost daily handling and soon the outsides are smudged and marked and unsightly. The particular housewife wipes them with a soapy cloth before she sets them back on the shelf. As for the insides, they should be thoroughly washed and dried at least every two weeks to insure sweetness. If measuring cups and spoons are kept in the container they should be washed and thoroughly dried after each use.

Oatmeal Muffins

One cake yeast, one-fourth cup lukewarm water, three tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons butter, one cup hot milk, one cup rolled oats, one-half cup whole wheat flour, one-half cup sifted white flour, one teaspoon salt. Boil the rolled oats and butter in milk one minute. Let stand until lukewarm. Dissolve yeast and sugar in lukewarm water and combine the two mixtures. Add flour and salt, and beat well. The batter should be thick enough to drop heavily from the spoon. Cover and let rise until light, about one hour, in a moderately warm place. Fill well-greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Let rise about forty minutes, bake twenty-five minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Orange Frosting

Grated rind one orange, three tablespoons orange juice, one teaspoon lemon juice, one egg yolk, confectioner's sugar. Mix grated orange rind with fruit, juices and let stand fifteen minutes. Strain into egg yolk, beaten until thick and lemon-colored, and add sifted confectioner's sugar until of right consistency to spread.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

(By John Joseph Gaines, D. D.)
GOOD and BAD

It is a beautiful thought that, everything in, on, or about this earth we live in, is good for us in one way or another. It is one of the most comforting facts imaginable, when we appreciate it fully.

A certain article of food or drink may be decidedly harmful under conditions—and positively beneficial under others. If a man is in good health, he does not need aconite, strychnine, or mercury; but, when the fever must be controlled, the shattered nerves restored, the body freed from infection—then we appreciate these valuable agencies at their true worth. We would not be safe without them.

Everything we see, feel and appreciate, is good for something some time, place, or for somebody. This is a thought worth keeping in mind constantly. The family doctor is a trained thinker. He of all people is besieged daily with anxious queries about human systems that have been thrown out of gear, presumably by something not good for them—when, in reality, there is no such thing!

The doctor knows that it is not the article, but the excessive indulgence of it that does the wrecking. He knows that, used to the exact point of need, nothing makes one sick. He knows, as every thinking man knows, that nothing a man may eat, drink, or smoke, can possibly do harm, if not indulged to excess; I wish you would underscore that, please. Potatoes are as capable of killing a man as coffee, and have killed as many I have no doubt, the truth were known. A very eminent specialist told me recently, that to eat three baked potatoes (the size of a goose egg) daily, would harm as certainly as the smoking of three cigars. It is the excess, and not the particular thing that makes partaking deadly.

The wisest man, in my opinion, is the one that knows precisely where to draw the line in eating, drinking, and smoking. I have not met him up to this time. When I find him, I shall congratulate a perfectly healthy man I am more afraid of excess than I am of the orthodox devil; that's no science—it's truth.

New Beauty for the New Ford

THE NEW FORD TOWN SEDAN

In the Town Sedan you see a distinguished example of the unbroken sweep of line which adds so much charm to all the new, roomy Ford bodies. Radiator, hood, roof, lower roof line, fenders, wheels—every point of design reflects the new style and beauty that have been placed within the means of every one. All of the new Ford cars are finished in a variety of colors.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

The introduction of the new Ford bodies has set a high standard of motor car value.

From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender, there is an unbroken sweep of line—a flowing grace of contour gaining added charm from the rich and attractive colors.

You will take a real pride in the smart style and fresh new beauty of the Ford just as you will find an ever-growing satisfaction in its safety, comfort, speed, acceleration, ease of control, reliability and economy. In appearance, as in mechanical construction, craftsmanship has been put into mass production. New beauty has been added to outstanding performance.

A feature of unusual interest is the use of Rustless Steel for the radiator shell, head lamps, cowl finish strip, hub caps, tail lamp and other exposed metal parts. This steel will not rust, corrode or tarnish and will retain its bright brilliance for the life of the car. Here, as in so many other important details, you see evidence of the enduring quality that has been built into the new Ford.

LEADING DAIRYMEN CONTINUE second successive year in the association.

D. H. I. ASSOCIATION WORK
Mr. Theo. Carpenter, Kenneth Stephens and A. C. Johnson of Walton R. D., O. R. Russ, Florence R. D. R. W. Terrill, E. Y. Randall and R. B. Huey, Burlington R. D. and E. G. Cox, Petersburg, have enrolled for the 1930-31 Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association work. All of the above are members of second and third year standing in the association and feel the need and have reaped profitable returns from this work. It was impossible to see all of the old association members in Boone county the past week and more than likely one or two more members will want a

the value of the product above or below feed cost on each individual cow in the herd per month and for the year and on the total herd with proven recommendations on cheaper and better rations and breeding practices. The association presents the cheapest and only practical method for the practical dairymen to secure the above information. The above information gives the only practical means of an accurate nature that the herd can systematically be made most profitable. By culling out a per cent of the less profitable and unprofitable cows the cost of producing butter fat can be reduced to the selling price of around 37c per pound and by the additional care given the remaining cows this cost can be lowered still more.

The majority of the dairy herd improvement association members are leading dairymen and breeders producing a surplus of production stock. The farmer wishing to buy cows or heifers whose dams have reliable records made under practical farmer's conditions, can buy from them with confidence.

THOUSANDS ENLIST IN 4-H CLUB WORK

21,592 Farm Boys and Girls Learn and Practice Improved Methods

The organization of 21,592 farm boys and girls into 4-H clubs to learn and to put into practice good methods of farming and home-making is cited as an outstanding work of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky last year.

This practical method of teaching farming on the farm and home-making in the farm home was conducted by county agents assisted by specialists from the college and local leaders in 93 counties. It thus was spread over the entire state and reached not only the boys and girls enrolled in the clubs but thousands of adults who witnessed the work of the juniors and the results they obtained.

The practical side of this form of agricultural education is stressed. The boys and girls learn by doing. They put into actual practice the best methods of stock raising, crop production, or work in the home. While learning they are actually establishing purebred herds and flocks or building up the soil.

The financial value of 4-H club work is not emphasized, but hundreds of boys and girls are using it to establish bank accounts which will help to pay for a college education or to better their farm and home conditions.

Nearly 2,000 boys and girls own purebred dairy cattle, valued at about $300,000. Many banks cooperated by lending juniors money with which to buy purebred stock, and so far not one has reported inability to collect on its note. Four hundred and fifty juniors last year fed 600 beef calves, worth $57,000. Seven hundred and twenty-six boys and girls raised sheep, and 1,651 club members raised pigs. All made money while learning how to breed, feed and care for good livestock. In homemaking clubs, 7,924 girls made clothing, and 1,290 canned fruits and vegetables.

That club members learn valuable lessons is evidenced by the fact that a 4-H club boy has won the grand championship at the fat stock show in Louisville every year for 8 years, and club members furnished the grand champion car-load every year but one.

In numerous instances club members have outdone their elders. Sixty-four Simpson county 4-H club boys had an average one-sucker tobacco production of 351 pounds to the acre last year, compared with 850 pounds for the county.

Nine hundred boys grew an acre or more of corn each last year. Several of them produced more than 100 bushels to the acre, the championship going to a Lee county boy.

In innumerable ways is 4-H club work influencing the agriculture of the state. It is teaching the coming generation not to waste time on scrub stock, impoverished soil and other poor methods. It is not only teaching improved methods but it is demonstrating their value by their actual application on the farm and in the farm home.

REDUCTION IN 1929 RECEIPTS OF CATTLE

Cattle receipts at Chicago during 1929 were the smallest, with the exception of 1914 and 1915, since 1887, says the department of markets and rural finance of the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

Relatively, prices were high during the entire year, and averaged only 65 cents below the average for 1928. December receipts exceeded the corresponding month of 1928 by 5 per cent. The supply of strictly choice light weight stock was so short that the demand for this class could not be met, while the large supply of half-fat cattle had a decidedly depressing effect on prices. Stocker and feeder trade for the month was exceedingly dull with practically no demand for the limited offerings.

Demand for veal during December was good, with rather a limited supply causing price advances of $1.50 to $2.00. However, a reaction in the trade following the holiday cancelled most of this gain. Quotations on good fat steers at Chicago averaged $11.39 for December and $11.73 for November; good feeders averaged $10 for December and $10.10 for November; good calves averaged $13.45 for December and $13.33 for November; good calves averaged $10 for December and $10.10 for November.

On December 14 butter prices reached the lowest level since April 1926, and the lowest December price since 1916. The increased production this year as compared with both the five year average and last year, and the lessened consumption of butter during the last few months were the chief factors in causing the sharp break in prices.

Despite these prices of butter, production is being maintained above last year and market receipts are showing increases each week. Cold storage holdings on December 1 were 60 per cent above a year ago and 43 per cent above the five year average. December butter prices at New York were 10 cents under December, 1928, prices and 3 cents under July, 1929, prices. Quotations on 92 score butter at New York averaged 41 cents for December and 42 cents for November, 1929, and 51 cents for December, 1928.

The cheese situation is similar to that of butter. Increasing production, heavy storage stocks and a decreasing consumption are tending to depress the price of cheese.

Local Happenings

Again the good citizens of Burlington are called upon to face the street light problem. Our citizens have enjoyed the benefits of their miniature "white ways" for several years and are becoming so used to it that they would dislike to do without them. However, about the first of February each year the wherewithall must be forthcoming and, since it is human nature for most folks to be bashful about such things, it becomes necessary for some one to tote a paper around. I. W. Kelly is out with this paper and when he is on the street everybody starts running, some one way and some another. The more bashful run away, while those who realize that the inevitable is at hand, run toward him and jump in the band wagon. While the wagon isn't crowded, still it is reported that very few have failed to toe the mark.

Our make-up man transposed the "heads" over the "30 years ago" and the "50 years ago" columns in our last issue, which naturally caused quite a bit of commotion and confusion as to the ages of some of the good people whose names appeared in the latter column by mistake.

Mrs. Grover Snyder returned to her home at Madison, Indiana, Saturday, after a visit with sister Mrs. Lelia Kite.

Rev. Carter addressed a fair sized gathering in the old Presbyterian church building here last Saturday evening. He will preach at the same place again Saturday evening, February 1st, at 7:30, his subject being announced as "The Union of God's People." Everyone is cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clore and small son, of Covington, were Sunday guests of L. T. Clore.

The Circle Girls of Petersburg will present "A WILD FLOWER OF THE HILLS" at Burlington High School Auditorium Wednesday night, February 4th.

Dr. G. T. Macauley, of Ludlow, and his family, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Macauley's parents Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hickman. Dr. Macauley reports that he has a fine practice in Ludlow, where he located a few months ago.

Mrs. A. B. Sullivan spent one day last week with E. S. Ryle and family.

What a whale of a difference one little letter can make.

COMPLETE FERTILIZER PAYS FOR TOBACCO

On the basis of field tests the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky recommends the use of high analysis complete fertilizers for tobacco growing.

On the Campbellville Experiment Field where tobacco has been grown in rotation with wheat and clover since 1922, the highest average yield has been from land fertilized with super-phosphate, potash and nitrate of soda. As an average of eight crops the unfertilized land produced only 525 pounds per acre, whereas the completely fertilized land alongside it has had this yield increased by 509 pounds on unlimed land and by 547 pounds on limed land.

Phosphate used singly has increased the yield by 390 pounds on unlimed land, and by 316 pounds where the land had been limed. The treatment of phosphate combined with potash has increased the yield by 394 pounds and 349 pounds on unlimed and limed land respectively. Similarly, phosphate and nitrate of soda treatment has increased the yield 447 pounds and 304 pounds, over the yield on the unfertilized land.

Deaths

ALEXANDER ALLEN YELTON

At the advanced age of an even four score, Alexander Allen Yelton, passed away at the home of his son Dr. M. A. Yelton, at 4 o'clock last Friday afternoon, January 24th. General infirmities incident to his advanced age were given as the cause of his death.

The deceased was born and reared in Bracken county, where he made his home until coming to Burlington to live with his son several years ago. Failing eyes, which finally resulted in the complete loss of his vision, caused his declining years to be more or less uncomfortable to him. His principal pleasure being derived from his love for and the association with his grandchildren.

The remains were removed to his old home at Johnsville, Bracken co., early Sunday morning, where hundreds of his friends and relatives gathered to pay their last respects to him. Services were held in the Johnsville Christian church by Rev. H. C. Runyan, who paid a beautiful tribute to his life and character. The remains were interred on the family lot in the Johnsville cemetery by the side of his wife who had preceded him to the grave several years ago.

The deceased is survived by two sons, Drs. M. A. Yelton, of Burlington, and J. E. Yelton, of Germantown, Mason county. One brother, one sister, and four grandchildren also survive. He was an active member of the Christian church throughout his life.

C. Scott Chambers, of Walton, was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. SARA A. DUNBAR

Mrs. Sara A. Dunbar, aged eighty-seven years, passed away Wednesday evening at her home in Union, Ky., after a short illness.

Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church at 1 o'clock Saturday by Rev. Carson, her pastor, in the presence of a host of relatives and friends, after which the remains were taken to Highland cemetery for interment by the side of her husband who preceded her about 20 years.

Mrs. Dunbar is survived by two sons, Harry and Will Cronnell, as well as one brother, Charles Ogden, of Georgia, and several nieces and nephews, besides many friends.

The pall-bearers were Tom Judge, Mr. Platt, Emerson Smith, Charles Davis, M. Davis and T. Davis.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. LUCY ARMSTRONG

Mrs. Lucy Armstrong, aged seventy-eight years, passed away at the home of George Wilson, Flner, Ky., on Wednesday night, January 22nd, following an illness of a few days from pneumonia. Funeral services from the Goshen Christian church, Saturday, the 26th, at 2 p. m., conducted by the pastor, Rev. Quigley.

Funeral services will be held in the Independence cemetery, C. Scott Chambers, of Walton, was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

REPORT OF RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE FOR DECEMBER 1929

During the month 114 school children were given physical inspection and out of these 25 had obtained correction of physical defects since they were last inspected, that shows a little higher than 23 per cent. of them as having followed the advice given them on their last examination. I can remember when we felt our efforts well repaid if one out of twenty actually set about the practice of the health instruction given. There was a total of 86 corrections having been effected among these 25. Happy as these facts make me, I can not help but think with even greater satisfaction of what the removal of these handicaps and causes of more serious trouble mean for the future of these boys and girls, and in turn their boys and girls, because this generation is learning and practicing Health. We know the next will be born into homes where Health will be recognized of such importance that the details which promote it will be studied, accepted and enjoyed by every member of the family.

On December 3rd the Annual report of the Red Cross Nursing Service was submitted to the Official group of the local Red Cross and Nursing Committee being present. The members of the court expressed a growing appreciation of the Red Cross services in the county, and that there may be a continuance of the work, made the appropriation necessary for the Red Cross to complete its budget plans for the coming year.

December brings the season of Love and Sympathetic understanding of people of all ages and walks of life, and again this year in Boone county the Red Cross was the medium through which $100.00 was given by one family to make possible for "Santa" to fill the stockings, and lift the spirits of those who because of adverse conditions, and misfortune would not have been visited by the magician of Christmas time. This has its value in promoting Health for the Happiness of the heart filled with gratitude, is true mental hygiene, of which the Scientists are telling us is so paramount in importance as an aid to physical well being.

Mrs. Laura Hagst Clorg's pupils in the Bellevue school as their Junior Red Cross activity for the month made candy and had that distributed to other children in the county as a Christmas token from them. This was very lovely, for it gives the children the practice of friendship with a widening influence.

BASKET BALL

At Petersburg Friday Night

Both high school teams will travel to Petersburg Friday night, where they will engage those two very fast teams. Petersburg has been stepping at a very fast clip and defeated both the Tomcats and Kiltans when they met earlier in the season.

Independents Loss

In two very interesting games on the local four last Saturday night the two local independent teams fell before two very fast teams from Petersburg. Hi boys swamped the second team 26 to 6, scoring almost at will.

The second game of the evening was one of the best and most interesting of the season. Both the Baptists and the Petersburg boys had played a game earlier in the evening, when Petersburg defeated Dry Ridge going to them 28-24. Maurer and the locals won their game in the Cincinnati church league. With the lead see-sawing back and forth Petersburg finally emerged with a two point margin, score 21-19.

The Baptists easily defeated their opponents in the church league Saturday night, 30-22. Lamb scored 19 of his teams points. This gives the locals a standing of 4 won and 8 lost. Next Saturday evening they tackle the Ninth Street Baptists, who are considered the strongest team in the league. Greenup tallied 9 and 8 points, respectively.

Mrs. Harry Acra in Rising Sun, last week.

B. C. Kirtley and family visited relatives near Bellevue Sunday.

Mrs. Lucy Ryle called on Mrs. Jesse Wilson Sunday afternoon.

Al Wilson passed away at his home in Rising Sun Sunday evening. The family have the sympathy of the entire community.

From Our Early Files

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local

Dr. J. Q. Furnish is now located in our town. We consider him quite an acquisition to our community.

J. F. Flythe won the horns at the shooting match over in Kenton county the other day. He excelled several of Covington's crack shots, killing 29 pigeons out of 31.

Mr. Frank Crisler desires to sell his farm.

It is said that fifteen large loads of tobacco passed through town last week, enroute to the city.

Plattsburg

Miss Nancy Jarrell has been quite sick for several weeks and is no better at this writing.

George Voshell has sold his tobacco for twelve and seven cents, being the highest price paid for any in this section.

A very lively debate was held in the school house last Saturday night. The question, Resolved that there is more information to be gained from books than travel, was affirmed by Dr. H. Jarrell and C. Hensley, and denied by Prof. O. Snyder and Prof. S. W. Tolin and others too numerous to mention. Decision in favor of the affirmative.

Florence

Abel Carpenter has purchased of Mrs. Francis Price 50 acres of land on the Lexington pike, opposite the Rankin farm for $30 per acre. It cost $125 per acre 11 years ago.

Charles Woodward, who went to Texas about a year ago, returned last week.

John Northcutt has rented the old Jerry Carpenter farm.

The Carpenter boys John, Eli and Everett, returned from their western tour last Friday. They visited Kansas, Texas and Missouri, buying a farm in the latter state. In Pettis county, seven miles from Sedalia. The farm contains 360 acres, is well improved, and cost $9,000.00. They expect to move about the first of March.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Local

Boone Rogers gave a rabbit roast last Saturday night. It was well attended and highly enjoyed.

C. L. Crisler was master of ceremonies. Sheriff Beall has been scarcely able to get about for ten days on account of an attack of the grip.

Attorney Stephens was the first to appear with sligh and bells this winter. He was gliding up and down the pike and around town quite merrily for a while Thursday.

Miss Jessie Glenn returned home last Wednesday from a visit to her nephew W. G. Glenn, of Walnut Hills, Ohio.

Linsburg

O. P. Tanner has the gripe. Uncle James Delph is able to be out again.

Omie Rouse is getting along nicely with the measles.

John Aylor, who has not been able to be out for several days, is improving.

Petersburg

Price Gibbs, a real live cow boy, from Kansas, is visiting his home near here.

Ed. Rice is the champion lamb raiser of the county, especially of the north end. Ed. is business from away back.

W. T. Crisler has bought J. Frank Grant's interest in the store here. It is said that Mr. Grant will be a candidate for Auditor of State.

Judge L. H. Dills is very sick at this writing. When he recovers sufficiently, he will take a trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Bellevue

Ten cents is the highest price paid for tobacco this season, in this vicinity.

Thomas Cowen and George Piper of your town have bought the stock, and rented the building for one year of the F. C. A. of this place, and will take possession on the 4th of next month.

A. F. Lerch has bought about 80,000 pounds of tobacco, and is paying good prices for good tobacco. Jos. Lillard 8,250 lbs., raised on 4 acres; B. H. Grant delivered 18,000 pounds at an average of 7 1/2 cents per lb.

The funeral of Miss Roxie Walton took place at the Baptist church today, the 27th. She died on the morning of the 26th, and although her death was expected, it caused many sad hearts in this community.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Local

Mrs. F. Riddell and daughter, Miss Hettie, left yesterday for Jacksonville, Florida, to visit Mrs. M. A. Foster, Mrs. Riddell's sister.

C. L. Crisler, who has been proprietor of the Boone House for the last 17 years, will move to Covington, where he will keep a boarding house. Mr. and Mrs. Crisler have many friends in this county who will be sorry to see them leave the county, and who wish them abundant success in their new home.

Miss Beattie Berkshire entertained the following friends with an elegant dinner Sunday: Misses Alice Cloud, of Florence; Sheba Roberts, Olga Kirkpatrick, Fannie Bruce, Kirtie Gaines, and Messrs. Hubert Walton and W. D. Cropper, of Utzinger; William Carpenter, of Sparta, Gallatin county; H. G. Blanton, of Erlanger; A. B. Rouse and Edwin Gaines.

Utzinger

T. G. Willis has the contract for furnishing 100 poles for the telephone line from here to Bullittsville, and will soon have them ready.

Misses Lula and Minnie Ryle returned home last Thursday, after a two week's visit with their cousin, Miss Stella Rice.

Miss Gloria Bodie and two brothers entertained the young folks with a dance last Monday night. All reported a pleasant time.

SAYS KENTUCKY COULD PRODUCE MORE MONEY

Bees are gathering only about a tenth of the nectar available in Kentucky, according to Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist and head of the department of entomology and botany of the Experiment Station.

Although Kentucky has many natural advantages, production is lower here than in neighboring states. Illinois, for instance, produces $4,000,000 worth of honey annually, compared with $50,000 to $60,000 to Kentucky.

Up-to-date methods of beekeeping and legislation against foul-brood and other diseases would greatly increase production, Prof. Price believes. Complaints received at the Experiment Station indicate that diseases which should be eradicated are tending to make beekeeping unprofitable.

The causes and treatment of these diseases will be the subject of talks at the meeting of beekeepers to be held Thursday, Jan. 30, during the annual Farm and Home Convention at the Experiment Station.

Prof. Price will be assisted in the program by Prof. V. G. Milum, secretary of the Illinois Beekeepers' Association and instructor in apiculture at the University of Illinois. The program will include topics touching on practically every phase of wintering, spring management and treatment of diseases.

An effort will be made to reorganize the Kentucky Beekeepers' Association, which has held no meeting for several years. Legislation in the interests of beekeeping will be discussed.

3-CENT PREMIUM FOR GOOD CREAM

The premium of 3 cents a pound which creameries are paying for quality cream in 47 western counties in the state is adding thousands of dollars a year to farmers' income, according to a survey made by J. L. Earkman, of the dairy department of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

He found that of the 2,871 7/8 pounds of cream purchased last year in the 47 counties, 1,405,671 pounds were of premium quality and brought 3 cents a pound above the regular station price. This means that farmers who produced good cream and delivered it promptly received $42,170 more than they would have received for common cream.

The Experiment Station in cooperation with purchasers of cream 7 1/2 years ago introduced the four-day grading plan, in an effort to stimulate the production of better cream, from which superior butter could be manufactured. Manufacturers agree to pay a 3-cent premium for good cream promptly delivered.

The plan was tried out in five counties, beginning in March, 1921. Eighty-two buying stations in Spencer, Bullitt, Nelson, Hardin and LaRue counties were the first to adopt the plan. By December, 1922, the plan had been adopted in all the western counties, a total of 636 stations joining in the plan to encourage and pay for the production of better cream.

The survey indicated a steady growth in the percentage of premium cream. While slightly less than half of the cream produced in the 47 counties last year was of premium quality, a check of the months of September, October and November showed that more than half of the cream delivered in those months commanded the extra price.

COMMISSARY

Friends in this community were sorry to hear of the untimely death of Mrs. William Snelling and extend to the family their sympathy.

Meadames Franklin Huey and J. B. Walton were in Covington and Cincinnati shopping one day last week.

Mrs. Lulah Walton spent Monday and Tuesday with her daughter Mrs. Orville Rice.

William Snelling's sale was well attended and things brought very good prices.

Miss Flora Arnold called on Mesdames W. M. and J. B. Walton Saturday afternoon.

Orville Rice and John Edward Walton sold their tobacco on the Covington market this week.

BOONE CIRCUIT COURT

Cornelia Yerkes, Admr. Plaintiff

Versus

Ithamer Yerke et al. Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court rendered at the December Term thereof 1929, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, at public auction on Monday, the 3rd day of February 1930, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabouts being County Court Day, upon a credit of 6 months, the following described property to-wit:

Lying and being in Petersburg Boone County, Kentucky, a certain Lot known and described as Lot Thirty-Five (35), on the official plan and plat of said Town, to which reference is hereby made as part thereof.

For the purchase price, the purchaser must execute bond, with approved security bearing legal interest from the day of sale, until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

THE COURIER-JOURNAL

STATE SPELLING BEE

Eighty-Three Counties Enter Spelling Bee

Donald McWain, Director

Late entries in The Courier-Journal State Spelling Bee are Fayette, Scott, Pendleton, Muhlenberg, Lyon and Laurel counties. School superintendents in these counties have agreed to hold bees and select champions to participate in the State Spelling Bee as representatives of their counties. These new entries bring the total number of counties entered to eighty-three.

Second and third-class cities will be allowed to send representatives to the State finals to be held in April. Cities which have accepted The Courier-Journal's invitation to send representatives of their school systems are Newport, Ashland, Mayville, Frankfort and Owensboro.

Counties not entered in the Bee are: Carlisle, Hickman, Fulton, Calloway, Taylor, Grayson, Simpson, Hart, Metcalfe, Monroe, Carroll, Gallatin, Kenton, Jessamine, Casey, Russell, Clinton, Pulaski, McCreary, Rockcastle, Jackson, Owsley, Clay, Knox, Leslie, Harlan, Letcher, Pike, Floyd, Martin, Lawrence, Elliott, Menifee, Rowan and Carter.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS

If you have not paid your 1930 dog license, do so at once, as I have been authorized to have warrants issued against all owners of dogs who have not paid their 1930 tax. Under the new law these cases will be tried by the County Judge or you will be indicted by the Grand Jury, so come to the County Clerk's Office at once and get your license, or I will have warrants issued against all owners of dogs who have not paid. This will save you trouble and expense, as the lowest fine is $14.80. Time is past due.

BEN FRECKMAN,

Agent for Kentucky.

No Doubt

There is a Manchester sexton who believes in accuracy, as witness this entry: "Died — male; aged three months, unmarried." Which leaves no possible room for doubt.—London World's Pictorial News.

Baby's no Trial to me

When the children "get on your nerves" you need KARNAK. Days that housework seems a burden, and any time when you are "out of sorts" this BOTTLED SUNSHINE puts you back in fine spirits just one spoonful of this DELICIOUS blend of fine herbs, roots, and bark—and its mild magic has you feeling like another person altogether. It's NATURE Unfailing. And utterly harmless. Learn to lean on KARNAK's gentle stimulus when you are the least sluggish. It is a perfectly natural manner to make them function as they ought. Appetite improved, food AGREES with you. Sleep in sound, and you wake up refreshed. Young and old are helped by this scientific, true tonic. At all druggists, in a BIG bottle.

BURLINGTON AND VERONA COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

Community agricultural improvement programs for 1930 were planned in Burlington and Verona communities the past week in a meeting of the leading farmers of these communities.

A community poultry tour to study housing, feeding and management problems, demonstrations in turkey raising under confinement, Korean lespedeza, fruit, swine sanitation, D. H. I. Ass'n work, tobacco, farm account records and 4-H club work were included in the Burlington program. Mr. F. H. Rouse reported past demonstration work had shown that alfalfa could be successfully grown in the community where lime was applied and that this was a paying crop. Mr. Joel Gray reported the 20 x 30 model poultry house was highly satisfactory and could be recommended to all poultrymen interested in building a new house.

The 1930 program for Verona community included fertilizer and crop rotation study of alfalfa growing, pasture improvement, soy beans, fruit, sheep, Korean lespedeza and 4-H club work. Pasture improvement, increased yield per acre of alfalfa and Korean lespedeza are to receive special attention during the year. Common lespedeza was considered worthy of being recommended for all pasture improvement mixtures.

Interesting discussions and experiences are brought out in the community meetings. Similar meetings will be held at Constance at 7:45 p. m. February 8th; Union 1:00 p. m., February 8th, and at Petersburg 6:45 p. m., February 11th. Every one interested in the above meetings is invited to attend.

NOTICE

The Boone County Board of Education will receive private bids for the Kensington School House and grounds until 10 o'clock a. m., February 10th, 1930. The right is reserved to reject all bids.

"RIPPER" BILLS

State park.

The Senate has voted down a resolution offered by Senator N. U. Bond, Madison county, that would have prohibited introduction of bills that would add road projects to the State Highway primary road system without the consent of the State Highway Engineer.

Representative Denny P. Smith, Democrat, Christian county, has thrown into the House hopper a bill which he claims is designed to economize the operation of State government. The bill seeks a new set-up of government organization and strikes at what he terms "useless" offices.

The Chief Executive, under the bill would be vested with the power of appointing the Attorney General, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, State Auditor, Supt. of Public Instruction and Commissioner of Agriculture. The bill, if passed, would become effective until 1932.

A special committee of the House and Senate to investigate activities of the State Highway Commission and the Howard Textbook adoption Law were the targets of measures coming from the hands of foes of Governor Sampson and the administration.

Representative F. Tyler, Munford, Democrat, Union county, and Senator Gates Young, Davies county, introduced the resolutions in their respective branches of the General Assembly. Audit of the books, investigation of all circumstances surrounding each road and bridge project, political activities and anything else the committee saw fit to inquire into would be within the scope of the probing body. A report on the Committee's findings is required March 1.

The first move to check political activity by appointive State Officials, members of State Board and Commissions and their employees flared up in the House when Andrew S. W. Nickols, Democrat, Nelson county, introduced a bill in the House providing penalties for political activities.

Under provisions in the bill members of boards and commission and their employees would be forbidden to engage in political activity and attempt to influence legislation at conventions, party caucuses, in the primary and general elections and around the General Assembly.

The bills introduced by those who carried out the policies of the administration two years ago have aroused those who came here expecting to engage in a heated battle with the one time Sampson backers.

The final outcome of the measures designed to strip Governor Sampson of the appointive power that he has heretofore enjoyed will be interesting to watch. Friends of Senator Young, who has introduced bills that would take the appointment of the State Highway Commission away from the Governor and hand it to Senator W. A. Yates, Democrat, Barren county, President Pro Tem of the Senate, declare that he (Senator Young) is out for revenge.

Senator Young also introduced measures in the Senate that would take from the Governor the appointment of the State Tax Commission, and place it into the hands of Miss Ella Lewis, Secretary of State, Miss Lewis is a Democrat from Leitchfield.

The third "ripper" bill introduced by Senator Young would wrest control of the State Board of Charities and Corrections from Gov. Sampson and turn it over to Clegg Coleman, State Auditor. Mr. Coleman is a Democrat from Mercer county.

Chief interest in political and governmental circles here has centered around the "ripper" bills, the resolution calling for an investigation of the State Highway Department, the measure to investigate the State Textbook Commission and the reasons for the sudden turn on the part of members of the General Assembly once open supporters of the Sampson administration.

A measure is being framed, it was learned here this week, that would place the appointive power of the State Highway Commission in the hands of the Sinking Fund Commission. The Commission is composed of Governor Sampson, Clegg Coleman, State Auditor; J. W. Cammack, Attorney General; Miss Ella Lewis, Secretary of State; and Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, State Treasurer. This bill will be sponsored by those who believe that the weight of appointive power on this large portion of the patronage plum should not be laid on one shoulder.

FARMERS KEEP COMPLETE FARM ACCOUNT RECORDS

Approximately 20 leading Boone county farmers will keep complete farm account records in cooperation with the county agent and the Farm Management department of the College of Agriculture during 1930.

Mr. Joel Gray, Robert Youell, Wilton Stephens, Stirling Rouse, Benj. Stephens, Smith Bros., and Maurer Bros., of near Burlington and P. J. Maddin, Wm. Whitson, G. C. Ransom, O. K. Powers and J. A. Harris of near Verona have enrolled in the Kentucky Farm Account service for 1930. This number of farmers are expected to be increased to 20 during the next two weeks.

The above farmers will keep complete farm accounts during 1930, take and beginning and closing inventory and with the cooperation of the county agent and the Farm and Management department of the College of Agriculture will make a complete analysis of the year's farming business. The farm account books and the farm management service will be rendered free of charge only where the farmer agrees to keep complete records as listed in the farm account project.

SHOULD CULL DAIRY COWS

From 5 to 10 per cent of the lowest producing dairy cows can be culled from the dairy herds without causing any serious shortage of dairy products, according to Mr. O. E. Reed, Chief of Bureau of Dairy Industry, of the U. S. D. A. In an address to the Nebraska State Dairy Association meeting held at Lincoln, Nebraska on January 8th.

Boone county dairymen selling cream at 37c per pound will find that this is a much needed condition for their herds. It would help lower the cost of production to some where near 37c per pound and better, and care can be given to the remaining cows in the herd to make them still more profitable.

No dairymen can cull the cows from his herd without definite information as to what each cow individually in the herd is returning. This can not be figured on the total return on the milk check. The cheapest and most efficient means that this information can be secured is thru the dairy herd improvement association.

Those dairymen who are interested in knowing more about the workings of the dairy herd improvement association plan are urged to get in touch with County Agent H. R. Forkner, Burlington, Ky., or with Mr. N. G. McConnell, rector of the Northern Kentucky Association.

INTERNATIONAL MISUNDERSTANDINGS

American motion pictures go into every corner of the world. It is increasingly difficult for picture producers to make films which will not give offense somewhere. National pride is hurt when the people of any race or country are depicted in characters which are offensive. The British public protested against "Broken Blossoms," in which English people were thrown in a derogatory light. "Street Angel" has been held by Mussolini's government to be offensive to Italians. The French think they were insulted in "Beau Geste." Russians say that "Volga Boatman" misrepresents the Russian people. There were riots in China over the "Thief of Bagdad" and "Welcome Danger" in which the villains were Chinese.

It seems to be true that the only people who can be portrayed on the screen in vicious or criminal characters are Americans, if the movies are to escape censure somewhere or other. But in that case, what of the impression of America and the Americans which they convey to the people of other countries?

Recently a film was shown in France in which a Marine in Nicaragua is made to say that he and his comrades are there to protect the interests of big business. Numerous protests against this film were made to the authorities at Washington, who replied that they were powerless to stop its presentation. Doubtless it will be shown everywhere, including Latin America, where the people now have especially tender feelings about the American.

No intelligent American believes that we have any imperialistic desires toward South America, but our neighbors down there do believe that we have, and anything, however trivial, which tends to foster that belief, is a stupid blunder, if nothing worse.

If people everywhere were governed by reason and thought logically they would understand that the screen presents fiction, not facts. But the vast majority of screen audiences, including our own, do not reason. They are governed by their emotions and beliefs, and they believe that what they see at the movies, if not literally true, is at least a true representation of the life and classes of people which it portrays. And that is, after all, the most serious charge against the motion picture. Its capacity for impairing the morals of the young is trivial compared with its capacity for implanting beliefs about life and people which are seldom more than half true and frequently totally false.

A LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

It is the fashion to lament that there are no more opportunities left for the adventurous young men. That has always been the fashion. Every generation has its quota of youngsters who believe that in the "good old days" all a man had to do to gain fame or fortune was to fare forth into the world and take his pick of the golden opportunities which were lying around loose for the first comer to utilize. But in every generation, fortunately, there is a goodly percentage of young men who realize what has always been true, that we make our own opportunities and if we have the spirit, the intelligence and the driving will to succeed there are as many opportunities now as there ever were.

The only difference between one decade and that which preceded it is that the opportunities are of a different kind, and every man must find out for himself what the new kind is. A newspaper man once asked the late Russell Sage, who died in the early part of this century at the age of 90, whether there were as many opportunities then as when he was a young man. He said there were more, and when questioned as to what they were he answered that he had found there was good money to be made in buying and selling railroads!

"But how is the young man of today going to get the opportunity to buy a railroad?" asked the reporter. "If he ain't smart enough to find 'em, he ain't smart enough to make money out of 'em," said the old man, with a grin.

The reporter went away convinced that he had been "kidded." Buy and sell railroads! What an old fogey Russell Sage was, not to realize that the railroads were all so tightly held that nobody but a multi-millionaire could deal in them. But less than twenty years later the Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland, starting without a penny, broke into the railroad business and in ten years have become the owners of a railroad system which, if the Interstate Commerce Commission approves their plan, will be the only system in America stretching from Coast to Coast. They did not bewail the lack of opportunity, but went out and found their opportunity.

The other day A. P. Giannini announced that he was retiring from business on his 60th birthday, early in May. He started work in a fruit store in San Francisco at the age of twelve. At 34 he had started the Bank of Italy in that city. At fifty he was the controlling head of the largest chain of banks in the world. Giannini found his opportunity where others, less keen, had declared there were no opportunities left.

America has always been the Land of Opportunity. It is still the Land of Opportunity and, please God, it will always be the Land of Opportunity for every man who is intelligent enough to recognize Opportunity when he sees it and industrious enough to work out his own destiny.

REPORT CUTWORM INJURY TO CORN

Reports of cutworm injury to corn are being received at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. These pests appear nearly every spring, and sometimes are numerous enough to do serious damage to young corn. Injury is usually worse where corn has been planted on old land.

Where there is much damage, replanting is the only remedy, according to Prof. W. A. Price, head of the department of entomology. The work of the cutworm is of such a nature that irreparable damage often has been done when it is discovered. No adequate control measures have been worked out for extensive plantings.

Injury by cutworms is of short duration, since the larval form, which is the one doing the damage, will soon go into the ground to transform into pupa. Corn planted after May 20 should escape damage.

Poisoned bran is sometimes used to check cutworms. This bait is made of 25 pounds of wheat bran, one pound of white arsenic or Paris green, two quarts of blackstrap molasses, and water enough to moisten usually three gallons. Scatter thinly over the infested land, using 5 to 10 pounds per acre. Use in the evening, as the worms feed at night.

The real problem of control of cutworms is a cultural one, according to Prof. Price. The worms survive the winter as small larvae in the soil, under trash or in clumps of grass. The eggs of many species are laid in grass land, where the insects develop and attack crops planted thereon. Hence one of the best methods of avoiding damage by cutworms is to rotate crops in such a manner that corn is not planted on sod land, unless it has been broken early in the fall or during last summer.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE BOONE CIRCUIT COURT

Kate Aydelotte Plaintiff vs. Emma Shotts, et al. Defendant. By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court rendered at the April Term thereof 1930, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House Door in Burlington, Ky., to the highest bidder, at public auction on Monday, the 2nd day of June 1930, at 1 o'clock p. m. (thereabout being county court day) upon a credit of 6 months, the following described property to-wit:

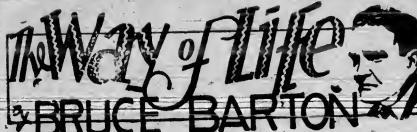

Lying and being in the town of Florence, Boone County, Kentucky. Bounded on the north by the lands of T. B. Castleman; on the east by the lot of the Florence and Union Highway; and on the west by the lot of Kate Aydelotte and being the same land conveyed to Jacob Shotts by deed recorded in Deed Book Q, Page 576 and Deed Book U, page 191 there being excepted therefrom the lot conveyed to Mallissa Aydelotte by deed recorded in Deed Book 31 page 492; which is now owned by Kate Aydelotte; all said deed being of record in the office of the Clerk of the Boone County Court.

For the purchase price, the purchaser must execute bond, with approved security bearing legal interest from the day of sale; until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE BOONE CIRCUIT COURT

Citizens Deposit Bank Plaintiff vs.

"IF A MAN DIE, SHALL HE LIVE AGAIN?"

It is the age-old question, asked at the side of every bier. And what can one say in answer to it?

Every one of us is taught in childhood to believe in God and an after life.

"The world just happened," say some men. "It created itself through the operation of natural laws."

But who or what established the natural laws and set them to operating?

When you can dump a load of bricks on a corner lot, and let me watch them, arrange themselves into a house—when you can empty a handful of springs and wheels and screws on my desk, and let me see them gather themselves together into a watch—it will be easier for me to believe that all these thousands of worlds could have been created, balanced, and set to moving in their separate orbits, all without any directing intelligence at all.

Moreover, if there is no intelligence in the universe, then the universe has created something greater than itself—for it has created you and me.

Is it easy to believe that a universe without personality could have created us who have personality?

Isn't it easier to believe that our personality is a little part of the great pervading Personality that has created and now permeates the universe?

Oscar McMullen et al. Defendant

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court rendered at the April Term thereof 1930, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House Door in Burlington, Ky., to the highest bidder at public auction on Monday, the 2nd day of June, 1930, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout (being County Court Day) upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

Lying and being in McVillie, Boone County, Ky.

Beginning at the south east corner of Alley No. 3, and Center street; thence north 126 feet to the north verse? And if there be a Personality in the universe—a God—what kind of God is He?

He must be at least as good as you or I. He could not have made us better than Himself. The worse we not create the better.

And if He is a good God, is it reasonable to suppose that He would have planted in human hearts this unquenchable yearning for immortality, and left that yearning unsatisfied?

You and I would not have done so. Go where you will, from the most savage race to the most cultured, you will find that same instinctive assurance that death is not the end. Would a good God plant that in man's heart, if his creatures merely to mock them?

Without immortality the world is an answerless riddle. We are born; we struggle up through slow years of development; and just as we have reached our highest point of usefulness—we are cut off.

It is hard for me to believe in a universe that made itself, and that ruthlessly casts away its most precious possession—human personality.

It is easier to believe that behind the universe is a guiding Intelligence of whose personality my own is a tiny spark that shall not go out while He lives.

If I cannot prove that this is so, neither can any one prove to me that it is not so.

east corner of Scott street, thence south 120 feet to the south west corner of Alley No. 2; thence east 136 feet to the south east corner of Alley No. 3, and being Lot No. 4, as shown on the official plan and plat of said town which is recorded in Order Book N, page 554, of the Boone County Court Records.

For the purchase price, the purchaser must execute bond, with approved security, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Sunday School Lesson

JESUS DESCRIBES THE FUTURE OF THE KINGDOM
Matthew 25:1-13

During the morning of that last Tuesday of His ministry Jesus had necessarily been on the defensive as Sadducees, Herodians and Pharisees heckled Him while He sought to teach in the Temple courts. It may have been for the usual noon siesta that He withdrew with His disciples to the Mount of Olives, just across the Kedron valley. He could not be in retirement for crowds thronged Him at every turn.

That afternoon His goodby words were spoken to the populace, for He never addressed the crowd again. It is natural in saying farewell to think forward to the time when we will meet in further fellowship with those from whom we are now separating. Jesus did this very thing. However long it may be, this earthly life is only the threshold of the existence that is eternal. During the afternoon hours the Teacher turned their attention to facts in the future.

The theological name for "last things" is Eschatology, and that title can be turned to in a Bible Dictionary for more specific instruction. At this time read Matthew 25 and 26. These teachings can well be called "The Prophecy," in distinction from "The Sermon on the Mount," Matthew 5-7.

Letters which come to Query Column, which the writer conducts, in Christian Herald, indicate that multitudes are eager to know more specifically about the state of the soul after the death of the body, recognition of friends in heaven, the general judgment with the related rewards and miseries. It is natural to study in advance when about to make a long journey and it is in order to think also on the facts in the future life.

Jesus made it very clear, and other Bible references are equally direct, that there will be a Second Coming to this earth. This is a basic belief for all Christians and not merely for those who make this a central teaching in their denomination. As the Old Testament prophesies the coming of the Messiah, so the New Testament tells of His Return with glory and full rule on the earth.

To make the matter as clear as possible a parable is used which sets forth most familiar facts, for the details of a local wedding were known to all. The groom was having his bachelor dinner with his friends. A group of women prepared to meet the men on their way to the bride's home. It was night and all would need burning lamps to lighten the way and to add to the celebration. While waiting for the men to come that way, the "ten virgins" dozed off. Then there was the outcry, "Behold! the Bridegroom!" There was orderly confusion while lamps were trimmed but consternation on the part of those who found they had no oil to replenish the lamps that were going out. Some things cannot be borrowed in a crisis and eternal salvation is one. Those who were not ready learned, too late, that "the door was shut."

The hour for the return of Christ to this earth is also uncertain. Scripture tells of related events, but even Jesus declared the time was only in the mind of the Father. In all ages since, some have prophesied the exact time of His Second Coming and all thus far have been wrong. That He will come again is as sure as ever. But in the uncertainty as to the exact time all can be prepared. The Golden Text is a safety exhortation: "Take ye heed, watch and pray; for ye know not when the time is." Mark 13:33. Those who live in constant fellowship with Him will surely be ready. Believers who are meanwhile with Him in glory will return with Him for the resurrection of their bodies and an earthly reign of righteousness. Some of the attendant details are found in I Thessalonians 4:13-5:11.

FLY RIGHT ON THE CEILING

THIRTY YEARS AGO

R. Lee Huey, of Big Bone neighborhood, picked about 80 acres of tobacco last Saturday. If he has luck he will pick 60 acres this season. He is the largest tobacco grower in the county, and each year is among the first to get out plants.

W. J. Rice received from the mail, the other day, a photograph of his brother R. C. Rice and wife and their comfortable Kansas home. Bob and his wife look hearty and happy.

Jack Sandford has discovered a den of very peculiarly marked squirrels on his place. There are four of them, and they have red heads and white bodies.

Miss Anna Cowen is staying with her brother, Dr. L. C. Cowen, of Rabbit Hash, who we are sorry to report very sick of heart trouble.

Union

J. H. Aylor sold one, fleece of wool, this year, that weighed 21 pounds, and a few years ago he sold one that tipped the scales at 32 pounds. He has sheep that cost him $100 per head.

Uncle Wm. Tanner says that the first cooking stove brought into Boone county was purchased by Mrs. Abraham Samsler, the first buggy by Elder Morris Lassing, father of Dr. and L. W. Lassing.

James A. Huey has added 5 Hereford heifers to his herd. They came from Kansas City, and they are certainly beauties.

Flickertown

Irven Rue and Elbert Roberts, both from a distance, take considerable interest in our Sunday school.

Eleven wagons and fifteen horses passed here last Wednesday on their way to unload coal at Bellevue.

James Seebree wife and daughter were visiting Jim's brother and wife last Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Henry Smith was thrown from a horse last Wednesday, and her elbow hurt badly.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Bellevue base ball club knocked the Burlington team out in a very exciting game last Saturday. Score 18 to 17 in favor of Bellevue. The same teams will try conclusions at this place next Saturday afternoon.

Just as we close our forms we hear of the death of Ex-County Judge L. H. Dills, at one o'clock Tuesday morning. He will be buried here to-day at 10 a. m.

J. B. Tolin and Chas. Finn, of Plattsburg, were in town last Friday.

Gaines Rice, who holds a position in a railroad office in Lexington, was visiting his parents at this place last Saturday and Sunday.

James Rogers, of Bellevue, was in town yesterday.

Gunpowder

The ground is still very wet, and the prospects for the farmers this year, is not very flattering.

Abel Carpenter is talking about starting in a few days to Colorado.

A young blacksmith made its appearance at Lee Busby's last week.

Mrs. Noah Barlow, of Pleasant Valley, is very low at this writing.

Uncle Jack Rouse has been very low with pneumonia, but is recovering.

Walton

C. Y. Dyas was elected attorney for the Building Association last Wednesday, and will be for the Walton Deposit Bank.

Theodore Chambers has returned from Georgetown after an absence of several days.

Miss Lizzie Roberts and A. Rachal closed their school on the 16th. The teachers gave the children souvenirs of affections and the scholars returned thanks and good will to their teachers.

Smith & Coffman finished up an ornate cottage for Henderson Rouse of Crittenden, last week, which as a looker causes comment—nuff ced.

Harry Pettit is flying around at a fearful rate—new business. Will report profits afterwards.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

No one in this section took in the St. Louis $4 excursion.

Last Saturday morning Mr. Henry Hoffman made his first shipment of wool, about 4,000 pounds—a good part of which was bought at thirty-eight cents. He was buying for Geo. Hill, of Covington.

Mrs. Lucinda Rouse, widow of Eliza Rouse, went to sleep Friday evening and died before she could be aroused. She has been a severe sufferer from cancer for some time. The remains were interred in the family burying ground on Monday.

We understand that a new enterprise has struck Burlington, viz—The trade in fresh sardines. Tim Westbay furnishes the boxes while Joe Reed and S. K. Dempsey provide the material for filling them. They report an abundance of suitable material in the branches near town. They will always have sardines.

Early Monday morning Bradford & Westbay commenced tearing out the shelving in the room they will occupy with their grocery, for the purpose of making considerable changes in the internal arrangement of the room.

Bellevue

Last Friday at 5 p. m., Messrs. Crandall & Somers, of Rising Sun, Indiana, made overtures for a trade with T. H. Sutton & Co., and before nine o'clock the entire stock of dry goods and groceries had been sold, boxed and shipped to Rising Sun. Sutton and Company will continue to deal in tobacco.

Alonso Smith, who for the past year has been rusticated at Jefferson City, Indiana, in the service of a Mr. Warden, filling a position of great responsibility has returned to his old haunts.

Mr. Dink Barker and Miss Annie Moody and Myrtle Eyle, went to Lawrenceburg on a visit last Sunday. They received quite an ovation from their friends on their safe return.

James Conner and family, of Covington, are visiting the family of Michael Clore.

CLUB MEMBERS SHOW IMPROVED METHODS

Contests are being held in 50 or more counties to select 4-H club teams to demonstrate improved farm and home practices at the annual Junior Week at the University of Kentucky June 9-14. A total of 198 teams have been trained in various counties, from which will be selected the best to enter the state contest at Lexington.

These teams are demonstrating the best methods of fitting livestock to show and sell, the production of clean milk, the setting and care of tobacco plants, poultry house equipment, inoculation of legumes, dehorning of calves, and the like.

In a large number of counties, good housekeeping practices are being demonstrated, such as the care of the sick, canning fruits and vegetables, baking, sewing, etc.

In at least a dozen counties, principally in the western part of the state, 4-H club members have been trained to terrace land. A state terrace contest will be held during Junior Week.

A total of $750 in cash prizes and a large number of other premiums will be awarded to 4-H club members during the week, when 600 boys and girls will assemble at the University.

Other features of Junior Week will be a style show, sponsored by The Courier-Journal; a contest in judging canned fruits and vegetables, sponsored by the Louisville Board of Trade, and a contest in judging baked foods, supported by Ballard & Ballard. The state's healthiest boy and girl will be selected to send to a national health contest in Chicago.

Early Garden Suggestions

TOMATOES
(By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture)

Tomatoes require fertile ground, but the fertility must be well balanced. Land newly enriched with comparatively fresh manure, for instance, may contain so much ammonia as to make the plants "grow to top," and to bear lightly and late. Well rotted manure which has lost much of its nitrogen, is good tomato fertilizer, but it is wasteful of valuable plant food to let manure compost or rot. Much better practice is to use partly rotted manure in sufficient quantity to furnish the proper amount of nitrogen and potash and humus, and to make up the phosphorus deficiency by adding superphosphate.

A good plant food application rate, for a 25-foot square garden space, is 10 pounds of a complete fertilizer whose analysis is 4-8-4. This assumes that the land is in good garden condition from observant manurings in previous years. If fairly fresh manure is to be had to the extent of using a ton load per 100-foot square of garden, the fertilizer need simply be superphosphate, applied at the rate just given for complete fertilizer.

All fertilizer, and manure, for tomatoes should be broadcast and worked in shallowly, for tomato roots are widespread and lie close to the surface. The soil should, however be prepared deeply so that a reserve of moisture will be had. Plant setting may be done with a peg, but if a hoe is used in making the hole, there is less packing of the soil around it. The depth of setting should be no more than an inch greater than the plant stood in the plant bed. Plants that are leggy and slender should be laid in shallow trenches, with only the tips uncovered. The buried stem will thus strike root all along it.

The spacing of the plants will depend on the variety used, on the strength of the land, and on whether or not pruning and staking are to be done. Early varieties as Acme and Earliana, unpruned, need no more than 26 inches each way, even on good ground. The mid-season sorts Bonny Best and John Bear need 4 feet each way. So does the variety Stone, but Greater Baltimore the leading canning tomato, needs more room, and it is suggested that the plants stand 4 feet apart in rows 5 feet apart. If staking and pruning to single-stem are done, the rows need be only 3 feet wide, and the plants set 24 inches in the row. It is good practice to pinch off the plants above the fifth cluster, to assure earliness and good size.

The varieties just named do well except in gardens where the tomato wilt disease is present. In such gardens recourse must be had to using Marglobe and Stone. They ripen in the order given.

For a "pink" program, use June Pink, Pink Beauty and Ponderosa. For a wilt-resistant "pink" program only one variety offers, Louisiana pink.

PESTS—Tomatoes suffer from onslaughts of black flea beetles and from blight, which defoliates the plant, resulting in sunburned fruit and in reduced yield. The control for both pests is to spray with Bordeaux Mixture. Spraying should be set just after the plants are set, and three times more, at intervals of two weeks.

Cultivation should be level, and shallow, and the soil surface should be kept in a dusty condition, making it capable of admitting the rains, and of conserving moisture from one rain to the next.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will give the following program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of station WHAS the week of May 26. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

May 26—Finishing Touches, Miss Ida Hagman.

The Control of Lice and Mites, J. E. Humphrey.

May 28—Opportunities for Women Trained in Home Economics, Miss Martha Higgins.

HALF MILLION MORE FOR BETTER EGGS

Kentucky farmers could increase the value of the eggs they sell annually by a half a million dollars by giving more attention to quality, declares C. E. Harris of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. Many more eggs would be consumed if they were of higher quality, he believes, and as a consequence producers would receive more money. Mr. Harris offers the following suggestions regarding the production of better eggs:

Keep nests clean and gather eggs

MIKE

MIKE is one of the largest Jacks that has ever been in this section of the country. He is black with meaty points, 10 years old, stands 15 hands high, has an exceptionally large head and ear, with the bid bone that makes a real mule sire. Core and see him. He will make the season at the farm of August Dringenburg, Jr., located between Florence and Limestone, Ky., at $10.00 to insure a living foal.

Facilities to load and unload mares brought in trucks. Pasture for mares that come from a distance and cannot be conveniently returned. Care taken to prevent accidents but no responsible should any occur.

AUGUST DRINGENBURG, JR.

at least twice a day.

Keep eggs in a well ventilated place where the temperature is below 60 degrees.

Market eggs as often as it is convenient; two or three times a week if possible.

Unless eggs are sold to a hatchery, kill, sell or confine all male birds.

Do not sell an egg you would not want to eat.

The producer of inferior quality eggs is helping to keep down the price level of not only his eggs but those of his neighbors as well. Market demand will increase only as quality of the product is improved. Prices for eggs may not be expected to increase unless better eggs are put on the market.

Produce better quality eggs and insist on selling them on a grade basis.

GOLDSTREAM BILL

Goldstream Bill is survived by J. S. Government Stallion Young Bill, No. 5910. His first dam was Lady Artist, sire Kentucky Prince. Goldstream Bill was shown 22 times in 1926 and won 21 premiums. He is a beautiful bay, stands 16 hands high and weighs 1200 pounds.

TERMS—Goldstream will make the season of 1930 at the farm of J. A. Riddell, near Hebron, at $10.00 to insure a living colt. Money due when colt is foaled mare parted with or bred to other stock without our consent. Lien retained on mare and colt for season money. CARE TAKEN TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS. Not responsible should any occur.

SCHLOSSER BROS.

BURGESS

This fine stallion, well known to every admirer of horseflesh in this territory, will make the season of 1930 at the J. A. Riddell farm, near Hebron, Ky. Burgess is a magnificent grey individual, weighs 1800 pounds and has been pronounced by widely known horse judges as the best horse of his breed they had ever seen. He was shown six times last year and captured six blue ribbons. He has been three times a first string winner at the Indiana State Fair.

TERMS—Same as on Goldstream Bill.

Senate open session rule May be abrogated, Writer predicts

(By Fred Holmes)

Washington Cor. for Recorder
WASHINGTON—Almost a year ago the Senate, by an overwhelming vote of 68 to 5, adopted Senator Robinson's proposal to modify the rules so as to give full publicity to senatorial consideration of presidential nominations and disburse with the Star Chamber methods theretofore in vogue. That incident caused your correspondent to remark: "It took Uncle Sam's hired man, the Senate, one hundred and forty years to find out that there is no good excuse for keeping business secrets from his boss." But it may possibly be recalled that your correspondent added: "True, when foreign relations are involved, open galleries might in conceivable cases lead to premature disclosures and embarrassment."

Once upon a time Senator Borah was loved for the enemies he made, and even by his enemies, but it would now seem that adulation has turned his head. Searching investigation of the London Naval Treaty by the Senate foreign relations committee, of which Senator Borah is chairman, threatens to produce so much important information that a demand for secret sessions has been made by supporters of the treaty. During the preliminary examination, Secretary Stimson found it necessary on five different occasions to suggest that discussion of particular points be conducted in executive session.

Senator Borah's opposition to secret sessions has been well known ever since his advent into that august body, and in the main the public has been with him. But it happens occasionally that in consideration of problems of government, not of direct personal interest, the people are very apt to take snap judgment—as they did down in Sherman, Texas, recently. As a matter of fact, the public generally doesn't know very much about the London Naval pact and cares less.

For instance if the comparatively slim attendance at the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings are any criterion, popular interest in the political side of the situation is certainly not very intense. An oil scandal session or a lobby tragic comedy would have been drawn immediately to the attention of the public. Seventy-five per cent of the persons present to hear Secretary Stimson explain and defend the London pact consisted of women. Mrs. Stimson and Mrs. David A. Reed, themselves heroines of the late unpleasantness on the Thames, were among them. Alice Longworth, batless, as usual, had a place of vantage near the head of the committee table.

The Senate itself is not very much excited over the treaty. It will not begin to generate the passions, pro and con, which the Washington conference agreements produced, to say nothing of the battle of the century over the treaty of Versailles. A common observation on Capitol Hill is that, being "harmless," the three-power London agreement is assured of relatively rapid ratification.

The Washington Post (owned and published by Ned McLean, of Cincinnati and elsewhere, staunch supporter of the sky-rocket tariff bill) recently said, editorially: "A treaty affecting the national defense is of the first importance. The public will never consent to the imposition of such a treaty upon the country unless its terms are thoroughly known and found to be fair." Most commendable altruistic sentiment! But from present indications the "public" is just about as much interested in the London pact as it isn't the newly discovered ninth planet beyond the orbit of Neptune. The Post goes on to say:

"Inasmuch as it is impossible to discuss the treaty in open session in the Senate and yet conceal its meaning and object, nothing is to be gained by making the attempt in committee. This is public business. The time of tentative proposals and alterations is past. The country has before it a specific contract. This matter can be discussed in public without offense to any nation. Senators with a sense of responsibility will refrain from casting slurs upon other governments, and will conduct themselves as judges rather than attorneys for or against the treaty."

Oh, boy! Page Will Rogers, Irvin Cobb, and a whole flock of comedians and wise-crackers. "Senators with a sense of responsibility" folks! Find 'em among those who did not "refrain from casting slurs" upon Charles Evans Hughes, John J. Parker and Owen J. Roberts. Find 'em among those who put over a tariff bill which not only did not provide the sort of limited revision asked for by President Hoover at the convening of Congress in special session thirteen months ago, but imposes heavier and unjust taxes on nearly every article required to satisfy the everyday wants of the average consumer. Find any scintilla of evidence within recent years that any Senator has shown a disposition to "conduct himself as judge rather than attorney for or against" anything.

Secretary Stimson, who made a frank and at times convincing presentation of his case before the committee, is admittedly in a very difficult position because of the public hearings. His very frankness may cause complications in London and especially in Tokyo. Besides assuring the committee that Great Britain has received the worst of the bargain on at least one point, the Secretary said that the American delegation had persuaded the Japanese delegation to sign a treaty whereby the Japanese navy stands still and allows a rival power, America, to pass her in naval strength. Mr. Stimson also said that the Japanese would be better off without the treaty than with it.

Complimentary references which Mr. Stimson made to Japanese fairness may have a soothing effect in Tokyo, but it is clear that all references to advantages gained by the American delegation at the expense of the Japanese delegation, may cause trouble for the latter delegation with its own people. The delicacy of the situation which developed from the questioning of Mr. Stimson is reflected in each case where the Secretary suggested executive sessions.

In a case like this, there is just about as much to be gained by throwing open the hearings to the public as there would be in welcoming a bunch of kindergarten pupils to a class in differential calculus. We hire professional advisors to assist which we are not intimately familiar. If we are not disposed to accept their advice when given, why hire them?

Whether President Hoover is going West on an old-fashioned political trip or whether he is merely going fishing and vacationing seems to have disturbed the political fraternity hereabouts.

Denials have come from the White House that the President had politics in mind or that he will make speeches. Just what harm there is or what departure from precedent is involved if the President did make a few addresses, and even discussed politics is not explained. Presidents have always retained the right to make a tour across the continent and to take advantage of the opportunity to tell the people a few things about governmental policies.

Mr. Hoover's itinerary thus far includes only the national park areas and he will, of course, go to the Pacific Coast. Nowadays, however, a President can be in retreat almost anywhere in the U. S. and yet by microphone and press dispatch reach all the people who want to listen or read. President Taft made a trip in the middle of his administration and so did Mr. Wilson and later Mr. Harding. Obviously Presidents try to avoid a discussion of politics, but no matter what they say, the political world interprets their utterances as a part of a well designed plot to capture votes either for themselves or the members of their party who are up for election.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Truck crops, especially tomatoes and beans, will be extensively grown for Hickman county canning plants.

Thirty-five Garrard county farmers have spread a total of 2,000 tons of ground limestone this year.

Marion county farmers have spread 2,000 tons of marl. Cost of loading and spreading has averaged 30 cents a ton. Seven hundred and fifty tons of limestone also have been used in the county.

John S. Gardner, field agent in truck crops for the College of Agriculture, in one day spoke at five farmers' meetings in Pike county, walking 12 miles over mountains in the course of the day.

Fifteen hundred grape vines and 41,000 strawberry plants were set by 4-H club members and farmers in Perry county this year.

MRS. ANNA WILLIAMS
Mrs. Anna Williams, aged seventy-four years, passed away Sunday at the home of her son Courtney Williams, who resides near Bullittsville. Funeral services were held at 2 p. m., Tuesday afternoon at the Florence Christian church, of which she was a member, by the Rev. H. C. Runyan, pastor, in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends, after which she was laid to rest by the side of her husband in Highland cemetery.

Mrs. Williams is survived by four sons, Courtney, J. T., Eli and James, and four daughters, Mrs. Arch Dickerson, Mrs. Jack Corbin, Mrs. Lane Riggs and Miss Lottie Williams, and one brother Courtney Talbot, besides many other relatives and friends. Funeral Director Philip Tallafra had charge of the funeral arrangements.

TO THE STOCK HOLDERS OF THE NORTHERN DISTRICT WAREHOUSING CORPORATION

On April 12th, 1928, the contract by which the properties of the Northern District Warehousing Corporation were operated and controlled by the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association without profit by the Northern District Warehousing Corporation, was terminated and all the properties of this Corporation then passed into the actual possession, control and management of your Board of Directors.

On that date when your Board of Directors assumed actual control and management of the properties of the Northern District Warehousing Corporation, its assets consisted chiefly of One Thousand, Six Hundred Eighty-Seven and 54-100 Dollars, ($1,687.54) in cash and twenty-two (22) pieces of property situated in fourteen different places in Northern Kentucky, all of which property was encumbered with a mortgage given to secure an indebtedness in excess of Two Hundred Seventy-four Thousand Dollars ($274,000.00).

Only four of these twenty-two pieces of property were revenue producers, and with the exception of that property located in the City of Carrollton, Kentucky, all of the properties of the Northern District Warehousing Corporation were situated at points where there were no tobacco markets, and such property had become obsolete, and was rapidly depreciating while necessitating the expenditure of large sums of money annually for the payment of interest and taxes.

During the period following April 12th, 1928, through long drawn out and expensive litigation your Board of Directors has been able to free the Corporation of all indebtedness including the encumbrance of $274,000.00 and in addition thereto it has collected Forty-seven Hundred Dollars ($4,700.00) from the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, and at the present time all of the property of your Corporation is unencumbered.

During this same period, it has been the policy of your Board of Directors to dispose of such properties as are unprofitable, and to retain those properties that will be desirable in the event of the reorganization of your marketing association.

Realizing that such success as may have been attained by your Board of Directors in the conduct and management of the affairs of this Corporation is due to the loyalty of its stockholders, we solicit your continued confidence, co-operation and support that this Corporation may continue to be conducted along the policy of its Board of Directors of rendering a maximum amount of service to its customers and stockholders at a minimum expense.

That the stockholders may be better informed concerning the present financial condition of their Corporation the Board of Directors submits herewith financial statements giving in a general manner, a statement of its assets and liabilities and receipts and expenditures during the period of the operation of said Corporation from April 12th, 1923, until March 31st, 1930.

A full and complete set of books is maintained by the Corporation at its chief office in Carrollton, Ky., where any stockholder may obtain any additional information he may desire concerning any item that appears in the statements hereto attached, and it will be a pleasure on the part of the officers in charge to furnish any stockholder with detailed information concerning any item in said statements.

The full success of your Corporation is dependent upon your continued co-operation and support, and we solicit your aid and interest in marketing your tobacco, and the tobacco of your friend at the warehouses owned by your Corporation.

Respectfully Submitted,
C. O. HEMPFING, President.
JNO. C. BOND, Secretary.

McCormick-Deering New-4 Cultivators Are Famous for Their Ease of Operation

The McCormick-Deering New 4 Cultivator is the leading single-row cultivator in the United States because it embodies so many labor-saving features. It is of the balanced frame type, reducing neckweight on the team, and making it handle with surprising ease. Conveniently placed foot pedals enable the operator instantly to pivot the cultivator either way with minimum effort. You can cultivate all day with this McCormick-Deering and do more work without being "all tired out."

The New-4 is adaptable to all row crops. Farmers everywhere find it ideal for cotton, beans, corn and other plants that grow in rows. It is sturdily built of the best materials, enabling it to work successfully in any soil under a wide variety of conditions. Come in tomorrow and let us point out these fine features.

FIRST SHUT OUT

OF THE SEASON HANDED OUT BY "LEFTY" SPRAGUE SATURDAY—BELLEVUE DOWNS WALTON, WHILE HEBRON NOSES OUT PETERSBURG

Pitching one of the best games of the season to date "Lefty" Sprague let the Francesville club down with out a run on the home lot last Saturday afternoon.

Brown, Francesville's hurler, also turned in a fine performance, but naturally could not win without some scoring behind him. While Burlington scored six runs off his delivery not all were earned, the visitors being able to drive out but seven clean hits. Sprague hung up the season's record for strikeouts with sixteen.

Burlington scored first in the third when Sprague let one go to right, which escaped Adams and went for a home run, driving in Kelly and R. L. ahead of him. The drive might have been held to a single, but the fielder tried to make a shoe string error and in this case, as in many others, that practice resulted fatally. The third Kelly singled scoring L. Hoff. This was all until the eighth when Kelly hit his third single registering Berkshire and Zimmer.

Eggleston and H. Anderson were the two Francesville players who were successful in solving the Sprague southpaw slants.

Bellevue Continues

Bellevue continued an uninterrupted succession of victories in the Boone County League by downing Walton, last year's champions, on the home grounds of the latter last Saturday afternoon.

By reason of their victory the Bellevue boys are sitting on top of the league a full game and a half ahead of Walton and Burlington, which teams are resting in a tie for second place.

Joe Brady opposed DeMoisey on the mound, Joe allowing Walton seven hits while DeMoisey permitted Bellevue eight. Brady held his opponents scoreless until the eighth when Walton put on a three-run rally aided somewhat by some poor playing in the field by Bellevue. As usual Bellevue had a bad inning against Walton.

For Walton Russell Miller was the big noise with the bat, making three singles in five tries. For Bellevue Ryle, the Brady brothers and "Scout" Slayback manufactured all of the right Bellevue hits, garnering exactly two each. No doubt Bellevue's victory was partly due to the fact that six of their eight hits were for extra bases. Slayback made two doubles, Joe Brady one, R. Brady a triple and Ryle drove out two three play swats in as many times at bat.

Brady fanned ten Walton hitters, while DeMoisey, who usually shows a good strikeout ball, knocked off seven. Both pitchers were rather wild walking five each.

"Scout" Slayback, who was a well known amateur player here when a youngster, was at second base for Bellevue. It probably will be his only game in the county this year, however, as he is said to have returned to the East early this week to resume his connection with an Eastern League team. It will be recalled that three years ago he tried out with the Giants with whom he played several games.

Hebron Takes Close One

Hebron battled its way to a 9-8 victory over Petersburg, but as we go to press no details of the game have been learned.

An Easy Victory

Not confining their winning habits to the Saturday afternoon league the Bellevue team carried on at the head of the Spinney League with another victory in that association last Sunday. They still are undefeated and riding along comfortably at the head of the procession with four victories. New Richmond, Ohio, another home team also is undefeated, but they have played but three games.

Contrary to the announcement carried in these columns last week Verona did not play there last Sunday, as there was a slight confusion in the schedule. On the other hand the U. S. Feds furnished the opposition and they proved to be the easiest opponents Bellevue has faced in the Spinney loop.

With "Mutt" Rogers hurling unbeatable ball for six innings they turned back the Cincinnatians 10 to 3. During the six innings he worked Rogers fanned 13 men, which certainly is an impressive record. "Pete" Brady finished the game and held the Feds safely. Bellevue amassed a total of fourteen hits with Rogers himself leading in the attack with three out of four. Williamson, McWethy, A. Rogers, and Pete Brady made two hits each, with McWethy and J. Clore driving out doubles.

Next Sunday Bellevue will play Lawrenceburg A. C.

CONSTANCE

There will be Sunday school at 10 o'clock next Sunday and church at 11 o'clock. Also church in the evening at 7:30. Bro. C. D. Carter, of Cincinnati, will do the preaching.

The Red and Blue Contest is getting along nicely. The Blues are leading and there were 65 at Sunday school Sunday.

The writer of Constance news and Mr. Shirley Hemphing wish you Miss Wanda Mae Fisher, Master John Edward Wenzel many more pleasant birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bates were in the Florence and Hopeful neighborhoods on business last Monday.

Mrs. James Crutchelow and children were calling on Mrs. Edward Bates last Wednesday.

Mrs. Emma Hemphing, Mr. John Hemphing, Jr., Miss Catherine Royer, Miss Nellie Hemphing, Miss Adah Hemphing and Roy Friend Craig and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher and daughter Wanda Mae, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hemphing of Taylorsport, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wenzel and son John Edward, of Price Hill, attended a most wonderful birthday dinner given in honor of Miss Wanda Mae Fisher and Master John Edward Wenzel at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fisher and daughter Rose, of Cleves, Ohio. A most wonderful time was had by all.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Crowley entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bates and children Sunday.

Mrs. Jas. Crutchelow and children were visiting Mrs. Bud Harness last week.

Quite a few are in the hospital from here. Among those are Mrs. Cotton, Mrs. John Gross and Mrs. James Crutchelow. We wish them all a speedy recovery.

Miss Anna May Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bates and children were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Crowley Saturday night.

Miss Lucille Harness and brother James were visiting in Cincinnati, Saturday.

Miss Anna May Anderson and Mrs. Bates and daughter Mary Elizabeth, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Loving of the Amsterdam pike last Friday.

Quite an exciting time in Constance Friday evening. Some man came along and pushed a woman and girl out on the streets and drove off without her. She started to walk to Covington but don't think she got far until the man came back after her and she fainted. She told so many tales we don't know which one to believe.

We have three more Sunday's before our Red and Blue Contest will be over. Come everyone and help us make a showing.

EDGAR D. JONES

CLOSES REVIVAL AT LOUISVILLE — BELOVED MINISTER, WHO STARTED PULPIT CAREER IN BOONE COUNTY, RANKS AMONG NATION'S BEST

Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, of Detroit, and intimately known throughout Boone county, finished a great revival at the First Christian church of Louisville, last week.

Dr. Jones, who began his ministerial career in Boone county, is now pastor of the Central Woodward Christian church of Detroit, where he has established himself as one of the leading ministers of the country.

A quotation from the circular advertising the meeting, which was circulated by the Louisville church, had this to say: "You are cordially invited to hear one of America's leading preachers. An author of distinction, a lecturer widely known, the leader of a great church and a preacher of rare power and charm."

The legion of friends and admirers of Dr. Jones in this county will testify to the above quotation, especially the latter phrase—"a preacher of rare power and charm."

NEW CROP COM-PARES FAVORABLY

Korean lespedeza, a new crop for Boone county, is making a favorable stand among the other crops sown this spring according to county agent H. R. Forkner.

The demonstration fields of O. R. Russ, O. C. Hafer, Sterling Rouse, Frank Dolwick, Lloyd McGlasson, John Binder, J. F. Cleek, O. K. Powers, Robert and Charles Chambers and Joel Gray have been visited during the past few days. The problem of inoculation, time of coming up, stand per given amount of seed, response to lime and phosphate and other factors were studied. Inoculation was one of the most striking factors. Seed inoculation and sown this spring had a good crop of bacteria nodules on the roots by the time the plants were an inch high. A few of the fields sown last year that were not inoculated did not have any inoculation on the roots again this year.

The field of Mr. Joel Gray of near Burlington offered a most interesting study. Four pounds each of Japan clover, Korean, Sapling and Sweet Clover were sown per acre on ground that was phosphated and limed at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre. The Korean had made a better stand, equal growth and better inoculation than either the sweet clover or the sapling.

"Guess Who"

60TH OF SERIES

At this writing we have not learned the name of the man in this column last week. Some suggestions have been made but not verified.

Columbus' Son Abolitionist
A recently discovered letter, owned by Londoners, indicates Christopher Columbus' son, Diego, probably was the country's first abolitionist, opposing enslavement of Indians by the conquistadors.

A TRIBUTE

"Ah, sorrowful is each heart today,
For a beautiful life has passed away,
With her gentle smile and outstretched hand,
With heart so ready to understand
The need of another's, evermore,
Shall she warmly greet us as of yore,
"A Mother in Israel," such was she,
A pillar of strength; and radiantly
Through every vicissitude of life
Shone out her virtues as Christian wife,
As mother, daughter, sister, friend,
How supremely did they meet and blend.

Will each then miss her? Ah, would we miss
The bloom of the flowers, the sunshine's kiss,
The kindly showers and refreshing dew,
The song of birds and the sky's deep blue?
Then know we how sadly earth will pine
For her cheery voice and face be-guile.
Never again may we hope to meet
A heart more pure or a life more sweet.

Her example is the balm she leaves
To heal the wound of each heart—that grieves;
And shining ever like a glowing star
It shall guide us to the "Gates Ajar."

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardi, of Chicago, the well-known Rupture Shield Expert, will personally be at the Gibson Hotel, Cincinnati, Ohio, on Thursday, only, May 28th, from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

Mr. Meinhardi is highly recommended by thousands of satisfied customers. Take advantage of this opportunity to see him as he will not visit any other city in this section at this time. There is no charge for consultation and demonstration. This Appliance is for men only.

Mr. Meinhardi says:

The "Meinhardi Rupture Shield" not only retains the Rupture perfectly, but it also contracts the opening in ten days in the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture.

The "Meinhardi Rupture Shield" has no understraps. It is perfectly sanitary, practically indestructible, and may be worn while bathing.

Rupture often causes Stomach Troubles, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness, and other ailments which promptly disappear after the Rupture is properly retained. Thousands of deaths occurring annually from strangulated rupture can be avoided.

SPECIAL NOTICE—All customers that I have fitted here during the last ten years are invited to call for inspection for which there will be no charge. (Come in and talk with these customers regarding their experience with my Appliances.)

Please note the above dates and office hours carefully. (This visit is for white people only.) E. J. Meinhardi, Home Office—1551 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

"TWILIGHT SLEEP"

Sounds almost alluring, doesn't it? Gives one a sort of dreamy feeling just to think of it. Yet, as used in medicine, and quackery as well, it is one of the most deadly combinations of drugs we have at our command.

The originators of the formula known as "H. M. C." claimed at first that a thigh might be amputated without pain under its influence. The attention of the medical world was attracted. That was a good many years ago; and the best surgeons of America are still using the safer method of ether anesthesia; "twilight sleep" dropped back to its very limited sphere and stayed there. Hyoscin, Morphine and Cocaine are the ingredients of the compound; the first two are most powerful drugs, and the more so when used in combination; the latter has, if any effect at all, a very negligible one. My experience with "H. M. C." led me to abandon it early in its history as too dangerous to tamper with.

For instance, a patient of mine, an inebriate, was in delirium tremens—alcoholic mania; he had not slept for four days. Having tried everything else, in despair I gave him a dose of the new "twilight sleep." Well—it worked; within five minutes the man was snoring loudly, and almost blue from cyanosis; I stayed at his bedside fourteen hours, until the poison wore away—never more anxious before or since. When he awoke he declared, looking wildly about him, that he had been drugged!

I told him if he hadn't then there never had been a man drugged. He immediately ordered his belongings packed and left town and I didn't blame him. I blamed myself and the new "twilight sleep." Now I only use the stuff in eighth grain doses, to soften the terrible pains in childbirth—and I haven't used it even that way in fifteen years.

The quack, however, uses "twilight sleep" as a slogan, and dopes his dupes in his own sweat way with the deadly thing.

The interest of the infant defendant, Mildred Brown, if any, after the payment of debt, interest and costs herein, shall not be paid but shall remain a lien on the land until the Committee of the said infant Mildred Brown has executed bond as provided by Section 493 of the Civil Code of Kentucky.

Fried Fish Sauce
Parsley Potatoes

Escalloped Tomatoes

Corn Bread

Stuffed Cucumber Salad

Butter Cream Fruit Pie

Coffee

Fried Fish

Cut the fish into pieces suitable for serving. Season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour or fine cracker crumbs; dip in beaten egg diluted with a little milk and roll in the fine crumbs. Heat sufficient fat in heavy skillet to make the fat a depth of 1½ inches. Lay in the fish as soon as the fat is very hot. Cover and cook from 6 to 10 minutes. The fish will be crisp and brown on the outside and meat tender and juicy.

Sauce for the Fish

1-3 cup Mayonnaise

1 tablespoon lemon juice.

2 tablespoons chopped pickle.

1 hard cooked egg chopped

Combine all ingredients and serve from a sauce boat.

Parsley Potatoes

Pare and cook small new potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and add sufficient melted butter to season. Just before serving sprinkle generously with chopped parsley.

Stuffed Cucumber Salad

3 short cucumbers.

3 pickled beets.

1 teaspoon gelatine.

1 tablespoon cold water.

Peel the cucumbers with a fluted knife or peel them in the usual way and score lengthwise with a fork. Remove the centers with an apple corer. Put the center aside to use for lunch Saturday. Chop the pickled beets. Hydrate the gelatine in the cold water and dissolve over hot water. Add the finely chopped beets and fill the cucumbers with the mixture. We stand the cucumbers in a flat dish and fill the centers. Place them in the refrigerator to allow the centers to congeal. To serve, cut the cucumbers in slices crosswise and place on lettuce leaves. Serve with French dressing.

Butter Cream Fruit Pie

1 cup sugar.

3 tablespoons flour.

2 eggs.

1 cup milk.

2 tablespoons butter.

4 tablespoons sugar.

1 cup berries or drained cherries. Mix the sugar thoroughly with the flour and, gradually add the milk. Cook in the upper part of this double boiler until thick. This will require about 20 minutes. Beat the egg yolks and add a little of the cream mixture. Return all to the double boiler and cook 2 minutes. Remove from the fire, beat in the butter and flavoring and when slightly cooled, add the fruit, using care that the berries are not crushed. Pour the filling into a baked crust. Make a meringue of the 2 egg whites beaten stiff and the 4 tablespoons sugar. Pile the meringue on to the pie and place in a cool oven with the door open for 15 minutes, increase the heat to a hot oven, close the door and brown lightly in the next 5 minutes. This slow browning insures a tender fluffy meringue.

Coffee or Iced Tea

Baked Potatoes en Surprise

Bake potatoes until done. Remove a slice from the top or if the potatoes are rather large cut them in half. Scoop out the vegetable and mash until creamy, seasoning with salt, pepper, butter and milk or cream. Whip until fluffy. Place a spoonful of creamed peas or mushrooms in the shell and cover with mashed potatoes. Return to the oven to slightly brown. The peas or mushrooms may be left over. Asparagus may be used.

Jellied Vegetable Salad

2 tablespoons gelatine.

¾ cup cold water.

¾ cup mild vinegar.

¾ cup boiling water.

1 teaspoon salt.

2 tablespoons lemon juice.

2 cups vegetables, such as cabbage, celery, green peppers, pimiento cucumber, stuffed olives and green peas. Turn into molds to congeal. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. These amounts make sufficient salad for 10 servings.

Muffins

4 tablespoons sugar.

4 tablespoons sugar.

¼ teaspoon salt.

1 egg.

1 cup milk.

2 cups flour.

4 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter and sugar and add the egg; cream well. Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk. Bake in greased muffin tins in a rather hot oven for about 25 minutes.

Krisinkles

1 egg white.

¼ cup granulated sugar.

¾ cup corn flakes.

½ cup nut meats.

1-3 cup coconut.

½ teaspoon vanilla.

Beat the egg white stiff and beat in the sugar. Fold in the other ingredients and drop by spoonfuls onto a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a rather slow oven for 30 minutes. These cakes should be just a light straw color when done, not brown. These amounts make 12 small cakes. Most delicious!

Sunday Dinner

Crown Roast of Lamb or Pork.

Whipped Potatoes

Creamed Cauliflower

Mint Jelly or Spiced Apples

Mixed Sweet Pickles

Lettuce with

Thousand Island Dressing

Strawberry Delicious

Sponge Cake

Coffee

We have given a choice of meats, in order that the menu fit the conservative budget as well as the generous one. This meat dish is most attractive and ornamental as well as easy to serve; however the lamb crown roast is not a cheap meat.

Crown Roast of Lamb

To make the "crown," parts of two loins must be used. Only the rib is used and the chops cut apart down as far as the meat. The bones are then French as chops usually are. Fenching the chops is scraping the meat from the end of the bone. The meat is formed into a circle with the chops turned in. Fasten the ends of the loins together to make the "crown." The butcher will do this for you. Place the roast in the roasting pan and season well with salt and pepper. Place a piece of fat pork on each rib bone to protect it during the roasting. Roast uncovered in a very hot oven for 25 minutes, reduce the heat to a moderate oven and continue roasting, allowing 15 minutes to the pound. Baste frequently with hot water and 2 tablespoons of fat. Upon taking from the oven, remove the fat from the ends of the rib bones and put on paper frills. Fill the center with green peas, or cauliflower. We are using the cauliflower. The cream sauce for the cauliflower we are serving from sauce boat.

The roast pork may be prepared in the same manner, although a longer time should be allowed for roasting. With the pork serve and spiced apples in place of the mint jelly.

Strawberry Delicious

1½ cups sliced strawberries.

¾ cup whipping cream.

2 tablespoons chopped nuts.

4 tablespoons powdered sugar.

12 marshmallows cut into pieces.

1 teaspoon vanilla.

The rice should be cooked in boiling salted water and then measured. Chill before using it. Whip the cream until stiff and fold in the other ingredients. Chill and serve in parfait glasses. Pour a spoonful of strawberry juice or crushed berries over the top of each glass.

All of your questions will be most cheerfully answered through this column. If you have a household administration problem, or if you are seeking some particular recipe or planning a menu on which you need some help, just write to Anita Auch in care of this paper and your questions will be answered promptly through this column.

Pairings Complete in Barnyard Golf Derby For Start Saturday

FIFTY-TWO PITCHERS WILL MAKE UP MAMMOTH FIELD THAT WILL CONTEND FOR CHAMPIONSHIP — MATCHES WILL START AT SEVEN P. M.

It was just two months ago that the Recorder announced its plans to conduct a county wide horseshoe tournament. Since that time the interest has gradually and constantly increased until now it has reached the apex.

So, on next Saturday evening, the first match will take place in the long elimination series that is expected to require at least four weeks to complete. Last week we predicted that fifty entries would go to the post, but we missed out on the prediction, inasmuch as there were fifty-four. Since there were but two withdrawals there will be fifty-two in actual competition for the grand prize and the championship.

It is planned to open the competition at seven o'clock and continue until all the matches in the first round are completed, or until it is too late to pitch. Some think that it will be impossible to finish the first round in one night's play.

The entry list was closed last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock with L. W. Gulley, local merchant, coming in the eleventh hour. It was just five minutes before the dead line when Mr. Gulley decided to try his luck.

When all the entries had been received the fifty-two names were placed in a hat and drawn therefrom by D. R. Blythe and placed in the brackets in the order in which they were drawn. The first name to appear in the brackets is that of Ben Black, none other than the famous base ball pitcher of a few years ago. And they do say that Ben can handle the horseshoes with about as much dexterity as he once could throw curves and fast ones across. At any rate the man who trims Ben will know that he has been in a match.

The name that follows Ben is John M. Lassing, Jr., and who will hook with Mr. Black in the first match of the tournament. These names are followed by A. J. Ogden and M. H. Rouse and these two will provide the second match. The names as they will appear on the official score card are printed in the order in which they will compete. Copies of the official cards can be found in Burlington stores.

Since there are fifty-two who will compete in the first round it readily can be understood that only twenty-six will be in the tournament when the first round is completed. Then the winner of the match No. 1 will engage the winner of match No. 2, the winner of No. 3 will tie up with the winner of No. 4 and so on until all are eliminated except the grand champion.

During the first and second rounds it is planned to have the contestants pitch two best in three 21-point games to decide the elimination. Later on when the tournament has narrowed to fewer contestants and the rivalry becomes more spirited it is planned to extend the number of games in each match, if agreeable to all of the remaining pitchers.

The courts will be constructed and lighted so that two matches will be going on at one time, so the contestants in the first brackets are urged to be on hand promptly at seven o'clock Saturday evening so that the affair can start on time.

The games will be contested on courts that are built according to regulation rules as near as it is possible to do so, so it is suggested that prospective contestants practice on ground that is perfectly smooth and yet in holes.

An umpire, or judge, will be stationed at each peg to decide any close shots that cannot be agreed upon by the contestants, while an official scorer will keep a record of the score of each game throughout the tournament.

Work on the boxes and pegs is under way at the shop of Calvin Cress, while the large reflectors for the lights were obtained thru the courtesy of Harry Forbes, proprietor of Dixie Park, Monday night. The lights will be installed and courts made on Thursday and Friday of this week. The games will be contested in the lot adjoining the restaurant of Mrs. O. E. Rouse.

NEW PRESIDENT

ELECTED BY DIRECTORS OF PEOPLES DEPOSIT BANK—JUDGE N. E. RIDDELL, FORMER CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF BOONE COUNTY BANK SELECTED

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Peoples Deposit Bank on Monday N. E. Riddell was elected president to fill the vacancy created by the sudden and lamented death of the late C. H. Youell.

The action of the directors in making this selection has met with general approval, judging by the comment that has been heard.

It will be recalled that Judge Riddell formerly was president of the Boone County Bank prior to its purchase by the stockholders of the Peoples Bank.

For this reason it not only is regarded as a splendid business move on account of the capabilities and experience of Judge Riddell, but in addition is considered a very commendable act on the part of the board in that they have officially welcomed the president of an institution for so many years a staunch business rival. The recent vacancy was the first created since the purchase of the Boone County Bank in 1927.

That N. E. Riddell will make a competent and popular bank president goes without saying. The banking business is far from new to him, as is very well known to Boone county people. It was his father who was the first president of the Boone County Deposit Bank and at which post he remained from the time of its founding in 1885 to his retirement a few weeks before his death on April 6th, 1903. He died on May 30th of the same year.

It was for a period of almost like duration that N. E. Riddell served in the same capacity. After the late M. T. Garnett and Dudley Rouse each had served as president N. E. Riddell was elected February 9th, 1912, and served until February 12th, 1927, when the doors of the Boone County Bank were closed due to the sale above referred to.

Of course, no other change in the personnel of the Board of Directors, or officers, was made, Judge Riddell merely assuming the vacancy on the board and the presidency.

APPOINTED ADMINISTRATOR

The Peoples Deposit Bank was named Monday as administrator of the estate of the late C. H. Youell.

DEMOCRATS

TO MEET AT SUMMIT HILLS TODAY—WOMAN GOVERNOR TO ADDRESS KENTUCKY DEMOCRATIC WOMEN

Plans for the convention of the Democratic Women's Clubs of Kentucky and the Regional Conference of the National Democratic Committee to be held in Covington, on Thursday and Friday, June 5th and 6th, are being completed.

Visitors arriving by train or bus will be met by the transportation committee under Mrs. John Bloemer, Chairman, and conveyed to headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce, Pike & Madison Ave., where the registration committee, with Miss Mildred Hartke, Chairman, will register and give them credential badges. Miss Marguerite Kennedy, Chairman of the housing committee will place them.

Mrs. John B. Read is chairman of the luncheon committee and reservations can be made by communicating with Mrs. Read at 1338 Greenup Street, Covington. (Phone Hemlock 6975); the luncheon is open to both men and women.

Wednesday night the State Executive Board will meet at the Girls' Friendly Club House, No. 16 East Fourth Street, at 8 o'clock, and an informal reception will follow.

On Thursday morning the transportation committee will be busy transferring the guests from their abodes to the Summit Hills Country Club, where the convention will convene each day—Thursday and Friday at 10 o'clock a. m.; luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock and the afternoon sessions will convene at 2 o'clock, and evening dinner will be at 7 o'clock.

On Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock there will be a reception for both men and women, and a Mass Meeting of men and women on Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock at Summit Hills Country Club.

A fair size crowd for the time of the year was in attendance on county court day.

SHEEP RAIDS

REPORTED AT PETERSBURG—FLOCKS OF AYLOE BROS., AND E. H. BERKSHIRE INVADDED—ONE DOG KILLED, BUT OTHERS ESCAPE

Dogs opened hostilities on Boone county sheep flocks last week, when two raids were reported in the Petersburg community.

On Saturday night several were killed and injured in the flock of Ayloe Bros., on the George Berkshire farm three miles below Petersburg. No dogs were killed or identified in this raid.

Sunday night three dogs severely injured nine in the flock of B. H. Berkshire near that town. One of the dogs was killed and identified, but the other two evaded the gun. It was reported that several of the injured sheep in his flock would not live. Mr. Berkshire was preparing to ship a number of lambs on Monday morning, but the raid caused this to be postponed.

These are the first raids of any consequence that have been reported in the county this year. As has been the case for several years the sheep fund is so depleted that these owners will be compelled to wait an indefinite period before they are reimbursed for their loss. And unlicensed dogs continue to roam the fields unmolested.

Twenty-six cows in the herd owned by R. C. Tway, Jefferson, county dairy farmer, produced 3 pounds or more of butterfat each in two days last month, according to an official testing report of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Two cows produced more than five pounds each. The one-day division was led by a cow in the herd of Mrs. A. T. Hart in Jefferson county.

Oak Island community in Kenton county gave a play entitled "The Old Home Place," in order to raise money to finance an agricultural fair and chautauque.

TRIPLE DEFEAT

SUFFERED BY THE BURLINGTON CLUB IN WEEK-END GAMES—BELLEVUE HANDS LIKE NUMBER TO RABBIT HASH—FRANCESVILLE WINS FIRST OF SEASON

Burlington Drops Three After having achieved a winning streak of three straight victories the Burlington club quickly and efficiently annihilated that trio with three losses in two days.

Starting with a double loss to the Walton team on Decoration Day they proceeded to drop one to Petersburg here on Saturday afternoon. The afternoon game at Walton on the holiday was the league game, the morning tilt being an exhibition affair. As a result of the Walton victory in the afternoon the latter club advanced over the prostrated forms of the Burlington aggregation into undisputed possession of second place.

In the morning game Berkshire and DeMoisey were the opposing boxmen with McWethy and Shearer doing the receiving. Berkshire was will from the start but managed to hold the home team to one hit, a misjudged line drive that went for a homer, during the first three innings. In the fourth and fifth, however, the Walton wrecking crew started a barrage which culminated with a terrific homerun by Robinson. Berkshire then was relieved by Akin who finished. DeMoisey pitched effectively all the way and probably would have beaten any man who faced him.

In the afternoon Manager Zimmerman went behind the plate and started his ace, Lefty Sprague, after the league contest. It was more or less a contest between managers, as Manager Glenn, the Walton mentor, occupied the hill for the home team. The Burlington boys started victoriously by driving out four safe hits for three runs in the opening session, but "Roy" showed that he possessed that sterling attribute termed intentional fortitude (better known by a more inelegant term) when he recovered and stayed in there to win the decision.

Sprague pitched a truly clever game and, with clean support, might have earned the verdict, but Glenn's support was not gilt edged by any means. Lefty allowed ten hits and fanned eight, while Glenn permitted but eight safe ones and struck out six.

Zimmer caught a nice game and fooled the populace by flashing some fine throwing to second. Shearer, the Walton receiver, showed a world of class and looks to be all that has been claimed for him. Dugan was a terror to every pitcher who faced him and played fine ball at both first and third. Simpson hit well for Burlington and played his usually clever game at first base.

RESIDENCE OF W. R. HUEY AND STORE AND CONFECTIONERY OF G. W. MARKSBURY BURN—LOSS PARTLY COVERED BY INSURANCE

Flames originating from an unknown source completely destroyed the residence of Walter R. Huey and the hardware establishment of G. W. Marksbury and the confectionery of Bert Marksbury early last Friday.

A passing motorist noticed the flames and spread the alarm but before the bucket brigades could be formed the fire had advanced so far that they could not be controlled. It was only by the most heroic efforts that surrounding buildings were saved. The confectionery of Cecil Gaines, located across the highway from the fire, was on fire in several places at one time. By that time there were sufficient volunteers on hand to extinguish it. Scarcity of water hindered the volunteer firemen to a great extent.

W. R. Huey and wife were in Indianapolis at the time attending the Decoration Day auto races and did not know of their loss until they returned about 11:30 that night. Mr. Huey said that it was impossible to describe ones feelings under such conditions. He said that their first knowledge came when they stopped in front of what had been their home and looked out of their car at the smoldering ruins.

Mr. Huey's home was valued at $9,500 while the combined loss of the Marksbury's is estimated to exceed $12,000. Mr. Huey's loss was partly covered by $5,000.00 insurance and Mr. Marksbury's insurance is reported to be $8,500.00.

Dry Weather Hurts Crops

The dry weather is hurting crops generally over the whole county according to the county agent. While some sections of the county are more dry than others, grass is beginning to burn and stock water is getting low in places.

All young grass sowed this spring is being hurt severely. Some farmers are saying that their oat crop will not amount to very much and that their wheat, hay crop, early potatoes and fruit are making poor growth. A number of the most optimistic tobacco growers have set a good bit of their crop by making a season while others are saying it is better to wait until it rains and then if it doesn't rain the laborer setting the crop out will be saved.

Nevertheless, the weather is the chief topic of discussion wherever you stop. At the best it is a most important farm topic just at the present time.

HUBERT CONNER AT DENVER

Mr. Hubert Conner, Burlington T. D. 3 with Mr. Homer Weatherholt of Owensboro, Kentucky, have been selected as state delegates to the National Holstein-Friesian Association meeting held in Denver, Colorado, this week.

Mr. Conner left Sunday night for Denver where he will remain until the close of the National Holstein Friesian Convention. To have one of the two breeders in the state to be selected for delegates to this convention is quite an honor for Boone county Holstein breeders.

TOM THUMB AT DIXIE PARK

That Florence and Boone county will enter the ranks of those who have been bitten by the Tom Thumb Golf bug was indicated early this week when H. H. Forbes, proprietor of the Dixie Park amusement center, announced that work had been started on one of those miniature courses there. Mr. Forbes said that he hoped to have it completed by June 14th.

Mr. Forbes announced that he will give away $20.00 in gold in a lucky number dance at Dixie Park next Saturday night. This gold will be divided so that $10.00 will be the first prize, $5.00 second and $1.00 each for third and fourth.

There also is a prize walk and prize fox trot every Sunday night.

THE DEADLY AUTOMOBILE

The cost to the people of the U. S. of automobile accidents in 1929 was more than $850,000,000, according to the chairman of the traffic accident statistics of the National Street and Highway Safety Conference. Mr. J. H. Parmelee, whose authority we quote, states that 33,060 persons were killed in motor accidents last year, an increase of 8 per cent over 1928 and nearly double the number of deaths from that cause in 1920. And so far in 1930 the rate of fatalities is increasing.

These fatal motor accidents are not a peculiarity of any particular section or of any class or size of community. On the whole, there are fewer of them in the large cities than in the country districts, in proportion to population. The temptation to careless driving when out of sight of traffic policeman, with no signal lights to be obeyed, is much greater than in crowded traffic, as every motorist knows.

Statistics compiled by the Nebraska State Press Association for 1929 show that in that state, where population is less concentrated than in almost all of the rest of the states and there are only two or three really large population centers, there were 368 motor fatalities last year, besides 123 persons disabled, in 3,634 automobile accidents.

Every victim of a motor accident is a victim of somebody's carelessness. Out of the total number of accidents in Nebraska last year by far the most collisions between two cars. There is never any possible reason for a collision for a collision except carelessness on the part of one driver or both. Sixty-three of the dead in Nebraska were pedestrians, struck by cars. Thirty-nine deaths were of motorists trying to beat a train across a railroad crossing. Twenty-six were killed while speeding. Twenty-four died in skidding accidents. Twelve deaths resulted from trying to pass another car, without swinging wide enough. Blinding headlights forced 127 cars off the road, killing ten persons. Twelve were killed by reckless driving.

The remedy for this increasing toll of death on the highway is partly in improving the roads, eliminating blind curves and dangerous crossings but mainly in a closer supervision of licenses to drivers. Today in a few states children, mental incompetents, cripples and irresponsible persons are forbidden to endanger the lives of others by driving cars. In most states however, anybody may commit manslaughter by this means without restraint.

HIGH PRODUCING HERD ATTRACTS ATTENTION

By constant culling out of poor producers as well as intelligent feeding and general management, Ellis & Weatherholt, Daviess county members of the Kentucky-Indiana Dairy Herd Improvement Association, have built up a farm herd of 335 cows that averaged 364 pounds of butter fat and returned $146 per cow above feed cost in the testing year recently ended.

Homer Weatherholt gave the College of Agriculture of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky the following items about this profitable herd of grade and purebred Holsteins.

The founding of the herd began with 12 grade Holsteins in 1918. Three years later the scrubs were sold and three registered Holsteins added. Thereafter, about twice a year more grades would be replaced with better cows. Mr. Weatherholt joined a dairy improvement association in 1925. The next year more producers were culled out and eight purebreds purchased. When Mr. Weatherholt entered into partnership with M. Ellis 36 grade cows were purchased. During the following year of 1928-29, 20 cows were sent to the packers.

Soybean and alfalfa hay and silage, together with a good homemade ration mixture, comprise the ration. Silage is fed eight months in the year, and Mr. Weatherholt declares he would not do without it. He has found that silage helped materially to reduce the cost of producing milk.

Extra feeding is begun early in the fall, usually between August 25 and September 15, and care taken not to permit milk production to drop. Cows receive grain during dry period, which ranges from six to eight weeks, depending on their condition.

Mr. Weatherholt realizes that testing has been the guide in building up this herd, and even though the association failed to reorganize he is continuing to test. He hopes to attain a herd average of 410 pounds on 44 cows this year.

Early Garden Suggestions

CELERY

(By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture)

Judging from inquiries, one of the most intriguing ambitions of Kentucky gardeners is to grow celery. Reading between the lines, in those same inquiries, celery growing seems to be the ambition most frequently unfulfilled. However, there is no good reason why this should be.

Celery needs a soil, high in humus, to provide a plentiful supply of water. The fertility must be high, particularly as regards nitrogen, for celery is a leaf crop. The best way to supply both humus and plant food is to use manure; a 2-inch dressing spread in, is adequate. It will be of advantage to side dress the rows with nitrate of soda, at the rate of 1 pound to 100 feet, when the plants have about 6 leaves, and again two weeks later.

There are two ways of growing the crop. One is to raise slips in a separate plantbed, and transplant in a specially prepared row; the other, is to sow the seed where the celery is to mature. The former is to be preferred, even though there may be some difficulty in getting the slips to live.

Seed should be sown the first week of June in well enriched soil, light in texture; and the bed should be placed that it will be shaded in the afternoon. The seed should be barely covered; in fact, it is good practice simply to scatter the seed, rake it in lightly, cover with mulch, and then water heavily. As soon as the seed begins to sprout the covering should be removed, and the plants will start off immediately.

In three weeks, the plants may be set in the row. A spot should be chosen that does not receive too much surface drainage, and a trench dug about 12 inches deep. In the bottom an inch of well rotted manure should be mixed with the soil.

The plants should be set in a double row, i. e. two rows, 6 inches apart, and 6 inches apart in the row, so they stagger. It is advisable to remove all the leaves except the heart bud. Watering should be done immediately, and the plants shaded for a few days, until they recover. Side dressing with nitrate of soda as described above for seedlings should be done, and the trench flooded each time.

Toward August close watch should be kept for the appearance of leaf spot. The lower leaves will be the first affected, and at the first sign, spraying with 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture should be begun. Three sprayings at intervals of two weeks should be given, and it will often be found advisable to give a fourth.

By the end of August, more soil should be drawn up to the plants, firming it so as to make the plants assume an upright, compact growth, and so that blanching will begin, or, if the early sorts, such as Golden Self Blanching and Easy Blanching or Columbia are used, 12-inch boards may be used. The earth-blanching method is recommended, for the larger and later Winter Queen and Giant Pascal. Not too much soil at any time should be drawn up, for it is the object to make the heart grow out. If it is smothered rotting may take place.

The celery may be left in the row even after the first few frosts come provided it is covered with paper or with sacks, and it will continue growing in tallness, and the stems will acquire "body." About October 15 plans for trenching celery for winter use should be made.

KENTUCKY COWS GOOD PRODUCERS

The 11 dairy herd improvement associations in the state contained 115 cows that produced 50 pounds or more of fat each last month, according to the monthly report of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. Three hundred and thirty-four cows produced 40 to 50 pounds of fat each.

And She's Out of Reach

By Albert T. Reid

IN PRAISE OF EARTHWORMS

If the earthworms were to publish a magazine, some dramatic success stories would be recorded.

It would tell, for example, the remarkable career of John G. Worm.

Born of humble parents, in dark surroundings, he managed by his own effort to push himself up to the surface. There he was spied by Fortune in the form of a robin, which snatched him high into the clouds. His moment of elevation was brief, but while it lasted the vision was splendid.

It would tell of Frederick L. Worm who was working along quietly one day when an upheaval tossed him to fame and glory. Success was attending him, as is often the case. He was impaled upon a fishhook and carried away to be immersed in a strange element. There his life ended, but not before he had done the biggest job ever achieved by any member of his family. The fortune he handed down to him, but it was a big fortune.

To the other worms these stories might be discouraging. "Fame is for the few," they would say. "Nothing ever happens to us." We just sit around awhile and die."

It would surprise them to know that a book was written about worms by the great scientist Darwin. Their surprise would be intensified if they were to learn that this book makes no mention of the exceptional members of their tribe. The few worms that are carried into the clouds, or succeed in landing big fish, are dismissed by him as of small importance.

But the great mass of unknown worms, who spend their whole lives beneath the surface of observation, he calls as the most important creatures in the world.

If for one year they should cease their industrious digestion of the leaf mold and their incessant string of the ground, no crops would grow, and animals and men would die.

I think that Darwin's book on earthworms should be a part of all education, along with the inspiring biographies of the great. It would tend to teach us humility. We human beings who walk so proudly as monarchs of the world—what are we, anyway? Beneficiaries of the "worms, without whose leave we could not live a year.

As for fame, it is stimulating, and lifts the spirit of the crowd. But shall we despair because to most of us it is denied?

Beneath the surface life is carried forward by the sustained loyalty of the mass. And who shall doubt that there are purposes as far beyond our reckoning as our lives—which they make possible—are beyond the vision of the worms?

JESUS IN THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Three things are to be in mind in preparing the lesson study for this week. Two days are being observed. One is Children's Day and the lesson will probably be omitted in the Schools, but will be followed as usual by the members of the Home Department, and to them special greetings are extended. Second, the entire series of incidents covering all day Thursday should be followed. Begin with the journey from Bethany for the last time. The Passover was observed in the upper room in Jerusalem, and there for meditation. The room used probably belonged to Mary, and her son John Mark was the man bearing the pitcher of water who became the guide of those who went in advance to prepare the feast. Note how the disciples avoided the washing of feet and this was attended to by Jesus. Judas was given a last opportunity of repenting but he left before the Lord's Supper was instituted. Then there is the wondrous table talk as recorded in John 14-15-16, and followed by the truly called Lord's Prayer in chapter 17.

Thirdly, this very day marks the 1900th anniversary of the Descent of the Holy Spirit on the Day of Pentecost, and the whole of Christian Church has been teaching and preaching with reference to this Day for months past. Every experience of the Holy Spirit can be repeated and renewed. The statement is as true as ever, "Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord," hosts," Zechariah 4:6. The disciples waited in prayer for ten days in that upper room in Jerusalem. Then Peter preached with spiritual power and the record of 3,000 conversions is found in Acts 2.

On the way from the Upper Room in Jerusalem, on that moonlight night, Jesus sought to tell the disciples that awful times for all were close at hand. The crucifixion was again declared but they were likewise advised of the resurrection. We always have abundant promises in advance of great calamity so that we can be strengthened meanwhile by the assurance of hope.

Peter was over bold in declaring that nothing could check his loyalty, but he failed repeatedly, before the day dawned. First was the experience in the Garden of Gethsemane, where Jesus went for a special season of personal prayer. He invited Peter, James and John to be near in friendly companionship. All three fell asleep three times while Jesus was in the midst of His agony in the deeper part of the Garden. The crucifixion was not by our Saviour in His lonely vigil rather than when He was helpless in the hands of the soldiers on the way to or on the cross. Our greatest victories are also wrought out when we are alone and fight our way through to a conclusion of "I will" or "I will not," as the case may be.

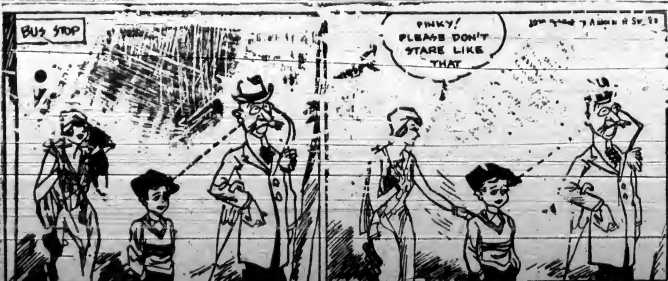

Jesus was not trying to avoid the cross, but rather was concerned lest He fail physically before the work of Atonement could be complete. Jesus' attitude in prayer must be ours also if we make our petitions safe ones for our own good. In boldness of faith and with full confidence in His Heavenly Father, He said "Not my will, but Thine be done." One of the most impressive paintings in the whole realm of Christian art is "Christ in Gethsemane," by Hofmann. This should be part of the wall adornment in every Sunday School. Copies can be purchased from a few cents up to as many dollars.

In calmness of perfect faith Jesus came to the third time to the sleeping trio and said "Arise, let us be going; behold, he is at hand that betrayeth me." He had indeed taken man's low place and voluntarily was advancing to pay the penalty for the sins of the world.

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

O. M. Rogers, son of James Rogers, of Bellevue, and Miss Katie Smith, daughter of Dr. J. F. Smith, of this place, will be married at 4 p. m., to-day at the residence of this bride's brother, Henry Smith here in town. Rev. Hoover will officiate. At eight o'clock this evening N. E. Riddell, son of F. Riddell, and Miss Katie Huey, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Huey, all of Burlington, will be married at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Geo. F. Piper, in Newport. The above couples will leave Cincinnati tonight for a tour of several days in the east.

School closed the 29th day of May. Edward Bentler won the prize in the primary grammar class.

Russell Smith was in attendance nine months. Russell is an excellent student, kind and obedient in his deportment.

Miss Emma Adams, of Big Bone attended school for four months—was a good student and learned rapidly.

Little Leola Clore began with the alphabet and at the close of school could read nicely in the second reader and wrote well.

Chas. House, of Limaburg, is a sturdy little fellow, who did good work while in attendance.

Carl Craven, of Limaburg, also, is a hustler. Carl would never go to play unless he was sure he knew his lessons.

Mabel Kirtley got the last head mark in the advanced grammar.

Petersburg

The Pete Laurels defeated the All-Stars of Aurora Saturday by a score of 11 to 4.

J. B. Berkshire, an old Pete boy is working at the carpenter's trade at Sullivan, Indiana.

Joe Papet is helping J. B. Brooks in his repair shop, and they get all the work they can do.

H. C. Duncan and Jas. T. Gaines, of Bullittsville, were in town Saturday night, and took in the recital at the hall.

Miss Lizzie Hartman is sick and gone to her father's near the mouth of Woolper.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Edward Botts, of Plattsville, was in town the other day, still disabled by his collar bone which was recently broken.

The Bellevue base ball club won its second game at Burlington team last Saturday. On account of the rain only five innings were played. The score stood 11 to 7. Dave Atkins umpired the game and the boys say he was fair on all his decisions.

Mrs. O. P. Conner has been quite sick for several days.

J. M. Lassing made a business trip to Fayette county one day last week.

John M. Henderson, who is extensively in the propagation of German Carp, was in town one day last week. When he feeds his Carp he calls them as he would his hogs, and they come in great droves to receive their food.

W. E. Vest completed the survey and plat of the town of Burlington last week.

Union

A new fence has been built around Sardis church.

Several families from this vicinity attended a fish fry given by James Bailey of Bullittsville. L. H. Vosheh was one of the party and claims a fine time and plenty of fish for his share.

Florence

Robert Rice is having a handsome front porch added to his residence.

Our farmers are selling, readily, their clips of wool at 25 cents per pound, and their lambs at $4 and $5 per head.

Rev. Ed. Stephens will preach at the Presbyterian church on the 3rd Sunday in this month, and on the 3rd Sunday's thereafter.

Bros. Mann and Utz continue to fill their appointments at their respective churches with great acceptance to their people and all who hear them.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Saturday Uncle Gus Weaver was exhibiting a very beautiful stone which he thinks is a mad-stone. It came from Virginia.

About 20 boys, 20 men, 7 or 8 dogs, 1 negro and 1 coon made time lively on the street for awhile Thursday evening. The coon passed in his chips.

R. H. Sandford has the contract for hauling the 600 bushels of sand to be used in building the infirmary. He gets it down on Middle creek.

Pink Rice and Miss Susie Carver were among those in search of the drowned-ponies, Saturday.

Dudley Rouse now has his goods shipped to Silver Lake from whence he has them hauled in wagons.

The Goss-Ryan prize fight between Joe Goss and Paddy Ryan, in West Virginia, Tuesday, resulted in Goss getting pounded almost to death. Ryan was hurt but little. When Goss was in jail here he swore he would never enter the ring again in this country. Guess he will swear off again now.

A young cyclone passed through some of the farms west of the town Saturday night. Its path was about 40 feet wide, and all the fencing in its way was leveled.

Bellevue

The census enumerators for this county are so far as I know, George W. O'Neal for Walton and Verona, J. W. Hughes for Hamilton, A. Q. Baker for Carlton and Bellevue, and T. H. Baker for Taylorsport. They all enter upon the discharge of the duties of their positions the first day of June.

Miss Mollie O'Nan, who has been on a visit here for some weeks, will return to her home near Frankfort the current week.

Misses Hattie Steel, of Rabbit Hash, and Lou Burries, of Evansville, Indiana, were visiting the Misses Smith last Sunday.

Rev. A. Vardiman and wife have returned from Owensboro, Kentucky, whither they went to attend the Baptist State Association.

SHOULD BOONE COUNTY HAVE A BULL ASS'N?

Many dairymen during the past few months have called on the county agent for information as to the advisability for the organization of a bull association.

A typical bull association consists of five blocks each containing one or more herds. At least one bull is assigned to each block. To prevent inbreeding each bull is advanced to the next block in the circuit at the end of every two year period.

Some points to consider as to the necessity of an association of this kind are:

1. The ultimate goal is not better bulls in itself but better daughters or cows as the result of the use of better bulls.

2. It takes at least three years to know whether the herd sire has increased or decreased the type and production of his daughters over their dams and by this time the majority of the herd sires used in Boone county have been shipped to the stock yards.

3. When the daughters have proven themselves better than their dams in the association, the sires can be kept as long as they live or are fit for service. When they have proven themselves as not being able to improve on their daughters they can be sold for slaughter and replaced with proven bulls. With present plans for handling good herd sires can safely be kept until no longer useful.

4. The dairyman with limited means is the one who can least afford the great losses that come from careless breeding. The association thus gives protection from such.

5. Thru use of the Northern Ky. Dairy Herd Improvement Association now in force in Boone county, the value of herd sires can easily be proven and a number of proven herd sires soon can be secured.

6. Thru intelligent handling, disease factors can easily be controlled.

7. The intelligent cooperative promotion of outstanding bulls will not hold back any one breeder or blood line as some are inclined to discuss but will more often concentrate and incubate the best and will in turn offer a broader field to dispose of at better prices all surplus stock produced.

The production of good dairy cows means a most vital point in Boone county's agriculture. There is a general feeling that the bull association could form an important part of the improvement program. Those who are interested in the dairy program are invited to think the idea over and to offer suggestions on the practicability of such an organization.

The Lexington Kiwanis Club will provide ten silver cups for outstanding Fayette county 4-H club boys and girls, and a member of the Kiwanis Club will send three juniors to a 4-H club camp.

Will pleated skirts be worn this summer? is a question that readers often ask, and it is a question that we ask ourselves when we take inventory of the clothes we have on hand.

The answer to the question is that pleated skirts will be worn, but there is a decided difference between the pleated skirts of last season and the season before and of today. The side pleated skirt set on a deep yoke to be worn with long overblouses has little place in an up-to-date wardrobe because blouses of the new sort are either worn tucked in or else they are so short as to extend only a little below a normal waistline.

The new pleated skirts are usually made with a smooth yoke and the pleating is wide and flaring. Sometimes the material of the skirt is set in fairly wide pleats which are stitched down to form a deep hip yoke, and the doubling of the material beneath the wide pleats is cut out at the under side so as to eliminate unnecessary bulkiness.

Some of the new box pleats are pressed in such a way that they stand out in a truly box-like manner. An advantage of the wide box pleat over the narrow side pleat is that it may easily be re-pressed at home or by the tailor, without being sent to a professional pleater.

Having secured 120 acres of tomatoes, the Preston cannery in Bath county will operate this year after being idle for two years.

FIVE CAR LOADS LIMESTONE USED

More than five car loads of ground agricultural limestone have been shipped into Boone county and used by Boone county farmers this spring according to county agent Fortner.

Those farmers who have purchased and used this stone are J. C. Bedinger, Helle Bros., Wm. Doyle, James Brown, Joel Gray, J. B. Bespass, Purvis Pope, Lee Gaines and others with whom the County agent has not secured information today.

This is the largest shipment of agricultural limestone into the county this early in the year without concentrated effort. There are a number of other farmers making plans to purchase lime earlier in the season. Practically all the above men bought lime this spring from past experience

Official Washington resents Prejudiced Admirals advice

BY FRED HOLMES

Washington Cor. for The Boone County Recorder

WASHINGTON—When you get ready to build that little home and want to know just how many washtubs to stick down in the basement, you would not ask advice from the proprietor of a public laundry. He'd tell you that you wouldn't need any tubs. If you thought that possibly a little additional life insurance was within you, means there is no possible question about what the life insurance solicitor would recommend. If you wonder whether or not you need a haircut, you know in advance what the barber's advice would be. If you want advice as to how many battleships the United States of America ought to build you wouldn't go over to Annapolis and have the midshipmen vote on it.

In other words, the folly of soliciting advice from so-called naval experts to the casual mind is emphasized by the thought that none of them is going to advise against appointments, promotions and ultimate retirement pensions, or need to the prospective subaltern the satisfaction of getting into a uniform and parading himself at the government's expense in all of the seaport capitals of the world.

Here in Washington it is thought that it is high time somebody in authority told a bunch of admirals just where they get off. Naturally, and with far from unselfish motives, a high officer in our navy wants to have just as many ships of war built and put in commission as the people of the United States can be scared into paying for.

In view of the fact that the veriest layman knows well enough just where they stand, it is incomprehensible that for weeks admirals of our navy have been permitted to do unheard of things, making public statements which challenge the judgement of their political superiors and undoubtedly tending to cause the gravest embarrassment to the foreign relations of the United States.

For example, there is Admiral Nulton, who wants to warm our patriotic hearts, so to speak, with the statement that he sees no reason why Great Britain should have the privilege to say what kind of cruisers the United States may or may not build. As a matter of fact, Admiral Nulton is the Commander of the Boston naval district and it is none of his business to express opinions as to the wisdom of making an international treaty to limit navies.

Then comes Admiral Hough, of the General Board, who announces that he "does not feel that we have got as much as we might have." Similarly, it is none of his business to express his personal feelings on this subject.

Then comes Admiral Day, talking about "the American plan" to employ submarines in defense of "the Philippines and for activity against the enemy in his own waters." The spectacle of this collection of naval officers appearing in public to attack an international treaty, is shocking beyond measure. It is a serious question as to whether they ought to be permitted to testify at all in public. It is certainly true that if they do testify they ought to be vigorously excluded from the field of policy and held to statements of purely technical opinions. To permit them to be used as they have been used to manufacture and promulgate propaganda for the purpose of obvious anti-Japanese and anti-British is an encouragement of a vicious form of militarism.

Under our system of government, the military is supposed to be subordinate to the civil power. Militarism in the exact sense of the word exists when the civilian power in a nation is or attempts to be predominant. History proves to us that in their sphere our sea fighters are and always have been without peers; but the vice-admirals and rear admirals who now attempt to project themselves as expert advisors into a political controversy seem to have forgotten that the General Board acts as if it thought it was a body of time-tried statesmen, whereas it is in fact a body of elderly warriors which is in existence to offer advice to the civilian Secretary of the Navy and the civilian President of the U. S. It is an unseemly and gross usurpation of power for the General Board to undertake to defeat an international treaty which its superiors have negotiated. President Hoover would not overstep his executive rights if he summoned these admirals to order and remind them in unmistakable terms as to just where they fit into the American scheme of government. If this thing goes on it would be hard to tell where it would stop. Even now the admirals have done enough mischief to embarrass not only the present administration but the government. If they keep it up for a few weeks longer, incited by radical recklessness like that sponsored by Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, irreparable damage may be done. Someone in authority should call a halt on their activities and so unmistakably that our neighbors will appreciate that they do not reflect the views of those who control American policy.

It is thought that Mr. Hoover should not tolerate this business any further. No head of government, no American President should stand for what President Hoover has already stood. A Cleveland, a Roosevelt or a Wilson, would have come down like a ton of brick upon this outrageous insubordination. And when the dust clears away America and the world will know that it is the civilian power and neither vice-admirals or major-generals who make America's foreign policy.

Last August your correspondent predicted that no tariff bill would be passed by Congress during the special session then convening. Furthermore, he expressed his opinion that it was exceedingly unlikely that any tariff bill would be passed during the regular session to follow, which is now booked for adjournment in June.

The old guard in the House succeeded in putting over a bill which was generally looked upon as an abomination and the Senate, under the leadership of super-lobbyist Grundy, went the House one better in passing the bill acceptable to no one other than its supporters—with a very serious question as to the sincerity of the support.

Following the usual mode of procedure, the bills were referred to a joint conference and the conferees reached an agreement and made their returns to the Senate and House. However, the tariff ship struck a rock in the Senate in the form of a point of order raised by Senator Allen W. Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, to the effect that the Senate and House conferees had exceeded their power in making a compromise arrangement on the flexible tariff provision. The point of order was sustained by Vice-President Curtis and the whole situation is again in a state of confusion worse confounded.

Vice-President Curtis' ruling was to the effect that the conferees had put into their compromise new matter not found in either the House or the Senate flexible provision. In making this ruling the Vice-President is said to have been in full accord with President Hoover who, it is declared on good authority, did not approve of certain provisions.

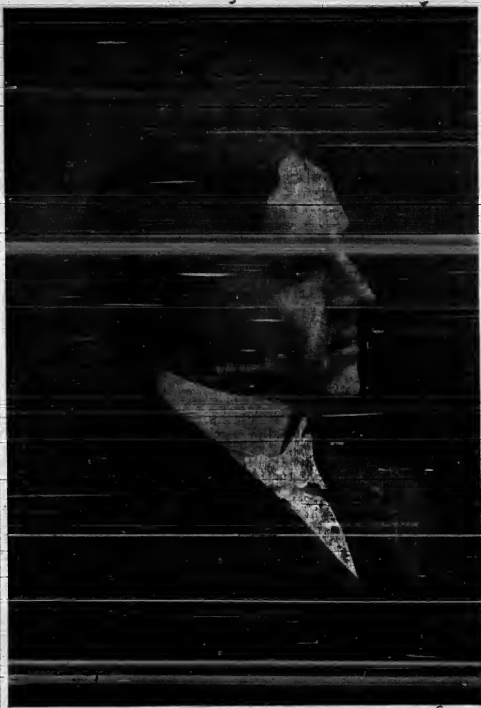

The effect of the Vice-President's ruling was to throw the controversial section back to the conferees. This means that the bill is again out of the hands of the Senate and House and back in conference. The controversial section covers the flexible tariff, debenture, provisions relating to the personnel of the tariff commission and several rate items, such as lumber, cement and silver.

In addition to the delay the consequences of the Vice-President's ruling will be important in other particulars in view of the Chair's decision against the insertion of new matter by the conferees which was declared by Senator James T. Watson of Illinois. Republican leader, that it would be almost impossible to adjust the differences between the two houses on the flexible question otherwise than by taking practically the identical language of the House's flexible clause.

This would give the President broader power than provided in the present law for the compromise provision and would enable him on finding the fact by the tariff commission to raise or lower rates on the basis of differences in competitive conditions.

Just what would be the result of reconsideration of the section by the conferees is a question, but it is thought to be more than possible that irreconcilable disagreements will prevent the passage of any tariff bill whatsoever during the present session. What President Hoover would do about the bill if passed in a thing like its present form is still problematical. It is practically anybody in Washington is wrong when it comes to sign the bill. If when it gets to him the country would like him a lot better, the politicians in his own as well as the

The pall-bearers were Wm. Folmer, Morris Thomas, Reuben Conner, Stanley Chrisman, W. A. Price and McShane Shropshire.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

POINT PLEASANT

Mr. Howard Tanner spent Sunday with her mother Mrs. Sallie Souther.

Mrs. Geo. Wernz spent Wednesday with her sister Mrs. Webb McGlasson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whitley entertained with a dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Fritch and children.

Miss Elizabeth Schuker is spending this week with her grandfather and uncle near Walton.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dolwick and little daughter and Mr. Chas. Weber spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wernz and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garnett, Mrs. John Wernz, Sr., and Miss B. Anderson spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Belle Baker.

Mrs. Wm. Whitley and son Billy, spent Monday in the city.

HERE AND THERE

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Griffith attended a family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hunt, of Verona.

Jno. Craddock who makes his home with his brother W. W. Craddock, left Monday for treatment in a Cincinnati hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Sorrel, who live on the farm purchased by Bert Loomis are the proud parents of twin boys since last week.

Robert Beemon, who attended college at State, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Beemon here.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks to all those who helped when our home was destroyed by fire.

Local Happenings

They do say that lightning never strikes twice in the same place, but misfortune is known to strike twice in the same family. Last week we reported an accident to one son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith. While this lad was recovering from that injury a brother shot himself in the calf of his leg with a 22-calibre pistol. The ball lodged in the calf and Dr. M. A. Yelton immediately injected "lock jaw" serum. It is said that it may not be necessary to remove the bullet and, although the child was suffering considerably, it was thought that he would sustain no serious ill effects.

Mrs. D. E. Stanley, of Lebanon, Mo., spent from Thursday until Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kelly on the East Bend pike south of Burlington.

Prof. G. A. McKirk and family moved to their home here last week. They will live in the Garrison residence, known as the J. C. Revell home, located north of Burlington. McKirk will be the principal of the local high school next term. He is a native of Springfield, Ky., and was principal of Silver Grove High School during the term just closed.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Brown a fine son on Sunday June 1. He has been christened Robert Walter.

David Carter, of Erlanger, was demonstrating a Studebaker car to the court day crowd last Monday. He is connected with the Dempsey Motor Car Company, of Erlanger.

Uncle Sam Cason was a pleasant caller in the county seat last Thursday, accompanied by Otto Souther. Mr. Cason says that he has passed his 90th mile stone by four months and still doesn't feel half bad. Judging by his actions and appearance he will outlive many younger men than he.

Mrs. Robert Gaines and little daughter of Erlanger, were visiting her father S. W. Tolin here last Thursday.

Arthur (Podge) Alloway was a Burlington visitor last Thursday afternoon and while here gave way to the temptation to fling a few into the catchers glove. In spite of the fact that Podge already has passed his sixtieth year one is startled by the speed and curves of this grizzled veteran still is able to put on the ball. Few of the present day fans are acquainted with Podge's long and distinguished professional career as a pitcher and umpire.

J. B. Arvin, local express truck operator, is gradually recovering from an extended period on the shelf as the result of a sprained ankle. He expects soon to be able to make his regular run to Cincinnati each day. During his absence from duty his place has been filled by his son-in-law, Lloyd Kelly.

R. E. Berkshire, Master Commissioner, sold nine pieces of real estate at public auction at the court-house door last Monday. It was the greatest number of commissions since that have been made since he became commissioner eight years ago.

As the Reverend Professor F. E. Walker walked down town early last Monday morning he noticed an unusual number of automobiles parked on the streets. Upon inquiring he learned that it was county court day. Although he has been a citizen of the county seat since early September it was the first Monday he had spent in town, due to the fact of course that he was teaching in the Hebron school. Now that he has seen a court day in town he really can be termed a Burlington citizen.

James Smith and John Sommers, of near Union, were Recorder office callers last Monday. Naturally the topic of conversation that was uppermost was the protracted drought. Mr. Sommers said that nothing could be gained by praying for rain as long as the wind was in the north. Since that time, however, the wind has changed so we suggest that Mr. Sommers can get busy.

Harry Gully, who is one of our most aggressive young farmers, has been incapacitated for the past two weeks with a lacerated thumb.

Geo B. Miller, of Florence, was in Burlington Monday. Mr. Miller recently returned from a motor trip with friends in North Carolina.

The horseshoe pitchers who take part in the tournament will be indebted to the skill and perseverance of Miss Martha Blythe in the preparation of the large bracket placards which are displayed in business houses in Burlington.

Prof. Marshall E. Hearin and wife left early this week for Morganfield, where they will visit relatives of Mr. Hearin for a few weeks before entering college for the summer at the University of Kentucky.

H. W. Shearer and family, of Newport, spent Decoration Day and the week-end with F. A. Hall and wife here. Mr. Shearer spent Sunday casting for the finny tribe in Gunpowder.

Ed. Sandford witnessed the base ball game here Saturday afternoon. Ed. once was one of Boone county's most crafty pitchers and even yet possesses a measure of his former skill. He pitched a game at Belview on Decoration Day.

Miss Katie Kirkpatrick, of Cincinnati, is visiting her mother Mrs. Lavinia Kirkpatrick here. She recently returned from an eight months tour in the far west. Miss Kirkpatrick says California is a wonderful climate.

Frank Maxwell, of Covington, was shaking hands with friends here last Sunday.

Mrs. Shelby Cowen, of Miami, Fla., and Miss Emma Wood and Jas. Wood, of Cincinnati, were the guests of Nell H. Martin here one Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller and mother, Mrs. Carrie Miller, and little Misses Mary Louise Lucy and Evelyn Miller, of Hebron, were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirkpatrick and family. While at the county seat Mrs. Elmer Miller made her second visit to the court house. Mrs. Miller was born and reared in Gunpowder neighborhood in this county and this was her second time within the walls of the Temple of Justice of Boone county.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Congelton and little daughter Gladys Jean, were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Easton, of Gunpowder neighborhood.

Robert Beemon is visiting his parents here. He has finished his freshman year at the University of Kentucky and will return there on June 16th to enter summer school.

Mrs. Carrie P. Riddell and sister-in-law Mrs. L. L. Pace, of McMinnville, Tennessee, have been enjoying the mineral baths at Dry Ridge for the past week. They returned home Wednesday.

In memory of Sadie McCarty, who died May 25th, 1939.

Dearest Sadie you have left us,
And our loss we deeply feel,
But 'tis God who has bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.
Yet again we hope to meet you,
When the day of life has fled,
When in Heaven we'll greet you
Where no farewell tears are shed.
HER AUNT

BOONE COUNTY STUDENTS GRADUATE AT KENTUCKY

Approximately 600 students will receive degrees at the 63rd annual commencement exercises at the University of Kentucky, to be held June 2 at 10 o'clock in the men's gymnasium on the University campus. Dr. William Clayton Bower, professor of Religious Education at the University of Chicago will deliver the baccalaureate address, and Dr. Henry Goddard Leach, editor of the FORUM will give the commencement address.

Approximately 450 bachelor degrees will be conferred, and fifty or more graduate students including one or more candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy will be candidates for degrees from the Graduate School. Students graduating in mid-semester will also receive their degrees.

The candidates for degrees from this county are:
Sarah Early Cropper, Burlington—Bachelor of Arts.
Walter Dudley Vest, Walton—B. S. in Commerce.

Plans have been made to organize a dairy herd improvement association among farmers in Boyd, Carter and Lawrence counties.

Straddle Rows In Replanting Corn

Where corn is replanted following damage from webworms or cutworms, the old rows should be straddled and the new corn put, midway between them, suggests Prof. W. A. Price of the University of Kentucky Experiment Station. This means that old plants that are left will furnish feed until the worms have reached the harmless stage.

Many reports have been received of damage from worms, the latest being webworm injury to corn in Woodford, Bourbon, Lincoln and Kenton counties.

Webworms, according to Professor Price, are not infesting insects and usually do not attack cultivated crops. They injure corn on sod land, or waste land by eating the stems of the young plants below the surface of the ground, often twisting them completely out of shape and stunting their growth so they never do well afterward.

Webworm injury appears soon after the plants are up, and sometimes is mistaken for that of other corn pests, such as billbugs and cutworms. The work of webworms can be recognized by the presence of a loose silken web containing bits of dirt, leading to a short, silk-lined tunnel in the ground, usually at the base of the plant.

The soil webworm will not lay its eggs on cultivated land and there is no danger of a second attack, once the worms already in the ground have reached maturity. For that reason, Prof. Price says that land intended for corn should be plowed in the previous fall.

Where the worms appear in the spring it is often necessary to replant. This should be done midway between the old rows, where the damage is sufficient to require entire replanting.

PETERSBURG

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nixon have a new born son May 26th.

Dogs killed Aylor Bros., sheep last Saturday night and B. H. Berkshire's Sunday. One dog was killed by Mr. Berkshire.

Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Carter were dinner guests Sunday of Mrs. H. C. Matthews and family.

Mrs. James Elam and daughter are here for a visit with Mrs. Elam's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Walton.

Hubert Cox spent Saturday night and Sunday in Aurora.

Mrs. Ralph White and children were guests last week of Chas. Shinkle and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryle were Sunday guests of Mrs. Susan Ryle.

Those from here attending college at Lexington are home for the summer.

Wyman and Ruth Ann Stephens were the guests of Miss Nell Stephens Monday.

Miss Emelyn McCord is in Lexington this week.

Mrs. J. M. Lassing, Jr., and daughter, Mr. Wm. Hensley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gaines and Dorothy Ann were visiting in Rising Sun Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berkshire and Linda Jane, spent last Tuesday here with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Berkshire.

Mr. Mark Holt, of Indianapolis, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Holt, of North Bend, are guests of Mrs. Hannah Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jones, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, were the guests of Mr. Jones' sister, Mrs. Ella Aera, last week.

Mrs. Murphy, of Cincinnati, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. O. S. Watts.

Mrs. Ida Thompson is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Lon Allen Grant.

A number of folks visited our little "City of the Dead" last Friday to pay tribute to their loved ones who have passed on.

Mesdames Wm. Graves, Owen Adra, Nora Southern and Charles Stephens called on Mrs. Owen Allen last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rue's dinner guests Sunday were Roy Rue and family and other relatives of Cincinnati.

The Reds will entertain the Blues Saturday night June 14th. Everyone on each side are requested and invited to be present.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each and every one for the kindness and help to our sister Mrs. W. C. Bondurant while she was living and during her sickness and death. Especially do we want to thank Rev. Beall and Mr. Scott Chambers for their kind assistance. We assure you all we appreciate and will ever remember your kind act of sympathy.

TRIPLE DEFEAT

and Miller of the Walton club the Burlington team resembled an all-star assemblage on Saturday afternoon when it took the field against Petersburg. Akh was on the mound for the home team and pitched cleverly, though hit hard at several points after the side should have been retired.

Petersburg tried out a new pitcher by the name of Brill and he looked the part of a very capable twirler. He permitted the supposed hitters who faced him to garner but eight bingles for two runs, while his team chalked up eight runs for him to go. Cox picked off five consecutive safe hits in five times at bat for what may stand as a season's record. Glenn hit the only drive that was longer than a double when he drove to right center for three sacks, a homer on any other field in the league.

Rabbit Hash suffered two overwhelming defeats at the hands of Belview at the Belview park on Decoration Day. The score of the first game was 20-0 with the second tilt winding up 19-4.

Mutt Rogers and J. Walton formed the battery in the first fracas opposed by Riggs and Stephens for Rabbit Hash. In the aftermath the veteran Ed. Sandford started in the box with Whitey Rogers receiving his slants. Opposed to them for Rabbit Hash were Black and Stephens. Sandford was relieved late in the game by Pete Brady.

Needless to say both of these were slugging matches as far as Belview was concerned, while Rabbit Hash, though scoring but four runs in one of the two contests, helped out a total of 37 hits, including doubles by A. Rogers, J. Brady, J. Clow, Mutt Rogers and Wm. Rogers and two circuit smashes by J. Clow. Rabbit Hash smacked up a total of 15 safe drives, including a triple and a double by Cliff Pope, doubles by C. Black, Abdon, Robert Stephens and Hodges.

Saturday Also

Although Belview knocked off Rabbit Hash for a couple of victories on Friday, yet neither one of these counted in the league standing. However, on Saturday they made it the third straight; and this one was officially listed as a league victory. The latter contest was played at Rabbit Hash with Bill Rogers opposing Bob Wilson. Rogers, recently released by Lawrenceburg, was at his best and allowed but two scattered hits and fanned eleven. One man reached second base and that was the result of an error. Belview made sixteen hits off the Wilson delivery. Bob Brady leading the way with four out of five. Bucky Rogers drove out a home run while H. P. Clow accompanied with a triple.

They Lose Again Sunday

With an enviable record of five straight victories under their belts in the county league the Belview team seems on their way. However, after a great start, they seem to have lost their winning complex in the Spinney League, which loop they led for several weeks.

Last Sunday Verona came down and administered a sound thrashing the final score being 7-4. Again Belview put up a miserable fielding game behind the winning pitching of Elbert Loudon, who was starting his first game of the year, and Joe Brady who relieved him.

Powers was on the mound for Verona and permitted but eight hits and helped himself very effectively with the stick. Whitey Rogers, who is hitting better than .500 in this league, continued his hitting streak by accumulating half of the eight hits made by Belview.

Next Sunday Ednton will visit Belview and on the succeeding Sunday they will entertain a Class "A" team from Cincinnati. The name of the team will be announced next week.

Bullittville Christian Church

Sunday school was held at ten o'clock with sixty-five present. Church services next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, subject "Pentecost." Christian Endeavor service at 7 o'clock. Children Day exercises will be held Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

4-H Club Members Off To Junior Week

The week of June 9-14 will be a happy time for 600 members of 4-H clubs selected in 80 or more counties to attend the annual club, round-up and Junior Week in Lexington. They have been chosen in elimination contests which have been going forward among the 22,000 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubs in the state.

A reward for interest in and application of improved farm and home practices, delegations of junior farmers and homemakers from all sections will journey to Lexington for a week of education, inspiration and recreation.

Assembled on the beautiful campus of the University of Kentucky there will be available to them all the facilities of this great institution of learning. President Frank L. McVay will welcome them at their first general assembly. An address will be delivered by Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the College of Agriculture the second morning. Gov. Flem D. Sampson has been invited to speak on Thursday morning, and President H. L. Donovan of Eastern State Teachers College will speak Friday morning.

Contests will be held through the week to select state champion farm, home and dairy demonstration teams, the healthiest boy and girl, the best dressed girl, and the best judges of foods and canned goods. These championships will represent Kentucky in national contests in Chicago and St. Louis.

C. C. C. LINES

The Consolidated Coach Corporation will award a Junior Week transportation scholarship to Boone county 4-H clubs according to word received by the county agent last Monday.

The scholarship came as a surprise and is received with pleasure. With the help of the two L. & N. Railroad scholarships and the Early & Daniel scholarship each winner of the contest competing in the state events will receive awards through the above scholarships. The county 4-H clubs wish to thank all of the above organizations for their cooperation in this work. The C. C. C. scholarship will go to the county health champion.

MAKE CATTLE TOUR

Mr. Mike Goodridge and son Stanley, Mr. Doc Goodridge and son Ben, Mr. Lloyd Siskman and Mr. O. C. Hater, of Hebron, Mr. Alvin Stephens of Burlington and county agent H. R. Forkner made a tour of a number of the leading purebred Jersey herds of the county last Thursday in an attempt to locate suitable 4-H club heifers.

Stanley Goodridge purchased a type 4-H heifer for his calf club work in the rounds from Mr. Thad Ryle, Grant R. D. Prices were secured on a number of other heifers and plans made for purchases at a later date.

LIMABURG

College Boy Raises 1400 Chickens

Mr. Grant Maddox, Florence R. D. 1, who graduated from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky the past year is meeting with splendid success in the poultry industry this year.

Grant has hatched off more than 1400 baby chicks and with the exception of those which have gone into the frying pan the majority are alive and growing fine. This is contrary to the experience that a number of Boone county poultrymen have had this spring.

A road side market built up with help of his father while he was in college is taking all the surplus cockerels and eggs produced. Grant has plans for the building of a large shed roof-laying house that will take care of all pullets to be used for laying purposes this fall and winter. He has cooperated with the county agent the past few years in keeping records on egg production, cost of production and receipts and has built up a good strain of production Rhode Island Reds.

Department of the DOMESTIC ARTS GUILD

Questions regarding recipes and household administration problems will be answered in these columns. Address Anita Auch, care of this paper.

Conducted by Anita Auch
Expert Dietitian
Household Economist

Friday Dinner
Baked Fish
Duchess Potatoes Creamed Onions
New Corn on the cob
Cucumber Aspic Salad
Strawberry Cottage Pudding with Cream Sauce
Coffee or Tea

Baked Fish
For baking, we suggest, white fish such as pickerel, flounder, haddock or halibut. Pickerel comes in about the first of June, but it may be the market at this time. For stuffing the fish, make a bread stuffing as follows:

1 1/4 cups fine bread crumbs
4 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon or more finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley
Salt and pepper.

Mix well and use to stuff the fish. Sew the fish and season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. If the fish is not a fish rich in fat, add a bit of butter. Allow 15 minutes to the pound for baking. Bake with hot water and melted butter frequently during the baking. Serve on a hot platter with slices of lemon and parsley.

Duchess Potatoes
To fluffy mashed potatoes add two beaten egg yolks and a little more cream. Either pipe with a pastry bag and tube on to a buttered baking tin or pile in a buttered baking dish and bake in a hot oven until hot through and nicely browned.

Creamed Onions
Use rather large new onions and parboil until tender, about 10 minutes in salted water. Drain and add to rich white sauce. Season highly with salt and pepper.

Cucumber Aspic Salad
The aspic given below, includes the gelatin, cold water, boiling water, vinegar and sugar and may be used for any vegetable or combination of vegetables or fruit.

2 cups diced cucumber
1 cup diced celery
1 cup pepper, shredded
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup water
2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup sugar

Hydrate the gelatin in the cold water and when softened, dissolve in the boiling water. Stir until dissolved and add the sugar and the vinegar. When cold and about to congeal, add the vegetables and salt. Turn into molds to congeal and serve in nests of lettuce with mayonnaise.

Strawberry Cottage Pudding with Cream Sauce
This pudding is a bit finer grained and richer than the ordinary cottage pudding.

1-3 cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg.
1/4 cup milk.
1 1/4 cup flour.
8 teaspoons baking powder.
Cream the butter and add the sugar and cream well, add the egg and then the flour sifted with the baking powder and the milk alternately. Pour into a greased and floured cake tin and bake in a moderate oven for 35 minutes. Serve warm with sweetened and crushed strawberries and pour over all a cream sauce which is sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

Saturday Evening Supper
Florentine Eggs in Casseroles
Hot or Cold Sausages
Hot Buttered Toast or Rolls Jelly
Scalloped Apples with Hard Sauce
Coffee or Tea

Florentine Eggs in Casseroles
Eggs are so plentiful just now that they should be served often, especially when we know that they are such a valuable source of vitamins, iron, calcium and phosphorus as well as vitamins A and D. The white of the egg is most acceptable form of protein. Not only are eggs suitable for breakfast, but luncheon and supper as well. Now for our egg dish for supper. Finely chop cooked spinach, and season with butter and salt. Butter individual casseroles or custard cups and put a tablespoon of spinach in each one. Sprinkle with a tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese and slip an egg in on the cheese. Pour over the egg a little rich white sauce, well seasoned with salt, pepper and onion juice. Sprinkle with 1/4 tablespoon of the grated cheese and bake until the eggs are set. Serve at once.

Scalloped Apples with Hard Sauce
This is really a Brown Betty, using corn flakes in place of bread crumbs.

8 cups chopped apples.
2 cups corn flakes.
2-3 cup sugar.
2 tablespoons butter.
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon.
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg.
4 tablespoons water.
Juice 1 lemon.

Melt the butter and add to the corn flakes. Mix the sugar with the spices. Place a layer of the flakes in a buttered baking dish and add half of the apples. Sprinkle with half of the sugar and add the second layer of corn flakes. Add the remainder of the apples and sprinkle with the remainder of the sugar. Top with the corn flakes and pour the water and lemon juice over all. Bake covered in a moderate oven for 45 minutes, uncover and bake until brown. If the apples are well flavored the lemon juice will not be needed. Serve warm with hard sauce.

Hard Sauce

1-3 cup butter.
1 cup confectioners sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
A few gratings of nutmeg.
Cream butter and then cream the butter and sugar until fluffy. Flavor and serve on the pudding.

Sunday Dinner
Chilled Fruit Cup
Assorted Relishes
Chicken in Batter Creamed, New Potatoes
Buttered Peas and Asparagus
Pickled Peaches or Spiced Apples
Cabbage and Green Pepper Salad
Cherry Pie or Upside Down Cake
Coffee

Chilled Fruit Cup
Use any fruits, fresh or canned that you choose. The fruits should be served very cold and not too sweet. If you use the cocktail set, we suggest that you tint the ice used in the outer bowl. You may tint pink or green. If you do not have cocktail sets and many of us don't, serve your chilled fruit in sherbet glasses.

Chicken in Batter
Clean and cut up the chicken as for frying. Put on to cook in boiling salted water and simmer tender. Allow to cool in the liquid and then drain and dry. Dip in the batter given below and fry in deep hot fat. The chicken may be cooked on Saturday and fried on Sunday.

Batter for the Chicken
2 eggs.
1-3 cup milk.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon pepper.
Beat the eggs with the milk, add the seasonings and sufficient flour to make a medium thick batter. Dip the dried chicken in the batter and fry in deep hot fat.

Cherry Upside Down Cake
Place 1-3 cup butter in a heavy skillet and add 1 cup sugar as soon as the butter is melted. Remove from the fire and add 3 cups stoned cherries. Or cover the bottom of the skillet with the fruit. Pour over the cherries the following cake batter:

2-3 cup butter.
1 1/4 cups sugar.
2 eggs.
2 1/4 cups flour.
2-3 cup milk.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
A few grains salt.
1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract.
Cream butter and sugar and add the eggs and beat well. Add flour sifted with the baking powder, alternately with the milk and pour over the cherries in the skillet. Bake in a slow oven for 50 minutes. Increase the heat during the last 10 minutes until nicely browned. Serve plain or with cream or with a vanilla sauce.

Queries and Answers
Dear Mrs. Auch: Your department in our paper is most interesting and I also find it very helpful. Do you have a recipe for a dessert made of canned milk, cooked for a long time and will any canned milk do to use. Thanking you in advance, I am
An Interested Reader

We are happy that you like our column and that you are finding it helpful. Yes, we make a dessert of canned milk boiled for 3 to 4 hours. We usually boil two or three cans at a time and put the unused ones on the pantry shelf for future use. Boil the milk 3 or 4 hours and set aside to cool. Remove the top of the can by cutting around the sides. Slide out the caramel roll and slice. Put a slice of the caramel on a slice of sponge cake or pineapple and top with whipped cream. If the milk is boiled three hours it will not be so strong flavored of the caramel as the milk cooked for 4 hours. This makes a delicious filling for Devils Food Cake. Only sweetened condensed milk that we know of is the Eagle Brand.

Recipe Cards
We have several hundred sets of recipe cards which we are mailing out to our readers. ## FARM EFFICIENCY SUBJECT OF STUDY

University Specialists Analyze Records Kept in Three Kentucky Counties

Efficiency in organization, crop production and livestock management determined the amount of profit on 198 farms in Green, Taylor and Adair counties, the department of farm economics of the University of Kentucky found in a study of records kept on these farms for three years.

Incomes ranged from $3,006 more than 5 per cent interest on the total farm investment to $1,150 less than 5 per cent interest on the investment. The average net earnings of the 198 farms during the period studied was $751 a year. Of this amount nearly half was the value of farm products used in the home. Dairy cattle provided nearly half the total gross receipts for each of the three years.

"The principal causes for variations in net earnings seem to be matters of organization, crop yields, livestock production and management," says R. E. Proctor, field agent in farm management for the department of farm economics.

"In an area such as this there is usually unmarketable feed produced and periods of the year when little or none of the farmer's time is demanded by the crops. It becomes advantageous for him to so organize his farm that this feed and labor may be used in the production of marketable livestock and livestock products.

"Crop yields varied widely on different farms because of different natural fertility, the use of commercial fertilizer and lime, rotations followed and field management.

"A comparison of typical farms of low and high net earnings indicates that those men who plan their farm organization for efficiency secure correspondingly high returns. This means the adjusting of their enterprises to available land and labor so that each may be fully utilized. The action and management of crop and livestock are factors leading to the opportunity for efficiency.

"There are large and small farms included in this study that show very low incomes evidently because of incomplete utilization of available land and labor and poor selection and care of crops and livestock.

"After analyzing the business records of these farmers separately and in groups for three years the following principles of farm management have been found to be fundamental in securing higher earnings:

"A full utilization of land by crops and livestock.
"Rotation of such length and such crops as provide for maintenance of soil fertility.
"Adjustment of crops and livestock so that available feeds, pastures and labor are efficiently used.

"Production of cash crops, livestock products or both in order to secure sufficient cash income to provide for the farm maintenance and a reasonable standard of living for the operator and his family."

FARMERS BUY LIME IN ROWAN COUNTY

Fifty farmers in six communities in Rowan County have spread two car loads of 600 tons of ground limestone this spring. It was used in growing soybeans, grass and clover. This is more limestone than ever before was used in the county in a year, according to County Agent Charles L. Goff.

Two clubs have been organized in the county to purchase limestone cooperatively. One at Farmers, with membership of 20 men, has distributed 100 tons of limestone this year, and one at Morehead, with 25 members, has secured 200 tons for 35 farmers.

Farmers who independently purchased car loads of limestone, this spring include Wm. Lane, John Fouch, John Fields, Ern Patton and Charles Hodge.

County Agent Goff predicts 2,000 tons of limestone will be used in Rowan county this year.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

SELF-DRUGGING

It grows on people—the habit of "taking something" for every little discomfort they happen to feel. Self-doing is never the wise thing to do; you would not employ a physician to treat you who made no pretense to any knowledge of treating the sick or indisposed; now, would you? Then why do it to yourself?

A diagnosis of any indisposition is necessary before any sort of intelligent treatment can be instituted. Even the intelligent physician may be puzzled over the actual cause of a given complaint, often a comparatively trivial, yet a very annoying thing. Not long ago I met a lady who had spent over $500 on a peculiar neuralgic headache without more than temporary relief; she had taken every variety of "headache tablets" that she heard of—seriously impairing her blood and weakening her heart ver perceptibly; I suggested examining her nasal passages and sinuses; "O, there's nothing wrong there—I have no catarrh," she in- Nevertheless a few treatments, to reduce the swollen turbinates cured the headache.

Many elderly men in the western section of our country are sure they have "prostate trouble." They hear their symptoms accurately described daily over the radio, by the advertiser miracle-worker; they hear the promise of absolute cure by a simple operation—they make their own diagnosis, and drug themselves frantically without benefit, they accept the "simple operation," paying for it in advance with all the money they can scrape together; they reason that if the quack were not honest, the government would not permit him to broadcast his ballyhoo! A hasty man, isn't it? They do broadcast just the same; we are so busy trying to avoid foreign entanglements that we haven't time to protect our people from a fraud!

Several men have recently lost their lives because of their own gullibility, according to newspaper reports, in one of our western states.

Dear Readers!

A special man was engaged over two months ago to devote his whole time toward writing and compiling a history of Boone County, its institutions and the biographies of the many families who are making this section one of the leading communities of Northern Kentucky and this county one of the most prosperous in the state.

During these eight weeks we have continuously asked for data and material for use in this edition and the response from the leading citizens and community builders has been most pleasing, however there are many more who should be represented.

Soon it will be too late for such representation as the edition is fast being made ready for publication, therefore we again ask all those who have not yet done so to send in their information this week.

Sincerely yours,

The Boone County Recorder
R. E. Berkshire, Publisher

P. S. Don't forget the pictures of your self, your family, your home, or your place of business, above all be sure to include the photographs of the children under the age of ten years for use in the special section provided for the little ones.

Five Hundred Witness Opening Of 1930 Horseshoe Tournament At Burlington Saturday Night

Eighteen Matches Of First Round Completed In First Nights Play -- Winners Of Games Last Saturday Night Will Be Paired With Each Other Next Week To Fight For Higher Position --

Surprising as it may seem to many and strange as it does seem to us, there were about five hundred people assembled in Burlington last Saturday evening to witness the tests of supremacy by hand between some fifty horseshoe pitchers.

Had any one predicted when this tournament move was started that five hundred people would gather here to watch four men stand up and throw horseshoes at an iron stake he would have been guffawed out of town. But, "believe it or not," that's just what happened.

The first match got under way about 7:30 with Ben Black and J. M. Lasing, Jr., at court No. 1 and A. J. Ogden and M. E. Rouse, furnishing the contest at court No. 2. William Walton and A. D. Yelton were the officials on court No. 2 with J. G. Smith and Aubrey Finn officiating at court No. 1.

Some very good games were pitched, and no disputes arose of any consequence, and in fact the evening was marked only by the frigidities of the June (!) atmosphere and the fact that the seating capacity was far from sufficient to take care of the crowd. Now, however, that it is realized that the interest in the sport is to break an effort will be made to provide more seats for the remaining contests.

Due to the fact that some of the matches were extremely slow the management was unable to push the pitchers thru the first round. Therefore, the tournament will be resumed next Saturday evening with the nineteenth match in round number one. Lee R. McNeely and Stanley Easton will be at court No. 1 and Earl Sullivan and Valentine Dolwick will start at court No. 2 when the festivities open next week.

Eighteen contests were decided before the first round is completed. As soon as the first round is finished the routine will revert to the top of the list with Ben Black and A. J. Ogden, both first round winners, hooking up in mortal combat. Horseshoe fans may be assured that this second round will provide some real contest, with some class thrown in, as all of the second round matches naturally will be between winners of the first round games. As soon as a pitcher loses two games to his opponent he is eliminated from further competition.

Then, of course, there is the added incentive to all of these combatants of being finally included in the "Big 8," or the eight pitchers remaining in the tournament when the first three rounds have been completed. When the tournament has arrived at this stage the eight pitchers remaining each will pitch the other series of games, then the winner decided upon the percentage of wins won and lost. By this it will be possible to decide the first, second, third and fourth Saturday night. The surprise in the game most part the pitchers were thrown by a boy who defeated by took the with their Lee Ed in this wood old, as the It and ny rel e is the matches of last Saturday evening follow: Ben Black, J. Ogden, Lloyd Kelly, Owen Portwood, (forfeit) Lee Edward Portwood, Howard Elliott, Chas. Maxwell, W. A. Waters, Manley Ryle, Frank Maurer, Elmer Horton, C. H. Alge, Carl Cason, Val Dolwick, L. C. Weaver, Bernard McNeely, E. R. Plummer (forfeit), and T. B. Cason. The pairings in the remainder of round one and those for round two will be found in other columns of this issue.

Some of the best pitchers in the tournament are among those remaining in the first round and who will show their wares next week. Two of the best pitchers in the tournament won their matches by forfeit from their opponents and one of them is a "dark horse," E. R. Plummer and Owen Portwood are the pitchers who were declared winners without having to pitch a game. M. Plummer being considered a "dark horse" on account of the fact that no one about here has seen him perform. However, newspaper reports have it that he is of championship calibre. He will pitch T. B. Cason of Bellevue, in round two next Saturday night and Tom will give him a fair test, as he won his opening round engagements in impressive fashion.

The winners of the second round games will be eligible to compete in the following week for positions in the "Big 8," so don't miss these games.

ATTEND JUNIOR CLUB WEEK

Harold Kelly Clore and Alvin Stephens, members of the Blue Ribbon 4-H farm practice team of Burlington, Misses Madge Reeves and Vivian Hood members of the Crackers 4-H home practice team of Constance, and Miss Dorothy Conner Norbex Champion 4-H clothing style show champion of Hebron left by train and automobile last Monday morning for Junior Week held at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, in company with Mrs. Hubert Conner, of Hebron, and Mrs. Henry Kottmyer, Jr., of Constance, local 4-H club leaders and county agent H. R. Forkner.

The above club members are all winners in the county contests and are winners of scholarships awarded by the L. & N. Railroad. The Early & Daniel Company and The Consolidated Coach Corporation. They will compete in the state contests for places to compete in the national 4-H club contests to be held this fall. Mrs. Conner and Mrs. Kottmyer are local club leaders that have done outstanding club work for the past several years.

A splendid 4-H program has been planned for the week at the University. When the members are not competing in the various contests they will be busy in agriculture and home economics study. The boys will study dairying, poultry, sheep, hogs, bees and crops. The girls will receive instruction in cooking, clothing and home economics subjects. The leaders will attend special leaders training meetings. The meeting will start until Saturday June 14th, when the members will return to their homes.

WATER SYSTEM

SAVES HOME OF CHAS. KINSEY FROM DESTRUCTION BY FIRE -- FLAMES EXTINGUISHED WITH ONLY FIFTY DOLLAR LOSS

Chas. Kinsey, of Hopeful neighborhood, has become very much attached to a water system that was installed at his home some time ago.

After hearing the story no doubt members of the Boone County Fire Insurance Company will join Mr. Kinsey in praise of the system.

About noon one day last week Mr. Kinsey was disturbed by a peculiar sound, which he was unable to locate or distinguish. Some time later the sound was repeated, but still he attached little significance to it. However, when a third and louder one came a man at the barn discovered flames surging from the roof of the house.

From the time that Mr. Kinsey heard the first sound, and no doubt before that the fire had been gaining headway in the attic of his kitchen. By the time it had burst thru the roof it was so far advanced that the customary method, and the only one commonly known in the county, of bucket fire fighting, never could have stopped it. It was then that he brought into play forty feet of hose attached to an electric pump, which was installed at his home some time ago.

Mr. Kinsey says that he would not sell the water system for any price and be compelled to do without it, while the members of the Mutual Insurance Company will note that, while their assessment for Mr. Kinsey's loss will be almost negligible, it would have been vastly more had Mr. Kinsey been forced to resort to other methods of fire fighting.

Local Cow Completes Official Production Test

Union, Ky., June 9.—Raleigh Lad's Roberta 819848 a purebred Jersey cow in the herd of J. W. Huey of Union, Ky., has completed her first official production test in which she yielded 446.89 lbs. of butterfat and 8,236 lbs. of milk in 273 days and on two milkings per day. Roberta was started on this test when she was six years and 10 months of age and with this record qualified for the Register of Merit of the American Jersey Cattle Club. Her sire is Betsey's Raleigh Lad 180358, and her dam is Toronto Lad's Roberta 459050.

TO HOLD ELECTION
Taxpayers of the Hebron Consolidated School District will hold an election June 28th.

LAST CALL

Next week is the last call for data and pictures for use in the Recorder Historical Edition and all those who have not as yet sent in such material should do so at once. Now that it is known just what kind of a history is to be published, people of this section are showing a growing interest in the endeavor and without doubt the magazine also edition will come up to all expectations and most satisfying to all those who will be represented in its columns. The undertaking is one of the largest ever attempted by this newspaper and it has been made possible only by the cooperation of the public spirited people of this county who have so loyally responded. Quite a number are yet to be heard from, however the Recorder feels assured of their heartiest support.

BUSINESS MEN

FROM COVINGTON HELP CELEBRATE HIGHWAY OPENING AT BEAVER -- HOWE, SPENCE, WARE, REV. CARSON SPEAK.

Last Tuesday a cavalcade of about fifty cars loaded with Covington business men journeyed to Beaver Lake and joined with the residents of that section in celebrating the opening of the Beaver sector of the Federal Highway that will ultimately open up a short cut to Louisville via a paved road system.

The day was ideal in every respect though the crowd of Boone countyans was smaller than it should have been. This situation might have been remedied somewhat if the place for the occasion had been transferred to some place in this county, so that the publicity of the event could have been carried in these columns last week.

A bountiful fried chicken dinner was served by the ladies of the Richmond Presbyterian church, the goodness of which was evident in the amount heaped on the plates of those who attended and even the speakers were reluctant to assume an upright position after partaking of their portion of the home cooking.

Those who were called upon to convey the best wishes of the Covington contingent were John J. Howe, former Commonwealth Attorney; ex-congressman Orie S. Ware and Brent Spence of Ft. Thomas, candidate for congress, all of whom were loudly acclaimed by the throng. Rev. C. C. Carson of the Richmond church responded, making a splendid address. Robert Green, whose beautiful home and grounds were used for the occasion, was asked to speak but declined with the hope that all had enjoyed themselves to the same extent as he and his family in having them present.

Just as we go to press news of the death of Mrs. Mary Riddell Baumgartner, of Bellefontaine, O., reaches us. She was a daughter of James A. Riddell, of Hebron. Her death, which occurred late Tuesday, was very sudden and further particulars are unknown at this time. Funeral at Hebron Lutheran church Thursday at 2 p. m.

Two Louisville Firms Divide Boone County Crop of Pooled Wool

PITCHING

OF AFTERKIRK, ROGERS AND SPRAGUE FEATURES COUNTY LEAGUE GAMES--BELLEVUE TO CLASH WITH CLASS "A" TEAM NEXT SUNDAY

Petersburg Takes Close One
After a spirited contest Petersburg nosed out Francerville by the close score of 8-7. The game was played at Francerville with Steffman, a new pitcher, in the box for the home team. Brill went the route for Petersburg, and though touched freely at several stages succeeded in staying on top. Carver and Kelm made two base hits for Petersburg while Bradburn, of the same team, poled a triple.

Although Francerville still occupies the cellar Manager Goodridge has kept his team hustling at all stages of the race, and if they continue to improve as steadily as they have in the past, they will make it interesting for their opponents when the elimination series starts the first week in August.

After Kirk Turns Great Game
After Kirk turned his place along side these pitchers in Boone county who have pitched the so-called "big games" of the current season when he defeated Burlington in easy fashion last Saturday on the home diamond.

Two widely scattered bingles and fanned twelve batters.

He was in danger but one time, when, with the score one to nothing, in the last half of the fifth Sprague led off with a lordly double to left center. He advanced to third on Robinson's infield out, from where he could have romped in on any kind of a hit. But Afterkirk was supreme and attended to the absence of the Burlington offensive effort. Aside from Sprague's double the only other hit was Kelly's single in the ninth.

"Lefty" was good, plenty good enough to have won with any kind of hitting behind him, but the punch was not there. He held the heavy hitting Waltonians to seven hits, only one of which was for an extra base, and struck out seven.

Walton scored one run in the second on three hits and two in the sixth with only one hit. In the second with one down Laws singled, advanced on a wild pitch and counted on Manager Glenn's sharp single to right. Johnson followed with a single, but the side was retired when Afterkirk fanned.

In the sixth Sprague put himself in the whole by walking Laws, the first hitter. Laws went down on "hearer's" infield tap. Glenn was safe and Laws was allowed to scramble back to second (Glenn) tapped to the box. Johnson then rapped sharply over third and Robinson knocked down the drive in time to force Laws. Then, with the count two strikes and no balls on Afterkirk, he won his own game with a line drive to right center.

Beat Rabbit Hash Again
Due to a peculiar twist in the schedule, Bellevue was again the opponent of the Rabbit Hash team last Saturday afternoon. The game was played at Bellevue with Chas. Black starting against the redoubtable Will Rogers (of Bellevue not Claremore).

Black was knocked from the hill after three innings of blasting from the Bellevue wrecking crew. Several runs were piled up during this period and Black's successor, Bob Wilson, had little better success. Rogers again turned in a masterful effort and allowed Rabbit Hash but two hits. These, however, were bunched with a pass and two errors and accounted for three runs. Rogers fanned thirteen.

Defeat Spinney Team
Bellevue returned to life in the Spinney League last Sunday by landing a smashing defeat to the Edison, Ohio, team. The score was 10-0, with Joe Brady twirling a fine game. He allowed but six scattered hits and

BIDS OF SABEL AND ROSENBAUM WERE EXACTLY TOGETHER AND AT PRICES SAID TO BE SEVERAL CENTS HIGHER THAN PREVIOUS OFFERS--DELIVERY DATES ANNOUNCED

Sheep growers in Boone county no doubt will be pleased at the news of the sale of the pooled wool to two Louisville firms at a price that is said to be several cents per pound higher than has been offered by other buyers heretofore this season.

The sale was made at Walton after bids had been received from four firms. Peculiarly enough was the fact that the firm of Sabel & Sons and the Rosenbaum firm, both of Louisville, bid exactly the same. As a result, and by agreement between the purchasers and the local pool, the sale will be divided.

The dates for receiving the wool will be as follows: Monday June 10 at Walton; Tuesday, June 17th, at Burlington; and Wednesday, June 18th at Petersburg.

A statement issued by the secretary of the Boone County Wool Growers Association relative to the sale and delivery of the wool is published herewith:

The pooled wool of Boone county was sold at Walton, Ky., June 5th to Sabel & Sons and Sons and Rosenbaum of Louisville. There were four bids on this wool and Sabel & Rosenbaum were the highest bidder.

By agreement these two firms will divide the purchase between themselves. However Sabel & Sons will grade, receive and pay for this wool and will take it up at the following date and places: Walton Monday June 10; Burlington Tuesday June 17; and Petersburg Wednesday June 18th. The price this wool sold for is not being made known at present, but it is several cents more than local buyers have been paying.

We hope members of the pool will see to it that all their neighbors who may not read the Recorder or Advertiser get the word of the sale and date of delivery.

PLANS LARGE TOMATO ACREAGE

Mr. Hess Vest and John L. Vest of Walton are planting 40 acres of tomatoes this spring. This is no doubt the largest single planting of tomatoes that will be put out in Boone county this year.

A fertilizer and blight control demonstration has been planned on one acre in cooperation with the county agent. Bordeaux mixture with from three to five applications will be used for the control of blight. This will be the first demonstration in the county of any considerable size in which Bordeaux mixture has been used on the above crop.

The entire crop produced has been contracted by the St. Clare Cannery Company which will operate at Walton again this year.

QUARTERLY MEETING
Rev. W. S. Maxwell, Presiding Elder, will preach at East Bend Methodist Church Saturday June 14th, at 7:30, also Sunday 11 a. m. Business session 2 p. m. Public cordially invited.

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

W. C. Brown bought a nice young horse from W. E. Vest last Friday. J. F. Blythe caught a nice long string of fish down on Gunpowder, Tuesday afternoon. Some of the fish were of fine size.

Geo. Blythe sold to Cincinnati parties his last horse Monday for $100. He sold the animal out of the plow. Edward Rice and wife, of Utzinger, were guests of Ezra Aylor and wife, Sunday.

Last Sunday Miss Beatie Berkshire entertained Misses Gene Berkshire and Alta Terrill and Messrs. H. P. Koy kow kah kaw ga (55TRV3 G. Blanton, Scott Chambers and Prof. Chas. R. Gardner.

J. C. Revill left this afternoon to attend the State Democratic convention tomorrow at Louisville, from where he will go to Owensboro to attend the Baptist State Convention.

Limsburg

Irvin Baker was out with his bug on Sunday.

Born on the 8th inst., to Mike Yealey and wife, a fine girl. Onnie Rouse and W. T. Davis have bought some fine Shorthorn and Poland cattle.

Miss Flora Youell's school closed Friday. She treated the pupils to ice cream and candy.

A huge snake was seen stretched across the road near the Harvest Home grounds a few days ago. Its length was estimated at 15 feet. R. W. Rouse, who saw it was afraid to try to kill it and his wife was badly frightened by it. From whence such a reptile came is a mystery to our people.

Maple Grove

Geo. Youell, who hurt his foot by letting a corn drill fall on it, is improving slowly.

The Maple Grove ball club, defeated a pick nine 8 to 1.

Jordan Beall and Jas. Riddell had a horse trade one day last week, and as usual, each got the best of the trade.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. Dudley Rouse and son Arthur, were visiting relatives at Crittenden, a couple of days last week.

The seiners caught a fine lot of fish last Thursday. They report many fine bass as having escaped even after they hauled them once in the sein.

A company has purchased a new seine, and last Thursday they visited Gunpowder to clean out the funny tribe. The professional anglers disapprove of such proceedings.

Morgan Beeson has taken about 150 pounds of honey from his bees.

Mrs. Belle Pace, of Indianapolis, was visiting Mrs. W. L. Riddell last week.

Mrs. Hulet and son, Owen, returned home Monday after an absence of two weeks.

Petersburg

Elijah Parker's large peach orchard will produce no fruit this year.

The river has fallen sufficiently for the Woolper ford to be used again, the first time for about six months.

Mr. Baker, who lives below town has typhoid fever badly. His two sons are recovering from a severe attack of the same malady.

Union

Mr. Judge will soon begin to build a new barn in the place of the one destroyed by fire recently.

R. T. Clements still continues the building boom of Union, by erecting new corn crib.

Rain is needed badly in this section, notwithstanding wheat is looking fine and corn is tolerable.

Florence

S. G. Henry and family of Erlanger, have moved to Florence, occupying the house of John Buckner, on Main street.

Miss Lillian Corbin, of Union, was visiting in Florence, last week.

Mrs. Ed. Porter and family, of Newport, are visiting her parents and other relatives here.

Chas. A. Gaines to O. W. Gainer, 82 acres near Bullittsville—$3,800.

Mary Crane to John H. Tanner, 8½ acres near Union—$500.

Bryan Kirby to Julia Banning 300 acres near Florence.

Flickertown

Mr. Morgan Rice has on hand about 18,000 pounds of tobacco.

THE LATEST

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hensley, Sr., are probably the oldest married couple living in the county. They are each 79 years of age and have been married 55 years.

The bugs have destroyed Mr. Jake Klopp's entire crop of willows. He says it will be impossible to raise willows hereafter.

This is the way they talk about tobacco in this vicinity now: John Botta will plant 12 acres; Irwin Balsly, 2 acres; Geo. Voshell, 10 acres; Sam Hensley, 8 acres; Thos. Baldwin 5 acres, and yet there is a scarcity of plants.

Hebron

Last Saturday while Mr. T. A. Rouse was standing near a fence on the opposite side of which was a horse, the horse kicked a plank off of then fence, and it struck Mr. Rouse on the head, cutting a very ugly gash.

Last Friday Mrs. Mollie Sprague's school closed for the summer.

An election was held last Saturday for school trustees.

The late cold snaps had no injurious effect on the apple crop, and it not destroyed by the bugs they will be plentiful.

D. H. ASSOCIATION PROMOTES BETTER FEEDING

Feeding, breeding and culling are considered leading factors in developing a good dairy herd. The dairy herd improvement association does much in promoting all of these three factors, but probably the most outstanding improvement made by the members are in their feeding practices. The members who really stay in the association year after year are the ones who really see results from these improvements.

Some herds in the Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association, which was reorganized February 1st are making very noticeable increases over last year's production. One herd of eleven cows showed an average production of 3188 pounds of milk and 112.2 pounds of fat per cow during the first four months of last year. The same herd this year for the same period of time made an average of 4475 pounds of milk and 155.4 pounds of fat. At present prices this would amount to about $27.74 per cow, an increase of 1290 pounds of milk and 43.2 pounds of fat per cow. While the present feed cost was raised $4.18 we still can show an increased profit of $23.56 per cow in the value of product above feed cost for the past four month period.

The owner of the above herd says he only regrets that he did not join a dairy herd improvement association sooner. When asked as to what he contributed his increase in production he said: "To better feeding methods, it couldn't be anything else, I have the same cows and all other conditions are the same." He feeds all cows a balanced ration and a quantity in accordance to production. O. W. MOORE, Tester.

Reports from the University of Cincinnati indicate that attendance at the annual Homecoming to take place on the campus of this institution Friday and Saturday, June 12 and 14, will be the largest in the history of the school.

Mayor Russell Wilson, of Cincinnati, will speak at the Commencement exercises which will take place in Nippert Stadium at 10:30 Saturday morning, the 14th. Nine hundred students will receive their diplomas at this time.

A golf tournament for women and a golf tournament for men, re-union dinner of the various professional colleges on Friday evening, June 13 athletic events in the stadium on Saturday afternoon and the senior class play at the same time, the annual re-union dinner in the gymnasium on Saturday night, to be followed by vaudeville and the inter-fraternity singing promises to make this Homecoming the most interesting the University has ever had.

Among the Alumni in Burlington and vicinity are: Dr. Edwin W. Duncan and N. E. Riddell.

The limestone spreader which the Kentucky Joint Stock Land Bank is lending Fayette county farmers was used to apply 500 tons of limestone in one month.

Much dodder has been reported over the state, following the rains in early May. Farmers experienced with this pest will graze it heavy until mid-summer.

stead of silage, and the grain ration was increased about 15 per cent. As a result, the return above feed cost dropped to $8.22 a cow.

Several members of this association are planning to build silos. "Build a silo of sufficient size for the herd and see that it is well filled next fall," is Mr. Moore's comment.

Georgetown, Ky., May 31.—When the degrees are handed out at the one hundred and first commencement at Georgetown College Wednesday, one young man will receive his degree with the highest standing ever made by a student of the institution. Shepherd Jones will receive his predicate "summa cum laude" to his B. A. degree. He will have 127 semester hours quantity work and 375 quality points, an average of 2.95-plus. He has made straight A's for the four years with the exception of two semester courses on which a grade of B was given.

Mr. Jones is the son of Professor and Mrs. W. B. Jones of Georgetown. He was editor of this year's book, was captain of the tennis team, a member of the basketball team, president of the student body, has held various class offices and is a member of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

GOLDSTREAM BILL

Goldstream Bill is survived by J. S. Government Stallion Young Bill, No. 5910. His first dam was Lady Artist, sire Kentucky Prince. Goldstream Bill was shown 22 times in 1928 and won 21 premiums. He is a beautiful bay, stands 16 hands high and weighs 1200 pounds.

TERMS—Goldstream will make the season of 1930 at the farm of J. A. Riddell, near Hebron, at $10.00 to insure a living colt. Money due when colt is foaled—mare parted with or bred to other stock without our consent. Lien retained on mare and colt for season money. CARE TAKEN TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS, but not responsible should any occur. SCHLOSSER BROS.

BURGESS

This fine stallion, well known to every admirer of horseflesh in this territory, will make the season of 1930 at the J. A. Riddell farm, near Hebron, Ky. Burgess is a magnificent grey individual, weighs 1800 pounds and has been pronounced by widely known horse judges as the best horse of his breed they had ever seen. He was shown six times last year and captured six blue ribbons. He has been three times a first string winner at the Indiana State Fair. TERMS—Same as on Goldstream Bill. WALTER RIDDELL.

TESTING SHOWS VALUE OF SILAGE

Exhaustion of the supply of silage cost a member of the Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association more than $100 in one month, according to O. W. Moore, tester for the association.

The average income above cost of feed for March, when silage was fed, was $12.82 a cow in a herd of 25. Corn stover was fed in April instead of silage.

Miss Jessie Irvine of Paris, Kentucky will also receive her degree with the predicate summa cum laude while about twelve graduates will receive the distinction of cum laude. Rev. H. H. Savage of Pontiac, Michigan, will deliver the commencement address Wednesday.

Several Magoffin county farmers have purchased purebred cattle and hogs this spring, looking forward to the production of better and more livestock.

MIKE

MIKE is one of the largest Jacks that has ever been in this section of the country. He is black with neatly points, 10 years old, stands 15 hands high, has an exceptionally large head and ear, with the bid bone that makes a real mule sire. Core and see him. He will make the season at the farm of August Dringenburg, Jr., located between Florence and Limsburg, Ky., at $10.00 to insure a living foal.

HORSES, MULES AND COWS

How rapidly the horse is vanishing from the American scene can only be fully appreciated when we realize that, in twelve years, more than one-third of all the horses in the United States have passed out of existence and have not been replaced. The year 1918 was the banner year for the horse. From about ten million horses in 1880, their number multiplied through 38 years, until, in 1918, it reached the high peak of 21,565,000. Since then the replacement of the horse by motor vehicles has been rapid. The latest Government figures place the total at around 13,000,000. Another ten years may see this reduced by half, and probably will.

The horse's career in America has been a short one. There were no horses or other beasts of burden known to the Indians of North America, though in South America the natives had tamed the llama to carry their loads. The Spanish conquistadores brought horses with them, many of which broke loose and ran wild. They multiplied rapidly in the fastnesses of the southwestern wilderness, and the Indians of the Great Plains speedily learned to break and use them. But a scant four hundred years, down to now, covers the history of the horse on this continent.

There are still a few horses left in the big cities. They are, so far, economical than motors for house-to-house deliveries of milk, parcel post and express matter. But the increasing cost of their maintenance is gradually causing even these uses to be replaced by motors.

The mule is gaining on the horse. He is more efficient, eats less and works harder. In the period during which the horse population fell off by one-third the mule census showed an increase of nearly 20 per cent. However, this increase has now slackened. There are fewer mules in use now than there were in 1924, when these useful hybrids numbered 5,730,000.

In the period from 1920 to 1930, the number of beef cattle has dropped from above 47 million to about 33 million. We are eating less beef. But while we are drinking more milk, more butter and cheese, the number of milch cows remains about as it has been for nearly twenty years—around 22 million. They are better cows, however, giving more milk on less fodder; and the tendency is to increase their number and quality.

Time was not long ago, when almost any sort of a horse was worth $100, an ordinary mule around $125 and a pretty fair cow could be bought for $75. The Kansas State Agricultural Department figures the average values in Kansas today as $50 for a horse, $70 for a mule and $82 for a cow—taking them just as they run.

All of which contributes toward answering the question of why it no longer pays to grow hay and oats, for most farmers in most regions.

COMMUNICATION

There are still a few places in the world where a man can be completely out of touch with everybody else in the world, but the number of such places is diminishing so rapidly that it is a safe prediction that before many years have passed we can go anywhere and still keep in communication with home.

Telephoning from railroad trains in motion is now an accomplished fact, in practical use. From any important train on the Canadian National Railways, for a fee of 50 cents in addition to the telephone charge, the traveller can call up any telephone connected with the Bell system, which covers the U. S. Mexico, most of Europe and a large part of Central and South America. Germany, France and other European countries have similar systems. America has no monopoly on inventive genius, nor are we always the first to put new devices into use. But there is no doubt that eventually his system of train-telephony will be adopted in the United States.

The large passenger liners now have facilities for telephoning from ship to shore and vice versa. Sooner or later all passenger ships and probably most freighters will be similarly equipped.

A portable radio broadcasting set has been devised which takes up such small space and weighs so little that future big game hunters, penetrating the African jungle, can easily take one along with them and so report their safety—or the opposite—to the folks at home every day.

Aircraft in flight now carry many of them—radio equipments for both "code" and voice communication with the earth. Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expedition was never out of communication.

The next step forward is television. That has now become practical. Our children, probably, our grandchildren certainly will be able to see around the world as easily as we talk around it today.

All of these inventions which make communication easier tend toward closer international relations, better understandings, reduce the likelihood of war. The time may even come when disagreements between nations will be settled as easily as disagreements between business interests are settled today, and with as little bloodshed.

They're Back Again

By Albert T. Reid

A Couple of our Most Undesirable Citizens.

These insects always do some damage, but in seasons of rapid growth, it is ignored, for the beans "grow out" of it. If it is necessary to reckon with these pests, the way is simply to spray or dust as for the Mexican bean beetle.

If the holes in the leaves are angular and irregular in shape, and if the vein structure is left intact, the offender quite likely is the Mexican bean beetle. The chances are that only wintered-over adults will be found so early in the season, but there may be egg-clusters as well. When the first of these is seen is the time to give the first dusting or spraying. Ten days after the first, a second application should follow. If careful application has been made, with apparatus that will put the materials on the undersides of the leaves, two applications, timed as above, are adequate.

The proper spray to use is magnesian arsenate, a tablespoonful in a gallon of water.

The best dust mixture is made of a pound of calcium arsenate, a pound of sulphur and 4 pounds of lime. The ingredients must be fine, and well mixed.

In case the quantity of beans does not warrant the trouble that home-mixing entails, ready-mixed dust may be used. It is well to read the label to see that the arsenic is supplied through calcium arsenate, and that it constitutes 16 per cent of the whole.

The dust should be capable of making even application, and the sprayer of changing the spray into a driving mist. And, for emphasis, may we repeat the undersides of the leaves must be reached.

A pound of dust should treat from 200 to 400 feet of row, depending on the size of the plants, and a gallon of spray from 150 to 250 feet.

New Way of Life by BRUCE BARTON

WE CAN'T FIGHT CHANGE

When I was a boy in the country we had a good old neighbor named Daniel Roe, who owned a cranberry meadow. He brought the water for flooding his meadow through a deep ditch from a lake about a quarter of a mile.

Half of every summer of his life he spent digging out the dirt and stones which had fallen into that ditch.

We kids used to go over and watch him dig. There was a big stone by the side of the ditch which was shaped roughly like an arm chair. There he would eat his lunch at noon, and smoke his pipe. We called the stone Mr. Roe's chair.

In fullness of time he died. His son sold the meadow, and it was abandoned. My father bought the ditch, most of which ran thru our woods, and every summer we filled a little piece of it up with junk and garbage and cover it over with dirt.

Last summer I walked through the woods and stopped at Mr. Roe's chair. Already the ditch is half destroyed. In five years more it will be gone.

All his sweat and strain and back ache for nothing. No trace of his life work left!

In a New York club I talked with an eminent architect, who said that the glorious days had vanished from his profession. The architects of Greece and Rome left monuments that are eternal. The modern architect has no such hope. He himself has designed three houses in New York so magnificent that he expected to carry his name to future generations. All three have been torn down to make way for apartment buildings.

I talked with a clergyman who had recently visited a city parish where he had labored successfully 30 years ago. That portion of the city has now become a slum. The old families have scattered to the suburbs. The church is closed.

"What is left," he exclaimed sadly, "to show for all my labor?"

I told him that people are left—the sons and daughters of the men and women to whom his sermons were preached.

"Your hearers trained their children in righteousness," I said, "and they will train their children."

"We can't fight change, and it is well that we can't. How dull life would be if everything were permanent. How wonderful that each new generation has the fun of taking the world apart and putting it together again."

The church may be closed, the house torn down, the ditch filled up. But Mr. Roe and the architect and the preacher each built a monument in the lives of the people whom he served.

We can do as much; and it is all that we can do.

Sunday School Lesson

JESUS ON THE CROSS

Matthew 27:33-50

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
The world is Christo-centric because of the effective work of Jesus Christ on the cross 1900 years ago. He not only set forth worthwhile principles and a safeguarding ethic but furnished the power whereby these can be accomplished. Time is recorded because of Him, and we have Anno Domini, A. D. 1930.

Events climaxed rapidly after Judas gave the dirty kiss of betrayal in the Garden of that day by reason of recent prayer. Peter failed utterly as he denied his Lord and cursed to help make his language impressive after the sneer of the serving maid. Then came six trials filled with irregularities. There were three before the Jews and three under Roman direction. Misrepresentations, mockings and scourgings did not bring forth a single ungracious word from Him. Pilate's wife showed great concern as she sensed that a wrong was about to be done but he merely washed his hands and thus thought he was displacing his responsibility. When either Jesus or Barabas were offered to the people, according to the Roman custom at Passover time, the Hebrews shouted that Jesus should be crucified. This sentence could be carried out only by the Romans and the entourage was commanded to take his guard of four and proceed.

Our lesson text gives only some of the events. First study the devotional reading for the day, Psalm 22 and note numerous prophecies. Then turn to the accounts in the four gospels and see how all were fulfilled. The details concern each one of us for Jesus therein was taking our sin place that he might effect atonement for sin on his cross.

When in Jerusalem we noted the 14 stations of the cross as they were marked by tablets along the Via Dolorosa. Each records an event in the proceedings of that Friday. The procession ends at Calvary, which many students think is just north of the Damascus gate, and outside of the city wall. There the formation of rock resembles the Place of the Skull. One way of following through the events of the crucifixion is to study each of the Seven Words from the Cross. In the midst of His agonies of suffering Jesus—concerned with forgiving the guards who nailed Him to the cross, and He does not forget His mother, but commends her to the loving care of John.

Observe the distinction between the two drinks offered to Jesus. The first was of myrror wine and was given by a group of women who went to every crucifixion and gave this opiate that the sense of pain might be lessened. When Jesus tasted and knew its purpose he refused. He would consciously face the sacrificial work for man. The other drink was the sour wine of the soldier and when he said "I thirst" it was given. Then He was able to speak the closing words which declared His Triumph rather than any defeat. He said "It is finished" and His medical work was fully accomplished. Thus Jesus paid the price of sin for all mankind and made salvation possible for all who would believe and confess their sins. The matter is made very clear in the familiar declaration of John 3:16.

The nearness in time between Heaven and earth is indicated by the promise made to the penitent thief on one of the three crosses. Jesus said, after his entreaty, "Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise." Paul in II Corinthians 5:8 makes it clear that "To be absent from the body is to be at home with the Lord."

Early Garden Suggestions

BEAN PESTS

By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture

Every mail for the past week has brought inquiries about the failure of beans to do well, for one cause or another. The troubles include bad stand, slow growth, yellowed and spotted and insect-riddled foliage, and sometimes total destruction.

To begin with, the cool season has had much to do with the trouble, for beans are a "warm" crop. Slow growth conditions reduce thrift, and unthrifty plants of whatever kind are prone to disease. This explains why the rust and the leafspot diseases are so prevalent. The control for either is dusting or spraying with Bordeaux

Spray is the more convenient for the home gardener because he need simply stir the prepared Bordeaux when all drugists and seedsmen handle, in the proper amount of water. Full directions are on the package. Gardeners who prefer to dust, should use the Bordeaux made especially for dusting, called "copper lime dust."

Two applications of Bordeaux dust or spray, three weeks apart, will measurably protect any planting of beans from the rust or the blight.

Now, as to the holes in the foliage. If the holes are roundish in shape the guilty insect is the spotted cucumber beetle, the other a bean beetle, or perhaps the Bean Flea-beetle. Asking For—N. R. Elliott.

HAVE YOU ANY BEES TO RENT?

Renting bees to help pollinate fruit during the blooming season has become a common practice in the commercial fruit growing sections of Kentucky. In fact the supply of bees is not sufficient to meet the demand, judging from the number of inquiries received at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

One fruit grower wanted to rent bees for a 400-acre orchard. Since a colony is required for each acre, he needed 400 stands. Most orchard men desire to use bees for about two weeks in the spring. Then they want them taken away to avoid poisoning with spray materials.

The orchard owners are responsible for the loss of any hives while using the bees, but usually require the beekeepers to transport them to and from the orchards.

A committee appointed by the county judge has selected K. G. Davis, living near Sturgis, as Union county's nominee for the honor of Kentucky master farmer.

Frank Molter and wife of Lawrenceburg, were visiting Calvin Cress and family last Friday.

Holmes Takes Up The Subject Of Cannonism In Weekly Story

BY FRED HOLMES

Washington Cor. for The Recorder
WASHINGTON—In the news of the past week there have been two outstanding features. One concerns religion and the other prohibition.

Both are exceedingly dangerous topics for any correspondent. Nothing can be said one way or the other that would not call down upon the chronicler every aspersion short of blasphemy. In endeavoring to transmit to you the current or the undercurrent of Washington thought it is impossible to escape the conviction that one is taking sides.

That is why your correspondent has up to date with intention scrupulously avoided comment on legislative prohibition and on things bordering on or overlapping religion. Just now both issues have ascended to such a position of predominance that omission of reference thereto would be puerile. Your correspondent is neither wet nor dry, Republican nor Democrat, conservative nor radical, but it has come to a point where certain controversial issues can no longer be ignored. In fact, there is little other news worth while.

Down in Virginia there lives a most estimable gentleman by the name of Cannon who has been elevated to the post of Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. There is more or less of an idea here that gentlemen of the cloth are not like the rest of us. It may be that they are human—just as human as we are—but they have assumed and have taken unto themselves certain responsibilities and certain duties as exemplars which we laymen have not assumed.

Bishop Cannon is the outstanding hero to the dry men and women of this country. He is also well regarded by those who are prejudiced against the Catholic church. Nor does he Bishop wholly conceal his own feeling of Roman Catholic hostility, despite the care with which he has disclaimed the accusation. In any circumstances, the dries are with him and the anti-Catholics are with him. This makes up his following and it is a following of no insignificant power.

You may or may not be in accord with Bishop Cannon's panacea for the ultimate cure of all human ills, but it strikes the average layman that the general impression that he has been shown up as greedy to get rich and boorish enough to play the bucket shops does not diminish the loyalty nor detract from the effect of the great bulk of the army that is back of him. It does, of course with some, but as recently proven in Dallas, Texas, they are comparatively few in number helplessly impotent to shake his position. With most, the disclosures intensify their devotion. To most of them, they seem evil machinations of the Catholic wets or the pardonable digressions of a godly man. So long as a self-constituted waver of the flag is in the lead, he will have followers.

One would think that there should be about such a man some signs of power, some evidence of a vibrant and magnetic personal appeal; of fire, force, character, and ability. It may be said without disparagement to Bishop Cannon that if there are any such they are well concealed. He has not an engaging personality. His voice is not agreeable and his manner neither distinctive or distinguished. Slightly stooped, bespectled, partly bald with greying hair, pale faced with no particular marked features, he seems a commonplace man indeed. This does not mean that Bishop Cannon is without shrewdness or ability. These qualifications he undoubtedly has but it does seem amazing that a man who, so effectively mixing religion with practical politics, has made himself the recognized leader of so great an army of voters, would not be personally more inspiring.

The fact is that it is a principle and not a man that inspires his following. It isn't the man the dries follow but the symbol, and under any other leadership the symbol would command the same devotion from the same people. In short, the forces that feel that alcohol is a curse and that the Catholic church is a menace would follow any designated person in an authoritative ecclesiastical position who might be thrust forward or thrusts himself forward as a leader.

A few days ago Senator Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, was asked point blank whether he knew the intentions of the President with respect to the pending tariff bill. Mr.

Watson replied that he never put the question directly to Mr. Hoover but had no doubt that the tariff bill, unless made more obnoxious, would be signed by the President. For the Democrats, Pat Harrison of Mississippi expressed his belief that the President would take pleasure in making a law of the measure in its present form. Without doubt President Hoover has been more or less out doubt President Hoover has been more or less upset by all of these calm assurances that he would affix his name to whatever kind of bill Congress sent to his desk. In any event, at the last reception of Washington correspondents he stated that he did not regard the issue as closed.

It would seem that he has resolved to keep an open mind about the tariff bill as about any other legislation submitted to him for approval or veto. Evidently it is his purpose to make a thorough study, with the aid of expert advisors, of all the features of the tariff bill, including its very complicated and controversial administrative sections, before deciding whether it shall have his approval.

If this is the attitude of the President it may have a two-fold significance. It may be a warning to the Republican conferees not to make the bill worse than it is, or to make it so bad in important particulars that even a Republican and protectionist President cannot stomach it. This ostensible White House ultimatum may also imply that the President has been duly impressed by the many impartial and unpartisan protests against the tariff bill, as it stands today and the impressive protests against the bills which have been made public during the past few weeks. Among others, these protests have come from great manufacturers, leaders of industry, prominent American exporters and outstanding journalists. They come also from unbiased, unselfish and patriotic students of our foreign relations who see in the proposed tariff schedules the danger of a breach of international friendships that are now cordial. As also the apparent certainty of reprisals abroad which will seriously impair American trade.

You may or may not be in accord with all Hoover policies, but you will have to admit that in any circumstances our President is not a rubber stamp. This was emphasized by his veto of the measure purporting to aid veterans of wars in which this country has not participated. As might have been expected, President Hoover ran up against a stone wall of public sentiment to which is to be added organized groups, a combination capable of making Presidential vetoes ineffective.

Veterans of our wars who served our country at the risk of their lives are without question entitled to the Nation's generosity. And the fact is indisputable that this nation has been more generous to its old soldiers and sailors, and to men who have been disabled or contracted serious illness as a result of their services, than any other country on earth. The veterans of the Spanish-American War should undoubtedly be dealt with as generously as the veterans of any other war, but there are certain principles regarding pension legislation from which past history has demonstrated we cannot safely depart. President Hoover in his veto of the bill which has now become a law, notwithstanding his opposition, held to some of these principles. Undoubtedly the President would have approved a bill which did not carry the passages to which he objected in his veto message. And to many who have made a study of pension legislation who have an inkling of what this country will be called upon to do in the way of pensions in many years hence, his objections have appeared well taken.

Some veterans of the Spanish-American War are undoubtedly justified in seeking more liberal pensions. However, the question at issue was whether the objections raised by President Hoover were sound and whether the bill should have been amended to admit these objections. Both Houses of Congress have gone on record overwhelmingly in the matter and the bill has become a law as it was originally passed. Whether the precedent set by its passage over the Presidential veto will rise to plague our legislators in the future, remains to be seen.

Deaths

Howard Lee Utzinger, born July 27, 1912, at Francesville, Ky., died June 4th, 1930, aged 17 years, ten months and eight days, was the beloved and only son of John and Grace Beall Utzinger and devoted brother of his only sister Helena Utzinger.

For some time he had been in poor health but was patient and courageous through all. As the years of his young life sped on, heeding the admonition of the Psalmists—"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, when the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou say I have no pleasure in them," he united with the Sand Run Baptist church in 1927, entering into the good work of all the terms Christian Auxiliary, B. Y. P. U., a faithful, regular attendant of the Sunday school—living an exemplary and christian life and the lives of those with whom he came in contact made better for having known him.

Just after the rosy dawn of a bright June day and as the beautiful rays and shadows grew upon the spirit of this splendid young man began its flight over the great uncharted sea to await the coming of his loved ones or the other shore—his young life here broken as the rosebud of the Garden.

We bow our heads and our hearts go out in sympathy to this bereaved family, but grieve not as those who have no faith for we realize "None knew him but to love him none named him but to praise." God's will, not ours be done.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Campbell June 6th, at 2:30 p. m., at Sand Run Baptist church before a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends after which he was carried by six of his young men companions to his last resting place in Sand Run cemetery.

W. A. Bullock, of Hebron, had charge of the funeral arrangements. A ton-litter work was to make a litter weigh a ton in 180 days. Scores of farmers leaped how to do better than that, and found increased profits thereby. Now Grady Sellards, in charge of swine extension work for the College, announces more speed, or the production of ton litters in 15 fewer days.

Farmers were so quick to adopt better feeding practices that many litters were too heavy to command top prices at the end of 180 days. One man made a litter weigh a ton and a half and many farmers went beyond the ton mark. It also was found that the 180-day period often extended beyond the best time to sell.

Commercial firms are cooperating in offering prizes for the best ton litters. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be distributed by the Cincinnati Union Stock Yards Company, for pitchers by Ballard & Ballard, Louisville, and Early & Daniel, Cincinnati; 1,000 pounds of tankage by the Joslin-Schmidt Corporation, Cincinnati; and premium bacon by E. J. John's Sons, Cincinnati, and Munne Bros., Lexington.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to extend our profound thanks to everyone who in any way rendered sympathy or help during our recent bereavement. We especially wish to thank the undertaker Mr. Bullock, the minister Rev. Helbert and the donors of the numerous and beautiful floral offerings. Words cannot express our deep appreciation.

The C. H. Youell Family.

NOW WELL AND STRONG AND ROBUST

"For years I never knew what it meant to feel well. I was always tired out. I was actually becoming a burden to myself as well as others. I was examined by many doctors and they gave me many things to take—but nothing seemed to help me. I was really getting in a very serious condition. Then like a fairy God-Mother I happened upon Karnak and I will say without a bit of exaggeration, it is almost like magic—so marvelous and so quick in its wonderful power to make a new person of one. I often shudder when I think of what might have happened to me had I not found out about Karnak when I did. Instead of what 'might have been' I am strong and well and robust and the amount of things I can accomplish amazes everyone I know."

Friday's Dinner
Fried Fish
Parsley Potatoes
Southern Cornbread
Head Lettuce and Cucumbers with French Dressing
Strawberry Cake

Sauce for Fish
1-3 cup mayonnaise.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
2 tablespoons chopped pickle.
1 hard cooked egg, chopped.
Mix all ingredients and serve with the fish.

Parsley Potatoes
Pare and cook small potatoes in boiling salted water. When tender, drain and add sufficient melted butter to season. Just before serving sprinkle generously with chopped parsley.

Southern Cornbread
1 cup cornmeal.
1/2 cup flour.
1 egg.
1 cup milk.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 tablespoon melted shortening.
Mix the dry ingredients and add the beaten egg and milk. Add the shortening and turn into a hot greased baking pan and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Strawberry Cake
Make a rich biscuit dough or use a plain sponge cake. Serve with a sauce made as follows:
3 tablespoons butter.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg.
1 cup crushed berries.

Cream the butter and sugar and add the beaten egg yolks. Place in a double boiler and when heated thru add the crushed berries. While this heats, beat the egg white until stiff and then add to the sauce. Serve while hot.

Broiled Steak
Select a sirloin or porterhouse steak at least 1 inch thick. Trim off the outer edge. We are using at this time the pan broiling method. Heat a heavy skillet slowly until very hot. Rub a little fat over the surface. Lay in the steak and as soon as it is seared on one side, turn and sear the other. Keep turning. Reduce the heat as soon as both sides are seared and brook until as done as you like it. Never stick the fork into the meat as the juice will flow out, but stick into the fat of the meat, to turn. Place the meat on a hot platter and garnish with salt, pepper and a little bread crumbs. Place in a buttered baking dish or pan and top with butter. Place in a very hot oven for 30 minutes, cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes longer. Make a gravy by adding one-half cup or more cream to the liquid in the pan.

Boiled Corn on the Cob
We hope that you do not put salt in the water as this toughens the corn. Put the corn on to cook in warm water and bring slowly to a boil and boil for 12 to 13 minutes. Serve at once.

Fried Asparagus
Drain asparagus and dip in beaten egg and milk and roll in fine dry bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat.

French Rolls
2 cups milk.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons butter.
2 teaspoons sugar.
1 cake yeast.
6 cups flour.

Scald the milk and cool to lukewarm. Add the well beaten eggs and salt. Cream the sugar with the yeast and add to the milk. Rub the butter into the flour and add. Knead until very smooth. Let rise about 3 hours. Form into rolls and let rise again and then bake in a hot oven. These rolls may be made on Saturday and reheated on Sunday.

Fresh Strawberry Sundae
Crush ripe strawberries and add sufficient sugar to sweeten. Serve over fresh strawberry or vanilla ice cream.

Dear Mrs. Auch: Your column is most interesting and helpful to me. I do enjoy it. Will you please tell me when you have space, how to make good meringue. Mine is always tough and shrinks after I take it from the oven. Thanking you, I am

An Interested Reader
We are very certain that you use an oven which is much too hot. Take a "perfect meringue" beat the egg whites until very stiff and add 2 tablespoons (level of course) sugar for each egg white used. Beat this in thoroughly. Pile the meringue on to the pie plate and place the pie in a very slow oven with the door open. After 15 minutes, close the door, increase the heat and brown in the next 5 minutes.

Dear Mrs. Auch: I always look for your column the very first thing. I find it is just what average woman is looking for. Not too fancy but good. I am very anxious to have a small Devil's Food Cake recipe. There are only three members in our family and a big cake dries out before we use it. Thank you.

Mrs. S. M.
If you will enclose a stamped and addressed envelope in your next letter, we will mail to you a set of recipes, one of which is the small Devil's Food Cake. This recipe makes just 1 layer and is a delicious moist cake. By the way, there are ten recipes in this set and they are printed on neat little cards just as you

Sunday school was held at ten o'clock with 101 present. This is the largest attendance we have ever had. See if we can not have this many every Sunday.

Brother Allen preached a very interesting sermon in the morning on "Christian Stewardship." Mrs. Allen favored us with a special song.

The Children Day exercises were held at 8:30 in the evening. The church was beautifully decorated with daisies and roses. The program was very interesting and apparently enjoyed by all. The chairs were placed in the aisles to accommodate the overflow crowd.

The regular meeting of the Christian Endeavor was postponed until next Sunday night on account of the Children Day exercises.

The Missionary Society held an all day meeting with Mrs. Easton last Thursday June 5th. The Bullittsville Group rendered a very interesting program which was enjoyed by all. Our next meeting

SCHOOL TAX ELECTION NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the legal voters residing in the boundary of the Hebron Consolidated School District described below, of an election to be held at Hebron, Kentucky, in the school house between the hours of 8 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., Central Standard time, on the 28th day of June 1933, upon the proposition as to whether or not, there shall continue to be levied a ten cent annual tax on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property for school purposes, owned by white persons and corporations in said boundary. Said tax to be used to pay one-third the cost of building an auditorium and necessary class rooms to accommodate all the white pupils in said boundary.

THE TAX IS TO BE LEVIED AND COLLECTED each year not to exceed six years from the present years tax.

The following question will be submitted to the legal white voters at said election: "ARE YOU IN FAVOR OF CONTINUING THE PRESENT LEVY OF TEN CENTS (10c) ON EACH ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($100.00) WORTH OF TAXABLE PROPERTY OF PERSONS AND CORPORATIONS IN SAID DISTRICT?"

The boundary of said district is as follows: Beginning at the residence of John J. Rucker, leaving him out; thence to Evan Anderson excluding him; thence to Harvey Souther including him; thence to Henry Riggs place including it; thence to Webb Riggs place excluding him; thence to Gordon Souther including him; thence to James Bullock, including him; thence to Hermon Bucklers including him; thence following his outlet to the center of North Bend road; thence to Eldora Aylor's excluding her; thence to Oscar Gaines' place excluding it; thence to Tom Dinn's place including it; thence to Clarence Easton excluding him; thence to Cad Sullivan including him; thence to the E. L. Riley place including it; thence to James T. Gaines excluding him; thence to Robert Grant including him; thence to Stevens Brothers excluding them; thence to V. W. Gaines including him; thence to W. L. Cropper including him; thence to the Helena Utzinger place excluding it; thence to Tom Masters including him; thence to Henry Sawyer including him; thence to Mont Belsly excluding him; thence to Alfred Ogden's residence including it; thence to Dr. Crisler's upper farm (Whitlock place) excluding it; thence to the Ohio River; thence up said river to Anna Goodridge's place excluding it; thence to Hattie Stahl including her; thence to E. J. Aylor's including him; thence to William Kruse including him; thence to James Barlow's including him; thence to Olive Dye's including him; thence to the place of beginning.

On August 3, 1925, at the request of G. B. Pierce and an order of the School Board the boundary was changed to include said G. B. Pierce.

SURVEY REVEALS LOW FARM INCOME

College Recommends Intensive Crops and More Livestock For Laurel County

A preliminary report of a study of farm conditions in Laurel county, made by the Department of Farm Economics of the University of Kentucky Experiment Station and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, shows that half of the 203 families studied had less than $500 cash income in a year.

Ninety of the 203 families had only $339 a year to spend. Forty-one families derived their living largely from pensions or financial assistance of children or others. Their total spendable income averaged $459. Seventy-two families secured the greater part of their income from work away from the farm. The total spendable income of these men averaged $540.

Cream and butter accounted for 15 per cent of the total farm receipts. Calves and cows came next, with 13 per cent, followed by eggs and tobacco, each of which accounted for 12 per cent of the total receipts. Of the total receipts, 57 per cent came from livestock products, 34 per cent from crops and 9 per cent from labor, team work and other outside sources.

It is the opinion of the investigators that farmers in the area studied would profit by more attention to such intensive crops as tobacco, potatoes, and other truck. They observed that farmers who grew intensive crops made more money than those who did not. They found larger incomes where there was dairying, and also where good flocks of chickens were kept.

"Since land level enough for cultivation is so scarce, it is particularly imperative that every acre of such land shall be so handled as to get large returns in physical yields and money values," says the report. "This means the greater use of such intensive crops as tobacco and truck crops, and the liberal use of limestone and other fertilizing agents."

"The need for the greater use of intensive livestock enterprises is also imperative. This is particularly true of dairying on farms situated where transportation facilities make possible the economical delivery of dairy products to market. Most farms are small and have a considerable amount of available family labor and insufficient crops and livestock to furnish full employment. The milking and care of cows in such cases serves to furnish needed employment and a greater family revenue."

BANKERS REPORT DROP IN SAVINGS

Lure of Stock Market Party to Blame, but Slackened Speculation Expected to Bring Return to Thrift.

The first recession in the nation's savings account in banks in the twenty years during which records in this field have been kept by the American Bankers Association was disclosed for last year in the recent annual compilation prepared by its Savings Bank Division. The shrinkage amounted to over $195,000,000, on the basis of figures for the year ending June 30, 1929, whereas a year earlier the reported increase was over $2,300,000,000, the largest ever recorded. The number of savings depositors also decreased during the year covered by more than 600,000 accounts. The lure of the stock market and affiliated activities are cited as part of the explanation for these changes.

The association's statement says that savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States on June 30, 1929, stood at $28,217,556,000. The recession in savings, it declares, indicates a fundamental change in the savings situation, irrespective of whether it is temporary or not.

"In 1926 savings deposits increased $1,562,000,000, in 1927 almost $1,400,000,000 and in 1928 over $2,300,000,000," it says. "It appears now that some influences in one year have taken the gain that might reasonably have been expected in savings deposits for 1929 and lowered them from the high mark of the preceding year. This recession is not one coming as a result of drought, famine, unemployment or conditions outside of the United States."

"A year ago it was stated: 'The year closing June 30, 1929, registered the largest gain in savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States ever recorded in the history of this country.' What a difference one year makes! From a gain of more than 2 1/2 billions of dollars in savings deposits to a loss of almost 200 millions!"

"The loss in savings deposits is reflected also in the loss of savings depositors. The year 1929 showed a total of 52,664,127 depositors, against 53,188,248 for 1928, a loss of 524,221. "Industrial production was much higher last year than the preceding year. Factory payrolls were considerably greater. In production, employment and trade, advances were made over the preceding year. In the farm areas the improvement noted for 1928 did not recede in 1929 and the livestock industry in all its branches was prosperous."

The Causes of the Drop

"The causes of the recession are possibly multiple. There is scarcely any reason to doubt that one of the important factors draining away savings and decreasing depositors has been the lure of profits to be made in stocks. For a number of years the people have been regaled with stories of profits made in stocks in all types of companies. During the last few years there has been a species philosophy preached that panics such as formerly occurred were no longer possible."

"If it was the lure of profits in stocks which caused the recession in savings, then a factor in future savings will be the success attendant upon this venture of savings depositors in stocks. If the experiment did not prove generally successful, then another year will doubtless witness an increase in savings deposits as well as savings depositors."

PENNANT MARCH

OF BELLEVUE CLUB GOES ON APACE—WALTON, THO WINNING REGULARLY, IS UNABLE TO GAIN—HEBRON REGISTERS WINNER

Bellevue Wins Two
Advancing with compelling ir-tubility the crack Bellevue base ball club took a pair of victories over the week-end, one of which proved to keep their record clean and leadership unchallenged in the Boone Co.
League, while the other, though not serving the same purpose in the Spinney league, nevertheless was even more impressive.

At Petersburg Saturday afternoon
Bill Rogers pitched his pals to a victory against an ancient rival of Bellevue in base ball. The score was 6-3. Rogers, though well fanned 8 men and held his opponents to 7 scattered hits, while Brill, his opponent, was fanning but 9 and allowing 9 hits. Rogers passed no less than 6 men, though his rival in the box issued but one free ticket to the initial sack.

The defensive work of Bradburn was the outstanding feature of the game and his hitting also shone. With Bradburn were Jarrell, of Petersburg, and Pope and Bucky Rogers to share the swatting honors. Pope drove out two doubles and a single,
Rogers three singles, while Bradburn was hitting a triple and single and Jarrell two singles.

Brady Wins 1-0
Joe Brady pitched what is claimed to be the best game he ever has tried to pitch in his career when he trimmed Madeira, Ohio, last Sunday by the slimmest of margins known to the pastime. He held Madeira, a Class A team, to five hits and no runs, while his team mates were making a lone counter on four hits.
Robert Stephens was the winning end.

In the first inning both teams made their respective bids for a score and then subsided to allow the fans to witness one of the prettiest pitcher's battles imaginable. Joe opened by allowing the first three batters to hit safely filling the bases. He then fanned the next two and forced the third one to bounce feebly to the box.
Bellevue's bid for a run, however, was 100 per cent successful and therein lies the tale of the victory.
Brady fanned nine men, the opposing moundman whiffing five.

Next Sunday Bellevue will face
California, Ohio.

Hebron Wins in Ninth
Although they were able to make but four scattered bingles off the portside delivery of one Lefty
Sprague last Saturday afternoon the Hebron team was able to turn them into exactly that many runs, while Burlington with 11 hits could make them count for just one short of that number.

Sprague pitched cleverly and hit hard himself and deserved to win, but his opponent, Brown, got the verdict. Brown pitched winning base ball and in addition was backed faultlessly, while Sprague suffered four errors behind him, three of which counted in the scoring.

Hebron scored first in the second when Moreland singled, Brown doubled and later scored himself when Maurer muffed his fly in center. Burlington countered in the fourth, tied the score in the sixth and forged ahead in the eighth on Sprague's fine triple and a single by Akin. This should have been enough for Sprague but two errors, a sacrifice fly and a double by Moreland were bunched for two runs and the game. Burlington was pitifully helpless in the last half of the ninth.

Walton Runs Away
After going for seven innings in one of the closest and cleanest games of the season the Walton and Francesville teams suddenly underwent a transformation of style and the final score was 14-3. Just what happened this writer was unable to learn, but of course something did. DeMoisey opposed Steelman on the mound.

At a meeting of the Fiscal Court last week the contract was awarded for the construction of the road from the Florence Pike to Gunpowder creek, known as Tanner's Lane. The successful bidder was J. C. Macht, of Newport, and it is expected that work will begin within the near future.
The Y. M. C. A. camp, located at the far end of this road was opened this week.

WOOL CROP

FALLS FAR SHORT OF THE 1929
YIELD—PRICE OF 39.26 CENTS,
THOUGH LOWER THAN LAST YEAR, HIGHLY PLEASING TO "POOLERS"

The wool growers who stayed with the county pool organization this year realized the wisdom of so doing, according to several interviewed at the receiving station here Tuesday.

The price received this year was 39.26 cents per pound and this was several cents per pound higher than what had been expected, the nearly fifteen cents per pound lower than last year. The crop this year also was several thousand pounds short of last year.

At Walton Monday about 13,000 pounds came to the receiving station while the Burlington delivery was 12,878 pounds. The Petersburg delivery of Wednesday was expected to bring the total to approximately 35,000 pounds, some ten thousand short of last year.

It was said to be the most satisfactory grading in many years with complaints negligible. The wool was sold to Sable and Rosenbaum, two Louisville firms, who divided the purchase.

LEGION TEAM

COMPOSED OF LADS UNDER 17 YEARS HAS AN EXCELLEN-T CHANCE TO WIN DISTRICT
HONOR—DEFEAT ERLANGER
SATURDAY

Manager Bill Doyle and his team of youngsters, representing Boone Post American Legion in the Northern Kentucky League, are fast rounding into that form that it is expected will be necessary to win the district championship.

If they win the district championship they will be entitled to compete in the state championship tournament at Louisville. The winner of the state championship will compete in the national championship games in Boston at the time of the national American Legion convention. These games were played last year at Louisville and were broadcast by Graham McNamee.

The age limit of the players is 17, but Boone No. 4 has but one player who will be ineligible on account of his age even next year. It is alleged that the Boone county team is the youngest in the sixth district loop.
The team has a full equipment with uniforms to match and is composed of players from different sections of the county. They have won two and lost one, beside playing a tie with the Ludlow team, which is considered to be their chief rival for championship honors. They are now tied for second with Covington and will meet that team at Florence next Saturday afternoon when they expect to break the tie and advance into undisputed possession of second place.

Last Saturday afternoon Boone defeated Erlanger by an 8 to 2 score.
Manager Doyle tried out two new pitchers last Saturday in Goodridge, a southpaw from Francesville, and Bingham, a big right hander from Verona. Both showed plenty of stuff in defeating Erlanger, the only team that has yet defeated them.

Utility men carried with the team are as follows: Williamson, Welsh, Snow and Satchwell. Williamson and Welsh play as regulars, but both were crippled last Saturday.

Sixteen Pitchers To Try For Positions In "Big 8" Next Saturday

BEFORE CROWD EVEN LARGER THAN LAST SATURDAY TOUR-NEY LIST IS CUT DOWN—PEO-PLES DEPOSIT BANK ADDS TO PRIZE LIST—BROTHERS TIE FOR "RINGER" RECORD

NOTE—Contestants in the Horseshoe Tournament have an added incentive to bear down in the remaining games. A. B. Renaker, Cashier of the Peoples Deposit Bank, volunteered Monday to give a cash prize of $3.00 to the pitcher finishing second and $2.00 for third. Mr. Renaker, like hundreds of others, has been converted "overnight" into an ardent horseshoe "fan."

In a mammoth contest that has left some thirty-six horseshoe pitchers stranded dependently on the sidelines there remain sixteen candidates of unquestioned ability to try for more favored positions in the Boone County Tournament that will go into the third round next Saturday evening.

At the end of the third round, which will be completed in one night's play, there will be eight pitchers to contest for the championship. These will be known as the "Big 8." Not, of course, by any reason of their size, or, for that matter, without regard even to their age, for there are several of very small stature and immature years that will have a wonderful opportunity to be included in the select octette.

There is Franklin Maurer, a High School boy, who has pitched at all ontly this year and who has established himself as a prominent contender by reason of his unexpected showing in pushing Manley Ryle, a really good pitcher, into the discard last Saturday evening.

Then, of course, all tourney fans are acquainted with the prowess of Lee Edward Portwood, that thirteen year old marvel from Waterloo. It was stated thru these columns last week that Lee Ed. was fifteen years of age, but his father, who really should know, has conveyed to me the information that his younger son is but thirteen. So that goes.

And then Owen, an elder brother of Lee Edward, is not so large in bone and muscle, but in horseshoe craft he is—well, you should see him pitch. Then there is David Williamson, still a minor in years, but there with the goods in his horseshoes.

But there are some others who might get into the "Big 8" by reason of years and brawn, if that were the standard. There is Ben Black who ties the scales well over 200 and pitches horseshoes in proportion. He is pitted against Owen Portwood in the opening match of the evening and it bids fair to be one of the best.
The late arrivals will miss something.

Then, as far as years are concerned, there are L. O. Hubbard and Perry Presser. They are the seniors of any of the "Big 8" prospects and they will vie each other for the privilege. The fire will fly from steel when these two crafty veterans toe the mark.

Now as far as height is concerned
there are L. C. Weaver, W. A. Pettit,
L. W. Gulley, W. A. Waters and Carl Cason, all of whom are well over six feet in stature. L. R. McNeely, E. R.
Plummer, Val Dolwick and Elmer Horton are in the "medium" class, both in point of years, height and weight, but, nevertheless, they may, or may not, be classed in the "Big 8"
next Saturday night.

All of which simply means that the "Big 8" will be made up after next Saturday's elimination of men and boys, old and young, lean, tall and heavy, but the members of the select circle first must demonstrate that they can pitch horseshoes. And, suffice it to say, there are sixteen who claim that they can, and will.

Some very exciting matches resulted from last week's contests before the tourney finally was sifted down to sixteen. The Portwood brothers tied for ringer honors with fourteen each in two games, an average of seven to the game. L. C. Weaver tossed thirteen and Frank Maurer twelve. Ben Black threw seven in one game, making all of his score of 21 via ringer, while David Williamson threw nineteen in a three game match, which he won from Robert Uts on Monday night. Perry Presser and Paris Kelly put on two each on successive pitches at successive pegs and it gave the crowd the best thrill of the evening to see four rings on a peg at one time, and then to see the performance repeated in the next round.

E. R. Plummer, the tourney "dark horse," showed five from Saturday night in defeating T. B. Cason, of Bellevue. He will be pitching against
L. C. Weaver next week and it certainly will be a test for both of them.
Opinion is about evenly divided as to the ultimate winner of the match.
Needless to state that each match next Saturday will be a real one with every pitcher doing his utmost to get in the "Big 8" group.

RAINFALL

OF MONDAY AND TUESDAY OF UNTOLD BENEFIT TO BOONE COUNTY FARMERS—DROUGHT OF MONTHS IS BROKEN

Tuesday morning many a cow wandered out into Boone county pastures to find fresh grass where for the past few weeks she has been forced to indulge in scant and dry picking and at the peril of contracting asthma.

Tuesday morning many a tobacco raiser sauntered forth into his tobacco patch where he might set plants that were about to perish in the beds.

Tuesday morning stock of all kinds might sniff something more refreshing than dust from the creek beds, vegetation of every character held up its collective head. And so did the farmer—and smiled.

For Monday it rained. And Tuesday it repeated to the delight of every creature. It was a rain—Monday and Tuesday—that reached practically every portion of the county and its benefits indeed are incalculable.

Since February the rain fall has been so light that early crops, meadows and pastures have suffered to such an extent that the effects have reached not only the farmers themselves, but other businesses as well.

But Monday and Tuesday it rained and now our worries can be diverted into other channels.

EDITION DATA

MUST BE IN WITHIN WEEK—ALL THOSE WHO HAVE RECEIVED
MANUSCRIPTS FOR CORREC-TION ARE URGED TO HASTEN THEIR RETURN SO THAT THEY CAN GO TO PRINTER

For the past ten weeks the Recorder has been laboring diligently to obtain data for a magazine edition for Boone county. A special man has been on the job during that entire period. By this time every reader of this newspaper should know the nature of this edition—that it will contain biographies of its leading citizens, information of historical nature regarding Boone county and her people, scenes of the county as it looks to-day, and other features.

A copy of this edition will be available without cost to every subscriber of this newspaper, whether the subscription is paid up or not. The publisher of this paper has made this venture at a risk of far greater magnitude than any can realize, yet no one is being charged for space used in the edition, nor will there be any display advertising sold in the magazine.

We have received, however, a few donations and certainly would appreciate others, as the Recorder does not feel that it should bear the entire burden, which would be a crushing one for one man.

The only straight out charge that is being made for anything is a flat charge of $5.00 (the bare cost) for the "cuts" of pictures of children for the section devoted to the little ones under ten years.

As the time is growing short before this work must be completed we insist that all data reach this office within the week and respectfully urge that all manuscripts sent out for correction be returned as soon as possible.

40 CLUBS

ORGANIZED AMONG YOUNG DEMOCRATS OF KENTUCKY—SUB-COMMITTEE URGES THAT EACH COUNTY ORGANIZE

With approximately forty Young Men's Democratic Clubs already formed in the state and prospects for the immediate formation of additional clubs, the sub-committee appointed by the Democratic State Central Executive Committee to cooperate with this movement, in an open letter to Democratic men and women of the state urges the fullest support to this activity by all members of the party.

The sub-committee's letter says:
"Inasmuch as the Young Men's Democratic Clubs take no part whatever in primary elections, they will begin their active work immediately following the August primary. It is highly desirable that by the time this active participation begins the clubs should be organized and ready for action in all Kentucky counties.

"The committee which is cooperating with this movement earnestly requests the support of influence and also of contribution of all men and women Democrats of the state. It is necessary to raise a fund sufficient to carry forward the work of organization, and also that prizes may be offered for the clubs making the largest percentage increase in Democratic vote over the last senatorial election.

"Loyal Democrats are urged to cooperate with this movement by contributions and influence. The Young Men's and Young Women's Democratic Clubs working together will serve the state in such a manner as it is being served by the Women's Democratic Clubs which went on record in their recent meeting in Coxington as endorsing this movement.
The sub-committee organized by the Democratic State Central Executive Committee, and has the ad-vorsement of Judge Charles A. Han-din, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee;
Joseph E. Robinson, Democratic National Committeeman; Senator Alben
W. Barkley, Hon. Ralph Gilbert,
Hon. Virgil Chapman, Hon. O. P.
Jackson, Senator L. C. Littell, Lieut.
Governor James Breathitt, Jr., and other party leaders too numerous to mention. In North Carolina, in Georgia and other states this movement has been highly successful.

"Under no circumstances will the Young Men's Democratic Clubs become a party to any factional strife or be used in the interest of any individual or group within the Democratic party. The announced proposition of the young men at the head of these organizations are sufficient guarantee against this, and no member of any club can say that any effort has ever been made to divert the clubs from their original purposes. These purposes are to interest and advance the young Democrats, to elect all Democratic nominees at November elections and to eliminate factional strife and ill feeling and bring the Young Democrats together in an active, party organization.

"The Young Men's Democratic Clubs are formed as permanent organizations. The service that they can render to the party and to the state is limited only by the support received from older Democrats whose advice is desired on all matters. Those desiring to contribute to this movement are requested to send checks to Lindsay Douglas, Charman, sub-committee, Mt. Sterling, Ky."

W. M. U. MEETING

The W. M. U. of Big Bone held their regular meeting Thursday June 12th with Misses Mary and Eu-ma Glone with our vice-president Mrs. Edith Seebree taking charge. We had a fine day with about 17 in number. We had soul singing, also a fine talk on soul winning by our pastor Bro. Johnson. This book is to be our next Mission Study and it is indeed a very inspirational book. We are planning for an ice cream super in the near future. Date will be noted next month.

MURDER

Ten persons out of every 1,000,000 are victims of murderers every year in the United States.

That is an appalling record. Nothing like that number of murders occurs in other civilized country. But that fact, published everywhere, gives our own people as well as foreigners an incorrect impression of the life of the United States and in the cities which may be called "murder centers."

Think it over for a minute. How many people do you know who have had any contact of any kind with murder? How many people in this community have been murdered, in recent years?

We all know that the life of every law-abiding citizen, going about his or her business and not seeking trouble, is as safe in our midst as it is anywhere in the world. Gunmen do not prowl around our streets and byways looking for victims. Women are not afraid to go to the stores for fear of being shot down by stray bullets or intentionally. Yet the picture of life in the United States as Europe sees it would have all of us in constant danger of being killed by some irresponsible murderer.

Even in Chicago, from which we hear more news of murders and murderers than from any other place in America, conditions are not all like that. Americans unfamiliar with the ways of big cities hesitate to go to Chicago for fear of being killed. Chicago newspapers report that travelers with several hours between trains frequently do not dare to leave the railroad station to look around the beautiful city, because they have heard so much about Chicago gunmen. The International Rotary Clubs recently felt impelled to send out word to its members everywhere in the world, assuring them that they would not be killed if they came to a convention in Chicago.

The plain fact of the matter is that in almost every case of murder the victim is either a criminal, an associate of criminals, or engaged in some reckless undertaking which exposes him unnecessarily to attack. Leaving out the people who have invited murder by their own acts, and officers of the law taking necessary risks of their occupation, our proportion of murders to population, even in Chicago, is probably as low as in England or France.

That does not dispose, however, of the fact that there has developed in America a criminal element which is almost defiant in its attitude toward the authorities of the law. These men do not fear the law, because they have found so many ways of evading the punishment which is due them for their crimes. The basic trouble is with our courts and with the public sentiment which permits travesties on justice to go unheeded and unchecked.

Dynamite Ditch To Reclaim High Land

Five Franklin county farmers co-operated in the use of dynamite as a cheap and quick way of reclaiming valuable bottom land that for years had been too wet for cultivation. A ditch nearly three miles long was blasted in four days and drainage afforded 400 acres of highly fertile land.

The explosive opened a ditch two feet wide at the bottom, 5 feet wide at the top and 3 feet deep at a cost of 8 cents a linear foot or 20 cents a cubic yard of dirt removed. About two miles of the ditch followed an old channel of Elkhorn creek.

Engineers of the Hercules Powder Company, did the blasting, using 5,000 pounds of dynamite. As much as 2,500 feet of ditch was opened up in one "shot."

The drained land will be broke this fall and prepared for spring seeding. Corn will be grown a year or two, the land being too rich for other crops, according to County Agent R. M. Heath.

The agricultural engineering department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture made the preliminary survey and recommended the use of explosives as the most economical method of making the necessary drainage ditch.

To Demonstrate Use of Fertilizer Machinery

Implement companies will cooperate with the University of Kentucky of Agriculture in exhibiting and demonstrating fertilizer machinery at the agronomy and agricultural engineering field day at the Experiment Station August 7th.

Machines to apply fertilizer will be featured, including attachments to corn planters, potato planters and tobacco planters, and manure loading machinery, fertilizer drills, lime spreaders and manure spreaders.

The morning will be devoted to inspecting experimental plots and visiting the machinery exhibits. Following lunch Prof. Geo. Roberts, head of the agronomy department, will discuss the effectiveness of different methods of applying fertilizers. Field demonstrations will then be made so farmers can see the machinery in operation.

DO PEOPLE FEEL BETTER BECAUSE YOU PASSED BY?

I was in a doctor's office by appointment at five-thirty when his telephone rang. A woman's voice at the other end of the wire asked him to call at the house that evening.

His voice betrayed his irritation, but he promised to call.

Then he snatched the receiver on the hook and exploded.

"There is a woman who has nothing to do all day but gad about. She might just as easily have called me this morning or early in the afternoon. But, no, she has to put it off and spoil my evening."

Nobody but a doctor has any idea of how inconsiderate people can be. On two recent trips with two different men I had an interesting opportunity to contrast their conduct toward their fellow human beings.

One of them had made several million dollars in the past few years. Whenever he entered a dining car or a hotel he wanted everybody to understand that he is rich and important. Waiters dislike him, even though he tips liberally. I sometimes felt embarrassed by his critical demands for attention.

The manner of the other man is the exact reverse. You would never guess that he is a power in the world industry. He never gives orders, but makes suggestions or very courteous requests. He seems surprised that anybody should want to do him a favor. He can make a waiter or a station porter feel a new sense of self-respect merely by his smile.

A noted preacher once remarked that one of the finest of all the sayings of Jesus is this: "I have compassion on the multitude."

Said the preacher: "Many men can be virtuous. Many can be honest in a hard, self-righteous way. But how many are really considerate? How many feel instinctive respect and sympathy? How many have compassion?"

A lot of twisted standards have somehow grown up in the world. A lot of very righteous people seem to think that a man is good if he does not smoke, does not take a drink, does not do this or that.

These are negative and unimportant. The real mark of a Christian and a gentleman is whether he treats other people as he would like to be treated.

Whether they feel better or worse because he has passed by.

POULTRY VALUABLE FARM ENTERPRISE

The program of the sixth annual poultry short course to be held at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station June 23-27 declares that "records from many farm flocks in Kentucky show that poultry raising is one of the most profitable enterprises on these farms. During the past five years, a number of these demonstration farm poultry flocks in various parts of the state have returned more than $20.00 income a bird above feed costs and miscellaneous expenses."

The program goes on to say that the farms of Kentucky are well adapted to poultry raising and the climate favors the development of the poultry industry. "Under Kentucky conditions poultry raising offers an excellent opportunity to those who wish a steady source of income throughout the year."

The short course, which will be open to all men and women interested in poultry, will begin Monday morning, June 23, and continue through Friday, June 27. In addition to the lectures, there will be actual work in culling, judging, selection and other operations.

The course will be in charge of the staff of the poultry department, assisted by Prof. H. C. Kandel, head of the poultry department of Pennsylvania State College.

It was fitting that Jesus should make a mountain in Galilee a place for a special conference with His disciples. It was in that area that His greatest amount of work was accomplished during the three years of public ministry. The attitude of the disciples is an index of the way in which mankind will ever regard Him. "They worshipped Him, but some doubted." First He reassured His almighty power and the resurrection was direct testimony thereto. Then He revealed that Kingdom-building had just begun, with Himself as the chief corner stone. He would go away soon, but their work and that of those who joined with them would be abiding. They were given the Great Commission "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations." As His love is without limit, so the scope of their and our work is to be equally extensive. As they went they were to TEACH. Believers were to testify of their faith through Trinitarian baptism. Climaxing all is an all-inclusive promise. As they went forth on this commission, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Early Garden Suggestions

Timely Topics

By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture

Apply Bordeaux mixture on eggplants and tomatoes for blight and flea beetles. Follow with a second application in two weeks, and a third, two weeks later. The indirect results from tomato blight are sunburned fruit and a greatly reduced yield.

As a preventive for leaf spot and pod spot on beans, apply Bordeaux now; and again in two weeks. It will be welcome news to those gardeners who find rust so prevalent in Kentucky. Wonder, that Stringless Green-pod is less susceptible, and an excellent substitute in every way.

Cutting back the tips of sweet potato vines that are growing too exuberantly will not correct the trouble. It will, in fact do nothing except reduce the yield. The fault lay in selecting ground too rich for the sweet potatoes, or in not balancing the soil fertility by using a complete fertilizer high in potash. A 2-10-10 fertilizer would have been a good one to use, when the ground was prepared. The rate is 1 pound to 30 feet, in the bottom of the ridge, and not mixed in it.

Asparagus cutting should not be continued too long, else next year's harvest may be curtailed. Eight weeks is enough. The time to mature asparagus is when cutting ends.

It might be well to look into the stand of parsnips and salsify. Two inches for parsnips is right; and one inch for salsify. The latter sometimes suffers from a blight which knocks off the leaves. Bordeaux, two applications, two weeks apart, will help.

Rhubarb, too, is subject to leaf spot, which makes it so difficult to "hold" for more than a few years. Three applications of Bordeaux mixture, at two-week intervals, and beginning now, will extend the life of the planting, and increase the yield.

In passing, the time to mature rhubarb is when the buds start, in the spring.

Those gardeners who want lettuce, even in the hottest weather, should try Cos or Romaine. A good variety is Trianon. The seed should be sown thinly, and further thinned to four inches.

Those gardeners who are interested in summer greens of the spinach type may use New Zealand spinach. Since the seed sprouts slowly it should be soaked in water for twenty-four hours previous to planting, and if the ground is exceedingly dry, a watering or two will help. Once up and covered, New Zealand spinach will take care of itself in any weather. The plants should stand no closer than two feet apart. Sowing the seed in clusters of three, where the plants are to stand, and thinning to one, is the proper procedure. Only the runner tips are harvested; others replace them, making harvest continuous, up to severe frost.

THE LATEST

The very word house dress brings to the minds of many dresses of coarse cotton materials, in crude pinks and blues, cheaply made and too generously proportioned. Perhaps house dresses used to be like that, and women accepted them as a matter of course, not expecting to look their best during the busy hours at home.

I had a pleasant sort of surprise in store for me the other day when I was asked to make selections from a number of inexpensive ready made dresses of the house-dress sort. When they were displayed by the models it was difficult to believe that they were house dresses at all. Many of them might have been chosen for sports or summer resort wear.

There was a trimly fitted short sleeved dress of pastel blue pique and a sleeveless dress of green and white cotton print with crisply pleated organdie at the neck. Those of shantung silk especially appealed to me, though their price was amazing reasonable. One of them, in pastel green, is shown here.

One reason that house dresses nowadays have such an air of smartness is that they are inspired by, if not actually copied from dresses designed for sports wear.

SECOND SPRAY DUE FOR CODLING MOTH

Apple growers are advised by the department of horticulture of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Experiment Station to apply the second codling moth spray about June 16 to 20. The peak of the entrance of the first period of moth was about May 15, and it is usually a month before the second brood comes out.

W. W. Magill, field agent in horticulture, is making detailed observations of codling moth and other pests in the commercial fruit districts of the state. Western Kentucky growers have promise of a good apple crop, and they are making every effort to produce clean fruit. Mr. Magill reports—Kaine have been more frequent in that part of the state than in other sections, and apples have made a normal growth.

McCracken County Berries Profitable

McCracken county strawberry growers shipped 212 car loads of berries this year, compared with 387 car loads last year and 544 car loads in 1928. Prices ranged from $5.50 to $6.25 a crate, and the total income will be greater than in any previous season, according to County Agent William C. Johnstone.

"This crop is already having an influence on other lines of agriculture," says Mr. Johnstone. "For instance, there is more demand for limestone in the last few weeks than there has been for several years. Many farmers have paid off outstanding debts and mortgages which have been handicapping them for years."

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

INDISPENSABLE furnishings in a well-regulated kitchen are accurate scales and measuring utensils; a pair of shears to be used only in the preparation of foods; and, since the success of so many dishes depends upon correct timing, a reliable clock such as one of the new electric kind that plug into the wall and can't go a second off without showing a warning signal.

The use of a small amount of sugar, much as we use salt and pepper, mitigates the harsh taste of many foods without sweetening them. Used in the preparation of meat sauces and gravies, it accentuates the various flavors, blends them into a harmonious whole, and improves the color.

University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Mr. Johnstone advocated the maintenance of a normal strawberry acreage on account of the outlook for higher prices this year. Farmers who followed this advice found this an extraordinarily profitable year.

The Simpson County Poultry Association received an average of 14 cents a dozen for eggs shipped to a hatchery in Atlanta.

Small Shipments Of Strawberry's

Warren county's strawberry shipments this year were the smallest in years, being only 40 per cent of last year's sales. Prices were considered satisfactory, which fact is already stimulating talk of increased interest.

Members of the Allen County Horticultural Society in a tour of orchards in the county found that less than one per cent of the well-care for peach trees were killed last winter.

Correspondent Disserts Upon President and Senate Breach

(BY FRED HOLMES)

Washington Cor. for Recorder
WASHINGTON—Sincere disagreement between the President of the United States and the Senate throughout the one hundred fifty and odd years of our constitutional existence has frequently occurred and is rarely considered a source of any particular surprise. If it were understood that they would always concur in their views there would have been no necessity for granting to the Senate the power to pass upon certain acts of the President.

However, the supervisory powers vested in the Senate in connection with executive functions recently would seem to have turned the head of that august body to the point of insistence upon controlling the initiative as well as the ultimate in all governmental activities.

Astute political observers here are asking "What's the matter with the Senate, anyway? Certainly it would appear that there are evidences of inconsistency in that for 140 years they insisted upon secret sessions in their consideration of Presidential appointees, and there would seem to be no more reason why they should consider in secret the wisdom of executive action than there is why they should deny to the executive and our Secretary of State a safe-guarding against undue publicity of foreign relations, premature disclosures of which might result not only in embarrassment but in actual foreign antagonism." Why?

Well, the consensus of opinion here would seem to be that the answer is the same as the answer to the question "Why should the States run the risk of scandals in connection with the nomination of United States Senators?" In other words, why should the States adhere to a system which places the poor man at a disadvantage and thereby enables rich men and financially slanted political machines to use money more extravagantly if not corruptly. A number maintain that the spending of extravagant sums has injected into the Senate an element the activities of which has twisted the Constitution in sometimes successful endeavors to prevent the seating of elected members. Under present practices this would seem to be the only way to call a halt.

As a matter of fact, the undercurrent of political thought in Washington is that the root of the evil—and in referring to evil your correspondent means the undoubtedly growing antagonism between President and Senate and the disposition of the former to override what would seem always to be the prerogative of the latter—is the primary system, promulgated with the best of intentions and motives but now seemingly demonstrated by experience to have been a grievous mistake. The old party convention methods of nominating candidates was unfortunately discredited by intrigue and the alleged corrupt use of money, but the "remedy" applied by the people would seem to have proven itself to be worse than the disease.

Under the convention system a statesman who had devoted his life to the Nation's service and remained poor could be kept in the Senate against all rich contenders. The States were proud of these men. Their friends and honest supporters as a rule could force their nomination in spite of the artful dodges of politicians handling bags of money. But under the primary system a statesman who devotes his time to impregnable unselfish and patriotic services, to the exclusion of money-making, is more than likely to be beaten by combinations which have at their disposal and can exert powerful propagandic influences by the use of money. It is said to be certain here that the Senate is showing and has shown the bad effects of the primary system. Not all modern Senators acquired their seats as a result of the use of the enormous expenditures of money, but it is incontrovertible that men who would have grown to the stature of statesmen have been eliminated because they were poor.

The foregoing is called forth not so much by way of criticism of the personnel of the Senate as by way of accounting for the antagonism which has undoubtedly developed between the legislative and the executive branches of government. Secrecy in the administration of a Republican form of government is obviously not in ordinary circumstances to be tolerated, but crises in foreign relations are not "ordinary circumstances." The tentative refusal of President Hoover and Secretary Stimson to make available to Jingo, with which any republic is seemingly necessarily infested, diplomatic negotiations, undoubtedly meets with the approval of all other than the Jingos themselves.

It is said that President Hoover stands ready to let the Senate Foreign Relations Committee have the so-called secret documents concerning the London Naval treaty in confidence, and Senator Reed (R. Pa.) who was a delegate at London and champion of the treaty has made this offer apparently with the President's consent, but the treaty critics have rejected it. These critics insist not only on inspecting the confidential papers but on being the judges of whether to keep or break the seal of secrecy. Senator Reed maintains that production of the forbidden papers would help the treaty and that the only reason for secrecy is that some of the private exchanges contain frank commentaries which if divulged would only stir up personal animosity and create ill feeling without any light upon the treaty or its merits.

By making a display of indignation and being denied access to the papers, and by insinuating that something sinister is being concealed, the foes of the treaty have succeeded in seriously impairing the treaty's chances of early ratification. Some members of the Senate committee on Foreign Relations seem to look upon President Hoover's refusal to transmit papers relating to the London Naval treaty as proof that he wishes to take advantage of the coordinate branch of the treaty-making power by denying the information to which it is entitled.

The President's decision, as explained by Secretary Stimson, by no means indicates that he challenges the right of the Senate to have full information concerning the treaty. The reason for withholding the papers is said to be and undoubtedly is based upon the imperative necessity of keeping faith with foreign governments—the communications of which were made in confidence in conformity with the established rule that such communications shall not be made public.

There is certainly nothing to indicate that the Senate has ever given the President any assurances that the papers would be withheld from publication or that their contents would not be discussed on the floor of the Senate. Unless the President could be sure that all Senators would keep the information inviolate it would seem that he certainly would be justified in withholding the papers.

As a matter of fact, the controversy that is threatened revolves around the question of publicity. It would seem that the Senate has made the mistake of holding open sessions for the discussion of matters that should be discussed behind closed doors. Treaties differ from nominations for public office—although these are those who maintain that the reputation of reputable citizens would be jeopardized by the new rule. As more than once referred to in this column, the Senate adopted this new rule of open sessions after the disclosure of debates and votes in executive session. These disclosures would seem to have demonstrated that a few senators had entirely lost their sense of responsibility and were willing to do injustice to foreign nations and private citizens whenever they could gain political advantage by violating the obligation of secrecy. The inability of the Senate to cooperate in confidence with the President, even behind closed doors, was so evident that the Senate itself abolished the rule of secrecy. It is not surprising that President Hoover deems it incompatible with the public interest to transmit papers containing confidential communications from foreign governments.

No one can doubt but that President Hoover is anxious to obtain the Senate's approval of the treaty. I cannot be questioned that he is reluctant to adopt any course that would operate to delay or defeat the treaty in the Senate. Nevertheless the President is responsible for the policy of the government's foreign relations. One of George Washington's parting admonitions was "Observe good faith with all Nations." Much as President Hoover desires the ratification of the naval treaty, the good name of the United States is still more important to him, and if we may judge by the decision which he has made he will not suject the United States to the charge of bad faith by revealing their confidential communications.

After all, it isn't that anyone can object to the Senate Relations Committee or, so far as that is concerned, to the Senate itself being fully informed of what is taking place, provided that information does not percolate through leaks, into channels which lead to cesspools of ignorance, personal aggrandizement, profiteering and selfish emolument.

Geo. Gaines Bedinger returned Wednesday from the McCallie School for boys graded with the "upper tenth" of the entire student body and company "B" that won the cup. David Roberts, who was hurt by a live wire falling from a telephone pole, is improving rapidly.

The Ladies of the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary of Richwood church and their friends under the auspices of Mrs. Jake Cleek and Mrs. John Taylor, made quite a success of the dinner served to the motorcade which came from Covington to the end of the finished part of the Government road near Beaver. Mrs. B. L. Green kindly offered her yard for the purpose, it is an ideal spot, central to all. The procession composed of business men of Covington, included as speakers for the occasion Judge John J. Hows, ex-Congressman Oris S. Ware, candidate for Congress Brent Spence, Chairman Charles Brocke. Some with their wives. Many compliments were paid the culinary artists of the community and the ladies cleared $23.00.

The Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary meets all day Wednesday with Mrs. John Taylor.

Misses Ruth and Elizabeth Roberts spent the week-end at home with their mother Mrs. Agnes Roberts.

Local Happenings

The cooperation of the Cincinnati Suburban Telephone Company has been secured in developing telephone service in Gallatin county, and a large number of telephones will be placed in farm homes this summer.

Geo. B. Miller sold a two-acre tract of land in the Lassing subdivision on the Federal road near Florence last week to Lyman Rice, manager of the T. W. Sprinkle Co., of Erlanger. Mr. Rice plans to erect a California bungalow on the plot this summer.

Jacob Van Velzel, of the East Bend road, made the Recorder office a call Tuesday afternoon. It was his first visit here since last February when he suffered an exceptionally painful and damaging break to his right limb. Although that has been eighteen weeks ago Mr. Van Velzel still is walking only with the aid of crutches and which support he expects to use until September before casting them aside.

Rev. F. B. Heibert, pastor of the Hebron and Hopeful Lutheran churches, announces that the communion service will be observed next Sunday at 11 o'clock, Eastern time, at the Hopeful church. A full attendance is urged.

Miss Ruth Kelly, who recently accepted an attractive position with the Federal census department at Washington, reports that she is well pleased with her surroundings in the capital city. That Miss Kelly carries with her the best wishes of numerous friends here goes without saying.

John Baldon left Monday morning for Bowling Green, Ky., where he will be the guest of friends for two weeks, when he will return and work for the State Road Department with O. R. Porter.

Bailey Greenup and Wm. Ward, employees of the Recorder, visited Frankfort, Ky., Sunday, where Mr. Ward has relatives. They also visited the new and old Capitol Building while there.

I. A. Congelton and two daughters M. Iles Mary and Laura, and Lacey Greenup and family of Paynes Depot, Scott county, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Congelton, near Burlington, Saturday night and Sunday.

Many years ago, so the older residents say, it became necessary to resort to outside sources for the water supply of Burlington during a protracted drought. Last week the county jail cistern again was found to be exhausted and the county water wagon was forced to leave town for water. Both times the same supply was tapped, to wit, a spring located in the Smith Bros., woods, near the Petersburg pike. This spring always has been known as Hawkins spring and is said to be a wonderful vein of water.

Edward Hawes spent the week-end with relatives and friends here. Mr. Hawes, who now is listed as a Hoover farmer, is located near Sunman. He has been suffering with a very lame foot for the past few weeks, the result of poor aim with an axe.

Warren Middleton, son of the Rev. Thomas Middleton, of Missouri, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Beemon here.

Mrs. E. R. Plummer, of near Constance, lost a beautiful pearl pin at the horseshoe tournament last Saturday evening. The pin was a triangle of pearls, which she had received as a graduate nurse from the Indianapolis City Hospital and one highly valued by her. Inscribed on the pin was the name "M. Elmer." Anyone finding the pin will confer a great favor upon Mrs. Plummer by returning it to her, or leaving at this office.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Oldham and little daughter, of Mt. Sterling, are spending their vacation with Mrs. Oldham's father, J. W. Goodridge, and Mrs. Goodridge.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Beemon entertained in honor of their son Robert last Friday evening. Marion and Daniel Bullock, John Crigler and Robt. Graves, all of Hebron, were the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Beemon entertained the following guests last Friday: M. P. Barow and wife, Misses Laura and Etta Beemon, L. C. Acre and wife, Mrs. Owen Ross, Mrs. W. L. Kirkpatrick, George Kirkpatrick, Stanley Easton, Raymond Poole, Warren Middleton, Mrs. L. C. Weaver and son Albert, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Atwood and W. H. Ward. The dinner was given in honor of their guest Warren Middleton.

The Womans Missionary Society of the Baptist church will meet next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. A full attendance is urged.

Howard Garnett, of Constance, was a caller at the Recorder office Tuesday morning. Mr. Garnett, who is enjoying his annual vacation, has been with the Cincinnati Board of Trade for the past twenty-five years.

The local chapter of the O. E. S. entertained a number of out-of-town members at their inspection Saturday evening. The state officers present declared that the work of the local officers was admirably executed.

Governor Flem D. Sampson entertained the telephone operators of Ky. at a banquet at Frankfort last Saturday evening. Those who attended from Boone county were: Mrs. Myrtle Offutt, of Burlington; Louise Popham, of Florence; Katherine Evans and Carmela Lou Crutcher, of Hebron; and Melva White and Edna Bell, of Walton.

Cornercrackers Were Present
Miss Vivian Hood and Miss Madge Reeves of the Cornercracker Club together with their leader Mrs. F. Kottmyer attended Junior Week at Lexington, Ky.

The girls put on their demonstration "Free Hot Lunch in Rural Schools." They did not get 1st prize but won $10.00. There were eight altogether to represent Boone county. We all had a fine time.

HERE AND THERE

N. W. Carpenter has been indicted the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Randall and little son, of Louisville, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Arnold.

E. S. Ryle and wife entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. William Hensley and children, of Petersburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan Sr., of the Petersburg pike.

Cleveland Snyder and family, of Cincinnati, spent Saturday with relatives on a fishing trip.

LOCAL BOY LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON

Robert L. Graves, Burlington, R. D. 3, one of the four Kentucky 4-H Club representatives left with the Kentucky delegation for Washington, D. C., last Monday afternoon. While in Washington they will attend the third National 4-H Club Encampment held on the U. S. Department of Agriculture grounds.

Many places of interest including the National Capitol will be visited on the trip. Many prominent agricultural leaders will be met and national 4-H Club problems discussed. This is the second time in the past three years that Boone county has had the rare honor of having a state representative at this national event. We all take part in wishing Robert a most successful trip and hope that he will bring us some worth while help back to our county.

BEST CATCH OF YEAR

Bobby Gibbs Harrodsburg High School boy, has laid claim to the fisherman's honor of Herrington Lake. This week he was fishing with an artificial minnow with several hooks attached and caught a five-pound and a six-pound bass at the same time. After a fight he was fortunate in landing them both, to the envy of several older Harrodsburg men in the fishing party. Lancaster Central Record.

Iceberg's Graveyard
After the icebergs get out of the Labrador current disintegration goes on naturally and more and more rapidly until the bergs finally disappear about 400 miles south of Nova Scotia. This region is called the "graveyard of the icebergs."

Report Of Red Cross Nursing Service For May 1936

The class in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick which was taught in the Boone County High School was completed during May and the Certificates awarded from the National Red Cross to the students.

General inspection of the children of the Walton school was done and a visit made to the Union school and from the two I am able to report a correction of 34 defects among the children since I visited these schools last.

On May 7th I attended a State Nurses meeting in Lexington, at which Miss Edna Moore of New York, spoke to us on Social Hygiene, phase of Public Health work which we all try to weave into our general programs of service in a constructive educational manner, to the end that all life is "enobled." Miss Moore brought us a splendid message of practical value.

I carried four children to the Children's Hospital for examination, and for the removal of tonsils for two of these. The mother of one of these girls, and the grandmothers of the others came along. I always feel there is real value received when members of the family go on these trips, for there is much to be gained at this Hospital on clinic days, and as an entire county owes a debt of deep gratitude for the privileges this institution has so graciously extended to us, who are quite without their territory.

4-H Calf Fitting Demonstration

A Northern Kentucky 4-H calf fitting demonstration has been planned for calf club members and dairymen interested in fitting, showing and management problems. The demonstration will probably be held at Maple Lawn Jersey Farm about three miles below Walton in Kenton county on Thursday, June 26th.

Ted Besh, dairy specialist and field agent from the College of Agriculture will be in charge of the demonstration and will give valuable information for success in handling 4-H heifers and heifers being prepared for the show ring. All Boone county calf club members are urged to make plans to attend this meeting.

Cleveland Snyder and family, of Cincinnati, spent Saturday with relatives on a fishing trip.

Robert L. Graves, Burlington, R. D. 3, one of the four Kentucky 4-H Club representatives left with the Kentucky delegation for Washington, D. C., last Monday afternoon. While in Washington they will attend the third National 4-H Club Encampment held on the U. S. Department of Agriculture grounds.

Fight Against "Sun Starvation" Meets Approval of U.S. Public Health Service

Miss Frances Guinan, popular Broadway actress, believes in sunshine as an aid to health and beauty. She is shown here taking a carbon arc sun bath between rehearsals of her new musical comedy "You Don't Say So." The lamp is one of the "screened" type, approved by the U. S. Public Health Service.

THE use of artificial sunshine as an escape from "sun starvation" under modern living conditions has received the approval of the U. S. Public Health Service.

In an official bulletin just issued, the first comprehensive statement on this subject ever released by a government agency, the Service goes on record as approving the use of health lamps which give an approximate duplication of natural sunlight. At the same time it warns the public against the use of "un-screened" devices producing short ultra-violet rays in unnatural intensity.

"Since the amount of natural light from the sun, especially its ultra-violet ray content, varies with the geographical location, the season of the year, and such local conditions as the amount of dust, smoke and moisture in the atmosphere under some conditions, reliance must be placed on sources of artificial radiation," the statement reads.

Discussing the types of lamps being sold to the public, the Service points out that some lamps are so designed as to screen out the dangerous short rays of ultra-violet light and are safe for use in the home.

"These lamps," it states, "are so designed that the ultra-violet light and heat radiation emitted by them are combined as nearly as possible in the same proportions as in natural sunlight. Since the radiation from them is very similar to sunlight they may to a certain extent be used in place of, or as substitute for sunlight."

Deaths

MARTHA C. TRIPPEAR

Mrs. Martha C. Trippear, 61, died Tuesday in a local hospital. She was a native of Kentucky and has lived in Tacoma for 30 years. She was a member of the Women's Benefit Association and of the White Clover Chapter No. 37, O. E. S. She leaves her husband, Daniel, of the home, 5425 South Oakes street, stepsons, John R. of Tacoma and Daniel O. of Seattle, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Tepe of Tacoma. The funeral will be held Thursday at 3 p. m., at the Piper chapel. White Clover chapter in charge; burial in Tacoma cemetery.

MRS. SARA FRANCIS POWERS
Mrs. Sara Francis Powers, aged 78 years, passed away Monday morning at the home of her son, the Rev. J. N. Powers, Hulbert Ave., Erlanger, Ky., after a long illness.

Funeral services were conducted at New Bethel Church, Verona, Ky., Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. H. C. Wayman, pastor of the First Baptist church, Newport, Ky., assisted by Rev. F. B. DeMoisey of Walton, in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends, after which she was laid to rest by the side of her husband, who preceded her to the grave many years ago.

Mrs. Powers is survived by two sons J. N. Powers, of Erlanger, W. R. Powers, of Verona, and two daughters Mrs. J. P. Tanner of Florence and Mrs. Guy Tharp, of Worthville, besides many other relatives and friends.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

OBITUARY

The community of Florence was terribly shocked and saddened by the sudden death of Elva Luck Rouse, aged 22 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Luck and bride of Irvin Rouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Rouse, of Union, whose sweet spirit took its flight at Christ Hospital in Cincinnati at 9:16 o'clock Thursday morning, June 12th, 1936.

She had complained of not feeling well on Tuesday night but on Wednesday morning she drove from her home near Union to the home of Dr. Gladys Rouse in Florence. The eyes of love are quick to note, and they soon discovered that Elva was suffering, and she was put to bed and her young husband sent for. She grew steadily worse and during the afternoon Dr. O. E. Senour, of Erlanger, and Dr. Carlton Crigler, of Cincinnati, were called and though they had little hope, they felt that her one chance for life was to take her to a hospital where she could be operated upon, if she survived the trip. She left Florence at 6:30 p. m., and was taken to Christ hospital where all that love and medical skill could devise was done for her but to no avail. She was brought back on Thursday afternoon to the home of Robert B. and Dr. Gladys Rouse, which had been her happy home before her marriage and her casket stood on the spot where she had stood a radiant bride only a month before on May 10th. Attired in her wedding dress, she looked so lovely and natural and it seemed she ought to be able to speak. Her funeral at Hopeful Sunday morning at eleven o'clock was attended by the largest number of people who had ever gathered there for a similar purpose, attesting the regard in which she was held, for her sunny, friendly spirit made every one with whom she came in contact love her.

The services were conducted by Rev. Heibert and Harold Beemon, the latter offering prayer and the former her pastor who had performed her marriage ceremony so recently, preaching the sermon. The music was very sweet and appropriate.

It took more than thirty of her young girl friends to carry the fifty-three floral pieces that had been sent, and she was laid to rest in Hopeful cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

The families of Mr. Ben Luck, Mr.

Arch Rouse and Mr. Robt. B. Rouse wish to express their deep appreciation for the sympathy and help extended to them in their great sorrow over the loss of Elva Luck Rouse; for the beautiful flowers, for the music at the funeral to the ministers Rev. Heibert and Harold Beemon, of Hopeful; and Rev. Ruppert for his short service at the house on Saturday night; for the consolation offered, to the Doctors who did all that could be done, and to Philip Taliaferro for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral.

It is so flattery to give a friend a true character; for commendation is as much the duty of a friend as reprehension.—Plutarch.

Feels Better Than Any Other Time in Life

"So great was my suffering that I hardly cared whether I lived or not. Every bite I ate gave me the most severe pains—the indigestion, heartburn, bloating and biliousness were simply terrific. Even nights were torments to me—night after night sleep would never come. I began losing flesh rapidly. I began to look twice my age. I was truly in a terrible condition. My neighbor advised Karnak for which I will thank her to my dying day. It is the most marvelous medicine in the world. It not only rid me of my suffering but it has caused me to gain in weight and I feel better than I ever felt in my life and sleep like a child. I thank my neighbor and I thank Karnak."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

T.B.

My rural readers will pardon me; I'm sure, for once more calling their attention to what is still one of man's fiercest, most unrelenting foes; it seems to me that good advice in the presence of an enemy is never out of place.

Thoughtful men have been battling this scourge since the dawn of history; for its annihilation men of great wealth and greater hearts have spent countless millions in research, and the noble work still goes on. Just what measure of success has been achieved may be noted by any observing one who reads; and our more recent decades have been singularly for advances made.

Tuberculosis is a communicable disease. If you never come in contact with it you are fortunate indeed. But contact in the densely populated districts are often unavoidable; the fog of dust you encounter on the windy thoroughfare may contain many of the death-dealing germ; your resisting power against disease may be low; your own lungs may become infected, especially if you are carrying a colony of influenza or other bacilli; you never can tell.

Steer clear of the person who coughs without covering the mouth and nose with a handkerchief. Be duly alert against the fellow with a chronic cough, who continually expectorates on the grass under the shade tree, or on the sands of the beach near by. Shun the resorts where "lungers" (poor fellows) abound, if possible; the best precaution you may take is none too good; prevention in many leagues superior to cure.

It is the duty of physician to survey their clientele with eternal vigilance. Teach them to observe every precaution against scattering or contracting disease. I am sure that only quarantine—and that only—will end the "white plague" for good and all. Outdoor air is not always pure—indeed far from it in crowded localities, where ignorant victims of disease are carriers and distributors; promiscuous expectation is a crime.

Friday Dinner

Creamed Shrimps on Toast.
Lattice Potatoes.
Fresh Green Corn Pudding.
Neopolitan Salad.
Stewed Cherries Filled Cookies.
Coffee or ice Tea.

Creamed Shrimps

1 can shrimps.
2 hard cooked eggs.
2 cups white sauce.
1-8 teaspoon paprika.
Buttered Toast.
Rinse the shrimps in cold water and remove the viscera, (the black line running the length of the shrimp). Chop rather coarsely and add the sliced eggs. Add the hot sauce. Season well and serve very hot on rounds of hot buttered toast.
Creamed dishes such as the above are generally associated with luncheons or suppers but occasionally we welcome such a dish for dinner just for a change.

Green Corn Pudding

Allow 1 ear of corn for each person to be served. To each two ears, use 1 cup milk.
1 egg.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon butter.
Beat the eggs and add the butter, sugar and salt. Add the milk and mix well. Before cutting the corn from the cob, split each row of grains in the middle, stir in the corn and turn into buttered custard cups or a shallow baking pan. Bake in a slow oven until firm and nicely browned.

Filled Cookies

1 cup lard and butter mixed.
1 cup sugar.
3 eggs.
1-4 cup sour milk.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon salt.
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg.
5 scant cups flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
Cream shortening, add the sugar, and cream. Add the beaten eggs. Add the other ingredient and roll out very thin. Put 1 teaspoon of the filling between two cookies. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Filling

1 cup sugar.
1 cup ground dates.
2 teaspoons cornstarch.
1 cup hot water.
Cook until thick and add cinnamon to flavor. Cool and use.

Saturday Evening Supper

Assorted Cold Meats.
Frozen Tomato Jelly.
Cream-Cheese Sandwiches.
Rye Bread and Butter Sandwiches.
Vanilla Pie.
Coffee.

Frozen Tomato Jelly.

1 quart can or an equal amount of fresh tomatoes cooked.
1-3 cup chopped celery.
1 bay leaf.
3 sprigs parsley.
3 cloves.
1/2 teaspoon salt.

1-8 teaspoon pepper.
2 tablespoons sugar.
2 tablespoons gelatine.
1/2 cup cold water.

Stew the tomatoes slowly with the seasonings except the sugar. Hydrate the gelatine in the cold water. Rub the tomatoes thru a sieve and add the gelatine to the boiling hot liquid. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. When cool, turn into the freezing pan of your refrigerator or turn into coffee can and bury in ice and salt for at least two hours. Use 3 parts ice to 1 part salt. At serving time, wrap a cloth dipped in warm water, around the can and slip the jelly from the can. Cut in slices and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Vanilla Pie

Place a layer of vanilla wafers in a glass pie plate. Spread with pineapple or any milk flavored jam and then spread with whipped cream. Add the second layer of wafers and spread with jam. Top with whipped cream and set in the ice box.

Sunday Dinner

Cantaloupe Fruit Cup.
Roasted Stuffed Pork or Beef Tenderloin Brown Gravy.
Noodles with Browned Crumbs.
Lima Beans Paprika.
Vegetable Salad.
Blackberry Pie with Blackberry Hard Sauce.
Coffee.

Cantaloupe Fruit Cup

Select small ripe cantaloupes of good flavor. Wash and chill. Cut in halves and remove seeds and fill with raspberries, slightly sweetened.

Roast Tenderloin

Split the tenderloin and spread with a bread saffing. Season the meat well and lay the second tenderloin on the other one. Dredge with flour and lay a strip of fat pork on the top. Roast in a very hot oven for 20 minutes, add 1/2 cup hot water and roast for 1 hour or until tender. Beef tenderloin will require less time than the pork.

Lima Beans Paprika

2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion.
1 teaspoon flour.
1/2 cup hot water.
1/2 cup hot water.
2 cups cooked lima beans.
1 teaspoon paprika.

Salt to season.

Melt the butter and add the onion and cook slowly but do not brown. Add the flour and paprika and stir until smooth. Add the water and when smooth add the beans and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Canned, fresh or dried beans can be used. If canned are used, drain them and allow to stand for an hour.

Vegetable Salad

Shred lettuce and heap in little mounds on the salad plates. Peel a cucumber with a fluted knife or in the usual way and then score the sides with a fork and slice. Arrange 4 slices around the mound of lettuce. Place thin slices of tomatoes between the slices of cucumbers and add as asparagus tip with each slice of tomato. Top with a radish rose or olive. Pass the mayonnaise.

Blackberry Pie with Blackberry Hard Sauce

Make a blackberry pie in the usual way and serve warm with the following sauce:

1/2 cup butter.
1 cup confectioners sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 teaspoon hot water.
1/2 cup blackberry pulp, crushed and strained.

Cream butter and sugar until light and add vanilla and hot water. Add the blackberry juice slowly and chill. Serve a spoonful or a rose from a rose tube on each serving.

We suggest that you make the pastry on Saturday and bake the pie while the meat is roasting.

Queries and Answers

Dear Mrs. Auch: I look for your column each week and always find it very interesting. I have used a number of your recipes and they turned out splendid. If you will please print a recipe for Cherry Preserves, I shall greatly appreciate it. Thank you.

An Interested Reader.

We are sending you a set of preserve recipes among which you will find a very excellent recipe for Cherry Preserves. There are about a dozen preserve recipes in this set and they are printed on cards just the size to fit in your recipe file. These cards are being sent to our readers upon request and we ask that they inclose a stamped addressed envelope.

Dear Mrs. Auch: Although I have only read your recipes and menus a few times, I like them a lot and am using them each week. Cauliflower is very plentiful just now but my family tells me I don't cook it right. It always turns dark and falls apart. We like it just creamed and will you please tell me the proper way to do it. Thanking you, I am, Sincerely yours, Mrs. A. W.

Remove the leaves and soak the head in cold salt water for an hour or more. Break into flowerets and put on to cook. Add 1 tablespoon of milk to the water and cook uncovered. If covered the cauliflower will be dark. Cook not longer than twenty minutes. So many persons over cook this vegetable. Drain and place in a hot vegetable dish and pour over it a rich white sauce which is very well seasoned. Sprinkle with a little paprika or chopped parsley. Serve very hot.

Dear Mrs. Auch: When you have the space will you please tell me how to make peach preserves and quince preserves. My quince preserves always get tough. Thank you in advance. I will watch for the answer. Mrs. M. Mc-

The recipe for peach preserves is included in the set of preserve recipes and we are mailing you a set. Quinces should always be steamed or cooked slowly until almost tender before being cooked in the syrup. If you have plenty of time we suggest that you bring your preserves to a boil in the heavy syrup for three mornings and then can boiling hot on the third morning. Good preserves should be clear, sparkling and plump as well as tender. We hope that you will enjoy using our preserve recipes.

Preserve Recipes

We have a set of preserve recipes printed on cards for your recipe file. There are several unusually good and different recipes in this set. There is no charge for these but we do ask you to enclose a stamped and addressed envelope.

We are sure you will like the cherry preserves and the Paradise Jelly. Just write to Anita M. Auch, in care of this paper.

A number from here attended the Zoo Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. L. Buckler and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. Kenton and family. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wernz spent Wednesday evening with John Dolwick and family.

Marl containing a high percentage of lime has been discovered in several parts of Powell county, and many farmers are planning to use it on their land.

FARM RETURNS

AVERAGE $1,445

Thirty-one farmers in Kenton, Campbell and Boone counties who kept complete accounts reported net returns averaging $1,445 last year. Records were kept in cooperation with county agents and the department of farm economics of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Included in the $1,445 was $589 as the estimated value of products used in the home, which left a cash balance of $856 for the year. The average receipts for the year totaled $3,808, and average expenses $2,363. The average investment of the farmers was $11,450.

Following a study of the records of these farmers, County Agent C. A. Wicklund, of Kenton county and R. E. Proctor of the College of Agriculture, offered the following suggestions:

Give more attention to better pastures.

Grow larger acreages of legume hays.

Increase the quality of truck crops, tree fruits and small fruits.

Grow a better quality of tobacco on tobacco ground.

Keep records to aid in culling boarders cows.

Practice frequent culling of unprofitable herds.

Make a thorough study of the farm business.

Eight hundred tons of limestone were spread on land in Sharpshurg community in Bath county last month.

Twelve trucks are available to deliver limestone to Caldwell county farms at a rate of 25 cents a ton for the first mile and 10 cents a ton for each additional mile. It is estimated that 10,000 tons will be used in the county this year.

Hog T. B. Declines

A 20 per cent decline of tuberculosis in market swine at the large meat-packing centers is shown by Federal meat inspection records. Eradication of tuberculosis among cattle on farms where the hogs are raised is the chief reason for the improved condition of the hogs, officials of the United States Department of Agriculture believe.

Thought for the Day

There never was a day that did not bring its opportunity for doing good; that never could have been done before, and never can be again.—Aben to 75.

CLOSE GRAZING KEEPS GRASS YOUNG AND RICH

Since young grass consisting very largely of leaves and comparatively little stalk, is richer in proteins and soluble carbohydrates and is more readily digestible than older grass in which more stalks have developed, a pasture should be grazed sufficiently close to keep young leaves growing and prevent development of too much stalk, the United States Department of Agriculture says.

British investigations show that complete grazing once in three weeks during a good season is sufficient to maintain a high nutritive content in the pasture.

The relatively high protein content of leaves and the high nutritive value of proteins indicate that the supplement needed for young and closely grazed pastures is a relatively high carbohydrate feed, such as corn.

In seasons of heavy rainfall, when grass grows rapidly, pastures should be grazed more closely than in dry periods, when grass more slowly, the department says.

Table for Bedridden

For the invalid who must remain in bed, a card table is of great help. Two legs of the table can be folded under so one side of the table will rest on the bed, and the other on the two legs on the floor.

Human Pulse

The pulse gradually slows down through life. A new-born infant has a pulse of 130 to 140 beats per minute. An adult's pulse ranges from 70 to 75 under conditions of normal health, while in old age the rate is from 60 to 75.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Kentucky's crop conditions June 1 indicated a probable production of wheat and rye a little greater than this state's crops of 1929, but the condition of oats in Kentucky June 1 this year was much poorer than a year ago, according to the crop report for Kentucky issued by the Louisville office of the U. S. Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates. The three months drought over most of Kentucky's agricultural areas has injured or retarded all crops.

Conditions June 1 indicated the probable production in Kentucky of about 3,062,000 bushels of wheat, compared to 2,832,000 bushels harvested in 1929, and an annual average of 2,778,000 bushels, 1924-28 and about 192,000 bushels of rye compared to 165,000 bushels harvested last year. Final yields, however, may turn out more or less than these forecasts, depending on whether conditions are particularly favorable or unfavorable until these crops are threshed. Conditions of Kentucky wheat June 1 was 80 per cent of normal compared to 87 a year ago and a 0-year average of 78 on June 1; while rye condition was 76 per cent of normal compared to 88 a year ago and a 10-year June 1 average of 84. Conditions of oats in Kentucky June 1 was only 41 per cent compared to 85 a year ago and a June 1 10-year average of 84; and barley condition was 77 compared to 88 a year ago and a 10-year average of 83 for June 1. Condition of all tame hay in Kentucky June 1 averaged only 60 per cent; timothy and clover hay; alfalfa 66; apples 28; peaches 19 and peaches 9 per cent. Acreage and condition of tobacco, corn, and other crops will be reported as of July 1.

Kentucky farmers report the supply of farm labor for hire 93 per cent of normal, but demand for such labor only 78 per cent of normal.

Crowd Estimated From 800 to 1000 Witnesses Horseshoe Tournament

EIGHT PITCHERS WILL FIGHT IT OUT IN FINALS NEXT SATURDAY—OPINION ABOUT EVENLY DIVIDED AS TO WHO THE CHAMP WILL BE — EXTRA JUDGES AND SCORERS FOR FINALS

After eight grueling matches last Saturday night there were eight horseshoe pitchers left on the outside looking in, while still another eight were being acclaimed as victors.

By virtue of their feat in winning these eight were placed in position to compete for the Recorder trophy and other prizes. In addition to that privilege they were bedecked with ribbons and designated as the "Big 8" of the 1930 tournament.

To enter this select circle has meant no small amount of effort, class and nerve. No pitcher in last Saturday night's games was at all certain of his ultimate outcome before he entered his match. Every contestant had his friends, some of whom naturally were disappointed and the rest of course were greatly pleased.

Yet not a word of dissatisfaction or unpleasantness was heard, every one taking his defeat in the spirit of true sportsmanship. And that is the spirit that has prevailed throughout the tournament, (which has extended over a period of three weeks) in spite of the fact that the attendance has surpassed all expectations and with rivalry that has been keen, if not intense.

Scarcely with an attendance that was freely estimated at five hundred on the first night, with the second at around seven hundred, it remained for a record of what many said was a thousand to be established last week. Several hundred were unable to gain a point of vantage and were forced to repair to automobiles and other places merely to await the announcement of the results of the several matches. The seating arrangements, due to the fact that no one expected such crowds, have been sadly deficient. But this week a small grandstand that is expected to accommodate approximately 150 folks will be erected. Of course there will be a small change for this accommodation, which is expected to cover the cost of the construction of the seats.

Now that the contestants have been reduced to eight the experts have begun to settle upon their choice for the winner. And, believe us, opinions have changed as fast as April weather since last Saturday night's dose of competition. From the very first there have been many who have claimed that L. C. Weaver would be the ultimate winner. Indeed, Lloyd always has been a pitcher to merit that claim for him.

But this tournament has developed some artists that are really crafty. As said before there were eight good ones that went down last week, nearly every one of whom was thought to have a good chance to come through on top. Ben Black, W. A. Waters, Elmer Horton, Carl Casson, L. E. Plummer, David Williamson, L. E. Hubbard and L. W. Gully were the losers and any one of them would have a good chance to defeat the winner, but such always is the case in a tournament. The man who gets the most points wins. Nearly always he is the best, but sometimes there are some defeated "that might have won."

Unquestionably the sensation of the tournament has been that diminutive marvel, Lee Edward Portwood, of Waterloo. Lee Edward is but 13 years old, but he has shown the way to every pitcher who has faced him. He has lost but one game and that to the first man he pitched, Ted Cross. Since that time he has turned them all down, throwing rings at random. Last Saturday night it was announced that he had thrown but fourteen in three games, when it really was seventeen, a mistake having been made in the tabulation.

By a trick of fate in the drawing it is necessary for Lee Edward to face his elder brother next Saturday evening in the first match. But it can't be helped. Last Saturday Albert Pettit and his brother-in-law, Lester Gulley were opposed to each other. One of them had to win, and Pettit won. So it will be with the Portwoods, though the junior Portwood seems to have had the crowd with him in every match thus far.

By far the best match of the evening was the one in which Lee R. McNeely defeated David Williamson. Every one of the five games was hotly contested and decided by a one or two point margin. McNeely finally won by two points. That was the only match to go the limit, though the Black-Portwood, Casson-Dolwick, Weaver-Plummer, Presser-Hubbard and Pettit-Gulley matches were closely contested. Franklin Maurer, the novice star, and Lee Edward Portwood were the only pitchers to win their matches in three straight games.

L. C. Weaver and Owen Portwood tied for ringer honors last week with 22 each in four games, while Lee McNeely tossed 23 in five games, his opponent, David Williamson, making 22 in the same number of games.

The championship will be finally decided next Saturday night and the winner will be presented with the chromium plated horseshoes, donated by the Recorder. To the second prize winner will be given three dollars in cash by the Peoples Deposit Bank, while to the pitcher finishing third will be donated a cash prize of two dollars.

The first four matches will consist of three best-in-five, narrowing the tournament to four pitchers. Then the remaining matches will consist of four-in-seven and while the main championship is being decided the two losing pitchers of the semi-finals will indulge in a consolation match for third place. Ribbons will be presented to the "Big Four," the last four contestants surviving.

As this affair draws to a close the Recorder desires to thank everyone who has helped in any way to make the tournament a success. It is certainly has been. We started the tournament with no thought of the final outcome, either in the way of expense or enthusiasm created. Some friends last week "passed a hat" and thus collected a sum of money that partly covered the running expenses. It was unsolicited, but nevertheless very much appreciated and we desire to thank everyone who contributed.

As a parting word we desire to impress that the horseshoe tournament was started and has been conducted on the basis of sportsmanship and we hope, and every right to feel, that it has been accepted that way by those who have enjoyed it.

Master Farmer Committee

A committee was appointed the past week to select the Master Farmer from Boone county for 1930. This committee is charged with the selecting, scoring and writing up a narrative report on the farmer selected for this honor.

Nominations for this honor will close this coming Saturday morning. Any one having nominations must notify the county agent before this time. The nominations will then be turned over to the committee, who will in turn select the same.

Farm Account Books

Mr. R. E. Proctor, field agent in farm management from the College of Agriculture will be in Boone county on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week to cooperate with the Boone county farmers who are keeping complete farm account records with the college.

Each farmer who is cooperating in this work will be visited either by the county agent or Mr. Proctor and the farm records gone over and tabulated to date. Farmers are benefiting by this work by making a complete analysis of their farm business, studying the strong and weak points in their program and then strengthening the same.

ASSAULT CHARGE

PLACED AGAINST JNO R. BOYCE FOR ALLEGED ATTACK ON "COLLIE" SIMPSON FIRST BASEMAN ON LOCAL BASE BALL TEAM

"Collie" Simpson, the accomplished first baseman of the Burlington base ball team, had a warrant issued Wednesday morning for John R. Boyce, charging him with assault and battery.

Mr. Simpson and Mr. Boyce are next door neighbors at Florence, Mr. Simpson living in Boone county and Mr. Boyce just over the line in Kenton.

Mr. Simpson stated that on Tuesday evening the children of Mr. Boyce were playing in his yard and that Mr. Boyce came after them, and without provocation, according to Simpson, started to assault him. He said that Mr. Boyce struck him a severe blow on the jaw. Simpson retaliated and a lively combat followed with neither suffering any permanent injury, though Simpson bears a minor decoration from the first blow Boyce struck him.

Action on the warrant, which will have to be served by the Kenton county sheriff, has not been learned as the Recorder goes to press.

DELAY

IN RETURNING MANUSCRIPTS FOR HISTORICAL EDITION DELAYS TIME OF GOING TO PRESS—EARLY RETURN IS URGED

Each day now finds the work of the Historical Edition fast nearing the time for publication, however, there is considerable yet to be done as the magnitude of the history is exceeding the first estimate. Those who have not returned their corrected manuscripts should do so at once so there will be no delay from that source.

While there is no charge made for space in the edition most of the public spirited citizens of the county have made contributions to aid the Recorder in this undertaking that will no doubt prove to be one of the most interesting editions of this kind ever published in Northern Kentucky and a lasting and comprehensive history to hand down to the future generations. The Recorder believes it will surpass all expectations as to quality, that being the aim, and for this reason will delay publication for a week, if necessary, to obtain as complete a representation as possible.

Mrs. O. E. Rouse, proprietor of the Rouse Restaurant, desires to announce that she has a line of up-to-date magazines for her patrons. She will appreciate a call and any suggestions as to additions to her line.

Big River Classic to Get Under Way Along Boone County Shores

TOM GREENE, BETSY ANN WILL SETTLE DISPUTE OF SEVERAL YEARS STANDING SATURDAY RACE WILL START AT THE FERNBANK DAM AND FINISH AT CONEY ISLAND

The "Tom Greene" will race the "Betsy Ann" Saturday afternoon, June 28th.

The fawny waters of the Ohio River will again be churned by the whirling wheels of these two steamers as their youthful captains pit them against each other in a bitter battle for steamboat supremacy.

Thus, in accepting the challenge of Captain Frederick Way Jr., of Pittsburgh, to enter their steamers in the Third Annual Ohio River Steamboat Race, Captain Tom Greene, of Cincinnati, carries on a river feud started three years ago.

Captain Way expects to avenge the defeat of 1927 when Captain Tom Greene's older brother, Chris, won the golden anthers from the veteran steamboat of the lower Mississippi. This time he intends to show the world that his "Betsy Ann" is faster than the "Tom Greene" and that the judges of last year's race suffered an optical illusion when they decided that the "Tom Greene" had beaten the "Betsy Ann" by a scant twenty feet.

Under the articles of Agreement entered into by Captains Greene and Way, the race is to be from Fernbank Dam to Coney Island, a distance of approximately twenty-two miles. The two steamers will line up at two o'clock Eastern Standard Time and, from a dead stop, will push their way up the circling Ohio River, through Metropolitan Cincinnati, to Coney Island, where the winner will be awarded the Commodore George V. Schott trophy.

There will be nine judges in all, three on each boat and three at the finish line. Each Captain will have three judges on his boat and one at the finish line. The two finish line judges will choose a third, and the decision will be the majority opinion.

of the three judges stationed at the end of the race.

The three judges selected by Captain Frederick Way, to be on the "Betsy Ann" are Captain C. C. Boyer, retired banker and riverman of Gallipolis, Ohio; W. B. Rogers, President of the Rodgers Sand Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and President of the Atlegheny River Improvement Association, and Captain Donald T. Wright, editor and publisher of the Waterways Journal, St. Louis, Mo.

Captain Way designated Captain P. C. Elsey, President of the Elsey Transportation Company, of Pittsburgh, to be his judge at the finish line.

The three judges selected by Captain Tom Greene, to be on the "Tom Greene," are Harry Maddy, Cashier of the Ohio Valley Bank, Gallipolis, Ohio; Captain Oscar F. Barrett, President of the Barrett Lines, President of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association and President of the National Board of Steamboat Navigation, and Colonel R. G. Powell, United States Engineer of the Cincinnati District.

Captain Greene also chose Judge William Meredith Yeatman, Cincinnati Councilman, to represent him at the finish line.

Captain Elsey and Judge Yeatman will agree on a third judge at an early date.

Captain W. E. Roe, General Manager of the Louisville and Cincinnati Packet Company, will be Admiral of the Day, and William A. Castellini, a Governor of the Advertiser's Club of Cincinnati, is General Chairman of the Race.

The entire Race will be broadcast from Station WLW, Crosley Radio Corporation. Silent and sound pictures will record the river classic and each boat will carry representatives of the press.

The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce and the Ohio Valley Improvement Association have sanctioned the contest and the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Cincinnati will take an active part in stimulating local interest in the event.

L. R. CRANWELL

"Stay clear of Boone County" could be adopted as a slogan by the gentry outside the pale of the law who in their hurry to the goal of sudden wealth might overstep the boundary of right and wrong. This fact will be brought home to one dapper and smooth tongued English "gentleman" in the next few days for the alleged unlawful selling of securities and felonious conversion of funds. He was known here as Lewis R. Cranwell the head of a supposedly large chain of grocery stores, three of which were located in Boone county.

Cranwell was picked up in New York City Monday night according to a wire from John O'Brien, Chief Inspector there, to Sheriff Herbert Snyder. Yesterday, Tuesday, Sheriff Snyder and County Attorney Ben Riley were in Frankfort where extradition papers were received from the Governor to return him here for trial on two indictments handed down by the grand jury in 1926 at the December term of Boone County Circuit Court. The officials will leave to get him about July 1st after he has been tried in New York on a larceny charge. His bond in this county was set at $2500 on both charges and of course it is unknown now whether he will be able to furnish bond, or will be an invited guest at Elmer Kirkpatrick's hostelry with barred windows.

When Cranwell came into this section to dispose of stock in his new enterprise a goodly number of leading people with their eyes on the big money, with their hands on the reins, appeared and convincing evidence proved a real asset to him, but a liability to those he involved. He told of his huge chain of stores and did actually have eight in operation, five in Cincinnati besides the three here. Those in Boone were numbered 15, 16 and 17, perhaps for the reason of conveying the impression of undue greatness.

When the bubble burst in September 1926 he disappeared and with him went, it is alleged, considerable money that belonged to others. A wire was sent to New York to arrest and hold him but he made a clean "get away" and was never heard from until picked up by the metropolitan police this week.

Many will remember the speed at which he drove his powerful car over the Boone county roads for which he was cautioned several times, his only answer being, "They'll never catch me." Sheriff Snyder can disprove this very shortly when he goes to New York to bring him back for trial.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT OURSELVES

This a great country.
Uh-huh. We've heard that before. What about it?

Just this about it. Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, than whom there are few keener analysts in the world, has been figuring out how much better off we are than the rest of the world.

The United States has only 6 per cent of the world's population, but we consume 15 per cent of the world's wheat crop. That means that, if the rest of the world were able to buy and eat as much food as we do, the wheat crop would have to be two-and-one-half as large as it is.

We consume nearly a quarter of all the world's sugar, more than half of the world's coffee, more than a quarter of the world's cotton, one-sixth of all the wool, three-quarters, nearly, of all the silk, two-thirds of all the iron and copper, lead, zinc and coal. We use three-fifths of the world's petroleum, two-fifths of all electrical power, more than three-quarters of all the automobiles, and three-fifths of all telephones.

And we number less than one-sixteenth of the world's population!

If the rest of the world was as well off as we are how prosperous we and all the rest would be. Our average family income is $3,000 a year. The British income is two-thirds of that, Canada's less than half, Sweden's still lower, Germany's only a little over one-third as large and France's about the same—personal income of the average man, that is. That's why we can, and do, consume more of the world's raw materials than any other nation.

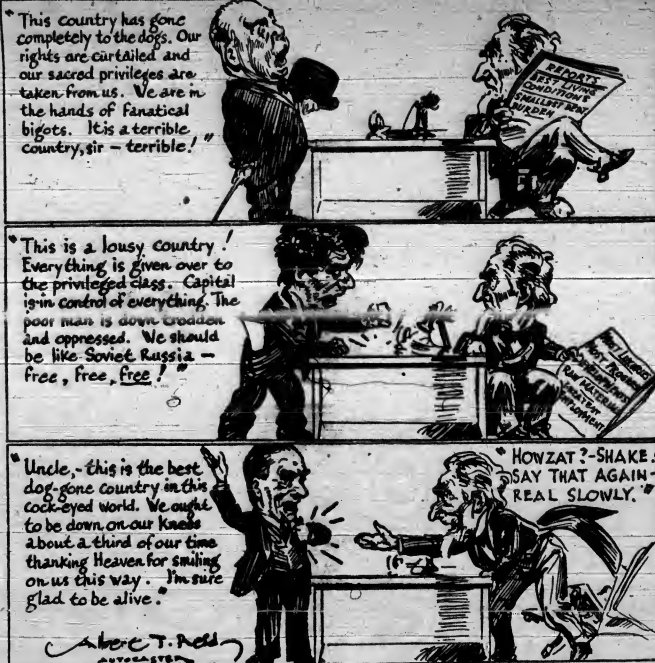

We have set an example to the rest of the world, which it is slowly beginning to follow in spots. The farther and more rapidly it extends, the sooner and more surely will we reach the stage of human development in which people will no longer die of starvation, in which every human being will have his happiness in his own hands.

There are those who say that in seeking material prosperity humanity is losing its spiritual ideals. It does not seem that way to us. It is one thing to forego riches for the sake of the higher life; it is quite another thing to have no choice in the matter. Poverty in itself is not a virtue. It was a wise man who said that it was useless to preach idealism to a man who didn't know where his next day's dinner was coming from. And that is the condition of more than half of the people of the world today, while a still larger proportion live under conditions which make more than a bare living possible.

This is a great country!

REVIEW—THE LIFE OF CHRIST

Matthew 16-28

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

For six months the lessons have followed through the record of the life of Jesus as given by Matthew. During the past three months in length and marked a new method of teaching. Previously public address had been before crowds and many miracles had been wrought as seals upon his teachings. A new method followed the appeal of the crowd, after the feeding of the 5,000, that He become their bread-making King. Thence He began to train the Twelve for the ministry they must undertake after His departure.

A natural beginning in this review lesson is to read the portions in Matthew that are covered. They are chapters 16-28. The quarter opened with the quiz class near Mount Hermon when Jesus asked what people thought about Him. In reply to the direct question about the opinion of the disciples Peter gave the declaration in the Golden Text for today "Thou commit to memory the Golden Text for each of the thirteen lessons. They will also be very suggestive in reminding yourself of the central teachings in each of the lessons.

The territory covered is from Caesarea-Philippi back to Capernaum and then on the further side of Jordan, through Perea, to the Jordan opposite Jericho and thence the climb to Bethany and the Holy City. Either follow each place on a map as you read—the above named chapters or, better still, draw an outline map of Palestine and fill in the details as you read. Draw lines to indicate the journey that was traversed.

Frequent use is made of parables in making the meaning of His profound teachings clear. There must have been many pauses by the wayside for special instruction during the three months spent in Perea. For additional incidents turn to Luke 13-19. A Harmony of the Gospel is invaluable in all such study. That by Dr. A. T. Robertson is recommended.

One of the outstanding principles enunciated by this Master Teacher was an indication of the place that a little child should have in the estimation of the people. Wreckage is found in adults but tremendous possibilities are latent in the average youth. He made a child the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven, and the world has not caught up to that idea even now. Wonderful progress has been made, however, since Robert Raikes started the school in Gloucester, England, 160 years ago, which has developed into the modern Sunday School with a membership throughout the world of over 33,000,000.

Then came the Last Week, centering around Jerusalem, which has become an anniversary season throughout the earth. Bethany was the headquarters for a number of days. From there the Triumphal Entry was made into Jerusalem. Teachings of abiding value were given at every opportunity. Even the most bitter enemy was not excluded from the instructions that were given in Temple area and on the Mount of Olives. The Jewish Passover was ceremonious observed and then the Lord's Supper was instituted in the same upper room. Following the prayer season in the Garden of Gethsemane, Judas came with his dirty kiss, which all too soon brought the Saviour to His work of atonement on the cross at Calvary. But that was not the end as the disciples learned to their renewed joy on the day of resurrection. All these truths are for our good that we may live the Jesus way.

Twelve registered Jersey heifers were sent into Butler county last month, 10 of them going to 4-Club members. The Morgantown Deposit Bank will finance 15 club members.

NO PROFIT ON THE CORN

Occasionally somebody visits my place in the country who entirely misunderstands its purpose.

"That's a beautiful lake," he says. "You should stock it with fish, and make money."

To which I answer that I don't want to make money.

He is sure he has not heard me correctly, and so he continues. "Some of your land is pretty well run down, but if you would put on plenty of fertilizer for a couple of years it would produce valuable crops."

"I don't want to produce crops," I say a little louder.

He looks shocked, but tries again. "Why don't you buy some of this woodland and raise foxes?"

At this I am tempted to set our dog on him. Our dog is symbolic of the place. He is good for nothing. He barks at friendly visitors, and once he slept soundly while the house was robbed.

Instead of committing any such inhumanity, however, I try patiently to explain that this country place was not bought for profit, is not conducted for profit, can not possibly show a profit, and, if it could, would not be so dear to my heart. It is a beautiful, inefficient and wasteful oasis in a rushing, efficient world.

Money is a grand possession, an essential measuring stick. But there are some people who seem to think that there is no other measuring stick, that nothing is justified unless it is producing income, or increasing in value.

Such folks should consider the lilies of the field, which sew not neither do they spin; yet by simply being their beautiful selves justify their existence.

They should learn wisdom of Henry Ward Beecher, who once bought two little pigs for two dollars, fed them twelve dollars' worth of corn, and sold them for ten dollars.

"Thus I made eight dollars," he exclaimed triumphantly, "on the pigs." And added, "I never expected to make any profit on the corn."

New York is my pigs. I make my profit there. But I never expected to make any profit on my home, my children, or my place in the country. And I never shall.

main green until frost, and the crop be proportionately satisfying.

Accredited Sheep Sale Florence Fair

Through negotiations with the Kentucky Accredited Sheep Breeder's Association and the Northern Kentucky Fair Board plans were made the past week for the holding of a second annual purebred ram sale in Boone county this year, according to county agent H. R. Forkner.

This sale will be held following the regular sheep show on the second day of the fair Thursday, August 28th. The sale will be held at the sheep pens and will offer an opportunity for every Boone county sheep raiser to purchase a pure bred ram at auction. Each ram offered must have passed the inspection committee and approval of the Kentucky Accredited Sheep-Breeders Association.

The use of purebred rams to increase the profit from the market lambs has been a felt need in Boone county for some time. The securing of these rams has been the greatest problem in the past. The rams secured thru the sale the past year have given highly satisfactory results. The bringing of this event to our county will be a big boost to the sheep industry.

Wayne county farmers this spring sowed their largest soybean acreage, and the amount of red clover has increased several per cent in the last five years.

Five Madison county farmers purchased purebred Jerseys at the recent Jersey sale in Danville.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

"LOWERED RESISTANCE"

I seriously doubt if anybody ever contracts disease when what we call "bodily resistance" is normal. Many of us come in contact with disease germs every day; but because our bodies are functioning normally the infectious germs are unable to find lodging.

The human digestive tract is singularly built to withstand infections. We swallow probably millions of germs, perhaps, in water, milk, raw fruits and other carriers of simple bacteria; these are for the most part promptly destroyed by healthy digestive juices. It is so with domestic animals; they drink and eat much that is impure, yet healthy digestive fluids protect them from disease.

The time, however, when diseases producers hop in and make themselves at home is when we are, in general parlance, "run-down" from one cause or another. Overwork is a certain invitation to the entrance of disease germs. This means overloading the stomach for protracted periods, wearing down the muscular system by heavy toil, and tearing down the nervous system by constant grind in these strenuous days. Anything that taxes the system beyond its endurance invites disease, which rarely appears otherwise, so that when we get sick, we had better cast about for just how we forsook the law of right living.

"Lowered bodily resistance," then, is a factor in almost all diseased conditions. The physician sets in to "clean house" and to restore health by systematic rest for the overworked organs. Unless he can enforce suitable rest, he will have a slow recovery. It never pays to go to work too soon after any illness.

Overwork—overwork! It is foolish. A man may tax his bodily resistance in dissipation—it is overwork just the same, though not in gainful employment. He may habitually lose sleep until his nerves become tired out; disease sets in, and he wonders why. Overdoing may be in pleasurable pursuits entirely. If you are overdoing—quit it before it's too late.

Early Garden Suggestions

"JULY POTATOES"

By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture

By the term "July" potatoes is meant that group of potato varieties whose seed can be kept in cellar storage until its planting time, which is July 1, or thereabouts. Specifically, these varieties are Rose of Aro, Kentucky-Snowflake, Peachblow, and McCormick, which last named variety has been renamed Hoosier Boy, Maggie Murphy, Hetty Greider, Mortgage Lifter, and a host of others, depending on what part of Kentucky it is grown.

Potato land, for July planting, should be deeply prepared, well mixed with humus. It should have been broken early so that turned under manure and vegetation will have had ample opportunity to rot. In fact, if breaking cannot be done early enough for this to take place, it is unwise to use manure, for potato scab may occur.

As a safeguard against introducing scab on the seed, it should be Happily, there is a combination spray that will kill the insects and act as a safeguard against the blight. It is Bordeaux mixture, made after the 4-4-50 formula, and to which arsenate of lead has been added, at the rate of one tablespoonful to each gallon.

Five sprayings are suggested. The first is given when the plants are 3 or 4 inches tall. The others follow at 10-day intervals. Thoroughness in application is needed; this calls for a sprayer that will transform the spray into a fine mist, and give complete coverage.

If spraying is well done and faithfully followed, the foliage will re-

THIRTY YEARS AGO

G. W. Sandford and Miss Kittie Gaines, Edwin Gaines and Miss Artie Hughes, A. B. Rouse and Miss Olga Kirkpatrick, Lane Riggs and Miss Hettie Riddell, Harry Leonard and Miss Lytle, W. D. Cropper and Miss Anna Gaines, Elmo Gaines and Miss Fannie Willis, Felix Gaines and Miss Susie Roberts, Hugh Arnold and Miss Flora Arnold, Kirby Tanner and Miss Catherine Furlong and Chas. Gardner and Wallace Grant, chaperone by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Clutterbuck, spent Sunday at Split Rock, on the river near the mouth of Woolper creek.

Geo. Blythe got two fingers on his right hand badly mashed yesterday while adjusting a part of his binder. J. M. Eddins will close his four-year contract for carrying the mail with his next Saturday's trip. He has been a punctual and obliging carrier, never having been fined by the Department for a dereliction of duty. James Clore, who succeeds Mr. Eddins, has gone to considerable expense to prepare for the accommodation of the traveling public, and the good service of the route will be continued.

Gunpowder

Joe Weaver and Noah Tanner drove the first bunch of lambs to market from this neighborhood. Joe says he claims to be an expert at handling lambs but has to give it up that he is not in it a little bit when Noah is around. If a lamb is inclined to turn back or be contrary he picks it up and puts it under his arm and goes ahead.

Robt. Houston had occasion to call Dr. Orisler, of Bullittsville, last Saturday to treat one of his best horses, supposed to have lung fever.

Visitor

Mrs. Fletcher Clore and son Jimmie, spent Sunday with friends in Delhi, Ohio.

Courtney Walton has had a wire fence put around his yard which adds very much to the appearance of his home.

Our popular and enterprising postmaster, W. D. Cropper, has purchased a handsome and convenient cabinet for his office.

Our telephone is in operation and works perfectly and will be a great convenience to our neighborhood.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Walton base ball club came down last Saturday and did up the Burlington team in an exciting ten inning game. The game was very tedious because of the most miserable condition of the ground, the grass outside of the diamond being high, and about one-third of the time the ball was out of play and from ten to twenty persons searching for it. Several two base hits followed by lost balls, netted home runs, and stretched the score considerably beyond what it otherwise would have been. The Walton team are pretty good ball players, and besides beating the Burlington boys in the score they excelled them very much in the matter of discipline. Below is the sad story by innings:

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Walton 2 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 1—11
Burlington 0 2 1 1 3 2 1 0 0 0—10

Notes

Quite a large crowd witnessed the game.

Fowler's curves were puzzlers for the visitors, but in the last inning McGinity pounded one for a home run.

Capt. Stansifer faced the bat for nine innings. A proposed sub. was peddled lively to suit the sagacious captain.

Belleview

Fannie Clore is home from school at Louisville. Kirby, Wib and Essie Conner, of Cincinnati, are rusticiating in Belleview.

Ordination of deacons-elect being M. J. Corbin and R. K. Aylor of the Baptist church, will be observed on the second Sunday in July—church meeting day.

James Rogers had twenty-one hogs averaging 250 pounds, killed by lightning one day last week. They were under a tree which was struck.

Rabbit Hash

Phil Clayton and bride have returned after a week's absence.

Miss Kate Aylor returned from her visit to Missouri last Saturday.

A. G. McConnell is able to leave his bed again, after several days illness.

Carlton Nelson is at home from Hanover College.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Born—To G. G. Hughes and wife on the 19th, a son.

The County Judge wants to borrow $1,000 for the county till the first of January. Will pay eight per cent.

Last Friday at 4:30 p. m., Miss Nancy Jarrell died of consumption after a protracted illness. She was buried in the family burying ground on the Johnson farm.

We were shown last Saturday by S. S. Scott, a ticket held by one of the members of the famous Cuba Expedition. It reads as follows:

This ticket will entitle the bearer to one stage passage on board the Georgiana to Chagres.

J. W. Breedlove.

N. O. April 22, 1890.

On the back of the ticket is the name of Larkin Vaughn.

Petersburg

Capt. Collins has a two legged dog for which he has been offered $1,500.00.

Harvest wages $1.50 per day.

The French-Rough trial came off last Friday. The jury assessed Hought's fine at $40.00.

The Petersburg Bugs got away with the Aurora Kids, last Saturday, by a score of 14 to 18.

Mr. Merit, a bridge builder, of Toledo, Ohio, is here for the purpose of rebuilding the Woolper bridge.

The wheat crop will average about 15 bushels to the acre in the river bottoms this season. The hill land will do better.

Garrison

A Sunday school has been organized at our school house with John C. Seberg, Supt. The attendance is very large.

John and Thomas Whitaker are each providing themselves with commodious barns. O. T. Porter is the boss builder.

MEMS APPRECIATE NEW LAYING HOUSE

The flock of hens owned by Chas. Dalton, a Wayne county farmer, so appreciated the new house he built for them that they laid enough more eggs the first year after it was erected to pay for it, he told a group of men and women who recently inspected his place.

The year before he built the house his flock of 125 purebred Plymouth Rocks laid 4 1/2 dozen eggs in January, 38 dozen in February and 119 dozen in March. That fall he built a modern laying house 20 by 20 feet in size.

Well housed, a flock of 115 hens laid 77 dozen eggs the following January, 135 dozen in February and 177 dozen in March. The flock was reduced to 105 hens the third year but they laid 82 dozen eggs in January, 111 dozen in February and 143 dozen in March.

This year the flock was further reduced, numbering 93 layers. The January production was 64 dozen eggs, the February production 105 dozen and the March production 153 dozen.

Mr. Dalton has always kept good poultry, well fed, but it was not until he provided ample protection in winter that he received maximum production when egg prices are high.

SUGGESTS POULTRY DISEASE CONTROL

Due to the growing commercial importance of the poultry industry, diseases of poultry have received a great deal of study in recent years.

Although those of economic significance in Kentucky are bacillary white diarrhea, coccidiosis, parasites, roup, chicken-pox and blackhead, says Dr. F. E. Hull, of the department of animal pathology of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Experiment Station.

The success or failure of the poultry industry depends to quite an extent upon the control of these conditions. Treatment of these diseases is of doubtful value, except in the case of parasites.

Bacillary white diarrhea may be prevented by obtaining hatching eggs or baby chicks from flocks that are free of this disease. The prevention of coccidiosis, blackhead and parasites depends on sanitation. Prevent the young birds from coming in contact with older birds and raise them on clean ground. The passage of attendants from the older birds to the young birds is also a factor.

Vaccination with cutaneous chicken-pox vaccine will aid in preventing chicken-pox and roup. As a period of 10 to 14 days is required for full immunity to develop, this material is

THE LATEST

The dress shown in the sketch has the simplicity and trimness of a one-piece mode, but it is actually made in two pieces, as a dress has to be made if it is to have the snug lines about hips and waistline demanded by present fashion. The blouse portion slips on over the head and is long enough to permit a suggestion of blousing above the belt with two or three inches to tuck securely beneath the skirt, which has a placket at the right side of the hip yoke flared with small hooks and eyes, and the belt is stitched to the skirt at the back only.

not recommended for use in affected flocks. Birds should be vaccinated at least three weeks and preferably six weeks before they come into production.

256 BOYS AND GIRLS ATTEND JUNIOR WEEK

Five hundred and twenty-six farm boys and girls from 34 counties attended the recent 10th annual Junior Week at the University of Kentucky. They demonstrated improved farm and home practices, studied agriculture and home economics, engaged in contests, and enjoyed a week of education, inspiration and recreation.

Thirty picked county teams demonstrated farm practices. Shelby county won first place for the third time, thereby retaining possession of the Bourbon Stock Yards Company's silver cup. Washington county was second, Wayne third, Ohio fourth, Logan fifth, Fayette sixth, Simpson seventh, Hancock eighth, Henderson ninth and Graves tenth.

Twenty-three county teams demonstrated home practices first place going to Henderson county. Christian county was second, Graves third, Boyd fourth, Hancock fifth and Fayette sixth.

Six county teams demonstrated terracing. Graves was first, Fulton second and Christian third.

Twenty-three girls modeled dresses in the style show. Ruth Clary, Fleming county, won The Courier-Journal trip to Chicago. Thelma Burger, Jefferson county, was second.

William A. West, Boone county, and Rose E. Moody, Madison county, 4th, and Vivian Muster, Larue county, 5th.

Twenty-nine girls and 23 boys entered the health contest. Kentucky will be represented at the national 4-H club health show in Chicago by Duke Pettit, Jr., Caldwell county, and Ella Mae Davis, Simpson county.

DEMONSTRATES LIME VALUE

Five years ago C. W. Gray, a Graves county farmer lined half an acre of an eight-acre field. Last year he sowed the field to alfalfa, Japan and sweet clover and redtop. The lined half-acre has a good growth of sweet clover while there is none on the rest of the field. The redtop on the lined land is 10 inches taller than on the rest of the field. County Agent G. C. Rout estimates that the lined land will produce twice as much hay per acre as the unlined part of the field.

Reykensville millers will divide $50 among the winners in the Christian county better baking contest. Twenty-six homemakers attended the first lesson.

Hoover's "Hat Is In the Ring" of Presidential Race in 1932

BY FRED HOLMES
 Correspondent for The Boone County Recorder

Washington — Herbert Hoover's hat is in the ring for nomination and election in 1932. No direct announcement to this effect was made from the White House, but Washington those with their ground interpret his appointment as a challenge to those who think he shoes might fit. Some other than the professional politician agrees with President Hoover's opinion that "platform promises must not be empty promises." The situation remains, however, of the story of the introduction of roast pork into the menus of the present generation.

Way over in China a certain villager owned a few pigs which shared with him his domicile. The flimsy structure caught on fire, and the big and little porkers therein had no means of escape. It is recounted that when his neighbors began fingering through the ashes, probably in search of valuables, their fingers sunk into a soft and exceedingly hot substance which caused them with the intuition born of childhood, to carry their fingers to their mouths. The effect was electrical. It tasted good. It was roast pig. The village disappeared, for each home-owner chased his pigs into his house and burned it down in order to enjoy therefore unheard of but most delectable viand.

Well, we have our roast pig. Possibly it tastes good, but it is something of a question as to whether the cost of the structures which we have burned down in order to enjoy this piece of resistance does not prohibit any indefinite indulgence of our appetite for goodies.

When President Hoover affixed his signature to the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill the direct taxes levied on imports into this country were increased by approximately $80,000,000. The ceremony of signing lasted just about ten minutes, and while it was in progress Senator Borah, who voted against the bill, was challenging the effectiveness of the flexible provision in the bill, on the floor of the Senate. The independent Republican Senator from Idaho introduced a resolution providing for an immediate cost investigation by the Tariff Commission to determine the fairness of the new duties on shoes, furniture, cement and about a dozen farm implements in common use.

Consideration of the resolution went over when it was found that Senator Smoot (R. Utah) was at the White House, taking part in the signing ceremonies, but on the day after the Senate adopted without debate the Borah resolution.

This resolution is generally accepted as a reply to the statement of President Hoover that he would use the flexible provision of the new tariff law to adjust "inequalities" in rates and is directed at reduction of duties on the articles mentioned which, as Mr. Borah said, are the principal ones "the farmer buys."

The new tariff law went into effect at nine o'clock in the forenoon of Thursday, June 19, the hour for the opening of the custom houses at the various ports. The fact that no complaints on its operation were received on that day was taken by Customs Commander Eble to mean that the act went into effect smoothly and without serious disturbance to general business.

While the Hawley-Smoot-Grundy bill was passed and signed amid prophecies of sunshine and prosperity it is thought here to be somewhat significant that while Senators and Representatives assembled and girded up their loins for final action there was another volcanic eruption in the stock market and a slump in the prices of commodities, wheat falling to the lowest point within 13 months and cotton to the lowest level within three and one-half years. In spite of efforts of the high tariff organs to decry any possible relationship between the passage and signing of the Hawley-Smoot-Grundy bill and the stock market and Board of Trade slumps, the latter can but be taken as an answer of the markets to the hackneyed contention that in order to bring about a revival of business that was necessary was to get the tariff out of the way and remove all existing uncertainties. The, in spite of the fact that there has been for some time no possible uncertainty as to how Congress would act on the measure. The vote in the Senate was anticipated. In the House, the bill went through exactly as scheduled. If its passage implied substantial benefits to general business, a few signs of buoyancy ought to have appeared somewhere. On the contrary, as the measure approached its final passage trade and industry actually became more pessimistic.

Scarcely had the ink dried with which Speaker Longworth and Vice-President Curtis signed the bill when Mr. Hoover announced that his signature would be added. Thus President Hoover saved the bill but the question is asked here, did he save his integrity. He must be keenly aware that the tariff as framed by Congress is not what he asked or desired. In honesty he quotes his message urging a "limited" revision contrasted with what Congress handed to him. The President practically admits that vicious steam-roller methods and a combination of selfish interests determined too many rates. Undoubtedly, these he hopes to modify through the Tariff Commission, and if that does not work out he promises to ask Congress to give the Commission more power. In the same way, he seems to be confident that the protests of foreign governments against discriminating duties can be met. Thus, without a scintilla of enthusiasm and with manifest apologies the President signed the bill.

Without doubt he shares the dislike of it and fears the effect which many Republican economists and manufacturers have expressed, but the whole thing had become a frightful nuisance. If the bill were vetoed, a more malodorous one, after another prolonged and disturbing discussion in Congress, might show its head next year. Also, although the President does not say this, a veto would have been almost certain to complete the ruin of the Republican party. Therefore, Mr. Hoover signed the bill undoubtedly with one hand while with the other he is credited with having held his nose over a most unsavory mess of tariff potage.

An event which is likely to assume national significance is the result of the New Jersey primaries in which, Dwight W. Morrow was named by the Republicans as their candidate for the United States Senate. The question is asked what was there in the mere nomination of a Republican Senator from New Jersey to concentrate the attention of the entire country? In other words, why does Mr. Morrow's triumph in the primary exceeding all expectations as it did, give Americans the thrill of perceiving a great change coming over the face of the political deep? The New Jersey senatorship, in itself considered, is merely a trifle. Mr. Morrow could have had it by appointment, or could have won it without a contest if he had been satisfied to indulge in the ordinary platitudes about law enforcement and possibly about the needs of a popular referendum.

In all human probability if Mr. Morrow had been an ordinary candidate, who had pussyfooted on the issue of federal prohibition, he still would have been nominated in New Jersey. Mr. Morrow had behind him, practically intact, the strong Republican political machine. In general elections machines do not count so heavily. In primaries they almost invariably are invincible. Instances of the upset of a machine candidate in a primary fight are exceedingly rare. But the overwhelming Morrow plurality—more than twice the combined vote of both opponents—is a matter which cannot be explained by machine support. Manifestly he would have won without the machine. He even might have won if the machine had been against him. There are only two possible explanations of the vote: first, the record, character and personality of the man which brought to his support those unaccustomed to participate in primaries; second an intense popular approval of his unequivocal stand on national prohibition. While by no means the first time that an outstanding wet Republican has triumphed in an important state—even Mr. Vane did in Pennsylvania four years ago—Mr. Morrow's overwhelming victory is of unquestionable significance. The Republican party in most so-called wet States has been dry. It took the dry side nationally. In State after State it has suppressed or endeavored to suppress wet sentiment within its ranks. It was said to be 60% dry in New Jersey.

INVITATIONS NEEDED IN FRESH AIR CAMPAIGN

With the idea of giving the needy city children temporary relief from the stifling heat of densely populated urban areas, the Fresh Air Campaign is being conducted for the seventh year by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. Residents of rural localities in Kentucky and Southern Indiana are asked to entertain a child for a week or ten days in their homes. The Courier-Journal and The Times pay all transportation and laundry costs of the children through the Fresh Air Fund, which is made of contributions from persons who realize the benefits of the work.

Every child is given a thorough physical examination before he or she is allowed to leave the city.

Stewed Chicken
There is little to be said regarding the stewing of chicken. We should like to remind you that the chicken should be put on to cook in boiling water, covered and allowed to simmer until tender. After the chicken has been removed to a platter, pour a little gravy over it and sprinkle with chopped parsley before sending to the table.

Ivory Cream Jelly with Fresh Fruit.
1 tablespoon plain gelatine.
1/2 cup sugar.
1-8 teaspoon salt.
1 cup milk.
1 cup cream.
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.
Soften the gelatine in the cold milk and then dissolve over hot water. Add sugar and salt and stir until sugar is dissolved. When cool, add the cream and vanilla and set in a pan of ice and salt. Beat with a rotary egg beater until of the consistency of whipped cream. Turn into molds. At serving time, turn out and serve with fresh fruit, crushed sweetened berries, or ripe peaches.

3 tablespoons water.
1 cup flour (cake flour).
1/2 teaspoon baking powder.
1/2 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract.
Beat the egg yolks with the sugar and add the water. Add the sifted flour and lastly the stiffly beaten egg whites and the extract. Pour into a tube pan and place in a cold oven. Light the oven and turn very low. Increase the heat gradually and bake for 1 hour. Ice with cocoanut.

Queries and Answers
Dear Mrs. Auch: I received your set of recipe cards and enjoyed the Small Devils Food Cake, it is fine. Your cream slaw is mighty good too and so easy to make. Living in the country we welcome recipes using cream, milk and eggs. We have on slaw made over your recipe is good. I am not pleased with my cherry preserves; they are always too strong if I cook them long enough to get thick. If you can tell me how to make good cherry preserves, I shall be very grateful. Thank you.

Mrs. C. M. J.
There is an excellent cherry preserve recipe in our new set of Preserve Recipes. We are mailing this set to you and we hope you will like the preserves made as we make them. There are about a dozen good and unusual preserve recipes in this set. Each one is a tested recipe and you need not hesitate to use them. We shall be happy to send a set of these to any of our readers who write to us and enclose a stamped and addressed envelope.

Dear Mrs. Auch: You sent me a sponge cake recipe upon request and it calls for the juice and rind of 1/2 lemon. Now can I use a teaspoon of vanilla in place of the lemon juice? I shall watch the column for your answer. Thank you for many recipes and menus. I never miss reading the paper. "A Regular."
If you use vanilla extract and omit the lemon juice, you must also use 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar and 3 tablespoons water.

Anita M. Auch will most cheerfully answer any questions you wish to ask her. Just write to her in care of this paper. The recipe cards which she offers are all reliable tested recipes and there is no charge for this service.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere thanks to everyone who so kindly gave their assistance in the loss of our Dear Mother, Mrs. S. F. Powers. Especially do we thank Dr. Slater for his untiring efforts, the Undertaker Philip Taliaferro, also Rev. Wayman, Rev. DeMoisey, Rev. Brown and Rev. ## COLORED TEAM

WILL VISIT BELLEVUE NEXT SUNDAY—ELIMINATION SERIES TO START ON JULY 6TH

Coming down to the end of the regular season, prior to the elimination series, the Bellevue club pleased its followers last Sunday with an old fashioned slugging match when they downed the California, Ohio, team by the lopsided score of 19 to 3.

Joe Brady and Stephens were on the mound for Bellevue while M. W. W. was behind the bat. The hitting of Bucky Rogers, the offensive sensation of the Bellevue club this year, was the outstanding feature of the day. Bucky was up six times and obliged with the measly sum of four singles and two doubles for his share. He also played a fine game in the outfield.

With a trip to Indian Lake, Ohio, with all expenses paid as their goal, and in addition to that a nice cash sum and a silver cup this club will enter the elimination series on Sunday July 6th. The first team to lose three games will be eliminated.

Next Sunday the Bellevue club will take on a team of colored boys from Cincinnati. The prices of admission will be 25 cents, but after the elimination starts it will be increased to 35 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Weaver entertained a number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Atwood Wednesday at dinner in honor of Mr. Atwood's birthday. Mr. Atwood is engaged here in compiling the Historical Edition for the Recorder.

W. C. Weaver and Courtney Kelly, local painters, refinished the floors of the Peoples Deposit Bank last week.

Edward Rue and wife, of Lexington, spent Friday night with J. M. Eddins and wife here. Mr. and Mrs. Rue had just returned from a few days journey thru the lake country to the north, having visited Niagara Falls and other points of interest.

OBITUARY

The entire community was saddened by the death of Mr. Wm. Jones, formerly of Erlanger. He was one of the first and most faithful deacons of the Elmore church during Bro. Scott's pastorage.

Bro. Jones was the son of Sister Judy and Bro. Tom Jones who have passed to the bright beyond. He belonged to the best christian family of Erlanger.

Just after the rosy dawn of a bright June day, and as the beautiful rays and shadows grew apace so the spirit of Bro. William Jones began its flight over the great uncharted sea to await the coming of the loved ones on the other shore—his young life here broken as the rose-bud of the garden. We bow our heads and our hearts go out in sympathy to this bereaved family, but grieve not as those who have no faith for we realize none knew him but to love him, none named him but to praise him, God's will will not ours be done.

He leaves a loving, kind devoted wife, two brothers Mr. John Jones, of Walton, Roy Jones, of Erlanger, one sister Mrs. Pearl Click, of Erlanger.

CARD OF THANKS

Through the death of our brother and husband we extend our many thanks to the dear one who helped us during our trouble, the Walton church for their lovely floral piece; Bro. Christopher and Bro. Moore for consoling words, the Erlanger choir and hospital of Bro. Wm. Lewis and family. Lastly the mortician Mrs. E. B. Delaney & Son of Covington.

TEACHER'S EXAMINATION

The last Teacher's Examination of the year will be held at the Burlington High School building July 10 and 11th, 1930. Entrants are required to submit a transcript of high school credits.

Friday Dinner

Tomato Soup, French Style.
CROUTONS.
Salmon Souffle.
Whipped Potatoes Peppers Stuffed with Asparagus.
Beet and Cucumber Salad with Cream Mustard Dressing.
Fruit Cottage Pudding.
Coffee.

Tomato Soup, French Style
1 quart tomatoes.
1 onion, sliced.
1 bay leaf.
1 quart brown stock (any meat stock).
6 sprigs parsley.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Combine all ingredients and simmer for 30 minutes. Run through a sieve and add 1/4 teaspoon soda and 1/4 teaspoon sugar. Melt 2 tablespoons butter and stir in 2 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch. Stir until smooth and add the hot liquid. Simmer for 10 minutes and just before serving, add 1 1/4 cups hot cream. Serve with croutons.

Salmon Souffle

1 can salmon.
2 cups milk.
1 cup bread or cracker crumbs.
3 eggs.
Salt and pepper.
Flake the salmon and soak the crumbs in the milk. Add salt, pepper and salmon to crumbs. Add the lightly beaten egg yolks and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn the mixture into a buttered baking dish in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

Peppers Stuffed With Asparagus
Remove the seeds from four peppers. Parboil in salted water for 10 minutes. Drain and fill with creamed asparagus (the asparagus cut into inch lengths). Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until brown, about 10 minutes. Serve on buttered toast rings.

Fruit Cottage Pudding

1-3 cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
2 cups flour.
1 egg.
2 1/4 teaspoon baking powder.
1 cup milk.
Few grains salt.
1/4 cup diced fruit.
Cream butter and sugar and add the beaten egg. Add the baking powder and flour alternately with the milk and lastly add the fruit. Flavor with 1 teaspoon vanilla. We used some crushed pineapple for the fruit, as we had some left over. Turn into a greased loaf cake pan and bake in a moderate oven for 35 minutes. Serve warm with the following sauce:

1 cup boiling water.
1 cup sugar.
1 tablespoon cornstarch smoothed in 1/4 cup water.
1 tablespoon butter.
1-3 cup fruit.
1/2 teaspoon flavoring.
Add the smoothed cornstarch to the hot water and boil for five minutes. Add the sugar and boil up well. Add the butter, fruit and vanilla. Serve warm.

Saturday Evening Supper

Cheese Fondue.
Layered Cheese and Apple Salad.
Hot Muffins or Rolls. Preserves.
Lemon Sunshine Pie.
Coffee.

Cheese Fondue

3 eggs.
1 1/4 cups soft fine bread crumbs.
1 cup milk.
1/2 pound cheese, grated.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon mustard.

Beat the egg yolks slightly and add the crumbs, milk, cheese, mustard and salt. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven for 50 minutes. Serve at once with celery hearts.

Layered Cheese and Apple Salad

1 package lemon gelatine.
2 cups boiling water, less tablespoons.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.

1 teaspoon salt.
1 red apple, diced.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 package, 3 ounces cream cheese.
1/4 cup nut meats, broken.

Dissolve the gelatine in the boiling water and add the half of the lemon juice and salt. Mix apples with sugar, a dash of salt and remaining lemon juice. Chill. When the gelatine begins to thicken, add the apples to half of it. Turn into a small square pan. When this is firm, beat the other half of the gelatine with an egg beater until of the consistency of whipped cream. Fold in the nuts and cheese. Pour over the firm gelatine in the pan and set in the refrigerator for an hour or more. Serve in squares on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise.

Rheumatism So Bad He Walked the Floor in Agony

"Karnak has done me such a wonderful amount of good that I believe every rheumatic sufferer should give it a trial."

"No one will ever know the tortures I have gone through with rheumatism during the past three years. I ached all over. At night the pains were so great that I walked the floor, and I've gotten out in the middle of the night to go to the doctor for a hypodermic. I tried every thing in an effort to get relief. Even serum treatment failed to help me. My relief finally came when a friend advised me to try Karnak. To my surprise this medicine went right to the roots of my trouble, and brought complete relief. Every ache and pain has disappeared, and I am now in condition to resume active duties once more, thanks to Karnak."

Word Picture of Back-Ground For Saturday's River Classic

BRIEF BIOGRAPHY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK WAY JR.

Captain Frederick Way Jr., master of the Steamer "Betsy Ann" is a riverman by choice.

His first saw a steamboat at the home town of Sewickley, Pennsylvania, where he was born, February 17, 1901. He says he can distinctly remember that feeling of awe and wonder he experienced when he learned that such magnificent creations could possibly navigate the Ohio River.

Career Decided

A vacation trip in 1911 from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati and return on the "Queen City" decided the issue for all times. From that date on, Way commenced daily notes on river events and soon became familiar with all the boats and could even recognize whistles or no less than fifty boats then plying in and out of Pittsburgh.

As a boy Way assembled the greatest collection of boat pictures on record. His albums contained photographs of over 4,500 different boats on the western rivers.

Way's Education

After graduating from High School in the spring of 1919, he enrolled with Carnegie Technical Schools at Pittsburgh but after spending about six weeks and listening to the call of boat whistles down on the Monongahela River, he wired a river captain friend to give him a job. So on a rainy day in November, 1919, Way swept out the office of the Campbell Creek Coal Co. at Point Pleasant, West Virginia, for Capt. E. A. Burns, then manager of transportation. After some time in the office, the desire to get on the river was satisfied by a berth as steersman on the towboat Eugene Dena Smith.

Way Becomes "Mud Clerk"

The boyhood ambition to get on a packet finally prevailed, however, and the Liberty Transit Co. of Wheeling, West Va., signed the young riverman on as "mud clerk" on the Corker. Two days later Way became second clerk.

In the fall of 1920 the desire for a college education again became uppermost and Way signed up with the freshman class at the University of Cincinnati. But on week-end there was opportunity to go riding on the river, often times in company with the late Captain Gordon C. Greene, father of Capt. Tom R. Greene. It was probably the elder Captain Greene who caused Way to again abandon the scholarly career and return to the river. This time it was on the "General Beach" as second clerk in the Pittsburgh and Zanesville run. Then on the "General Perishing" between Pittsburgh and Charleston. Finally, as the same of the career in the life any second clerk, Way stepped into the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati trade. It was there he got his first "license," issued by the U. S. Steamboat Inspection Service. It classed him as a "First Mate" on steamers of all tonnage plying western rivers. About then, at the annual meeting of the Allegheny River Improvement Association, Way was elected Vice President.

A Boat Owner

Finally Way and another young fellow named William S. Pollock saw their chance to become boat owners. They bought the steamer "Betsy Ann." At that time there was considerable competition in the upper river packer business and these two boys, for they were then 24 and 26 years of age, had a hard fight to become established. But they had talked the thing over for years while they were swimming down at the river together by the willows and later when they occupied clerical berths on river steamers, and with determination they kept the "Betsy Ann" plodding along and finally succeeded in making the proposition work.

Spurred on by this success they bought a second steamer named the "General Wood" and it was shortly after this that the "Chris Greene" and the "Betsy Ann" "met up" one night above New Richmond Ohio and ran a deadly race in which there was a minor collision at the end which resulted in the suspension of the licenses of two pilots and fame for both boats. The first formal race since the days of the "Robert E. Lee" and "Natchez" resulted on June 17, 1928 and the whole river gasped at the interest which was evidenced on all sides. In 1929 Way grew bolder, confident of the speed qualities of his steamer, and raced the "Tom Greene," resulting in a slight margin of victory for that boat. This year the "Betsy Ann" has been docked and rebuilt and Way wears a smile when he thinks of what a trimming "Tom" is going to get on June 28.

"No story or tribute would be complete, as far as I am concerned, if mention was not made of the part Captain Gordon C. Greene played in my life. There was a man as solid as oak in his regard for right and wrong, for mercy and justice and for his friendships and enemies. If I were to leave the river tomorrow there would be only one real regret, and that would be that I would have the feeling that Captain Greene would be disappointed in me for not doing. He was as close to me as my father—in fact I often regarded him as sort of a second daddy—and often came to him in times of trouble."

HISTORY OF STEAMER "BETSY ANN"

Built in 1899 at Dubuque, Iowa, Capt. Leonard of Natchez, Miss., for the Natchez and Bayou Sara trade. Named for Mrs. Leonard, whose nickname was Betsy Ann. The boat was presented with silver water urns on her maiden trip by the merchants of Natchez. These remain aboard today. The packet had the mail contract for the Bayou country and had a U. S. Post Office. Just opposite was a bar, over which most of the notables of the day were served their mint juleps. The footrail remains today as it was in better times.

The mail contract expired, business got bad and Capt. Leonard had made a neat sum of money with the boat and the idea of selling the steamer was so repulsive to him that he fixed up a place in his front yard and made up his mind to beach the Betsy Ann out and keep her forever—where he could look at her and keep her painted up in trim.

Just about then the railroad strike came along in 1920 and D. Grover Gill, an Ohio River merchant, came along and struck a fancy to the Betsy Ann—but the original owner would not sell. Finally old Capt. Leonard went away on a trip to Birmingham, or some place, and his son made up the same papers in his absence and started the Betsy Ann toward the upper Ohio River.

The Betsy, when she arrived in Pittsburgh, was a sight to behold. She had her original double swinging stages—all cleated up for the cotton trade. A huge mast on the head rivaled the height of the smokestacks and had the regulation "yard arm" and "night hawk" which adorned the famous Mississippi Steamers of the days of Mark Twain. All this had to be torn down to meet modern conditions—but the renovated Betsy Ann was as good a ship as the day she left the Dubuque boatyard in 1899.

In 1925 a young fellow named Frederick Way Jr., bought the controlling stock in the company which owned the Betsy Ann. Grover Gill retired to Columbus, Ohio and left the river for good. Way, who was 26 when he became president of the boat line, started the famous packet in the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati trade. Her speed was the talk of the river. Hence the race in 1928 between the "Chris Greene" and the gallant Mississippi packet. That led, in 1929, to the "Tom Greene" race.

The "Betsy Ann" is now being reconditioned in preparation for the Pittsburgh and Louisville trade, a run of 1,200 miles which she is expected to accomplish once every eight days. Her speed will be primed up for the race with the "Tom Greene," the river classic of 1930, and he initial appearance for the season will be when she expects to cross the starting line with the "Tom Greene" in hot pursuit.

THE CAREER OF A RIVER MAN

Biography of Tom R. Greene Presents Vivid Picture of Steamboat Captain's Life on the Ohio

(By Harold N. Loeb)

When the "Tom Greene" is pitted against the "Betsy Ann" in the third annual Ohio River Steamboat Race over a twenty-mile course from Fernbank Dam to Coney Island, Saturday afternoon, June 28th, all the skill and science of river men will be exhibited by Tom R. Greene and Frederick Way, Jr., respective captains of the two competing craft.

Tom R. Greene, youthful captain of the "Tom Greene," yesterday, in a reminiscent mood, gave a vivid picture of life as it is lived on the Ohio River and other great inland waterways of the country at present, and of conditions in the past.

"The Greene Line of steamers," Capt. Greene said, "is the culmination of the hopes and aspirations of four generations of mariners. My great grandfather Daniel Greene, was apparently the first victim of the hydrophobia which has been visited on the second, third and fourth generations. He was an English sea captain, serving in the Royal Imperial Navy of Great Britain on a "wind jammer," as the sailing vessels of those days were called."

With the opening of the Northwest Territory in this country, Daniel Greene came inland from the sea, and settled at Newport, Ohio, a picturesque hamlet 16 miles above Marietta. Here he built a home which is still in the family. The house, over one hundred and twenty-five years old, has eighteen-inch stone walls, heavy walnut floors fastened with nails forged by the blacksmith, and is still in an excellent state of preservation. In the attic to this day the visitor will see, among other rare antiques, an old sea chest, cap and ball rifles with powder horns, and a m-ch affive duty.

"Old Daniel," says Capt. Greene, "was a typical sailor of his day, with an earring in his starboard ear and the royal English crown fastened on his forehead. It is the family shame that he stole a steamboat and got away with it. My father would never discuss the matter further than to say that his grandfather contracted to sell his boat at New Orleans to a firm that made a part payment and no more. So one dark night my great grandfather and his brother parted the mooring lines and started upstream. They traveled night and day until they reached Memphis. Here a tragedy happened—the brother, due to exhaustion, fell overboard—and was drowned. Old Daniel eventually returned to Marietta with the boat."

Capt. Greene's grandfather, Christopher Greene, also was a riverman. In twenty-one years he made twenty-one trips from Ohio to New Orleans on a flatboat. Christopher Greene was born the same year at Abraham Lincoln. In those days, the rivers were the main arteries of commerce, and as might be expected, the streams were infested with river pirates. Many a boatman was murdered and his cargo looted, by these "half-alligator-half-man" thieves.

"My grandfather," Capt. Greene recalled, "was one of a party of flatboat men who stole down on Big Diamond Island during the night and captured nineteen river pirates and a woman. Tradition has it that in order to save powder, one of the flatboatmen, a butcher by trade, conducted a wholesale execution with the instruments of his calling in the cold gray dawn. The woman, however, was pardoned."

Gordon Greene, father of Capt. Tom R. Greene, began his career as a river man at the age of fourteen. Having acquired a jobboat, he would load it with watermelons, chickens and produce and row down the river to Marietta, where he would sell his cargo. Occasionally he would make a trip up the Little Muskingum river just above Marietta and trade with the farmers inland. On one of these trips he met Capt. Tom R. Greene's mother, who was then ten years old.

At fifteen, Gordon Greene's eagerness to become a steamboat pilot overcame him, and after many entreaties made to an influential riverman, he succeeded in shipping as a "coal basser" on a Pittsburgh towboat. His duties, which consisted of shoving a wheelbarrow filled with coal out of a small barge into the steamboat's firebox, besides being considered about the lowest form of marine endeavor, was perpetual back-breaking work.

After several years of such labor, Gordon Greene saved out of his earnings about $250.

"This sum," says Capt. Greene, "my father readily gave to the old pilot of the 'Andes,' a packet plying between Cincinnati and Wheeling, to let him river work. It was not a sacrifice, but an honor, for my father to pay his teacher to let him assist at the wheel. He spent three years as a 'cub' pilot, serving his apprenticeship, and then realized his life's ambition—he received a river pilot's license in his own name."

When twenty-seven years old, Gordon Greene went to Mayville, where he bought an interest in the Henry K. Bedford, a small, shallow draft steamer which had been used in the "beant trade" around Nashville, beginning with the Bedford and until he built the present Str. Chris Greene. Gordon Greene operated more than 25 steamboats on the Ohio. He had seen the crest of river transportation and the beginning of the great lock and dam system on the Ohio and was probably the only individual who remained in the business while they were being constructed.

"Like all great engineering achievements," Capt. Tom R. Greene recounts, "the building of the dams extracted a heavy toll of boats. Many a boat has been sacrificed on the shrine of adequate water transportation—many a boat rammed and sunk in the swift waters coming over the coffer dams during the construction of the dam. One of my greatest regrets is that my father did not get to see the completion of the lock and dam system before his death. Now happy he would have been to see covered with water the 'round those bars on which he had grounded at least once! How he would have gloried in the Ohio River dedication ceremony and all that it implied, last fall!"

The "Tom Greene," which will make the race June 28th, is the triumph of Gordon Greene's steamboat career. She is the epitome of everything he thought a practical packet should be—the first all-steel boat built on Western waters, and his largest boat operated the year 'round on the Ohio. She is said to have the finest anti-listing qualities of any boat in the country, and, with seven-ton watertight compartments, is one of the most secure of steel craft.

The "Tom Greene" was built at Point Pleasant, West Va., by the Marietta Manufacturing Company, 7 years ago. Gordon Greene was her first master, and commanded her until his death in 1927. In her are said to lie the qualities of safety and speed combined with economy of operation. She has given little trouble.

Speaking of his own life on the river, Capt. Tom R. Greene said in part:

"I was born aboard our Str. Greenland in the mouth of the Great Kanawha (pronounced by rivermen 'Knoy') River, during the lay-up caused by winter ice. Six weeks after my birth, my mother commanded the Greenland on three trips from Pittsburgh to the World's Fair in St. Louis, and not once did she leave my bassinette to see the wonders of the exposition."

"My mother had lived aboard the steamboat for seventeen years, and my brother Chris and I were reared in the natural environment of the river. The fo'castle of the Greenland was the same to us as other children's back yards are to them. Here we played and romped, never conscious of the danger of falling overboard. My mother, being of a religious nature, thought the Lord would take care of us."

I spent the first three years of my life on the Greenland, and then, as Chris was old enough for school, we moved to Hyde Park, Cincinnati. During the school year we would be on the river again virtually every week-end, and when school was over for the season we all took to the river just like ducks.

"After I was myself graduated from the Hyde Park public school, I passed four happy years at East High, now Withrow High School, being graduated the same year the 'Tom Greene' was put into service. I began as purser on the 'Tom' and spent the summer in that capacity, but in the autumn entered Ohio State University. During the first few months at O. S. U. I was nearly crazy for a drink out of the old Kanawha River."

"To add to my longing, I accidentally acquired a copy of 'Huckleberry Finn.' That was the last straw and I started out for the far reaches of the Ohio in quest of the 'Tom.' After having pursued her from Portsmouth to Charleston, I heard her whistle blowing down the hollow beyond the latter city. That whistle surely was music to my ears."

"I finished my year at O. S. U. and then returned to the 'Tom' much to the delight of my father. After my father's death in 1927, I took command. My mother lives with me aboard the 'Tom,' and although I am the legal captain, she is the real boss."

Commenting on the forthcoming race, Capt. Greene said: "A great many folks wonder why we are racing the 'Betsy Ann' again, since we beat her last year. It is because we feel that public sentiment was not satisfied last year. Capt. Frederick Way, Jr., has never received the credit due him for his performance with the 'Betsy.' It is not generally known, but Capt. Way is more responsible than we for our past two steamboat races. Twice he has humbled the dignity of his boat before the country in order that our great waterways may be better known. Therefore, we want to give a chance to 'come back' to the good sportsman who has already given the Ohio River two red letter days."

We are all very sorry to hear of the death of Mr. John Hempfling, Sr., better known as "Uncle Johnny." We all will miss him sorely as he was a grand old man, but God the Father above knows that his time here on earth was done and as we all must go, the Father called him home to a mansion that Christ has prepared for him there. Bro. Runyan, of Latonia Christian church, preached the funeral service and Bro. Bullock, undertaker, had charge of the funeral. He leaves a brother, Mr. Charles Hempfling, Sr., and two sister-in-laws, Mrs. Emma Hempfling and Mrs. Charles Hempfling, Sr., besides a number of other relatives and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

We are more than thankful for the bountiful rain that fell during the week.

Mrs. Edna Smith, of Peoples, O., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Peeno.

Mrs. James Crutchelo and Mrs. Bud Harness spent Wednesday with the latter's daughter Mrs. S. Hogel, of Taylorsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Otten, of Crescent Springs, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Gaines, Saturday.

PLAN FARM BUDGETS TO INCREASE INCOMES

The department of farm economics of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture has formulated a series of budgets or management plans which it believes farmers in certain areas could follow with profit. These budgets were planned following an intensive study of farm problems in Laurel County.

Budget No. 1 is for a farm of 70 to 80 acres, containing 28 acres of field crops and 20 acres of permanent pasture. A net income of $1,985 for the use of the operator's time and investment in the farm is shown. Assuming that there would be an average amount of woodland non-tillable land and waste land a total area of 70 or 80 acres would provide the acreages indicated. The total acreage actually required would of course depend upon the proportion of the farm suitable for use in cultivated crops and pasture. The plan is adapted for the use of farmers who because of the steepness of the land or for other reasons prefer to keep a considerable area in pasture continuously.

Six dairy cows, 125 hens and one acre of tobacco, furnish the chief source of income.

The 28 acres of crop land is divided into four areas of 7 acres each and a 4-year rotation is used. The first year of the rotation 6 acres is planted to corn and 1 acre to tobacco.

The next year the acre of tobacco stubble land is planted to corn and two and a half acres of the corn stubble land planted to soybeans, these three and a half acres having a cover crop of rye during the intervening fall and winter period.

The other three and a half acres is sown to spring oats in which is seeded a hay mixture of red and alsike clover, timothy, red top and Japan clover.

The third year the soybean stubble land and the acre of corn stubble land representing half of one of the four fields is sown to oats, a mixture of red and alsike clover being seeded at the same time.

The hay which was seeded the previous year is cut off of the other half of the area.

The fourth year 3 1/2 acres of red clover and alsike hay and 3 1/2 acres of second year grass hay is cut. One thousand pounds of finely ground limestone and 300 pounds of superphosphate are applied to the permanent pasture. Since it is planned to reseed the permanent pasture every fifth year, the seed and fertilizer requirements would be for 4 acres a year of the amounts indicated.

Each year there would be the following acreages of harvested crops: Corn 7 acres; tobacco acre; oats 7 acres; soybean hay 2 1/2 acres; clover hay 7 acres, mixed hay 3 1/2 acres. There would also be 1 1/2 acres of truck crops and orchard and 20 acres of permanent pasture.

The sales of crops include $180 worth of tobacco and $77 worth of hay; the sales from livestock enterprises $425 worth of butterfat, veal calves $34, 2 old cows $80, eggs $226 and live poultry $185. The principal cash expenses on crops are for superphosphate and limestone and for seeds. The livestock cash expenses are for feeds and miscellaneous expenses. Other expenses include $80 for repairs and upkeep of buildings and machinery, $40 for fences, $35 for taxes and $18 for insurance and telephone. When expenses are subtracted from receipts $1,085 remains to pay for the operator's labor and the small amount of family help used and the interest on the capital invested. In addition the farm furnishes crop and orchard products worth $134, and meat, dairy and poultry products worth $213, and the use of a dwelling house.

Hints For Homemakers

THE new cotton chenille rugs in gay colors and striking patterns are the very thing to brighten up the rooms in the summer home. The fact that they are washable is a great advantage. The better kind are absolutely color fast, and will emerge from the harshest laundering without the slightest loss of shape.

A little grated orange peel gives squash a different and wonderfully delicate flavor. Squash should always be steamed. When tender, mash in a hot bowl until smooth.

Season with salt to taste, one-half teaspoon sugar, and butter the size of an egg, for each quart. Beat well, adding four tablespoons thick cream. Pile in hot dish and serve.

BRENT SPENCE

LANDS DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR CONGRESS WITHOUT OPPOSITION — SUCCESS IN NOVEMBER APPEARS CERTAIN

The multitude of friends of Brent Spence in Boone county are very much pleased to learn that he has at last received the nomination of his party for Congress in the sixth district without opposition.

This is the third shot Senator Spence has made at the Congressional post. The first time he was defeated in the primary by Oris S. Ware, who was elected and served one term. The second time he obtained the nomination over two opponents after a hard campaign, but his margin of victory was very impressive.

After winning the primary fight, however, he went down with the ship in the memorable debacle of 1923 and many think that that fact had a great deal to do with his lack of opposition in the primary this year. Senator Spence ran far ahead of the regular ticket and lost thru no fault or failure of his own and the spirit in which he took his unwarranted defeat seemed to strike the fancy and invoke the sympathy of the sixth district electorate.

That Mr. Spence is popular as well as capable, can be found out by an interview with anyone of his constituents in his home county of Campbell, or his home town of Ft. Thomas; that his determination finally will be rewarded with a victory in November of this year also appears certain, according to the best information obtainable throughout the district.

RECORD NUMBER

OF GRADUATES IN BOONE COUNTY COMMON SCHOOLS—NINETY-FIVE TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AT EXERCISES HERE ON JULY 9TH

The largest class of graduates ever to finish common school in one year in Boone county have completed their courses this year.

On Thursday afternoon, July 9th, at 2:30 ninety-five are expected to receive their diplomas at the exercises to be held in the Boone County High School Auditorium.

Every school in the county save three will be represented in the class and it is desired that a picture be made of the graduates at the school on this day. Prof. D. H. Norris, County Superintendent, states that all graduates who desire to have a picture made for them make it known to him as soon as possible. The cost of each picture will be one dollar.

The speaker who will address the class has not been decided upon at this time.

HISTORICAL EDITION TO BE COMPLETED THIS WEEK

The end of this week will find the Recorder Historical Edition completed as far as the assembling and writing of the data is concerned and the history will be published just as soon as the printers complete the press work. There are a few photographs still to come in and it is hoped they will be received at this office early next week so there will be no delay from that source.

SLUGGING

OF BELLEVUE TEAM BRINGS VICTORY OF HEBRON—CLIFFORD SPRAGUE ESTABLISHES SEASON'S STRIKEOUT RECORD AT RABBIT HASH — WALTON KEEPS PACE BY WINNING

Engaging an orgy of slugging that has not been surpassed for distance swats this season, or, for that matter, in any other, the Bellevue team retained the unchallenged leadership of the Boone county league by downing Hebron on the lot of the latter last Saturday afternoon. The score was 9 to 2.

The league leaders were on the war path during the first three innings when they scored all nine runs with a series of singles, doubles, triples and two of the longest home runs ever smacked at the Hebron park. One of these, a drive by Whitey Rogers, went all the way to the roof in left field. Bill Rogers drove the other against the school house door on the first round.

Ellis started for Hebron, but was removed in the second inning. After Bellevue had made four in the third off the delivery of Hazel Walton, who succeeded Ellis, they succumbed to a victory for the first time in a long while. Walton went all the way for Bellevue and coasted to victory with twelve strikeouts and allowed but four scattered hits. The hitting honors were divided between the Rogers family, Bucky, Bill and Whitey, while Brown, for Hebron, made half the four hits off Rogers.

After battling for five innings with the score one to nothing in favor of Burlington the latter team cut loose with a devastating attack in the first half of the sixth that continued into the seventh, burying Rabbit Hash under an avalanche of runs. The game was played at Rabbit Hash and the final score was 15 to 5.

Lefty Sprague was on the hill for Burlington while Wilson started for the home team. Sprague turned in a flashy performance registering the season's record of 18 strikeouts and allowed eight hits. Wilson also pitched a clever game until the storm broke in the sixth.

When they stacked up against the Cincinnati Browns last Sunday afternoon in a Spiny League game the Bellevue club met a tartar.

The Browns are colored boys and the intense heat must have suited them better than Bellevue. At any rate, though neither team played clean base ball, the Browns, by virtue of a three run rally in the ninth, came off with an 11-10 victory. Both teams hit well.

Next Sunday the elimination will start with the Woodlawn A. C. supplying the opposition in the first game. Woodlawn is one of the tw Spiny League teams that has defeated Bellevue so far this season. The series will be played under a plan of "three and out," the first team to lose three games being eliminated. Joe Brady and Stephens will form the Bellevue battery in the opening elimination game.

The winning team in this league will receive $90.00 in cash and a fifty dollar silver loving cup, with three trips paid to play the champions of Lima, Ohio. The admission for these games was announced last week as 85 cents, but the management states that an attempt will be made to pay expenses with a 25 cent admission for at least the first few games.

MASONIC PICNIC

Boone county Masons are invited to the 4th of July outing in Alexandria, Kentucky, which will be given under the auspices of the Northern Kentucky Masonic League. The picnic will be at the Alexandria Fair Grounds.

Growd of More than Thousand Witnesses Close of Tourney

L. C. WEAVER CAPTURES FIRST PRIZE, WITH OWEN PORTWOOD SECOND AND PETTIT THIRD — FRANKLIN MAURER IS FOURTH MAN IN BIG 4

Once upon a time, to employ the language of a Hans Anderson or an Aesop, there was a song that had a theme running something like this: "I don't know why I love you, but I do-o-o."

Just why so many people fell in love with "horseshoes" is such a mystery to the writer that that phrase just naturally came out. And that such unbelievable crowds attended the horseshoe tournament sounds so much like a fairy tale that we had to start this tale out with "once upon a time."

Beginning on June 7th, and continuing throughout the month of "hires and roses" the crowds mounted steadily until the throng that witnessed the matches Saturday night at the close was freely and conservatively estimated at a thousand, and many even went so far as to claim fifteen hundred in town, though it was absolutely impossible for all to get close enough to see the games.

That the horseshoe tournament pleased the people is not only an idle thought, but an empty statement. It pleased them so that the announcement of another to follow within a few weeks met with enthusiastic approval.

But, to get back to the story just closed, and for the benefit of those who are interested and were not there, the man who went away with the chromium plated horseshoes was Lloyd Cleveland Weaver, who successfully made thru all opposition in the final. That Weaver's success was an old story to those who were there Saturday night.

The winner in the upper bracket and his opponent in the final was Owen Portwood, of Waterloo, who showed exceptional form throughout the long grind, though he pitched his poorest games in the finals.

The man, however, who gave the crowd the real thrill, and Weaver the scare of a life time, was Albert Pettit. At many points during their match it appeared that Pettit would be returned the winner. Of course Portwood finished second with Pettit in third place, the cash prizes of the Peoples Deposit Bank going to them. The Recorder trophy of the "silver" horseshoes was presented to Weaver and he is scheduled to exhibit them in actual competition in an exhibition game on the courts next Saturday night.

Robert Graves Describes Trip To Washington 4-H Club Camp

To the Members of the 4-H Clubs of Boone County:

Home again after a delightful trip to the National 4-H Club Camp on the U. S. Department of Agriculture grounds in the Beautiful City of Washington; one of the great cities of the world. It represents the beauty, the strength, and majesty of a great nation—231 registered and 39 states were represented. We were divided into five groups, one group No. 4, winning the highest number of points giving us the honor of placing the first band around the Flag Pole in memory of the 1930 delegation, which will be continued each year.

The mornings were devoted to Junior Conferences, held in the National Museum Building, afternoons to tours and in the evenings a signal was given and a large circle was formed around the 4 leaf clover on the lawn. The camp fire was in charge of the different groups each night, the program consisting of songs, speeches, solos, duets, games and extemporaneous speeches.

The first tour was to the Beltsville Experiment farm in Maryland across the beautiful Potomac. Mr. Fohrmann discussed Dairy Cattle Breeding, Feeding and Management, and the experiments were explained in an interesting way by Mr. Knapp. We were given a picnic supper at the farm which was enjoyed also. The other tours were to Mt. St.

To start the tournament last week the Portwood brothers were pitted against each other with Owen coming off the victor over his 18-year-old brother, Lee Edward. This was more or less a disappointment to the crowd, which has stood valiantly behind this lad from the start. He proved a hot favorite with the onlookers with his quiet manner and his clever pitching. Many think that he might have won the tournament had he gotten by his elder brother.

In the next match Franklin Maurer entered the "Big 4" by defeating Val Delaney. Then Weaver landed three defeats by L. E. McNeely and was followed by Pettit and Perry Presser. The latter did not show the form that he displayed in defeating L. O. Hubbard last week and fell a victim to the Pettit process. Many tournament followers had predicted that Presser would be the winner of this match and some even claimed the horseshoes for him.

Portwood then eliminated Maurer and Weaver lowered Pettit in the semi-finals. The story of the finals has been related. In the consolation match for third prize Pettit best Maurer after a very close match.

Next Saturday night an opportunity will be offered to any pitchers in the county who have not yet performed on the courts to try out the lights. Of course anyone will be allowed to pitch, whether he was a contestant in the last tournament or not. A man will be in charge of the courts and everyone must register with him and pitch in his turn, so first come first served. A few special matches between some of the best pitchers in the county will be arranged, either in doubles or singles. So it is very probable that some better pitching than was seen in the tournament will be witnessed next Saturday night.

There will be 120 comfortable seats available at a minimum price of ten cents for those who do not care to stand. The courts will be cleared of all spectators and even the score keepers will be moved to the sidelines so that everyone about the arena will have a clear vision. Some suggested changes will be made in the lights, which will make it better for the contestants.

An entry blank is published this week for the next tournament. No date is set for its start nor for the close of the entries, but it will be within a period of two or three weeks. Entrants in the next contest must pitch in teams of two so that you must obtain a partner to enter. The tourney will be conducted on much the same plan as the last, except that it will be doubles instead of singles. It is planned to offer prizes

Albans Cathedral which probably will not be completed for 50 years, costing a vast sum; Bureau of Engraving and Printing; Smithsonian Institution; Washington Monument; U. S. Department of Agriculture; Greenhouses; Mt. Vernon; Arlington Experiment Farm; Arlington National Cemetery; the Capitol enjoying seeing Congress in session; White House having our picture taken with President Hoover; The Corcoran Gallery of Art; Pan American Building; Lincoln Memorial and the Library of Congress, one of the most beautiful of buildings. On Thursday evening we witnessed one of the most beautiful scenes, an outdoor pageant "The Tempest," one of Shakespeare's outstanding plays and the music rendered at intervals by the U. S. Marine Band. The searchlight playing on the Washington Monument seemed to reflect a feeling of love for "our dear U. S. A." I hope the winning of this trip will be an incentive to our younger club members to take interest in this projects and have the will to plan and carry out their plans; for success comes to those who have the power to think farthest in the future, and some day I hope this award will come to "Old Boone again."

I want to thank our County Agent, Mr. Forkner, and our local leaders for the interest and help they have given me in 4-H club work.

An Ravor,
ROBERT L. GRAVES.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB BROADCAST

Miss Adele Diebel, a Kentucky 4-H club member and Mrs. Catherine T. Johnson, Home Demonstration Agent, Jefferson county will broadcast over radio station WLW and WHAS this coming Saturday night, June 8th, from 11:45 a. m., to 12:30.

All Boone county 4-H club members are urged to tune in on this program. This will be the first time that a Kentucky 4-H club member has had an opportunity to participate in a nation broadcast.

RAINFALL

OF 1930 COMPARED TO THAT OF 1908, THE "DRY FALL"—W. E. POPHAM HAS RECORD SINCE 1893 AND SAYS THE HOTTEST JUNE DAY WAS THIS YEAR

W. E. Popham, of Florence Rural Route, writes that this year very much resembles the spring and summer of 1908, which, he says, was the driest fall on record.

Mr. Popham presents the figures to prove his contention in a letter to the Recorder this week. In his letter he gives the rainfall for 1908 as follows:

Up to June 30th, 26 1/2 inches, July 3 3/4 inches, August 1 1/4 inches; September 1/2 inch; November 2 3/4 inch; December 1 inch.

To support his contention that this is a parallel year he compares with the following figures:

Up to June 30th, this year the rainfall has been 24 3/4 inches; approximately the same as his record shows for 1908.

He further states that the hottest June day of which he has record was June 23rd, of this year when the thermometer reached 100 degrees. He says that in 1908 there were 12 different days when it thundered, this year there were but nine up to June 30. There were two foggy mornings in June this year and this, Mr. Popham says, he never saw in June before.

While Mr. Popham states that he has "tab" on the weather since 1893 and, while we do not doubt his figures in the least, yet we sincerely hope that this fall will not be anything like 1908.

CALF FITTING DEMONSTRATION WELL ATTENDED

A total of 15 Boone county 4-H calf club members attended the Northern Kentucky calf fitting and showing demonstration held at Maple Lawn Jersey Farm in Kenton county last Thursday afternoon.

The demonstration was in charge of Mr. Ted Besh, field agent in dairying from the College of Agriculture. Mr. Besh demonstrated methods of making calf club blankets at home, clipping the calf for show, training the calf to lead and the feeding of rations that will develop into a profitable cow.

that will be well worth the effort and no limit is placed on the territory from which the entrants may come. A general invitation is extended to all points in Northern Kentucky.

MANY BOONE COUNTIANS ARE ENROLLED AT U. K.

A total enrollment of 1472 students was reported by the Registrar's office at the University of Kentucky at the close of registration, Monday June 23. Included in this enrollment were representatives from 116 counties, 30 states and from China and the Canal Zone, who are attending the first semester of the Summer School.

This is the largest registration ever tabulated for a University of Kentucky Summer Session, and does not include 17 members of the class in Parent-Teacher Training, which is a short course of two weeks duration, and who's enrollment is not included in the total tabulation.

Among those attending the first session of the 1930 Summer School at the University of Kentucky from Boone county are:

Mrs. Edith Rice Caudill, Grant.
Mary Louise Renaker, Burlington.
Elizabeth M. Hensley, Burlington.
Robt. Bernard Hensley, Burlington.
Walter Dudley Velt, Walton.
Robt. Carl Beeson, Burlington.
Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Hearn.

COWEN WILL

IS HELD VALID AFTER FIVE DAYS TRIAL IN GALLATIN CIRCUIT COURT—FORMERLY BOONE COUNTY CITIZEN

The principal jury trial at the term of circuit court at Warsaw last week was the will case of the late James A. Cowen, brother of E. S. Cowen and Dr. L. C. Cowen, of Rising Sun. James A. Cowen formerly was a Boone county citizen.

The jury found the paper offered as the last will and testament of the deceased to be his will. His daughter, Mrs. Anna Cowen, wife of former representative C. B. Carver, of Gallatin county, was contesting the will, which included two nieces as beneficiaries.

The attorneys for Mrs. Carver were John L. Vest, of Walton, Frank C. Greene, of Louisville, and Robert B. Brown, of Warsaw. The attorneys for the two nieces were John J. Howe, of Covington, and J. H. Newman and Geo. B. Winslow, of Carrollton.

The trial of the case occupied five days, it being the second trial. A hung jury resulted after a trial of the case last year.

The county agent says the same old beetle formula is good. 1 pound of calcium arsenate, 1 pound of sulfur and 4 pounds of hydrated lime properly applied with a duster will do the work.

R. B. HUEY

SELECTED AS BOONE COUNTY MASTER FARMER BY COMMITTEE — WILL ENTER STATE CONTEST

A nomination committee composed of three leading Boone county farmers and business men selected R. B. Huey, Burlington R. D. 1 as the highest scoring farmer for 1930 and Boone county's nominee in the State Master Farmer Contest.

The committee and the county agent have been busy the past week getting complete information on Mr. Huey's farm work in preparation for the entry in the state contest. Mr. Huey is known Boone county over and all who know him can vouch for the wise selection of the committee and take pleasure in the honor that is awarded.

There were a number of farmers who scored high according to the state score card. These farmers were not divided into any one section of the county but were scattered throughout. The present plans are to select one Master Farmer each year. No farmer will be eligible for this position more than one time. Each farmer is scored on a number of points including soils management, crops, livestock, poultry, home life, business methods and etc. The high sixteen farmers of the state are selected and the eight highest scoring farmers are selected to receive special methods of award.

RIDE THE TOM GREEN

A. B. Renaker, Julius Smith and R. E. Berkshire were passengers on the Tom Green during the race with the Betsy Ann last Saturday afternoon. Jim Braascher and Jack Lindeburn, both formerly of Bellevue, were in the pilot houses of the Betsy Ann and the Tom Green, respectively. The Tom Green won the race.

POULTRY MEETING THURSDAY

All Boone county poultrymen are invited to attend the poultry fall meeting to be held Thursday, July 3rd.

The morning meeting will be held at Joel Gray's one-half mile from Burlington on the Florence road at 10:00 a. m. The afternoon meeting will be held at Grant Maddox's two miles from Florence on the Dixie Highway at 1:00 p. m.

Mr. J. E. Humphrey, field agent in poultry work from the College of Agriculture, will be present to discuss important diseases and other poultry problems. The county agent urges that poultrymen do not live with regret and be sure to attend these meetings.

CURBING THE GRAFTERS

President Hoover has signed the bill which provides for a Federal system of licensing dealers in perishable products.

The effect of this law will be to give the Government the power to regulate the business practices of commission houses and others doing interstate business.

This may prove to be of great benefit to the farmers of the United States as any other measure intended for farm relief. Every grower of commodities shipped to distant markets has had, at one time or another, experience with dishonest commission houses, at the terminal markets. Practices which are notoriously corrupt have been common. The individual shipper is at a great disadvantage when, instead of getting a check for his produce he gets a bill for freight and expenses with the calm explanation that the produce has been spoiled in transit, or sold on a glutted market, or that some other cause had prevented its sale at a price sufficient to cover the costs.

There are honest commission houses, of course. Probably the great majority of dealers in produce, livestock, poultry and dairy products do business as honorably as business is done anywhere. Their risks are large and they are entitled to profits proportioned to the risk. But there have been enough instances uncovered of deception and fraud on the part of commission houses to make such legislation as this necessary for the protection not only of shippers but of the honest men in the produce business.

The Federal Government seems to be the only authority which has a chance of cleaning up this situation. State and local authorities are not inclined to press the claims of farmers and shippers who pay taxes several hundred or thousand miles away, against their own citizens and taxpayer. The Federal Government alone can exercise authority over interstate commerce.

It is to be hoped that the machinery for the enforcement of this new law will be set up speedily and that it will operate efficiently enough to give the grower and shipper the assurance that whatever other causes may operate to keep him from getting the best price for his products, he will at least not be cheated by the agent to whom he has consigned them.

WHO ARE THE "RUBES"

It is about time the city people and the city newspapers quit referring to the American farmer as a

"Rube" and caricaturing him as a low-brow European peasant, only slightly Americanized by a set of chin-whiskers a la Uncle Sam.

The trouble with city-folk, especially in New York and elsewhere in the East, is that they get their impressions of the farmer, as of everything else, from European sources. Because the mass of people tilling the soil in Europe are uneducated, unintelligent peasants, tenants for the most part and tied to the soil as no American has ever been so tied, the city-bred, Europe-conscious people who have never penetrated any farther into America than the shores of the Atlantic Ocean think American farmers must be the same type.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. No individual or class of our people has been more prompt to apply new methods of science, new inventions, new ways of doing old things than the American farmer. The implication when he is referred to as a "Rube" is that he is a stupid, unprogressive person, content to do everything as his father and grandfather did it before him. As a matter of fact, practically nothing is done on American farms today the way it was done a generation ago.

One of the things that has brought about the change has been the development of the numerous Colleges of Agriculture. Nothing like them is known in any part of the world. Old-time farmers used to sneer at the idea that college could do a farmer any good; but the progressive farmers of today are practically all college graduates, and the leadership in every movement for the betterment of farm conditions comes from these schools.

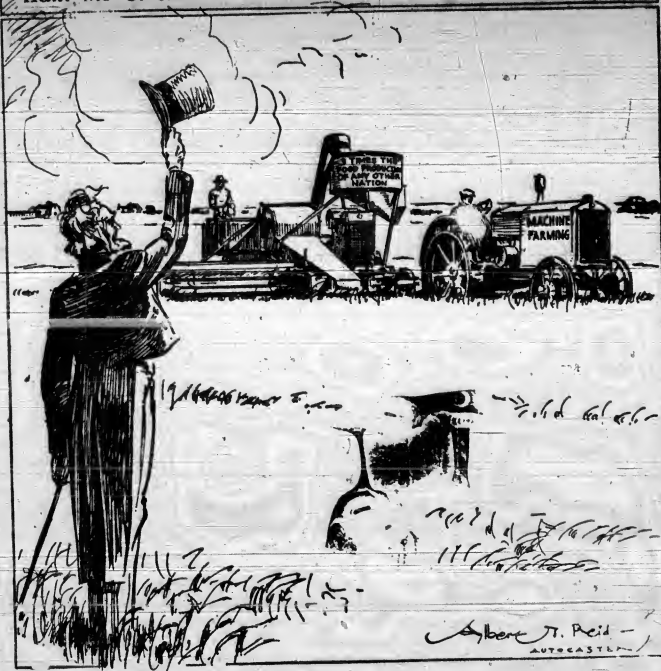

Our National and State departments of Agriculture have enlisted in their service—the service of the American farmer—more men of high scientific attainment, engaged in vital research into the manifold problems which the farmer must solve if he is to succeed, than are engaged in any other field of scientific inquiry. Our agricultural experiment stations have taught the "man with the hoe" not only new and better ways of doing things but the reason why they are better ways.

Instead of the inefficient, dull peasant, the type which stands for "farmer" in the city folk's minds, the American farmer has been too progressive, too efficient, if such a thing were possible. By improved and scientific methods he has increased production more rapidly than the demand has grown for his products.

The ultimate result of that will be, of course, that a smaller number of farmers will supply the Nation's needs. And the ones who will remain and prosper on the farms will be the ones best fitted by education and intelligence to do the job. And they will be even less like "Rubes" than the farmers of today.

Hail! the U. S. Farmer!

By Albert T. Reid

SEEDING IS NOW.

Late corn is another welcome part of any garden, and the choice lies among quite a few varieties. If taste runs to "roasting ears," any of the white dent varieties of corn may be used, although the part-Flint Hickory King is better. Among the sweet varieties only the short season sort should be planted as late as this. They are Adams, Minnesota, Golden Bantam, or the Golden Bantam crosses, Golden Giant and Bantam Evergreen. Planting time is now.

It goes without saying that, in replanting any portion of the garden, removing a seedbed and fertilizing should be done as well. A very good way is to use commercial fertilizer, as for instance, 3-8-6 or 4-10-4. The most efficient method is to broadcast the fertilizer in a strip about one foot wide where the row is to be, at the rate of 1 pound to 25 feet of row, and space it in 4 or 5 inches. 2 spades wide, the soil worked fine.

Later, that is to say, about August 1, will come the time to put in late greens and turnips. These could be sown where the early potatoes grew, and very little ground preparation beyond leveling, is needed. It is best to sow any crops of the cabbage family, as for example, kale, mustard and turnips, in rows rather than broadcast, to make easier the applying of controls for the lice, which almost always attack these crops. Spinach is not so much subject to louse attack, but it may be of advantage, even in that instance, to sow the seed in drills. The varieties are: Turnips, Purple Top Globe, and Seven Top for greens; Siberian kale, which is winter-hardy; and King of Denmark spinach, as the hardiest variety of spinach.

Turnips and greens are usually expected to get along on the fertility of the potatoes leave, but it is of distinct advantage to supplement this with nitrogen. Working in a light top-dressing of chicken manure, a bushel to 300 square feet, will help nicely, but, lacking chicken manure, nitrate of soda may be used instead. The rate of application is one pound to each hundred square feet, or each hundred feet of row. Nitrate should not be applied until after the crop is up, and then only just before or just after a rain.

Late gardens usually suffer from insect attacks. The insects are the same as those that infest the earlier crops, and their controls are the same, as discussed earlier in these

LIONS

There was one in my life when it seemed as if everything went exactly wrong.

The resulting accumulation of worries and problems loomed up like a range of mountains. It hardly seemed worth while to try to get on top of one of them because there were so many others beyond.

Wise old Talleyrand, when he could not see his way clearly through a difficult situation, used to take his bed and give out word that he was ill. It was his experience that many difficulties solved themselves if one only let them alone for a while.

Adopting his example, I went away for a couple of weeks and played golf. When I got back the troubles and problems had not disappeared, but I was a different man. I went down to the office, made a list of all of them, and decided to tackle the toughest one first. I cleaned it up in one day and started after the others.

An amazing thing developed. Some of the worst situations proved to be the easiest, and not one of the whole lot turned out to be worth half the worry I had given it.

The lesson was valuable. I ought to have learned it much earlier in life, for I had been given plenty of opportunity to observe the ways of successful men in such matters.

One of my first bosses made it a rule every morning to ask for the bad news first. He said: "I want to get the tough things off the calendar while I am fresh. I never deal with the same thing twice. When I pick up a paper from my desk I don't lay it down until it's settled. Procrastination is poison."

An acquaintance of mine is a prominent operator in Wall Street. Lasked once if it were true that at different times he has taken tremendous losses.

"Losses," he exclaimed, "I've taken millions in losses. Any man who tries to get through life without losses will never make any money. The trick is to take 'em quick and forget 'em. Amateurs worry about them in advance and brood about them afterward. The worry and the brooding break their nerve."

The Book of Proverbs, which said pretty nearly everything that can be said—and much better—has this verse:

"The slothful man saith, There is a lion without; I shall be slain in the streets."

Worrying about the lion, the slothful man is eaten by fear, which is a more terrible death.

The wise man steps out boldly. And more often than not the lion proves to be just a motion picture lion, with his claws cut short and his poor old teeth all gone.

columns. If these discussions escaped you, you may secure full insect control information, and for that matter, complete yarden information in Kentucky Circular 67, a copy of which is yours for the asking.

TO HOLD SHEEP

SCHOOLS IN JULY

The University of Kentucky and the Kentucky Accredited Purebred Breeders' Association will hold the third annual series of sheep schools the last week in July.

The announcement says that while the primary purpose of the schools will be to study breed type, selection and the judging of purebred sheep, yet the program will be varied to include practical management, covering all phases of sheep production, and should interest raisers of market lambs as well as owners of purebreds.

In addition to local breeders and members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture, instructors this year will include men from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, West Virginia, South Carolina, Texas and Kansas.

Prizes will be offered in judging, including a trip to the International Live Stock Exposition.

Sunday School Lesson

ABRAHAM—A PIONEER OF FAITH

Genesis, 12:1-5 13:1-13; 17:1-8; 18:22-23; Hebrews 11:8-10

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Variety will be found in the Sunday lessons for the coming six months. "Representative Men and Women of the Bible" is the general title, and three months will first be given to outstanding characters in the Old Testament. The aim is: To discover through study of experiences, attitudes and actions of representative men and women the factors which determine their characters, and to create in the pupil an earnest desire and purpose to avoid their mistakes, and to express in his personal life and in all his relationships their spirit and ideals in so far as these were in harmony with those of Christ. Since history is largely a matter of biography there will be at least a scanning of the progress of history as covered by both the Old and New Testaments.

Terah, the father of Abram, lived in Ur of the Chaldees, near the head of the Persian Gulf. It was a place of nature worship and Terah is named in Joshua 24:2 as one who "served other gods." Then came the urge to leave that area and proceed to the land Canaan. At Haran Terah stopped the journey and no further progress was made until after his death. Then the noble son, Abram, had it certified to him that Jehovah was calling him to leave all ties of kindred and nation that he might be the founder of a great people. Assuring promises were given of God's journeying blessings and that in time his progeny would be a mighty host. With such marching orders Abram started with his wife Sarah, and his nephew Lot. The journey of over six hundred miles brought them to the land that in after years became the tribal home of the Hebrew nation.

Read from Genesis 12 to 25 for the many fascinating details that are recorded. Both since and before the indicated, but this man of God was always ready to repent and turn back to God for forgiveness and further guidance. He was a comfortable man to live with, as is indicated in his great generosity to Lot when there was strife between the two sets of herdsmen. There must be no discord in the presence of the common enemy, so an agreed upon distribution of grazing land was urged and Lot was given first choice. Here the greedy youth over-stepped the bound as he took the well-watered Jordan region. Misery came later, for he kept pitching his tents toward the wicked city of Sodom and in turn lost all but his life as a result.

Intercessory prayer is a feature in the life of Abraham, as was shown when the Angel of Jehovah revealed that Sodom was about to be overthrown. Then Abraham gave himself unto prayer for the city and was able to have the terms of deliverance greatly lowered. Though the city was destroyed Lot was saved and the basis of Abraham's prayer was granted. Absolute obedience is indicated when the father took his only son, Isaac, the one through whom the great promise for the future must be fulfilled, to Mount Moriah—and was prepared to offer him as a sacrifice on the altar which marks the site of the Temple in Jerusalem. God does want us to place all on the altar, but he does not take things from us. Rather he wants us to be good stewards of that which we thus dedicate. The faith of Abraham is all the more marvelous when we observe that he went forth on a trackless journey. According to the Golden Text: "By faith, Abraham, when was called, obeyed to go unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance; and he went out, not knowing whither he went." Hebrews 11:8.

Early Garden Suggestions

THE LATE GARDEN

(By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture)

Most of us have spots and rows in our gardens that have been harvested, which if left to themselves may grow up in weeds that will reseed themselves, and in the mean time furnish breeding places for insects, to give trouble next year. Much better, is to replant such portions of the garden in vegetables to store for the winter.

Among the first, are the root crops, the beets and carrots. While it is true that spring-sown beets and carrots can be stored, the latter sown crop is better. The best varieties are: Chantenay carrots, and Detroit Dark Red beets. The sowing time is now.

Another item every garden should include is late cabbage. The best method is to set plants, about five weeks old, of the varieties Late Flat Dutch or Louisville Drumhead. If the matter of growing plants has been overlooked, a substitute way is to sow the seed in groups of 3 or 4 where the heads are to stand, and thin to one plant. The shorter-season sorts, as for instance Copenhagen Market or Golden Acre, had best be used. The time for setting or

For several reasons the two piece suit, is included in the wardrobe at all, has been restricted to spring and autumn. Dresses worn without wraps or with a thin silk wrap have been the usual choice for summer. With the jacket suit playing a leading role throughout the spring it is only natural to expect a continued interest in this sort of thing throughout the warmer weeks, and there is a place in every woman's wardrobe for at least one such costume.

The suit shown in the sketch today is of the last described sort and a more practical all-occasion suit for the more mature woman could not well be found. To make a costume of this sort at home requires no unusual dressmaking talents, while the cost of a ready made suit of the sort is unusually reasonable this season.

STAR GAZING

Now with the discovery of three more planets the spring planeting season is booming. How about calling one of the new planets "Hoover Prosperity"? You can't see it with the naked eye. Let's name another one "Farm Relief." That's far away, too. And if you think this is rather hard on Herb just glance over the prosperity parody read in the Senate by Mr. Blaise: Hoover is my shepherd, I am in want; He maketh me lie down on park benches; He leadeth me beside great need; He restoreth my doubt in the Republican party; He leadeth me in the paths of destruction for his party's sake. Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of starvation, I do fear evil; for thou art against me; Thy politicians and profiteers they frighten me; Thou preparest a reduction in my salary before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anointest my income with taxes; My expenses runneth over my income. Surely unemployment and poverty will follow me all the days of the Republican administration, And I will dwell in a rented house forever.

FRESH AIR CAMPAIGN SEEKS SUMMER HOMES FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

Offers of homes for applicants for vacations through the Fresh Air Campaign of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times have come in slowly during the first week of the campaign. A sharp rise in temperature in the city has caused an increase in the number of applications, making the need for homes greater than before.

Residents of Southern Indiana have invited nine boys and girls for country outings, to be entertained in six homes. Thirty boys will spend vacations at a Boy Scout camp in Nicholas county. The camp was obtained through D. W. Sharp, Carlisle scoutmaster, and Warren Fisher of the Carlisle Mercury. No Nicholas homes have been offered. Barren and Henry counties each have offered homes to three children, and residents of Mercer and Warren each will entertain two. Offers for homes for one child have been made by residents of Breckinridge, Garrard, Jefferson, Hardin, Hart Logan and Simpson.

Nine children already have been sent to vacation homes. Transportation was furnished for seven of these children, helping to reduce expenses of the campaign and provide vacations for more children if homes are offered. The Colonial Stages will carry children to and from vacation homes on its lines without charge, through arrangements made by Mr. Courtney J. Kamman, district passenger agent for the company.

Those who are able to provide a vacation home for a child for a week or ten days are urged to send their invitation either to The Boone County Recorder or to The Fresh Air Committee of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. Every child must pass a thorough physical examination before leaving the city.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

THE next time you start out on a shopping tour put a few pieces of candy in your handbag. Sugar is one of the world's greatest energy foods, and it's simply marvelous how a couple of pieces of candy in the midst of a long afternoon in the shops will drive away that exhausted feeling, giving you plenty of energy to carry on.

A Turkish towel placed in the bottom of the dishpan or sink will greatly lessen the chances of breaking fragile glass or chinaware while it is being washed. The glass and china should not be placed in the dishpan until it has been filled with as much water, of the desired temperature, as you need.

Holmes Talks on Victory of Dwight Morrow in New Jersey

By Fred Holmes
Washington Cor for Recorder

WASHINGTON—Between the two extremes of fanaticism, wet and dry, there is an overwhelming majority of conservatives, who, like the gentleman from Missouri, "have to be shown." Fanatical wets very promptly fell into the error of assuming that they were to be led into a glorious victory through the nomination of former Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow as the Republican candidate for United States Senator from New Jersey. They were altogether too prone to disregard a multiplicity of other elements which entered into the extraordinary majority for Mr. Morrow and attribute his victory solely to his statement that he favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment. There was no attempt to explain the fact that he carried dry as well as wet counties in New Jersey. They did not seem to perceive that Mr. Morrow has the confidence and admiration of the dry Republicans for the very reason that he is not a fanatic on the liquor question or on any other question.

A story is going the rounds which if true would indicate that Mr. Morrow, like all other men who have achieved greatness through specialization, has done so at the expense of mental predominance in other directions.

Whether the story is true or not scarcely matters. It is that Mr. Morrow was in New York and having finished his business there went to the station to take a train. One of the station officials, or somebody or other of importance, notice him searching through his pockets, ostensibly in quest of a lost ticket. The station official forthwith assured the grandfather of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., that he need not be troubled about the loss of his ticket; that his credit was perfectly good. Mr. Morrow is reported to have replied:

"Thanks very much, but that won't do any good because I have to have the ticket to find out where I was going."

Although this may be pure fiction it would be well for Mr. Morrow's host of friends and admirers to circulate the story. They might also recount his repugnance to shaving; how he is said to try to sneak out mornings without bothering with razors, and about his obvious inability to adjust his necktie where it should be tied. It is well known to his intimates that the Morrow ties seem always to miss his collar, for a usually concealed gold collar button is always in sight. They might go even farther and tell how he rarely manages to have on a collar which is not frayed at the corners. As a matter of fact, he is considered as careless about his apparel as is Senator Borah. All of which merely goes to show that personal popularity and political strength are not dependent upon freedom from absent mindedness nor upon sartorial immaculacy.

There is an impression here in Washington that New Jersey will reverse itself in matters political and that Mr. Morrow will be elected to the Senate. The thing that is not anticipated is that he will precipitately change his nature and become a renegade. His speech on the prohibition question gave no warrant for the assumption that if elected he would become a Don Quixote upon taking his seat in the Senate. He certainly has given no evidence of a disposition to charge windmills in chivalrous efforts to rescue mythical maidens from enchanters and ogres. He undoubtedly believes that the eighteenth amendment should be modified or repealed, and so do many others, but he evidently is not laboring under the delusion that he is the anointed champion whose strong right arm will carve out victory for the principles in which he believes.

President Hoover has just vetoed one of the most glaring political monstrosities ever submitted to a chief executive for his approval. Some years ago when the legislature of the State of New York escaped the theoretical control of the Governor and of the party leaders, it was said to be "running wild." Here at the Nation's capital Congress is said to be "going the A-bany bunch one better." The recently introduced World War Veterans' Bill was conceded by all other than the direct beneficiaries and the politicians seeking votes to the exclusion of every other consideration to be utterly defenseless. It would be difficult to match such a display of recklessness in legislation as that which marked the performance of the Senate in trampling under foot the recommendations of President Hoover and totally disregarding the warnings of the Treasury.

The President had put squarely up to Congress the unescapable increase in federal taxes which must have followed enactment into law of this recent veterans' bill, which even was pronounced unsound, inequitable, unjust and unfair by General Hines, the head of the Veterans' Bureau. Furthermore, the bill as drafted was not demanded or even requested by the American Legion.

Of course, no human being would deny those who risked their lives and impaired their health at their country's call, or to those who are dependents of those who gave their lives in answer to that call, a plethora of compensation—no monetary compensation whatever could be adequate—for their sacrifices. But the temptation to impose upon gratitude is great and there is a limit beyond which generosity cannot be carried without inviting calamity.

It was not merely a matter of putting through a bill which did not have the approval of the President. It meant legislation which would have increased governmental expense so enormously that the taxpayers of the country would have been forced to meet materially increased levies. It was conservatively believed to mean a deficit of large proportions in the Treasury of the United States. The passage of a bill by Congress which does not meet with the approval of the President is by no means a new experience. Very few, if any, Presidents have escaped the experience of a conflict of opinion with the legislative branch of government, as referred to by your correspondent two weeks ago. However, the passage of a bill which evokes, including its supporters, in and out of Congress, known necessarily cause a deficit in the Treasury in time of peace, is "something else again." The legislators have to decide—as they would seem to have done in this case—whether they are willing to go to the country with such a record.

Legislation for the veterans of wars is justly popular. The Nation owes a debt of gratitude to men who bore arms in its defense. However, except for specific instances in which red tape has worked an unintentional injustice the country has not been lagging in its matter of contributing to the support of disabled veterans or in generosity to the veterans as a whole. General Hines pointed out that the country is now paying $511,000,000 annually to veterans under the legislation now on the statute books. Commenting on the proposed bill, which was estimated to increase this annual expenditure from $102,000,000 to $225,000,000 in later years, as framed by the Senate committee, and even to more than $400,000,000 as passed by the House, General Hines insisted that the legislation proposed did not follow the time-honored custom of caring for the men whose injuries and disabilities are intractable to service for the country, but proposed to include those former service men whose disabilities have arisen since the termination of the war and which are not traceable to war service.

Of course, the country may, if it desires, pension every veteran of the World War and other wars, but it is General Hines' contention that the country should "cut the coat according to the cloth at hand." This is also the view of President Hoover and of Secretary Mellon. While the country should be generous to its dependents, at the same time it must consider the whole body of citizens and the resources of the government derived only from the payment of taxes by the people.

Rev. W. C. Calvert, popular pastor of the Lawrenceburg M. E. church will preach at the Petersburg M. E. church Sunday at 2:30 slow time. Dr. Calvert has recently closed a gracious revival in his home church, the membership consider it as the most outstanding in the history of the church. Public cordially invited.

Powers Conrad, of Walton, employee of the Kentucky Central Electric Company, is reported to be recovering satisfactorily from injuries received in an accident on the company lines on June 11th, when Mr. Conrad, with two other employees, David Roberts and J. D. Webster, came near being electrocuted. Mr. Conrad is still confined in a Cincinnati hospital, though the other two men have returned to their homes.

Rev. Sam W. Allen and family have moved to Walton where Rev. Allen has taken up the pastorate of the Walton Christian church. Rev. Allen has two months remaining at the Bullittville church before he will be able to give his full time to Walton, there being two Sundays in each month which he will be at Bullittville. He desires that it be made known that his telephone number is Walton 165, the number not being listed in the new directory.

We regret to announce the serious illness of John Aylor, of Florence, one of Boone county's most venerable citizens. We join his many friends in wishing for him a complete and speedy recovery.

Lieut. Edwin Duncan, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Duncan, graduated last week from the U. S. Naval Postgraduate school at Annapolis. He finished with exceptional honors and followed his graduation by matriculating last Saturday for a special course at Columbia University, New York City. The Recorder joins his devoted friends here in extending to him congratulations and best wishes.

Earl Cropper is spending his annual summer vacation here with his mother, Mrs. Lorena Cropper. He plans to resume his travels for the J. H. Hibben Company, Cincinnati, immediately after the Fourth of July.

The friends of B. T. Kelly who have learned of his illness, will be pleased to learn that he is recovering satisfactorily from a very serious operation for appendicitis in a Cincinnati hospital. He was stricken very suddenly last Friday morning and removed as rapidly as possible to Cincinnati, where the operation was performed immediately upon his arrival.

Last Thursday night relatives of George Blythe were very much surprised and concerned over his sudden and apparently very serious illness. However, with the best of care and attention, he is again able to be in town, though not feeling so well as before his attack.

Burlington Parent-Teacher Association will have a call meeting at the school building Thursday afternoon July 10, 2:30 p. m., to consider re-decoration of interior of the school building. All who are interested will please be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Arnold entertained about 85 friends with a party last Friday evening in honor of their daughters, Mrs. Eugene Randall, of Louisville, and Miss Lillie Arnold, of Detroit, Michigan.

D. R. Blythe and family, W. R. Cotton and family, Mrs. Lester McBee and Mrs. J. M. Botts took in the Post outing at Coney Island last Monday.

Misses Virginia Yelton and Lucille Rice, graduates of the 1936 class of the Boone High School, have entered school at the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A., where they are studying stenography.

J. B. Rouse, of the Florence pike, received a telephone call from Louisville last Saturday evening requesting the use of the Rouse mansion for the relief of a small boy in Ludlow who was reported to be suffering from hydrophobia. Mr. Rouse found that the stone was locked in the vault of the Peoples Deposit Bank behind the time lock and, therefore, it could not be reached until Monday morning. A report reached here later that the child had died.

A group of enterprising croquet players have done much needed improvements on their croquet court. Heretofore this croquet has been a daylight sport, but it is reported that efforts are being made to install lights so that it can be played at night.

New flooring is being placed in one room and the hall of the Baptist parsonage. O. S. Eddins and L. T. Clore are doing the work.

The graduating class of 1925 of Boone county high school held their annual outing at Split Rock last Sunday. All five members of the class attended the re-union and the day was heartily enjoyed. The members of the class are: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Maxwell, Mrs. Myrtle Offutt, Miss Martha Bush and Arthur Maurer. All still at Burlington, except Miss Bush, who makes her home in Elamers, Kenton county.

R. T. Stephens, of Rabbit Hash, was in town on Monday of this week and made the Recorder a business call. Mr. Stephens writes deeds and mortgages for the citizens of that community and obtained some legal blanks for these instruments while here.

HERE AND THERE

Miss Emma Cook, of Cincinnati, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Green.

Wilford Sullivan, who has employment in Cincinnati, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Sullivan.

Mrs. Sarah Carpenter returned home Saturday after a visit of several weeks with her brother Gamaliel Green and Mrs. Green, of Cincinnati.

Miss Marie Kirtley, of East Bend neighborhood, was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Acia last week.

Miss Wilma Aylor is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kelly.

Newspaper's First Duty

A newspaper is of necessity something of a monopoly, and its first duty is to shun the temptations of a monopoly. Its primary office is the gathering of news. At the peril of its soul it must see that the supply is not tainted. Neither in what it gives nor in what it does not give, nor in the modes of presentation, must the unclouded face of truth suffer wrong. Compromise is free, but facts are sacred. —Manchester (England) Guardian.

Defining "Gentleman"

"A gentleman" according to a definition by a writer in the Forum magazine, "is one who appreciates and respects the sensibilities of others." Bernard Shaw came close to that idea when he said, "A gentleman is one who never offends another unintentionally." —Exchange.

For Comfort in Sleep

A proper and comfortable sleeping position is important for rest and health. An excellent position is placing the right arm at the side and the body lying partly on the side and partly on the abdomen.

Bird Lifetime

It is believed that song birds average from 6 to 10 years of life, but they have been known to live longer in captivity. Small birds 10 years old are old. From records of banded birds few birds besides sparrows live to 6 years. Usually birds live only about 2 years.

Ancient Classic

The Diamond Classics were a reprint in a very small type of some of the earlier publications, such as Chaucer, Johnson and Shakespeare, and came into existence between 1820 and 1830. Whittingham of Cheswick had such type.

SEES HEAVY CLAIMS ON FUTURE BANKERS

American Bankers Association Official Declares That Banking Changes Creating Large Bank Systems Will Call for Broader Social Viewpoints.

Larger scale group or branch banking will inevitably bring a new era of banking organization and operations to the United States and bankers will have to develop "new conceptions, new administrative methods and new economic views," Rudolf S. Hecht, Chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association, recently told the members of the American Institute of Banking. The institute is the educational section of the association and he emphasized the point that the new era in banking demanded "that we must step up our education so that banking shall be fortified for new responsibilities."

What the Future Calls For

"We must broaden our social conception of banking," Mr. Hecht said. "Not only for the technical operations of the new banking must we fit ourselves, but both as individuals and as an organized profession we must charge ourselves with serious consideration of the social problems that are involved. Already we hear murmurs and fears and doubts as to whether the changes that are coming about in banking in the extension of group and branch systems do not constitute the beginning of a new financial movement, a monopolistic one, not only to the individual unit banker, but to the financial liberty of society in general. I am stating these things merely as facts that must be taken into consideration in our studies. "Public opinion cannot be ignored by any business, least of all by banking, which is admittedly semi-public in character and is, therefore, subject to special supervision by the constituted authorities. If banking develops tendencies that give rise to public fears, we must so conduct ourselves as to reassure all doubts. "For this is true,—that business succeeds only by serving society,—that no business can permanently prosper which does not both render service to the public and at the same time convince the public that it is rendering that service. Banking, therefore, must take cognizance of what the public is saying of this new era in its development. "It must be part of the technique of modern banking administration, whatever form our enlarged institutions take, to avoid the creation of monopolies, or even the appearance of such a centralization of financial power as to be able to exercise an undue influence over public or private finance or other lines of business. The public's right to the safeguard of fair competition must be observed. "Must Preserve Individual Initiative "It must also be an item of management that individual initiative and opportunity shall be maintained. If America has outstripped other nations in the distribution of the benefits of its progress, it is due to the fact that there are no barriers of social caste or business tradition against advancement for character, ability, and initiative. American business has learned that it serves itself best by encouraging by every practical means individual ambition and initiative, and hinders itself most by repressing or neglecting them. Competition for efficiency, both within an organization and between organizations, will prevent any institution from long enduring in which maintenance of opportunity and recognition of initiative are not controlling principles of management. As heads of the greatest of our financial and industrial institutions stand men who started from the humblest of beginnings. Through all the grades of executive authority and reward stand men in positions in keeping, generally speaking, with their individual merits. I personally see no reason for fearing that the enlarged banking organizations which the future may hold would necessarily supply future bank employees with any less opportunity for achievement than unit banking. "Again, a major consideration of administration in any multiple form of banking organization must be its public relations in every community it touches. Its foremost consideration must be actually and visibly to serve the economic upbuilding of that community. No system will be long tolerated whose local members work, or are suspected as working, to draw economic strength from one place to enlarge the financial power of another. The local unit bank has always been part and parcel of the communities where it lives—and no system can last which does not make it a major principle of operating technique to serve, and not exploit, the communities into whose business lives it enters."

Growth of Banking Education DENVER, Colo.—At the American Institute of Banking convention held here last month the growth in the effort among bank employees to provide themselves with banking education was shown by the fact, as reported by one speaker, that 12 years ago the institute had 80 study chapters, today 208, and that its enrollment in the study courses had grown from 11,000 to 45,000, or an increase of over 300 per cent. The graduates number nearly 14,000. The institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association through which bank workers are given instruction in theoretical and practical subjects relating to their business.

IF ICHABOD CRANE HAD A FLASHLIGHT

By JOHN O. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

WE ALL remember the story of Ichabod Crane and the headless horseman. There was the dark form by the side of the road—thundering hoofs on the Sleepy Hollow highway—and Ichabod fled in confused terror before this terrible monster. If Ichabod had only known that his hobgoblin was an inventive rival disguised with a pumpkin head, he would have had a good laugh and gone on with the business of vanquishing his competitor.

What Ichabod really needed was a modern flashlight. Then he would have discovered the trickster at once. Many business men need the flashlight of analysis to uncover the hobgoblins in their business and then they might sit back and laugh at their rivals who hesitate to investigate and learn the truth.

At this time, when business and banking are making strenuous efforts to have clear vision ahead, it is especially important that the power of research and analysis be employed to their fullest extent. When these twin brothers of good management have been pressed into service in all fields, I am confident, we shall see a further lessening of periods of stress. However, I believe business in general has learned the valuable lesson that any prosperity that is not leavened with a little adversity would not seem basically safe or sound.

RESERVE SYSTEM'S DIVIDENDS ANALYZED

Bankers Find Increased Payments to Member Banks Would Be Small Inducement.

Various proposals that member banks in the Federal Reserve System should participate more largely in its net earnings through an increase in the dividend rate above the present fixed 6 per cent "would be a very small financial inducement" to them, it is declared in a recent study of this subject by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. This shows the commission says, by a theoretical forecast, on the basis of the past six years, of additional earnings that would be distributed to member banks during the next six years under two plans introduced in bills before the United States Senate.

The Fletcher bill provides that Federal Reserve Bank earnings, after present 6 per cent dividends to members and completion of a 100 per cent surplus, should all be distributed as extra dividends to the stockholder banks," the report says. "If the earnings of each Federal Reserve Bank were distributed among its own members there would be no extra dividends in the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco districts during the next six years, but the other six Federal Reserve Banks would pay annual extras at the following rates: Richmond, 6.08 per cent; Atlanta, 4.09 per cent; St. Louis, 3.50 per cent; Minneapolis, 9.51 per cent; Kansas City, 5.43 per cent; Dallas, 4.83 per cent. "If the earnings were pooled and paid out to all members in all districts each member would receive an average annual extra dividend of .75 per cent. Under this plan no franchise tax as now would be paid by the Federal Reserve Banks to the Federal Government.

Another Plan Analyzed "The Glass bill would provide that, after present 6 per cent dividends, one-half the remainder should be paid to member banks as an extra dividend with the residue going to surplus and Federal Government as franchise tax. The average annual extras to members would be as follows: Boston District, 2.51 per cent; New York, 4.48 per cent; Philadelphia, 2.05 per cent; Cleveland, 2.09 per cent; Richmond, 2.28 per cent; Atlanta, 4.67 per cent; Chicago, 3.30 per cent; St. Louis, 2.02 per cent; Minneapolis, 4.75 per cent; Kansas City, 2.74 per cent; Dallas, 3.31 per cent; San Francisco, 1.87 per cent.

"If these extra funds were pooled the result would be an extra average annual dividend of 1.73 per cent for each member. Under this plan the system would still pay as now an annual franchise tax, amounting to $1,541,996 on the average. "By way of concrete instance, the report says, a member bank having capital and surplus of $200,000, therefore holding Federal Reserve Bank stock amounting to $5,000 on which it is receiving $360 under the present 6 per cent dividend arrangement, would with the addition of each 1 per cent to the dividend rate receive an additional income of $50 a year. "If each member bank will figure out for itself the dollar-and-cents gain it would enjoy we are confident it will be agreed that the gains are small as against the economic disadvantages which can be pointed out," it concludes.

Freed From Pain After Suffering Two Years

"For two long years I was in agony, the pains were so severe I lost much sleep and became very nervous, my limbs were swollen—I carefully followed advice rendered me by people who were supposed to know. I took medicine daily, but none seemed to affect my condition. "As time went on I became desperate, my kidneys were bothering me more than ever, my bladder had become weak, and I was compelled to arise many times during the night. Karnak was recommended and I decided to find out just what it would do. I have used several bottles and just what a glorious change, no one can ever realize. I have no pain whatsoever, my system is gradually becoming normal and I feel better than I have in years, I shall always praise and advise Karnak to anyone suffering from rheumatism."

WILLIE'S FIRST LESSON

Little Willie's father took him to Sunday school for the first time. On the way home in order to see if the youngster had learned anything of the day's lesson he asked, "Who was it that killed Goliath?" "I dunno," said Willie, "I was sitting on the back seat and couldn't see."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

SERIOUS WARNINGS

Headlines in the late newspapers announce that several citizens have become paralyzed from drinking "jake" or tincture of Jamaica ginger. This is a somewhat surprising conclusion, but, even science cannot know everything; we are learning day by day, often by painful and afflicting experience.

Of course, alcohol is the preserving agent in all vegetable tinctures. "Jake" is a medicine, pure and simple. It has no mortal use as a beverage; the gusher of this poison must expect to take the consequences.

The purpose of this letter to my readers, is, to warn against the use of any unnecessary thing. Life and happiness are too precious to be flung away in foolish habits. The man or woman without sense enough to obey the law of self-preservation—a law which dumb brutes recognize—must expect to reap the fruit of such serious folly.

Can legislation put sense in the head? Or would teaching be better? Can I compel my neighbor to abstain from being a hog? Must I imprison him for months and years in order to educate him? These are vital questions, capable of shaking the foundation of a republic. Wars have resulted from disputes over less vital things.

I shall never swear out a warrant for any man's arrest who does not interfere with my rights unjustly. But I have a right to say to my patient, my friend, my neighbor, "If you are no better custodian of your most precious possessions—life, health and happiness—than to fritter them away drinking 'jake' and corn whiskey, then take the consequences, and blame nobody but yourself." I might say that tincture of aconite would do a quicker, cleaner job for you—and save your family a lot of worry! I have no use for "jake" even as a medicine.

U. S. Needs 4-H Club Program In Adult Life Woman Jurist Says

Judge Florence E. Allen of the Ohio Supreme Court, addressing the members of the Fourth National 4-H Club Encampment said: "I am not a member of the 4-H clubs. I wish I were, but I am a member of the club of the United States of America. We can be useless members of the United States of America if we wait to, or we can count-in the club. I suppose there never was a time when America needed good club members as it does to-day."

Judge Allen pointed out the tremendous changes in our modern life due to mechanical agencies such as the radio, the automobile, and the airplane, but stressed the fact that even though the times have changed outwardly the same things are required of us that were always required of men and women.

"Sometimes," said Judge Allen, "I wonder if some of our forefathers were set down in the midst of all our modern improvements, what they would do. I believe Lincoln perhaps might be bewildered by the red and green lights and the flow of traffic, but he wouldn't hesitate in his answer if somebody asked him if the county commissioner should take a rake-off on a contract. While the outward manifestations of life change, the inner prerequisites of life never change. They are exactly the same from generation to generation."

"In the past, under the old kingships, the king owned the office. It was his private, personal property. The soul of America is expressed in a new doctrine. Under our Government, the office belongs to the people and not to the individual. Lincoln held office as a sacred trust. He judged every public measure by a moral test."

"What may happen to America depends on us, the members of the American club. We have abolished the theory of private property in public office, but you can't write liberty and send it out ready made. We must be active members of the United States of America as we are of the 4-H clubs, demanding that the great forces of head, heart, hand, and health operate to the fullest in this country as well as in the 4-H clubs. The attainment of this purpose every boy and girl here is called."

NAME HENDERSON MASTER HOMEMAKER

Mrs. W. E. Roberts, of Anthonston community, has been named one of Henderson county's master homemakers. She lives on a 265-acre farm which has been her home for 29 years. She has been married 37 years and is the mother of 8 children, six of whom are living.

Mrs. Roberts was secretary of the Parent-Teachers' Association two years, and vice-president of the homemakers' club three years. She was a member of a county political party committee in 1920. She was a Red Cross and Liberty Loan worker during the war, and always has been an active worker in school and community affairs.

Three of her daughters have taught school and the fourth is preparing to teach. There have been 4-H club members.

BOONE COUNTY POULTRY FIELD MEETING

A Boone county poultry field meeting and tour will be held Thursday, July 23rd according to county agent H. R. Forkner. The morning meeting planned in Burlington community program of work will be held at Mr. Joel Gray's just out of Burlington on the Florence road. The afternoon meeting will be held at Grant Maddox's just north of Devon on the Dixie Highway.

Brooding and housing demonstration will be seen at Mr. Gray's. Mr. J. E. Humphrey, field agent in poultry from the College of Agriculture will be present to discuss the relative values of the various housing and brooding equipments. The meeting will begin promptly at 10 a. m., and close at 11:30 a. m.

Disease control and artificial brooding demonstrations will be included in the afternoon program at Grant Maddox's. Successful brooding of chicks in large numbers, the raising of chicks that will live, grow and be healthy will be discussed by Mr. Humphrey. A general inspection of Mr. Maddox's poultry farm will be included in the program. The meeting will begin at 1 p. m., slow time and close at 2:30 p. m., slow time.

Never before in Boone county industry have poultry problems been so great and never before has so much proven and valuable information been available. The meeting is being held under the supervision of the College of Agriculture in cooperation with poultrymen who are demonstrating practices that have proven profitable. Every one interested in poultry work is invited to attend these meetings.

Soy Beans Make Hay Sudan Grass Pasture

Many Boone county farmers are wondering just what they can do for pasture at the present and for hay this winter. The answer for those who are facing such a shortage is Sudan Grass for pasture and Soy Beans for hay.

Soy Beans or Sudan Grass either may be sown any time within the next two weeks with good results. From a bushel and a half to two bushels of Wilson Black, Manchu or even Mammoth Yellow beans per acre will make good hay of excellent feeding quality to make up for the shortage in clovers, alfalfa, timothy and other hay crops. The inoculation of the seed and using two hundred pounds of phosphate per acre will help both the soy beans and the crops that will follow.

Sudan Grass may be sown for pasture. Sown at the rates of from 10 to 12 pounds per acre it will furnish more pasture than any other one crop. It can usually be grazed in about two weeks after being sown. It should be remembered that it is a one year crop.

The experienced farmer knows that full feeding of pasture and hay gives best results and that these feeds are the cheapest feeds that can be secured. We might consider the above crops pinch hitters. If properly used they will prove a valuable asset to those farmers who do not have sufficient pasture and hay to meet their present needs.

Seven Hardin county farmers are growing cucumbers to ship to a Louisville cannery.

FARMERS STUDY DAIRY PROGRESS

Marion county's progress in dairying was studied by 75 men and women from that and adjoining counties in a recent tour of farms of members of the county's dairy herd improvement association.

When County Agent J. E. Summers and local interests launched a dairy program in 1928 there were few good herds and only 12 purebred cows in the county. One hundred and twenty-nine purebred cows and 11 bred-for-production bulls were placed on farms last year.

The association is completing its second year and organizing for another year. Testing has eliminated many unprofitable cows. Ballard Thompson pointed out three cows as being all that were left of 45 purchased in one lot. The Thompson herd contains 21 purebreds and as many grades. Plans call for fifty 400-pound cows. A 60-foot silo holding 250 tons of feed attracted the attention of the visitors.

Dr. R. C. McChord, 40 years a dairyman, exhibited a cow that produced 410 pounds of fat in ten months. Owner of the first bred-for-production bull in the county, he showed the visitors an exceptionally fine young animal. He always has tried to own bulls that would increase production.

Tom Bagwell has a small herd of quality Jerseys. He entered the dairy business two years ago with grades, and then decided to begin over with purebreds. He joined the dairy herd improvement association with only one cow in milk.

On the John C. Peterson farm the visitors saw a modern 35 by 60 dairy barn with a capacity of 28 cows, and a modern concrete silo. Individual drinking cups increased the production of his fine herd, he said.

Practically all members of the dairy herd improvement association produce cream, which goes principally to a creamery in Lebanon. Marion county is cited as an example of dairy progress in Kentucky.

TREAT THE ROOST POLES FOR LICE

It is no longer necessary to handle chickens to rid them of lice, says J. E. Humphrey, of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. Black Leaf 40 applied to the roost poles does the trick. Simply pour a small stream on each roost pole just before the birds go to roost. The heat from their bodies will warm up the material so that the nicotine fumes will rise up through the feathers and kill lice.

279 HERDS ON TEST IN STATE

Two hundred and seventy-nine herds containing 4,728 cows were on test in the 12 dairy herd improvement associations in Kentucky last month, according to the monthly report of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

One hundred and ninety-seven cows produced 50 pounds or more of fat each, and 510 cows produced 40 to 50 pounds of fat each last month. Seventy-one cows were culled as unprofitable, and 29 cows and 10 purebred bulls purchased.

The Shelby-Henry county association led in production, with an average of 30 pounds of fat for the 43 cows in the association, 33 of which were dry.

The College advises farmers to feed grain to supplement pastures depleted by dry weather, and thereby keep up the production of their herds.

FREE BOOKS FOR EVERYBODY

Are you getting your share of free books? The Kentucky Library Commission will provide books for any person in the State of Kentucky to read at home.

Traveling library service is also provided. A traveling library consists of a group of fifty books selected according to the needs of the community or school to which it is sent.

A family group is a smaller collection of ten to fifteen books which may be borrowed by any family or community. You may choose your own books from lists provided for you.

These groups are especially beneficial to the communities which do not have access to public libraries.

The only cost to the individuals or the community is transportation charges to and from the Commission.

Reference questions are answered, book lists compiled and club programs arranged.

If you are interested in securing books for any purpose you will write to the Kentucky Library Commission, Frankfort, Ky.

This department was created to help you. The service is yours for the asking.

Eight pure bred boars have been placed on Monroe county farms and seven farmers have entered the state ton-litter contest.

Grayson county 4-H club boys and girls owning Holstein calves plan to exhibit their stock at the State Fair in September.

FEW CHICK LOSSES ON CLEAN GROUND

Sanitation enabled F. J. Love, a Kenton county poultry man, to save 4,000 of the 4,165 chicks which he hatched during March, April and May. At the age of 8 weeks his losses totaled only 164. He now has 1,600 pullets on free range, with very few losses since the chicks were turned out at the age of eight weeks.

Mr. Love has clean ground for range, and an abundance of shade. He follows the practice of moving the self-feeders to new ground every few weeks. By the use of self-feeders and by feeding mash he induces the pullets to eat heavily.

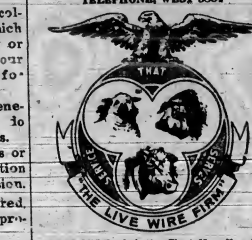

Last year Mr. Love's flock averaged 200 eggs a hen, and the year before that 215 eggs, with an average of 750 layers.

Allen Reid, a Daviess county farmer, is growing Australian winter peas in an effort to find a new and improved cover crop for orchards. The peas reached a height of 4 feet, in spite of the drought.

Seventeen Union county farmers have enrolled in a five-acre corn growing contest. The Morganfield National Bank will give a silver cup to the winner.

Pistol Wound Proves Fatal To Everett Stephens, of Walton; Succumbs Wednesday Morning

DISCHARGE OF GUN SAID TO HAVE BEEN ACCIDENTAL—DECEASED HAD BEEN ONE OF WALTON'S MOST PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN FOR MANY YEARS

News of the death of Everett Stephens, of Walton, reaches the Recorder just before press time. The numerous friends of Mr. Stephens throughout the county were shocked and grieved beyond description when they learned of the catastrophe which caused his death Monday afternoon. He had been talking with his wife and a lady caller at the front door, when he went into the house while his wife remained at the door. Within a few minutes a shot was heard and the two rushed into the house to find Mr. Stephens languishing with a serious wound in his head. The wound was said to have been inflicted accidentally.

C. Scott Chambers was called and the wounded man was hurried to a Covington hospital, where everything possible was done to save his life. He passed away, however, about eight o'clock Wednesday morning. Mr. Chambers was to return the body to the Stephens home at Walton, though funeral arrangements had not been made as the Recorder goes to press.

Mr. Stephens is survived by his widow and many other relatives and a world of devoted friends. He was 65 years of age and had been in poor health for some time. For many years he had operated a store at Walton, and other relatives have the profound sympathy of a host of friends in this section of the county, where he was well known, loved and admired by scores of people.

Deaths

MRS. LUE E. SCHWANDER

Mrs. Lue E. Schwander, wife of Elmer Schwander, passed away at her home 1281 Holman Street, Friday morning, the Fourth of July, at the age of 30 years.

Funeral services were conducted Monday morning at 10:30 at the Talliaferro Funeral Home, Erlanger, by Rev. Johnson, pastor of the Big Bone Baptist church, of which she was a faithful member, after which the remains were taken to Highland cemetery for interment.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by four little girls, the youngest five months old, as well as her father J. W. Arrasmith, two brothers and one sister, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

The pallbearers were Willie Porter, John Sullivan, Claude Arrasmith, Ben Slayback, Lawrence and Clifford Schwander.

PASSED AWAY

Mrs. G. M. Creamer, aged 59 passed away at the family home in this city Tuesday afternoon. Death was due to heart affliction.

Mrs. Creamer had been in frail health for the past ten years. However she bore her affliction bravely. Her condition gradually grew worse and the latter part of last week she became much worse remaining so until her passing as above stated.

She was a most excellent Christian lady, honored and respected by everyone. Those who survive are: her husband, two daughters, Mrs. H. A. Totke of this city, Mrs. T. A. McMahon of Kidder, Mo., one son John A. Creamer, of Louisville, Ky., and one half brother Z. T. Stevens of Boone County, Ky.

Funeral services were from the Baptist church in this city, Thursday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. W. D. McGraw of California, Mo., a former pastor at this church. Burial was in the Osborn-Evergreen cemetery. An obituary will be secured for next issue.—Lillian Ann Recorder.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church of Florence has selected September 6th for their annual chicken dinner. Tickets 75 cents.

B. T. KELLY

DIES IN CINCINNATI HOSPITAL ON JULY 4TH—WAS OPERATED UPON FOR APPENDICITIS JUST ONE WEEK BEFORE BURIAL SUNDAY

The immutable hand of death once more has reached forth in its unrelenting way and plucked from the garden of life one of its most thrifty and valued plants.

Two weeks ago B. T. Kelly was going quietly about his daily duties. Today he is lying in his last resting place. On the morning of Friday, June 27th, he suffered a sudden attack of appendicitis and was rushed to Cincinnati, where an emergency operation was performed. Complications of a serious nature set in and, though he had the best of medical skill available, he died on the afternoon of July 4th, just one week after the operation.

Benjamin Thomas Kelly was born March 30th, 1863. Though he was sixty-seven years old he still was exceptionally active and interested in his family and his work. His business of fruit growing and general farming he had developed to a high degree due to the fact that he was intensely devoted to the cause and very industrious. His principal characteristic, as pronounced generally among his fellowmen, was unique in his age, the universal comment being "Bennie Kelly attended strictly to his own business."

Although this might be termed an outstanding characteristic, he possessed many other rare qualities. He was a Christian man, and a man who at all times was loyal to his friends. If he entertained ill-will toward anyone he kept it strictly to himself, but, knowing him as he we have, we doubt if ever he did.

He was a member of a family of surviving him—James P. Kelly and Charles Sr. His father James P. Kelly also was a member of a family of thirteen, all of whom lived to manhood. He is survived by his widow, Ollie Mae Clare Kelly, one son, Frank, and two daughters, Mrs. Elsie Poston and Mrs. Alexander Yellon.

He was one of the few surviving members of the Universalist church in Burlington, with which he became identified many years ago. Funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the presence of an assembly of friends and relatives so large that many were unable to gain admission to the building. Rev. Robert Cummings, of Ft. Thomas, a minister of the Universalist faith, preached the funeral sermon with C. Scott Chambers, of Walton, in charge of the arrangements.

of Harley Sprague, Stahl and Stillman was the best for Francisville.

Rally Falls Short

While Joe Brady had his strikeout ball working elegantly he was unable to win his first start in the elimination series against the Woodlawn A. C. The fielding of both teams was clean and each nine jotted down 11 hits, but Bellevue's late rally of three runs in the ninth fell short just the necessary margin to tie the score. Bill Bradburn, of Petersburg, will be added to the Bellevue lineup in next Sunday's game, when they face the strong road team, Eddie Bakery.

NEW TYPE

OF HORSESHOE CONTEST SET FOR SATURDAY NITE OF THIS WEEK—TWO TEAMS OF TEN PITCHERS TOC ONTEST—LOOK THEM OVER, FANS!

Just to prove that the sport itself did not die with the termination of the tournament we cite the fact that there were between one hundred and fifty and two hundred fans on hand last Saturday night just to watch a few practice games of horseshoe. Some very exciting games were played and "a good time was had by all."

The changes in the lights were commended by all who pitched Saturday evening. The two lights that had "blinded" some of the older pitchers have been raised and no complaints from that source were heard.

By way of diversion, and to provide some sport for pitchers and fans during the interim between the close of the first tournament and the start of the next, a match game between two teams of ten men each has been devised.

J. G. Smith has consented to act as captain of one team with Aubrey Finn piloting the other. Both these men served as judges through the tournament just closed and, consequently, are thoroughly familiar with the capabilities of every man who contested in that event.

A coin was tossed for first choice and the teams were chosen after the manner of the old fashioned spelling-bee from the pitchers who competed in the last tournament. The first choice fell to Mr. Smith and he chose L. C. Weaver, Mr. Finn's first choice being W. A. Pettit. In other columns of this issue will be found the personnel of the two teams in order in which they were chosen. Two substitutes were selected by each captain in case a vacancy should occur.

Before the start of the match Saturday night each captain will draw the names of his players from a hat. The first name drawn from the hat from each team will pitch the game. It will readily be seen that ten games will be pitched of possibly 50 points each, although this may be changed to 25, changing opponents after the first round. Of course the team having the largest total score at the close of the match will be declared the winner.

This brand of horseshoe pitching is considered an innovation and naturally all fans will be interested to watch the progress of such a match. When referring to the names of the two teams on this page the reader is urged to bear in mind that the pitchers will not pitch each other as they are lined up there, but their opponents will be decided by lot just before the match starts.

That the match will be hotly contested is conceded, and of course some great games are sure to be the result as the contestants are very evenly matched.

MRS. MAGDALENA STAMPFER

Mrs. Magdalena Stampfer, aged 67 years, passed away at her home, Congress St., Erlanger, after a long illness.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Talliaferro Funeral Home at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Wm. H. Miller, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, Covington, Ky., after which interment took place in

HOT GAME

EXPECTED AT BELLEVUE NEXT SATURDAY, WHEN WALTON WILL CHALLENGE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP—NO UPSET IN STANDING LAST WEEK

Riding persistently along on Bellevue's swell the good craft Walton bowled over Rabbit Hash last Saturday in an effort to remain within striking distance of the league leaders.

Manager Glenn took the mound for Walton and breezed thru on the long end. Tossing them up for Rabbit Hash was our old friend of several years ago, the redoubtable Ben Black. To say that Ben was not what he used to be, many few teams ever made 11 runs off Black when he was in his prime. Rabbit Hash chalked up 6 markers while Walton was making 11, but observers said that the game was very lopsided.

That this game was a decided contrast to the one Walton will engage in next Saturday goes without saying. When they hook up with Bellevue it no doubt will be in one of the most "crossed" affairs of the season. Bellevue has yet to suffer a defeat, while Walton has been beaten only once and that by Bellevue earlier in the year. A victory for Bellevue would set them out in front by such a decisive margin that it would practically clinch the pennant for them, as the season closes on July 26th. On the contrary if Walton should win they would advance into undisputed possession of the top rung of the ladder.

This game certainly will be one for blood and a good forerunner of some of the warm combats that will take place in the elimination series that will start the first Saturday in August. After which will do the pitching for Walton with the Bellevue choice a bit uncertain, though it apparently lies between Rogers and Brady, either of whom is perfectly able to give Walton a battle royal.

Win Two—Lose One

In three battles on Friday and Saturday of last week the Petersburg team captured two victories and suffered one defeat. The two victories were a double win over Crescent Springs on the Fourth, while the defeat came at the hands of Hebron the next day.

In the holiday games two old timers turned in some classy pitching for Petersburg. Huey defeated the Kenton county boys by a 2-1 score, while Bill Christy handed them a shut out, though helped out by Carver in the latter innings.

The Hebron game was no pitchers battle, but both clubs did some effective slugging. Hebron led 8-1 until the eighth, when Petersburg launched an attack that netted five runs. Bob Hafer pulled a Ruthian stunt when he poled two home runs. Brown, Hebron pitcher, also was a hitting star.

BURLINGTON BOY WAS ON WAY TO CALIFORNIA, (KY.) TO PLAY BASE BALL GAME—SURVIVED BY PARENTS AND A LARGE FAMILY OF BROTHERS AND SISTERS

Charles Lenhof died at St. Elizabeth hospital, Covington, Monday as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident on July 4th. Charles, known better as "Chie," was on the way to California, Campbell county, with a group of young men friends, where he was to participate in a base ball game. During the journey the car capsized and Mr. Lenhof sustained an injured spine. No one else in the car was hurt.

He was rushed to the hospital in Covington, where an emergency operation was performed in an effort to save him, the effort, however, proving of no avail. Definite particulars of the accident have not been learned as we go to press.

Mr. Lenhof lived with his father on a farm near Burlington, which they purchased about two years ago, coming here from Erlanger. He was an exceptionally industrious young man and had a large crop under cultivation on their farm. He was well known throughout Boone and Kenton counties, especially among the base ball players and fans.

He is survived by his parents and a large family of brothers and sisters, as well as many other relatives and friends. Funeral services have been arranged for Thursday morning at nine o'clock with interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

HORSESHOE CONTESTS

Many Dallas P. coming Contests—Decide National Champions

A number of newspapers throughout the country are supporting horseshoe pitching tournaments in their localities, the winners qualifying for play in the national tournament to be held in Chicago Sept. 27, by the American Horseshoe Pitchers' Association.

Oliver Owen Kuhn, managing editor of the Washington, (D. C.) Star, which conducted the Congressional horseshoe tournament in Washington on Memorial Day, is chairman of the board of governors of the association which is made up mostly of managing editors.

Among the newspapers sponsoring local horseshoe pitching competitions are the Chicago Daily News, Detroit News, Des Moines Register and Tribune, Indianapolis Star (with other papers of The Star League); St. Louis Star, Pittsburgh Press, Concordia Blade-Empire, Paterson (N. J.) Evening News, Springfield Illinois State Register, Danville (Ill.) Commercial News, Worcester (Mass.) Telegram, El Paso Herald and Telegram, Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker Press and News, Cleveland Press, Milwaukee Sentinel, Louisville Courier-Journal, Cincinnati Post, Atlanta Journal, Columbus, (O.) Evening Dispatch, Buffalo Times and Hartford Times.

TREE HAS BANK BOOK

St. Petersburg, Fla., July 7.—A tree which has a godfather, a bank account and a given name of its own is growing in a public park here.

Myrica Cerifera Dreyer, the tree, is under the care of a trust fund of $100, deposited in a local bank, and has a passbook in her name for computation of interest and entry of additional deposits. Her godfather is James A. G. Dreyer, vice president of the Dreyer Tree Expert Co., of Kent, Ohio, who established the trust fund.

The tree should live several hundred years. At the age of 200 it will be worth $732,843.21 if no withdrawals are made from the trust fund have been needed. This represents accumulation at 4 per cent interest compounded semi-annually.

Mrs. R. H. Burkhart, of Petersburg, and Mrs. Robert D. Woodruff, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Burkhart, last Wednesday.

TAXING THE BILLBOARDS

The billboards along the highways of America have become a public nuisance. They are at their best an impertinent attempt to force advertising upon people during their hours of recreation. At their worst they are blots upon the landscape. One of the greatest blessings which the motor car has brought to the people who live in towns is that it provides a swift and easy way to get out into the country, to see the beautiful things which Nature has to show us. But when, instead of beauty the motorist sees on every hand huge structures advertising somebody's soap or cigarettes, frequently blocking the best and most beautiful views, half of the benefit of country motoring is lost.

It is not enough to denounce the advertisers who use the billboards. They would not continue to use them, doubtless, unless they found that it paid them to do so, though it is a very serious question whether the same amount of money spent in newspaper advertising would not bring larger results. The advertisers pay for the use of billboards, but they do not pay enough or to the right of people.

It is not enough to pay the owner of the land on which a billboard is erected, a more or less nominal rent for the space occupied. There are others besides the land owners concerned. The privilege of arresting the attention of everybody who goes along the road is in the nature of a public franchise, and should be recognized and taxed as such.

In France that is exactly the way in which the billboard evil is kept down to reasonable limits. The French government has adopted a sliding scale of taxes. It begins with $24 a year per square meter for the smaller boards, up to 6 square meters. That figures out about $2.25 a square foot, or around $400 a year for a billboard of the standard "24-sheet" size. But the larger sized boards in France pay at a higher rate up to $100 a square meter, or about $10 a square foot, for the largest. Some of the billboards on the main roads leading out of Paris will have to pay $16,000 a year each for the privilege.

That is a fair and equitable tax. It will keep down the number of billboards and those of which are permitted will contribute toward the maintenance of the highway along which they stand. New Jersey has begun in a modest way to imitate the French and levy a small tax on billboards. It is something which every state, county, township and municipality might well look into as a means of providing additional public revenue and at the same time doing something toward abating a growing nuisance.

THE COST OF ELECTRICITY

Ambassador Sackett, representing the United States in Germany, started something when he told the World Power Conference, just held at Berlin, that the average cost of electric current to the consumer is 13 times the cost of producing it.

Samuel Insull, the Chicago electric power magnate, tried to get Mr. Sackett to leave out that statement. On Mr. Sackett's refusal, Mr. Insull indignantly departed from the conference. All of which added to the publicity of Mr. Sackett's statement, and made it a subject of discussion everywhere.

Technically, Mr. Sackett is probably right. The cheapest domestic electric current supplied anywhere in America, we believe, is in Los Angeles, where consumers pay around 4 cents a kilowatt hour. But the actual cost of producing the current—the operating cost of the generating station—is something less than one-fifth of that. The same is true almost everywhere else.

On the other hand, the power people say, there are many elements of cost which Mr. Sackett did not take into account. The cost of distributing current, building, maintenance and operating pole lines and wires and the necessary transformers, etc., is undoubtedly several times the cost of the general current "at the bar." As electrical engineers put it, That is true of most commodities. Few manufactured products sell for less than four times the bare cost of manufacture; the rest of the retail price is the cost of selling and distributing the product. That has always been the case and always will be.

The important question is not whether the customer for electric power pays fifteen times the generating cost for his current, but whether that is a fair charge. Mr. Sackett apparently thinks it is too high. In view of the enormous profit made by some of the great electric power combinations, and the prices at which their water stock is held, most people will agree with him.

As the New York Times puts it, "There is always drama in the spread between the price which the farmer receives for a head of lettuce and the price that lettuce fetches when transformed into a salad on Broadway." When beef is selling for ten cents a pound on the hoof, it seems exorbitant for the diner in a restaurant to pay at the rate of $3 a pound for steak. True, the consumer is paying for service, in each instance; but is he paying too much especially in the case of electric power?

The discussion of this subject has become national, almost over night. Out of the discussion we may get the truth.

The Escape of the Good Old Stage

course is had to growing "trap crops" and destroying the fruit containing the "trapped" insects.

For the corn ear worm on tomatoes, sweet corn is the trap crop, for the insect prefers sweet corn, and the sweeter the better. But, for the sake of those gardeners who relish sweet corn this comfort is given. When silking out begins, the time at which the eggs are laid on the silks of the "trap" corn, a dusting should be given, with the following mixture: Lead arsenate, 1 pound, and lime, 4 lbs.

A second dusting should follow six days, and perhaps another six days later, if silking-out is much extended. Only the ears need dusting.

The "trap crop" for the pickle worm is bush squash, hills of which should be interspersed among those of the cantaloupes and cucumbers to be protected. A good ratio is 1 to 30. When the squashes reach the size of a door-knob they should be picked and if they are infested, destroyed.

More seed should be sown in the squash hills from time to time, so as to assure continuous bloom, that is, to keep the trap attractive. For squash lovers, not much reassurance of a clean crop is forthcoming, except to suggest that they grow their food-squashes early, for the ravages of the pickle worm seldom become serious until mid-summer. But, perhaps a crop of luscious cantaloupes will serve as recompense for the loss of a few squashes.

14 COUNTIES OFFER FRESH AIR HOMES

Residents of fourteen counties in Kentucky and seven families in Southern Indiana have invited children to spend vacations through the Fresh Air Campaign of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times.

During last week, invitations were extended to five boys and girls. Mrs. Ed. Crouch, Willisburg, Washington county, offered to entertain a girl. Two boys were invited by Mrs. Sam Jarvis, Leitchfield, who will entertain them at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. H. Willis, also of Leitchfield. Mrs. Harry Jewell, Lucas, Barren county, offered a vacation home to a girl, and Mrs. Charles Sims, Corydon, Indiana, offered the hospitality of her home to a boy.

Indiana has seven homes for ten children to its credit. Counties of Kentucky from which invitations

SEX

The headmaster of a preparatory school came to see me, and we talked about boys.

"What do you do about this sex business?" I asked him. "Do you have a course of lectures for the boys, or do you and the other masters talk with them individually? Or what?"

He shook his head. "No lectures," he answered. "I am on the black-list of all the Welfare Organizations and Social Hygiene Bands and Uplift Groups. They are always wanting to send speakers to us, and I refuse to let the speakers or, other, they all seemed to be cracked on this subject of sex."

"The last speaker who slipped by me talked about the Great Mystery of Life, and the Terrible Mistakes which boys make, and the Awful Penalties they incur. It was essentially a smutty talk, sweetened with moral prune juice. You could almost hear his lips smack as he delivered it."

"When he had gone, the boys appointed a committee to visit me."

"They said: 'Sir, we know all these things. We are gentlemen, and we are uncomfortable when they are talked about. Please do not embarrass us with any more such speakers."

If you were to get all your information from looking at motion pictures or attending Broadway shows, or listening to Social Uplifters, you would conclude that the U. S. has gone sex-crazy.

As a matter of fact, I am convinced that the two following statements are absolutely true:

First: Contrasting the U. S. with England under Henry the Eighth, which was only four hundred years ago, Greece or Rome, which represent the highest civilization of ancient times, there is no question that life today is a hundred times cleaner, more wholesome, and freer from dirt.

Second: The two great interests of this country are business and sports. Compared to these two, sex is a very weak third.

The longer I live the more confident I have in the natural ingrained decency of men and women, of boys and girls. And the more I dislike the folks who are so professionally eager to guard, correct and improve them.

POULTRY MEETING WELL ATTENDED

The two poultry field meetings held at Mr. Joel Gray's and Grant Maddox's last Thursday were highly profitable and well attended according to county agent H. R. Forkner.

Demonstrations of better housing, brooding and laying equipment were seen at both meetings. Mr. J. E. Humphrey, poultry field man, explained the principles of a clean chick program and the reasons why a clean chick program is more necessary in the future than it was in the past. The poultrymen who took time from their regular farm work to attend the above meetings were well paid.

Sunday School Lesson

JACOB: A SELFISH MAN TRANSFORMED
Genesis 25:19-34; chapters 27-33; 46:26-47:12

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Human nature is just the base wish which to start in building a worthy character. Even very poor material can be worked over and if there is real quality still more may be accomplished. Often the attitude must be changed from that of self to service. Twins come into the picture as we observe the sons of Jacob and Rebekah. Esau and Jacob mix things up right royally in that home circle for many years. The trouble starts with a marked expression of favoritism by the parents. Each loves especially the offspring who is most their very opposite. Jacob favors Esau and Rebekah seeks the best things for Jacob.

Esau is the plain, matter-of-fact plodder who is circumvented by the more aggressive younger twin. Jacob in his ambition has been envious because the birthright went, by the incident of birth, to the older brother. Esau did not give much concern to the fact that he was to be the patriarch in his father's place and the double portion of the inheritance did not seem to affect his thinking. Jacob wanted position, and was alert to make the most of his opportunity when his hungry brother, returning from the chase, completely fatigued by his fruitless efforts, begged for a bowl of the lentil-beef stew that was in process of making. Here was a case of being ready to give up every future prospect and advantage for the sake of immediate gratification. The bargain was made and Esau swore away his birthright distinction for the sake of a full stomach right now.

The climax in trickery was reached when, by the help of his mother, the father Isaac was fooled into giving a special blessing to Jacob when he thought that hairy-armed Esau was kneeling before him. After that safety depended on quick flight from home and the mother helped to plot a wedding as she hurried Jacob to the land of Haran, whence she came as the bride for Isaac.

Romance began even before the home of Laban was reached. There was love at first sight when the young man saw Rachel, the daughter. By a great feat of strength the stone was rolled from the spring and courtship began. Since the prospective son-in-law had nothing to offer but work he bargained with the father for years of service with the flocks. Then trickery began for Jacob and he was amazed to find that the older daughter, Leah, had been given as the wife. A further agreement was made for Rachel at the cost of seven more years of work without wages, and Jacob did not falter because of the love he had for Rachel. Read all the context for an account of the twenty years in Haran.

Plans are made for the return to his homeland and fear is intensified when the caravan is about ready to meet Esau, who had been so grossly wronged. A character-changing crisis was faced that night when none than the Angel of Jehovah wrestled with Jacob, who clung to Him for a blessing that was granted with the breaking of the day. The new life in prospect is marked by a change in name and Jacob, the Supplanter, was henceforth known as Israel, the Prince who had prevailed with God. Esau was pleased with the costly presents which reached him in four sections of the caravan and gave full pardon to his twin brother. Jacob had indeed won favor with God and men and has place among the noble patriarchs of Israel. Thus, from uncertain material God made a truly great man.

Early Garden Suggestions

MIDSUMMER GARDEN PESTS
(By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture)

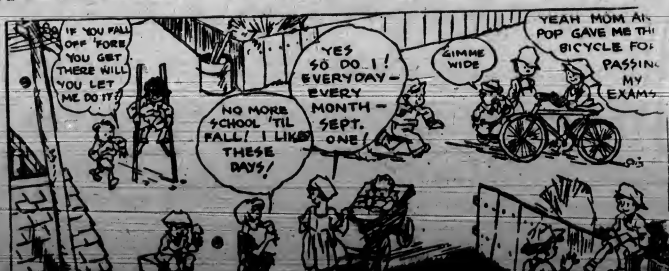

Although practically all insects may be called "mid-summer" pests, for almost all of them stay the summer through, there are two rather special insects that deserve special mention at this time. They are the pickle worm and the corn ear worm. The former bores holes into cantaloupes which thereupon become sour. They embed themselves in the flesh of cucumbers and squash, and attack them do not destroy them, they make vigilance necessary in preparing them for the table. The corn ear worms are responsible for the messy appearance of the ears of the sweeter varieties of garden corn. The same insect eats holes into tomatoes, especially the early fruits.

In their adult stage, both these insects are moths, and, because they do not feed on the plants on which they lay their eggs, it is not feasible to attempt to control them, as adults. At the same time, the manner of feeding of the larvae, the "worms" that do the damage, renders ordinary poisoning measures unsuccessful. Re-

PINKY'S VACATION BEGINS

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

N. E. Riddell and wife spent their fourth in the city, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Piper.

Mrs. C. A. Fowler's father, Mr. Logan, of Athens, Ohio, and her sister, Mrs. E. C. Walker, of Cary, O., are her guests.

The Burnetts came out from Cincinnati, on the fourth, and played two interesting games of ball with the local team, winning in the morning by a score of 6 to 5 and losing in the afternoon, by the same score. Last Saturday afternoon the Burlington and Hebron teams played an intensely exciting game, ending in a score of 6 to 5 in favor of Burlington. Tanner and Gordon did extra battery work for the visitors and received good support. Slayback at second and Hughes at short did good work for the home team, the latter making a running left hand catch that was wonderful. Newt York, who was hobnobbing, was in the game considerably at critical times. There were several very close decisions, and as a consequence some scuffling, but not of a serious nature. "Daddy" Cloud played first for Hebron in his old style form. The game Saturday was the fourth that Brady had pitched that week and for the first three or four innings Hebron made all their scores off him.

Gunpowder

Miss Millie Beamon of Limaburg, is seriously ill.

C. E. Tanner sold to John Aylor a few days ago a mare and colt. Price $165.00.

E. O. Rouse has the largest crop of grain in this neighborhood. He estimates his crop of grain at 600 bu. off of about 20 acres. He fertilized very heavily last fall, which accounts for it.

Geo. Barlow lost a valuable horse last week of lung fever!

Verona

Miss Lizzie Roberts and niece Miss Della Roberts, are enjoying a visit to relatives and friends in Illinois.

Mr. G. W. Watkins has just completed a lovely barn for Jeff D. Powers and sisters on their farm. From the work we consider Mr. Watkins a fine mechanic.

R. O. Powers has rented a telephone.

FORTY YEARS AGO

A friend sends us the score of a match game of base ball played near the present site of McVile 20 years ago. At that time the writer was enjoying the halcyon days of boyhood and participated in the game. The score sheet shows the names of the following players who took part: Jas. H. Herick, Big Bill Williamson, Harry Steele, Stile, — Emphing, N. Lowery, W. Moody, on one side and W. L. Riddell, C. G. Riddell, William Walton, Jesse Moreland, Les Morris, Babe Sullivan, Thos. Baldo, James Carpenter and Ed. Rice on the other. Of the last named, five are numbered among the dead.

Billy Terrill, a steppor belonging to J. W. Berkshaire & Co., of Petersburg, won his race on the 4th inst., at Oakley—time 2:29. Col. Dorsey, belonging to Jacob Platt, of the same neighborhood, won his race the same day in Indiana—time 2:32.

W. J. Rice's force of workmen will commence building a new residence for W. L. Rouse in a few days.

Bellview

Miss Nellie Arnold, one of Carroll county's attractive young ladies, is the guest of the Misses Arnold.

Michael Nolen former toll gate keeper of the first gate east of town, has moved to Aurora. Dan McCarty being his successor.

The following couples of young folks visited the celebrated Big Bone Springs last Sunday: Duke Rice, Gracie Walton, Frank Huey, Nellie Arnold; Ome Rogers, May Brady, Hubert Brady, Anna Belle Walton, Doll Walton, Emma Moody, Ott Scott, Corda Arnold, Ernest Walton, Miss Stevens, Al Rogers, Viola Huey, Bert Arnold, Mary Huey. We don't know why Ed. Botts didn't go.

Limaburg

Miss Rosa Utz, we are glad to report, some better at this writing.

...Otha Rouse is getting along nicely with his studies at school at Springfield, Ohio. He expects to remain about two months longer.

Miss Florence, of Covington, is visiting relatives here.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Church Clore brought to town last Friday a blackberry briar 16 feet long. It was this year's growth.

The first colored jury that ever sat in Boone county's Temple of Justice was empaneled there Tuesday, Anderson, a colored man, was the defendant, the State the plaintiff—charge, assault and battery. The prosecuting witness was a white female and an inmate of the Poor House, Green for the Commonwealth and Tolin for the defense. Fine, $5 and cost.

Charles and Chastine Fowler spent their fourth at Milan, Ind.

Miss Kate Hall has returned from a visit to friends in Ohio.

The Middle Creek Universalist church has purchased a new organ. It was dedicated last Sunday.

Petersburg

The two oldest inhabitants of the district are Robert Mosby, white, age 98, and Guey Early, colored, age 95.

Gen. Jack Carson and staff attended the Cincinnati Convention. The Gen. would not allow his name to be used in connection with the Presidency.

We have in this district an old negro woman that does not know exactly how old she is, but says she was here when Lumbus came.

Dr. Jonas Terrill and family, of Bullittsville, stayed one night in Petersburg last week, the guests of Mr. William Smith.

Plattsburg

Your readers will not be surprised if this article should appear a little fishy. A party from Middle creek spent the day last Saturday on the banks of Woolper, and carried away a nice lot of fish. Mr. John J. Berkshire has caught some very fine bass. He is the acknowledged champion fisherman in the management of the minnow on the hook. A great many others are.

Hastily bathing, Patiently waiting, For a bite, From early morn Till late at night.

BIG BONE.

Ray Sparks and wife entertained several of their relatives Sunday.

G. W. Kite visited Dr. Ryle in Walton the first of the week.

Robt. Allen and Miss Emma Glor attended the Sunday school picnic at East Bend on the 4th.

Joe Moore, wife and four children of Akron, Ohio, are visiting Conner Carroll and family.

Dick Dudgeon visited relatives in Indiana the week-end.

Mrs. Leslie Moore visited her sister Mrs. Everett Wolf in Florence on the 4th.

Rev. Hampton Adams and Mrs. Adams and two children of Frankfort, were visitors of Harry Adams—last week. They returned home Saturday.

Edward Hamilton and wife and Geo. Glor and family of Covington, were guests of relatives here the week-end.

Mrs. Wayne Adams is visiting relatives in Dayton, Ohio, this week.

C. B. Alphin, a real estate dealer of Covington, was a pleasant guest of his sister, Miss J. M. Fennel Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith of near Verona, were guests of Mrs. Sallie Hughes and family this week.

GUNPOWDER

Mrs. Mollie Rouse is on the sick list.

H. F. Utz and wife entertained several of their city friends last Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Tanner was the guest of Mrs. Florence Floyd Sunday.

Ab Robbins and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Snyder near Union last Sunday.

A Mr. Riley, of Covington, is building a garage on the Lassing subdivision and probably there will be some new residences built in the near future. We will not have to move to town—the town is coming to us.

Harvest is on and a very light crop of hay is being harvested, probably 40 per cent of normal.

Mrs. Lizzie Bartell, of Florence, spent a couple of days last week with her brother J. H. Tanner and Mrs. Tanner.

A nice shower of rain fell here last Sunday night.

A large Chesterwhite hog came to Harry L. Tanner's farm several days since and he would be glad for the owner to come and get him, as he is causing him some trouble.

G. W. Watson, a Grayson county farmer, received $200 for three 8-month-old calves which he fed grain while they were running with their mothers. They consumed 2,190 lbs. of shelled corn and 200 pounds of cotton seed meal. Their dams were cows that would ordinarily sell as canners, but their sire was a purebred Hereford. "Grayson county, with cheap pastures, can produce baby beef with a small investment," comments County Agent H. S. Patterson.

Combining two figured materials in one ensemble is a difficult business, not because in theory the idea is not sound, but because of the difficulty of getting two figured fabrics whose tones are all in harmony. It is like serving two elaborate made dishes in the same course at dinner. It can be done, but it is difficult to get just the right combination of flavors in both concoctions.

One way to achieve good results in combining the two sorts of figured materials is by using two different sorts of fabric in the same design and color, and in most stores where material is sold by the yard it is possible to buy chiffon and crepe de chine to match which may be used in a variety of ways.

Chiffon and taffeta printed in matching colors and design may be used for evening ensembles—the chiffon for the dress and the taffeta for the short jacket or crepe, which is such an indispensable addition to spring and summer evening clothes. The picture shows such a combination.

Fifty-one Owen county farmers delivered 18,000 pounds of wool to the Kentucky Wool Growers' Cooperative Association at Lexington.

Four portable lime crushers, one owned by the State, ground 1,720 tons of limestone for 28 Christian county farmers last month. County Agent W. E. Weidburg reports. A Hopkinsville quarry sold 300 tons to farmers, making a total of 2,020 tons used in one month. Many farmers applied lime to corn and tobacco land.

HEBRON

John T. Aylor has not improved since our last writing. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Otis Aylor is nursing John D. Aylor, of Florence, who has been very ill.

Miss Nannie Lodge spent several days last week with Miss Louise Lodge, of Ludlow.

Mrs. Parker Hollis (nee Rubie Walton) was taken to Christ hospital last week where she was operated on for appendicitis.

Mrs. Leslie Baker, of Ludlow, and Mrs. Nan Baker of near Limaburg, spent the 4th with Miss Alberta Baker.

The lunch given for the Lutheran base ball team last Friday evening was well attended.

Funeral services for Mr. Webb Riggs was held at his home last Friday at 2 p. m., with burial at the Hebron cemetery.

Dorothy and James Conner are the proud owners of a Shetland pony, which their father Hubert Conner, purchased for them last week.

FLICKERTOWN

A light rain fell here last Sunday night.

Carl Johnson and wife called on this scribe several days last week.

F. M. Voshell wife and son Leslie and J. W. White attended church at Rising Sun Sunday and dined with Peanell Voshell and wife at Aurora.

Clarence Bell and family and Mrs. Mae Snyder of Latonia, were dinner guests of Wilbur Snyder and wife Sunday.

The Voshell reunion was held at Pernel Voshell's Sunday at Aurora. Mr. Johnson, the game warden, was here one day last week.

Flickertown had a safe and sane fourth. No accidents from fireworks or fire.

P. M. Voshell has a fine lot of transparent apples for sale.

Carl Johnson was bitten by one of his dogs Saturday evening. Nothing serious.

Wilbur Snyder and wife called on Bates Moore on the 4th.

Sarah Bernhardt, great French actress, was born a Jewess, baptized a Catholic; by birth she was French and by marriage she was Greek.

Carthage in Mythology Tradition has it that the actual founder of Carthage was Elisha, a king's daughter, who took the name Dido, which meant refuge. According to Virgil, Aeneas, escaping from burning Troy, stopped at Carthage on his way to Italy, where he was to found the line of Romulus. Dido, according to the poet, fell in love with Aeneas, and when he sailed away he saw the smoke from the funeral pyre in which she burned herself.

On the Sky Ceiling

The sky ceiling now means the lowest layer of clouds. Aviators, and particularly those using gliders, must study the weather, especially the clouds, like any old-time shepherd. Cumulus or white wool-pack clouds form at the top of a rising column of hot air. A glider reaching this column can rise on it and hang suspended just below the sky ceiling where the hot air condenses into clouds. St. Nicholas.

TURN new glassware in pastel shades of topos, rose, green, amber or amre, is lovely for serving food beverages on the porch or in the garden. The pitcher, glasses, plates, and dishes for cakes, sandwiches, candy and lemon, may all be had in the same shade, either etched or plain.

Children who protest against eating carrots may develop a liking for this important vegetable if it is prepared as follows: Scruple new carrots, cut in pieces about one-fourth inch square, boil in salted water until tender, drain, place in pan, and brown lightly in butter, with sugar sprinkled over them to make a glaze.

Senate Breaks All Records In Many Respects, Says Holmes

(BY FRED HOLMES)

Washington Correspondent for The Boone County Recorder

Washington—Predominating in interest at the Capitol this week is the unprecedented Congress on a muddle. Usually the House is the champion political bean-spiller, but thru-out the session about to pass into history, and particularly as it nears its end, the Senate is generally thought to have broken all records for individual and collective inanity.

For open hostility toward every Presidential recommendation; for flagrant opposition to every Presidential appointee; for abject abstinence to already overfed industrial babies demanding increased rations; for utter indifference to the protests of those who pay the bills; for timid servility in responding to the appeals of an organized minority element of an electorate; for manifestly hypocritical sympathy for war veterans whose "disabilities" are not only not traceable to their service but are provably attributable to vicious habits since their discharge, and for Heaven only knows how many other selfisms, the Senate now expiring without regret not only "takes the cake," but walks away with the whole bakery.

Manifestations of the popular disposition to single out the Senate for derision and denunciation are numerous and diversified. They not only imbue editorial columns, tinge all public utterances and pervade private conversations, but tincture the nightly radio political discourses and provide a regular feature of the vaudeville stage.

A story has gone the rounds that the reason the Senate threw out of the Senate wing of the Capitol the new dial telephones was because so many senators caught their heads in them, and those who heard or read this quip actually chortled with glee. Another illustration of public sentiment is the response which the imitable Will Rogers gets to his wisecracks about the Senate. The other night he inquired, "Why is it that I can't even mention the Senate any where without somebody busts out laughing?" Will went on to say: "The way for Mr. Hoover to get what he wants from the Senate is to tell them he don't want it. Then they turn right around and give it to him."

Unbelievable as it seems at the present moment, Senators take themselves seriously, and the wide dissemination of this sort of stuff bores them exceedingly. They, and those who for personal or partisan reasons have supported them throughout the session, are particularly exasperated when an unfavorable contrast is made with the House. For instance, a few days ago the House was applauded for its action in reversing itself in sustaining the President's veto of the World War disability bill, and there was forthwith burning indignation in humiliate Mr. Hoover and among outside sympathizers with that objective.

The Senator is now more than ever before the people's man. Stripped of the ancient dignity and glory of his office, nominated at a primary election, he must take the stump, subject himself to the abuse and vilification characteristic of our popular elections, and be more than ever a politician with a record which appeals to the crowd, which cares nothing for statesmanship, culture, or wide experience in world affairs.

Had some prophet, or a son of a prophet, or a seventh son of a seventh son, or any one claiming ability to read the future, foretold to the little group of men who formed the Senate in the days of... Washington that the time would come when it would be a common occurrence for a candidate for a seat in that dining table body to spend $250,000 to $500,000 in the attempt to persuade the voters to elect him, the prophet would not only have been declared a false one but a man bereft of his senses.

What would they have done if, as they sat behind their closed doors deliberating whether to confirm or not to confirm Washington's appointees to the bench of the newly created Supreme Court, they had been beset with advice from judges, Governors, bar associations, had such things existed; from friends of the Negro and friends of labor as to what they should do. But times have changed. Senators are elected by the voters, and why should not the people, or such part of them as see fit to speak out, tell the Senate how to behave as the legislatures used to do?

To at least partially offset indignation and amusement over the antics of the once "greatest deliberative body in the world," comes the gratifying announcement by Secretary Mellon that the Federal Government closed the fiscal year on July 1, with a "satisfactory showing." Secretary Mellon in a formal statement announced that there was a surplus of $180,000,000. At the same time the surplus was characterized by Mr. Mellon as abnormal because $76,000,000 of the total amount was due to the fact that foreign governments made payments on their foreign debts in June in "cash" instead of in government securities. In the latter case the payment would have been devoted directly to debt reduction. Abnormal customs receipts, due to the anticipation of tariff legislation, likewise contributed to the larger-than-expected surplus.

Last January one of the leading farm journals made an editorial announcement addressed to farmers as human beings. It must have come as a pleasant shock to people accustomed to being approached as producers, as a class sadly in need of government help, as unenlightened children in the national family. The farm paper proclaimed a change in its own point of view to reflect the altered feeling of its million and a half readers. It will hereafter recognize that farmers and their families have "interests and capacities" that they are even more anxious to develop than their material interests and capacities.

Apparently the farmers are wary of their position in the social scheme. For so long a time that the attitude became traditional, they strove for happiness for concentrating on the land which was theirs or which they hoped to own. When agricultural colleges offered instruction on ways of improving the soil, increasing the crops, scientifically breeding and husbanding cattle and hogs, they absorbed knowledge as the desert takes up rain. Agricultural schools have been and still are filled with eager students and enthusiastic teachers, and the farmer has learned to produce. He will not drop what he has acquired, but if present indications are a true forecast, he will stop thinking that his whole aim lies in working hard, saving, owning his own farm and producing as much as he can.

In naval limitation, as in other fields of human activity, it would appear, everything depends on whose ox is gored. For many weeks past officers of the United States General Navy Board, in response to questions directed at them by Senate committees, have been airing their objections to the London treaty. They declared it in many respects injurious to the interests of the country.

A few weeks ago a high officer of the Japanese admiralty staff committed hara-kiri in protest against the pact on the ground that it seriously imperiled the national security of Japan. Now the Great Britain's principal naval dignitaries, Admiral Earl Beatty and Admiral Viscount Jellicoe—heroes of Jutland—and all the London agreement hip and thigh from Britannia's standpoint. The one-time mistress of the seas, say Beatty and Jellicoe, is hopelessly compromised by the treaty.

It will occur to a good many Americans, who are neither blind partisans nor unreasoning opponents of the London treaty, that, under the circumstances, it must be a pretty good treaty after all. If each of the high contracting parties to a bargain feels that the other fellows have "trimmed" him, the law of average—applied to such a situation—is that fairly even-handed justice has been done all around. That is the purpose of an international conference.

Leave It to Nature

Walking is a natural function, and should not be forced upon an infant. Premature walking strains the legs and feet and causes foot deformities. The average child will learn to walk when the feet and legs have become sufficiently strong.—Exchange.

Wooden Arrow Shaft Best

An arrow with a metal shaft may be shot with accuracy, but not so consistently as the wooden shaft. The reason is that the metal shaft does not have the power of recovery that nature has put into the well-seasoned Norwegian pine shaft. By recovery is meant the action of the shaft as it leaves the bow.

Appreciative

Many of us are beginning to become firmly convinced that the only person who loves a speech is the fellow who is making it.—American Magazine.

Cultured Come Here

Once the rich went to Europe to get culture; now the cultured come to America to get rich.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"GUESS WHO"

The picture in these columns last week thus far is unidentified. Does anyone have an answer?

Chinese Tongue

A tongue is a Chinese form of secret society. The word is derived from the Chinese word meaning a hall or private meeting place. The tong is largely represented among the Chinese population of America, and frequently carry on long and bitter conflicts.

Samos

All the land on the Samoan Islands is privately owned and there is a law forbidding foreigners to purchase such land. The natives are of a high class and all can read and write. The majority are Christians.

Began Literature Late

William de Morgan, English novelist, did not start writing till he was sixty-six, when his first novel, "Joseph Vance," appeared. He was a manufacturer of stained glass and colored tiles.

Doesn't Have To

Jud Tunkins says one of the things that make life hard is the fact that an old friend never feels as much under obligation to make himself agreeable as the man who is selling you a gold brick.—Washington Star.

Began "Chain Store" Idea

The first "chain" stores established in America were the trading posts of the Hudson's Bay company, established in 1670.

Record Dahlia

It is said that the largest dahlia yet recorded is a Fort Monmouth, 15 1/2 inches across. At an Englewood (N. J.) show three Fort Monmouth blooms came in first, second and third for size. The first mentioned above, the second, 15 inches, and the third, 14 1/2 inches.

Perfection in Glass

Optical glass is glass of the highest quality, used for telescopes, microscopes, camera lenses and scientific instruments. Its fusing requires great care. After it is melted it is stirred for some hours to obtain homogeneity and freedom from bubbles.

"Black Pete's" Bell Shows

"Black Pete's" bell, presented to Kirkwell museum, at Kirkwell, Scotland, by the marquis of Sheland's estate, has been placed on exhibition. The bell bears the inscription: "Patrick Stewart, Earl of Orkney and Zeeland, 1605. Renewed by James, Earl of Morton, 1742." Patrick Stewart was a nephew of Mary Queen of Scots, and was hanged at Edinburgh in 1614 for oppression and misrule during his tenancy of the islands.

We Do Not Know

We do not know today whether we are busy or idle. In times when we thought ourselves indolent, we have afterwards discovered that much was accomplished and much was begun in us.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Variation in Tennis Courts

Hard tennis courts are made of many substances, including flagstones, sand, fibre matting, cork, wood and even linoleum. There is no official standard as there is in the case of balls and nets.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

If your old wooden drain board is the worse for wear, buy a piece of embossed linoleum, fit it to the board, and tack it down. The water will follow the indentations, and the linoleum is soft enough to prevent the chipping of your dishes.

Glazing adds a gay and appetizing touch to meats. In barbecuing beef, sear and brush frequently with the glazing syrup which is made by boiling until the sugar is dissolved, one cup sugar, one-fourth cup water, and two tablespoons lemon juice, and then adding one-fourth teaspoon tobacco-sauce, one-fourth teaspoon tomato ketchup, one-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Glazing requires steady, moderate heat.

Large Class

There are three classes: The lower class that tends to its own business, the upper class that tends to its own business, and the great middle class.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Children's Growth

A Swedish physiologist, Dr. Gustav Nylin, says that children grow most rapidly in height in the spring and put on weight fastest in the late fall and in the winter.

Intensive Multiplication

To place one kernel of wheat on the first square of a chess board, two on the second, four on the third, eight on the fourth, and so on, 18,500,744,073, 700,551,615 kernels would be required for the 64 squares.

Age of Excess Passed

Advice about excesses after forty-five has a certain cynical tone. Only the few—and the lucky—will sentimentalize the neighborhood beyond that fateful time.—Dr. Logan Clendenning.

Strange Sounds

Crickets, says a floating science note, hear with their elbows. It must be a terrible shock to a cricket when he bumps his crazy bone.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hygienic Action

Hygiene has been defined as the science through the application of which public and personal health may be secured.

Right Principle

I wholly disapprove of what you say and will defend to the death your right to say it.—Voltaire.

But Not as Slaves
Everybody agrees that children ought to work from a very early age, they should help with the housework and chores, should have responsibility.—Woman's Home Companion.

To Get Rid of Ants
A few drops of oil of cedar (not cedar oil used for floors) put under the shelf covers will drive away ants.

For the Fearful
To the man who fears, everything possible is probable.—Moose Magazine.

Idea of "Badness" Avoided
The equivalent of the word "bad" does not occur in the Aztec language, which is now taught in the Mexican schools.

Incubator Ducks
Ducks hatched in incubators are not allowed to go swimming until they are seven weeks old, in order to wait until their feathers are well oiled.

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Albert DuVal of near Burlington, entertained with a family reunion at their home Friday July 4th. Those enjoying the day were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. DuVal, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Holtzclaw and son Lovell; Mrs. Herbert DuVal and son Herbert; Mrs. Kate DuVal and children Anna, Mary and Jimmie; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Waters and sons Bobbie, and Billie; Mrs. Holtzclaw, Mrs. Martin, Mr. Claude Martin, Mr. John Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. DuVal, Mr. and Mrs. Hampersmith, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lauman and children LaVerne and Jackie, C. B. Smith, Mr. James Guy, Edmon Perry, Charlotte and Loretta DuVal.

The big event of the day was a horseshoe tournament which was won by Mr. R. L. Waters, then a display of fireworks in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller and little daughter Evelyn, and Mrs. Carrie Miller, of Hebron, and Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Congleton and little daughter Gladys Jean, of near Burlington, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirkpatrick and family.

William Ward, Bailey Greenup and Howard Kirkpatrick were shopping in Covington Saturday afternoon.

William Phillips returned one day last week from a visit of a few days with relatives in Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burton, of near Commissary, on the Bellevue pike, entertained the young folks with an old fashioned play party Tuesday night. All enjoyed themselves very much.

Baptist Sunday school picnic at the Florence Fair Grounds on the 10th of this month. Every one invited whether you attend this Sunday school or not. Ice cream, cake, lemonade and maybe hot dogs. Buses will run as on Sunday. Wing one and come.

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Cropper, of Winchester, returned Tuesday morning after having spent several days with Mr. Cropper's mother, Mrs. Lorena Cropper.

Senator Brent Spence, of Fort Thomas, the Democratic nominee for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District, was in Burlington for a few minutes on county court day. Mr. Spence is very grateful for his nomination and appears optimistic over the prospects of further success in November.

Mrs. Laura Martin and daughter Nell H. Martin are spending a two weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Furnish at Golden Pond, Ky.

George Craven, of near the Harvest Home, was a business visitor at the county seat last Saturday morning.

Leland Snyder, brother of sheriff Herbert Snyder, paid the Recorder office a visit last Saturday and pushed up his subscription another notch.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Oldham and little daughter, returned to their home at Mt. Sterling Wednesday after having enjoyed a three weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goodridge at their beautiful home on the Bellevue pike.

Earl T. Cropper has returned to the "grind" after a two weeks vacation spent in Burlington with his mother.

W. N. Utz, of Limaburg, was a caller at the Recorder office early Monday morning. He reported a sprinkling of hail with the shower that fell in his vicinity Sunday night and Monday.

Calvin Cress and family entertained a number of friends from Indiana on the Fourth at their home on the Petersburg pike. Mr. and Mrs. Cress enjoyed the presence of their entire family on that day with the lone exception of a daughter, Mrs. Taylor, of Aurora. Twelve of their children were there, however.

Hubert Conner, secretary of the North Kentucky Fair Association, has completed the job of supplying the copy for the fair catalogs for 1933. The Recorder force is now engaged in printing them and expects to have them out within a short time.

Hon. E. Y. Chapin, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, was in Petersburg for a short while on the Fourth. Mr. Chapin was born and spent his childhood in that village and in which he always relishes a visit.

A reunion of the J. M. Thompson family was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Berkshire on Independence Day. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKinney and family, of Columbus, Ohio; Ira L. Thompson and family, of Mariemont, Ohio; Allen Thompson and family, of Laurel, Indiana; Ernest Allen and wife, of Rt. Thomas, Ky.; and Mrs. J. M. Thompson. Two comparatively recent deaths and the distance from Memphis, Tennessee to Burlington prevented a complete reunion.

Most any Boone county farmer might take some valuable hints from C. O. Hemphill, Taylorport, and profit by them. However, those who are located along the Ohio river should listen particularly to his method of raising "dry weather" potatoes. This spring he planted a hundred bushels of seed and, due to the protracted drouth, stood an elegant chance to lose the whole thing. A gasoline pump with enough rubber hose attached to reach from the patch to the river created the artificial rise necessary to save the day. Mr. Hemphill said Monday that he would have better than a half crop instead of none at all.

Dr. E. J. Love, of Petersburg, passed thru Burlington at noon Tuesday, stopping off for a few minutes on business.

Rev. R. H. Carter, of Petersburg, was in town for a short time Tuesday.

Miss Mary Phillips returned home Wednesday from a visit of several days with relatives at Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moore and family, of Lexington, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Greenup. Mrs. Moore and little son remained for a visit of several days.

William Greenup is the guest of relatives in Lexington.

Mrs. Myrtle Offutt was quite indisposed last week due to tonsillitis and was unable to be at her post of duty at the local telephone exchange.

Colonial Valances

The valance which was hung across the fireplace on Sunday in Colonial days was called a ruffled pawn. It was a short petticoat or valance gathered full on a string and hung across the mantle in Dutch Colonial homes. When the week's cooking was finished, the fireplace was thus decorated for the Sabbath.

Saw Great Naval Battle

The peninsula of Jutland embraces the area between the Skagerrak, the North sea, and the Cattegat and has an area of approximately 9,750 square miles. The peninsula takes its name from the Jutes, an ancient people who once inhabited it. It was in May, 1916, that the famous naval battle of Jutland between the allied and German fleets was fought off the western coast of the peninsula.

Tennis Ball Calls Firemen

While players were enjoying an exciting tennis game in a covered court at Essen, Germany, recently, play was suddenly stopped when firemen appeared and asked where was the fire. A ball hit by one of the players had, unnoticed, struck and broken the glass of a fire alarm box, which turned in the alarm.

Gem of Indian Art

The exquisite mausoleum, the Taj Mahal, which was completed in 1650, consists of a domed square white marble building raised on a terrace, from the corners of which rise four slim white minarets. The whole is set in an exquisite garden surrounded by a wall, a gate and a mosque being the subsidiary elements in its composition.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

WHEN hats are being rejuvenated keep in mind that the ribbons can be given a fresh appearance by dipping them in a quart of water in which three tablespoons of sugar have been thoroughly dissolved.

Vinegar and salt make a fine polish for brass and copper. Put salt on a soft cloth that has been dampened with vinegar and rub the object to be polished. The same combination is one of the best cleaners for the inside of flower vases that have been stained.

A few drops of lime juice gives a delightful new flavor to honeydew melon.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF A FAMOUS CHEF

As Told to Anne Baker By ROGER CRETAUX, Chef, The Roosevelt, New York City

Spaghetti Imperial—Heat one-fourth cup salad oil in a saucepan. Add two medium-size chopped onions and two tablespoons chopped green peppers.

Cook until half tender. Then add one pint canned tomatoes, one teaspoon salt, and one and a half lumps of sugar. Cook slowly until the onions and peppers are done, and the sauce is reduced by about one-third.

Have ready one-half pound cooked spaghetti. The spaghetti is cooked by dropping it in rapidly boiling, salted water, and cooking until tender. Place the spaghetti in a heated dish. Pour the sauce over it, and grate over the top, two ounces of Parmesan cheese.

Stuffed Cucumbers—Cut three medium-size cucumbers in half lengthwise, and cook until tender in salted water. Scoop out the centers, and fill each half with a mixture consisting of three cups cooked rice, one cup chili sauce, one tablespoon vinegar, one tablespoon sugar, two tablespoons tomato ketchup, one teaspoon paprika, salt and pepper to taste, and one large onion which has been chopped fine and cooked in melted butter. Serve immediately, being sure that the portions are very hot.

Freed From Pain After Suffering Two Years

"For two long years I was in agony, the pains were so severe I lost much sleep and became very nervous, my limbs were swollen—I carefully followed advice rendered me by people who were supposed to know. I took medicine daily, but none seemed to affect my condition. "As time went on I became desperate, my kidneys were bothering me more than ever, my bladder had become weak, and I was compelled to urinate many times during the night. Karnak was recommended and I decided to find out just what it would do. I have used several bottles and just what a glorious change, no one can ever realize. I have no pain whatsoever, my system is gradually becoming normal and I feel better than I have in years. I shall always praise and advise Karnak to anyone suffering from rheumatism."

The many friends of C. R. Kite of Belleview, are sorry to hear of his illness.

Words Can't Describe

Good Karnak Did Me

"I just know there is nobody in all the world happier than I about this wonderful medicine, Karnak. I have taken all kinds of medicines and treatments in the past ten years trying to get some relief from my suffering, but nothing helped me until I began Karnak."

"Oh, how I suffered with stomach trouble. Why, I was almost a nervous wreck from it. I had no appetite to speak of, food just didn't have any taste to me. But even though I would only eat the lightest kind of things, I would suffer just the same."

"I had just lost all my strength and at times I would feel so weak I could hardly walk across the room."

"I was so nervous and restless I couldn't get to sleep to amount to anything, and in the morning I could hardly drag myself out of bed. It began to look mighty blue for me, but Karnak has changed everything. It is too grand for words."

ELIMINATION

BEGINS NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT WITH FORTY-FOUR PITCHERS "TOILING FOR GOLD"—NAMES DRAWN FROM HAT AFTER CLOSE OF ENTRIES AT 8 P. M. TUESDAY

A total of forty-four entries will go to the post next Saturday night in an elimination series, better known as a tournament, the goal of which is an aggregate prize list of twenty-five dollars in gold and a chance to wrest the championship from L. C. Weaver, the present crowned victor of horseshoes in old Boone county.

Now, just who that honored and accredited one will be is more than any crack dooper hereabouts is able to tell. For, be it known, among the forty-four who will vie for the honors in this event there are seventeen who were not entered in the tournament of a few weeks ago. Hence, the element of uncertainty.

Among the forty-four will be found all of the stars of the other tournament, not including Mr. Weaver, who will be hanging around in the offing waiting for his victim. But there are those, and plenty of them, who do not stutter when they tell you that there "ain't" a gold-toil in this event. Meaning thereby that the winner of this tournament will walk off with Mr. Weaver's scalp. But that's another matter and to be determined later.

Among those who will be "after" swinging off with that yellow coin will be found representatives from Union, Big Bone, Beaver, Rabbit Hash, Waterloo, Bellevue, Hebron, Constance, Linnburg, Flickertown, Hathaway, Burlington and what have you. They do say, brother, that there'll be horseshoe pitching in this little old tournament that will make all the boys and girls pick up their ears like nobody's business.

The going will tap next Saturday evening, July 26th, promptly at 7:30 Central Standard time, meaning just plain, slow, country time. The rules governing this tournament will be the same as those before, with the lone exception that when the finals come each contestant will be allowed to choose a member of a committee of three, the third to be selected by these two, for the handling of the deciding games.

For the benefit of the onlookers it is announced that all scorekeepers, spectators, in fact everyone except pitchers who are actually pitching and the judges, will be excluded from the roped arena. This will be done in fairness to the contestants and to those who wish to see them. A bench outside the ropes will be reserved for the scorekeepers and announcers.

A series of two-in-three games will decide the first round, and a strenuous effort will be made to complete them the first night. It is hoped that three weeks will conclude the tournament leaving the fourth night for the deciding of the championship games between Weaver and the winner of the tourney. This series will consist of fifteen games with a handsome emblem as a reward. An effort also will be made to stage some other special pitching attractions for that evening.

One hundred and twenty reserve seats will go on sale promptly at 6:30 at 15 cents each.

EDITION IS DELAYED

The Boone County Historical Edition has been unavoidably delayed. Several things have contributed to this delay.

Warren D. Atwood, who had been engaged by the Recorder to assist in the work of compiling and soliciting data was forced to assume a contract made with another newspaper on the first Monday after the 4th of July.

Then, in addition, matters have been held up somewhat by the delay in receiving promised data and failure to return corrected manuscripts. Of course there is no rush for the publication of the edition, but while it will not be as voluminous, nor as complete, as a History of the United States, yet we hope and expect to get it off the press as soon as it is humanly possible.

KENTUCKY DAY

AT LAWRENCEBURG FAIR WILL BE SATURDAY, AUGUST 2ND, WHEN EVERYONE FROM THIS SIDE IS URGED TO BE THERE—FIVE RUNNING RACES

As is announced elsewhere herein, it won't be long now until the Dearborn County Fair will be under way at Lawrenceburg. The Fair Board is working very earnestly in an endeavor to put on a Fair this year which will surpass all previous attempts.

Friday, August 1st, will be Children's Day when all children under the age of 15 will be admitted free, both to the day and night Fair.

The Fair Board extends a general invitation to Kentuckians each day of the fair, but especially urges them to attend on Saturday, which has been set aside as Kentucky Day.

The main drawing card on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons will be the five running races. In these events will be seen some of the best races ever shown at any County Fair. Those interested in this class of sport should make note of these three afternoons and be on hand when the bugle call is sounded to get the "runners" lined up for the opening event each day.

It might be mentioned here that although more money is being expended this year on attractions in the way of fireworks and free exhibitions, the latter consisting of thirteen real big-time acts afternoon and evening being put on by the Morris Troupe Circus Revue and the Three Original Bernards, the Fair Committee has decided to make a reduction in the admission to the night Fair which this year will be 25 cents; the admission to the Grand Stand for the afternoon fair has also been reduced to 15 cents. There will be no Grand Stand charge at night as usual.

Felicity (O.) Boston

Bellevue journeyed to Felicity, Ohio, last Sunday, where they defeated the team at that place by the score of 6-2.

Joe Brady was on the hill for Bellevue and handed out what many claim the best game he ever pitched. He permitted but three hits. His famed drop ball was working perfectly, while his control of his curve and fast one was excellent.

Felicity is a Class "A" team and the Bellevue boys felt justly proud of their fine victory, claiming that it is an omen of the way they will treat the Spinyne League teams that visit Bellevue for the balance of the season.

Ben Black was in right field for Bellevue last Sunday and turned in a good game with three hits, including a double, as his share toward the six run score. Bellevue will play a Spinyne team at home next Sunday, it being a regular elimination game. Should Bellevue lose it will mean that they can lose no more games and stay in the league.

COME ON PARENTS!

All parents and advocates of better surroundings for the pupils in the local schools please come to the special meeting at the court house on Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The meeting is for the purpose of discussing the plan to redecorate the interior of the Burlington school building.

Local Happenings

Miss Glendora Clements of Linton, who spent the past week with a party of friends on a motor trip thru Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia, returned Tuesday and will spend the rest of her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Clements at their country home near Burlington.

The editor has received a post card from John L. Vest, of Walton, who with his wife, is enjoying a visit to a number of interesting Canadian points. The card was postmarked at Montreal.

After a week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. Louis B. White, Mrs. Harry Bobbit returned to her home at Loveland, Ohio, last Sunday evening. Mrs. Bobbit is the assistant cashier of the bank at Loveland, which was robbed of $3,000.00 the day before she left on her vacation spent here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bodker, of Newport, and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Parks and little sons of Ft. Thomas, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hall last Friday evening.

County Judge N. E. Riddell and County Attorney Ben H. Riley were in Frankfort before the Highway Commission last Thursday in the interest of proposed road work in Boone county. They were accompanied by J. M. Botts, of Burlington.

J. J. Kirkpatrick and O. S. Eddins are making some much needed repairs in the flooring at the court house. New floors have been laid in the front room of the county clerk's offices, the county judges office and the sheriff's office. Repairs also have been made to the tiling in the main corridor, which also was sadly needed. Few court houses in the state are kept in a better state of repair than the one in Boone county.

The new ballot boxes, manufactured in Covington, were delivered at Burlington last Wednesday for use in the primary on August 2nd.

A fresh coat of tar and crushed stone is being placed on the Burlington-Florence road this week. The process is repeated each summer with splendid results from the standpoint of endurance and riding surface.

A number of the heirs of the late Henry Sheets were in Burlington Monday to look after their interests in his estate which was being settled in county court that day.

Mrs. Matt Graves and Mrs. Fannie Riley are enjoying a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Duncan at their attractive home in north Burlington.

Miss Johnnie Dickerson, of Union, is visiting her cousin, Miss Ethelene Ryle, this week.

More than two hundred attended the picnic given by and for the members of the Burlington Baptist Sunday school at Dixie Park last Saturday. The crowd remained throughout the day and enjoyed a bountiful lunch at noon. The Baptist Sunday school here had made remarkable strides in total attendance this summer, having had 185 present a week ago last Sunday. Last Sunday 178 attended. Sunday evening the torrid atmosphere drove the congregation out of doors for services, when more than one hundred were in attendance.

The death of J. H. Stier, of Aurora, Indiana, was a distinct shock to his legion of friends in Boone county. His death occurred very suddenly last Thursday morning, July 15th. He was 64 years old and, for many years during his career as a funeral director, was active in Boone county, where he placed hundreds of her citizens in their last resting place. He was one of the most widely known men in southeastern Indiana.

Rev. C. D. Carter, pastor of the Christian churches at Petersburg and Constance, was a business caller in Burlington Tuesday of this week.

HERE AND THERE

Mrs. Sarah Carpenter left Sunday for a short visit with Mrs. E. A. Ballou, of Aurora, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hensley and children, of Petersburg, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Sr.

Mrs. Myrtle Offutt, one of our assistant operators at the local telephone exchange, is visiting relatives in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Alvin Frank was knocked down by a calf Monday. The result being a broken arm and several bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Congelton and little daughter were visiting his relatives of near Georgetown, Sunday.

William Ward and Robert Utz were visiting relatives in Louisville Sunday.

Benj. Corbin, of Erlanger, spent a part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter.

Hubert Brady had the misfortune to fall from the loft of his barn last week, receiving several bruises.

Mrs. Blanche Phillips entertained a number of guests at dinner Sunday.

MARRIED ON STEAMER

Edwin Bruce Wallace, of Walton, son of D. B. Wallace of that city, was one of the principals in a very unique wedding ceremony, which took place aboard the steamer City of Cincinnati in the Cincinnati harbor Monday afternoon, July 21st. It was said to have been the first wedding ceremony ever performed on the Cincinnati.

The bride was Miss Llewellyn Williams, of Banklick, Kenton county, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Lewis, pastor of the Walton Methodist church. After the ceremony, a wedding supper was served in the dining hall of the boat. Pictures of the affair which appeared in Cincinnati dailies showed the bride passing a piece of her wedding cake to Capt. James O'Brien, master of the steamer.

PENNANT

AT STAKE NEXT SATURDAY WHEN WALTON AND BELLEVUE TAKE FIELD, THE ONE AT FRANCESVILLE AND OTHER AT BURLINGTON—BELLEVUE TAKES GREAT ONE FROM PETERSBURG

League Meeting Monday Night
A meeting of all teams in the league will be held at Burlington next Monday evening, July 22nd, at 7:30 (slow time) to formulate plans for the elimination games, which are scheduled to start on Saturday, August 2nd. It is very important that all teams be represented at this meeting. This is formal notice, individual notice not being sent to each team.

R. E. BERSKIRE,
League President

Third Place Clinched
With only Sprague and Hebron another brilliant effort the Burlington team turned back the Hebron boys on the home lot of the latter last Saturday to make third place in the county league safe. Hebron has a postponed game left on the schedule, while Burlington must tackle the strong Bellevue nine next Saturday afternoon at Burlington. Neither of these results, however, can affect the final standing of these teams. Hebron and Burlington broke even in their two games played this season, each winning on the home lot of the other.

Going into the last half of the eight inning game last Saturday the Burlington boys were leading 7 to 1, but Hebron staged a rally scoring two runs when Wagner, Burlington center fielder, dropped two flies. Again in the ninth they added two more, this time aided by two hits and a base on balls.

Brown opposed Sprague on the mound and pitched a clever game allowing twelve hits and fanning eight men. Sprague held Hebron to seven hits and struck out fifteen.

In addition to pitching with his accustomed effectiveness, Sprague also drove out four clean hits, including three doubles, and three of which his played a part in the Burlington scoring. Lester Robinson again vanquished the bat in the absence of Manager Zimmer and suffice it to say that "Speed King," for the second time in as many weeks, demonstrated that he is an all around baseball artist. An injury to one of the fingers on his Sunday pitching hand, however, did not make Mr. Robinson feel any better toward working behind the plate. Robinson, Snyder and Wagner each obliged with two hits.

Next Saturday afternoon Bellevue will visit Burlington for the final game on the schedule for each team. Incidentally, it will be Bellevue's first visit to the local lot this season.

Burlington opened the season at Bellevue this year and it will be recalled that a battle royal was staged by these two teams on that day. The final score was 3-2, Bill Rogers coming off with the victory over Sprague after eleven hectic innings. Rogers fanned 16 and Sprague whiffed 12 with Burlington making seven hits and Bellevue six.

Since the dope strongly favors Walton to defeat Franceville it can be seen that Bellevue must defeat Burlington in order to finish as good as tied with Walton for the league pennant. The importance of the game, at least from a Bellevue standpoint, readily can be seen, while Rogers and Sprague, two of the best

EVERY COUNTY

VISITED BY LOUISVILLE CIRCUIT JUDGE—BOONE WAS LAST ONE TO BE VISITED BY JUDGE MAPOTHER, WHO COMPLETED HIS TASK MONDAY NIGHT OF THIS WEEK

Pursuing a desire that was born in him several years ago Judge Mapother, one of seven circuit judges in Louisville, completed a mammoth task of pleasure Monday evening when he arrived at Burlington.

Judge Mapother is a man of travel. He has visited several foreign countries and many states in this union, including most of the prominent points of historical and scenic interest. But he loves Kentucky, his native state, and wished to know it better.

So, he conceived the idea of visiting each county seat within the Commonwealth. During his odd times, and his vacation periods he has completed that task, which to him has been a most pleasant one, when he arrived at Burlington Monday evening. Those who are acquainted with Kentucky geography know that he finished at the northernmost peak of the state, when he made Boone county his final stopping place in this unique project.

Judge Mapother was accompanied by his wife and remained here overnight. He relates some humorous and interesting experiences, which he has encountered from time to time, as he has gone about his travels thru Kentucky's county seats. He planned to return to Louisville directly from here to resume his work on the bench.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Boone County Woman's Club was entertained last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Nannie Cason and daughter Miss Kathryn at their home on Middle creek.

In the absence of the President the Vice-President took charge.

Interesting papers were read by Mesdames Eliza Vossell, Clara Stree and Nannie Cason respectively. The Liberty Bell, Biography of some of the men who signed the Declaration of Independence and Origin of the Fourth of July.

A Quiz was conducted by Mrs. Pearl Hughes and a Joke Paper was read by Miss Pearl Botts.

Music consisted of singing by Miss Dorothy Cason and Mrs. Missouri Rice and Viola music.

Refreshments of lemonade and cakes were served.

Last month the club met with Mrs. Beatrice Huey with seven members present and an enjoyable time was had by all.

Mrs. Jessie Cason is the hostess for the club in August.

Bellevue Takes Class One

Bellevue and Petersburg hooked up in one of the best games of the season last Saturday afternoon with Bill Rogers opposing Howard Huey on the mound. The final score was 3-2 after eleven innings had been played.

The game was started late on account of a funeral and was to go only seven innings by agreement. At the end of the seventh, however, the score was tied at 2-2 and remained that way until the last half of the eleventh when Bellevue came thru with the necessary run. That run kept them in the fight for the pennant. Details of the game were not received at this office.

HAPPY DAYS

This is the season of the year when the small boy gets the most out of life.

Adolescent juveniles of today may go in for golf and tennis, for motor-ing and more or less decorous bath-ing parties in more or less modest costumes, but the small boy who hasn't yet attained "teen" in his age gets his summer fun in just about this way we did, and our fathers and grandfathers before us.

At least, if he doesn't he's missing something of real value in his life and education.

It is one thing for a boy to go to a carefully-supervised summer camp or to study scientific woodcraft under the tutelage of a scoutmaster. It is quite another thing for him to roam around the woods and pastures barefooted, accumulating sunburn and stonebruises and an immense amount of lore about the habits of mud-turtles and garter-snakes. Game laws mean nothing in his young life. He can get more of a thrill fishing for bullheads and sunfish in the old millpond than your fancy sportsman with his split bamboo rod and hand-tied flies ever experiences.

And when it comes to bathing, all the beaches in the world can't compare with the old swimmin' hole, where you never had to bother with a bathing suit, where girls were strictly banned, and where you didn't need a spring board to dive from. No man has ever truly lived who has not experienced the sensation of a "belly-flop" that pretty nearly knocked the wind out of him!

We do not learn about the world we live in through eyes and on a alone. We learn through our hands and our feet, the feel of sun and wind and rain on our bare bodies, the squish of mud between our toes, the heft of a hickory limb compared with a willow branch. Only such intimate contacts with nature can establish a background against which life can be viewed in later years in its true perspective.

Do boys still whistle out of young willow shoots? You hammer the bark gently with the handle of your Barlow knife—only it's your Boy Scout knife in these days—and the bark peels off in a perfect cylinder which only needs to have the wood whittled to the proper shape and reinserted, to make a whistle to which any good dog will respond. We had almost forgotten the dog. He's needed to make the picture complete.

A boy, a dog, a jackknife, in the country in the summer—that is the combination which provides the only perfect happiness most of us ever had or will have.

Early Garden Suggestions

TURNIPS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Judging from the inquiries made of the Department of Horticulture, interest in turnips seems to be intense, even to the extent of sowing much too early. To answer, whole-sale, the question as to the sowing date for turnips, it is August 1, even in the northernmost counties of Kentucky, and as much as a month later along the southern border of the state.

Turnips require good soil, whether raised for greens or for turnips. Common practice is to use land which produced a crop of early potatoes or peas or beans. All the preparation such land needs is a deep disking and leveling, though it is of advantage to have worked it periodically through the summer so as to keep down the weeds, especially the crab grass. Following a dry summer, or in a dry fall, this is particularly essential to ward conserving moisture; for the quality and yielding of turnips depend on quick growth.

Although the usual method of seed-ing turnips is by broadcasting, it is suggested that sowing the seed in drills is better, because it is easier to apply control for plant lice in rows than it is in those sown broad-cast.

The amount of seed to use depends on the condition of the ground. If it is as fine as the seed, 1 pound per acre is ample. If it is somewhat cloddy, as much as an extra pound of seed should be added.

If the seed is sown in rows, a seed drill should be used. A few ounces should be sown experimentally to ad-just the feed. One and one-half lbs. per acre is about the proper amount, if the rows are 18 inches apart. For wider rows the quantity of seed is, of course, proportionately less.

In land that has been well pre-pared little trouble is had from weeds, but in the instance row-culture it is practiced, and in a dry season, it is of distinct advantage to give some cultivation. Level, fine and shallow working is advised, a dusty surface maintained.

To go back to the plant lice, which by the way, may reasonably be ex-pected to come, the control is apply-ing tobacco spray or dust. Black Leaf 40, a commercial tobacco ex-tract of known strength, is advised, rather than home-brewed "tobacco tea." Black Leaf 40 is obtainable of any seedman or druggist; the direc-tions for its use appear on the con-tainer.

For those who choose to use dust, nicotine sulphate dust is offered, by the same persons who handle Black Leaf 40. Or, these gardeners may mix their own dust, at a saving in cost. The writer will be glad to fur-nish full instructions on request. Both the dust and spray are more effective when the temperature is above sixty-five degrees.

The time to spray or dust is when the lice first come; the rolling-under of the leaves is the sign. The sprayer or duster should have an upturned nozzle, for the lice usually feed out of range of direct nozzles. The num-ber of applications will depend on the thoroughness, with which the work is done. Sometimes, there are several "batches" of lice; each must be dealt with as it comes, for the spray is not a preventive, it deals only with the lice it hits.

SOW SOY BEANS

Boone county farmers short of hay should sow soy beans in preference to millet for hay this winter. Soy beans sown the next ten days with a favorable season should make from one and a half to two and a half tons of good legume hay per acre.

The following cautions are given: (1) If inoculation is necessary no other inoculation except soy bean inoculation will do the work (clover, cow pea, etc., will not). (2) 300 pounds of phosphate per acre will be a big help to the grass and hay crops. (3) That Manchu, Wil-son Black or what ever seed you should test 95 per cent germination if a good stand is to be secured.

Wouldn't Be Surprised

By Albert T. Reid

Says old John W. Business: "Holy mackerel!—Do you suppose this dad-busted foot is what is makin' me feel so bad all over?"

A handful of wood glue dissolved in a pint of water and sprinkled over the seed followed by about a half gallon of dirt from a field known to have grown soy beans that were suc-cessfully inoculated will give splen-did results so far as inoculation is concerned.

WESTERN STRAWBERRY SEASON PROFITABLE

The Western Kentucky strawberry season was considered one of the most successful in years, according to County Agent W. C. Johnstone of McCracken county. The McCracken County Growers' Association, which handled most of the berries shipped from western counties, sold 212 car loads which brought in a gross in-come of $525,000. The average price per crate at Paducah was $5.60, and the net price to growers averaged $4.25, after deducting the cost of picking, crating and shipping.

"Many farmers have paid off their debts for the first time in years," says Mr. Johnstone. "Many have money with which to purchase lime-stone and fertilizers and otherwise im-prove their farms and homes."

A production contest sponsored by Paducah newspapers and a box com-pany was won by A. W. Overstreet, who produced 226½ crates on an acre picked for the first time, and by George Englert who gathered 190 crates on an acre of old berries.

The growers' association made its first cooperative shipment of rasp-berries this year. The gross income to farmers from this small fruit was about $5,000. Henry Rottgering pick-ed 100 crates of raspberries from three-fifths of an acre.

Dewberries brought McCracken-county farmers $2,000 this year. Both rasp-berries and dewberries are new com-mercial crops for that region.

Indications point to increased acre-ages of all berry crops in western Kentucky next year.

The ability of alfalfa and Korean lespedeza to withstand drought has greatly impressed farmers in Henry county.

The Boone county wool pool re-ports the sale of 36,000 pounds of wool at an average price of $29.26 per 100 pounds.

TOO MUCH PITY

A man who has won high distinc-tion in his chosen field of labor came into my office not long ago. He walks with a limp, for one of his legs is shorter than the other.

He told me that for years he went around on crutches. "I finally threw them away," he said, "and I'll tell you why. I got infernally tired of having people stop to ask me what had happened. I didn't want sympathy. It did me no good, and slowed up my operations. I'm lame. I'll never be any better. But I can stand the lameness better than I can stand being pitied."

There is a great waste of pity in the world.

I know, for example, a couple who seem to be curiously misnamed. The woman is ten years older than the man. She is argumentative. She is not a very good housekeeper.

At least a hundred times I have heard somebody say: "I'm so sorry for Joe. He might have picked out a lovely young girl, and see what he went and did."

Now, the simple fact is that the man and woman are exceedingly hap-py. I personally can't see what he finds attractive in her, nor why she should have chosen him. But it is none of my business, and a certainly am not going to waste sympathy on two folks who seem to like each other and to be perfectly satisfied.

I live part of every year in the middle of Manhattan Island, and the rest of the time in a New England village. My Manhattan friends say: "What a terrible bore it must be to live in a little town. No theatres, no art galleries, no excitement. How I pity country people."

My village friends say: "I like to go to New York for a visit, but what a frightful place to live! Noise and crime, and rush and expense! The poor folks who are crowded together in those big apartments just don't know what real living is. How I pity them."

What an absurd situation. What an emotional waste!

This seems to me to be a pretty good idea—don't weaken your emo-tional nature by pouring out pity un-less you intend to do something about it.

Pity the sick and relieve them. Pity the poor, and divide with them. Sympathize with the struggles of youth, and lend a helping hand.

But don't get into the foolish habit of being sorry for anybody who hap-pens to be different from yourself. The chances are that he is spending an equal amount of his time being sorry for you.

MILLET AND SUDAN GRASS

Millet and Sudan grass informa-tion was requested by a number of Boone county farmers the past week, according to the county agent. These requests are due to the short hay and pasture crops.

Millet weighs 50 pounds per bush-el and should be sown at the rate of 15 to 25 pounds per acre. Twenty pounds is probably the best average seedling. The seed is a bit scarce and is selling from $3.50 to $4.00 per bushel. Millet hay ranks close to timothy but is not recommended for horses.

Sudan grass weighs 40 pounds per bushel and is selling around $0.14 per pound. It should be sown at the rate of from 15 to 25 pounds per acre with an average of 20 pounds per acre. Sudan grass is a one year crop and will furnish quick growth and excellent pasture until frost.

With favorable weather conditions it is probably not too late to sow soy beans. Care should be taken the beans are inoculated.

Four Marion county farmers in June purchased 15 Jerseys as four-ation stock for high producing pur-bred herds.

Trimble county farmers who stand-ardized their lambs report receiving as much as 3 cents a pound above the price received for ordinary lambs.

Sunday School Lesson

DEBOAH—A LEADER IN A NA-TIONAL EMERGENCY

Judges 4:1-10

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Early mistakes can cause calamities in later years. It was just this way in the history of the Israelites during their conquest of the Promised Land. When Joshua was commissioned to cross the Jordan and possess the land he was told to drive out all the na-tives, who were gross in their idolatries. All too soon the Hebrews were content with the limited area they had allotted to the various tribes, whereas the promise was that they would be victors wherever their feet would tread as they went forward in conquest. Because they stopped short of the command of God almost continuous problems resulted.

Soon the various peoples that were permitted to remain in the land sought to intermarry and then to in-terest the Jehovahites in taking up the forms of licentious worship which were indigenous. These made a strong appeal to the flesh and they made them attractive. Further, tri-bute was levied for the sake of non-attack, or marauding took place af-ter the crops had been garnered. Only when the new inhabitants were all but re-enslaved did they remember from whence God had delivered them in freeing them from the burdens they had to bear in the land of Egypt. Then, though late, they would turn to the Lord and cry out for His divine help. God's way was to raise up some deliverer who is called a judge. There are at least a dozen of these judges, beginning with Othniel and reaching to the time of Samson and Samuel.

Though there were many good men in Israel, this time God will act thru Deborah. She was a woman worthy in her own home. Soon her influence extended to the community and the people sought her advice as she had a kind of court under the conven-iently located palm tree. Being at-tentive to the voice of God she un-derstood that through her leadership Israel would be delivered from the oppression of Jabin, who often ter-rorized the colonists by his display of those one thousand chariots of iron. A good leader assigns work to others and Barak was commissioned to as-semble ten thousand from the tribus of Israel at Mount Tabor.

When the enemy came forward to attack a God-sent storm broke in their midst and the cost to others and chariots of iron at once became a great liability and the dead were piled up in confusion at the crossing of the swollen Kishon river. It re-mained for another woman to de-stroy the enemy's general. Jael drove a tent pin through the temples of Sisera while he slept after a hearty meal. Thus Israel was again freed from the oppression of a neighboring people.

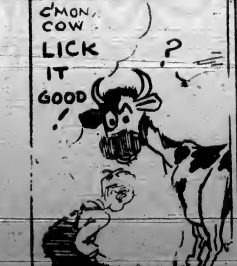

This is designated as the Quarter-ly Temperance Lesson and a sig-nificant application comes from the habits of the Israelites during this period of the Judges. They seemed to forget that the facts of the past must be taught to each new gen-eration. The children in every age are the men and women of each to-mor-row. These growing youth should have been instructed in the com-mands of God and further reminded that disobedience would bring oppres-sion from the surrounding peoples. Experience is too costly when each age learns matters anew. There has been unbelievable progress in free-ing the nation from the curse of the organized liquor traffic. To-day the law that relates to the Eighteenth Amendment is being sixty per cent enforced. Prohibition is about the liveliest news in the daily press. One of the greatest needs to-day is that there shall be more teaching to youth that alcohol is a poison and its use as a beverage is detrimental to life, so-ciety and morals.

PINKY DINKY

THE COW MISUNDERSTOOD PINKY

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Hon. S. W. Tolin, the Democratic nominee for State Senator, visited Owenton, Monday, where he addressed a very large crowd of Democrats. The telephone line from Burlington to Petersburg is certainly a splendid one. The ringing of the Court House bell in Burlington can be heard at the phone in Petersburg while the crowing of roosters in Petersburg can be heard at the phone in Burlington. As much cannot be said for the line from Burlington to Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Blythe have several boarders from the city. J. M. Eddins, J. S. Clutterbuck, J. F. Blythe and J. M. Lassing attended the convention at Lexington, last week.

Perry E. Baldon, who was born and raised near here, died at his home in Carroll county, the first of this month.

Union
A handsome monument is being placed over the grave of Mrs. John Baker.

We hear that Geo. Delph and Otis Rouse had horses killed by lightning last week.

Robt. Houston's place must be first-class for snakes, as he killed thirty in one day.

Reuben, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Conner, has been quite ill for several days, but is improving.

Plattsburg
Mrs. Richard Hensley is no better. Clyde, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Akin, is very low with appendicitis.

Woodford Sullivan paid Wm. Seebree $40 for a cow and calf.

Chas. Akin killed three spreading adders and one black snake in one day last week.

Mrs. L. Nichol's sister, of Illinois, is visiting her.

Mrs. Lillie Hensley has been quite sick for several days.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Uncle Jerry Weaver, of Pleasant Hill, enlivened our office with his pleasant smiles a few minutes last Saturday morning.

James Hogan has been quite sick for several days but is some better.

Newton Sullivan, who lives out on the Petersburg pike, had his best horse killed by lightning last Thursday. The animal was standing out in the open field, and not near any tree.

Joseph Riddell and wife of Gunpowder, were in town last Friday. Mrs. Riddell has but recently recovered from an attack of measles.

Walton
That great aggregation of base ball tossers, automatic coaches and circus runners from Burlington, accompanied by an umpire "that was an umpire," came up here last Saturday with blood in their eyes. They rolled into town at high noon and put up at the Phoenix. The first and only thing they said was "we're ready to play ball."

The game was called at 3 p. m., and from that time they slugged and ran and ran and slugged until 4 p. m., when the record showed 9 innings, 7 broken bats, one lost ball and the following sad tale by innings:

Burlington 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Walton 5 6 9 3 0 4 0 1 2—20

Who lost that ball?—Jack Sullivan.

Stansifer pitched well, but his support was miserable.

Don't try to steal second base when Hawes is behind the bat.

Beall pitched a faultless game, and our boys could not connect with the ball.

Rachal was weary—he napped at third on the first and collided with the ball three feet off the base.

The way that Sandford waltzed around on Perry Rouse's ear in the 2nd was only a reminder of what was in store for our boys.

Constance
Capt. Kottmyer, wife and two daughters are visiting relatives in Louisville and Madison.

Robt. Masters is building a new house for Barney Brink.

A horse belonging to Harry Peens fell over the river bank into the creek and broke its neck.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mase Minor, who has been at work in a distillery in Lawrenceburg, is at home recuperating his health.

W. W. Grimsley, Z. T. Baker mother and sister, of Big Bone, visited Mr. Ed. Baker Sunday.

Three of the members of the poor house committee, J. R. Clutterbuck, J. A. Kendall and H. Bannister were in Burlington last Thursday to let the contract for building the two cisterns at the poor house. The contract was awarded James Hogan, he being the lowest bidder. The following are the bids; Nolan, $225; J. J. Kirkpatrick, $280; H. Cassidy & Co., $258 all brick or $205 with stone walls and brick arches; Jos. Cowen, $195; James Hogan, $180. The difference in the estimates is very noticeable, there being $78 between the lowest and the highest bids.

Petersburg
Ripe watermelons commenced coming in on the 15th.

We are credibly informed that Jokes have killed 1,700 chickens for James Akins this spring; they have 2,000 for Bob Brashier.

From the 9th to the 14th of July the mercury indicated from 88 to 94 in the shade.

Collins & Berkshire's new house boat will soon be ready for business. Norris & Riddell feel very sanguine of winning the three year old trot at Florence this fall.

The large Government warehouse is nearly completed.

Florence
Mr. J. M. Reed, our enterprising cigar manufacturer, who has hitherto resided in Cincinnati, is now a citizen of this place. We had the pleasure of an introduction to his good lady a few days since, and I would say that we want more such citizens.

Miss Ella Conner, formerly of this place, but at this time a resident of Lebanon, Ind., is sojourning at Ceto Orchard Springs, Ky., health seeking. We hope she may be greatly benefited.

Hints for the Home

KIDNEY BEANS WITH TOMATOES

Soak one and a half cups of white kidney beans over night. Drain the n and boil in water containing a quarter teaspoon of soda. Fry a tablespoon of minced onion in a little dripping. Add two cups of stewed tomatoes, season with a little salt and two level teaspoons of sugar. Barely cover with water and cook in a fireless cooker or double boiler until tender. This should take about three hours.

BEEF AND TOMATO PIE

Put meat left over from yesterday's bouillon through the meat chopper. For four cups of the beef you will need a pint of canned tomatoes. Grease a baking dish with bacon fat or good drippings and put in a layer of the tomato with a little onion juice, then a few bread crumbs and then a layer of meat. Continue this way until near the top and then cover over with fresh mashed potatoes. Brush the potatoes with milk and cook for thirty minutes.

TOMATO SAUCE

Two tomatoes, two eggs, one tablespoon butter, one-quarter cup of minced ham, a slice of onion, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, six rounds of buttered toast. Skin the tomatoes and chop; mince the onion and mix with the meat and tomatoes. Cook them with the butter in a saucepan about ten minutes, remove from the fire, add the beaten eggs, stir over the fire until it sets, then serve on the toast.

nell, motored from Detroit, Michigan Wednesday and are guests of relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Black entertained in honor of their daughter's sixth birthday. Those present were: Joe Dennegan and family of Fairmount, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Readnor and family, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sparks, of Hume, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sparks and family, Mr. and Mrs. Howe Hood, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Black and daughter Ruth, Richard Dudgeon and family, Tony Black and Joe Turner.

Correspondent Claims Mess Is Made by Federal Farm Board

Editor's Note.—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

By Fred Holmes
Washington Cor. for The Boone Co. Recorder

Washington — A leather-skinned and unrepentant Senate was due for further castigation this week, but the loud and continued chirping of the agricultural birds, which have descended upon us in flocks, with their incessant t-wheat, t-wheat, t-wheat, has so distracted the critics that they were unable to concentrate upon senatorial delinquencies.

The attempt of Alexander Legge, Chairman of the Federal Farm Board, and Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, by personal appeal and argument to modify the Kansas wheat grower would seem to have made a bad situation worse, economically as well as politically.

Grain dealers charged that the Federal Farm Board had broken faith with the grain industry, and accused the government's control board of "breach of trust" because it had "dumped at least 350,000 bushels of wheat" on the Kansas City market at 78 cents a bushel.

The wheat the government sold on the Kansas City board was part of the supply purchased at $1.15 a bushel last fall. The grain dealers scored the tactics of the Farm Board in selling its wheat it was said to have promised to keep its supply off the market so as not to compete with the crop now being harvested. Some months ago, when the price of wheat was declining but was still well over $1 a bushel, the Farm Board decided to stabilize the market. Thereupon it leaped into the wheat pit and purchased about 60,000,000 bushels, almost all of which it is still carrying at a public cost of about $1,000,000 per month. That was "stabilization."

If the Federal Farm Board is capable of feeling embarrassment about its many rough experiences during the first year of its existence, it ought certainly to feel it when the two Senators from Kansas urge it to go into the market again and buy 100,000,000 bushels to aid the price. If the board was justified in taking over wheat at $1.18 last winter because the price was too low, what excuse can it offer for refusing to buy after the price has dropped below 90 cents? Chairman Legge has stated that the situation is now quite different from what it was when the board was in the market as a buyer. That is true, and the chief difference is that the farmer is now in a much worse plight than he was last winter when the board supposedly came to his aid.

However, because the wheat grower is now so hard hit by the slump in prices it does not follow that the Farm Board should duplicate its previous mistake and resort to heavy buying to sustain prices. All that the board could do along this line did not prevent a slump of 30 cents in the price of wheat. Taking 100,000,000 more bushels out of the market, as Senators Capper and Allen now suggest, would not permanently reduce the supply, and the price will be influenced by this fact. Instead of producing stability the surplus thus withdrawn from the channels of trade would always be a sword of Damocles hanging over the market and adding an element of uncertainty.

It is reported that things are so shaping themselves here at the Capital as to exert very heavy pressure upon President Hoover to do "something" about farm relief—lower prices than for almost a score of years certainly cannot be attributed in any important degree to errors of omission or commission on Mr. Hoover's part, nor even to the dumping of government wheat on the Kansas City market. Farm commodities are undoubtedly sharing in a world-wide price decline that has affected all nations, and virtually all raw materials. The main causes of this decline lie in the field of economics, not politics.

To what extent the new tariff rates have already aggravated the difficulties of the farmers it is, of course, impossible to say. It would seem to be certain, however, that the enactment of the Smoot-Hawley bill increased the economic handicaps of the farming population and paved the way for the appeals now being made to the President. Having through the tariff enhanced the necessity of farm relief, at almost the same time that was set the precedent of "farm relief" through speculation with public money, it is impossible to escape the conclusion that Mr. Hoover has himself to thank in large measure for the pressure under which he now is laboring.

Irrespective of the merits or demerits of the London Naval Treaty, the public is disgusted with the manner in which senators are shirking their duty in regard to the pact. For several days only 49 senators were present at the daily sessions. At this writing there are about 60 on hand. Thirty-six senators are absent. Making allowance for those who are unable to attend, by reason of illness, it is evident that many senators are deliberately neglecting their official duty.

The public has a right to expect better service from its official representatives. They are well paid, and they accept service voluntarily. Not one of them is a senator against his will. If the duties of the office are such as to interfere with summer pleasures, all that the absentees need to do is to resign. The governors will gladly fill their places with deserving young men, who will cheerfully undergo the torture of attending to the public business. And it will be interesting to observe how many of the absentees refuse to draw mileage for the extra session which they are not attending.

Mr. Coolidge, in one of his recent articles, made a statement about our political structure the significance of which will steadily grow as time goes on. "With the direct primaries in most states," said Mr. Coolidge, "and the popular election of Senators, the present perversion of legislation is unavoidable."

The direct primary and popular election have been attacked more and more in recent years, but they have never received such a smashing blow as this. Mr. Coolidge's well known reputation for patient sagacity, his tolerance, and his unsurpassable knowledge of American government as it is practiced give anything he says great weight. Americans know him well enough to realize that nothing he says is uttered thoughtlessly, or because of momentary pique, or because he happened to think of a phrase which sounded clever or seemed to fit the mood of the moment. When he says, therefore, that direct primaries and popular election of Senators make perversion of legislation unavoidable we know that he means it—and bold indeed would be the man to match his knowledge of this subject with that of our former President.

It is hard to say what change should be made to improve the type of Senator. But one can say that the present system is highly unsatisfactory and that its results constitute one of the most vital problems of today. It is a problem which should engage the deep attention and constructive thought of Americans, and Mr. Coolidge deserves thanks for speaking out his mind on it with so much candor and truth.

CORRECTION—It was stated in this column last week that Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, had departed his post when a crisis was pending and gone to Europe. It was so dependably reported here. It seems that the report was unfounded. While not in Washington this week, Senator Moses was present during the first week of the special session, giving his support to the opposition to ratification of the naval pact, and will have returned before these lines are in type.

Deaths

SAMUEL NICHOLAS SHINKLE

Samuel Nicholas Shinkle was born in Pendleton county, Ky., September 16th, 1866, died July 16th, 1930, aged 63 years and 10 months.

He was united in marriage to Lena Leoti Ryke on April 6th, 1889. To this union nine children were born, namely: Geo. Greyson, Porter, Bollivar, Charlie, Leslie, Mrs. Wallace

Clare, Mrs. Luther Surface and Mrs. Garrett Dolph. His devoted wife who took her departure on October 5th, 1924, to await his coming. He united with the Big Bone Baptist church at the age of 17 years, later moving his membership to Petersburg, of which faith he was a true believer at the time of his death. The last words to his children were for them "to be good." With the children he leaves to mourn his departure 23 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter, two sisters and three brothers, a host of relatives and friends.

The loved ones were all with him in his last hours with the exception of Charles who is Sergeant in the U. S. Army in China. All that a faithful Doctor and loving hands could do were done to keep him on earth, but we must all answer God's call.

Funeral services were conducted at the Petersburg Baptist church by Revs. Lucas and Rev. Bell. The sons and brother-in-law Boone Ryke, whom he raised from childhood, were the pall-bearers and the granddaughters acted as flower girls. The body was laid to rest beside that of his wife in Petersburg cemetery.

He was a kind and loving father and a steadfast friend with always a kind word to everyone—was greatly loved by the grandchildren and will be missed by all who knew him. Was a patient sufferer for quite a long while. With never a complaint, always trusting to God who at last called him home where there would be no more suffering, to be with the devoted wife whom he had never ceased to mourn.

CARD OF THANKS

While our hearts are heavy with sorrow over the loss of our dearly beloved father, Samuel Shinkle, we do not forget to thank the many friends who in a measure helped to lighten our burden by the many kind and loving ministrations during his illness and death. We wish to thank the friends for the beautiful flowers, the choir and the ones who sang the special songs. Revs. Lucas and Bell for their words of comfort, and especially do we thank Dr. M. A. Yellton for his untiring efforts and presence with us through the long watchful hours before death came. His kindness will never be forgotten, and Earl Williams for the tender and efficient manner in conducting the funeral.

If You Want to Know What Real Suffering is, Listen to What I Went Through

"If you want to see a man who really suffered from indigestion and stomach troubles, I wish you could have seen me before I took Karnak. Why it just seemed like all food was poison to me."

"Well, sir, that was my condition when I started taking Karnak, and it is the gospel truth, the very first dose of this medicine made me feel better. Now, I haven't a touch of stomach trouble and I never felt better in my life. I haven't the slightest ache or pain since I started taking Karnak, my kidneys are working fine and my circulation that caused my arms and legs to go to sleep is in perfect order."

"I have gotten back my old time strength and energy, too. And eat—why, my wife has had to double my lunch. I enjoy everything and it seems like I can not get enough. I have already gained seven pounds. No sir, they haven't claimed enough for Karnak."

A Page For The Memory Book Of "Guess Who" Followers.

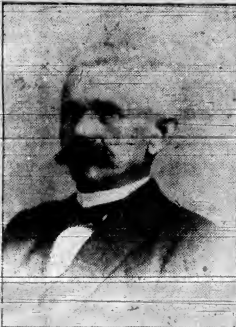

On March 28th, 1929, the Recorder started a series feature, which has proven more popular than any other regular feature ever introduced by the paper. Since the inauguration of this feature we have presented 48 pictures over a period of the same number of weeks. A number of our readers repeatedly have called for certain issues of the paper in order to obtain a certain picture. For the benefit of those who are attempting to preserve the entire series we herewith present a full page of those who have been in "Guess Who" and hope to be able to give you another page at some future date so that you may ultimately have the entire series.

WHISKY AND ALCOHOL

Neither of these drugs should be used as beverages, no matter when or what the dilution. No medicine should be handled flippantly, carelessly or impudently. For most medicines are deadly in overdose. It is the "beverage" item that has brought these two valuable medicines into disrepute, and has divided our people socially and politically to a dimension equal to that of the slavery question preceding the Civil War!

Most rational-thinking men and women will admit that whisky and alcohol are all right "in their place." Where that place is, the educated physician, it seems to me, would be the better judge.

Once for all, alcohol and whisky are valuable medicines. When that is said, all is said. Capable physicians need pure alcohol in their offices daily. Great hospitals use it as a valuable adjunct in laboratory and nursing departments. It is little less than crime to deprive the wasteful invalid of anything that can possibly aid in bringing about his comfort or recovery—to there!

Whisky is a valuable stimulant and aid to vital processes in "lingering" or wasting illness, especially in aged patients. Practical proofs have been well known for years. No chemical equation can do away with actual bed-side experience. Drunkards are not made here; neither are monkey wrenches provided for political machinery in the sick room of the old and infirm.

Gripped with our "dry" zealots, that we could do without alcohol and whisky; we could as a beverage; we could as a medicine; but, you, dear reader, have no right to tell me what I shall or shall not give to my patient, in my efforts to restore him to health if you assume that right, and I shall ignore you. And, you fight beverages all you want to; I'm with you there. But, keep out of the way when I'm treating an invalid!

Friday Dinner
Halibut Lemon Butter Sauce
Lattice Potatoes Baked Stuffed Tomatoes
Lemon Gelatine and Cucumber Salad
Apple Torte
Coffee

Fried Halibut
Cut the fish in pieces suitable for serving. Season with salt and pepper. Dip in fine crumbs, in beaten egg diluted with milk and again in crumbs. Fry in hot fat at least an inch deep and cover closely while frying. About 8 minutes will be required for this cooking.

Baked Stuffed Tomatoes
6 firm tomatoes.
1 cup soft bread crumbs,
1/2 cup milk,
1 tablespoon melted butter,
1/4 teaspoon salt.
Pepper.
1 teaspoon minced onion.
2-3 cup grated cheese.
Add the milk to the crumbs and then add the remaining ingredients. Remove the centers from the tomatoes and fill with the filling. Place in a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until tomatoes are tender.

Apple Torte
We make this dessert only at this season when eggs are inexpensive. We like to use the new apples if they are good sized and of good flavor.
6 apples, peeled and cored.
1/4 cup sugar.
2 tablespoon butter.
6 eggs.
2 cups cream or rich milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.
3 cups zwieback crumbs.
2 tablespoons sugar.
Cook the apples with the 1/4 cup sugar until apples are tender, using just sufficient water to prevent sticking; add the butter, vanilla, beaten eggs and cream and cook in a double boiler until thickened. Reserve 1 cup of the crumbs and mix with the two tablespoons sugar and cinnamon. Place a layer of the plain crumb in a buttered baking dish and add some of the apple mixture. Continue in this manner until all is used. The top layer should be the crumbs mixed with the sugar and cinnamon. Bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour.

Saturday Evening Supper
Sliced Ham baked in Raisin Sauce
Sweet Potatoes
Vegetable Salad
Peach Shortcake
Coffee

Sliced Ham baked in Raisin Sauce
1 slice ham about 3/4 inch thick.
2 tablespoons brown sugar.
1 cup boiling water.
1/2 teaspoon mustard.
1/2 cup raisins.

Place the ham in a baking dish and add half of the water. Bake slowly about 25 minutes, add a sauce made of the remaining water, mustard, raisins and sugar. Pour over the ham and cover; bake slowly until tender.

Peach Shortcake
Make shortcake in the usual way and just before serving place fresh sliced peaches between and on top of the layers of shortcake. Serve with cream, plain or whipped.

Sunday Dinner
Relishes
Roast Young Duck Apple and Orange Sauce
Scalloped Potatoes Lima Beans and Corn
Jellied Cabbage and Celery Salad
Raspberry Ice Caramel Cookies
Coffee

Roast Young Duck
Clean and roast about as you would a chicken. If the duck is young add very little if any water to the roasting pan. Prick the skin from time to time to allow the fat to run into the pan. Turn frequently during the roasting. The time required for the roasting will be from 1 to 4 hours, according to the age of the duck. When the meat on the legs is tender, the duck is done. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons fat for the gravy.

Apple and Orange Sauce
Prepare apples for sauce in the usual way and to 6 apples, add the juice of 1 orange and the thin yellow part of the rind cut into strips, using only 1/4 of the orange rind. Add water to prevent sticking and sugar to taste.

Jellied Cabbage and Celery Salad
1 cup finely shredded cabbage.
1 cup finely diced celery.
2 pimientos, minced.
1/2 cup vinegar.
2 cups water.
2 tablespoons gelatin.
1/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar.
Soften the gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water; mix the sugar, vinegar and water and bring to a boil and add the gelatin. Stir until dissolved. When cold, season with a little salt and mix with the cabbage, pimientos and celery. Pour into molds. Set aside to congeal. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Caramel Cookies
1 cup shortening.
2 cups brown sugar.
2 eggs, well beaten.
1/2 cup nut meats.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 1/4 cups flour.
1/2 teaspoon soda.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
Cream sugar and shortening and add, beaten eggs. Add chopped nut meats and vanilla. Sift the flour with the soda and salt and add to the creamed mixture. Mix and roll into 1/2 inch rolls. Wrap in paraffin paper and chill over night. Slice in thin slices and bake on a greased cookie sheet in a moderate oven. These amounts make 6 dozen small cookies.

Dear Mrs. Auch. I have been reading your department only a short time but must say that it is just fine. I have tried a number of the recipes and they turned out perfectly. Please tell me how to make good meringue. I make real good crust but my meringue is never light and fluffy but is tough and often water forms under it. Thanking you if you can help me, I am,

A New Reader.

Add 2 tablespoons sugar to each egg white. Water forming under the meringue between the filling and meringue indicates that the meringue was not sufficiently beaten. Beat the egg whites very stiff and beat in the sugar. We use 3 egg whites for meringue for 1 pie. Fill the meringue on to the pie and place in a very cool oven for 15 minutes, increase the heat and brown lightly.

(Too Late for Last Week)

Last Thursday Mrs. May Ransom had added to her house-party her two granddaughters, Misses Elizabeth and Olive Boles of Wayne, Penn. On Friday evening, July 11th, Miss Mary Ella Bedinger entertained with a Slumber Party at her home. The guests were as follows: Misses Elizabeth and Olive Boles of Wayne, Pennsylvania, Miss Rebecca Sleet, Elizabeth Roberts, Misses Charlotte and Marjorie Carson, Miss Juanita Struve, and Miss Margaret Jane Plummer. Several contests were participated in by everybody present. Those winning the prizes were Miss Marjorie Carson and Miss Olivia Boles. Refreshments were served shortly after nine o'clock. A chicken breakfast was served next morning and the guests departed about ten o'clock.

Saturday evening, Mrs. Jake Cleek entertained very delightfully in honor of Misses Elizabeth and Olivia Boles. Dr. and Mrs. Orr, aunt and uncle of the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Baker, and the young people of the neighborhood and their friends were the invited guests. Many games were enjoyed by the young people. Delightful refreshments were served to all.

The picnic planned by Misses Mary Bruce and Elizabeth Roberts for Sunday afternoon was checked by the rain, but the sumptuous supper was just as delicious within doors.

Miss Juanita Struve was hostess to a nice party of young people from the neighborhood and Walton Monday night. A grand time was reported, lovely refreshments were served and games were played until a late hour.

The neighborhood is thankful for a good, steady rain Sunday.

THE LATEST

Certainly there is nothing at all difficult about outlining but from the present point of view it is often more desirable than the more difficult solid embroidery. There are many ways of making use of it in decorating simple summer dresses of lightweight silk or cotton.

The sketch shows a summer costume consisting of sleeveless dress and short jacket of plain natural-colored shantung with embroidery done in a soft light shade of brown. This same design may be used to trim little girls' dresses—using the simple motif to form a border near the hem of the skirt, repeated on sleeves and front of blouse.

To mark the circle you may use a spool from your work box. Run a long needle through the center of the spool to mark the center of the circle and then mark ten lines from the center to the circumference and a stem at the lower side of the circle. Nothing could be simpler and yet when the design is worked it is most effective.

SULFUR PREVENTS CHIGGER ATTACKS

This is picnic time, which fact suggests chiggers, especially if the outing takes one into spots where tall grass, weeds and brambles abound. Within 12 to 24 hours after one has visited such places and chiggers are present the skin may become inflamed in spots, especially where the clothing fits tightly. Scattered red blotches of varied size appear, accompanied by intense itching. This unpleasant sensation may subside in a few hours or it may last several days depending upon the individual.

Before entering places where chiggers might be expected one could prevent the trouble made by those little tormentors by dusting flowers of sulfur liberally and uniformly into the clothing, says Prof. W. A. Price of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. If this has not been done, or even if it has, a soapy bath within a few hours of the exposure, allowing the soap to dry on the skin, will usually prevent infection. After itching has begun little can be done except to avoid infecting the bites by scratching.

Some relief can be had by applying a weak solution of ammonia to the affected parts. Common baking soda or salt dissolved in water until some remains in the bottom of the dish or untined gives some relief. Cooling agents are sometimes used with considerable success. A good one is salicylic acid in alcohol with a little olive oil.

Premises infested with these mites may be freed by cutting out the underbrush, especially the berry brambles, by keeping grass closely trimmed and by a rather liberal use of sulfur and some kerosene. Drag over the infested lawns a piece of canvas or other cloth wrung out of kerosene. Do not allow the oil to drip on the canvas remain long in one place. Either may kill the grass. Follow this operation by dusting flowers of sulfur on the grass at the rate of 50 pounds to the acre.

VIRGINIANS BUY KENTUCKY SHEEP

H. C. Stuart, a former governor of Virginia, recently purchased 79 Southdown sheep from members of the Kentucky Accredited Purebred Sheep Breeders' Association, Richard C. Miller of the College of Agriculture, secretary of the association, announces. Several other prominent Virginia breeders purchased sheep in this state this summer.

Tennessee breeders also have been in the state, buying mostly Hampshires. Kentucky breeding sheep now are going to many states, including California and other regions famous for their valuable sheep production according to Mr. Miller.

"I JUST CAN REMEMBER"

I can remember the day
When I was a child at play
I heard my mother say:
"Make your happiness as true
As my days with you."

There's a carnation that grows
More sweeter than a rose
Every mother knows.

You may be untrue to the so dear
To you,
But there may come a day
You will go to her and say,
"Mother dear dry the tears from your eyes,
Its only you I long to surprise.
I'll heal your heartache, please don't sigh,
I surely paid and wondered why,
When I could have made you happy
Instead I made you cry.

"I AM SMILING AT THE SUN-SHINE"

When the clouds clear the skies of blue

I am smiling at the sunshine the whole day through,
There's so many things to make me happy,
Why should I feel blue.

Troubles may try to find
Their way into my heart,
But I'm not the kind that lets them start.

I am smiling at the sunshine
The sunshine is smiling at me,
Bluebirds, bluebirds, that's all I see,
Days may be cloudy I am never blue,
I'll wait for the sun to shine through,
For there's so many things to make me happy.

Why should I feel blue.

Carthage in Mythology

Tradition has it that the actual founder of Carthage was Elassa, a king's daughter, who took the name Edda, which meant refuge. According to Virgil, Aeneas, escaping from burning Troy, stopped at Carthage on his way to Italy, where he was to found the line of Romulus. Dido, according to the poet, fell in love with Aeneas, and when he sailed away he saw the smoke from the funeral pyre in which she burned herself.

STATE TAX MEN AND BANKERS IN ACCORD

Months of Negotiation Lead to Agreement on Changes Broadening Method of State or Local Taxation of National Banks.

NEW YORK.—Months of conference and negotiation between an American Bankers Association special committee and the Committee of the Association of States on Bank Taxation have resulted in an agreement on a form of amendment to the Federal statute dealing with state or local taxation of national banks that "maintains the integrity of the protective principles of the section and is satisfactory to the commissioners' committee," says the American Bankers Association Journal.

Thomas R. Paton, the organization's General Counsel, in making the announcement says that previously proposed amendments to the statute, which is known as Section 5219, have been opposed when it was felt their terms would force any state to place banks in a tax class by themselves.

"The law as it stands today," Mr. Paton says, "permits state or local taxation of national banks or their shareholders in one or the other of the four following forms: the shareholder upon the bank's shares; the bank upon its net income; the bank according to or measured by its net income. Only one form of tax can be imposed, except that the dividend tax may be combined with the third or fourth form if other corporations and shareholders are likewise taxed."

"The conditions permitted are: the tax on shares must be at no greater rate than on other competing moneyed capital; the income tax on shareholders must be at no greater rate than on other competing moneyed capital; the tax on bank net income must be at no higher rate than on other financial corporations nor on the highest rates on mercantile and manufacturing corporations doing business within the state; the tax measured by net bank income is subject to the same limitations as the tax on net income of the bank but may include entire net income from all sources."

National banks and their shareholders are taxed in different states under a diversity of systems, he says. The U. S. Supreme Court has held that the low millage rate on intangible personal property is in violation of the present law where it results in national bank shares being taxed at a rate greater than that assessed upon competing moneyed capital. A number of states, unwilling to use the income methods permitted, had the alternative of either repealing the intangible tax laws or limiting taxation of national bank shares at the intangible rate. Therefore they sought a broadening of the permissive provisions.

Also, Mr. Paton points out, a Supreme Court decision held a state's excise tax on corporations invalid where it included income from Federal and local government bonds in the excise measure. This created doubt as to some state bank excise taxes.

"Conferences have been held to reach some agreement which would protect the banks, satisfy the tax commission, and avoid a contest in Congress," Mr. Paton says. "From the standpoint of the tax authorities, the main objective has been an amendment which would permit certain states to retain their low rate tax upon intangibles and at the same time derive an adequate, but not excessive, revenue from national bank shares, and an amendment which would permit certain states to tax corporations on their net income, excluding income from tax-exempts, and at the same time derive the same revenue from the banks as heretofore. From the standpoint of the banks, it has been deemed imperative to maintain the protective principles of Section 5219.

The Changes Agreed On
"In the proposed amendment the existing provision permitting taxation of bank shares no higher than the rate upon competing moneyed capital has been modified with respect to certain intangible tax states only by a provision under which, instead of the moneyed capital limitation, the rate shall not be greater than the rate upon the shares of other financial corporations, nor upon the net assets of individuals, partnerships or associations employed in the banking, loan or investment business, nor higher than the rate assessed upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations with head office in the state."

"Also an added fifth alternative permissive method, designated as a specific tax, permits a state, in place of an ad valorem tax on bank shares, to add together total dividends paid the preceding year and the increase in capital, surplus and undivided profits, less additions to capital or surplus paid in by stockholders, and to divide this (total by the number of shares. The state may tax the shares based upon this amount, but not to exceed the rate on other corporations in proportion to their net profits."

"This method is designed for states which have heretofore taxed national banks upon their entire net income from all sources at a proportionate rate to that assessed upon business corporations. The amount which is the basis of the tax is the equivalent of the entire net income from all sources, but being assessed against the shareholder upon his property in the shares and not a tax upon the bank, it is not subject to the objection as an indirect tax on exempt income."

THE INDIVIDUAL YET NEEDED BY BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

SOME seem to think that the day of the individual in business has passed. But they are wrong. While the individual may not attract such outstanding attention as he did in the days of old when institutions were conducted on a smaller scale, he nevertheless is to be found in any large corporation, dominating the situation, giving orders here, co-operating there, and shouldering the responsibility of keeping a large group of lieutenants, captains and privates working in unison and moving forward under the banner of progress. And all of these are held accountable to the public because the public has entered into a partnership agreement with the corporation through purchase of stock.

John G. Lonsdale orders here, co-operates there, and shouldering the responsibility of keeping a large group of lieutenants, captains and privates working in unison and moving forward under the banner of progress. And all of these are held accountable to the public because the public has entered into a partnership agreement with the corporation through purchase of stock.

Welfare of Workers
Even in the gigantic mergers that have taken place within the last two years there remains more than ever the necessity for a leader, an aggressive personality, whose duty it is to keep the public principles and not forgotten, that the rights and privileges of the individual workers and the customers they serve are as well provided for as in the smaller business units.

It is gratifying to note that our corporations are giving more and more concern to the welfare of their workers. Numerous benefit organizations have been formed, opportunities offered for advancement of education and position, hospital service established and insurance and retirement pensions provided.

The general humanitarian movement in reality is the outgrowth of analysis, which has disclosed the need of improving the well-being of our individual workers, realizing at the same time that our institutions will benefit.

PREPAREDNESS IN BUSINESS

By R. S. HECHT,
American Bankers Association.

My observations for many years, both as an employee and as an executive, have convinced me that the reason some men and women go ahead and others do not is that some keep themselves constantly prepared to accept and fulfill larger duties and responsibilities as they offer, and some do not.

Grant, as we must, that there is a certain element of luck in the conditions under which opportunity for promotion comes to different men and women, we nevertheless must also see that it is each individual's own state of preparedness which determines his ability to seize opportunity if and when it comes, and having seized it, to succeed in meeting the greater demands which it inevitably places upon him.

Real advancement never means going ahead to easier tasks, but always to harder ones. Opportunity for advancement is worthless unless in accepting it you are able to carry with you the abilities and qualifications that prepare you to meet the heavier exactions that are an inherent part of opportunity.

It is far better to go into action in the field of enlarged responsibility prepared and qualified, rather than that you and the institution you work for shall be exposed to the hazard of your having to build up to new responsibilities after having assumed them.

The new spirit of all business seeks to prepare its people in advance through education for the higher duties it holds in store for them.

Bank Bandits Active

The greatest number of bandit raids on American banking ever recorded in the figures of the protective department of the American Bankers Association were reported during the six months ending last February. Bank members of the association reported for investigation 811 robbery cases, 107 holdup robberies, 10 burglaries, 2 sneak thefts and 8 mortgage swindles while non-member banks, numbering less than half the total enrolled in the association, suffered 56 holdup robberies and 9 burglaries, non-members being burglarized or held up once for every 89 banks, as compared with once for every 164 member banks. The association detective agents caused the arrest of 143 of the 236 bank criminals apprehended during the period covered.

The association's report on these conditions urges supported the movement to provide city police departments with radio-equipped cruising automobiles which have proved particularly effective in Cleveland and Detroit in the broadcasting of alarms and the closing in on criminals immediately after or even in the midst of the perpetration of crimes. In 1935 the average time elapsed between the receipt of radio calls by these cars and the 1325 arrests which followed was one minute and forty-two seconds, the report says.

INK stains can be removed from the fingers by rubbing with a cloth moistened with household ammonia. Rinse the hands in clear water, afterwards. Lemon juice is an excellent remover of rust stains from white fabrics.

For a delicious sauce to be served with fish, such as broiled sea bass, mix together the juice and grated rind of one lemon, two tablespoons sugar, and the well-beaten yolks of two eggs. Add gradually to one cup of strained fish stock which has been placed in a double boiler over the fire. Stir constantly until the mixture thickens. Pour the sauce over the fish just before serving.

"DARK HORSES"

ARE WINNERS OF FIVE OF FOURTEEN EVENTS AT HORSESHOE TOURNAMENT SATURDAY NIGHT—SOME CLASSY GAMES ON CARD IN SECOND ROUND THIS WEEK

Whoever invented the term "dark horse" failed to have a definition for the expression incorporated in a standard dictionary. At least we never have been successful in our search for it.

At any rate we have our own ideas about the meaning and at the same time we have our own reasons for calling the horsehoe tournament "dark horse" tournament.

Several different times last Saturday night, however, we thought that it might be timely and appropriate to call it a "dark horse" tournament instead of simply a "dark horse" affair. Those present who sat in darkness at numerous intervals while the electric current was somewhere else will readily understand and appreciate the reference.

But what we mean by the "dark horse" tournament is that there were eighteen of the forty-six who went to the post last Saturday night who were not in the first contests. Of course some of them lost, which was inevitable, as they were pitted against another "dark horse." At the same time, however, some of them came thru against some of the artists who were supposed to be going somewhere.

Of the fourteen matches that were completed last Saturday night five of the winners were among the so-called dark ones. These included Alvin Garrison, of Union, "Bucky" Rogers, of Bellevue, Len Hubbard, of Owl Hollow, and Frank Snow, of Beaver. One of the biggest spots of the evening was the defeat of the Cross, who had developed into a prominent contender for championship honors, by Alvin Garrison. In beating Bob Hayden Wilson "Bucky" Rogers also showed plenty of stuff. Riley Presser and Frank Snow looked good and both are said to be claiming things for themselves, while, though not making any specific claims, Len Hubbard, the fifth winner of the new comers, always will give a good account of himself.

Followers of the other tourney were not surprised to see Sam Ryle, Lester Gulley, Frank Maurer, L. R. McNeely, Manley Ryle, Owen Fortwood, David Williamson, Albert Pettit and L. O. Hubbard among the first round winners. But, after the completion of the first round games, the fur will fly next Saturday night when one half of the above will be trying to eliminate the other half from a chance at the twenty-five dollars in gold that will be divided 60-40 between the winners of first and second place.

The first round games probably would have been played off last week had it not been for the storm Saturday afternoon which wrecked the electric light lines in several places. Several of these matches remain on the program for next Saturday night, after which the second round will get under way with some of the best pitchers of the tourney after each other.

Included among the pitchers who are yet to compete in the first round games next Saturday evening will be found still more dark horses, as well as some of the junior pitchers, who showed such fine form in the last tournament. The juniors will have an addition to their list this time in the person of Robert Owen McMullen, of Gunpowder, who is said to be a real pitcher; Lee Edward Portwood will have as his first opponent A. J. Ogden, of Lima, while James Lee McNeely and Valentine Dolwick, two more promising junior pitchers, will fight it out with each other for the privilege of continuing in the fight for the gold coin. Many think that this match will be the best one on the card.

While there is no doubt that the storm Saturday afternoon kept many "fans" away, yet a nice crowd of several hundred was on hand for the first round games. It is practically certain that this number will be doubled next week to see the completion of the first round games and to witness the clash between some of the first round winners. It is possible that all of the second round games will be completed next week after the finish of the remainder of the first contests.

90-YEAR-OLD GOLD PIECE

From The Falmouth Outlook
Campbellville, Ky.—While plowing in a field near Knifey, Nolan Jones turned up a piece of metal which resembled the cap of a shotgun shell. He carried it to the house and gave it to his little boy. Later the child returned the article to him, and Mr. Jones polished it up and found it to be a $5 gold piece 94 years old.

NEW LAW

COVERING ELECTIONS TO GO INTO EFFECT WITH REPUBLICAN PRIMARY NEXT SATURDAY — ELECTION COMMISSIONERS MEET THIS WEEK TO LOCK BOXES

Next Saturday the Sixth Congressional District will be the scene of a preliminary between Mrs. Marie C. Haller and J. Lincoln Newhall, the two candidates for the Republican nomination for a seat in the national house of representatives. Mr. Newhall is the present congressman, while Mrs. Haller, of Fort Thomas, is making her second campaign for the nomination. The winner will oppose Senator Brent Spence, Democratic nominee, who was defeated by Prof. Newhall last November.

The primary next Saturday, in which Mrs. Haller and Mr. Newhall will contest, will witness the inauguration of the new election law. The three commissioners, J. H. Stevens, Tilden Dugdon and Sheriff Herbert Snyder, met at the court house, according to the mandate of the new law, and locked the ballot boxes.

The election officers will not have access to be inside of the boxes at any time during the hours of voting. They simply will apply the key to the lock over the slot, through which the voter has deposited his ballot, after the hour of voting has expired. The boxes then will be delivered to the county clerk's office, where the commissioners will unlock the boxes Monday and start the count.

CHILD INJURED

WHEN FALLING BUCKET FROM APPLE TREE STRIKES HER ON HEAD

Little Mary Bess Jarrell, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jarrell, sustained a very painful wound Tuesday morning.

She was under an apple tree in which Londa Lee, her elder sister, was picking apples and letting them to the ground in a bucket suspended from a cord. The cord broke suddenly and, when a warning was shouted to the child on the ground, she looked up just in time to receive the full impact of the falling bucket. Tush on her forehead. Neither Dr. Duncan nor Dr. Yelton was in town at the time and members of the family were unable to stop the bleeding. It was more than an hour before Dr. Yelton could reach the home. He gave the child relief from the bleeding, but members of the family fear that she will bear a permanent scar from the wound.

MARRIED AT PARSONAGE

The marriage of J. W. Quigley and Mrs. Ada Bachelor took place quietly at the Lutheran parsonage at Florence last Sunday evening at eight o'clock. Both bride and groom are well known throughout this section of the county and they carry the best wishes of a host of friends for a happy wedded life. Mr. Quigley is one of the most widely known business men in Boone county, having been a successful merchant at Lima before entering the garage business at Florence, where he is still located.

Joe Jordan, member of the news staff of the Lexington Leader and a graduate of the department of Journalism at the University of Kentucky, has been appointed by the executive board of Transylvania College to inaugurate a course in Journalism at Transylvania at the beginning of the fall term.

The line-up for the games Saturday night, in the exact order in which they will pitch, will be found on the first page of this issue.

Local Happenings

A spring on the farm of W. H. Rouse, of Gunpowder creek near here, has been utilized by the owners of that farm for as long as one hundred years, according to older residents. The water comes from the ground thru a large pipe and the vein always has nearly filled the pipe. Thru every drought, according to old occupants of this farm, this stream has continued to run. Within the past few weeks, however, the size of the vein has decreased until now it is barely perceptible. Another evidence of the extensiveness of the present dry period.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Van Velsel of East Bend road have as their guests their mother Mrs. Edward Roberts, of Covington, and niece Ann Roberts, of Hyde Park.

The Burlington P. T. A. has contracted with John B. Rogers Producing Company to produce one of their latest and best Musical Comedies here in the near future. The title of the show selected is "ALL ABOARD" and is from the pen of the late June McCree. New York put the stamp of approval on "ALL ABOARD" a short time ago, when it enjoyed an extended run on Broadway. Rehearsals are expected to begin about September 10th under the personal direction of one of the above firms expert producers.

The public sale of the personal property of C. H. Youell will be held at his late residence August 9th. See sale bill appearing in this issue.

Mrs. Carrie Dove, formerly Miss Carrie Graves, of Bullittsville, has returned home.

Mrs. J. G. Smith has recovered from her illness of last week.

A Burlington merchant, when referring to present backward industrial and economic conditions, utilizes as his favorite expression "we are going back to Abe's day." No doubt Elmore Ryle will be a believer in this philosophy after an experience he had one day last week. Mr. Ryle, after the fashion of the present day method of "speeding" things, was bringing a road wagon to town attached to the rear system of his Ford. The wagon became disengaged from the auto and beat it to town, according to Mr. Ryle, but we have learned from authentic sources that it merely got loose at the top of a hill and beat the car to the bottom.

Bert Smith, of Newport, accompanied by his son, passed thru Burlington Monday morning on his return to his post of duty as a collector of mail for Uncle Sam in the above city. Bert just had finished a vacation of two weeks, which he spent with relatives in various sections of Boone county, his former home. Bert has been on his present job for the past seventeen years.

A meeting of the Burlington Parent-Teachers Association will be held at the Court House next Tuesday evening, August 5th, for the discussion of important business.

Work on the catalogs for the North Kentucky Fair is about completed at the Recorder office. As soon as this work is completed the composition will start on the Harvest Home fair books. The date for this annual fair has been announced for Saturday, September 15th. The North Kentucky Fair opens August 27 and closes August 30th.

Mr. Kassabaum, of the firm of W. Kassabaum and Son, of Aurora, Indiana, was in Boone county on business Wednesday. The Kassabaums have distributed tombstones and grave markers in Boone county for nearly a half century and are the oldest advertisers in the Recorder, never having missed an issue since they started in our columns more than forty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Pettit had as guests for dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Allen and son, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walton and two children and Mrs. Lavina Horton, all of Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., entertained a number of relatives last Thursday.

Sherman Peeno and family of St. Bernard, Ohio, were Sunday guests of W. G. Arnold and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Craddock had as guests for dinner Sunday the following: James Bellington, of Walton; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Frank and three children, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maxwell and two children.

TO OPEN FILLING STATION

A. R. Campbell will open a modern Super Filling Station at Florence next Saturday. The station will be located at the intersection of Shelby Street with the Dixie Highway conveniently located to the traveling public.

Mr. Campbell states that he will permit no tips from the public to the employees of his station, service being their motto. He further announces that every convenience will be available to the motorist, including air, water and other incidental conveniences.

The best of mechanics will be available at all times for service. Refining oils, gas and greases will be sold with Goodyear accessories. See Mr. Campbell's opening ad. in other columns of this issue.

CATCHES 135-LB. CATFISH

From The Falmouth Outlook
Richmond, Ky.—This is a fish story the town's fish dealer will vouch for. Henry Moran landed the largest blue catfish that has been caught here in 30 years. It weighed 135 pounds and was 5 feet long. Last summer he took the season's honors by catching a 90-pound fish.

GROUP MEETING

OF NORTH BEND W. M. U. HELD AT BURLINGTON JULY 24TH. MRS. ESTEN SNYDER IS NEW LEADER—LARGE CROWD ATTENDS Group 2 of the North Bend W. M. U. held its annual meeting at Burlington Baptist church July 24. Two hundred members and guests were present.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Esten Snyder, who was chosen as group leader to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. J. W. Campbell, who was the efficient and beloved leader of this group for many years. We, who lament the loss of one so dear to us, are gratified to see her place filled by such a competent leader as Mrs. Snyder.

A very interesting and instructive program was given by the Societies of various churches of Group 2, and a splendid talk on the work in South China by Mrs. E. T. Snuggs, who is a returned missionary.

A delightful dinner, enjoyed by all was served by the ladies of the Burlington W. M. U. to whom we owe a vote of thanks for their hospitality.

MATTIE J. KREYLICH, Secretary.

200 ATTEND

BOONE COUNTY 4-H CLUB PICNIC AT BIG BONE LAST THURSDAY — ALLEN KENYON, OF CONSTANCE, PRESIDES

More than 200 4-H club boys and girls and adult leaders attended the Boone county 4-H club picnic held at Big Bone last Thursday. Members and leaders from Hebron, Burlington, Constance, Pleasant, Florence, Union, Mt. Zion, Walton and Hamilton 4-H clubs were present. Plenty of good eats were on hand and the day was enjoyed by all attending.

A number of contests were held during the day. Miss Helen Miller, of the Florence Y-L-A-All 4-H club won first prize in the girls talking contest. The Union Booster's girls ball team defeated the Silver Leaders team of Hamilton. The Norbuck Champion boys team of Hebron defeated the Blue Ribbon team from Burlington. The horse shoe pitching contest had a number of entrants with James Ogden and Ralph Maurer of the Blue Ribbon Club defeating Lloyd Kelly Jones and Paul Setters of the Silver Leaders Club, runner ups in the contest.

Mr. Allen Kenyon, president of the County 4-H Club Officers Association, presided over the general meeting held following the noon hour. A poultry judging for production demonstration was given by the county agent previous to the holding of the contests.

CLUB BOY RAISES TOMATOES

Mr. Lloyd Hankins, a member of the Norbuck Champion 4-H club has two acres of Bonnie Best and Marjorie tomatoes in his club project this year. He has been selling tomatoes on the market for the past four weeks and securing fine prices for the home grown product.

The land was carefully prepared for this project and special care was used in securing good strong healthy plants. A total of 1250 pounds of 2-4-6 fertilizer was used on the two acres. Considering the dry weather Lloyd reports his crop is doing as well as could be expected.

MARRIED WEDNESDAY

Shelby Moore, 47, and Miss Lilly Rice, 19, both of Boone county, obtained license to marry at the court house here Wednesday morning. After obtaining the license they left for Florence, where they planned to be married by Rev. F. E. Heltzer, Lutheran minister, at the parsonage.

GAMES HALTED

IN BOONE COUNTY LEAGUES WHEN THUNDER STORMS BREAK—SAME SCHEDULE WILL BE RESUMED THIS WEEK

Old Jupiter Pluvius, the indomitable god of the showers, who has failed to stop anything except weather predictions so far this summer, stepped in and took a hand at base ball last Saturday afternoon and knocked a home run with three on. The sail three on of course were the games at Rabbit Hash, Francisville and Burlington.

Everybody was certainly glad to see Old Jupiter come out of his slump, and the combined opposition of the seven teams in the league cordially invite him back next week, even though he should clean the base ball platter again.

To get down to just plain ball, we respectfully announce that the schedule of last week, except for a double bill at Rabbit Hash, will be resumed. This schedule may be found in other columns.

The game at Rabbit Hash, between Petersburg and the proteges of the former village, a legal game (five innings) was nearly completed when the rain intervened. Petersburg was leading 6-1 at the time.

At Francisville, where Walton was trying to gain at least a tie in the league race by reason of a victory, the score was deadlocked at 2-all in the third.

Burlington was leading Bellevue 2 to 0 with Burlington taking their turn at bat in the third inning. Sprague and Rogers were the opposing moundmen, as per announcement, with Sprague having somewhat the better of the argument when proceedings were stopped by the storm.

Due to the fact that a second meeting would have been necessitated in case both Burlington and Walton should win their games, next week in order to make some disposition of a tied race for the flag, the league meeting, which had been set for last Monday night, was postponed until next Monday night, August 4. Should Walton and Bellevue each come off with victories next Saturday, thus finishing tied for first place, steps will be taken at the meeting to permit them to settle the possession of the flag. Drawings also will be made and plans formulated for the starting of the championship elimination series.

Bellevue Wins Easily

Battling along in an atmosphere that was superheated to the nth degree, Bellevue won another victory in the Spinney League elimination series last Sunday afternoon. This victory left them still in that class comprised of teams that have lost but one game.

Their opponents Sunday were the U. S. Feds and it was the third loss and elimination for the Feds. Joe Brady was in the box for Bellevue at the start and carried on at his usual rate of effectiveness until the oppressive heat knocked him out of the box. Ben Black succeeded Brady and held the visitor safely while Bellevue made enough to win. The score was 6-2, with Brady allowing one run and four hits in five innings, while Black permitted one run and three hits in four innings. Stephens caught Brady, though McNeely relieved him when Black went to the mound.

Next Sunday Bellevue will take on Edenton, Ohio, in another elimination game. The fans who have followed them closely will remember that they have already handed one defeat to Edenton this season when they smashed them 10-0 on June 8th.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

AN EPISODE

Bill sat in his harness, sliver it the front gate, awaiting revised orders as to what he should bring from town. After a long moment, his father's head appeared at the little farm-house door, with "That's all, Bill—can be shore not to forget them pills—an' hurry right back."

The farm-boy chuckled away, finally pulling up in front of the village drug store; "I want a box of the best liver pills ye got," he informed the spectated dispenser of life-savers; after some discussion as to the sort most effective, Bill took a quarter's worth of the "improved," any three of which would have probably taken through a wooden man. The dutiful boy soon gathered the rest of his items and skurried home.

John, Bill's elder brother, had been "layin' around two days, with colic in his bowels—couldn't work—needed his liver shook up," symptoms, diagnosis, treatment. Johnny took a full dose of "the best pills to be had," that night at bedtime. He put in a bad night, Johnny did; by the middle of the next day he was very much swollen in the abdomen, was in great pain at intervals, delirious. The mother called the doctor.

It didn't take ten minutes for the physician to build a few conclusions—sharp and emphatic they were. "This boy has a ruptured appendix and consequent peritonitis; you should have consulted me at the very beginning of his complaint; now it is very late; he must be rushed to the best hospital available, right now! Every split second of delay lessens our chance of saving his life!"

After a long, tedious fight, Johnny succumbed; his entire system was saturated with the infection. The "improved" pill had wrought its desolation.

If this story impresses upon your reader the fact that, a cathartic pill should NEVER be given to a patient with abdominal pain—then I shall feel rewarded for the effort many times. Better safe than sorry. See the doctor first.

Friday Dinner

- Tomato Salad
- Baked White Fish
- Scalloped Potatoes
- Fried Cauliflower
- Rolls Raspberry and Currant Jelly
- New Apple Pie
- Iced Tea
- Tomato Salad

There is no end to the varieties of tomato salad but the one we are using today is attractive and easily made. Skin the tomatoes and chill. Remove the core and fill with chopped green pepper and a little chopped onion. Garnish with a few slices of cucumber and serve with a French dressing.

Baked White Fish

White Fish is at its best just now and is a most delicious and popular fish. Select a fish weighing 2 1/2 to 4 pounds. Clean and wipe the fish. Rub inside with salt and fill with the stuffing. Sew together and brush with butter. Season with salt and pepper and dredge lightly with flour. When the fish is browned, bake the fish in ten minutes. Cook until the bones separate easily from the meat.

Fried Cauliflower

Clean the vegetable and allow to sit in cold salted water for a half hour. Boil the whole head uncovered for 10 minutes. Drain well and when cool cut into slices. Dip in seasoned beaten egg and roll in fine dry crumbs. Fry in hot fat.

Cherry and Cantaloupe Cocktail

3 cups dark red cherries, stoned
3 cups cantaloupe cubes or balls
1/2 cup orange juice
4 tablespoons or less lemon juice
Sweeten the juice to taste and chill. Arrange alternate layers of the cantaloupe and cherries in the glasses and pour the chilled juice over them.

Chicken With Cream Gravy

Clean the chicken and cut into pieces suitable for serving. Season with salt and pepper. Dip in beaten egg and roll in fine crumbs. Place in a melted butter pan and add a little melted butter to each piece. Cover and bake until tender. Remove the cover and brown, basting frequently. Remove the chicken to a hot platter and make a cream gravy of the fat in the pan. Allow two tablespoons flour to each 2 tablespoons fat and add 1 to 1 1/2 cups rich milk. Roll up and season well.

Asparagus au Gratin

- 2 cups cooked asparagus.
- 4 tablespoons chopped olives.
- 1 hard cooked egg, chopped coarsely.
- 1 cup white sauce.

Place a layer of the asparagus in the bottom of a buttered baking dish and sprinkle with the chopped egg and olives. Add some of the white sauce. Continue until all is used. Top with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until hot through and the crumbs browned. The olives may be omitted.

Lime Jelly Salad

- 1 package lime flavored gelatine.
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced cucumber.

- 1 cup fresh peaches, sliced.
- Make the gelatine in the usual way and add the cucumber and the peaches when the mixture is cold and begins to set. Turn into molds. To serve remove to lettuce lined plates and serve with mayonnaise and cream cheese balls.

Butterscotch Sauce

- 2 cups sugar.
  - 1 1/2 cups dark corn syrup.
  - 2 tablespoons butter.
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt.
  - 2 cups thin cream.
- Cook all ingredients until the mixture will form a ball when tested. Remove from the fire and chill. To serve reheat and add more cream if needed.

Queries and Answers

Dear Mrs. Auch: I wish to take advantage of your kindness with several questions. First, tell me why my whole wheat bread is sometimes so full of large holes. I find a large hole through the center of the loaf. Then tell me why my pastry is always so hard, not tender and crisp as I like it to be. I use plenty of shortening. Last year my grape jelly was gummy and did not stiffen as it should. Can you tell me what was wrong with it as I want to make grape jelly this year but do not want this kind of jelly. Please send me your set of preserve recipes. I like your department and your recipes are sure fine. Thank you for helping me.

Mrs. "Housewife."

Your whole wheat bread was full of holes because you did not knead it sufficiently. Whole wheat dough is sticky and you are likely to use more flour than you should and unless this is well mixed in the result is large holes in the bread.

Your pastry is no doubt hard because an excess of water is used. Use only sufficient water to bind the ingredients. Use as little as possible.

Pasty should be placed in a very hot oven for at least 10 minutes, then reduce the heat to bake the filling.

Now about the Grape Jelly. Your grapes, we have an idea were entirely ripe. For best results, use pailfully ripe grapes. There was a time when equal amounts of sugar and juice were used but we find better results are obtained when 1/2 cup of sugar is used to each cup of juice.

Preserve Recipes

If you are interested in knowing how to make sparkling, clear, tender preserves, you will surely want this set of preserve recipes which we have. There are ten recipes in the set and each and every one is a reliable tested recipe. These are ten of my choicest recipes. The Paradise Jelly is unusual and one of our readers took several prizes with jelly made from this recipe. This is one of the recipes in the set.

There is no charge for these cards but we do ask you to enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope. Address your letter in care of this paper.

Loved by All

The human mind has an incurable love for the mysterious. American Magazine.

The Mayhew Lumber Company of Walton has just completed the building of a self-feeder for hogs from the College of Agriculture blue prints. The feeder will hold approximately a ton of grain mixture and 300 pounds of tankage at one filling. Its built on skids and may be moved from one field to another.

The feeder was built for Mr. Sam B. Sleet, Walton R. D. 2, who is one of Boone county's leading hog raisers. Mr. Sleet is feeding around 60 hogs at the present time and will use the self-feeder in finishing his hogs for market.

4-H CAMP CHANGE

The Northern Kentucky 4-H club encampment on advice of Mr. E. E. Fish, field agent in club work has been changed from Crittenden to Williamstown on August 11th to the 15th. The change was found necessary on account of lack of water at Crittenden.

The camp will be held at the High school building in Williamstown. The change will give purified refrigerator, drinking water, shower baths, gymnasium, athletic field, class rooms and more desirable sleeping quarters.

The 4-H club leaders and members are urged to cooperate in the new arrangements in spite of the necessary change in the program. Members in the near future will receive a complete list of necessary equipment to bring to camp.

BLISTER BEETLE DAMAGE SEVERE

Many Boone county farmers are suffering severe attacks of the old fashioned potato bug or blister beetles. Tomato, potato, bean and other plants are being eaten up.

The recommended method for control of this pest is to dust four times as heavy as required for ordinary pest control with one pound arsenate of lead to four pounds of lime. A liquid spray of arsenate of lead and lime may be used. Beginning in time and heavy spraying will help in the control of this pest.

CAMP DATE AUGUST 18 TO 22

The definite date of August 18th to 22nd inclusive has been set for the Northern Kentucky 4-H Club Camp according to County Agent H. W. Finkner.

The camp will be held at Crittenden the same place as last year. Club members from Boone, Kenton, Grant, Campbell, Owen and Gallatin counties will be eligible to attend. The allocation of more advanced agricultural study work on livestock, crops and farm machinery and the expectancy of the largest attendance on record will be the only changes from the previous years work.

The morning programs will be devoted to class work on farm and home projects. The afternoon program will be devoted to recreational training while the night program will be devoted to drama and entertainment work under the supervision of a state 4-H club specialist. All adult club leaders and members who have their project work up to date are eligible to attend camp.

KOREAN LESPEDEZA STANDS DROUGHT

Korean lespedeza is suffering but is standing the drought better than most crops sown this spring according to reports of the county agent who visited a large number of fields the past week.

A number of Boone county farmers sowing seed the past spring report practically a total loss. Red clover came up fine but has received severe losses the past few weeks from the dry weather.

SPREAD LIMESTONE

Now is a good time to spread an haul limestone if the farm work has become slack. Mr. Ormer-Cleek, of Walton, reports the sale of two and a half car loads the past week. The roads are solid and trucks can haul the material straight to the field where the stone is to be spread.

A number of farmers are interested in knowing where they can secure ground limestone for agricultural purposes. For local dealers the Boone County Farm Bureau is handling finely ground stone in 80 pound sacks while the Walton Feed Mills and Mr. Ormer-Cleek, of Walton, are delivering bulk limestone direct from car to farm.

Limestone and phosphate will pay for themselves the first year if applied on the grain-crop and will increase yields of clover and grasses that are to follow for years to come. These fertilizers will help solve the hay shortage next year.

THE LATEST

Narrow ribbons outlines the raised waistline of many of the most attractive of the summer dresses. It is drawn round the waist so that it is precisely as trim as the dress without being tight enough to cause a single wrinkle or pucker, and almost always there are loops and ends hanging down at the left side.

For the woman who is not decidedly slender through waist and hips the narrow ribbon belt is an unfortunate choice. A far better selection for her is a sash made of wide ribbon draped so as to make the hips seem as slender as possible—and fortunately these wider ribbon girdles are just as smart as are those of narrow ribbon.

The little summer dress of flowered voile shown today was finished with a riddle of this sort. The top, as you will see, is placed at a fairly high waist line but the lower edge comes well over the hips. To make the sash as shown in the sketch you will need two and a half or three yards of ribbon eight or ten inches in width. Narrow tucks are taken in the ribbon on one side to shape it in at the waist line and to prevent it from riding up from the hips.

SAYS RED SPIDERS CAN BE CONTROLLED

Due to dry, hot weather, red spiders have been doing considerable damage to foliage. Evergreens probably have suffered most, but all ornamental shrubs and even grape vines have been attacked by these pests.

Foliage infested with spiders shows pale spots where the mites have sucked out the green part of the leaf. The leaves are webbed on the undersides and those badly infested turn yellow and drop.

The adult spider is very small, being about one-fiftieth of an inch long. The body is reddish in color. The common species feeds on broad leaves and develops on the underside of the leaves. A generation is produced about every two weeks during warm weather, which means that they increase rapidly.

Where evergreens are rusty in appearance and are shedding leaves, Prof. W. A. Price, of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, suggests spraying them with a glue made by dissolving a pound and a half of a cheap grade of ground tone glue in boiling water. Add water to make 10 gallons.

This glue should be applied with considerable pressure, the use of a power sprayer with at least 150 lb. pressure being advisable wherever possible. Repeat the treatment in six days to kill young spiders escaping in the egg stage. Additional applications should be made as often as necessary because of continual infestation.

Avoid spraying evergreens in the middle of the day, as water alone will sometimes result in injury by scalding at such times.

Other plants can be treated by dusting with a finely ground sulfur mixed with a little hydrated lime. When the nights are cool and dewy the dust should be applied during bright days with a temperature of 75 to 100 degrees.

Marion county farmers are using large quantities of marl. Ballard Thompson has applied 300 tons this year.

Forty-seven Jackson county 4-H Club boys are growing an acre of corn each.

NOTICE

The Fiscal Court of Boone County will receive bids for the construction of the road leading from Beaver to Walton grade road to Mudlick and connecting the road from Verona, a distance of approximately four miles. This road is to be graded sixteen feet wide and surface with limestone nine feet wide and twelve inches deep—9 inches ledge stone and 3 inches capped stone. All culverts are to be on pur iron, with concrete head walls, or they may be of stone laid in cement mortar. All bridges to be of concrete with concrete abutments. All work and grading to be done according to plans and specifications now on file in the office of the clerk of the Boone Fiscal Court.

Bids will be received until 9:30 a. m., August 6th, 1930, by the clerk of said court which must be sealed and accompanied by a certified check payable to the Fiscal Court of Boone County for $500.00.

The Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Fiscal Court of Boone County.

Moon's Crater's

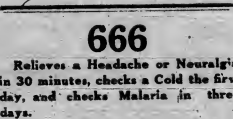

One theory of the formation of the craters on the moon is that rapidly moving meteors penetrated deep into the moon's crust, then exploded and threw up a rampart similar to craters caused on the earth by an aerial bomb.

Senate Session, Just Closed Termed a "fiasco" by Holmes

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

By Fred Holmes
Washington Cor. for The Boone Co. Recorder

Washington—Well, the patient is dead, the surgeons have gathered up their instruments and departed, and about all there is left is a few groups of I-told-you-so's and would-be autopsical experts. However, now that it's all over we may be permitted to indulge in a little calm reflection.

At least one of our pet suspicions has been confirmed, which is that many a Senator frequently says things he does not mean and in the import of which he does not believe. Blind adherence to party of action and evidence of prejudice and mental bias pervade altogether too large a number of Senate speeches. The fallacy that duplicity and dissimulation are ever helps toward the achievement of worthy political ambition seems to be beyond the ken of many a toga-wrapped spellbinder courting the favor of a fickle electorate. The recent as well as the preceding session of the Senate were saturated with pure buncombe.

The fight against the confirmation of Chief Justice Chas. Evans Hughes is a glaring example; the rejection of Judge John J. Parker, nominated for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court is another; the fear-shaken, weak-kneed and ineffectual opposition to Owen J. Roberts, conciliatingly named by President Hoover as a substitute for the rejected Parker, is another; the long drawn out and tiresome tariff fiasco brought to light another; the effort to include underserving as well as deserving war veterans as subjects of the Nation's grateful generosity must be added; many of the actors in the farm relief burlesque provided still another. But it is hard to escape the conviction that all records for false pretences were broken by the little bunch of treaty butchers who demanded the confidential memoranda of the Naval Pact negotiations in the State Department. If ever there has been a case of more flagrant simulation, if ever there has been more enlightening evidence of blind faith in the people as too stupid or too indifferent to recognize humbuggery in its crudest form, the records fail to disclose it.

The simulation of extravagant agitation over threatened of these confidential billets, the beating of breasts over the gross insult of "trusting the Senate," the "Father-calling" for approval in circumstances as the "Fathers" would undoubtedly look upon as despicable, all contributed to an utterly discreditable performance. It would have been a ridiculous, unsound and unprecedented demand even if those who made it honestly believed in its soundness and propriety. Stupidity may not be a rare characteristic among Senators; but they are not that stupid. It is inconceivable that even one of these drum-beating Senators, with his anti-Hoover complex and fictitious indignation, does not know better; that there was one of them who was not well aware that the President would not comply with the demand; that there was one of them who did not know that such compliance would amount to a betrayal of trust; that there was one of them who, in President Hoover's place, would not do in the matter just exactly what he did. To have done anything else would have been unthinkable.

By no means the least strange of all the elements which have made up the two-year senatorial muddle is the fact that in all major wrangles party lines were obliterated. Neither of the great parties can be credited with or discredited for either acts or omissions which have not fallen far short of making the Upper House a colossal joke. The ratification of the naval treaty was undoubtedly a triumph for President Hoover, who refused to postpone action until December and held the Senate to its work even in a special session. Yet the President, we may be sure, will not hail the achievement as a partisan success. He could not in the face of the indispensable Democratic aid which he received.

The signing of the treaty was the simplest of ceremonies, the kind the President prefers. There was no crowd around him as he penned his name to the voluminous document, no applause, no speeches. Nearest him when he signed were the four American delegates to the London conference who were then in Washington. Henry L. Simson, Secretary of State, Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, and Senator David A. Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania. The only others present were Vice President Curtis, Senator James E. Watson, the Republican leader in the Senate, Senator William E. Borah, the chairman, and Senator Claude A. Swanson ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee. Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, is still chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee in spite of a combination of Senate colleagues to unseat him following his direct attack on President Hoover in a Senate speech against the naval pact. The Granite State Senator has survived—at least for the present—an upheaval among regular Republican Senators which culminated in a proposal that members of the campaign committees resign in a body rather than follow the leadership of one they considered out of step with the administration.

Last summer the President called for economy in expenditures and proposed expenditures in order to help make possible the reduction in taxes later approved by Congress. The President has appealed the heads of Government departments to inaugurate a carefully planned, if drastic, program of economy directed toward cutting down their expenditures of money already appropriated to a figure approximating their last year's outlay. This, the President advised, should be done without affecting the various projects contemplated by the Government to relieve unemployment.

If the average observer has been left apathetic and indigent over the political charges and counter charges relating to the extent of the economy practices by the Hoover administration, the President now has given him a clear-cut picture and a candid statement of the Nation's finances and the objectives of practical economy that will win sympathetic support. Merely shoving estimates of expenditures and eliminating projects from the budget, thereby apparently saving millions of dollars that were never available for expenditure in the first place; is by no means an intricate problem. But it is quite a different proposition to save money that Congress has already appropriated by not spending it. The latter task is difficult and demands the exercise not only of economy but of rare judgment.

The little school house on the side of the mountain at Dark Hollow, not far from President Hoover's camp on the Rapidan, which was built last fall with funds furnished by him and a few of his friends, has closed for the summer, and Mrs. Hoover was present on the last day to congratulate the handful of mountain children who completed the first session.

No ceremony was arranged for the closing of the school or in honor of the visit of the mistress of the White House. Mrs. Hoover is understood to have requested this. She and the President have been greatly interested in the establishment of this school in a section where schools were few and far between and where little thought had been given to education. Also, they have been interested in the first year's progress of the school, and because of this Mrs. Hoover wanted to be on hand to personally speak to those boys and girls who finished the first year. Furthermore, she wanted to congratulate Miss Christiana Vest, the young Kentucky girl who had been the teacher, for efficiency and painstaking work.

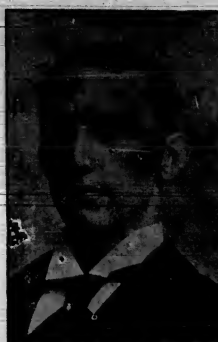

Ray McKinley Burraker, the 11-year-old "Hill Billy" whose visit at the President's camp last summer resulted in arousing the interest of the President and his wife in the lack of education of the young folk of Dark Hollow, is among those who attended regularly and completed the first year of school. Two of his sisters and two of his brothers did the same. President Hoover's interest in—or, possibly, anxiety about the ultimate outcome of the Senate squabble over the naval pact was evidenced by the fact that he and Mrs. Hoover remained in Washington over the last Sunday of the session. Plans for a trip to their Rapidan camp were abandoned because of the night sessions of the Senate.

James E. Poole, Chicago livestock expert, attended a tour of cattle feeders in Union county.

"Guess Who"

99TH OF SERIES

The picture in this column last week has not been positively identified, though some claimed that it was that of the late James Henry Aylor. Will someone lend a hand in the solution?

The reader who misses the one this week will be indicted at the August term of circuit court.

Deaths

JOHN D. AYLOR

John D. Aylor passed away Friday morning at his home in Florence after a long illness, at the age of 63 years.

Funeral services were held at Hopeful Lutheran church Sunday at 2:30 p. m., by the Rev. Harold Beamon, in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends, after which he was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery, by the side of his wife who preceded him to the grave many years ago.

Mr. Aylor is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Allen Darby, with whom he made his home, and one son, Frank Aylor, of Cincinnati, besides many other friends and relatives.

The pall-bearers were J. G. Renker, C. W. Myers, J. S. Surface, E. O. Rouse, C. F. Blankenbaker and B. H. Tanner, fellow bank directors. Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

ANN CLOVADELL COLLINS

Ann Clovade Collins, aged nineteen years passed away suddenly Friday morning at Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati, following a tonsil operation.

Funeral services were held at the Taliaferro Funeral Home Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. Paul C. Gillespie, pastor of the M. E. church, in the presence of a great gathering of relatives and friends, after which the remains were taken to Highland cemetery for interment.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Robert Sorrell, 20 May Street, Erlanger, with whom she made her home, one sister, Mrs. Earl Wadsworth, Erlanger, and one brother, Harry B. Collins, Jacksonville, Fla., besides a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her untimely end. The pall-bearers were Misses Beatrice Richards, Zelma Marks, Ruby Richards, Martha and Mary Moss and Helen Kadar. Eight girls were used to carry flowers.

VIOLA THACKER

Viola Thacker, aged one year and four months, passed away Tuesday at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. William Thacker of Crescent Springs after a short illness. Funeral services were held from the Presbyterian church Wednesday at 2 o'clock by the Rev. A. M. Stout, pastor, after which the remains were laid to rest in Highland cemetery.

Viola is survived by several brothers and sisters, in addition to her parents.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

GEO. LITTON

Geo. Litton, aged one year, passed away Saturday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Litton, 1036 Lee St., Covington, Ky., after a few days illness. Funeral services were conducted at the Taliaferro Funeral Home in Erlanger, Monday at 10 a. m., by the Rev. R. D. Martin, pastor of the Erlanger Baptist church, after which the remains were laid to rest in Highland cemetery.

"Arithmetic"

This is the famous statue of the Goddess of Mathematics which critics claim is obscene. The sculptor is Moe Elmskin who designed it in honor of Bossy Gillis, Mayor of Newburyport. The Colonial Daughters have protested its likeness to Martha Custis and officials have forced the artist to put a bathing suit on it until Prohibition goes out.

Business Is Improving
One woman was seriously injured and forty-two others out and bruised, according to the New York World, in a bargain rush at The Fair Store, Paterson, N. J., when some 500 women waiting in front of the store surged forward as the doors opened, pushing those in front through eight plate glass windows not of the shatter-proof variety.

The weaker seal! Weather-where!
Last week, Cyrus V. Wampole, the corn savior king, awoke to the strains of a breach of promise suit. The sketch, made in her lawyer's office, shows Mazie Mushmouth, the star of "Tramp Life," smiling on grandpa's lap in the jolly days before she decided to sue him for the garden wasp debt. She claims he refused to marry after kissing her in a phone booth. The fight is for ten rounds. Winner takes all.

Little Touches Impart Distinction To the Formal Luncheon or Dinner

By CHARLES SCOTTO, Chef, Ambassador Hotel, Park Avenue, New York City

THOSE slight touches which the alert woman is constantly on the watch for as a means of giving distinction to her formal luncheons and dinners, are seldom really hard to achieve. Since they add so much to the pleasure of both hosts and guests, they are well worth the very little extra trouble they entail.

A hors d'oeuvre is always appropriate as the first course for either the mid-day or evening meal. A tomato juice cocktail is an equally appetizing prelude, while fritters make a delicious accompaniment to roast beef.

Southampton Hens d'Oeuvre—Scoop out the stem ends of six whole, firm tomatoes, leaving a core-shaped cavity. Sprinkle with pepper, salt and a little sugar. Fill with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until tender—about twenty minutes. Place the tomatoes on the plates on which they are to be served. Pour over each of them two tablespoons hot cream, seasoned with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with minced parsley or chives, and serve.

Tomato Juice Cocktail—Chop fine one small slice of onion with a few celery leaves, and marinate in three cups strained, salted tomato juice from one to three hours. Then mix in two tablespoons ketchup, one-fourth cup orange juice, two teaspoons sugar, and a dash of cayenne. Strain, frappe, and serve with crushed ice.

Caroline Fritters—To three-fourths cup canned corn, add one-half cup milk, two well-beaten eggs, and one-half tablespoon sugar. Mix thoroughly. Mix one scant cup flour, one tablespoon baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Sift and combine with the other mixture. Place buttered milk rings in a buttered dripping pan. Drop the combined mixture into the rings, and bake in a moderate oven.

Elaborately Equipped

The Byrd expedition to the South pole sailed in a fleet of four ships—the City of New York, the Eleanor Bolling, the Sir James Clark Ross and the G. A. Larsen. It was the most elaborately equipped expedition that has ever undertaken polar research. More than a million dollars was spent in outfitting.

Originated by Brewers

Chain stores are known as the multiple shop age. They came into existence at the end of the Nineteenth century. The first were the "tied houses" of many brewing firms, which secured ownership of lease of beer houses and other licensed premises to have markets for their output.

Revolution in Industry

The term "industrial revolution" is applied to the change in industry brought about by the inventions which distinguished the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries. It is a term that is not considered appropriate by some people, but is a well-established phrase.

If Stamps Stick

When stamps stick together, don't soak them in water and have to use waste when applying them to an envelope. Instead, place a piece of tissue paper over the stamps, and with a warm iron press across them. They will then separate easily and can be used as usual.

NOW WELL AND STRONG AND ROBUST

"For years I never knew what it meant to feel well. I was always tired out. I was actually becoming a burden to myself as well as others. I was examined by many doctors and they gave me many things to take—but nothing seemed to help me. I was really getting in a very serious condition. Then like a fairy God-Mother I happened upon Kariak and I will say without a bit of exaggeration, it is almost like magic—so marvelous and so quick in its wonderful power to make a new person of one. I often shudder when I think of what might have happened to me had I not found out about Kariak when I did. Instead of what might have been I am strong and well and robust and the amount of things I can accomplish amazes everyone I know."

TIME FOR THE TURN TO COME

According to the political and business prophets who were so full of optimism last Winter and Spring, the nation ought at this time to be beginning to feel the pulsations of returning business activity.

Signs of the expected upturn are noted by several observers, and there is a general feeling among those who make it their business to watch events that the lowest point of the depression has been reached.

Perhaps the most reliable reports are those made to the National Conference of Business Paper Editors and the Associated Business Papers. According to these 150 publications which are intimately in touch with many different lines of business, there is no line in which there are now stocks on hand in sufficient quantity to carry on even sub-normal business for very long. Buying must begin within a few weeks, these observers report. As soon as buying begins, factories must increase production.

It is interesting to note that in some lines of business there has been no falling off this year as compared with last, but a definite increase. While some lines have suffered a 40 per cent shrinkage the consumption of electric current for the first six months of 1930 was 2 per cent greater than in the same period of 1929.

It has been a curious sort of a business crisis, in that consumer purchases in general have not been greatly curtailed and wages have been reduced in only a few cases. In spite of all the talk about unemployment, there is no evidence of poverty nor any general economic distress.

Wall Street reports that many large foreign loans will be made in the early Fall. The proceeds of these loans will be used abroad to purchase American goods, thus stimulating export trade. Home mortgage loans are reported easier in some sections and home building is picking up. Bank credits are expanding, indicating that idle money is being put to work.

Nobody can predict the future with certainty. If we could, we would not be running a newspaper but planning the stock market or dealing in grain or cotton futures. But in the long run we win our faith, as we have always done, on the future of the United States of America. We believe that this country is still moving forward toward the goal of universal and continuous prosperity for everybody and that any set-back can never be anything but slight and temporary.

THE "LITTLE RED SCHOOLHOUSE"

It is becoming more and more the custom for people on their Summer to go back for a brief visit at least, to the homes of their childhood. Perhaps that is because automobiles and motor highways make it easier to do that than it used to be; perhaps it is because city folk are beginning to realize that the country towns they came from are changing, growing themselves into cities, and that soon the old landmarks will be gone, swallowed up by the relentless maw of Progress.

One of the vanishing landmarks is the old fashioned country school. The old schoolhouse—we don't know why people refer to it so often as "the little red schoolhouse" for most of them that we have seen were painted white—is one of the places nearly all of us like to look up when we go "back home." The memories of childhood cluster more thickly about it than any other structure except the old homestead itself. The church was a place to which we were dragged rather reluctantly. Not that we were always enthusiastic about going to school, but at least the school was a democracy of our own kind. Except for the teacher, who was only one against many, we children had things pretty much our own way. We lived in a world of our own for a few hours a day. We were among those of our own kind, who thought the same thoughts, spoke the same language, looked on the world from the same perspective.

There is no manner of doubt that the modern consolidated or union schools are far better for their avowed purpose of inserting something we call "education" into the minds of the young. But those who have had the good fortune to begin their educational careers in such schoolhouses as the one which Henry Ford has preserved at Suburb, Mass., the veritable school to which Mary's little lamb followed her, where one carved one's initials on the rough board desks, will always feel a certain superiority over those who never had such advantages.

Somewhat the old fashioned country school seems, in perspective, closer akin to the pioneer spirit which is the spirit of America, than any modern structure with its graded classrooms, steam heat, electric light and wholesome ventilation. But, like the team and the covered wagon, it is disappearing. Our advice to every reader who ever attended such a country school is to take a good look at it this year, for next year it may be gone forever.

Garden Suggestions

TIMELY INSECT WARNINGS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Quite the last thing in the writer's mind is even to seem a pessimist, but insects cannot be controlled by ignoring them; and, that there are insects every one will agree. True, some of them appear to show abatement, but a good gardener does not presume too far on the insects eliminating themselves, but stands prepared to combat them as soon as they are noticed.

The Mexican bean beetle has been most considerate in some parts of the state; in others, it has given trouble. Some of us, hitherto favored, who have late beans, may still experience a visitation from this insect. Control measures consist of applying poison on the underside of the leaves when the first sign of the insect on any planting is seen. A second application should follow in 10 days. The poison, whether dust or spray, should be safe as regards leaf-burning. The approved formula for dust contains 16 per cent of calcium arsenate; the approved spray is mangrove arsenate.

The cucumber beetle continues to play havoc. In fact, some of the damage this insect did before the seedlings were up is just now becoming apparent, as the so-called "wilt." That damage is irreparable, but the gnawing of the stems of the plants that have survived, may be considerably lessened by applying a dust made of a pound of calcium arsenate and 20 pounds of gypsum. This dust should be used generously.

ly and often; every 4 days is not too often. One pound should cover from 50 to 100 hills.

Already the work of the "pickle worm," the worm that bores holes in cantaloupes, turning them sour and ruining them, has been observed. Except for the later cantaloupes the worm is no help, but, for these, if hills of bush squash are scattered in the planting, measurable improvement can be had. The blossoms of the squashes serve to attract the insect from the melons, or at least, from some of them.

With August here, the fall green plantings demand attention. Although the plant like cannot confidently be expected they may at least be anticipated by sowing the turnips and kale in rows rather than broadcast, to make plying of loose control easier. That control is spraying with corrosive or asphyxiating preparations. These are Black-Leaf-40, a tobacco extract, and the new pyrethrum compounds. Extreme vigilance is necessary so as to spray early enough, the time being when the first signs of the presence of lice are seen. The symptom is the downward rolling of the margins of the leaves.

The cabbage worm on late cabbage is a problem, made worse by the dry weather. It calls for the application of an arsenical, preferably in dust form. An effective dust is made of a pound of arsenate and 6 pounds of lime. Any sifting device may be used, but a dust gun is better.

New Worlds To Conquer

Mountain climbers from America and Europe, gathered in the Maligne Lake Section of Jasper National Park, Alberta, at the annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada this summer, will essay a number of attempts to scale mountains which have never been climbed. The American Alpine Club will be officially represented by H. W. Hainsworth of New York and Max Strunin of Philadelphia. It is estimated that in the Maligne Lake area which is in the heart of the Canadian Rocky Mountains there are more than one hundred peaks which have never been climbed, many of them rising to more than 11,000 feet. Maligne Lake, on which the main camp of the Alpine Club will be pitched, is the largest glacial fed lake in North America. The photographs show two views of the lake with a few of the peaks in the vicinity and the inset map gives an idea of the country surrounding it. —Photographs, Canadian National Railways.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

I have a friend who, after many years of hard work in subordinate positions, found himself suddenly near the top of a big business. To his own surprise his income jumped to more than a hundred thousand dollars a year.

A whole new world opened out before him. As if by magic all his dreams began to come true.

Did it change him, I cannot say, but in an essential characteristic it changed him at all. Not long ago when we were alone he opened his heart.

"Here I am with a new house, and money in the bank, and all my children in college, and three automobiles. And down underneath I am the same simple guy that used to get eighteen dollars a week, and took three years to pay for the piano. Somehow it doesn't seem real. I have to get myself off in a corner once in a while and ask, 'what's it all about?'"

I knew some other things about him that he did not tell me. I knew that he is supporting fifteen or twenty people who haven't had such good luck. I know that he is taking lessons on the fiddle, which has been a secret ambition for years. And I know that on Thanksgiving Day all his marshals his whole family and mares them down to church.

Sinclair Lewis named him, and others like, Mr. Babbitt. They are more like Jim Bludsoe, the Mississippi River engineer.

Bludsoe didn't know what it was all about either. He just did the day's work, running the steamboat back and forth, raising his family, and living his life. One day when a fire broke out he did the simple normal thing of sticking to his post.

"He held her nose against the bank till the last galoot's ashore."

He was not a deep thinker, nor very religious, often profane. But John Hay ventured the guess that "The Lord ain't going to be too hard on a sinner."

My friend is rough like Bludsoe, and by no means a saint. "What's it all about?" he asks, and he will never know the answer any more than the rest of us. But he has done his job with courage; he stayed simple. He gives freely. He has a humble sense of gratitude, and he has kept his heart young.

Those qualities have been enough for this world. Somehow I think they'll be enough for whatever other worlds may be.

Eskimo Language

Eskimos are scattered through Greenland, Canada, Alaska and Siberia to the number of about 32,000, all of whom speak the same stock language, using the same stem words and affixes. The chief characteristic of the language is that single words of complex structure are used to express ideas that in English would be conveyed by a whole sentence.

Saxophone Inventor

There was a famous family of Belgian musical instrument makers named Sax. The inventor of the saxophone belonged to this family, and his name was Antoine Joseph Sax, known as Adolphe Sax. He was born at Dinant, Belgium, November 6, 1814, and died in Paris February 4, 1894. In 1845 he took out a patent for the saxhorn. On June 22, 1846, he registered the saxophone.

Sunday School Lesson

NAOMI AND RUTH—A STORY IN RACIAL RELATIONSHIPS

Ruth 1:6-14:32

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Read the entire book of Ruth. You will find it a delightful short story for summer reading. The romance is thrilling and the applications as vital to our every-day life. The range of territory is from Bethlehem to Bethlehem in Palestine. By reason of the distress Elimelech, his wife Naomi and their two sons, Mahlon and Chilion, left the homeland for food and abode in Moab, on the further side of the Jordan river. All went well for a while. The sons married Moabite women and food ceased to be a problem.

From joy to distress is often only a step. Three deaths made three widows and serious personal problems must be faced by these women. It is too often that way in life as it is met today. Women must meet the situation in which the men place them. Naomi does the natural thing in planning return to her own land and kindred. The daughters-in-law, following custom, go with her for a distance and then plan to take their leave. In Oriental fashion they enter into a lengthy discussion and even offer to go back with the mother-in-law. Orpah receives the kiss of farewell and turns back to her local problem of life. Ruth then becomes fully aware of her great affection for Naomi and this has evidently been produced in part by the way in which her mother-in-law lived out her faith in Jehovah. Then Ruth separates herself from all that has been dear in Moab and gives the classic expression of friendship as she casts in her lot in every way with Naomi.

Nothing is recorded about the long, hard journey to Bethlehem. That is the way in life. We can forget whatever we have come after we have arrived. The details are daily incidents but they do not have to be continually reviewed. Town people turn out to meet them but the greeting is hardly a Welcome Home. Then hardy Ruth begins to further reveal her charming character. Work is always a great solace as well as a constructive help in life. She will "follow the gleaners" and in this way finds a bushel of grain for their little household. Cheer revives as soon as duty is assured. Reconstruction can begin at any low level of experience. Right there we can establish a foundation and build thereon. The familiar saying is invariably a truth, when we will, "A man is down but not out."

Romance evidently begins with love at first sight as Boaz notes this really charming Moabitess. Read the book again for all the details. Sit with the court at the gate of the city and observe the implication of the removed sandal, by the next of kin. In time we find that a new home has been established and Ruth is able to crown baby Obad, who becomes the grandfather of David. Thus Ruth is in the ancestry of none other than Jesus, the Son of Mary.

When we learn the good in others there is no place for race prejudice which so many seem to cultivate in adult life. Such feelings do not exist among the children but are a product of growing years. Paul, in his address on Mars Hill refers to the fatherhood of Jehovah: "And he made of one every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth," Acts 17:23. This Golden Text for today should help to establish a different attitude toward the "Stranger within our gates," and do all in our power to make those of other nationalities at home in this free land of religious liberty. In this melting pot of civilization all of us need to work together for the common good and thus reveal the very best that is in the heritage of each.

Look out for Baxter's 8th Anniversary Sale—Rising Sun.

COUNTY SERIES TO BEGIN AT HEBRON SATURDAY

EASY VICTORY

OVER PETERSBURG SATURDAY PUTS HEBRON CLUB IN POSITION TO FIGHT IT OUT WITH BURLINGTON FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

The 1930 Boone County baseball championship race finally has resolved itself into a scrap between the Hebron and Burlington clubs and the big test for these teams will get underway at Hebron next Saturday afternoon.

To gain this position the Hebron nine surprised some of the dopesters last Saturday when they handed a decisive defeat to the battling Petersburg team on the Burlington diamond. There were but three teams left in the race and it fell to the lot of Burlington to have a bye while the Hebron and Petersburg clubs, each having suffered a defeat at the hands of Burlington, were forced to fight it out for a chance at the championship and a position in the big series, which has become the big annual sports event in Boone and is growing in popularity each season.

The defeat was the second for Petersburg and, according to the rules of the elimination series, they were automatically retired from further competition. So Hebron will entertain Burlington next Saturday at Hebron, it being the first time these clubs ever have contended for championship honors since the Boone County League was organized.

An Easy Victory

Quite in contrast to what the fans expected the game was one of the easiest victories the Hebron club has won this season, the score being 9-3. The largest crowd of the year had assembled on the Burlington field to watch the struggle for a place in the big series between these two clubs and many of the followers of the dope had figured that it would be a close, hard fought contest. But the decided edge awarded to Hebron on the meritorious past performance of the mound of Bob Haefer, the rejuvenated veteran.

However, the Hebron team launched an attack of slugging at the first inning that left the Petersburg players and followers completely subjugated, and the unanticipated rout entirely disintegrated the opening frame had expired. Huey started by fanning the first batter, Mr. Jack Garnett. Sooner he suggested the age-old hoodoo of sliding out the first batter, but the suggestions were hooted off the mound. But he next bitted, Mr. Ross, batted safely with two strikes and the steam roller was under way.

Bob Haefer, backed up with a hard drive past the first base, but Huey Brady, the right fielder, when Brown, the high left to right center fielder, backs everyone thought they were relieved, but he was left in and Moore singled E. Walton from the right another lusty triple and sent him home with the fifth run of the inning when he doubled for the sixth run. Huey then straddled to his feet and struck out Joe Haefer. It was the third fanning by the first inning. Mr. Huey having personally fired the side by strikeouts.

This was the opening half of the first inning. Petersburg having won the toss and elected to be the home team. They failed to score in the last half of that opening inning and Hebron again scored a single marker in their half of the second, making the score 6-0. Petersburg then showed signs of coming to life and sent hope coursing down the stagnant veins of their home supporters by sending two runners across in the last half of the second and there was many a "Huey" would win.

McWethy then came on an error at short and Brown started a spasm of wildness that ended only when the last man was out in the ninth. He landed four balls on Carver, and Kloppe, who were around to receive Huey's ball, and in runs, drove high, and came to right center field, coming on in third. Brown continued his spasm of wildness, but he was not as accurate as the first man in the line.

Petersburg was unable to capitalize, except to the extent of one lone run in the eighth, when their followers had had their hopes revived only to see a potential rally of magnificent proportions nipped in the bud by an unfortunate "break" which resulted in the side being completely snuffed out, via triple play.

Bradburn had led off with a double to left and Brown again had succumbed to a frantic fit of uncontrol by walking McWethy and Carver. With the bases filled, no one out and Kloppe at bat, he continued in his wild ways by emitting an untamed pitch in which Bradburn slid home with the third run, McWethy and Carver moving up a peg. Kloppe, instead of hitting in the corner field, rapped a gentle bouncer to short and Walton threw him out at first. Carver danced for third, to find that McWethy had not evacuated, and was thrown out when he attempted to return to the keystone sack. But the unluckiest of all occurred when McWethy attempted to score with a belated dash for the plate while the play was being made on Carver and was required to complete a round about triple play that was a death dealer to Petersburg hopes.

Hebron had completed a season nine runs by making two runs on a walk to Moreland, and Moore and another batter. In the ninth they again were driven to the mound by the pitcher, who drove them from the field with a single from the right field.

Petersburg had a brilliant fielding, especially on the part of Carver, Bradburn and Walton on the left. Bradburn turning in by far the shortest stopping that has been seen on the local field this season. He accepted eight chances out of nine, making two errors. Carver, who was a fairly good player, was entirely exorable. Carver and Moore also showed some nice defensive work, but the former received some bumps from his home fans on account of an error after all chances for victory were gone. Prior to that he had made several sparkling plays, as he will continue to do, if he is able to withstand the "razzberries."

Huey remained on the mound throughout the first seven innings and yielded 13 bingles and walked one. However, he fanned seven men, on average of one to the inning. No one could deny that he was far from himself, although it is no secret that Hebron always has taken a particular liking to his stuff. Ruth finished the game, allowing a hit in each of the eighth and ninth, with one run counting off his delivery. Brown went the route for Hebron, but never would have been left in had the game been close at any period. He gave one of the most unerring exhibitions of wildness ever witnessed and there is little doubt that many of the Hebron rooters suffered minor forms of nervous break-downs before the contest was over.

The umpiring was handled in great style by three officials, namely, Joe Brady, of Bellevue; Hubert Brady, of Burlington; and Marvin Hudson, Jr., of Walton. The elder Brady called balls and strikes and handled the home plate decisions, while Hudson worked at first base, deciding the fitness of all balls hit to right field, while Joe Brady worked in a like capacity at third base, also making the second base decisions.

The ground had been put in excellent condition by the Burlington management and was used without exception to either of the clubs, the gate receipts were more than twice as large as at any previous game during the present season. The back stop had been moved back more than twice the former distance and all spectators were kept back of a line 75 feet from home plate. The umpires were called upon several times to enforce this ruling, but the players were unanimous in their favorable comment upon the enlarged playing area back of the foul lines.

Series Starts Saturday

While full arrangements have not been completed for the big series, the Recorder goes to press, yet it is definitely settled that the series will consist of three games in five, and that the gate receipts will be divided equally of each park. A meeting will be held Wednesday night for the purpose of perfecting arrangements.

DEMOCRATS

WILL PRESENT WOMAN SPEAKER IN MEETING AT BURLINGTON ON OCTOBER 2ND—BOTH MEN AND WOMEN VOTERS URGED TO ATTEND

The announcement of a prominent woman speaker for a meeting to be held at Burlington has been made by Emily Hughes Cleek, chairman of the Democratic Women's organization in Boone county.

The Democratic Women's Clubs of Kentucky are sending Mrs. Brown, one of the most prominent women speakers available, to Burlington, where she will address the voters, both men and women, of the county on Thursday evening, October 2nd, at 7:30.

She will be the first politician to make the stump in Boone county and all voters, both men and women, are urged to attend to hear Brown discuss the issues of this campaign, which are probably more important than in many years. That this speaker can handle the situation is assured. Don't forget the date. The meeting will be held at the court house.

4-H CLUBS

MAKE HIGH SCORES AT STATE FAIR—BEST RECORDS OF ANY PREVIOUS YEARS ARE MADE

Boone county 4-H clubs scored higher than ever before in the premium winnings at the Kentucky State Fair this year according to County Agent H. R. Forkner.

The 4-H Club exhibit of six Holstein Heifers was awarded a total of $149.00 in premium money. The poultry exhibit won $15.50, the poultry judging team $8.00 and one 4-H club sewing exhibit $8.00 making a total of $180.50. Those 4-H Club members winning premiums were the Huey Junior with two heifers won second and fifth in the club classes and second and fourth in Kentucky and fourth in the open classes. Norris Riddell seventh in the club, second in Kentucky and fourth in the open classes. Vaughn Hemmings fifth in the club, and fourth in Kentucky. Raymond Snow first in the club, second in Kentucky and fourth in the open classes. James Conner fourth in the club and fifth in Kentucky.

The poultry club was represented with an Ancona pen, owned by Stanley Goodridge and Harold Kilgour, which won fourth in the club class. A pen of Buff Rocks owned by Virginia Pearl Jones and a pen of R. V. Reds owned by Harry Blackburn which won fourth in the open classes and first in the club classes. A Rhode Island Red cockerel owned by Joseph Jones won first in the club classes.

Miss Sarah E. Aylor of the Silver Leaders 4-H Club was awarded first place on her fair costume made in Unit 111 sewing work. The prize was eight dollars.

The Boone county 4-H poultry team scored for seventh place in the contest. Allen Kenyon was the highest scoring member on the team winning five dollars in prize money.

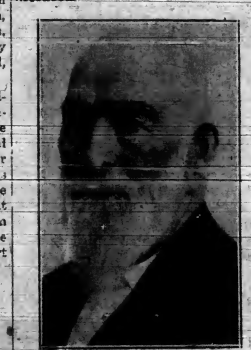

The total winning in the Boone county 4-H exhibits totaled $180.50, which is the highest on record. The premiums represent the high quality of work being done by our boys and girls under the supervision of the adult leaders of the community 4-H clubs and the county agent.

Cassius Sullivan is erecting a modern dwelling on his farm on the Persburg pike, near Burlington. The residence, which he hopes to complete this fall, is almost opposite that of his father, Newton Sullivan. S. J. Kirkpatrick is superintending the construction.

UNION

LOSES TWO PROMINENT CITIZENS WITHIN LIKE NUMBER OF DAYS—W. M. RACHAL AND L. H. VOSHALL SUMMONED BY DEATH

The Union community received two telling thrusts from the hand of death last week when W. M. Rachal and Prof. L. H. Voshall, two of the most beloved and noted citizens of that section of the county passed away on successive days. Mr. Rachal died on Thursday, while Mr. Voshall was called very suddenly on Friday afternoon.

L. H. VOSHALL

Mr. Rachal had been ill for some time and his death was anticipated to a certain extent, but Prof. Voshall, although past 60 years of age, was apparently in good health a short time before he died. Mr. Rachal was in his 66th year and was among the best known and admired of Boone county's business men, having been in the general merchandise business at Union for forty years. He was born in Alexandria, Louisiana Feb. 19, 1865. Funeral services were held at the Union Presbyterian church Saturday afternoon with burial in the Union cemetery.

In the death of Prof. Voshall the county loses a citizen who had been so prominently identified with the various schools of the county, both in the capacity of teacher and county superintendent, that he had grown to be loved and admired by people in every precinct. A close observer readily could note this by the faces seen at the funeral services at the Union Baptist church Sunday afternoon.

Prof. Voshall died at the home of his niece, Mrs. E. L. Norman, with whom he had made his home since the death of his lifemate several years ago. He was born on August 13th, 1843, near Petersburg, and made his home in this county practically throughout his entire life, having been in Indiana for a few years as a teacher. Mr. Voshall was among the oldest members of the Masonic fraternity in this section of the state, having become identified with the Burlington lodge some 63 years ago.

C. Scott Chambers was in charge of the last rites for Mr. Rachal while Phil Tallaferro superintended the Voshall funeral.

To say that the Union community will miss these two stalwart citizens is stating it far too mildly—the entire county joins them in their grief.

4-H CLUB EXHIBITS AT HARVEST HOME FAIR

The Harvest Home Fair had one of the best 4-H Club exhibits of sewing, posters, corn and poultry on record.

Miss Ruth Tanner, of the Mt. Zion Eagles 4-H Club won last in the 4-H poultry exhibit. The 4-H Girls sewing formed an unusually large exhibit, and the premium winners were well distributed among the various clubs.

J. E. Botts and wife, and daughter Virginia, of Rising Sun, Indiana, made a few calls with relatives and friends in Burlington last Saturday morning when they passed thru on their way to the Harvest Home picnic.

CHARITABLE RESPONSE

Responding to a request made by Miss Eunie B. Willis, Boone County Public Health Nurse, C. Scott Chambers, Walton funeral director, removed Miss Lamora Bradford to South Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon. This lady has been quite ill for some time and it is hoped that treatment received at the hospital will be of benefit to her. Mr. Chambers responded to this call from Miss Willis bringing with him his superbly trained and is to be heartily commended for the deed.

POULTRY CULLING DEMONSTRATIONS

Two poultry culling demonstrations will be given by Mr. Harry A. Berge Assistant County Agent this week. The first demonstration will be held at Mr. Joel Gray's of near Burlington at 1:30 p. m., Wednesday. The other meeting will be held at 2 p. m., Thursday at Ira Tanner's near Mt. Zion church.

This is the time of the year that every flock should be culled. While the outlook for poultry is better than most farm enterprises for this winter a close culling of the flock and all feeding of the early hatched pullets for fall and winter eggs should prove a profitable practice.

CHAIRMAN

ANNOUNCES DROUTH RELIEF COMMITTEEMEN FOR TWELVE PRECINCTS—RELIEF MUST COME PRIMARILY THRU LOCAL COMMITTEE, HE SAYS

Below will be found the personnel of the Boone County Drouth Relief committee by precincts. A. B. Renner, chairman of the committee, pointed out in announcing the precinct members that whatever relief was wrought would necessarily have to be worked out in each precinct thru the local committees. He said, however, that the chairman and secretary of county committee would be glad to cooperate with them in any way possible, tho all requests must come thru the local committees.

The precinct chairman is expected to appoint two or more men to work with him on the precinct committee. This committee's duties are to investigate and handle the precinct or committee problems as far as is practicable and possible, calling on the county committee when necessary to take up the problems before the county organization.

The precinct committeemen follow:

Ben H. Berkshire Petersburg.
Chas. W. Riley, Hebron.
C. O. Hemphill, Constance.
Sherman Burcham, Grant.
E. C. Kirtley, Rabbit Hash.
Lou R. Miller, Big Bone.
Joe W. Cleek, Bear Lick.
Leslie E. Barlow, Union.
W. M. Rice, Walton.
O. K. Whitson, Verona.
M. G. Martin, Florence.
F. H. Rouse, Burlington.

BLUE RIBBON AWARDED TO BOONE COUNTY ENTRY

Mr. J. F. Cleek, of Walton R. D. 2, came through with the coveted blue ribbon at the Kentucky State Fair, by winning the championship of the senior bull calf class in the Holstein division. This blue ribbon bull is a individual of exceptionally good type and breeding and was awarded the championship at both the Florence, and the Alexandria fairs previous to the State Fair.

Kirk Tanner and mother, Mrs. Missouri Tanner, have moved into the property adjoining the J. M. Barlow residence on Washington street and will make their home there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Beamon and Mrs. L. C. Weaver attended the joint meeting of the North Bend Association of Baptists and the Campbell county association, which was held at the Southside Baptist church in Covington, on Wednesday of this week.

"ALL ABOARD"

FOR "ISLE OF LEVITY." IF YOU ATTEND PLAY BEING PREPARED BY LOCAL CAST FOR BENEFIT OF P. T. A.—TO BE STAGED SEPT. 26 AND 27

Speaking of a boat load of fun, just wait until you see "All Aboard," the big, spectacular musical comedy that the Burlington Parent-Teachers Association is to stage at the local high school auditorium on Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 26-27.

The John B. Rogers Producing Co. is producing the show, using local talent entirely and supplying all special costumes and scenery. The action of the play takes place on board the good ship Florida, which is bound for Pleasure Bay. Things all along smoothly until poor Billy, a passenger, loses his set of false teeth, but from that moment many stormy scenes transpire. Predicaments do not clear up until the very last minute with intense action and heart-rending every scene. So don't fail to take this trip, if you want to laugh.

The play is under the personal, professional direction of Miss Curtis Virginia Davis, who will work night and day with the cast and will remain for both performances. The cast is as follows:

Billy Brady, a College Boy—Prof. C. G. Lamb.
Johnny Thomas, Billy's supposed friend—William Greenup.
Dorothy Brady, Billy's helpful sister—Miss Hazel Cubbage.
Beatrice Sloan, Billy's sweetheart—Mrs. R. E. Berkshire.
Mrs. Sloan, Beatrice's mother—Mrs. G. W. Tolin.

Captain Kid, of the S. S. Florida—Prof. D. H. Norris.
Alexander C. Phome, (Colored) Human Truck—R. E. Berkshire.
Jennie, the Stewardess—Virginia Yelton.
Bull Works and Barney Kahl, two goofy gobs—Bailley Greenup and another character to be selected.

This cast is assisted by lovely choruses made up of high school and grade students.

MT. ZION EAGLES

The Mt. Zion Eagles 4-H Club are certainly pleased with the premiums they won at the North Ky. Fair. We won a prize on every project we are carrying on in our club.

We won second on the float and we are working hard to win the Boone County Farm Bureau Trophy again this year.

CHARLES TANNER, Asst. Club Reporter

DAIRY FEED NEWS

Cottonseed meal forms the basis for figuring the protein supplement to the dairy ration. The low price of cotton and the present reduced freight rates offers Boone county farmers an opportunity to buy their cotton seed meal at the lowest price in recent years.

Bran, middlings and other wheat products are relatively cheap. Cotton seed has experienced a drop in price with the prospects that corn will remain relatively high. The dairyman who is figuring on milking cows this winter should begin to figure on how he can secure the cheapest and best feeds. He must feed plenty and feed in the right proportions if he is going to make the most money. There is no question but what the good dairyman who properly handles his herd should make money in the face of recent drouth conditions.

The county agent will be glad to assist farmers in figuring out the best rations for winter feeding based on the roughages they intend to use. "Feeding Dairy Cows For Profit" the title of College of Agriculture Circular No. 257 contains many helpful suggestions and is available at the county agent's office on request.

Dr. W. O. Rouse, of St. Petersburg, Fla., left for his home there this week after a visit with relatives in Boone county. Dr. Rouse will stop at Hendersonville, North Carolina, for a two week's visit enroute to his home in the Sunshine State.

APPLES

Apple-picking time is upon us. From Georgia to Maine, from Pennsylvania to California, the apple grows almost everywhere in the United States.

Although the apple is not a native of this continent, we have developed so many varieties which are distinctively American, that we look upon the apple as our own. Europe now buys thousands of carloads of American apples every year.

The apple is one of the few edibles that is as good raw as when cooked, as good cooked as raw. Cooking does not spoil an apple, but converts it into something new and strange. Who ever heard of a baked orange? But a baked Rhode Island Greening, swimming in a rich syrup composed of its own juices and all the sugar it can carry, browned to a turr and enriched with a liberal baptism of thick cream, is there anything that comes to the table quite as good as that?

Apple pie! Europe may claim the apple, but we have first claim on apple pie. No French chef ever learned how to make an apple pie. The English call them "apple tarts" and leave out the cinnamon and most of the sugar and make the crusts out of something more like an inner tube in texture than the flaky substance which melts in your mouth and which every good American cook knows how to mix and roll.

King George the Second, who was a sort of royal dumpling, is said to have marvelled, on first eating an apple dumpling, how the apple got inside the dumpling. He would have marvelled more if he could have had a genuine American baked apple dumpling, for the English idea of a dumpling is to wrap it up in a rag, and boil it. Baked apple dumplings, with a "hard" sauce compiled of lots of granulated sugar and lots more butter, all beaten together with a liberal flavoring of nutmeg, may not be the food of the gods, but it comes pretty close to the nectar and ambrosia which Ganymede used to serve on Olympus.

And cider! But hush. Cider has an unfortunate habit of obeying one of the laws of Nature which was not repealed by the Volstead act. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, the apples which are not quite good enough for pies are not going to waste on the ground, as they used to do, however we may deplore that fact.

SCHOOLDAYS

All over the nation, the public schools are again in full swing. Shortly the colleges will begin their annual sessions. The greatest of all American industries, education, is running on full time again.

More than 25,000,000 pupils are enrolled this year in the public schools of America, under nearly 900,000 teachers, to whom we pay an average salary of $100 a month, a total bill for teaching alone of more than one billion dollars a year, to which almost another billion must be added for other educational expenses. And that is for public grade schools alone, below the grade of high school. In the high schools we have another two and a half million pupils, with 140,000 teachers. Then there are State normal schools and teachers' colleges in addition to state universities, supported out of public funds, and on top of those are the privately endowed preparatory schools, colleges, universities and professional schools, accounting for nearly another million of students with some 75,000 instructors.

There is nothing else except war for which we spend so much money as for education in this country. And still we have not got as far as some other nations have gone, in proportion to population. Little Denmark has a higher percentage of ill school and college graduates. Only about 30 per cent of farm boys of high-school age in America ever go to high school, almost 100 per cent in Denmark.

Garden Suggestions

TIMELY TOPICS

(By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture)

Our fall gardens may not be as large or contain as large a variety, as they would have if the season had been kinder, but what there is is all the more valuable, and all the more worthy of our best effort and care.

Many of us have a late planting of potatoes. The stand may not be satisfactory and the condition, neither but that is all the more reason for giving them assistance. That assistance is Bordeaux mixture. Bordeaux is a control for blight, but it is a tonic, as well. Spraying causes the plants to grow larger, and more rapidly, especially in hot weather, and it helps even in dry weather. It makes the leaves themselves larger and improves their color. All this is important in any season, but all this more so now.

The Bordeaux formula to use is 5-5-50. Home mixing may be done, but most gardeners will find it more convenient to use the ready-prepared Bordeaux that all seedsmen and druggists handle. The directions for its mixing are on the package. The first spraying should be given as soon as possible, and 2 or 3 to follow at two week intervals.

Some of us may have noticed the swarms of minute gnat-like insects that rise when the potato plants are disturbed. These are leafhoppers. Because of their size it is usual to underestimate the harm they do, but their damage is by no means to be ignored. They are responsible for the browning of the margins of the leaves, the result of their draining them of sap; the damage that cannot be seen by the casual eye is even greater.

Straight Bordeaux is somewhat of a deterrent to leafhoppers, but adding a tablespoonful of lead arsenate, or calcium arsenate, to each gallon of Bordeaux mixture makes it a control.

Many of us have some late kale and turnips, and these may be attacked by plant lice at almost any time, the cheerful prognostication of too optimistic gardeners, that there will be no lice, to the contrary. This is a reminder in case they come.

Tobacco decoction in some form is the control for lice. Home-steeped "tea" may be used, but a much more reliable remedy is tobacco extract, Black Leaf 40, used as a spray, after the directions on the container.

Nicotine sulphate dust may be used in place of a liquid spray. This material may be secured from the dealers who handle Black Leaf 40, or it may be made at home. The formula is 2 pounds of Black Leaf 40, and 55 pounds of hydrated lime.

To make this dust ideally, a mixer should be used, but gardeners may improvise an apparatus that will serve quite well. This is simply a shallow wooden box, whose bottom is made of fly-screen wire.

The ingredients, lime and Black Leaf 40, are put in in the proportion of 2 to 50, by weight, and then the mass is worked thru the screen by means of a stiff brush, an inexpensive scrub brush for instance. After being worked through twice, a very acceptable dust results.

It should be used immediately for unless it is put into an airtight container, the nicotine fumes, which do the killing, soon leave.

For best results from tobacco dusting or spraying, the air temperature should be 60 degrees or higher.

FARMERS TO SPEAK AT HATCHERY SCHOOL

Poultry raisers and the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky are cooperating in holding a hatchery school at the Experiment Station October 7th and 8th. The College faculty will be assisted by C. M. Stinson, of Elkton; George R. Turner, of Campbellsville; M. C. Ratcliffe, Mentor; E. I. Hunt, Vine Grove; Strauter Harney, Paris, and D. D. Slade, Lexington, and T. S. Townsley of Cleveland, Ohio, and G. S. Vickers of Ohio State University.

There will be lectures and discussions of practical problems, and demonstrations and practice work in the incubation laboratory of the Experiment Station, which is one of the best equipped laboratories of its kind in the country. It contains several of the latest types of incubators, and brooders, including a 30,000-egg electric incubator. The course will be open free of charge to all men and women interested in poultry raising.

DROUTH STRESSES VALUE OF SILOS

Farmers who own silos are finding them extraordinarily useful this year in making the best use of the corn crop, according to reports which the College of Agriculture has received from dairy herd improvement associations.

Many association members are feeding cows more instead of less, a account of the drouth go that they will go into the winter in good condition. The best dairy farmers know that little profit can be expected from cows called on to "rough it" through the cold weather, while good cows well fed will return a profit, even at present feed prices.

1,500 BOYS AND GIRLS AT 124-H CLUB CAMPS

Fifteen hundred farm boys and girls from 83 counties attended the 124 district 4-H Club camps in Kentucky this summer. One hundred and fifty-nine club leaders also were in attendance, and visitors for all camps totaled nearly 9,000. Dry, hot weather and reports of the condition of drinking water reduced the attendance.

An added popular feature of the camps this year was the instruction in dramatics and music. Other instruction included agriculture, home making, handicraft, 4-H club development and games.

The camps were conducted by the 4-H club department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture in cooperation with local instructors and State Y. M. C. A.

Erection of a new central market house is under contemplation by a group of Covington business men. The proposed site is on Seventh St. between Madison Ave. and Washington street, now owned by the city.

WHEN'S THE TIME TO QUIT?

I rode downtown in a taxicab, and looked at the picture of the driver on the license card which is issued by the police.

Where had I seen a face like that? Suddenly I knew. An acquaintance of mine looks enough like that taxi driver to be his twin.

If the whole truth be blurted out, I doubt if there is a very wide difference between that taxi driver and my acquaintance. Neither has much education. Neither is well read. Neither can be accused of profound thought.

How is it, then, that one is on the front seat of a cab and the other rides in the back seat of a limousine? Luck? Undoubtedly there is a lot of luck in every successful career. But I think my acquaintance has it at least one quality which the taxi driver lacks. He stuck to his game thru some pretty lean, tough years when there was every reason to be discouraged and quit.

The dividing line between success and failure is just a hairline in thousands of cases. One single decision may make all the difference.

A young man has just been promoted into the vice-presidency of a corporation, and given a stock participation that will make him many times a millionaire.

He told me that he started in a branch office of the company as an accountant. Before long he had made himself master of one certain phase of the company's affairs.

He looked around him and above him, and was discouraged. Everywhere his way seemed to be blocked by men who had been there longer, but were young enough so that they would be active for many years.

One night he definitely decided to look for something else. The next day an officer of the company visited his branch, and a violent discussion ensued. The officer upheld one side of the question, my young friend the other. And my young friend knew his facts; he was right. The argument ended by the officer asking him to come down to New York "for a few weeks." He has been there ever since.

If he had resigned the preceding evening, my young friend would have missed his one great chance.

Hanging over the door of the laboratory of a great automobile company is this sentence: "No one ever would have crossed the ocean if he could have got off in the storm."

I am not writing this piece to try to make any man contented with a poor job. There are plenty of instances where men have made their everlasting fortunes by making a "fresh start."

But more often, I think, the battle is won just by sitting tight.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

LANDMARKS OF THE BODY

Of course it is stupid of anybody to speak of having "stomach trouble," unless one knows reasonably well the situation of that organ within the body. If you can, with a finger, locate the lower end of the breast-bone, you are not far from mid-way of the stomach in its longitudinal diameter from left to right. Its larger area is to the left; it narrows and drops slightly lower to its termination into the first portion of the small bowel. Near this point, beneath the "short ribs," the gall-bladder is hidden. If you invert a coffee cup two inches to the right of the point of the breast-bone, you will cover the site of the gall-stone colic, and the burning distress of hyperacid stomach, and many cases of gastric ulcer or duodenal ulcer. Pain in this locality should have immediate attention. A gaseous distension of the stomach is likely to bulge the area to the left, and just below the point of the breast-bone; I am not going into diagnosis here; I am trying to acquaint you with important localities.

This gaseous distension of the stomach is most likely to interfere with the heart-movements, for approximately two inches to the left of the point of the breast-bone, is the site of the apex-beat of the heart, as easily encroached upon by the expanded stomach. You ought to know, once if it is gas making your heart "palpitate."

LESPEDEZA GROWS; RED CLOVER FAILS

Nineteen Spencer county farmers secured good stands of Korean lespedeza this year, while 157 fields sowed to red clover in the county were failures because of dry weather, according to a survey made by County Agt. R. S. Dunn and Ralph Kenney of the College of Agriculture. Ten pounds of lespedeza costing $4 were sown to the acre; and it is estimated that each acre will produce $5 worth of full pasture and in addition fully feed itself.

The experience of Spencer county farmers is said to be typical of the experience of farmers in much of Kentucky this year. An average of 100,000 acres of red clover is sowed annually in the state. Seedlings of red top average 150,000 acres and of timothy 100,000 acres. Three-fourths of the red-top and timothy sowed this year failed to produce a stand, it is estimated.

The banks of Kentucky have on hand approximately $340,000,000 in time and savings deposits and accounts subject to check, according to a compilation made by the Kentucky Bankers' Association. The figures were ascertained from reports made by 478 of the 560 banking institutions in the State, with estimates of deposits in the 82 banks not reporting. It is the first time such a compilation has been attempted, said Harry G. Smith, Secretary of the association, who interprets the figures as indicating a healthy condition of the banks.

JONAH—THE NARROW NATION.

ALIST REBUKED

Jonah 3:1-5, 10; 4:1-11

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

"You are a Jonah" is a phrase that is often used when one makes a mistake, and it is usually a clumsy one. Many are so disturbed over the "whale" that they fail to get the great lessons on foreign missions, grace abounding and the triumph of a cowardly man. "Great fish" is the meaning of the Hebrew.

Jehovah gave commission to Jonah at his home Gath-heper, near Nazareth, to go to Nineveh some 600 miles away and proclaim their sins, and that the city would be destroyed if they did not repent within 40 days. Jonah went 50 miles in the opposite direction to the fort of Joppa and there took shipping for Tarshish in Spain that he might get as far away as possible from the place where he should have obeyed God. The storm, the casting of lots pointed him out as the cowardly messenger. He was cast overboard but God was ready to give him another chance.

When Jonah was ready to begin over he had to face the same commission which was the message of denunciation in Nineveh. This was a mighty city of sixty miles in circumference and given over to all kinds of wickedness. The people were startled into attention as their consciences made them aware of their appalling sins.

Even after Jesus Christ gave the great commission to preach the Gospel in all the earth it was over 1700 years before the matter of missions to other nations was taken at all seriously. It was Peter who gives us further understanding of the heart of God in our Golden Text: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness, is acceptable to Him." Acts 10:34-35.

PODLESS SOYBEANS SHOULD BE CUT NOW

Nothing will be gained by delaying the cutting of soybeans where drouth prevented the development of pods, says the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky; in the following statement regarding the making of soybean hay this year:

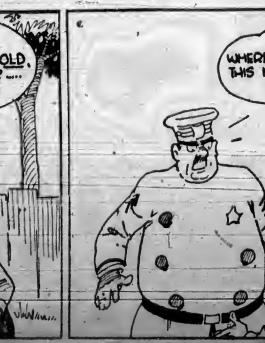

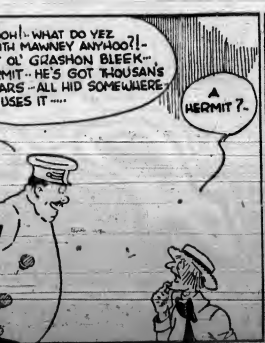

In many parts of the State soybeans have been seriously affected by the drouth and have made only short growth. The rains which have poured recently in many sections have prevented the dropping of the leaves, and started some renewed growth. Not many pods have been set, and most people are letting the beans stand, thinking that they are not yet in condition to cut.

Beans that have not developed pods do not normally; in fact they will stay green for weeks if normal moisture conditions occur later. This probably will be the situation this year. Beans without pods or with very few pods will probably remain green and in condition to cut for some time without any deterioration. They will not grow to any extent however, and whatever condition, not favorable for cutting them the crop might as well be made into hay.

Where seasonal conditions have been more favorable and the beans have developed a good set of pods, the usual custom in regard to time of cutting should be followed. This is to cut when the beans in the pods are perhaps half grown or less than half-grown. If allowed to develop fully, even though the pods are not dry, the crop is difficult to cure because the pods dry out so slowly. If the beans are allowed to stand until the stems and leaves begin to dry, the resulting hay is little better than soybean straw.

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. Belle Brady, of this place, had three lady cousins living in Galveston, all of whom perished in the recent terrible disaster there.

Ollie James, the orator from the purchase, will address the Democrats at the Court House in Burlington, Monday, October 1st. Don't forget that.

Geo. Baker, of Limaburg, has made considerable improvement on his blacksmith shop by laying a good plank floor and changing the location of his forge. George is an up-to-date smith, and has an excellent shop.

Messdams B. W. Adams, Belle Brady, B. B. Allphin and James E. Smith of this place, were guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Huey, of Union, last Friday.

Mrs. J. M. Lassing was visiting at her father's down on Middle creek last week.

Gunpowder

Eli Surface and family were the guests of J. S. Surface last Sunday.

E. O. Rouse bought a Jersey cow and calf of Mrs. Lizzie Quick last week. Price $40.

H. F. Utz has been on the sick list for several days.

Mrs. Shelly Tanner had to discontinue her school last Friday on account of a throat trouble, and it may be several days before she is able to resume her work.

Union

Postmaster H. W. Riley has numerous boils but less hay fever than usual this summer.

Pat Norman found a yellow and a red ear of corn on the same stalk while husking last Friday.

Mr. Huey, of Hathaway, was selling peaches in our town at 30 cents per bushel last week.

We are pleased to note that Perry Aylor is able to be up and around after a serious illness of several days.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Mr. Arthur Blythe is visiting his children in Nebraska.

Geo. F. Piper, of Bellevue, was visiting in Burlington one day last week.

Jas. Popham got knocked off of a barn on which he was at work one day last week, and his injuries are very serious.

William Gaines is teaching in the public schools in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cave Clore will preach at Grange Hall at Bullittsville, Monday night.

Attorney Hughes attended Esq. G. W. Baker's court at Big Bone one day last week.

R. C. Rice has been laid up several days from a lick in the eye by a nail. Next Saturday the Constance Sunday school will give its annual picnic.

Limaburg

Ezra Tanner is having a barn built.

Moses Tanner is visiting at Sunbright, Tennessee.

Mrs. Dutton Crigler died on the 14th. Her funeral was preached on the 15th by Rev. Lentz at Hopeful.

Our band has been engaged to play for the Constance S. picnic. We had a white frost on the 14th.

Bellevue

Asa McMullen, a young man of 16, was very severely wounded one day last week. While eating watermelon he had an open knife in his hand, and in a scuffle with his aunt he accidentally fell, the knife penetrating the center of his breast to a painful and what may prove a fatal depth.

Mr. John Botta is very ill at present.

Miss Lucy Ryle, a deaf and dumb woman of McVillie, died on the 12th inst.

Petersburg

Sidney Gaines is done cutting tobacco.

Mr. Perry Presser, of Bellevue, and Miss Rena Sullivan, of Plattburg, were married in Lawrenceburg last Saturday.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

The first frost of the season made its appearance Monday night.

Wood Sullivan will teach the public school at this place, commencing we understand, next Monday. Mr. Sullivan has the reputation of being a successful instructor.

Riddell & Norris took only six premiums on their horses at Aurora last week. They are attending the Enterprise fair this week.

In 1878 Joe Scott, colored, was in the Boone Criminal Court for an assault and battery on the person of a little negro boy. Joe was the officer until one day last week when Deputy Foster scooped him, and upon his failure to give bond for his appearance at the next term of the Circuit Court lodged him in custody. The jailer notified the Judge of the Quarterly Court of Joe's incarceration, and the Quarterly Court was convened for the trial. Joe was represented by Atty. Hughes and the Commonwealth by H. J. Foster and S. W. Tolin. A colored jury was summoned and the case commenced about 3 p. m. The court was in session about three and one-half hours before a verdict was reached, finding Scott guilty, and fixing his fine at eight dollars.

Verona

A good number of our citizens attended the Florence fair, and our young friend, Bessie Breeden, was lucky enough to bring home with her a blue ribbon on his little pony. Bessie says his pony was a Hancock pony and he was just showing the people how Hancock would come out with the blue string this fall.

The new Baptist church will soon be completed. The well selected committee T. A. Johnson and Jas. Fry, have spared no pains nor time from the work, but have pushed it forward and are likely to finish with a cost less than was expected by many. A good crowd attended the Ten Mile Association last week.

Capt. R. S. Chevis, Deputy Grand Worthy Chief Templar of Kentucky, favored us with a most excellent lecture on Sunday night, and at the close of which he reorganized the Verona lodge with twenty-three members.

BELLEVUE

Several from here attended the chicken soup at R. Z. Cason's on Middle creek last Friday night.

Rev. and Mrs. Bell have returned from a visit with children in Louisville.

Glad to report Joe West greatly improved at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clore, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brady and daughter Mary Jane and Mrs. E. H. Clore attended a birthday dinner at the home of Miss Julia Buckner, in Newport, Sunday in honor of Miss Julia Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McNeely and son James Lee, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives in Gallatin county.

Mrs. Geo. Walton, who has been ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Huey the past week, has returned to her home at East Bend.

CORNCRACKERS

The Northern Kentucky Fair and Harvest Home Fair of 1939, are on memory now. The Corncracker 4-H Club of Constance, displayed their products at both fairs. The members won many prizes, while not as many as in previous years, but as many considering the increased number of their 4-H club exhibits.

The next meeting of the club will not begin until the new Constance school building is finished and school begins, which will be some time in October. The members are requested to have all record books ready to hand in.

MADGE REEVES,

Six silos have been built in Calhoun county, as a result of the drought damage to corn.

BEN WILLIAMSON IS MAKING ACTIVE RACE

MANY FRIENDS GIVE SUPPORT

Ashland Business Man, Leader in Crippled Children's Movement and Road Development, in First Campaign.

NEW FIGURE AS CANDIDATE

Ben Williamson, of Ashland, Democratic nominee for the short term of United States Senator and running mate of Judge M. M. Logan, the candidate for the long term, is receiving letters from all over the state pledging support to him and to the ticket.

Mr. Williamson fills the bill when a business man for public office is sought. He is one of the largest of the largest business enterprises in Kentucky, the second largest wholesale hardware company. In addition he is interested in banking, mining, real estate and manufacturing.

For fifty years Mr. Williamson has given unselfish service to the Democratic party and to the people of Eastern Kentucky. He never before has been a candidate for public office. He has been vitally interested, however, in public and humanitarian movements. He was a member of the first Kentucky Crippled Children's commission and has remained a member of that commission since, was a member of the state board of charities and correctives and is now a director of the International Society for Crippled Children. He was appointed a director in the International Society at the sessions in Geneva, Switzerland, which he attended because of his interest in the program in Kentucky.

Mr. Williamson also has been a leader in promoting road improvement in the state and was particularly active in the development of the Midland Trail and of the Mayo Trail.

To politics Mr. Williamson brings the business man's viewpoint. Because they know him and are pleased that he is willing to make the race for the short term at the call of the Democratic party, friends who have been associated with Mr. Williamson in various kinds of work for the party and for the state have sent him personal letters and offers of assistance in the campaign.

It is freely predicted that Mr. Williamson will receive the largest vote ever given to a Democratic nominee in his present home county. Boyd, and in the counties of Eastern Kentucky where he best is known.

Mr. Williamson is making a vigorous campaign and will visit many Kentucky counties in the interest of the ticket.

FOUR-H CLUB BOYS AT MICHIGAN CAMP

Scholarships provided by the Daughters of the American Revolution and interested persons in Kentucky made it possible for five outstanding Kentucky 4-H Club boys to attend the American Youth Foundation Camp on Lake Michigan this summer. Two weeks of intensive training was given for leaders of 4-H clubs and other social work.

The Kentucky farm boys attending were Clyde Reeves, Georgetown, president of the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs; Curtis Farley, Harlan; Guy Arnold Frankfort; Cornelius Hager, Nicholasville, and Ed. Robinson, Georgetown. The delegation was in charge of Carl W. Jones of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

Four-H club members from Marion, Washington, Boone, Boyle and Fayette counties exhibited dairy cattle at the Blue Grass Fair at Lexington.

Bluegrass farms produce thoroughbred horses of an annual value of $5,000,000, the manager of one of the farms told the Lexington Kiwanis Club.

Operation of a new clay mine in McCracken county will be started at once, it is reported. A rich vein of clay declared to be exceptionally good for the manufacture of chinaware has been discovered 10 miles from Paducah, capitalists of that city being interested in development of the property.

FEW FAILURES IN KENTUCKY BANKING

Kentucky has relatively few bank failures, compared with many other states, according to a study made by C. J. Bradley, of the department of markets and rural finance of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Experiment Station.

During the period from 1921 to 1929, based on the number of banks operating June 30, 1929, only 7.4 per cent of the banks in Kentucky failed, compared to 17.7 per cent of the banks in Florida, 56.5 per cent of the banks in South Dakota, 50 per cent of the New Mexico banks, 49 per cent of the South Carolina banks, 47.8 per cent of the North Carolina banks, 47 per cent of the Montana banks, 43 per cent of the Georgia banks and 30 per cent of the Wyoming banks.

Mr. Bradley points out that a minimum paid-in capital stock of $15,000 is required in Kentucky for the organization of state banks, whereas in many of the states having a large number of failures the capital stock may be as low as $5,000. In several states having many failures there are a large number of private banks, whereas Kentucky has no private banks.

Farm mortgages held by Kentucky banks are written in much the same form as are short-term loans. In other words, farm mortgages are quite generally written for four, six and twelve months periods, and are renewed from time to time as necessary. Thus, a high degree of farm mortgage liquidity is maintained by banks, and this condition is of primary importance to successful banking during trying financial periods.

Finally, Kentucky has experienced no such economic reverses during recent years as the boll weevil brought to the Old South, or as the inflation and resultant deflation of land values wrought in Florida.

Montgomery county farmers will make their annual free showing of poultry, tobacco, baby beehives, sheep, canned goods and school articles October 30-November 1.

Elliott county has a good tobacco crop; in many instances the yield will be equal to that of last year.

Daviess county has 55 dairies with a total of 831 cows, the Owensboro Messenger says.

Reporting that the Walton canning factory had made two short runs the previous week, the Walton Advertiser said arrival of timely rains would probably result in an average to-mato crop.

Twenty Christian county farmers owning 1,500 acres of lespedeza have joined the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association.

Grant county farmers who sowed millet as an emergency feed crop expect to cut between one and two tons of hay per acre.

Some Knox county tomato fields will yield 500 bushels to the acre, in spite of dry weather.

Thirty-two registered Jerseys were exhibited at the Pulaski county fair.

Ten silos have been built in Grant county to help take care of the short corn.

Unemployment Is Stressed As A Paramount Political Issue

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

(By Fred Holmes)
Washington Correspondent of The Boone County Recorder

Washington — Sensation-loving Washington last week looked in vain for something within its own borders with which to satisfy its thirst for thrills. Even the primary results created but a ripple of interest and the Maine election apparently none.

As a last resort, a lot of us youngsters climbed up on the fence to see what was going on in our neighbor's yards.

Neighbor Roosevelt, over in New York, was "it" in a most interesting game. The New York Federation of Labor was giving a party up in Buffalo and the Governor had been invited—primarily, it would seem, to explain the intricacies of that now paramount problem, "Why is unemployment and what are we going to do about it?"

Knowledge that the present unemployment situation is by no means a "filing machine" to restore prosperity is naturally not confined to Washington. The chances are that they know more about it in the industrial centers than those of us in this smoke stack city will ever learn. But we are good listeners and profitable readers, and there not a few who affirm that unemployment as a political issue is being overplayed. In fact, there are some who go so far as to say that there is no able-bodied who cannot find work if he really wants it, and that if he prefers starvation to temporarily reduced pay or menial labor, that's his look-out.

On the other hand, more conservative onlookers maintain that many a bread-line is lengthened by men who are both able and anxious to work. Not every man skilled in some trade or art possesses that force, determination and persistence so often essential to the procurement of employment. Not all efficient specialists are go-getters—in fact, quite the contrary is too frequently the case. So thought the New York Federation of Labor when Governor Roosevelt addressed it on the subject of compulsory insurance of labor against unemployment.

It is thought that Labor as a whole appreciates that the more society is prepared to do to ameliorate the lot of the wage earner the less dependent he becomes on the efforts of his trade organization toward that end. If the state is prepared and willing to guarantee him a living, it is only natural for him to ask why he should continue to pay dues to a union which can promise him little else? This thought is not an insipid argument of capitalists and employers; it is fundamental, and is echoed from high place in Labor's councils.

Even those of us not immediately involved in the controversy rubbed our eyes when William Greer, president of the American Federation of Labor, sharply criticized the suggestion of compulsory insurance which has found so many in its favor since the slump in business narrowed labor opportunities. No one is better informed than Mr. Greer upon the need of some action to relieve unemployment, and his statement on the subject of compulsory insurance is consistent with what is believed to be the general policy of American labor. What the working man of this country wants is not a dole, or any other form of charity from the state, but a chance to work.

The weeks seem to have found cause for elation over last week's primary elections, but apart from that nowhere was any particular enthusiasm displayed. However, it is admitted on all sides that the results demonstrated a considerable measure of political unrest. South Carolina rejected its senatorial firebrand, Coleman L. Blease, replaced him with James F. Byrnes, a man of essentially different character who has behind him fourteen years' of service in the House.

who, if his past record is any criterion, may be depended upon to raise all sorts of ructions in the Senate.

New Hampshire Republicans furnished a surprise by nominating Arthur P. Morrill for Governor. Now the defeated candidate, former Governor Winant, supported by Senator Moses, is expected to run against the latter for the Senate nomination in 1932. Results in Michigan, Colorado and Vermont provided food for thought—particularly the latter, where his openly wet opponent gave John E. Weeks, an ardent dry, a close race for the Congress nomination in spite of the fact that Gov. Weeks is one of the most popular political figures the state has ever had.

If announcements from the rival political camps are to be given credence, the Maine election satisfied both the Republicans and the Democrats. Senator Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican National Committee, consulted with President Hoover at the White House and followed with a formal statement in which he diagnosed the Maine results as a "sweeping victory," as an "endorsement of President Hoover," and as a "stinging rebuke to the Democrats."

Chairman Shouse, of the Democratic National Committee, retorted in a statement that the Maine result "surprises no one except Republican spokesmen," that it is no more significant for the Republican to carry Republican Maine than it is for the Democrats to win in the solid South, that the Democrats did not spend a cent in or send any speaker into Maine, and that the falling off in the vote and the Republican majorities foreshadow "such an overturn in the November election as has not been witnessed since 1894."

It is certainly a wonderful thing to find both sides pleased with election returns.

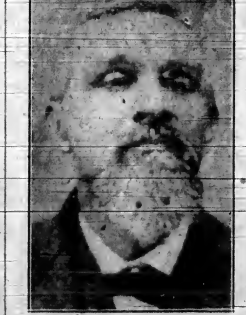

President Hoover has decided to advance immediately the postoffice and other public building construction program throughout the country primarily to help relieve unemployment but at the same time to end as quickly as possible the system of leasing postoffices. It is announced that the President has instructed the Postoffice Department not to leave any more private buildings for existing purposes and to take up all existing leases as rapidly as possible.

President Hoover hopes the example of the Federal government will be followed by state and municipal governments and dry private industries. He has been told that large projects undoubtedly are being delayed on account of business depression. If this skepticism is overcome, the President believes the more serious phase of unemployment will be passed and business will be revived more rapidly than in any other way.

"Guess Who"

77TH OF SERIES

The picture of man and wife in the last issue created more comment and conjecture than any we have carried recently. The picture was taken many years ago and many of their most intimate friends failed to recognize them. The picture was of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Riddell, of Burlington.

Or Generally
A novelist asserts that an extravagant girl usually makes a poor mother. First, however, she makes a poor husband.—South Bend News-Times.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Rev. Peter Walker, pastor of the M. E. churches at Burlington, Petersburg and East Bend, is vitally interested in the success of the University of Kentucky foot ball team this fall. His nephew L. L. (Floppy) Farquhar, of New Castle, Kentucky, captain of the eleven and no doubt Rev. Walker will be attracted to the Kentucky gridiron for some of the Southern Conference games.

Our genial barber is entertaining a new son at his home in Elmore. He has christened the new arrival Almed Thomas. Twins were born to him, a little daughter, died.

Mrs. Carroll Cropper entertained with two tables of bridge for some friends Tuesday afternoon this week. Mrs. Courtney Kelly will entertain at Lidge at her home Thursday afternoon.

Calvin Cress and family were the guests Sunday of Frank Kisler and family, of Indiana.

Dr. W. J. Tanner, of St. Petersburg, Fla., was in Burlington a short while last Sunday afternoon. He spent several days with relatives in Florence during the past week.

Postmaster Everett Hickman has been suffering with a severe sty on his left eye for several days.

There will be a flag raising at the Burlington school building Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., (fast time) under the auspices of the J. O. U. A. M.

H. F. Wesler of Florence, was a caller at the Recorder office on Monday of this week.

W. L. Kirkpatrick and family and Howard Elliott and family attended a surprise birthday dinner at the home of H. Kirkpatrick, at Petersburg, last Sunday.

W. R. Davrainville left for Pasadena, California, last Thursday evening, where he will make his home with his wife and son, who have been here for more than a year.

Dr. L. G. Cowen, of Rising Sun, Indiana, and S. L. Cowen and wife, of Miami, Florida, were visiting relatives here during the past week.

Jonas Day and Geo. Bowman, of Cerrison neighborhood, were pleasant callers at the Recorder office on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bondurant, of Petersburg, was a caller at the Recorder office last Saturday afternoon.

HERE AND THERE

Mrs. J. G. Smith is still on the sick list at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert McIlroy were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Brady.

Mrs. S. E. Carpenter was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Sr., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter were guests Sunday of Grover Snyder and wife, of Madison, Ind., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Molloy, of Rossman, Ohio, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Gaines.

J. D. Baldon and Mrs. Chas. Maxwell and two children were Sunday guests of C. M. Baldon and family of Madison, Indiana.

Cleveland Snyder, of Cincinnati, was the supper guest of his sister Mrs. N. W. Carpenter and Mr. Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Arvin were visiting relatives at Louisville, last week.

Mrs. Lavinia Kirkpatrick and daughter have returned after a visit of several days with relatives in Milan, Indiana.

Mrs. Victor Reese and little daughter, of Walnut Hills, are spending several days with Mrs. Lavinia Kirkpatrick and family.

Acres of Boiling Lava
Except for occasional flows over the floor of the main pit, visible activity of the lava lake of Kilauea has, for several decades, been confined to an oval inner pit, Halemahuu, 3,000 by 3,500 feet across and 1,300 feet deep in 1923. Just before the last drop-out, in 1923, the lake of boiling molten lava covered about 50 acres and when the lava fills the present enlarged caldera it will cover about 100 acres.

Special Correspondent Gives Opinion Of Primary Results

(By Mark Vane Collier)

Washington—Calm analysis of last week's primary results leads to but one dependable conclusion. There were quite a number of upsets. Two or three were generally expected and the results in some states were conceded on all sides to have been uncertain up to the last moment, but there was a goodly number of real surprises—particularly in certain quarters where categorical theories abounded.

Probably the most jubilant group was that of the wets. In Michigan former Gov. Chase S. Osborn sought to supersede Senator James Couzens, and making much of the wet and dry issue availed him naught. Senator Couzens has never had a violent wet political record, but he has made it known in the past that he saw no harm in beer. Like Morrow's in New Jersey, the Couzens strength in Michigan goes far beyond the wet and dry issue, but his victory provided little in the way of encouragement for the wets. Seemingly the Michigan wets were in a militant mood, for they defeated Grant Hudson, dry leader in Congress and nominated a wet in his place. The count in the 7th Michigan district showed Representative Cramton only 103 votes ahead of his wet opponent with a recount demanded.

Even more successful, it appears at this writing, were the wets at the polls in the State of Washington, home of Senator Wesley L. Jones, long a militant dry leader. The Republicans held four of the five House seats in Washington, and it seems that three wet candidates have won over three dry incumbents there. The Republican State convention in Washington several months ago stirred notewide interest by adopting a wet plank in the party platform.

However, there was a little if any less elation in the Democratic camp, particularly over the Maine election. There was more amusement than anything else over the claim of Senator Fess of an "endorsement of President Hoover," and a "stinging rebuke to the Democrats." As a matter of fact Maine ran true to form, except that the vote for Frank H. Haskell, Democratic candidate for Senator, showed a gain of more than 70 per cent over that of the '26 Democratic candidate while the Republican vote was stationary, and with an abnormally light vote even for an "off" year. In 1924 Calvin Coolidge carried Maine by a majority of 96,476. In 1923 Herbert Hoover carried it by 98,754. In the same year Governor Gardiner carried the State by 58,000. This year Gardiner, against the same contender, nearly broke. Where Senator Fess finds evidence of "victory, endorsement and rebuke" would seem to be clear only to the Senator himself. So far as Maine justifies predictions, its Tuesday verdict foreshadows a heavy Republican loss of representatives in States less one-sided politically.

Claude E. Robinson, Columbia University investigator, after statistical studies of Maine's voting from 1871 to 1926, announces that the off-year elections in that State do not offer much of a guide to congressional elections for the country at large. "There is very little relationship," he says, "between Republican strength registered at Maine ballot box in September and the ability of the Republican party to gather votes throughout the Nation in November." His compilation shows errors of an average of 20 seats to an election in predictions based on "as Maine goes so goes the country."

Chairman Joutet Shouse of the Democratic National Committee remarked that this Maine and country phrase was coined in the Neolithic age by a practical joker. "This hackneyed absurdity," said Mr. Shouse, "was actually quoted by the chairman of the Republican National Committee in predicting Republican victory in Maine. It would be just as logical for a Democratic leader to cite the possibilities of a Democratic sweep in a Southern State as a certain augury of national Democratic success. The Democratic National Committee did not contribute a penny either directly or indirectly to the Maine campaign, nor did it send a single speaker into the State. The Republicans, on the other hand, had their headquarters in every important section, and no doubt the Republican campaign was amply financed. In these circumstances it is highly gratifying that the Democratic ticket made so good a showing."

While the defeat of Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, for re-nomination was not a surprise it was not altogether unexpected. This is the second close contest between Senator Blease and former congressman "Jimmy" Byrnes. The previous time Blease defeated Byrnes, so now the honors are even.

Secretary of Labor Davis in a speech at Pittsburgh declared that there are many indications that business is picking up. He said that agreements had been reached in an industry employing 150,000 workers that run for five and a half years with a pay roll of nearly two billion dollars during that period. He cited other instances of employees asked to pay rolls and indicated it all to President Hoover's conference and program of "construction following the crash last October.

In a broadcast speech by Senator Harrison on the same day, the Mississippiian stated that the Labor Bureau, Inc., reports 68 wage reductions in August and further that factory pay rolls fell off 9 per cent from June to July. The Labor Bureau also predicted that "hundreds of thousands and even millions will have to be fed as an alternative to literal starvation thru the winter months."

The Senator also referred to estimates of agencies and bureaus of the administration that unemployment has run as high as seven million persons.

Mr. Shouse says that he has never yet predicted the election of a Democratic House. "I stand on the statement made in New York several weeks ago," said the chairman of the Democratic committee, "that we shall have a net gain of at least 40 House seats and at least 5 Senate seats. It is significant that the New York Times, in its issue of September 1, published a Washington dispatch based on information entirely from Republican sources in which these claims were virtually admitted. There are possibilities of such an overrun in the November election as has not been witnessed since 1894."

Added to Horse's Speed
Jockeys began to ride in running races with their saddles across the horses' withers about the beginning of this century. American jockeys were responsible for it. It was some time before the English turfmen became reconciled to it, but it was demonstrated that riding forward did give the horse thus ridden a slight advantage, and such saddling is now the general practice.

Cain's Wife

No mention is made of Abel having a wife or child in the chapter of Genesis devoted to the story of Cain and Abel. It is assumed, however, in the same chapter that the earth already had a considerable population, whose vengeance Cain feared, for which reason a mark was set upon him. There are various explanations by Bible scholars of this classical problem.

Means Hard Worker

"Robot" is a Czechish word, which means, literally, a very hard working man doing heavy manual labor. The word came into use in "R. U. R.," a play by a Czechish writer, Chapk, and was applied to a mechanical man.

Trout Angling

Trout usually feed with their heads upstream, since the coming current washes their food down to them. Consequently it is always considered wisest to fish upstream to escape the notice of the waiting fish.

Feels Better Than Any Other Time in Life

"So great was my suffering that I hardly cared whether I lived or not. Every bite I ate gave me the most severe pains—the indigestion, heartburn, bloating and biliousness were simply terrible. Even nights were torments to me—night after night sleep would never come. I began losing flesh rapidly. I began to look twice my age. I was truly in a terrible condition. My neighbor advised Karnak for which I will thank her to my dying day. It is the most marvelous medicine in the world. It not only rid me of my suffering but it has caused me to gain in weight and I feel better than I ever felt in my life and sleep like a child. I thank my neighbor and I thank Karnak."

Testing Supplies

Some curious tasks fall on the "special investigators" of our big railways who have to test all the goods supplied for the company's use. They may have to count the number of bristles in a broom, separate wool from cotton in carpets, or discover how much vibration a gas mantle will stand.

Gigantic Star

Antares (Alpha Scorpil) is the largest star of which we have reasonably accurate measurements, its diameter being about 400,000,000 miles; in volume it is 100,000,000 times as large as the sun and 125,000,000,000 times as large as the earth. The distance is probably 350 light years. This distance is 20,000,000 times as great as that of the sun from the earth, or about 1,800,000,000,000 miles.

Burlington Loses Third Game Of Series After Hard Battle Saturday

HEBRON PLAYED A FIGHTING GAME TO WIN BY THE SCORE OF 6 TO 2. NEXT GAME TO BE PLAYED AT BURLINGTON SATURDAY

The Burlington athletes journeyed to Hebron Saturday for what most fans thought would be the final game of the series. But Graves and Company evidently thought otherwise, for when the smoke cleared away the final score stood, Hebron 6, Burlington 2. It was a good clean hard fought game with only one error to mar the pastime. The Hebron boys played on their toes up to the final out and backed Brown's good pitching faultlessly. Hebron scored two runs in the first frame after Sprague fanned the first two men to face him, and were never in danger during the remainder of the game. They picked Lefty for nine hits while the locals were allowed only seven by Brown.

This game showed the Hebron team is a fighting team, as it was or die if they were to remain in the series, and they came thru in great style after losing a ten inning battle last Saturday.

The Burlington aggregation is still confident of winning the series, and if Sprague's arm is in condition there should be a record crowd turn out at Burlington next Saturday for the fourth game of the series. However in mentioning the condition of Sprague's arm, we are in no way trying to detract for the loss or trying to detract for an instant the fine brand of ball played by the Hebron boys.

We wish to thank the person or persons who were responsible for the broadcast of the World Series while the above game was in progress, and no doubt there would have been a much larger crowd present had they known about it.

Notes of the Game

The game was very ably handled by three well known ball players, namely, Bill York at first, Russ Miller at third, and Jimmy Minogue calling the balls and strikes. Minogue has been pitching in the South League the past season returning to his home in Ludlow for the winter.

Kelly was undoubtedly a left garter in the game, as he went no less than three times in some Hebron citizen garden after hard hit balls. Some one accused him of throwing a turnip back to the infield but it couldn't be proven.

Brown pitched winning ball all through the game, and not until the ninth did he really get in a hole. After walking the first two men he began to bear down and retired the next three in order. The Hebron boys backed him in great style, not an error being charged to them.

Speaking of momentarily held balls, Goodridge demonstrated what one really is when he held Moreland's single long enough to permit Hafer to score from first.

Mr. H. F. Wagner, of Florence R. D. was a business visitor to the county seat Monday, and while here made the Recorder a business call.

WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

MR. IRA HUEY JONES OF BEAVER

ANNOUNCED WINNER OF THE NORTHERN KENTUCKY BUTTER FAT PRODUCTION CONTEST

Mr. Ira Huey Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Jones of Beaver Lick, was officially announced winner of the Northern Kentucky Butter Fat Production Contest sponsored by the French-Bauer Milk Corporation and supervised by the state club department of the College of Agriculture, U. of C. winners of this contest covering a six months milk production contest in the 4-H dairy club project will receive a trip to the National Dairy Show at St. Louis from October 11th to the 19th.

The trip was won on the record of Molly Korndyke Rag Apple Maid a registered 4-H calf club cow that won first and second premiums at the Kentucky State Fair both in 1929 and 1930. The production contest began last February soon after Molly freshened. Ira personally fed, watered and milked his cow three times a day during the contest which closed September 1st. The milk was weighed at the end of each milking and a complete record kept. The cow was tested one day each month under the supervision of county agent H. R. Forkner. During this period of time she produced slightly over 8,000 pounds of milk and 350 lbs. of butter fat.

Ira Huey Jones in the beginning of his nineteenth year gives promise of making one of Boone county's leading dairymen. He has been enrolled in calf club work for the past six years. He bought Molly Korndyke Rag Apple Maid his first registered Holstein calf when she was a few weeks old. Since then he has loved her into a real milk and show cow and has saved her offspring to build up a promising foundation herd. He says that when he has a few he will quit the farm and he has no intentions of quitting the farm. Hard work by 4-H club members and cooperation that the fathers and mothers of leading club members are giving will build up ties that will do more than any other one thing to keep the best young blood on the farm today.

The winners of the prize trips to the National Dairy Show will leave Cincinnati Saturday morning in company with Mr. J. W. Whitehouse, State Club Leader and will return the latter part of the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Greenup and family and Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Ross spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ross.

DEDICATION

MR. IRA HUEY JONES OF BEAVER

TERMINOON

The dedication of the new Hamilton school will be in charge of the Napoleon Council Jr. O. U. A. M. and Kanton Council No. 25 Jr. O. U. A. M. Sunday afternoon.

The ceremonies will start at 2:30 (slow time) and a very interesting program has been arranged.

Senator John M. Robinson, of Barbourville, Ky., will make the principal address.

United States District Attorney Charles A. Smith of Covington, will also speak.

Judge Ervin L. Bramlage, of Erlanger, will be master of ceremonies. Bibles and Flags will be presented to each class room and a large flag for the school building.

Music will be furnished by the Kanton Council Brass Band.

ALL STAR TEAM

Following is the selection of R. S. Henaley, of Grant, as the All-Star team of Boone county. Mr. Henaley would like to see a game played between the players of his selection and those selected by Mr. Roland Glenn, of Walton. Let us have some more suggestions of All-Star teams from other fans in the county. Mr. Henaley's line-up:

Ross ..... 1B
R. Glenn ..... 3B
Russell Miller ..... 2B
Pete Kloppe ..... C
Lee Robinson ..... SS
Harold Rogers ..... LF

Joe Brady ..... Extra Catcher
Willard Ryle ..... OF Wallace Clure ..... OF Allan Rogers ..... IF

Petersburg lost to Bellevue Saturday in the second game of a three game series by the score of 14 to 4. This was for Bellevue even up the games between the two teams, each having won a game. The third game of the series will be played Saturday at Bellevue with Bill Rogers on the mound for Bellevue and Howard Huey doing the twirling for Petersburg.

Bellevue defeated the strong Lion Tamer (colored) team by the score of 4 to 3 Sunday in a hotly contested battle.

Red Cross Roll Call From October Fifth To October Tenth

FARM FACTS

DAIRY FEEDING SCHOOL

A dairy feeding school will be held at Burlington on Thursday, October 28. The school planned under the supervision of the county agent will have a number of good feed authorities on the program including specialists from the College of Agriculture and leading dairymen.

This fall and winter above all others is one that will demand the most economical and skilled feeding practices. The school will be public and all who are interested in the feeding problems are invited to attend.

BUILD NEW POULTRY HOUSES

Mr. Grant Maddox, of Florence R. D. 1 and Mr. John Brown and Dr. Northcutt have recently finished the building of two new commercial poultry houses from the College of Agriculture recommendations according to county agent H. R. Forkner.

The house of Mr. Maddox is 20 feet by 100 feet divided into twenty foot sections. It will take care of 125 Leghorns or 100 of the larger breeds per 20 foot section making a total capacity of 585 Leghorns or 500 of the larger breeds.

and his father and son recommended features. The house was built by Mr. Maddox with the help of his father and is being hoped to full capacity with well grown pullets raised by him the past spring. The total cost of all material was approximately $700.00.

The house of Brown and Northcutt is 20 ft. by 60 feet in three 30 foot sections. It was built on the same plan as the house above and is made for 300 laying hens of the larger breeds or 735 hens of the smaller breeds.

A new commercial era in the poultry industry of Boone county is being brought about thru a clean chick program, proper feeding and better housing. Those poultrymen who are revising their poultry program on this basis are making a success where others are meeting with failure.

DAIRYMEN HONORED

Seven Boone county dairymen were awarded Honor Roll Certificates by the National Dairy Association the past week for outstanding achievement in dairy herd development. The requirements for the National Honor Roll is that the herd must average 300 or more pounds of butterfat under practical dairy or dairy herd improvement association conditions.

Those dairymen to receive certificates of award are O. K. Russ, Florence R. D. 1 with 12 cows, E. G. Cox and Sons of Petersburg with a herd of 12 cows, Eugene Y. Randall of Burlington R. D. 1 with 19 cows, R. B. Huey and Son of Burlington R. D. 1 with 26 cows, Albert C. Johnson of Walton with a herd of nine cows, Kenneth Stephens of Walton R. D. 2 with a herd of 11 cows, and Theo. Carpenter of Walton R. D. 2 with a herd of 12 cows.

Mr. O. R. Russ of Florence R. D. 1 had the high herd of the county and the high Jersey herd of the state. His record of 12 Jersey cows averaged a total of 370 pounds of butterfat per cow. This is more than twice the average production for the state. The other Boone county dairymen receiving the above honor were close followers for this record.

O. R. Porter and his crew of workmen are progressing nicely clearing the right of way on the Bellevue pike. Mr. Porter has an excellent equipment for this job and he and his men certainly understand their business.

Mr. A. C. Porter, of Burlington R. D. 1, was a caller at the Recorder office Monday.

ROLL CALL IS NOW BEING MADE IN BOONE COUNTY—EVERY ONE SHOULD DONATE TO THIS GOOD CAUSE

The Red Cross Roll Call is now being made in Boone county from October 5th to 10th and as Chairman of the Boone County Drouth Relief Committee I hope every one will respond liberally to this cause as it is through the Red Cross that we hope to be able to assist those in need this winter, in addition to assistance to be rendered by the Drouth Committee.

Make your contribution as liberal as possible as only fifty cents from each contribution goes to National Headquarters, the balance stays in our county. If your contribution is $10.00, fifty cents goes to National Headquarters and $9.50 remains in our county for the purpose of continuing the nursing service, so able being taken care of by Miss Eunice B. Willis, and for the purpose of taking care of those in need.

There is no doubt but that our County Health Nurse will have more calls this winter than she can possibly take care of. Let's have a fund to help her in this work.

A. B. RENAKER, Chairman
Boone Co. Drouth Relief Committee

SCHOOL NOTES

Ball team journeyed to Petersburg this Thursday afternoon and played the local amateur players' victory game, which lasted for two evenings. Ogden, for Burlington, and Bradburn for Petersburg formed the pitching staff. Struck out by Bradburn 9; by Ogden 13. Three base hits—W. Bradburn and R. Bradburn. Score 4 to 3 in favor of Burlington. Our Professor accompanied the club to Petersburg.

We are glad to have Elmer Aylor back in our Freshmen class this week. Irvin Ryle is still absent from school on account of work.

We have completed our first monthly test and are starting today on our second month of school.

We are glad to welcome George Cook back to school.

The Senior class has been organized with Geo. Cook President; Jas. Vice President; Elva Alkin Secretary-Treasurer and also reporter.

Don't forget our first chapel program given by entire High School Friday October 10. Everybody welcome.

7 and 8 Grades

On Monday of this week the 8th grade welcomed a new student Miss Betty Lucas from Union school.

Boyd Snow was forced to miss school on account of sickness.

5 and 6 Grades

Buster Hensley was unable to attend school on account of illness.

Richard Hensley has been out of school for the past few days working in tobacco.

BURLINGTON P. T. A. MEETING

EUROPEAN POLITICS

There is something puzzling to the American mind, to read the reports of the recent election of members of the German Reichstag or Congress. No less than thirteen parties elected members. We think American politics is confused, but what would we think if we had thirteen political parties sufficiently strong to elect members to Congress? There have been rare occasions when there have been three parties represented at Washington, and once there were four, for a single session. But our whole political system is based on the two-party plan. Minor differences are swallowed or compromised in party programs and platforms.

The most striking thing about the German election is the sudden jump of the National Socialist of Fascist party, from 12 seats to 107. Added to the 143 seats held by the regular Socialist party, and the 76 seats held by the Communists, this apparently puts rampant radicalism in the saddle.

That may have significance to the rest of the world. The policy of the Fascist party calls for the unification of Germany and Austria, annulment of the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain, equality in military force with every other European nation and the restoration of Germany's colonies along with many items for internal democratization.

If the dominant force in the new Reichstag undertakes to put any such program into effect, another European war would seem to be inevitable. The safety in the situation lies in the improbability of any two radical groups agreeing on the same program.

IMMIGRATION

This is a good time to check up on immigration, and the report of the State Department made to President Hoover indicates that the authorities at Washington are doing everything possible to prevent foreign labor from coming into the United States at a time when not all of our own people can find employment.

In normal times, a person who is able-bodied and intelligent is not regarded as "liable to become a public charge," and so is admitted, if his or other qualifications are all right. Now the consular service is instructed to make certain, in every case, that the intended immigrant is going to be able to live for a considerable period in the United States before he gets a job.

Mexican immigration into the U. S. has practically ceased, the State Department reports, as a result of this restriction. Canadian immigration has fallen off materially. Unless a foreigner has relatives in the U. S. which entitle him or her to preference, he is having a harder time than ever before to get into this country.

That is as it should be. Our first duty is to our own people. Likewise, the policy announced by Governor Roosevelt of New York, of employing only citizens on public works, is in accord with the needs of the times.

TO CELEBRATE 4-H CLUB ACHIEVEMENTS

Twenty-two thousand Kentucky farm boys and girls, members of Junior Agricultural 4-H Clubs, and thousands of former club members, will have a part in the national and state 4-H Club achievement programs on Nov. 8th.

A special radio program will be sent from Washington from 11:30 to 11:45 o'clock and again from 12:15 to 12:30, central standard time, or one hour later for eastern time. The United States Marine band will play and Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, will speak. This program will be broadcast to 36 states.

Between 11:45 and 12:45 o'clock the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky will give a 4-H Club program over Station WHAS, in which outstanding achievements in Kentucky 4-H Club work will be reviewed.

County 4-H Club achievement programs will be held over the state at the same time. Radios will be present at each gathering of club members, so they can listen to the national and state programs.

Kentucky Fat Cattle Win

A total of $590 in cash prizes was won on 12 fat steers which the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky exhibited at the recent Kentucky State Fair. Winnings included the reserve grand championship, three championships, nine first and six second prizes. An Indiana steer won the grand championship. Several steers from the Experiment Station herd will be exhibited at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago in December.

Farmers in Kenton county took advantage of the dry weather to collect limestone to be crushed. With the increased use of limestone and phosphate there is a growing interest in better spreading machinery.

DIRECTNESS

Years ago it became necessary to discharge a man from a certain company with which I happened to be associated. His shortcomings did not reflect upon his character or ability; he was just temperamentally out of place.

Everybody else's him. Nobody wanted to hurt his feelings. Hence many conferences were held.

It was suggested that we might get some other company to offer him a position. Or he might be given a year's leave of absence, in the hope that he would not come back. Or we might persuade some one to speak to some one else who could suggest to him in a roundabout way that he ought to resign.

Meanwhile, time drifted on. Finally it occurred to us that in scheming around to find a way to be kind to this man we were actually being very cruel. We were allowing him to waste precious days in a position where he could have no future.

Whereupon we sent for him, drew a deep breath, and spoke as follows: "Joe, it is necessary to tell you that you are through. Now that's over, and we don't need to talk about it any more. Let us, therefore sit down to a serious discussion about your future plans because every man in the company wants to see you happy and successful."

We helped him find the proper environment; he is today prosperous and contented, and I believe that he counts us all as among his very good friends.

The incident was recalled the other day by a conference in aid of an important charity. The question was how to obtain a large donation from a certain rich man. All the usual expedients were suggested. We might "approach" him through his bankers. Perhaps some one could induce some one to speak to his wife. It might be possible to have a good friend of his in Los Angeles put us in touch with a friend of his in Chicago.

Finally a large and restless member of the committee rose. "This makes me tired," he exclaimed, "I know this fellow. He gets to his office every morning at eight o'clock. I'll go in tomorrow morning and tell him I have come to ask for a million dollars. And I think he'll like it."

Said Walt Whitman, speaking of Sheridan, "Genius is ninety per cent directness, and Phil Sheridan was a genius."

If one could gather up all the time that is wasted annually in scheming how to do the clever or polite thing, he would have hours enough to relieve all the farmers, kill each fruit fly individually, and dig the canal from the ocean to the lakes.

Millions of dollars would be saved if every business conference opened with the blunt inquiry, "What is the simplest and most direct way by which this thing can be done?"

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

The tobacco crop in Laurel county is one of the best ever produced. County Agent F. C. Ewen says a million pounds will be cut.

The use of good fertilizer and intensive cultivation improved the corn crop in Knott county.

Grant county oat, tobacco and corn fields are being sown to wheat and rye. The county agent has recommended Fruzzi rye as being an earlier and hardier variety.

Farmers in Garrard county who grew wheat are feeding it to hogs. Three carloads also have been shipped into the county.

Much interest was shown by grape growers at a meeting at the vineyard of J. T. Andrews in Logan county. The results of a spray program outlined last spring was studied. Practically the entire crop was free of black rot.

Sunday School Lesson

MARY, THE MOTHER OF JESUS—AN EXAMPLE OF MOTHERHOOD

Luke 2:15-19; John 2:1-5; 19:25-27

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

In addition to the three passages indicated above give special attention to the record of the Annunciation as recorded in Luke 1:26-33. Gabriel was again made the messenger, even as he went to Zacharias and told about the birth of John the Baptist. Mary understood the import of the promise of a child, for the Hebrews had been looking expectantly for the coming of their long promised Messiah. It was with triumphant faith that Mary then went to visit her relative Elizabeth and was given special confirmation that what Gabriel said was being accomplished in her. The Holy Spirit had indeed come upon her with His creative power.

The events of the Nativity at Bethlehem are familiar and we again take our places with shepherds and wise men in adoration.

Mary did her part in training her Son and in exerting a blessed home influence during the next thirty years in Nazareth. The day came when, as in the case of all other parents, Mary was forced to realize that her Son had grown into adult life and she could no longer direct His activities. There was a wedding in Cana, about five miles from Nazareth and Mary was one of the invited guests. Jesus and the disciples who were then with Him may have dropped in while passing and thus unexpectedly added to the company to be provided for. When the wine failed, and this was a calamity on such an occasion, Mary brought the matter to the attention of Jesus. This suggests that during all his years in the Nazareth home this Son had been the one to meet each emergency with his thoughtfulness and ability. When the mother returned to Nazareth she had still more occasion to follow her habit of years as recorded in the Golden Text: "Mary kept all these things, pondering them in her heart."

BUTTER AND EGG PRICES ADVANCE

Dairy farmers may find encouragement in the fact that the price of butterfat rose 3 cents a pound in August. During the latter part of that month it reached the highest point so far this year, says a review of the agricultural situation published by the department of markets and rural finance of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Decreased production is given as a reason for rising prices. Cold storage holdings of butter are not only much lower than at the same time last year but also under the September 1 five-year average. Holdings declined 2,000,000 pounds in August, compared with an increase of 17,000,000 pounds in the same month in 1929.

Egg prices advanced 2 to 3 cents a dozen in August. Hot weather reduced production in July and August so that receipts failed to meet current demands. Cold storage holdings of eggs continue large.

A review of the feed situation indicates that Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Texas and Colorado have a surplus of corn for sale, while there is a corn shortage in Missouri, Arkansas, Mississippi, Kentucky and Ohio. Farm and commercial stocks are below last year, as it was necessary to feed more heavily during the latter part of the summer. Farm supplies of hay are short.

The United States oat crop is larger than last year's, while the barley crop is next to the largest on record.

INDIANS STUDY HONEY MAKING IN COLLEGE'S STATE FAIR EXHIBIT
 "How bee make honey?"
 This was the question of the only English speaking red man in a group of twelve Indians who stood staring eagerly at the bee exhibit of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky at the State Fair.
 Prof. W. A. Price explained how the bee's body acts as a honey factory, taking the nectar from the flowers, turning it into honey and depositing the honey in the comb cells.
 In the red man's language of signs and sounds the interpreter carried the message to his fellowmen, who grinned widely as they nodded their understanding.
 But the feathered men still tarried to study the bees. One thing more they did not understand.
 "How get honey in cells when cells sealed?" queried the English speaking one, after the group had pointed sounded each other again.
 Prof. Price explained that the bee did the cell sealing himself after depositing the honey.
 A big mystery was solved for the original Americans. They grinned, nodded, curtsied and uttered their native language in gratitude.

Milk Without Protein
 Professor C. H. Eckles draws upon the biblical story of bricks without straw to point a lesson in dairy economics.
 The Israelites of old, when called to task by Pharaoh, explained that they could not be expected to make bricks without straw. The dairy cow on many farms today, if she were gifted with speech, would have an equally good excuse for not "delivering the goods." From thousands of hoarse throats would arise the cry, "How can we produce milk without protein?"
 Thousands of farmers are merely keeping cows while the cows would be glad to return the favor and keep the owners if they had a chance. Even within procession of discards headed towards the stockyards, undoubtedly sometimes one is sent not as an act of justice, but because she never had a chance.
 No matter how good a cow a man has to work for him, results can be had only when the cow has sufficient amount of the proper raw material to work with. In other words, she must be fed right, which means, for one thing, that she must have enough protein.
 If a carpenter in building a house and runs out of nails, it does not help matters to bring more lumber. He must have nails and nothing will take their place. A cow already abundantly supplied with timothy hay and corn will do but little better if given some barley or corn fodder in addition. What is lacking is protein and nothing else will take its place. Give her some legume hay or a little linseed meal and see what happens.
 It is a well known fact that in Northern Europe the average milk production per cow is fifty per cent more than in the leading dairy states in the United States. One reason is that the feeds grown there are higher in protein and seldom is there any special shortage of this constituent. Here we grow timothy hay and corn, both good feeds, but low in protein. Wild hay is likewise lacking in this respect. Oats contain about the right proportion of protein, but it is not high enough to make up the shortage in other feeds. Home grown rations are almost certain to be short in pro-

New York State Election Will Interest All Voters

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

(By Fred Holmes)
Washington Correspondent for The Boone County Recorder

WASHINGTON—A State election in an off year is rarely productive of any marked excitement beyond the borders of the State in which it is held, but the opinion is expressed here by both Republicans and Democrats that the battle in New York this fall is certain to create the most intense general interest, and for a number of reasons. In addition to the predominating question of prohibition and the effect of the vote in New York upon the trend of public opinion throughout the country, there is that of pulling the teeth and drawing the claws of the Tammany tiger and selecting the proper veterinarian for the operation. Municipal government in New York City would seem to have developed not a few bad cores, recently giving evidence of leprosy, and the combative spirit with which Tammany has met the call for investigation has become objectionable to the State leaders of both parties—outside of New York City and possibly to a large extent therein. In view of the extent of Tammany's participation in the last presidential campaign this question arouses national political interest.

But head and shoulder above all other considerations is the one that the Democratic program for 1932 is more or less at stake. Should Governor Roosevelt be defeated for reelection, he will not only be eliminated as a presidential candidate but there will fade away all possibility of naming a New York man for President in the Democratic convention two years hence and Democrats will have to turn to the interior of the country for their candidate. According to their platform the New York Republicans find that "the good in national prohibition" is more than counter-balanced by the evil of trying to force it upon States that want to be wet. The Democrats have no kind words for prohibition and pledge themselves only to measures within the State to "promote temperance and banish the saloon." The Democratic pronouncement is quite in accord with the party's traditional policy regarding State's rights, but it is not what Governor Roosevelt advocated. There is little difference between his plan and the Republican declarations on the subject.

Governor Roosevelt may enjoy a decided advantage over Charles H. Tuttle in the race for governorship in that the former is not a turncoat on the prohibition question while the latter is. Voters who are bent upon repeal of the eighteenth amendment will undoubtedly support a veteran wet in preference to a dry recruit. Drys will support neither. If the dry Republicans put a third candidate in the field, as they now seem certain to do, the election of Roosevelt would appear to be a foregone conclusion. He will get New York City and Tuttle will lose the up-State dry vote.

Success in November will place Governor Roosevelt well in the lead for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932. The party in wet States is concentrating upon him. Delegations from those States will outnumber the Southern dry delegations. But there is danger of another Madison Square fiasco because of the fact that the dry South, while outnumbered can still block a nomination through the force of the two-thirds rule.

In any case, don't lose sight of the dark horse. When the Republican National Convention of 1920 was in session, a day or so before balloting on presidential candidates, a cartoonist to whom the portrayal of General Wood and Governor Lowden had become irksome ran across one of the minor candidates. "May I draw you?" was the artist asked. "Go ahead," was the cordial reply. "No one else around here has asked me." Forty-eight hours later that candidate was fighting his way out of an army of reporters and photographers. His name was Warren G. Harding.

It was a wise move on part of Secretary Wilbur of the Department of the Interior when he turned over to the Department of Justice for investigation the charges of "favoritism toward large oil companies. These charges were made in an open letter to Mr. Wilbur by Ralph S. Kelly in resigning as chief of the field of division of the General Land Office at Denver. They concern leases in the Western Colorado oil-shale reserves. However groundless these charges may be, the manner in which they were presented makes an impartial inquiry desirable, and in turning this task over to Attorney General Mitchell Mr. Wilbur is protecting his own department against partisan criticism.

It is certainly a source of satisfaction to find both Secretary Wilbur and Chief Kelly willing and eager to have thoroughly investigated the latest charges of grave-impropriety in the Interior Department. As his method of getting to the bottom of the matter, Secretary Wilbur refused to accept Mr. Kelly's resignation and ordered him to document his charges with specific information. At the same time Mr. Wilbur issued a general denial that his department had done anything other than to meticulously administer the law governing disposition of these oil-shale lands. It has also been suggested that the Senate Public Lands Committee investigation Mr. Kelly's charges, and Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of that committee has announced that he has called upon Mr. Kelly for his facts. While Senator Nye stated that he was calling upon Mr. Kelly as an individual Senator, he left no doubt that if he believed the situation warranted it he would offer a resolution when Congress convenes in December asking for senatorial investigation. In such circumstances, and in the light of the tragic history of handling public oil resources by the Interior Department, a searching and impartial investigation of Mr. Kelly's charges is in order.

It is not hard to understand Senator Nye's petulance at the constant repetition of the charges by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, of Illinois, to the effect that agents of the Senate investigating committee rifled her private files and tapped her telephone wires. But only resentment and lack of ability to see all of the implications in his words can explain his warning to the press which seems to say that he will bring libel actions against newspapers which again print these charges, even with Mr. McCormick's authority. Possibly the law may give Senator Nye some technical justification for such an attitude, but as a matter of practice such procedure as he outlines would make it virtually impossible to carry on a Democratic government.

A Senator's immunity from liability for statements made by him in his official capacity makes it difficult to take seriously Senator Nye's warning that he will hold newspapers responsible for repeating what Mrs. McCormick may say in rebuttal, as well as newspapers which make similar assertions on their own responsibility. If a newspaper is to be compelled to ascertain, positively the truth of every reckless and heading political fight charge and counter-charge and be prepared to submit legally to competent proof in court, obviously public discussion will be subjected to a disastrous handicap. Imagine a newspaper being permitted to print only what Senators have to say or that of which senatorial approval is prerequisite.

Mrs. McCormick's accusations may be much of a nuisance to the members of the Nye committee but a muzzled press would be infinitely worse. Furthermore, instead of being troubled, the American press would be relieved if this din of charge and denial between Mrs. McCormick and the Senate committee should die and stay dead.

BELLEVIEW SCHOOL

Our school is progressing nicely and is laying plans to accomplish much more in the coming month. We are endeavoring to cooperate with the county in putting into operation a unified county system, so that all county schools can offer equal opportunities for the children of this county.

Scholarship and character are our ideals. We also enjoy playing basketball. Our teams played their first games last Friday at Petersburg. The girls made us very happy by winning their game, but the boys were not so fortunate.

The following is a list of Honor students for the month. A pupil must have a general average of 90 per cent for the month to be on this roll.

Freshmen

Algebra—Russell Ryle, Robt. W. Hammon and Dorothy Rogers. General Science—Dorothy Rogers, Ross Williamson and Sidney Boone Brown.

History—Dorothy Ryle, and Russell Ryle.

Sophomores

Geometry—Dorothy Cason. English—Dorothy Cason.

Juniors

Geometry—Howell Riley Hensley, Zora Cason, Ruth Rice, Iva Mae Burcham.

Commercial Geography—Howell Riley Hensley, James Lee McNeely, Ruth Rice, Iva Mae Burcham, Zora Cason.

History—Howell Riley Hensley. English—Iva Mae Burcham.

Grade I—Elma Marie Ryle, Lenora Sprague.

Grade II—Harold Alvin Flick, Elmer Lee Snelling, Lucinda Burcham, Alpha Lee Rogers, James Edward Rowland.

Grade III—Russell Rowland, Alfred Ramey, Mary Louisa Kruse, Juanita Ryle, Mildred Snelling. Grade IV—James Edward Rogers, Jr. Grade V—Mary Jane Brady, Ruth Louden. Grade IV—Robt. Snelling. Grade VII—Eliza Ramey, Leon Ryle. Grade VIII—Lou Ella Berkshire, Dorothy Sprague.

The following is a list of students on the Honor Roll in Department:

High School

Howell Riley Hensley, Hilda Ayler, Rose Williamson, Zora Cason, Pauline White, Dorothy Rogers.

Grades

Anna Marie Ryle, Elma Marie Ryle, Lenora Sprague, Elmer Snelling, Edward Rowland, Russell Rowland, Lenora Kruse, Juanita Ryle, Mildred Snelling, Louise Rice, Virginia Kruse, Mary Jane Brady, Robert Snelling, Stuart Ryle, Margaret Kruse, John Louden, Eliza Ramey, Dorothy Sprague, Epsy Hensley.

Discovery Unutilized

In the 1880's two German research chemists had discovered the drug chloroform, but neither of them knew to what great use it could be put. The drug had merely been discovered—that was all.

Lightning Voltage

There are only estimates of the voltage of lightning strokes. These range from a few hundred thousand to several billion volts, depending upon the ideas of the persons making the estimates. No measurements have been made.

The Great Man

Instead of feeling a poverty when we encounter a great man, let us treat the newcomer like a traveling geologist who passes through our estate and shows us good plate, or limestone, or anthracite, in our brush pasture.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Introduced Police Dog

Popularizing of the so-called police dog in the United States has been accredited to Capt. Max von Stephanitz, the world authority on shepherd dogs. Thirty-one years ago he formed his famous Society for German Shepherd dogs, which grew from a small local club to an organization with headquarters in Munich and branches all over the world.

Make Your Family Happier-- Your Home More Comfortable-- Your Property More Valuable-- by remodeling and modernizing your home and farm buildings, before Winter sets in.

It is truly remarkable at what a low cost improvements may be made, which will not only make your home surroundings more attractive and liveable, but will also increase the value of your property.

For Instance:—

If the exterior of your home is in first-class condition—then perhaps the interior can be made much more attractive and convenient by adding a few extra touches here and there, such as:

A modern bath room, tucked away in some space you are not using; the unfinished, unused attic transferred into bright, cheery, liveable rooms, the kitchen made more convenient with up-to-date kitchen cabinets, built-in ironing board, etc.

Or, if it is the exterior of your home that needs touching up—a new roof with side-walls covered with stain-shingles or weather boarding, will completely renew its life and appearance—and this, at a cost hardly exceeding that of a good painting job.

Also, more durable, more sanitary farm buildings will be insured, by complete re-roofing—with interior walls of cow stables, milk houses and chicken houses covered with clean, sanitary wall-board.

This is the ideal time to begin "putting your house in order" against the ravages of winter—and the ERLANGER LUMBER COMPANY is prepared to tell you just how this may be done in the most satisfactory and economical way.

Without obligation, we shall be glad to have our representative visit you, and submit suggestions and quotations on such repairing or remodeling as you may have in mind. Or, we will be pleased to send you complete information and prices on any item of material which you may require.

Just fill in and mail to us the coupon below, and let us prove to you our ability to add to the beauty, comfort and convenience of your home at a price you can well afford to pay.

Lessening in Dissection

A glacier is, broadly speaking, an accumulation of ice, of sufficient size and weight to flow down from an elevation. It is a river flowing from a lake, only the lake is of snow and the river of ice. The thickness of the ice will vary greatly—it may be, under favorable conditions, as much as 1,000 feet.

Frequently glaciers extend far below the snow line of the region, because their great masses of ice are so thick that they are not entirely melted during the warm summer months. The functions of a river and a glacier are identical—the drainage of a certain district or basin. Exactly how a glacier moves has not been satisfactorily explained, but that it does move has been proved by hundreds of observations and calculations. More than that, the stream at the center of a glacier moves much faster than at the sides or bottom.

One of the most interesting characteristics of glaciers is the power to transport rocks and other heavy material over great distances. These are "moraines." The glaciers of the Rockies, like those of other countries, now are almost all "in retreat," either because the climate is growing warmer or because the snowfall is lessening.

Small Wonder Criminals

Fearful Being "Jugged"

Many a criminal has lamented his incarceration in "the jug" to adopt a common expression in thieves' parlance. In the Middle Ages plenty of miscreants were placed in the jug—or jugged—literally; and up and down the country there still remain a few specimens of the iron neck-halters which derived their name from the Latin jugum.

In Bridlington Priory church, a place where at every turn imagination is invited to bridge the centuries, a well-preserved example of a jug may be seen in the west porch. It is shackled to the wall by long links, and is fitted with a hinge and padlock.

Pity the poor wretch doomed to be locked by the neck in the clumsy contrivance! There are no spikes or devices for torture incorporated in the jug. The punishment of being "jugged" would be mental rather than physical. The prisoner would be the helpless victim of every passing body's ridicule, and doubtless more than a few well-ripened eggs and similar misdeeds have splashed against the weathered wall from which hangs the unpleasant instrument.—Yorkshire (England) Post.

Finding One's True Self

Life is an opportunity for making of a soul, and in most of us it is still in the making; a patch work, unfinished. There are so many selves, each struggling for mastery, that it is not easy to detect the elusive, ultimate self. Which "me" is my real "me"? There are a lot of them, the ragged hobo out at the elbow, the dandy in fine dress and gold cane, the toady, the pretender, the penitent, the poet, the septic, the donkey who always wants his own way; and, at times, a glimpse of another fellow who seeks to rule the whole ungoverned crew. Who is he? What authority has he? Who gave him the job? Will he get it done, making the motley array of stovens, boasters, scullions, prophets, and saints of divers orders, at last obey?—Joseph Fort Newton in the Churchman.

Choosing a Wife

A Swiss savant states that if a man wishes to learn the character of the girl he wants to marry he should watch her peeling, cleaning and cooking potatoes. If she peels the potato, cutting thick rinds, she is extravagant. If she leaves the eyes she is lazy. If she uses a great deal of fat while cooking the vegetable, she is greedy, and if she allows it to burn she is negligent.

On the other hand, the savant declares, if the girl avoids these revealing pitfalls, the man should marry her whether she is rich or poor, ugly or pretty, for she will prove a good friend and wife and bring him prosperity and happiness.

Famous Liberty Statue

The Statue of Liberty was 12 years in preparation in France and was mounted and exhibited in Paris in October of 1881. The American pedestal was commenced in 1883 and was not completed until 1886. The statue itself was of hammered copper sheets and weighed 450,000 pounds. It was mounted on an iron framework covered with wood and so arranged that it could be taken down and shipped in sections. It was taken down and was shipped in 210 cases on the French state vessel Mere, sailing from Rouen, France.

Had One Qualification

I could not resist purchasing an admission ticket for the ragged little lad who stood in the lobby of a motion picture house chuckling to himself over the stilted advertising the comedy being shown within. Yet he was so tiny I hesitated as I asked, "But—can you read?"

"No, ma'am," eagerly, "but I can laugh."—Chicago Tribune.

True Co-Operation

NEEDS FOR RED CROSS SERVICE ON INCREASE, SAYS CHAIRMAN PAYNE

Disaster Relief and Service to War Veterans Make Heavy Demands—First Aid on Highways New Plan.

Demands upon the public services that the American Red Cross is organized to give are increasingly heavy, and will continue to be so in the future, John Barton Payne, chairman, announced.

The two major services of the society—service to war veterans and their dependents, and relief in disasters—show each year a greater number of persons helped by the Red Cross.

Pension legislation passed recently for World War Veterans, and increased allotments to all Spanish-American War Veterans, have given to Chapters and the national society many thousands of additional cases to handle, Judge Payne said.

In the past year help was given in 103 disasters. Ninety of these were in the United States, twelve in foreign possessions and six were in foreign countries.

Health activities of the Red Cross also are being extended, especially in the rural communities where all health authorities agree the greatest need exists. Red Cross, with 794 nurses in its employ, is the greatest employer of public health nurses in rural areas in the United States.

In its campaign against accidental deaths, begun twenty years ago with life saving and first aid programs, the Red Cross now has adopted an additional program—that of combating the huge toll of life from automobile accidents on the highways.

Expenditures of the Red Cross in the past year were $4,254,736.34, of which $1,208,151.09 was spent in disaster relief, the chairman pointed out.

The Red Cross depends upon the public for its support, through their memberships enrolled once each year in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, Judge Payne said. "We do not receive any support from the Government, or through other taxation, although as the President of the United States is president of the society, and one-third of its governing members are representatives of U. S. Departments, it ranks as a semi-governmental agency."

"By joining as a member, in the local Red Cross Chapter, once each year, during the annual Roll Call, every citizen will have a part in carrying on this great humanitarian task."

Motor Injuries Treated

By Red Cross First Aid

In line with its work for the preservation of life and prevention of accidental death, the American Red Cross has adopted a new program of emergency first aid stations on the highways of the nation, where victims of automobile injuries will be helped.

In the last year 11,000 persons were killed as the result of automobile accidents and more than 1,000,000 were injured. As its contribution to the nation wide safety campaigns of other organizations, the Red Cross will aid through the emergency stations. A number already are in operation by Chapters on such important traffic arteries as the Westchester County, N. Y., park system, the Valley Forge and Gettysburg highways in Pennsylvania and the White Horse Pike in New Jersey, connecting with Atlantic City.

Saving Mothers and Babies Is Important Red Cross Task

Saving mothers' lives and better babies were important features during the past year of the Public Health Nursing Service of the American Red Cross. About four-fifths of the 794 nurses in the Red Cross work made more than 100,000 prenatal and maternity visits, in addition to assisting doctors in the examination of 1,309,499 school children.

Statistics reveal that the lives of two out of three American women who die in maternity cases could be saved if they received proper medical and nursing care. As more than 15,000 women die from the diseases of the maternal state, this means that more than 10,000 of these deaths are preventable.

Comfort Kits Sent 40,000 Service Men by Red Cross

Cosy patterned cretonne bags, or comfort kits, containing articles useful and amusing, are sent by the Red Cross to 40,000 soldiers, sailors and Marines, on foreign service, as Christmas remembrances.

The little gift bags are donated and packed by women in Red Cross Chapters all over the country. They are despatched by Army transport in all early autumn in order to reach the foreign ports and posts of the U. S. services in time to be hung on the Christmas trees. Giving the remembrances from home is the outgrowth of a plan adopted by the Red Cross prior to the World War when so many National Guard regiments were on the Mexican border.

The term "photograph" has been extended in its application to picture making. It is now practically without significance. Originally applied to those types of pictures having such thin shells that one could be easily cracked when two were crushed together in one hand, the term during recent years has been made to include all cultivated varieties, many of which have fully as hard shells as the average wild out.

Color photography made its first appearance in 1861, when Clerk Maxwell first exhibited a colored photograph before the Royal Institution of England. Maxwell took three pictures of the same object, one through a filter of green liquid, one through a red, and a third through a blue filter. He projected all three, superimposed upon a screen, and the result was a picture colored approximately like the original.

In the Southern States there is only one known troop of its kind, which has increased in size year by year. They are far fiercer and more aggressive than the southerners. Ten years ago they attacked and killed an offensive man and later they made an attack upon some young goat herds, but these are the only incidents of this character recorded in recent years.

One Point of View
To assert requires knowledge; to deny requires much more knowledge.

Necessity, Not Virtue
"Patience," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "may be less a virtue than a necessity. He who has nothing else must have patience."—Washington Star.

Hard to Place Date
According to Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York city, the date of the first manufacture of Sheffield plate in the Colonies is uncertain.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

LAND-MARKS OF THE BODY

Four points about the pelvis should be kept in mind by women: the sacrum, the summit of the hip-bones, the pubis, or arch-in front, and the low inguinal regions between the abdomen and thigh. If persistent pain is in the sacrum, its origin may be in the uterus, rectum or bladder, and disorders of either origin should be corrected.

A sudden attack in the inguinal region may mean an ovary, especially if the time of its occurrence adds testimony! Or it may mean appendicitis, or impacted colon above the appendix if on right side. (Don't take purgative unless ordered by your physician after careful examination.) Pain in left inguinal region may be due to inflamed ovary, or, if slightly higher up, an impacted colon at the narrow space known as the "sigmoid flexure."

Patients familiar with themselves as far as possible, are better able to describe their symptoms to the doctor intelligently—thus enabling him to prescribe more effectively, that relief may be obtained earlier. Remember, the ignorant one will tell you he has a "pain in the side," which may mean in the lung, the liver, the colon, or the appendix—and, which makes all the difference in the world when it comes to treatment.

The spleen occupies a space to the left of the greater portion of the stomach, and is not usual as the site of severe pain. Sometimes a dull, throbbing means enlargement of congestion of the spleen. Between the ribs all over the chest are the "intercostal spaces." These are occupied by small blood vessels and nerve-trunks. "Intercostal neuralgia" is met with quite often. The relation of the heart to the left nipple is pretty well known. Pain in that locality, keen, persistent or intermittent, should be investigated promptly to determine its origin—it may be serious.

SAUERKRAUT HELPS VEGETABLE PROBLEM

Many housewives this year are making sauerkraut to take the place of other green vegetables that did not mature. It may even be profitable to buy cabbage to make kraut, rather than to buy vegetables to supply the family needs through the winter.

The extension home economics section of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, offers the following suggestions for making sauerkraut:

Firm heads of cabbage of the late varieties are best for kraut. Kraut may be packed for curing in heavy crocks or wooden kegs. A ten-gallon crock holds about 50 pounds of cabbage. If a keg is used it is important that it be perfectly clean and free from odors which might give an undesirable flavor to the kraut. Thorough washing with soda water, scalding with boiling water, and exposure to sunlight is a good method of preparing the keg for kraut.

Remove outside leaves and hard core of cabbage and weigh. To every 40 pounds of cabbage allow one pound or approximately 2 cups of salt. Shred the cabbage very fine. Put a 3 or 4 inch layer in the keg, sprinkle with salt in proportion to the amount of cabbage used and pack thoroughly with a potato masher or stamper. Some authorities prefer to mix cabbage and salt before packing in keg. To do this, mix five pounds shredded cabbage with two ounces salt (4 tablespoons) in large pan and pack in keg. Repeat until the cabbage is within a few inches of the top. The salt draws out the juice. When the keg is packed the cabbage should be completely covered with brine. Press cabbage down, cover with clean cabbage leaves or a cloth. Put a plate or clean piece of hard wood on top and weight with heavy block.

Fermentation begins almost immediately and proceeds rapidly for slowly depending on the temperature. In very warm weather fermentation will be complete in from 8 to 12 days. At lower temperatures more time will be required.

Frequent care must be given sauer kraut. Remove the scum as it forms, wash and scald the plate, weight and cloth as often as necessary to remove mold and scum.

As soon as the kraut is as sour as desired, it may be canned and kept indefinitely. Pack in sterilized glass jars, add enough of the kraut brine to fill jar, partially seal, process 1 hour in a hot water bath, or forty minutes in a steam pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure. Seal and store in cool place.

Twenty Kentucky 4-H Club boys and girls, including three demonstration and judging teams will attend the National Dairy Exposition in St. Louis in October.

Twelve head of Jerseys owned by Kentucky 4-H Club members will be exhibited at the National Dairy Exposition. They will include the six Jerseys from Christian county which won first as a group in the 4-H Club show at the State Fair, and six other animals from Calloway, Hopkins and Marion counties.

Farmers in Russell county report that one acre of Korean lespedeza is furnishing more feed than three acres of other pasture. A larger acreage of Korean is expected next year.

WOMEN ARE ORGANIZED

Enthusiastic Response Reported by Mrs. Robert H. Vaughan, of Glasgow, Democratic Women's Chairman.

MRS. ROBERT H. VAUGHAN

Mrs. Robert H. Vaughan of Glasgow, Kentucky, states Chairman of the Democratic Women's Organization of Kentucky, says that records show that never before has such response been received from the Democratic women of the state. In most every instance, the first name mentioned has accepted her appointment and replied with such enthusiasm and such reports of work already started, that it is most encouraging for Judge M. M. Logan, Ben Williamson and the Democratic Congressional nominees.

"It is impossible to attach enough importance to the part the Democratic women of Kentucky are going to have in this coming November election," Mrs. Vaughan says. "If the some two hundred thousand Democratic women voters in Kentucky turn out and vote as is now confidently expected that they will do, the results will be most gratifying."

Credit Corporations Help Farmers Secure More Loans

Farmers in drouth-stricken communities of Kentucky who cannot make loans locally to tide them over, may be able to do so by forming agricultural credit corporations, according to a statement prepared by C. J. Bradley of the department of markets and rural finance of the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

Agricultural credit corporations are comparatively simple in form and rather easily organized, Mr. Bradley says. Not less than three persons can form a corporation and they should be organized under the corporation laws of Kentucky. The minimum paid-in capital stock of a corporation is $10,000. The stock may be subscribed, however, by banks, interested business men and other individuals as well as farmers.

Once organized an agricultural credit corporation may immediately obtain credit from a Federal Intermediate Credit Bank up to but not to exceed ten times the amount of its capital stock. A corporation with $10,000 capital may therefore borrow as much as, but not to exceed, $100,000 from this source.

Individual farmers obtain loans through the local credit corporations. Sound principles of banking are observed in the making of these loans as Federal Intermediate Credit Banks are by no means emergency credit institutions. The terms of borrowing as announced by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank at Louisville are designed to permit the corporations to serve agriculture and at the same time afford reasonable protection of the credit system.

The Federal Intermediate credit system was established to provide agriculture with short term and intermediate credit extending up to three years. It was a major source of credit for the Burley and Dark tobacco associations; since total loans in excess of $2 million dollars were made to them by the Louisville Federal Intermediate Credit Bank. In other agricultural sections, agricultural credit corporations are used by farmers to supplement other sources of credit.

The use of credit by farmers through agricultural credit corporations has recently been endorsed by the National Drouth Relief Committee and more recently by the Kentucky Drouth Relief Committee.

Farmers in Trimble county are feeding hogs and poultry wheat instead of corn, according to County Agent Orem LaMaster.

LITTER RETURNS PROFIT OF $81.00

A net profit of $81.38 on a litter of pigs sold when 149 days old is reported by Will Watson, a Grayson county farmer. The 11 crossbred Poland-China-Duroc pigs weighed 2,212 pounds at an age of 149 days. They brought $10.00 per hundred pounds.

When 8 weeks old the litter weighed 564 pounds, or an average of 54 pounds per pig. They gained an average of 1.34 pounds daily from their birth to the time they were sold. The ration comprised corn, shipstiff or middlings, tankage and skim milk, with the run of grass-leaved pasture.

The litter was raised and records kept according to suggestions of County Agent H. S. Patterson and the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Wheat For Poultry

The official publication of the American Record of Performance work recently commended the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky for its suggestions in regard to feeding wheat to poultry and sowing rye for winter pasture. Wheat should comprise a large part of the poultry ration so long as it can be purchased as cheap or cheaper than corn. A point to remember is that there are 60 pounds of feed in a bushel of wheat compared to 56 pounds in a bushel of corn.

Rheumatism So Bad He Walked the Floor in Agony

"Karnak has done me such a wonderful amount of good that I believe every rheumatic sufferer should give it a trial."

"No one will ever know the tortures I have gone through with rheumatism during the past three years. I ached all over. At nights the pains were so great that I walked the floor, and I've gotten out in the middle of the night to go to the doctor for a hypodermic. I tried every thing in an effort to get relief. Even serum treatments failed to help me. My relief finally came when a friend advised me to try Karnak. To my surprise this medicine went right to the roots of my trouble, and brought complete relief. Every ache and pain has disappeared, and I am now fit to return to active duties once more, thanks to Karnak."

MARTHA ANNA ACRA

Martha Anna Acra, the youngest daughter of Joseph and Louisa Neal, was born January 15th, 1855, was called to her reward October 3rd, 1930, at the age of 75 years nine months and 18 days.

She is survived by three children L. C. Acra, Dessie Lena Acra and O. W. Acra, one grand-child C. S. Acra, one sister Mary Ryle, and one half-brother C. J. Craven.

The family wishes to express their thanks and appreciation to their neighbors and friends for their sympathy, services and remembrances during their trials and bereavement.

MRS. BETTIE F. DAVIS

Mrs. Bettie F. Davis, beloved wife of W. T. Davis, formerly of Boone county, but now residing near Hot Springs, Ark., passed away on September 27th, 1930, aged 57 years, 7 months and 25 days. Her husband and two daughters Mrs. J. H. Pride, of Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. A. V. Barnett, of Hot Springs, Ark., and one brother Mr. J. H. Clore of this county survive. Burial in Greenwood cemetery, Hot Springs, Ark.

MRS. LOUISA ACRA

Mrs. Louisa Acra, the beloved wife of Arch Acra, passed away Monday October 6th, 1930, at the age of 67 years.

Mrs. Acra lived in Devon neighborhood and was known throughout the county as a kind and loving wife and mother, and an upright Christian woman.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church in Burlington Wednesday evening at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Sam Allen, pastor of the Walton Christian church.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, seven children, two grand-children and a host of friends and relatives.

DROUTH RELIEF ON FEED BILL

Boone county dairymen can receive more drouth relief by lowering the cost of production than by any other means at the present time according to O. W. Moore, tester of Northern Ky. Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the county agent, the chief means of lowering the cost of production is from the cost per hundred pounds of feed without lowering the quality or quantity to be fed.

The cheapest home mixed dairy ration at the present time will in all probability be composed of a mixture of wheat, oats, barley, bran and cottonseed meal. A mixture of two parts wheat, two parts barley, two parts oats and one part 41% cottonseed meal will make a good 16 percent ration at a cost of from $32.00 to $35.00 per ton if properly bought. The above ration includes the feeds that are of excellent milking qualities and will furnish the best quality of feed for the money.

Those dairymen who are most progressive at the present time are watching the prices of feed. October the 31st is the last date for the reduced freight rates. Through cooperative ordering in car load lots hundreds of dollars are being saved the farmers of the county who are buying cottonseed meal, oats, wheat and hay. There was never a time in the recent history of livestock feeding that farmers could effect a greater saving than the cooperative buying of those feeds that we know we are going to need this winter.

Plants Must Breathe

Some plants grow hairs to keep the pores of their leaves from being choked by the dust and dirt. A plant must breathe or it cannot live.

An Appeal for the Child

If every well provided home in Kentucky would recognize its duty to the dependent children of this state, who are without a home and therefore deprived of the love such a home can give, and to which every child has the inalienable right, there would not be a moment's hesitation on the part of any home in answering the Kentucky Children's Home Society's appeal to all Kentuckians to open their doors to at least one of these little ones.

As the only living charter member of the Board of Directors governing this institution, I want to make a plea that I wish could sound in trumpet tones to every home in Kentucky, to aid one of the most worthy institutions of our state in doing the most Christ-like work which calls down the commendation of Him who said "In as much as you do it unto one of these little ones ye do it unto me."

I may say in asking the Courier-Journal to publish this article from my pen that I have never before written such an article, and this one is written with almost tears in my eyes and therefore with not one note that is mechanical or perfunctory, that is as genuine as sunshine.

When such impoverished children are pouring into the Home almost every day from the stricken area affected by the drought may I ask in God's name, and in the name of every lover of little children that there shall be given at this critical time the response of worthy homes of which Kentucky is so full, and for which this Institution is pleading.

There are so many empty chairs waiting for young life to gladden the home that there cannot be wanting a quick reply to the appeal of these little ones.

We cannot fail the County Judges who commit these wards to our charge by turning away little children who such judges know to be absolutely destitute and in need of the care of this Institution. Therefore, the only response to such an appeal is for the worthy Kentuckians who have homes to answer this imperative call to their generosity as only Kentuckians can do. And they will know, that, in filling one vacant chair in their home they are making a vacancy at the Kentucky Children's Home Society for another worthy, destitute child to be cared for and protected until a foster home is found for that child.

"What greater work can any man or woman do and one that speaks for the future of Kentucky in better citizenship, than in giving support to this, the noblest institution of our state, in offering his home to one of its little children."

As the Setting Sun, by an alchemy more cunning than that of the elements transmutes dullness into brightness, so the coming of a destitute child, who has not known the love of father and mother, into one home will transfigure and glorify and bring a little bit of Heaven itself to that home by its presence, and give to the receiver of such a child in such a home a joy that no one can know who has not done a loving unselfish act for others.

Pastor Emeritus, First Christian Church, Louisville, Ky.

CROP AND LEGUME NOTES

Legumes are making progress in Boone county's soil and crops, improvement program according to the county agent. Alfalfa, clover, soy beans and cow peas are all grown in Boone county on an extensive scale.

Mr. F. H. Rouse, of Burlington, one of Boone county's strongest believers in legume crops and especially alfalfa, has carried on some wonderful demonstration as to what lime and phosphate will do with the latter crop. This crop was cut on three fields the past week for the fourth time during the year. Many of our farmers of whom it might be said are "Sot in the ways" said it could not be done but it has been and is being done.

Dr. M. A. Yellor, recently harvested 35 acres of Mammoth Yellow soy beans on his farm near the Commissary. Two bushels of seed were sown per acre with the use of some phosphate fertilizer. Doc says they made a lot of good feed for his cows this winter. This is one year that Mammoth Yellow beans were the variety.

Mr. Joel Gray, of near Burlington, sowed four pounds each of Korean sespedeza, Japan clover, sapling clover and sweet clover. The Korean sespedeza is by far the best stand at the present time with sapling clover ranking second.

Boone county farmers are reporting a good crop of tobacco at the present time. A few farmers are skeptical as to the possible quality and the price they might receive.

Those farmers who have been filling silos for the past three weeks appreciate the fact that silage furnish-

The Charm of a Salad Depends On Its Dress

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.
H. J. Heinz Company

SALADS, once regarded as mere accessories to the menu, at last have come into their own. Charming in appearance, delicious and absolutely essential to the diet, salads now are one of the main courses on the family table.

Most of our delightful salad dressings are variations of a famous three: (1) French Dressing—which is specially suitable to serve with greens and fresh vegetables or fruits; (2) Mayonnaise Dressing—for more substantial luncheon salads of eggs, meat or fish; and (3) Cooked Salad Dressing—for those who do not care particularly for the dressings containing salad oil.

The ways in which these main types of dressing may be varied are almost numberless. Merely by adding one or more simple ingredients to the foundation, one may obtain a dressing suited to any particular type of salad or individual taste. Of course, the quality of the ingredients used is of the utmost importance. And more especially, since their real purpose is to bring out the rather neutral flavor of the salad greens.

Remember this when preparing salad dressings from this list of principal types, with their several variations:

FRENCH DRESSING: 1 teaspoon teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon sugar; 1 egg yolk; 2 tablespoons paprika; 2 drops onion juice; 5 tablespoons Pure Vinegar; 1 cup Spanish Olive Oil.

Put the salt, sugar, paprika, onion juice, Vinegar and Olive Oil in a jar. Cover closely and shake the dressing thoroughly. It is then ready for use. Always shake well just before using.

Variations of French Dressing—
Chiffonade Dressing: 2 tablespoons paprika; 1 egg yolk; 1 hard cooked egg, chopped; ¼ cup chopped cooked beets, well drained.

Ketchup Dressing: Add ¼ cup Tomato Ketchup to the foundation recipe, and mix thoroughly.

Original Sufragette
The first sufragette was born 170 years ago. Her name was Mary Wollstonecraft, governess in a wealthy British peer's family. She wrote a book calling attention to the grievances and mistreatment of her sex. When she married, Mary insisted upon living in a separate house from her husband, fearing their affections would grow cold if they saw too much of each other.

Not Natural Lake
Lake Lure, in North Carolina, is artificial. It lies near Asheville, and was made by damming a small stream in a narrow valley in the mountains.

It has a shore line of about fifty miles, while its width is seldom more than a quarter of a mile. It is one of the scenic marvels of North Carolina.

Historic Pear Tree
The famous Endicott pear tree is at Danversport, near Danvers, Mass. It was planted in 1632 by Gov. John Endicott on his land there and is still the property of the Endicott family.

William Crowninshield Endicott, warrior of the tree, believes that it was planted in Governor Endicott's garden at Salem even before it was planted at Danvers and that it was brought from a nursery in England in 1630.

Use for "Dry Ice"
"Dry ice" is solidified carbon dioxide, and when it melts or absorbs heat it becomes carbon dioxide gas, which passes off into the air and leaves no moisture behind. It is claimed that 1 pound of the dry ice will do the work of 15 pounds of ordinary ice and will keep ice cream and other foods cold very much longer than ordinary ice. The solid carbon dioxide resembles snow in appearance.

Derivative Term
"Irish dividend" is a humorous term for an assessment levied on a stock.

Parisian Dressing: 3 tablespoons pepper; 2 tablespoons chopped red pepper; 3 tablespoons chopped celery; ¼ tablespoon chopped onion; ½ tablespoon chopped parsley; hard cooked egg, sliced.

Mix thoroughly, and add to foundation recipe.

MAYONNAISE SALAD DRESSING ½ teaspoon Prepared Mustard; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon pepper; ¼ teaspoon paprika; 1 egg yolk; 2 tablespoons Pure Vinegar; 1 cup Pure Olive Oil.

Mix the mustard, salt, pepper and paprika. Add egg yolk and mix well. Then add 1-tablespoon Vinegar. Add the oil gradually, beating constantly with an egg beater or silver fork. As the mixture thickens, add remainder of Vinegar.

Variations of Mayonnaise Dressing
Russian Dressing: Add to foundation dressing, or a jar Mayonnaise Salad Dressing, 1/3 cup Chilli Sauce. Serve over head lettuce salad, hard cooked eggs, meat or fish salads.

Thousand Island Dressing: 1/3 cup Chilli Sauce; 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper; 2 tablespoons sliced olives, chopped; 1 chopped hard cooked egg; 1 cup Pure Vinegar.

Mix and add to foundation dressing, or a jar Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Different Dressing: 1 chopped hard cooked egg; 2 tablespoons India Relish; 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento or Stuffed Olives.

Add to foundation dressing or 1 jar Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

COOKED SALAD DRESSING: 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon sugar; 3 tablespoons flour; 1 tablespoon butter; ½ teaspoon paprika; 1 egg; ¼ cup milk; ½ cup Pure Vinegar.

Mix mustard, salt, sugar, flour and paprika together. Then add well beaten egg and mix until smooth. Add milk and vinegar and cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add butter and cool.

Variations of Cooked Salad Dressing
Whipped Cream Dressing: Fold ½ cup sweetened whipped cream into the foundation dressing.

Savory Dressing: Add ¼ cup India Relish to the foundation dressing. This is excellent to serve with meat or fish salads.

Roman Soldier's Weapon

The Roman gladius was generally a straight two-edged blade, rather broad and of nearly equal width from hilt to blade. In a sketch which was examined the hilt of the gladius extended about five inches above the waistline of the Roman soldier and the blade extended almost to the knee.

Windmills' Drawbacks

Windmills can be used to develop electric power. The drawbacks to them as electric generators are the small power for their size and the extreme variability of power and speed. Special devices are needed to compensate for these factors.

Old Expression Traced

The expression "robbing Peter to pay Paul" had its origin in the rivalry between St. Peter's cathedral, now Westminster Abbey, and St. Paul's cathedral in London. In 1550 an appropriation was made from St. Peter's to make up for a deficit in the account at St. Paul's. The action met with opposition, the question being asked, "Why rob St. Peter to pay St. Paul?"

Soviet Symbols

The symbols which occur on the Standard of the flag of the U. S. S. R. represent the laboring element of the Russian people to which the Soviet government is dedicated. The sickle signifies the peasant, the hammer the factory worker and the star the future of the Soviet enterprise.

Flour Classifications

Patent flours are classed as long patents or short patents, depending on what proportion they represent of the total flour milled from the grain. A short patent may contain less than 50 per cent of the flour milled from the grain, and is seldom made except for commercial bakers, who want a flour of maximum bread-making power. A longer patent, which contains perhaps 60 or 65 per cent of the total flour, is more common.

TOURNAMENT

FOR GRADED SCHOOL STUDENTS AT BURLINGTON FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK—DECLAMATION CONTESTS FRIDAY EVENING AND ATHLETICS ON SATURDAY

The annual tournament for Boone County Graded Schools will be held next Friday and Saturday October 31 and Nov. 1 at the Boone County High School building at Burlington. The tournament will include both athletic and scholastic events.

Friday's program will consist of the declamation contests, which will take place in the Auditorium at 7:30 P. M., no other events being scheduled for that day. The athletic and other scholastic events will start on Saturday morning at 9:30.

The students are divided into two classes in the athletic events, Class A being those students who are under 14 years of age on November 1 of this year, while Class B includes all those over that age on that date.

The athletic events for the boys will consist of the following dashes: 50-yard, 100-yard, 220-yard, while other events include Running, High Jump, Running Broad Jump, Standing Broad Jump and Base Ball Throw.

The girls will compete in 50, 75 and 100 yard dashes and the Base Ball throw. Relay races for both boys and girls will be held.

The rules of the tournament bring out more of the general school efficiency, instead of that of the individual, as each student may enter in but one event in scholarship. In athletics, however, each may enter as many as four events.

All students are eligible to compete who will not attain the age of sixteen years prior to Nov. 8th. Declamation and General Scholarship are classed as single scholastic subjects and the student who enters either of these events may not enter in any other single subject.

An admission of 10 and 15 cents will be charged at the door for the declamation contests Friday night and which funds will be used to defray the expenses of the children at the tournament.

Entries should be sent to Supt. D. H. Norris.

SCHOOL PLAN

FOR UNION AND SURROUNDING COMMUNITIES IN PROCESS OF COMPLETION—COMMITTEE ON LOCATION APPOINTED AT MEETING LAST SATURDAY

A very enthusiastic meeting was held at Union last Saturday evening in the interest of the proposed consolidation of one-room schools in that portion of the county, with the ultimate object in view of constructing a new school building of modern type and large enough to take care of the needs of that vicinity.

The executive board of the Union Graded School has voted to cooperate with the County School Board in the movement and a committee has been named to designate a suitable site, to be located as conveniently as possible to all patrons of the proposed consolidated district.

If the consolidation is effected it will incorporate the following one-room schools: Beaver, Mud Lick, Richwood, Stephenson, Hathaway, Midway, and Union Graded School.

The location committee will start work at once and as soon as they report plans will be made to call an election at an early date, so that, if the proposition carries, construction may start as soon as possible.

REGULAR LEGION MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of Boone Post No. 4, American Legion will be held at the court house on Monday evening of next week. All members are especially urged to be present at this meeting as some very important business will be discussed. Don't fail to attend, if at all possible.

Mrs. Lorena Cropper returned Tuesday of this week from a very enjoyable visit with her son and wife, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Cropper, of Winchester Ky.

JUDGE LASSING TO SPEAK AT PETERSBURG SATURDAY

In response to an urge from a number of Democratic friends Judge J. M. Lassing will make an address in the present Congressional and Senatorial Campaign at Petersburg on Saturday evening of this week.

The speaking will take place in the Berkshire Hall and the hour has been set at 8:00 o'clock. Although Judge Lassing does not make a regular practice of stump speaking, especially of late years, yet his excellent qualities in that direction are well known throughout Boone-so.

He is a veteran of innumerable campaigns and always is particularly interesting to Boone county people, whom he has served so well for many years. Many Democrats from outlying precincts already are planning to make the trip to Petersburg Saturday to hear the Judge's address.

FARM FACTS

FEEDING SCHOOL ATTENDED BY DAIRYMEN

The Dairy Feeding School held at Burlington last Wednesday was attended by thirty leading Boone county dairymen. Mr. Ted Besh, field agent in dairying from the College of Agriculture assisted in the program.

Mr. Besh presented information showing that this year above all others the dairymen should feed his cows properly. The morning program was devoted to the study of cow requirements. The unprofitability of the average cow giving less than 150 pounds of butter fat per year, was pointed out. It was also pointed out that this 1931 model cow or the future new models must produce 300 pounds of butter fat or more per year.

The afternoon program was devoted to the study of economical balanced rations. Rations balanced for the various roughages on the farms were made up from present feed prices and left in the hands of those dairymen in attendance. The school was reported as one of the most profitable of its kind held in the county.

Following the regular program those dairymen whose herds in the Northern Kentucky Improvement Association averaged 300 pounds of fat or more were awarded certificates of honor from the National Dairy Association. A short meeting of the Boone county members of the Northern Kentucky Improvement Association was held following this event.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

County Agent H. R. Forkner left the first part of the week for Lexington where he will attend the Annual County Agent's Conference held each year during the last week in October.

BUY WRONG INOCULATION

Boone county farmers buying inoculation from honest and reliable seed dealers the past spring could find only dry or powder inoculation material on the market. The majority of these farmers paid around $1.00 per bushel for this material. The dealers only passed on to the farmers what the manufacturers told them and the manufacturers only wanted to keep up or just ahead of times, and made material that seemed to be so much in fashion so far as inoculation was concerned.

The following U. S. Department of Agriculture field trial results were received by the county agent the past week:

1. Numerous field tests with dry inoculation sold the past year showed from poor to no good results received.

Seed bought on the market at ready inoculation gave from poor to no results so far as the inoculation was concerned.

3. That the old form, jelly or agar gave good results. It will be well for the farmers next spring, who buy inoculation, to buy the jar or jelly form and not the dry or powder form. The majority of the farmers of the county can secure their own inoculation through the dirt from a field that has previously grown a crop inoculated by the particular bacteria wanted.

The Geo. B. Miller family, of Florence, received the welcome news Tuesday morning of the arrival of a new grandson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Poor, of Covington.

Brent Spence Goes To Post For Fourth Time In Tuesday's Election

Next Tuesday the voters of Boone county, the sixth congressional district, the state and the nation will go to the polls to make a political decision.

And on that day Brent Spence like the valiant and undaunted warrior that he is, again will rest his political fortunes with the people. Spence has done this three times—this will be the fourth—and each time he has tasted the bitterness of ultimate defeat.

In 1926 he was defeated in the primary by Orie S. Ware, who was elected in November. In 1928 he won the nomination only to suffer in the Hoover landslide upon his third start before the people for the post he has sought. As stated above his will be his fourth attempt.

Every American citizen, no matter of what political faith, appreciates and admires a man who will not curl up. Spence has demonstrated that he is no quitter. Everyone who is acquainted with his lineage knows full well that he is descended from that stalwart Kentucky stock that knows no defeat when the cause is a just one. And at the same time everyone who knows his public and private record knows fully as well that that record emphasizes that same characteristic.

The manner in which he has conducted his campaign, his evident sincerity of purpose, his fine record at home and his indomitable will to win have augmented his original loyal group of friends until on next Tuesday a veritable army of loyal supporters will be working for that victory for which he has labored so unflinchingly, both with time and means, to gain.

That he will win seems certain, in truth the only factor that in any way suggests defeat is overconfidence. If his full vote gets to the polls he is a winner by a comfortable margin, but those who would relish a return of a Democratic Congress, of which Spence should be a member, must see to it that every voter in sympathy with that desire gets to the polls.

No man, or woman, who casts a vote for Brent Spence ever will have any just cause to regret it. In the words of Senator Barkley in his address here last week—"no man could look at Brent Spence and say that he was not honest, capable and sincere."

What more could be required of a congressman?

Boone Countians Have Chance To Support Two Sterling Men

M. M. LOGAN

M. M. Logan, Democratic nominee for the long term for United States Senator, was elected chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Edmonson county the day he was 21 years old and held that position until he left Edmonson county in 1912.

He was tendered the nomination for circuit judge in his district in 1909 but declined as he was too young to hold the office.

He was assistant attorney general under Attorney General James Garfield and in 1915 was nominated for attorney general without opposition and elected. In 1917 he became the chairman of the first State Tax Commission and was instrumental in the passage of tax laws providing a new system of taxation in Kentucky.

He resigned as chairman of the tax commission in 1918 and practiced law in Louisville until his election to the Court of Appeals in 1926. Largely through his efforts the rock asphalt industry in the Green river section of Kentucky was developed. He was the first president of the Mammoth Cave National Park Association.

He is a Baptist, Mason, Elk and Woodman of the World, is Grand Sir of the Grand Lodge of Odd-Fellows of the world and was for many years president of the Odd-Fellows Home at Lexington.

CONSTANCE SCHOOL GIVEN A SHOWER

The Constance school was given a shower last Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the new building. The shower was given to provide this lunch room with cooking utensils, dishes, etc. Over $100 worth of dishes, cooking utensils, a cupboard, range, etc. were donated to the school by the patrons. The lunch room will be fully equipped in a few days, and the pupils will be served warm food daily. The lunch is carried on under the supervision of the Constance P. T. A.

While the lunch for the evening was being prepared an old fashioned spelling bee was in progress. The pupils and their parents spelled. Geo. Kottmyer, Constance merchant, won the prize for being the best speller. A free lunch was served.

The parent Teachers Association has been reorganized. Mrs. George Kottmyer is president; Mrs. J. P. Dolwick, vice-president and Mrs. Oliver Kottmyer secretary and treasurer. The organization is a member of the state and national organizations. At least 75 members are expected.

BEN WILLIAMSON

Ashland, who is seeking the "short term" in the United States Senate from Kentucky on the Democratic ticket, is the most widely known business man in Eastern Kentucky and has been a power in Democratic political circles, but has never before sought public office himself.

Mr. Williamson was born in Pike County, Kentucky, October 14, 1864. He received his early education in the little log cabin hillside schools of the mountains, and when 18 years old matriculated at Bethany College, in West Virginia, completing his education at 18.

Since coming to Ashland, Mr. Williamson has become engaged in banking, mining, real estate and manufacturing businesses.

Despite his business connections, he has found time to give to the care of crippled children from the Kentucky mountains and he has been hailed as the "father of the crippled children movement" in Kentucky.

For a number of years he has served on the "Crippled Children Commission" of the state and now is a member of the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Woman's Club was entertained Thursday afternoon Oct. 16th, at the home of Mesdames Susie and Ava Lou Walton.

As this was our annual meeting election of officers was held. Mrs. Lula Huey was re-elected President; Miss Pearl Botta Vice-President and Mrs. Eliza Voshell Secretary.

Quite a number were present and the program was fine, especially the debate by Mrs. Susie Walton and Mrs. Lula Huey.

Delicious refreshments were served. The next meeting is with Mrs. Elizabeth Goodridge, Nov. 20th. This is an all day meeting and all members of the Club are invited.

CLUB REPORTER

Friends of W. C. Delph and Miss Alpha Gulley, of near Burlington were extremely surprised to learn of their marriage, which occurred Wednesday October 23. Mr. Delph is one of the most respected citizens of this community, and Miss Gulley is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Gulley. Their friends join in wishing for them the best that this life has in store.

SPENCE TO GO ON THE AIR OVER WCKY MONDAY NITE

Brent Spence, Democratic Nominee for Congress will speak to the voters of the Sixth Congressional District on Monday evening, Nov. 5th, from 9:30 P. M. to 10:00 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, Fast Time) over Station WCKY. All persons interested in the issues of the campaign are invited to hear what he has to say.

"ON THE MAP"

NOW CAN BE SAID OF WARSAW SINCE COMPLETION OF HIGH TYPE OUTLET TO QUEEN CITY—NEW HIGHWAY IS BEAUTIFUL DRIVE

"A road leads to Warsaw."

That banal "all roads lead to Warsaw" might be employed by those who would boost the mammoth mammoth that will visit that quaint, aristocratic little town to-day (Wednesday) in celebration of the opening of the new concrete highway, were it not for the fact that the more appropriate expression is "A (large capital "A") road leads to Warsaw."

People of northern Kentucky, in fact until recent years from all parts of the state, knew nothing of Warsaw unless they gained that knowledge from a visit via the Ohio river. Fine little town that it was no one knew much about it except by hearsay, or the river.

But now it has a road. It has a real road to the north and soon will have one to the southwest. Warsaw people are able to gain access to greater Cincinnati within the short space of an hour, whereas a trip to Cincinnati only a few brief months ago was a journey. And the people of greater Cincinnati and the entire surrounding section can enjoy no more beautiful drive than to visit Warsaw.

A citizen of that town told the writer last Sunday afternoon that Warsaw never had seen so many strange people in one day. Truly Warsaw is on the map.

SIXTH DISTRICT

MEETING OF PARENT-TEACHERS IS ATTENDED BY CROWD ESTIMATED AT FOUR HUNDRED—INSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM RENDERED BY STATE AND NATIONAL WORKERS

The district meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, which was held at Burlington last Friday, was pronounced a huge success by all who attended. State and district workers alike were unanimous in their praise of the treatment accorded them. It was the first time that a district meeting has been held in Burlington. Approximately four hundred men and women from all parts of the Sixth District spent the day at the Boone County High School building enjoying a program that lasted from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m.

The program included discussions of a general nature by such prominent state and district workers as: Mrs. F. M. Ballard, Mrs. T. B. Pearson, Miss Anne Campbell and Mrs. C. E. Roe, National Field Secretary. Local Committees who had charge of the day included: Reception Committee—Mrs. Lallie Eddins and Miss Hazel Cabbage. Hostess Committee—Mrs. J. K. Cropper, Mrs. Wendell Faston, Mrs. O. S. Eddins, Mrs. C. I. Cropper, Mrs. Geo. A. Porter, Mrs. Claude Greenup, Mrs. W. B. Cotton and Mrs. L. A. Conner. Culinary Committee—Mrs. Herbert Snyder, Mrs. Manley Ryle, Mrs. R. E. Berkshire, Mrs. Minnie Smith and Mrs. J. W. Kelly.

Officers and members of the local P. T. A. Association join in thanking everyone who helped in any way to make this fine meeting the success that it was.

Registration Committee—Prof. D. H. Norris, Mrs. G. S. Kelly, Mrs. C. G. Lamb, Miss Sarah Cropper and Mrs. Josie Maurer.

Cream and Cake—Mr. and Mrs. Nel Kirk, Mrs. Lee Cropper, Mr. Lamb.

Coffee—Mrs. Jan Kelly, Mrs. P. O. Huey.

BARKLEY

ADDRESSES FINE CROWD IN BURLINGTON FRIDAY AFTERNOON—FRANK GREENE ADDRESSES WALTONIANS—WOMEN ORATORS TO BE HERE FRIDAY AFTERNOON OF THIS WEEK

The political rally held at Burlington on last Friday afternoon was one of the largest and most enthusiastic that has been seen in the entire Sixth District during the present campaign, according to the best information.

United States Senator Alben W. Barkley, who always attracts Boone county voters, was greeted by a packed court house, when he arrived at 1:30. On account of the early hour the crowd was rather slow in arriving, but by the time that Mr. Barkley had mounted the platform a surprisingly large audience awaited his first words.

Senator Barkley is of the type that holds and interests any audience. His remarks invariably are well chosen, timely and sink into the opposition like the proverbial rapier's thrust. His speeches always are garnished with his characteristically refreshing wit, all of which tend to make of him the matchless speaker that he is known to be.

The meeting was called to order by R. E. Berkshire, Campaign Chairman, who presented Judge J. M. Lassing. Judge Lassing introduced Hon. Brent Spence, who made a very fine speech before introducing Senator Barkley. Mr. Spence received a fine ovation from the crowd, both at the conclusion of his talk and when paid a very glowing tribute by Senator Barkley during his address.

While the court house was filled beyond its capacity, additional citizens being unable to accommodate in the court house, yet one very regrettable circumstance no doubt curtailed the attendance somewhat. The district T. A. meeting, which was attended by about four hundred, and among whom were a great many Boone county members, was in progress during the day. This conflict was unavoidable on the part of the P. T. A., or the Democratic Committee, as the Barkley speaking originally was set for Saturday afternoon, October 25.

The change was made by telegram from the State Committee just in time for the announcement to be made in last week's issue of the Recorder and beyond the power of the County Committee to alter, for the reason that Senator Barkley's itinerary must necessarily be made up to suit the Senator and the State Committee, the wishes of the County Committee naturally being rendered secondary. The committee desired that this explanation be made with apologies to the Parent-Teachers organization for the unavoidable conflict.

Greene Speaks at Walton

The second speech of the week for the Democrats was made at Walton Saturday night, when former Commonwealth's Attorney Frank C. Greene addressed a crowd in the high school auditorium in that town. Ex-Circuit Judge Sidney Gaines presided at this meeting and introduced Mr. Greene, whose address recalled to his hearers the many fine speeches they had heard from him many years ago, when actively engaged in politics here. Mr. Greene flayed the record of the present administration at Washington in his matchless style.

Mr. Greene was succeeded on the platform by Judge J. M. Lassing, of Burlington, who delivered a few telling thrusts at the present Congressmen, J. Lincoln Newhall for his recent postmaster appointment at Walton. Judge Lassing recalled the fact that Mr. Newhall, in his appointment of R. M. Twell, who led the independent ticket last fall, had overlooked many deserving "regular" Republicans in passing out the best appointment in Boone county.

Women Speakers Here

Announcement was made at the Democratic rally here last Friday, that Mrs. H. K. Bourne, Chairman of the Kentucky Democratic Women's Club, and Mrs. John Woodbury, editor of the Democratic Women's Journal, would speak at Burlington next Friday afternoon at 1:30.

These two women are recognized among Democratic leaders as the foremost Democratic women speakers in Kentucky and the return of (Continued on Page 8)

AUTUMN

Europeans hardly know what Americans are talking about when we speak and write of "glorious autumn weather" and prate of the loveliness of our "Indian Summer." Climatic conditions are different on the two sides of the Atlantic. Over there Spring is the season of which poets sing, the loveliest period of the year. Summer follows and then, with the briefest of intervals, Winter comes.

Spring in most parts of the United States is hardly distinguishable from Summer. Winter drags on, then suddenly Summer is at hand. But after Summer comes Autumn, the long weeks when the few light frosts merely whet the zest for the cut of down, when the leaves turn to brilliant colors unmatched anywhere else in nature and impossible to depict by art in their full gorgeousness. Is there anything more beautiful than a forest-clad hillside when the leaves are turning? The pale yellow of the larch, the brilliant scarlet of the sugar maple, the yellow-browns of the elm and the soft maples, the purplish tones of the ash backgrounded against the several greens of the different evergreens make a blend of riotous color such as no painter has ever succeeded in catching on his canvas.

The leaves fall, the frosts sharpen, and then comes the hunting season, the "Indian Summer" the like of which is known nowhere else in the world. This Autumn season is one of the elements, and not the least important one, of our American heritage.

BEAVERS

The first European settlers in America found a curious animal in the New World. The beaver, which builds its nests like little log houses, and then builds a dam to raise the water level so that its enemies cannot reach the entrance to its home except by diving, is more than an interesting little animal. It was the source of greater part of the wealth of the early Colonists.

Beaver fur, it was soon discovered, made a better felt for hats than wool or any other readily obtainable furs. We speak today of the tall silk hat of fashion as a "beaver" but it is merely a remote descendant of the fashionable beaver-fur hats of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. An immense commerce between the old World and the New was built up in beaver furs as the principal export from this side, and beaver fur, now mainly obtained from Canadian sources, is still one of the most highly prized pelts.

The productivity of the beaver in building dams is being utilized in the Palisades Interstate Park, lying in New York and New Jersey. A large swamp needed a dam to make it into a lake. Several families of the 250 beavers that live in the park were trapped and moved to the swamp. They proceeded to build their houses there and to construct the dam just where it was needed. Although no longer an important item in commerce, the beaver is still useful.

KENTUCKY TO HAVE PART IN NATIONAL 4-H CLUB PROGRAM

Kentucky farm boys and girls will have a part in the national and state 4-H Club radio programs on Saturday, Nov. 8, when the achievements of junior agricultural clubs will be celebrated the nation over. Addresses and music will be sent through 35 stations. The Kentucky program will be broadcast from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS.

The national program, which will come from Washington, will begin at 11:30, central standard time, or 12:30, eastern time. Talks will be made by Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, and Dr. C. W. Warburton, director of the extension service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Music will be furnished by the United States Marine band.

The Kentucky program will be from 11:45 to 12:15, central time, over WHAS. The members in this part of the program follow:

Sends Strawberry Warning To Farmers

Reports have reached the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, of the sale to farmers in certain regions of strawberry plants for which unreasonable claims are made.

In one instance the sands of the World and the New were built up in beaver furs as the principal export from this side, and beaver fur, now mainly obtained from Canadian sources, is still one of the most highly prized pelts.

This, says Prof. A. J. Olney, is not a reasonable claim. While fall strawberry plants do yield the following year, yet there is no known variety that produces a commercial crop, unless 10 to 20 times the usual number of plants are set to the acre.

Fall is not considered the proper time to set strawberry plants in Kentucky. The best known commercial variety is the Aroma. Some growers are experimenting with the Premier.

A short crop of strawberries and high prices are predicted for next year. This probably is one reason some farmers are being misled regarding the possibility of setting a variety that will yield well the following year.

There was an increase of 14 per cent this year in lamb production in Nicholas county. Farmers received $22,300 more for their lambs than they received last year.

Thirty farm boys and girls have enrolled in the first 4-H sheep and lamb club to be organized in Fleming county.

Where land was limed in Letcher county the yield of corn in some instances was increased 50 per cent.

If You Have "Menu-itis", Just Try This Easy Cure

By JOSEPHINE E. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company

If "menu-itis" could be classified as a dangerous affliction, almost every woman would find her name enrolled on some hospital list.

The first symptom, usually, is a feeling that one cannot—simply cannot—plan another dinner. Ever! And matters soon progress steadily from this point until the complaint becomes chronic, and the whole family is involved in the suffering.

Of course, no two persons will arrange a menu in quite the same way, any more than different cooks will produce identical results from the same recipe. However, the best method for obtaining needed relief from this daily task of meal-planning is to allow someone else to furnish occasional suggestions. I am sure you will find the menu printed below is a welcomed, practical idea. The secret of its goodness lies in the somewhat different seasonings that are given the different foods. Try it for dinner tonight!

Olive and Egg Appetizers
Deviled Ham Loaf
Succotash of Fresh Corn and Oven Baked Kidney Beans
Cole Slaw
Purplish Apple Butter
Hot Rolls
Chocolate Wafer Dessert

Small open sandwiches, often called "canapés," make excellent appetizers. They should be ready on small serving plates at each place when dinner is announced. The following simple appetizers are made from foods that you more than likely have on hand:

Olive and Hard-Cooked Egg Appetizers:

Out rounds of bread, and toast on one side only. Butter the untoasted side and spread with a layer of thinly sliced Stuffed Spanish Olives. Then cover with a generous layer of chopped, hard-cooked eggs, moistened with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Sprinkle with egg yolks that have been forced through a sieve and on the center of each; place a slice of the Olive.

Deviled Ham Loaf: 1 lb. raw ham, fresh pork, ground together; 1 beaten egg; 1 cup Tomato Ketchup; 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard; 2 cups Rice Flakes; 1½ teaspoons Prepared Horseradish; 4 tablespoons green pepper, chopped; 2 small onions, chopped.

Combine ham and pork, eggs, Tomato Ketchup, Prepared Mustard, Rice Flakes, and Horseradish, which has been soaked for 10 minutes in 2 tablespoons cold water. Fry green pepper and onions in a skillet with butter until they are tender, but not brown, and add to the meat mixture. Form into a loaf and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees F—for about one hour.

Succotash of Corn and Kidney Beans: 2 cups fresh corn cut from the cob; 1 medium can Oven Baked Kidney Beans; 1 green pepper, minced fine; 1½ teaspoon salt; 1 egg, slightly beaten; grated cheese, buttered crumbs.

Mix corn with Kidney Beans, and add green pepper, salt, and egg. Pour into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with grated cheese and buttered crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven for 30 to 45 minutes.

Chocolate Wafer Dessert:

Use a package of very crisp chocolate wafers, which may be purchased in almost any grocery. Whip ½ pint cream, add 2 tablespoons sugar, and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Put the wafers together with a thin layer of whipped cream to form a cylinder. Then coat the outside, thinly with whipped cream. Allow to stand in the ice box (not in the freezing compartment) for two or three hours, and cut in diagonal slices.

YOU'VE GOT TO GIVE THEM TIME

A woman whose son is in his second year at college writes that her boy is well-mannered and intelligent but does not seem to have any objective.

"His father and I urge him to do college what he wants to do in life," she says, "but he tells us that he can not make up his mind."

For the encouragement of this mother I can cite two interesting cases.

A certain man now stands near the top of his profession, with an income considerably in excess of a hundred thousand dollars a year. He worked hard in college, but his health was poor; he was frequently despondent, and at his graduation he felt that he was not trained for anything.

He took the first job offered, and made surprisingly good progress. Just about the time that his parents thought he was well established, he suddenly chucked the job and started around the world. After a year's travel, which used up all his savings, he started in another position. The company failed, and he was out again. A third time he started in a different line, but it did not interest him. He could not get to first base.

On his fourth attempt, when he was almost thirty years old, he finally found work that gripped him. Alas, he became engaged to be married. He jumped into high speed and has been successful ever since.

I know another man whose ability was clearly recognized by the heads of the big company where he worked, but somehow they could not seem to fit him into the place where he would be really productive. Four or five times they shifted him into different departments. They were just about to turn him into the street when he struck the one thing for which he was really fitted. Today he is vice president of the whole concern.

When I buy an automobile the salesman tells me that it has been perfectly manufactured for its work, and carefully inspected and tuned up. At the same time, he says that I must be patient with it. For the first two thousand miles I must run it slowly, and I must bring it in often and have it adjusted.

We expect this in an automobile. But in a youngster we have the notion that the factory—which is the school or college—ought to turn him out all ready for a championship race at high speed.

It takes a lot of wisdom and patience to be the father of a boy who is starting in life. Boys must have a chance to get adjusted. You've got to give them time.

FOUR-H CLUB MEMBERS TO SEND 540 CALVES TO LOUISVILLE SHOW

Junior 4-H Club boys and girls in 23 counties are putting the finishing touches on 540 head or 27 car loads of baby beeves for the ninth annual 4-H stock show and sale to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville Nov. 12-14.

The show and sale will represent the completion of a year's 4-H Club work in preparing baby beeves for the market, conducted under the supervision of county farm agents and the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. The calves will weigh about 900 pounds and average about 15 months in age.

Despite the lack of pasture and other home grown feed, and the scarcity of water, the calves this year will equal in quality if not superior to those sent to former shows, according to M. S. Gerside, of the 4-H department of the College of Agriculture. The counties and the number of calves follow:

- Wayne, 78.
- Pulaski, 22.
- Garrard, 48.
- Washington, 34.
- Montgomery, 16.
- Marion, 20.
- Owen, 16.
- Nicholas, 15.
- Bourbon, 20.
- Franklin, 25.
- Shelby, 30.
- Caldwell, 20.
- Carroll, 10.
- Madison, 12.
- Union, 30.
- Hopkins, 16.
- Grayson, 16.
- Caldwell, 16.
- Barren, 14.
- Larue, 22.
- Jessamine, 26.
- Harrison, 10.

A total of $4,350 in cash, and five trips to the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago and other prizes will be divided among the winners in the 4-H Club part of the show. There will be classes for car loads, lots of five calves, individual calves, a special class for boys and girls raising their calves, for the most economical production of individual calves and of car loads, and for the best record books.

DRY FALL MAY CHANGE TREE PLANTING TIME

Fall is considered the ideal time to plant trees and shrubs in Kentucky, under normal conditions. Dry weather, however, has brought about a condition unfavorable to planting trees in many sections of the state.

Unless there is plenty of rain by Nov. 15, it probably will be better to defer extensive plantings until next spring, suggests N. R. Elliott, of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. Even with plenty of rain, the planting season probably will be somewhat later this fall than normally.

If the ground is too dry to make fall planting advisable, it would be well to create favorable conditions for spring planting by digging the holes now. Winter rains, freezing and having tend to loosen the ground and put it in good condition for planting.

Sunday School Lesson

SIMON PETER FROM WEAKNESS TO STRENGTH
Mark 8:27-29; Luke 22:31-34; John 18:25-27:15-17.

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
Peter was the popular one among the twelve apostles. More is known about his life than any other and, in part, this is because he was the frequent spokesman. He was invariably human and because he made so many mistakes we find comfort in studying his life.

It is significant that problems arose for Peter as an adult. It is much easier to develop a worthy character when the task is entered upon in childhood. Here we have the training of an adult and the slogan is still true. "It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks." If Jesus had been the teacher of Peter in his early teens the work would have been less difficult and more successful. Adults who are making serious mistakes will find much help in this study of Peter. Believe another saying—and take courage: "It is never too late to mend."

Observe three distinct calls that came to Peter from Jesus. The first, when brought by Andrew his brother, was to become a friend of the Master. Then there was the invitation to go to school as a disciple (learner). Later twelve apostles were chosen from among the disciples and Peter was selected. After Jesus had been rejected by the multitude, because he would not become their bread-making king the traveling school was taken to the base of Mount Hermon. Here there was a special quiz class as the Teacher said "Whom do men say that I am?" While the others were still thinking Peter gave the right answer: "Thou art the Christ." For this slight reply the pupil was especially commended.

FALL ARMY WORM DESTROYS CROPS

Destruction of rye and wheat by the fall army worm has brought many requests for assistance to the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky. Fields have been destroyed in Boyle, Hancock, Meade and Graves counties, thereby adding to the distress caused by drought.

This pest seems to appear suddenly and feeds ravenously. For this reason, says a statement from Prof. W. A. Price, head of the department of entomology and botany, rye, wheat and alfalfa fields should be examined frequently for the insect. He gives the following suggestions for controlling the worm:

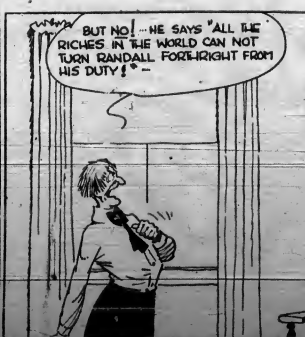

If the insects have fed only on a portion of the field and have not yet disturbed the other part they can be killed quickly by spraying the crop in front of their line of march with arsenate of lead, using a pound and a half of the powdered arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. Also much good can be done by rolling the fields infested with these pests with a heavy roller two or three times.

Very often the insects migrate from one field to another. If there is danger of attack on a second or nearby field, they can be kept out of the crattacked fields by throwing up a dust furrow. This is made by plowing a deep furrow using the breaking plow and throwing the land side away from the line of march then drawing back and forth in the furrow a log or keg to produce a fine dust especially on the land side of the furrow.

At intervals in the furrow, post holes should be dug in which the insects collect and can be killed by dipping or by pouring kerosene on them. The principle underlying this method of control is a mechanical one. If the steep side of the furrow is dusty the worms attempting to loose crawl up loose their footing and drop to the bottom.

Gov. Ritchie, A Third Term, May Be Elected Fourth Time

(By Mark Vane Collier)

Washington—As if the Republican camps over in Pennsylvania were not already in enough of a mess, Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for Governor, saw fit to throw a bombshell into the campaign in that State by announcing that "President Hoover has sent word by Secretary James J. Davis, one of his Cabinet officers, that he stands for and desires the election of the whole Republican ticket in Pennsylvania."

The Pinchot statement was astounding from whatever point of view you may look at it. In the first place, it came on the heels of denials of this very thing by Secretary Davis, Pinchot's running mate on the Republican ticket for U. S. Senator. In the second place, if he had been advised by anyone other than the President himself that Mr. Hoover had sent any such message, it is beyond human comprehension that he would have sought confirmation before broadcasting an announcement which he must have known would stand the whole Pennsylvania political campaign on end. In the third place, it is inconceivable, in view of President Hoover's well known and invariable attitude in connection with State and local campaigns, that Pinchot should have given the slightest credence to a rumor—and not to do the former Governor intentional injustice we may assume that there might have been such a rumor—that the President would advocate all precedent and inject his personality and official influence into the Pennsylvania campaign.

In any case, both the White House and Secretary Davis immediately took great pains to overcome the impression that President Hoover has taken a hand in the Keystone State or intends himself to be embroiled in the hot row over Gifford Pinchot. Official and semi-official denial created not a ripple of surprise, and the incident is generally interesting only as confirming reports of the dire straits in which the Republican party is finding itself not only in Pennsylvania but in that party's strongholds elsewhere. The Republican ships have been carefully prepared for squalls—they well knew in their hearts that squalls were coming in spite of their apologetic, crawl-fish efforts to divert the wind—but not for the impending cyclones.

Why, even that political sphinx, Jonett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has emerged from his shell of conservatism and predicted that the Democrats will gain control of the House, the prize in the forthcoming elections. In a formal statement, Mr. Shouse said he based his revised estimate of the approaching congressional elections "on a dispassionate summary of the facts, allowing full consideration to over-optimism in some of our reports." An overturn of 54 seats now held by Republicans is necessary for the Democrats to win control of the House. Mr. Shouse predicted a minimum gain of sixty seats and said that he believes the total will be nearer 70.

Mr. Shouse was less hopeful of winning the Senate, but the Democratic executive asserted that if the Democrats win in three of five States now classed as doubtful they will have a majority of one in the next Senate. He classed the States of Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming as doubtful in the Senate contests. "The present complexion of the Senate," Mr. Shouse continued, "is 39 Democrats, 66 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Laborite. The most conservative estimate for the Senate after March 4, 1931, according to our reports, give us 45 Democrats, 50 Republican, including all their factions, and the one Farmer-Labor man, Shipstead of Minnesota."

That the Republicans expect to suffer heavy losses is evidence by the fact that they have failed to predict so much as holding their own, and by the pronounced pessimism as privately expressed by party leaders here and in Chicago. Will Wood, chairman of the House campaign committee, has gone so far as to issue a statement denying that the Democratic triumph this fall would be of landslide proportions. Nevertheless, some of the Democrats are claiming a landslide and to many unprejudiced observers here not without good reason.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is just now engaged in meeting not the third-term issue which has so disturbed presidential candidates in the past, but the fourth-term issue. From present indications he is meeting it successfully. Little doubt is expressed that he will be re-elected and that when the Democrats hold their next national convention he will be in a strategic position to make a bid for the presidential nomination. However, Gov. Ritchie, his friends insist, is not making this campaign as a presidential possibility. He is running merely for Governor of the great State of Maryland. If he wins, he will have smashed all records relating to officeholding as chief executive of Maryland or any other State. In Maryland it was considered an unwritten law from earliest days that no Governor should be re-elected.

A very few ran for re-election and none succeeded. Gov. Ritchie, however, has already been elected three times and at the conclusion of his present term will have served continuously for eleven years. Another four-year term would keep him in the Governor's chair for a total of fifteen.

It is not to be doubted that Gifford Pinchot would give a great deal just now to unsay, blot out and have forgotten a phrase of his March, 1927, when, as Governor of Pennsylvania, he sent Senator-elect Vane's credentials to the United States Senate. After stating that Vane "appeared" to have been elected "on the face of the returns," Pinchot is said to have referred to the election as "partly bought and partly stolen." That will probably cost Pinchot 200,000 normal Republican votes in Philadelphia county on November 4. A few Washington politicians think that Pinchot's neck may have been saved by the decision of the Mellon-Reed faction in Pittsburgh to support the regular Republican ticket. The Pittsburgh crowd, however, is less anxious to reward Pinchot than to humble Vane, and there is an apathy in its support that bodes no good for the Pinchot ambitions.

David Williamson brought to this office last week a mammoth beet that tipped the scales at 12½ pounds. This beet was grown by Geo. Waxman, of Florence R. D. and is not a "cow beet," according to Mr. Waxman.

BARKLEY

Boone county are indeed fortunate that they will be able to hear them during the present campaign. Mrs. Emily Hughes Cleek, of Beaver, Boone county chairman of Democratic women, not only invites, but urges, all women to hear these addresses. The men also are urged to attend the meeting.

Sac Blackburn and Miss Mary Utz were married last Wednesday at the home of Rev. H. C. Runyan, in Landonia. Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn will make their home during the coming year in Indiana, where Mr. Blackburn will have charge of a fine farm. Although they dislike to see them leave Kentucky their many friends extend to them their best wishes for a happy and prosperous wedded life.

County Road Overseer Arch Rouse has been in Burlington several times during the past week and apparently is recovering his health rapidly and surely, all of which is welcome news to his many friends throughout the county. His eyesight has almost entirely returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley, of Seymour, Indiana, spent a few hours with friends in Burlington last Wednesday. Mrs. Wesley made many friends here while a teacher in the local schools in 1928. Accompanying them was a little daughter of five months.

John Clore, manager of the Bellevue foot ball team, desires to announce that his team will not have a game next Sunday, as had been announced to several of his players in outlying points of the county. This change is announced for their benefit.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Blythe, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Batts, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cropper, Mrs. J. M. Lassing, Mrs. Emma Brown, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cotton and R. E. Berkshire and family were among the Burlington people who made the trip to Warsaw last Sunday to test the new road to that city.

Born—On October 17th to Raymond Goodridge and wife, of Erlanger, a 9-pound boy—Russell Eugene.

Burlington P. T. A. will hold regular meeting Nov. 4th at 7 p. m. Tuesday at Court House.

Everybody—welcome. Everybody come and help make our P. T. A. the best.

C. L. Cropper will have a public sale on Nov. 8th. His ad. appears in other columns of this issue.

W. W. Goodridge will have a sale on Nov. 8th, near Hebron. Read his ad. in this issue.

Don't forget the sale of F. J. Allen on Saturday Nov. 1, beginning at 1 o'clock. See ad. in another column of this issue.

Chas. Maxwell and family, Mrs. W. W. Goodrick and Elmer Bollinger were visitors in Constance last Saturday.

The people of Burlington colored school will give an entertainment on Saturday night Nov. 5th for the benefit of the school.

Announcing The ANNUAL OPENING DISPLAY AND SALE

OF THE NEW LINE OF THE WONDERFUL INSTANT LIGHT

ALADDIN KEROSENE MANTLE LAMP

We extend a most cordial invitation to everyone to visit our store and inspect this new 1931 of Aladdin Lamps. Every home where oil is depended upon for lighting may now have all the pleasure and comfort of a perfectly lighted home. Aladdin light is a white light, near to sunlight in quality, is soft and mellow and just the right intensity. Aladdin light is economical too—turns one-half the kerosene and produces twice the light at the old way—actually pays for itself in a few months.

The Aladdin is simple—a child can run it. It burns without odor, smoke or noise. It is absolutely safe—no danger of generating, pumping-up, or torch required; a match is all that is required. Over 7,000,000 people now use and enjoy it. Come in and let us demonstrate it to you—there's no obligation whatsoever.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

MARRIAGE

Two elements are at work in every legitimate marriage contract, "sex-urge" and "love." The physician, in his daily round of service to humankind, observes many phenomena which enter mightily into human existence for better or worse. I think the conscientious doctor may be a first-rate moral and spiritual adviser as well as a battler against disease.

The sex problem, like the poor, "we have with us always." Without it, I fear there would be few marriages. Cut out the sex-urge, and the few marriage contracts, based on love alone, would endure unto the end, "when death do us part."

Sex-urge, is not love. Holy Writ refers to it as "lust of the flesh," a part of that evil triumvirate, "the world, the flesh and the devil." It is not a means to an end, to "multiply and replenish the earth." Sex-urge is human, for human exercise and control. If uncontrolled, but who doesn't know the penalty?

Love is far above the lust of flesh. When men and women love each other truly, independent of sexual attraction, the divorce courts go a-begging. I have seen time and again, men and women live as a husband and wife, regardless of sexual bankruptcy, and their devotion and happiness seemed far above the intensely animal nature. The sex-urge, in itself, is not much higher than the union of the beasts of the field. The sexual marriage ceases when sex fails, then infidelity, unchastity, jealousy, the divorce court and its miserable attempts at self-justification. No, sex-urge is not love; the latter rises above the coarse, animal passion.

When men and women learn that love is an identity far removed from sex-urge; when they try to occupy a plane above that of the beast of the field, then, and not till then will the highest ideal of humanity have been realized.

Says Hog Raising Brightest Spot For Farmers At Present

Hog raising now seems to be the brightest spot in the farm situation, according to the monthly outlook report of the College of Kentucky, prepared by C. D. Phillips. Storage stocks of pork and lard are not only less than a year ago but are also under the five-year average. The decrease in storage holdings is equivalent to about 1,500,000 hogs. This winter slaughter of hogs is expected to be less than it was a year ago, and livestock specialists predict a reduction in both spring and fall pig crops next year, because of the small corn crop.

The report says that the market supplies of cattle during the rest of this year will be about the same as a year ago, but that the supply of fed cattle during the first part of next year will be smaller than it was this year. The demand for stockers and feeders is expected to be less this fall than it was a year ago. This probably will mean that more cattle of these grades will go to slaughter.

Both the west and the cornbelt are not calling for their usual number of feeder lambs this year, and feeding in these sections evidently will be lighter than usual. This probably will force many unfinished lambs to be slaughtered in the next two or three months. With a lamb crop larger this year than last by 2,000,000 head, the market receipts for the remainder of the season probably will be heavier than usual. Unless some unforeseen situation develops, it does not appear probable that higher prices can prevail until the present period of liquidation is last.

Concerning a short time outlook for dairying, the report says that many cows appear to be in poor flesh and in low production because of the feed situation. Cold storage stocks are below those of last year, but the demand for butter is low, because of the business depression. As a long time proposition, there is a tendency of dairymen all over the country to keep more dairy heifers, which ultimately will result in more milk cows.

In most sections there also is a tendency not to do the usual amount of culling because of the low price of slaughter cattle. Both practices ultimately will result in a larger number of cows and larger production of dairy products.

Despite the fact that farmers are selling off their hens, and feeding less heavily, egg production for the country as a whole is above that of last year. Holdings of cold storage and frozen eggs are larger. Receipts of dressed poultry have been heavy, and stocks of frozen poultry are higher than usual. Little improvement is expected in the market for poultry during the rest of the year.

Feed supplies for the 1930-31 season are the smallest in years. Compared with livestock numbers, the total feed supply of all grains, hay and feedstuffs is about 90 per cent of normal. The corn crop is short, but the barley and oats crops are better than last year and above the five-year average. There also was a heavy carry-over of oats and barley. The largest wheat crop assures a supply of bran and shorts. Cottonseed meal and cake production will be under last year, due to the smaller cotton crop. Corn by-products feeds also will be smaller.

Soybeans and cane are being used to fill silos in Boyce county.

SCHOOL NOTES.

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL.

The party which was given by the "Blues" for the entertainment of the "Reds" was enjoyed by every one. The hostesses of the "Blues" were Zena Garrison and Betty McMullen.

The Burlington Kittens won their second game of basket ball last Friday night October 24th, by defeating the strong Verona girls' team by a score of 13 to 11. E. Ryle was high score maker for the Kittens and M. Renaker for the Verona team.

The Tomcats defeated the Ludlow Christian Church 14 a score of 11 to 2. R. Maurer was again the high point maker for the Tomcats. Rigney made the only goal for Ludlow.

The High School girls have organized a Girl Reserve Club under the leadership of Miss Hazel Cubbage.

The Hi-Y Club of Burlington High School met Monday morning to discuss the conference which will be held this year at Dry Ridge on Friday, Saturday and Sunday October 31, November 1 and 2. Quite a number of boys are thinking of going. Mr. Wm. Ewald, the district Y. M. C. A. Representative made us a nice talk, and told us all to be present at Dry Ridge.

7th and 8th Grades

Loretta Seelling and Cassius Sullivan were absent from school last Thursday.

The final reading test was held Wednesday to determine the representative from the 7th and 8th grades in the coming Tournament. It was won by Geo. W. Nelrick.

Thelma Aylor is absent from school again, but we hope to have her with us soon.

Don't forget the graded tournament to be held here Friday night and Saturday October 31st and November 1st.

TO THE SHEEP RAISERS OF BOONE COUNTY:

I certainly appreciate the honor of being nominated as Boone county's 4-H Club member to compete for the Scholarship to the International Sheep and Fat Stock Show at Chicago.

There is very little time and it will be impossible for me to see every one before November 15th, but I will surely appreciate any help given me in this work. Perhaps there will be some that will help me even if they are not sheep raisers for "The Sheepman" is an interesting and helpful magazine, or you may have some friend interested in sheep to whom you would like to send it. I will send receipts to everyone in return mail. Remember three years for $1.00. Please help me to secure 100 subscriptions!

ROBERT L. GRAVES, Burlington, Ky., R. D. 3.

Seven hundred Morgan county farmers sowed a total of 3,000 bushels of rye, or three times the largest amount ever sowed before in the county.

More than 200 farmers will qualify for the line honor roll in Russell county, having lined three-fourths of their tillable land.

"For years I never knew what it meant to feel well. I was always tired out. I was actually becoming a burden to myself as well as others. I was examined by many doctors and they gave me many things to take, but nothing seemed to help me. I was really getting in a very serious condition. Then like a fairy God-Mother I happened upon Karnaak and I will say without a bit of exaggeration, it is almost like magic, so marvelous and so quick in its wonderful power to make a new person of one. I often shudder when I think of what might have happened to me had I not found out about Karnaak when I did. Instead of what 'might have been' I am strong and well and robust and the amount of things I can accomplish amazes everyone I know."

Deaths

JAMES N. PERKINS DEAD

News of the death of James N. Perkins, prominent Rising Sun banker, reached his friends and relatives in Burlington Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Perkins passed away Tuesday morning. He was 80 years of age and had passed the greater part of his life in the town in which he died, where he was well known and revered as an excellent citizen.

He had been president of the National Bank of Rising Sun for the past five years and had been associated with that institution since 1872.

Mr. Perkins was born and spent his early life in Burlington and was a son of the late James Perkins, who at one time was judge of Boone county.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon of this week.

MILDRED E. MARSHALL

In the early hours of the beautiful Sabbath morning October 19th, 1930, Mildred E. Marshall passed away at the home of her mother Mrs. Lottie Marshall Richards. She was the daughter of Wilford and Lottie Marshall. She was born on August 29th, 1899, at her home at Independence, Ky. Her early childhood was spent there. Some years later she moved to Covington, Ky., where she received her education and early business training. She spent quite a bit of her life as telephone operator. During the strenuous work and her undying duty to this work she contracted the flu in 1918, from which she never fully recovered.

Mildred has passed from our sight but her influence remains with us. Her love, her loyalty, her unselfishness, the charm of her companionship will be ours as long as memory lasts.

Love was the keynote of her fine nature—love for family, of home and friends. She worshipped at the shrine of beauty—beauty in things artistic, beauty in nature, beauty of character, and the beauty of holiness for she was truly a child of God, having united with Union Presbyterian church at the age of 24 and was a faithful member until her death. She leaned upon Him as confidently and simply as a child upon its mother's breast.

During the last moments of her life on earth her heart seemed to be in tune with her Saviour when she reached out her arms as if to meet Him and repeated the loving words of Jesus when He said: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." For a few moments her suffering seemed to be almost unbearable—then she turned to her loved ones and said: "I should not complain, 'Did not my Saviour suffer more than this for me?' And to end a beautiful life of 31 years, 1 month and 19 days."

She leaves a loving mother, one sister Mrs. John P. Crouch, one brother John G. Marshall, one darling little nephew J. D., and many relatives and friends to grieve at her going.

"CONSOLATION"

Not dead—oh, no! but borne beyond the shadows

Into the full, clear light;
Forever done with mist and cloud and tempest,
Where all is calm and bright.

Not even sleeping—called to glad awakening
In heaven's endless day;
Not still and motionless—stepped from earth's rough places
To walk the King's highway.

Not silent—just passed out of earthly hearing
To sing heaven's sweet, new song;
Not lonely—dearly loved and dearly loving
Amid the white-robed throng.

But not forgetful—keeping fond remembrance
Of dear one left awhile;
And looking gladly to the bright reunion
With hand-clasp and with smile.

Oh, no, not dead; but past all fear of dying,
Say not that I am dead when Jesus calls me
And with all suffering o'er—
To live forevermore.

—The British Weekly.

IN MEMORY

On Sept. 19th came to us a darling babe,
To fill our hearts with joy
But to the Great Beyond was called.
Our darling little boy.

William Elmore was his name
He was so fat and sweet,
The Lord called him to bloom in the garden,
We hope some day to meet.

Little sisters they are lonely
They say if my little Buddie had lived
I would pet him to sleep.
He was only with us a while
But the dear Lord knows best,

Just to fill us with a smile,
He is now at rest.

MRS. WILL DECK,
Grant, Ky.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MILDRED E. MARSHALL

Miss Mildred Marshall
Who was called to rest
Was as true and pure as a lily,
So we know she was blessed.

New life though made sorrowful
By the sickness she bore,
Had friends who were man,
And sure did adore.

She was always cheerful and happy
And had a kind loving word for all,
So when taken by God
I know she was ready to answer the call.

In Heaven I know there is a place of rest,
For this dear loving girl
Whom the angels have blessed
Her mother, father, sister and brother and all.

Were certainly glad she could answer the call.
I do hope that some day
They can all find a place of rest
For the good work here on earth
As they have all done their best.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to our friends, neighbors and relatives and Dr. O. E. Senour for the kindness and sympathy manifested to us during the sickness and death of my dearly beloved daughter

MILDRED E. MARSHALL

We further desire to express our thanks to Rev. Benjamin Andree, and also to Rev. Victor L. Stevenson for the beautiful way they conducted the services, also the choir of the Union Presbyterian and Baptist churches for rendering the appropriate hymns and the Undertaker Mr. Philip Taliaferro for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral, and for the beautiful floral offerings.

POULTRY RAISERS TO MEET IN GRANT COUNTY

A Northern Kentucky poultry field day meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 6th, at the farm of A. Threlkeld, 6 miles south of Williamstown and 5 miles south of Corinth on the Dixie Highway.

Inspection of the flock at 9:30 will be followed by a judging contest and speaking program in which many practical problems of poultry raising will be discussed. J. E. Humphrey, of the College of Agriculture, will demonstrate head points and their value in culling and judging for egg production.

Among the speakers will be Stanley Menefee, of Cincinnati, Ky.; Mrs. Threlkeld; Fred Schmidt, Covington; Mr. Threlkeld; Prof. R. E. Gray, Ohio State University, and Dr. J. Holmes Martin and Mr. Humphrey of the College of Agriculture at Lexington.

In announcing the meeting, J. E. Wilson, farm agent in Grant county, says: "On the Threlkeld farm will be found one of the best R. O. P. Leghorn flocks in Kentucky and in the middle west. This meeting will afford an opportunity for poultry keepers to see hens with high egg producing ability, some of them laying 300 eggs in a year, and one that has laid 800 eggs in four years."

The meeting will be open to all persons interested in raising poultry.

BASKET BALL

The high school basket ball teams, both boys and girls, will act as hosts to the teams representing Hamilton High School on Thursday evening of this week. The finale on the program will be supplied by the Erlanger Baptist team and the Burlington Independent five. The Burlington boys have entered the Covington "Y" church league and will play in that organization under the name of the Burlington Baptists. Last year they were in a church league in Cincinnati and made a creditable showing.

This year, however, they elected to stay "closer home" and entered the Covington "Y" league, where they hope to win the championship. With the addition of some competent material from last year's high school team this hope may materialize.

The personnel of the team includes: Wilton Stephens, Robt. Utz, C. G. Lamb, Franklin Maurer, Stanley Ryle, Wilford Sullivan, Wilford Rouse, Ray Hickman and two others to be added later. This is easily the strongest team that Burlington ever has placed on the floor. Come out and see them Thursday night.

Elmo Gaines, for many years a valued adjunct to the State Auditor's office at Frankfort, made his regular pilgrimage too Burlington, his old home precinct, in order that he might stick one under the rooster. Mr. Gaines never misses this duty and privilege.

J. W. Kelly and wife and Howard Kelly and family toured to Warsaw Sunday over the new Federal road.

DEMOCRATS

RETURNED WINNERS IN COUNTY, DISTRICT, STATE AND NATION, ACCORDING TO LATEST TABULATIONS

In the national election Tuesday Boone county cast the largest vote ever before, tallied in a senatorial or congressional race, unless coupled with a presidential campaign.

The total vote cast was 2038, according to the unofficial count, with the Democratic ticket receiving a majority of 1028.

This majority is in excess of the margin calculated by the Democratic leaders in the county.

Indications point to a Democratic victory in both county and state, as the Recorder goes to press. Nation's results show a landslide for the Democrats.

The county results by precinct will be found in other columns of this issue.

CROP RESUME

REPORTED BY RECORDER CORRESPONDENT AFTER TRIP OVER COUNTY

(By F. A. Hall)

In riding over the county in the last few days, we find the farmers in Boone county have about brought their labors to a standstill until they get a little rain that will hurry up the seasoning or curing of the hay to a point where they can begin the stripping out of the leaf. Most farmers find their hanging tobacco curing up slowly as the result of the extremely dry weather, much green tobacco still being in evidence in the barns. Some tobacco that matured early has been bulked down, and a little stripping has been done, but the bulk of the leaf crop will hang from the rails. The crop is a whole lot shorter in both weight and quality, though many growers report that their holdings are quite much brighter leaf.

Corn cutting, that is, all that is to be cut, is about finished, and some land tillers found that but little of their crop was of sufficient importance to warrant shucking on the ear. Where a silo was available the farmers have filled these storage containers with the corn leaf extract, and reports indicate that nearly double the quantity of fodder was required to fill their silos.

The long drought and scarcity of water has caused many farmers to clean out their old ponds, while many have made new ones, and when the rains do come they will be supplied with an abundance of water, and in case of another dry spell, will find that the long drought has been a lesson to them.

During our trip over the county, all stopped for a short time at the home of Mr. J. F. Cleek, in the Richmond neighborhood, last Monday afternoon, where we found Mr. Cleek and a force of hands shredding corn and storing it in his barn. On this farm we noticed the completion of two very large ponds and when filled with water, it will be some time before he will experience another water famine.

DAIRY FEEDING

SCHOOL AT HAMILTON

The county agent will conduct a dairy feeding school at Hamilton school building (old building) Friday night, November 7th. The school will begin at 7:30 p. m. and close at 9:00 p. m. All dairymen and others interested in feeding problems in Hamilton community and adjoining territory are invited to attend.

Practical dairy feeding problems and the economical mixing of balanced dairy ration will be discussed. Each dairymen attending will be furnished with a formula for mixing a balanced ration based on the feeds produced on his farm.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shearer and daughter Helen, and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bodker, of Newport, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hall.

Read the advertisement of Harry A. Pettit in this issue and next Thursday.

Boone County Coon Dog "Makes" Daily Newspaper

To many the story of a coon hunt is more or less legendary. To others it is real. To those to whom it is real we present herewith a story hoping that it's realistic fervor will please.

The story appeared one evening last week in the Kentucky Times-Star under the "By-line" of Oscar H. Schultze, the Times-Star dog authority. As stated by Mr. Schultze, he enlisted the aid of John U. Salt, a former member of the Recorder staff, now of the Times-Star, and who has followed for many miles the little animal referred to in the following story.

Since the canine hero of the story was named for the editor of this newspaper and, since all of "us dogs" must stick together, we take pleasure in reproducing the tale.

By OSCAR H. SCHULTZE

Within the last three weeks the writer has had so many calls for stories of "night dogs," or raccoon and "possum dogs," that he has enlisted the help of John U. Salt, a member of the Times-Star staff, who has been an ardent coon hunter. Salt has written from knowledge of dogs he has seen "work" as an example of what may be expected of night dogs by hunters.

This column has been and will be devoted to pure-bred dogs, but this exception has been made to accommodate readers. It also must be borne in mind that the dog used for coon hunting may be a pure-bred foxhound, and therefore the dogs, in a way, are linked. The cross is made of the pure-bred foxhound and some other pure-bred breed in such way as to keep the nose of the hound and the courage of the dog he is crossed with. Here is the story:

By JOHN U. SALT

The mongrel dog has no place in the eye of the dog fancier, but among night dog owners, mongrel hunting dogs are seen more frequently than any other. This is especially true in districts where there are sufficient raccoons, opossums and skunks to attract night hunters. It may be true that a blue-blooded hound could perform just as good as any mongrel in the night-hunting sport, but it would take a world of argument to convince a good night

hunters of this. In sections of Kentucky where the sport still is followed, a favorite belief is that a hound with bulldog or bull terrier in him is the best kind of dog for coons.

There are as many beliefs among coon hunters as there are coon dogs. To find two coon hunters who will agree on any part of the sport is a rarity, and that may account for the numerous types of dogs that are used.

A good coon hound must be fast, game and of sure scent. He also must have developed a liking for the sport which will keep him from chasing other animals over the hills when his owner desires coons only. The average well-trained coon dog will tree a possum or a skunk if he runs across his trail, and will make a try for a mink; but when he scents coon he will forget the rest of the night-hunting animals.

A good example of a mongrel which is a really great coon dog is "Old Bob," owned by Norris Berkshire, Petersburg, Ky., one of Northern Kentucky's most ardent followers of the night sport. Bob's ancestry is the most uncertain thing about him. He originated in the mountains near Berea, N. C., and was purchased by Berkshire when several years old.

Berkshire is not the only one who is positive that Old Bob is just about the greatest coon dog that ever lived. His friends who hunt with him swear by the little animal, and, although Bob now is more than ten years old, he appears to be in good shape for another hunting season.

Bob is a small animal, just about the size of the average bull terrier, but lighter in weight than that breed. He has hair which faintly resembles that of a setter. His tail is bobbed and he has a wise little pointed face which resembles no breed in particular. When a youngster he was not so friendly, but age has made him almost the opposite.

Just what effect old age is going to have on the dog this year is problematical, but in years past he had a record which any coon dog would envy. Coons are not so thick in Boone County, but Berkshire's catch each year compares favorably with that of any other hunter in the same section. Berkshire has had other hunting dogs, but through eight years of hunting Old Bob has been the mainstay of his string.

Bob is not a silent trailer, but still he gives tongue few times on the trail. While he does give a peculiar little yip-yap those who are following him can be certain that they will catch a coon. Once tried, Bob's voice would never be mistaken. He hasn't a hound's voice, but his shrill bark can be heard a long way off.

Bob took to coon hunting like a duck takes to water. Originally he was used to run deer, but when he came into Berkshire's possession his talents were devoted entirely to coons. One reason for Bob's ability may be the tirelessness of his master, for any night that coons are running Bob is sure to get plenty of exercise. In addition, he usually is taken on a trip to his native mountains, and then it is two or three weeks of steady hunting for him.

Between coon-hunting seasons Old Bob keeps in practice hunting ground hogs. Ground hogs are his favorite diet, and he keeps in pursuit of them the entire summer. Next to eating ground hogs, Bob enjoys fighting them, and when it comes to a real battle a husky old granddaddy ground hog ranks right close to the top of the list.

A ground hog will get out of the way if he can, but if cornered he proves to be just as good a fighter as anything his size could be. It is no wonder that he is so popular.

No wonder that he is so popular. A ground hog that tackles a ground hog for the first time unaided by his owner is a dog that will win, but he will remember the battle for many days.

Bob seems to know when it is time to hunt coons, and if his master wishes to go any place alone the dog must be tied. The sight of a gun in the day time will bring the little dog out in a hurry. He seems to know that a gun in the day time means rabbits or squirrels and as soon as he hears the hunter's idea of game for the day he scampers in pursuit.

Many coon hunters have said that day-hunting a night dog will ruin him, but it never has affected Bob. In the day time, if he sees you peering up in the trees he knows it's squirrels you want; if you examine ground hog holes closely Bob devotes his time to these animals, and a few kicks around corn fodder shocks or brush piles informs the dog that you want rabbits.

If you are just hunting, Bob will get the idea immediately and will do his best to start you up the nearest game available, be it rabbit, skunk, birds or ground hogs. And in spite of all his varied hunts Old Bob never forgets that night hunting means coons.

Just after the squirrel season opened in 1929 Bob was accidentally shot through a front leg. A veterinarian made repairs and, while Old Bob was slightly slower last year, he caught more than his share of coons. Bob's particular buddy is a dog which is dignified by the name of bull dog. He certainly looks like one, but just what kind is another uncertainty. The bull dog Terry is another tireless hunter, and on a coon hunt he trumps Old Bob's nose with a faith that can not be broken. When he hears Bob bark a tree starts out, and he will be right with him until the coon is treed. Terry's job is to take care of the coon when it is knocked out of the tree.

While Bob has killed many a coon his owner prefers not to risk his being injured. With Terry it is different. He has had his nose close to the ground so much that it looks like he had smelted at a meat grinder in operation, but once his powerful jaw snaps down the coon fight is over.

Some years ago Terry made the mistake of catching a base ball and lost his lower left leg, but his right one proved more than enough to finish off any coon or ground hog that ever lived.

Bob and Terry are by-words with every hunter within miles of Petersburg. Of course, every coon dog owner declares that he has the best, but they all know that those two old mongrels of Berkshire are authorities on the subject.

William Ward and William Phillips made a tour to Warsaw, Gallatin county, Sunday afternoon over the new concrete road just completed. They claim it to be a nice road and a beautiful drive.

Philadelphia deserves credit for initiating the "Buy Now" movement, which is being taken up by Chambers of Commerce all over the U. S.

It is sound advice. If everybody would act upon it, business would pick up rapidly.

Everybody needs something. Many are holding off their purchases hoping for better times. So long as they continue to hold off, business will not improve. The way to make business better for everybody is to buy now.

That does not mean merely "do your Christmas shopping early," but that advice, always sound, is sounder than ever this year. It means going ahead with the purchases you would like to make but have been hesitating about making.

If everybody, or even half of the people of the United States were to act on this advice and buy now, the backbone of the business depression would be broken. That does not mean that the return of prosperity would be instant, but it would be greatly hastened.

Every retail purchase not only depletes the merchant's stock, making it necessary for him to order new goods, but it puts money on credit in the merchant's pocket with No. 5 which to pay for the new goods he orders. His order in turn, added to those of other retailers, has the same effect upon the wholesaler and distributor, and those, in turn, go back to the mills for their fresh stock.

Your dollar, once passed across the merchant's counter, will thus do its share toward increasing factory payrolls. Prosperity can only be restored by putting dollars into circulation—your dollars and your neighbor's dollars.

"Buy now" is a good slogan.

STUNTED AND FROSTED CROPS CAUSE TROUBLE

The dry season, with its stunted and immature crops is resulting in many inquiries to the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, regarding feeding smutty grains and moldy forages. There have also been many inquiries regarding the danger from feeding frosted crops, such as sorghum, sudan grass, clover, alfalfa, etc.

The Department of Animal Pathology states that there is no danger from feeding smutty corn as such.

Several cases of botulism or forage poisoning have been reported in the state. This is a specific toxemia. The toxemia is produced by the germ Bacillus botulinus. The germ is more apt to grow in immature smutty or moldy feeds than on well matured clean feeds. In the case of an outbreak of botulism there are two courses open.

If there is only a small amount of the feed that is causing the trouble, then destroy the feed.

If there is a large supply of valuable feed, animals may be rendered immune to the disease by treating them with the anti-botulinus serum and continue the animals on the feed.

Frosted forages may cause indigestion, colic, or bloat, but are seldom fatal. Sorghum and sudan grass some times are poisonous immediately after frost, especially if the plants are immature. This is due to a formation of prussic acid. Sorghum is more dangerous than sudan grass. Frosted clover and alfalfa often cause severe bloating. Rye rarely gives trouble.

To avoid danger from frosted crops keep livestock in at night and until the frost has disappeared in the morning. Feed hay before the animals are turned out and provide plenty of salt and water.

REPORT FAIR YIELDS OF KOREAN LESPEDEZA

Farmers in a dozen or more Kentucky counties are reporting fair crops of Korean lespedeza seed. Yields vary considerably, due to the season. One farmer secured only 2,400 pounds from 200 acres, while another man harvested 500 pounds an acre from four acres.

The crop for the state as a whole is short, and farmers are making every effort to save seed. Ralph Kenney, field agent for the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, advises farmers to buy seed early, and be certain it is not largely weeds.

Leading Korean lespedeza seed producing counties are Todd, Simpson, Christian, Logan, Warren, Union, Graves and Shelby.

KENTUCKY RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS the week of November 10. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Nov. 10—Preparing tobacco for market, E. C. Vaughn.

The winter spray program, W. W. Magill.

Nov. 12—Plans for improving farm incomes, R. E. Proctor.

Thanksgiving dinners, Miss Laura Deephouse.

Nov. 14—What farm folks are asking, N. B. Elliott.

BOYS AND GIRLS WIN AT DAIRY EXPOSITION

Kentucky 4-H Club boys and girls won many high places and a total of $205 on cattle which they exhibited at the National Dairy Exposition in St. Louis. In the junior club show, they won third on yearling Jerseys, third on two-year-olds, third and fourth on groups and fourth and fifth on calves. A dairy demonstration team composed of two 4-H Club members from Wayne county was seventh. Twenty 4-H Club members attended the exposition. Club cattle were exhibited from Christian, Callaway, Hopkins and Marion counties.

EVERY GARDEN SHOULD CONTAIN STRAWBERRIES

A new circular called, "Strawberries for the Garden," written by Prof. A. J. Olney, head of the department of horticulture, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, says that strawberries are a delicious fruit that should be grown generally in home gardens. The average yield of a matted row 300 feet long is about 50 quarts, but 225 quarts is not unusual if the patch is given good care.

Prof. Olney, in his new circular, gives in a concise manner full directions for growing strawberries, including soils and fertilizers, plants and planting, varieties cultivation, mulching and the like. Copies may be obtained from county farm and home demonstration agents or by writing to the College. Ask for Circular No. 238.

221 DAIRY HERDS ON TEST IN STATE

The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, reports that 221 herds comprising 4,017 cows were tested in dairy herd improvement associations in the state last month. Highest production was made in the Ohio-Kentucky Valley Association, Tester Howard Marshall reporting an average of 20.5 pounds for 368 cows in milk and 43 dry cows. This is an increase of more than three pounds of fat per cow for the same month last year for this association. The highest producing herd last month in all associations was owned by the Hills Dairy in the Ohio-Kentucky Valley association, the average production for 30 grade Jerseys being 34.5 pounds of butterfat.

Members of the Graves county association have saved 67 cents a 100 pounds by cooperating in buying feed in carloads.

Five members of the Blue Grass association who fed silage in September maintained their butterfat production and had a slight increase in milk over August.

FARMERS INSPECT WOMAN'S FLOCKS

Fifty-two Meade county farm men and women recently inspected the flocks of chickens and turkeys raised by Mrs. Annie Haynes in that county. She has 200 White Leghorn pullets, 40 per cent of which were laying when six months old. She also has 75 turkeys which she brooded artificially. Many of the visitors were surprised to find these turkeys larger and more thrifty than the turkeys raised in the open. County agent Ray Hopper reports.

$300 A YEAR FROM KY. CHAMPION COW

Producing approximately $300 worth of cream in a year, a cow owned by T. A. Jones, a Calloway county farmer, has set a new Kentucky record for junior 4-year-old Jerseys, according to an official testing report of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. Her official production for 365 days was 13,745 pounds of milk and 779.58 gallons or 6,392 quarts of milk and 917 pounds of butter. Her milk averaged 5.67 per cent fat.

FRUIT GROWERS TO MEET

The annual winter meeting of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society will be held in cooperation with the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, Dec. 4-5. The program of the first day will be devoted to discussions of insect and disease control, including the oriental moth in peaches and codling moth in apples. The second day, soil building, orchard equipment and general production problems will be considered. Prominent fruit growers from Kentucky and other states will appear on the program.

JUNIORS SHOW DAIRY CATTLE

Three hundred and forty-five 4-H Club calves were exhibited at district club shows in Kentucky this year. Ninety-nine of the best animals were then sent to the State Fair, where they competed for state honors and also in the open classes, winning many high prizes. Four-H Club calves from Christian, Callaway, Marion and Hopkins counties were exhibited at the National Dairy Exposition in St. Louis. Four-H Club work is preparing hundreds of farm boys to be good dairymen.

Geo. Cocanougher of Washington county fed a litter of 12 Chester White pigs to weight 2,300 pounds in 146 days, and made a profit of $100.

Post your farm NOW. It will not be but a few days until the hunters will go afield with dog and gun. The Recorder will post your farm upon receipt of 50 cents.

Even Informal Parties Require a Food Surprise

By JOSEPHINE E. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

The informal party is, perhaps, the most delightful of all; but is chief charm, from the standpoint of food, lies in those dainty dishes with which every hostess likes to surprise her guests.

If one entertains frequently, it often seems difficult to have something entirely new and different. However, just a little extra care in planning will make all your "party dishes" remembered—and this without any need for an elaborate menu. In fact, a creamed meat on toast garnished with olives and pickles, or a distinctive salad accompanied by novel sandwiches, is all that any hostess need plan for an informal affair.

Below you will find suggested some simple party menus that are particularly attractive. And I am sure they will help you to plan many others that are similarly unpretentious.

Fresh Peach Mousse
Chocolate Ice Box Cookies
Toad Tea or Coffee

Frozen Chocolate Pudding
Individual Angel Food Cakes
Coffee

Chicken Shortcake Hot Biscuits
Preserved Sweet Cherkins
Crisp Potato Chips
Mints Coffee

Mixed Fresh Fruit Salad
Sandwiches or Crisp Cookies
Salted Nuts Coffee

Chocolate Ice Box Cookies: Melt 1/2 cup shortening and add 1 1/2 cups sugar. Add 1 egg, and 3 squares chocolate melted over hot water. Then add 2 1/2 cups flour, 3 tablespoons baking powder, and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir together. Gradually add 3 tablespoons milk to make a very firm dough, and work in 1 cup Raisin Flakes. Place in a bread pan, cover with waxed paper and set in a refrigerator over night.

Slice thin and bake in a moderately hot oven—400 degrees, F.—for eight minutes. This recipe makes about fifty cookies two inches square.

Frozen Chocolate Pudding: Scald 1/2 cup milk in a double boiler, and add 1/3 cup sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons flour. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add 2 beaten egg yolks and cook for several minutes, then add 1 square bitter chocolate, melted over hot water. When cool, add 2 stiffly beaten egg whites, chill, and fold in 1/2 cup Pure Mince Meat, 1/4 cup chopped English Walnut meats and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Place in trays of refrigerator to freeze, stirring occasionally, or freeze in a regular freezer.

Chicken Shortcake: Sift together 2 cups flour, 4 cups sugar, 4 tablespoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add 4 tablespoons shortening, using 2 tablespoons butter and two of lard. Blend the fat with the flour mixture, add milk to form a firm dough, and mix very lightly. The amount of milk will be from 3/4 to 1 1/2 cups. Press the dough on a lightly oiled board and pat 1/2 inch thick. Shape with a cutter and bake in a hot oven for 12 minutes. Split with a fork, butter while hot and place hot creamed chicken or other creamed meat between the halves and on top of the biscuits. Garnish with stuffed Spanish Olives and Preserved Sweet Cherkins. To prepare the creamed chicken—Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a saucepan and blend with 4 tablespoons flour. Add 3 cups rich milk and the mashed yolks of 3 hard boiled eggs. Cook until thick and season with salt, pepper, paprika and a few drops of Worcestershire Sauce. Add about 8 cups cold cooked chicken, cut in strips, chicken and ham mixed, or veal, and 1/2 cup Stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced, saving the remainder of the olives for garnishing.

Salted Nuts: Pour boiling salt water over shelled almonds or filberts, and allow to stand for about a minute in the water. Then place them between towels and rub, when the skins will come off easily. Cook the nuts in a skillet with several tablespoons of Pure Olive Oil, having the oil hot when the nuts are added. Cook until the nuts are brown, drain on heavy paper, and sprinkle lightly with salt.

ASH TRAYS AND BUZZERS

Years ago I had an appointment with a corporation president. The secretaries, door men, and general factotums in the great man's outer office made it clear that their boss was Some Pumpkins and that I was assuming a great deal in asking to see him.

When I finally worked my way through the last of them and stood in the president's private office, I saw in the corner a red-faced, bald-headed man seated at a plain wooden desk. His coat was off and his sleeves were rolled up to reveal a pair of solid, hairy arms.

"Ah, Mr. Barton," he said, "would you mind standing on guard beside that door? My tailor has sent me over a pair of cooler pants, and I want to put them on."

So I stood guard while he stepped out of one pair of pants and into another, chatting sociably all the time.

I was reminded of this incident by the remark of a friend who was recently transferred from the branch office to the New York headquarters of a certain business.

Some of the men in the organization were jealous of his promotion, and he has carefully watched his step. "The president gave me my choice of two offices," he told me. "One was a grand room on the executive floor. The other a queer little dump two floors below. I took the little office. It will be perfectly all right until I show that I need something better. I have enough problems at the beginning without the additional handicap of a luxurious office."

An office manager who has watched men come and go in a big corporation tells me that he can predict just about how long a new man will last. "If his first requisition is for a lead pencil and a blotter and so on, I put him down as permanent. But when a man sends me an initial requisition for an ash tray and an electric buzzer I notice he never stays over a year."

Napoleon was quite a trial to his courtiers because he did not pay more attention to the trappings of his office. When Dourienne was tell-

THOMAS—THE HONEST DOUBTER

John 11:14-16; 14:16; 14:5-8; 20:24-28; 21:1,2.

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

When a special name is related to a person it is hard to get away from it. That nickname may not characterize the individual with any fairness but be merely the emphasis on some peculiarity. It has been just that way in the case of Thomas during all these 1900 years. He has been called the "Doubter," and even that appellation is not altogether fair. Thomas, in fact, is a truly great character and deserves more recognition than is generally given to him.

It was toward the latter part of the ministry of Jesus, when he was in Berea, that word came from the sisters at Bethany that their brother Lazarus was sick unto death. At this period in His ministry there were increasing threats against His life by leaders in Jerusalem. All who were with Jesus were evidently pleased when no intention appeared of going to the help of Lazarus. But after two days Jesus said He was going there. Usually Peter was the impetuous spokesman. This time it was Thomas who declared "We will go with you."

We know that he was not present with the Ten when Jesus came into their midst in the Upper room on the evening of Resurrection Day. When these tremendous facts were narrated Thomas made his own terms for proof before he would be ready to accept their statements as truths. The next Sunday Jesus came into their midst and directly addressed Thomas, asking him to seek the proofs that he had called for—to feel of the nail prints and where the sword had been thrust in His side. The Presence was enough, and Thomas gave a glorious declaration of faith as he asserted "My Lord and my God."

Twenty-six Boyd county farmers have organized a dairy herd improvement association and will begin testing cows Dec. 1.

Five hundred Letcher county farm boys and girls will be members of 4-H Clubs next year. Corn grown by club boys this year will yield 50 to 75 bushels to the acre.

Forty Barren county 4-H Club members displayed their products at a fair in Glasgow where $200 in premium money was offered for club work.

Six Powell county farmers will tile drain land this winter. One will drain a six-acre lake. Locally made tile will be used.

County Agent E. P. Tichenor reports a good apple crop in McLean county.

ing him that he must do so and so the older reigning families in Europe would not recognize him, he had the sure answer of a man who knows his strength.

"If it comes to that I will destroy them all," he exclaimed. "Then I shall be the oldest sovereign among them."

Generally speaking, those who like lots of fuss are light weights. The surest a man is of his own capacity the less he cares for externals—including all fancy trappings and the criticism of the uninformed.

TOBACCO GRADING SERVICE FOR KENTUCKY MARKETS

Completion of negotiations of the University of Kentucky and the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics secures official grading of tobacco for Kentucky markets during the coming season, according to the Department of Markets and Rural Finance of the Experiment Station.

Present plans call for grading along the lines developed last year at Paris and Mayfield. Official grades will be placed at tobacco warehouses of selected markets to grade tobacco when requested by farmers or others with tobacco for sale. The grade will then be indicated on the warehouse ticket and the auction conducted in the usual manner except that the grade is announced before the sale. Average prices paid for each grade will be posted in the warehouse so that farmers and buyers will know how tobacco is selling grade by grade.

The service will help farmers and buyers. Farmers will be in a better position to know what their tobacco should bring, and buyers will have an official grade by which to check their own judgment of quality.

The grading was given excellent support by farmers, dealers and warehousemen who cooperated with the state and federal agencies last year at Paris and Mayfield, where official grading was provided for Kentucky for the first time. Much interest is also being shown this year. Four markets have already applied for the service, and farmers and warehousemen at several other markets have it under consideration.

EXPECT GOOD SHOW AT BOURBON STOCK YARDS

The ninth annual Fat Stock Show at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville Nov. 12, 13 and 14 promises to be one of the best in years, according to entries in almost every division. Junior agricultural club boys and girls in 28 counties have entered a total of 540 head of baby beefs, while at least a normal number of entries are being made in the Smith-Hughes and adult feeders' sections.

Four-H Club members, who have won many of the top honors in previous shows, expect to be contenders for high places in the open classes this year. Wayne county will send the largest number of animals finished by 4-H Club members, 78 head of mixed cattle, most of them well fitted.

Garrard county, always a contender for first places, both in the club show and in the open classes, will present 48 well-finished Angus calves. Previous to last year, the Garrard county club won five consecutive carload grand championships at the Louisville show. Bottorff Bros Goshen, Ky., won highest honors in 1929.

Washington county's 4-H Club will show 34 Shorthorns and Angus; Shelby county, 34 Angus; Union county, 32 Shorthorns and Herefords; and Jessamine county 26 Angus. Eighteen other counties will have smaller numbers of well-fitted animals at the show.

The cattle will be sold at auction following the show. Most county farm agents report prospects of a fair profit on 4-H Club calves, despite the shortage of pasture and water.

Premiums to the amount of $5,000 appropriated by the Commonwealth of Kentucky will be divided among the winners, payable through the Kentucky State Fair Board.

SCHOOL NOTES.

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

The girls of Burlington Hi School met Friday morning October 31 and organized the Girl Reserve Club. The officers are as follows: President—Fonda Lee Jarrell, Vice-President—Lucille Ryle, Secy.-Treas.—Zena Garrison, Chairman of program—Ethelene Ryle, Reporter—Elva Akin. As we have organized our club we are planning to do many interesting things throughout the year. Programs and socials will be given from time to time. We are planning to send delegates to the Conference to be held at Falmouth on Nov. 21st, 22nd and 23rd.

The older boys Conference held at Dry Ridge was enjoyed by all who attended. Members from the Hi-Y Club were as follows: Bailey Greenup, President; Geo. Cook, Treasurer; Prof. Neikirk, Advisor; and James Edward Stephens a member.

James Ogden, a sophomore, was able to return to school Monday after a week's illness. Miss Hazel Cabbage, one of the High School teachers, entertained her cousin Miss Mary Alma Purcell, a student at Georgetown College the past week-end.

7th and 8th Grade

In the Tournament Saturday Burlington won twelve first places, and will send eight out of the twenty Representatives to Lexington Friday.

Elizabeth Burton was absent from school Wednesday.

5th and 6th Grades

Lloyd Clements, who is moving to Kenton county withdrew last Wednesday.

A Chapel program will be given by the fifth and sixth grades on Thursday afternoon of this week, beginning at 2:30 p. m.

Harry Cook won first place for the boys in the declamation contest for the county, given here last Friday night. His selection was "Eleven on the Line." He will represent the county in tournament at Lexington on the seventh and eighth of Nov.

Howard Garrison won second place in the sixth grade reading contest at the tournament on last Saturday. Others who entered the scholarship contests were Betsy Eddins, Kathryn Seebree and Nora Mae Stevens.

First Grade

Those neither absent nor tardy during the second month were as follows:

Anna Mary Antras.
Calvin Coolidge Cress.
J. C. Dykes.
J. D. Jarrell.
Dola May Lenhoff.
Zelma Lee Loudon.
Joseph Pepper.
Melvin Snow.
Charles Snow.
James Gale Smith.
Edward Zane Stephens.
Ada Sorrell.

The scholarship prize offered to the ones having the most perfect lessons during the month were won by Jas. Gale Smith. Edward Zane Stephens was a close second, losing to James Gale by two points.

CONSTANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bates entertained Miss Dorothy Peeno, Miss Anna Warren, Miss Puth Kennedy, Miss Esther Regenbogen, Mr. Claude Kennedy, Mr. Alfred Kennedy, Mr. Ross Vist and Robert Welch and Arthur and Edward Boehm Sunday.

About 50 guests gathered at the home of Ed. Marksberry and wife near Devon to celebrate their 19th wedding anniversary. They were surprised with many beautiful gifts and a fine time was reported by all. Orchestra music, dancing and many games played. (When?—Ed.)

Approximately 1,000 educators gathered at the University of Kentucky last week for the seventh annual Educational Conference and the dedication of the new $800,000 teacher-training building which was Damascus, Syria, is known as the oldest city in the world. Other cities were built before Damascus was built, but they have perished or have been destroyed.

REGARDING INOCULATION

Referring to the "Wrong inoculation" article in last week's Recorder, we wish to state that we sell the Dry Inoculation NITROGEN—but that each can gives explicit directions to mix thoroughly with water—about one pint for large seeds and one quart for small seeds. We have the same bulletin published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Extension Service as of October 1st, 1930, and under the heading "Sources of Legume Bacteria Cultures" one of the Commercial Companies mentioned as supplying same is The Nitrogen Company, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. NITROGEN—This is what we handle—fresh each year, contains more than Seven Billion Germs per bushel.

Eighty per cent of the farmers in Morgan county are cutting their corn close to the ground and mowing it all for feed. Many plan to put it in bays as soon as it is cured.

The first field of Korean clover ever cut in Pike county produced nearly a ton of hay to the acre, despite dry weather. The county agent thinks 100 farmers will sow Korean lespedeza next year.

Interest in dairying has resulted in the purchase of approximately 100 milk cows by farmers in Butler co.

Zeno Nordwick received a purebred dairy heifer from the Cooperative Pure Milk Association of Cincinnati for winning the 4-H Club dairy championship in Campbell, Boone and Kenton counties.

Four-H Club boys and girls are taking the lead in dairy progress in large county. Miss Wilma Ray Winter has established a purebred herd.

Late News From The Capital In This Washington Letter

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

(By Fred Holmes)
Washington Cor. for The Boone County Recorder

Washington.—The arrest and conviction of the burglar may be a source of satisfaction, but not often do they result in restoring the pilfered jewelry to the bureau drawer or the missing cash to the inside pocket of the closest vest. Satisfaction may be one of those "grand and glorious feelings," but it would hardly be considered by a banker as good security for a loan. If, as we are told, the booty of the larceny of a purse is "trash" by comparison with that of the theft of a good name, how much less in the latter case, is the satisfaction of ultimate vindication?

A week or so ago, your correspondent referred to the charges of Ralph H. Kelley, a former employee of the Land Office, of dishonesty and misfeasance in the distribution of oil shale lands by the Department of the Interior. It was then stated that whether Mr. Kelley substantiated his accusations or Secretary Wilbur exonerated his Department, the odor from a probe would be disagreeable and the inevitable scar unsightly.

It may or may not be significant that Mr. Kelley's alleged exposure came at a time when a heated political campaign was in progress. It may or may not be equally significant that all speed records were broken by the Department of Justice in looking into Mr. Kelley's imputations and arriving at its conclusions before the close of that campaign. However, the prevailing thought here in Washington is that the question of official misfeasance, except as the entire Administration is involved, is not a political one. Whatever may have motivated Mr. Kelley in his misdeeds, and whatever may have motivated the Department in its investigation, the question is not a political one.

"The Justice Department's complete exoneration of the Interior Department in the case of the oil-shale charges is the sort of thing to be expected when an administration investigates itself. The Justice Department reports are seriously weakened by the haste with which they were prepared, by the sweeping generalizations which they contain and by their partisan tone."

The President well knows what a stretch the naval oil leases left upon the Harding Administration. He wants no taint like that on his own and may be excused for displaying heat in denying the charge that his Administration has been guilty of alienating shale-oil lands to the value of billions of dollars. But consensus of opinion here among impartial observers is that he seems to have gone to an unnecessary extreme in denouncing Mr. Kelley's charges as "infamous." Kelley was long an employee of the Land Office, and it is not thought that anyone who has taken the trouble to read his long, involved and repetitious articles would form that impression of the man. A careful student of documents and of human nature might find plenty of evidences of misguidance and a kind of obsession often inflicting an official mind, but even suggestion of criminal intent.

The prevailing sentiment in Washington is that Mr. Kelley's charges call for a more thorough investigation than they have yet received, and by an agency the motives of which are perhaps less partisan. The Public Lands Committee of the Senate has been suggested. It seems certain that this committee will initiate an investigation as soon as Congress convenes. Possibly Mr. Kelley's charges may be "reckless, baseless and infamous," but it is thought that the people generally, irrespective of party affiliations, will be inclined to withhold judgment until the completion of a little more painstaking inquiry by a little less directly interested tribunal.

By comparison, the undertaking of Col. Arthur Woods, director of the President's Emergency Committee on Employment, is fully equal to that of the heads of the American war-making machine in 1917. He must coordinate and direct all the plans for relief of the unemployed in a local organization.

men's club leaders from six States at their meeting in New York City. "This is war time now," and this common enemy is great suffering. It is making an assault upon our people. The women of the Nation may do their part now for President Hoover as they did when he was Food Administrator. When Mr. Hoover wanted a job done in his program for conservation of food the people who put it across were the women. Now the President expects equal results. If the women understand the problem they can put it across again.

"There are lots of things to be done around our homes, and if we have them done now we will create work and give employment to those who need it. There is nothing wrong with this country. There is plenty of work and plenty of jobs."

"Guess Who"

84TH OF SERIES

Industrial Cake
Savings in process tend to accumulate in the form of unused industrial facilities unless new purchasing power can be provided to balance them. Hence shortages in consumer purchasing power are produced, because you cannot have your cake and eat it.

Great Italian Poet
Petrarch was born in Arezzo, July, 1304, and died at Arquae, July, 1374. He is considered the first and greatest lyric poet of Italy.

Unreliable Witnesses
Dr. Walter Franklin Prince of Boston published an article dealing with an experiment conducted some time ago testing the unreliability of witnesses. In a scene set especially for the test, witnesses were asked to write down their account of what happened and what was heard. Every one of the 25 witnesses accounts differed.

Was Imported
The time-honored Scotchman of English origin, two centuries ago an English tailor, was imported into the United States by the Puritans, while in camp with General Wolfe was commissioned to make the first kilts. In those days it was called the "fettid bag"; to distinguish it from the heated plaid, made in one piece.

Outlaws' Refuge
No Man's land was the region 170 miles in length and about 85 miles in width north of Texas. It was added to the United States in 1850 and made a part of Oklahoma in 1890. Between these years the district was under no form of government and became a resort of outlaws.

Crime Prevention
H. E. Barnes says: "First step in preventing crime is to see that the human individual is well born; second, adequate education; third, sufficient manual or vocational education to provide means of making a living; fourth, efficient methods of aiding backward children who might become victims of criminal suggestions."

St. Patrick
Where St. Patrick was born is a point on which there is insufficient evidence, though it is clear that he was captured by pirates and taken to Ireland at the age of sixteen. There are various claims for Kilpatrick, Scotland, for Boulogne, France, for Daveson, England, and for Banven, Wales. From Ireland he escaped to France, and after about 23 years as a monk returned to Ireland as evangelist.

Found Famous Cavern
The Carlsbad cavern was discovered by Jim White, a New Mexico cowboy. He was investigating what appeared to be an immense cloud of smoke. It proved to be a flight of millions of bats. The cave to which they fled him is probably the most extensive in the world and is full of beautiful rock formation.

Hard to Escape Hawk
The hawk has a wonderful power of vision, and from a dizzy height, almost beyond range of the human eye, it will detect a mouse scampering over a field. With a velocity which is almost unaccountable, it swoops down and, with a single aim, possesses upon its prey.

Salem Made Famous by Its Ships and Traders
During the Revolution little Salem, under leadership of Elias Hasket Derby, furnished and equipped 158 privateers, carrying 2,000 guns and manned by 6,000 men, equal to the entire population of the city, writes Walter Prichard Eaton in the Washington Star. At the end of the war, naturally, Salem found itself with a large fleet, much too large for coastwise trade, and a large staff of skippers and seamen trained to adventure and daring navigation. Besides the ships and seamen, the little town possessed, in Derby and others, owners and merchants of imagination and initiative. She was all set for great things.

And great things came with a rush. The Twinkys, the Crowsheads and the rest, sent their ships around Good Hope, to the East Indies, and long before the East Indian traders knew the names of Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore or Boston, they knew well the name of Salem. Derby's famous ship, the Grand Turk, in 1784 was the first American merchantman to round the Cape of Good Hope.

Faith of Brothah Joe
Surely at Low Point
L. E. Newton of Garret City, Mo., put down his magazine and devoted himself to thoughts of a negro handy man who used to work for him—Old Joe Black.

Old Joe, writes Mr. Newton, was forever getting religion and backsliding. One Sunday he suffered no fewer than seven of these successful wrestles with Satan, and a particularly powerful preacher was called to the rescue.

"Have faith, Brothah Joe, have faith," exhorted the good man. "Hitch yourself to faith and git gold." Don't you know faith no bigger than a mustard seed'll move a mountain?" "Sho' does," groaned Old Joe Black. "But jest this minute I ain't got faith enough to move that mustard seed."—Collier's Weekly.

Quaint Old Land's End
There is no spot in England more wrapped in mysterious charm than Land's End. It is the jumping off place of a million imaginations, and when the freedom to travel is possible, a trip to Land's End will prove one of life's happiest realizations. If you would try it, put up a week-end or more at St. Just, or St. Ives, Penzance, or at old familiar Penzance of Gilbert and Sullivan fame. After a night's rest, wander forth into the quaint old streets, visit fisher homes in sheltered nooks, climb old cliff paths, pulling and puffing out the finest Atlantic air and before the train takes you away you will discover that the lure of Land's End was a charming trick to introduce you to several of the loveliest villages of old England.—Boston Herald.

Vacation Important
The Public Health service says that a vacation is one of the most important of our social institutions. In a world that is so arranged that most people are compelled to work during the greater portion of the year, a change, a rest, a vacation, if properly taken makes the work possible. Every man and woman is entitled to a vacation. Every woman engaged in maintaining a home is entitled to a vacation. It is not necessary to go long distances, but it is necessary to get out in the open. A vacation should be a time set aside for the building up of that reserve of health and bodily vigor necessary to carry people through the long periods of work which must follow before the next vacation season rolls around.

Magnesium Long Known
Magnesium metal has been known to science 100 years. Though known for 122 years it appeared in its pure form a century ago and has been available commercially for more than 65 years, says Dr. John A. Gann, metallurgist. In a report to the American Chemical society on the development of the magnesium industry.

Since the date of its discovery it has been found that the metal is about seventy times as plentiful as nickel and 200 times as abundant as copper. Magnesium salts are also found in mineral waters and in the ocean. The important raw material for magnesium production in the United States at the present time is Michigan salt brines.

Interesting Old Castle
Lumley castle, near Chester-le-Street, England, is thought, can establish its claim to be the oldest inhabited castle in the two counties of Northumberland and Durham, says an article in the Montreal Family Herald. It was originally built as a manor house about 933, and continued as such for about four centuries. In the fourteenth century Sir Ralph Lumley had the castle remodelled by building the four corner towers or keeps and connecting the buildings on all sides but the west. The castle has been in continuous occupation of the Lumley family ever since its original erection in the days of the Saxon kings.

Doctor All Wrong
Mrs. Gabbit—Well, what did the doctor say?
Mr. Gabbit—Told me I needed a rest, and that I must keep away from work for a month.
"Ridiculous!"
"I know, I told him that was the only rest I had."

In a Natchel
Life is not so short but that there is always room for courtesy.

Hate and Anger
It is difficult to avoid being angry sometimes, but hate, continued over a long period, is definitely wrong. If for no other reason than that it creates a poison in your own system and upsets your health, you should let the feeling die—Exchange.

Intelligence of Fish
A German naturalist tested the hearing of fish by blowing a high-pitched whistle when he threw food into a pond, and by blowing a low blast when he prodded at them with a glass rod, and he found that they learned to come or to hide as the whistle warned them.

Rebellious Minds
The mind is a strange thing. For every time that it can be directed there are scores of times when it seems to follow its own sweet fancy, paying no attention to what we think are our wishes, our commands.—Country Home.

German Rulers of England
The man who was said to have ruled England, but did not speak English was George I. He was not the nearest heir to the throne, but succeeded by an act of parliament. He was duke of Brunswick, elector of Hanover. His son, George II, spoke only very broken English. George III was the first of the line to be born on English soil.

That Sort of a Man
A small dog that had lost its master sniffed at his boots, and sat down a little way, off to wait till Gregory could do something for him, because he smelled that he was that sort of a man, Galsworthy.

Drawback to Party Spirit
This party spirit has so ill an effect on our morals, it has likewise a very great one on our judgments.—Addison

Fine Statues of Buddha

In Japanese Shrines

Four gigantic statues of Buddha have been erected in Japan. The largest one is located in the city of Kyoto, and dates from 1801. It is a wooden figure, consisting of only a head and shoulders; but even so it reaches to the ceiling of the lofty hall in which it is enshrined, and is 68 feet in height.

The next largest is 53½ feet in height, erected in the city of Nara. It is made of plates of bronze soldered together.

The third in size of these images, but which perhaps gives the most majestic impression of the four, is located at Kamakura, erected in the Thirteenth century. It is 40 feet 7 inches in height, and is formed of sheets of bronze cast separately, brazed together, and finished off on the outside with the chisel.

The hollow interior of the image contains a small shrine, and the visitor may ascend into the head.

The next, and smallest of the four, was built in 1801 at Hyogo, in the precincts of the temple of Noakuni. It is 48 feet high. It was largely through the efforts of a paper manufacturer of Hyogo, named Nanjo Shobei, that this statue was built. But it by no means equals the ancient statue at Kamakura.

Way Heavy Timbers In

Colonial Frame Houses

Every American feels his interest kindled when he spies a historical frame dwelling whose construction date may go back 150 to 200 years to some early Colonial period. Comments upon the soundness of the construction methods of those early days are made frequently without the speaker knowing in what ways they differ from today.

The braced timber frame was invariably used along the North Atlantic coast. The early colonists did not set out to invent this frame. They brought with them a tradition of heavy half-timber construction from the mother country. There was a great abundance of standing timber, cutting by hand was laborious, and timbers used were much stronger than those required for strength. Posts and beams were eight and ten-inch square-hewn timbers. — Philadelphia Ledger.

Excavation in Germany

Digging in Germany might prove a profitable pastime. Within one week a household of Martenbush, five up to 600 silver coins of 1025 and 1026, which were probably buried during the Thirty Years' war; a tourist discovered the skeleton of a Bear in a cave near Karlsruhe, where none have been seen for 300 years; graves of ancient Celts have been found with bones 5,000 years old; at Konigsberg the oldest find was a stone arrowhead there before the glaciers came down over Europe 8,000 years ago; under the altar of Speyer cathedral the stone sarcophagus of an early Christian saint was brought to light; near Frankfort-on-Main a Roman military camp has been excavated and found to be steam-heated throughout its 16 rooms.

Named Cape Horn

down is a very famous place in Holland, for the old port sent out some of the most adventurous rovers that the world has ever seen. William Schouten was one of these restless folk who took the Dutch flag all over the globe. He was the first navigator to round the tip of South America, instead of setting into the Pacific by way of the straits of Magellan. He made this adventurous journey in 1616 and he christened the southernmost projection of land Cape Horn, in honor of his birthplace. It has since been contracted to Cape Horn, but it was not named from its fancied resemblance to a horn, but from the Dutch town from which its discoverer sailed.—Detroit News.

Helpful Hint

"Here! now!" yelled Constable Slackpater of Petunia. "What in torment do ye men do? Selling and philandering all over the streets with that automobile the way you've been a-doing today?"

"This is my first car," answered the offender, "and I haven't more than half learned how to drive it yet. I want to turn around, but there doesn't seem to be room enough in any of the streets here."

"Well, you just drive over to Fordville, six miles away, circumnavigate the public square there, come back here and you'll be turned around." —Kansas City Star.

Canons of Painting

The celebrated "Six Canons of Painting," which have been the basis of art criticism in the Far East throughout subsequent centuries, are translated freely: (1) Life motion engendered by spiritual harmony; (2) use of the brush in rendering bone structure; (3) delineation of forms in conformity with objects; (4) application of colors appropriate to the kinds; (5) spacing based on proper planning; (6) copying of classic pictures, thereby preserving tradition.

Action Must Follow Vision

A vision of what should be done never becomes a reality unless it is backed by the mental or physical equipment to do it, and the determination to get it done. He who sees clearly and acts energetically, to him is one word—God.

Gates of Death Never

Opened for These Two

The prophet Elijah and Enoch saw death, according to the Bible. II Kings 2:11 says: "And it came to pass, as they (Elijah and Enoch) still went on and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, which parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven. This is undoubtedly a figurative way of stating that the prophet passed from earth by miraculous translation instead of through the gates of death. Likewise Enoch, the father of Methuselah, never saw death, according to Hebrews 11:5. "By faith," that passage says, "Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and he was not found, because God translated him; for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God." This is the basis for the popular but misleading statement that Methuselah, the oldest man mentioned in the Bible, died before his father did. As a matter of fact Methuselah's father never died, according to the Biblical account. Genesis 5:25 simply says: "And Enoch walked with God; and he was not; for God took him." —Pathfinder Magazine.

Much Hinged on Speed

Made by Stage Drivers

Old-time stage drivers were ambitious, writes Edward Martin, in the United States Daily. A true test of their mettle was the delivery of the President's message. The letting of contracts by the Post Office department hinged on these deliveries, and if a driver failed to make good time it meant the cancellation of the contract with his employers and the transfer to a rival company.

Dave Gordon, a noted driver, once carried the President's message from Washington, Pa., to Wheeling, a distance of 32 miles in 2 hours, 20 minutes. He changed teams three times in this distance.

Bill Noble, who died in the eighties, claimed to have made the best time on record. He professed to have driven from Wheeling to Hagerstown, Md., 185 miles, in 15½ hours.

Princeton's Famous Ivy

The first class ivy at Princeton was planted by the class of 1877 on its class day at its graduation in June, 1877, and the ceremony was accompanied by an oration, called then and since the Ivy oration. The orator in 1877 stated that ivy had been chosen as a symbol of the perpetual remembrance the class would have of Princeton, striking deep, clinging close, and always green. The class of 1877 turned out to be one of the most remarkable classes in after years that Princeton has graduated. The first ivy was planted at the new library. Since then it has been planted at Nassau hall with a tablet naming the class. Some of the ivy has been historic, being brought specifically for the planting, one spray having been sent from the castle in Germany of William of Nassau, prince of Orange, after whom Nassau hall was named in 1736.

Origin of Tile

At the siege of Argos in the year 272 B. C., a tile fragment thrown from a housetop slew the battling king of Ephrus. Thus tile played an important part in history.

Tile is one of the oldest building materials, having first been made in the remote ages of antiquity; yet how many of us know just what tile actually is?

Tile is burned clay, or to be more specific, a carefully proportioned mixture of certain clays and other minerals, after being formed into the desired shape, is heated in a special furnace called a kiln until the particles become so hot that they partially melt and stick together. When cooled, tile, as firm and homogeneous as a piece of stone, results.

Charta's Highlights

The Magna Charta's most important articles are those which provide that no freeman shall be taken or imprisoned, or proceeded against except by the lawful judgment of his peers or in accordance with the law of the land; and that no scutage or aid shall be imposed in the kingdom (except certain feudal dues from tenants of the crown) unless by the common counsel of the kingdom. The remaining and greater part of the charter is directed against abuses of the king's power as feudal superior.

Black Hills Traditions

The Black Hills of South Dakota are rich in tradition. It is the land where Sioux, Cheyenne, Crow, Arapahoe, Pawnee and Mandan Indians fought savagely for possession of a great hunting ground which they named Black-Space, or the Mountains that are Black. Here are the medicinal springs, the gift of the Great Spirit. These, too, were prized possessions which the Sioux eventually won and held until they relinquished them to the United States government by treaty in 1876.

Legal

A small boy strolled up to his famous lawyer father and asked:

"Now, you don't charge for advice to members of the family, do you?"

"No," admitted his father. "Why do you ask?"

"Well," said the small son, "I wanted to find out, when you were a little boy like me and needed a dollar, what did you do?"

Ant Queens Important

The best way to get rid of ants is to find the nests and destroy the queen, advises a Cornell university entomologist.

Company Mergers

Any report that one company has merged with a competing company through the purchase of stock is inaccurate. The antitrust legislation of the United States requires that the company which absorbs the other must do so through the purchase of its assets.

Golden Gate Deep Channel

Dogwood Colors

The pink variety of dogwood is now a distinct variety, having been developed from pink specimens of the wild dogwood. The color of the blossoms is probably determined to some extent by soil conditions, but it is reasonable to suppose that a definitely pink variety would continue giving pink blossoms.

Leather Actors in Ball

Flat leather figures, pierced and colored, are the actors in the shadow play in the island of Bali. Elaborate oil lamps provide the dim illumination used to throw the shadows on the screen. The story teller is also the operator of the numerous figures he employs as the tale unfolds. The audience sits on both sides of the screen, women on one side and men on the other.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

VALUE OF PAIN

The best friend a man can possibly have is, the one that warns him always of impending danger; oddly enough, pain is a very great blessing to human kind.

Primarily, it is the apprehension—the dread of suffering, that impels human kind to shun pitfalls that bring disease or death. Yet, for mere pleasure's sake, or in obedience to perverted appetite, fools rush in where angels fear to tread. We abuse the most rare and sacred privileges in the most reckless manner, and while and cry as we reap the certain penalties for violation of human and divine law.

Early pain is a warning that should never be ignored or taken lightly; for instance, if suddenly taken with more or less vague, but keen, colicky pain in the locality of the gall-bladder, which may radiate downward toward the right side—it may pass away quickly leaving you a bit weak—and, may return later, a bit more insistent; you may be compelled to cease work. Better notify your physician, the danger of appendicitis being thought of. The pain may be opposite the region of the appendix at first, or seem to be entirely in the gall-bladder—only to locate within the appendix within 24 hours. NEVER take a harsh purgative under such conditions, without consulting your doctor.

Pain in the head should not be ignored for long. Here, the diseased process is often far from the site of the pain. To use commercial "headache tablets" without intelligent advice, is in most cases, doing the very thing you should not do. Not being a "trained physician you should never experiment upon yourself; it never pays.

Pain in the left chest, transitory or persistent, should take one to the physician promptly, especially if the complainant is beyond middle age, is overweight, or suspects kidney derangement—a thorough examination should be made, no matter how robust the patient may look. The pain may come from a simple affection, or from one of very serious nature.

FEED NOTES

A number of Boone county farmers believe now is a good time to buy some of the feeds for the winter, especially cotton seed, barley and bran.

Whether you are buying from one dealer or another, the cooperative or individual buying in car-load lots and paying cash in saving farmers several dollars per ton on feeds that must be bought. Paying cash is what worries the majority of our farmers.

Wheat futures the last week in September were the lowest since 1907.

Supplies of feeds for 1930-31 are the smallest in years.

This year's corn crop is short but the supplies of oats and barley are larger than last year and larger than the average for the last five years. There is also a heavy carry over of these grains.

It may look as though the big shortage is in corn and the roughage feeds. It is also indicated, with an incomplete report, that there will be a smaller amount of cotton seed meal produced this year. This product took a slight advance the past week.

PLAN UTOPIA ORGANIZATION

Eleven Boone county young men and women met at the Court House in Burlington last Wednesday evening and laid plans for the organization of a Boone County Utopia club. The organization is of fraternal nature enrolling young men and women engaged in agricultural or home work and who are between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five years or older. It has for its purpose the building up and promoting of better agricultural and rural life.

This being the first meeting of its kind held in the county, the county agent acted as chairman and introduced Mr. J. W. Whitehouse, state leader in club work, Mr. Carl Jones, field agent in club organization from the College of Agriculture and Mr. Turner, club specialist from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Those present voted to hold their organization meeting at Burlington Wednesday, Nov. 19th, at 7 p. m.

GIVES CONTROL OF FRUIT TREE PESTS

The United States Biological Survey has developed a method of poisoning oaks to kill field mice that damage fruit trees. The oaks are steamed, slightly crushed and poisoned with strychnine, in such a manner that the mice eat them readily. A mixing plant has been established to furnish orchard owners the bait at low cost. Fruit growers interested in this new system of killing mice should write to the Department of Horticulture, Experiment Station, Lexington.

Another winter enemy of the orchard is the common rabbit. W. W. Magill, extension specialist for the College of Agriculture, advises the use of one-inch mesh poultry wire, over school last week on account of illness.

Karl Cason is carrying mail for T. B. Cason, who is indisposed.

"So great was my suffering that I hardly cared whether I lived or not. Every bite I ate gave me the most severe pains—the indigestion, heartburn, bloating and biliousness were simply terrific. Even nights were torments to me—night after night sleep would never come. I began losing flesh rapidly. I began to look twice my age. I was truly in a terrible condition. My neighbor advised Karnak for which I will thank her to my dying day. It is the most marvelous medicine in the world. It not only rid me of my suffering but it has caused me to gain in weight and I feel better than I ever felt in my life and sleep like a child. I thank my neighbor and I thank Karnak."

Fire is a third important orchard hazard in winter. Apple and peach trees are very tender and often killed when fire sweeps through the orchard. Fire guards or barriers may be disked around and through the orchard at little expense.

RELATIVE FEEDING VALUES

Many Boone county farmers will be interested in knowing the relative feeding values of the various grains that they may purchase for feeding purposes before spring. The county agent collected the following tables based on total digestible nutrients: Figuring corn at 90 cents per bushel, corn is worth 86 cents per bushel, oats 42 cents per bushel, barley 72 cents per bushel, rye 85 cents per bushel, middlings 1.30 cents per 100 pounds and bran 1.14 cents per 100 pounds.

The above figures puts the grains and feeds on their relative feeding values determined on the total number pounds of digestible nutrients in 100 pounds. It does not take into consideration the palatability or this particular adaptation of some classes of livestock to the particular grains.

POINT PLEASANT PROGRESSORS

The Progressors held their club meeting October 22. All of our members were not present but we hope to have them with us at our next meeting which will be on November 11th. It will be our last meeting of this year. We hope to have our members with us and have a better meeting than before.

Jeff Mills, Accused Of Killing Neighbor, Protests Innocence

CHARLEY YOUNG, 35, FARMER, FOUND DEAD NEAR BARN ON FARM NEAR BIG BONE, EARLY SUNDAY — MILLS ARRESTED ON SUSPICION AND PLACED IN JAIL FEW HOURS LATER

Charley Young, 35, was killed by a gun shot wound in his chest some time early last Sunday near his home on the farm at Thomas Hays near Big Bone.

While the killing is more or less a mystery, suspicion was sufficiently strong against Jeff Mills, a neighbor, to cause his arrest by Sheriff Snyder and Deputy Cotto a few hours after the shot had been fired. Mills was lodged in jail here Sunday morning.

Mills, although denying emphatically any part in the shooting of Young, was the only man known to have been anywhere near where the body was found at the time the shot was fired.

County Attorney B. H. Riley, who has been investigating the affair, has discounted any possible suicide theory, basing his claim upon the fact that Undertaker C. Scott Chambers and Dr. M. A. Yelton, each of whom examined the wound, found 128 shot holes in the chest scattered over a space approximately 12 inches in diameter. Since the gun was located about forty-five paces from the spot where the body was found, this fact adds to the above contradiction, and the gun and, leading from this spot, a trail, indicating that the body had been dragged, led directly to the body.

Mills, when arraigned before Judge Riddell Sunday morning, claimed that he and Young had been coon hunting all night and that some time in the small hours of Sunday had "treed" close to the barn, which was not far from Young's house. Mills ran to Young's house, he said, and procured from Young's wife a shot gun and shells, which, according to his story, he handed to Young. Young then, Mills claims, shot the gun. The coon dropped to the ground, but was unhurt, he said, and the dogs took up the chase. Mills said that he followed the dogs until the coon got away and then went on to his home at the rear of the Young home on the B. L. Rich farm. He did not return to the coon tree, supposing that Young would go home, too, he stated.

Young's wife and a brother Cecil Beasley, who lives with them, went to the scene immediately after the shot, according to their report, and searched for the body which they claim to have found near a culpack a few feet from the barn.

Relatives of Mills are endeavoring to obtain an attorney for him, after which a date will be set for an examining trial. Mills assiduously clings to his version of the killing, whenever interviewed by local authorities, friends or relatives.

Young is survived by his widow and came to Boone a few years ago from Madison county. Mills has a wife and six children and came to Boone from Knox county.

The W. M. S. of the Burlington Baptist church will meet at the church Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

The Constance P. T. A. will give an oyster supper on Saturday evening November 22nd, from 6 to 9 o'clock (fast time). Everybody is welcome, come and get your supper. Supper will be served at the school house.

Henry Quick, of Ludlow, formerly the foremost catfisher in Boone county in the old barheaded days, was visiting friends and old acquaintances in Burlington Wednesday. Mr. Quick made a little trip about the court house, which he helped to build many years ago.

There will be a Chicken Soup and Pie Social at Mrs. M. L. Williamson's at McVine, Nov. 15th from 5 p. m. until 9 p. m. for the benefit of the Ladies Aid. Come and eat.

RED CROSS

ROLL CALL CHAIRMAN URGES CONTINUED SOLICITATION IN COUNTY WIDE DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP

While Kentucky set on an earlier date than the United States, the 11th rather than the 12th of November is Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, and realizing that as yet we have not had a complete canvass in Boone county, I urge all precinct workers to continue your efforts until every one has been invited to join the American Red Cross. I am sure all of our people want to belong to this One Great National Organization which has no other means disaster in every way equipped to give to the utmost all that is needed.

And again the Red Cross through its work with the school children this world over, is more than any other movement educating for friendship the Nations of the world.

And then the Red Cross has established and promoted more Public Health Services than any other agency.

These great services can be carried on by your membership and mine, and by the whole-hearted Red Cross spirit becoming a part of us all. So through the coming days until Thanksgiving I beg of all my workers to be very busy enrolling members in the Red Cross, forgetting not that we need a membership in it, and also that the American Red Cross needs us, and coming closer home, the continuation of our County Nursing Service is dependent on a large membership in this organization which for five years has directed our county health work.

LESS NOISE

IS DESIRE OF RETIRED FIRE-MAN AND SPANISH WAR VETERAN, WHO PURCHASES A SMALL BOONE COUNTY FARM

Taylor L. Brooks, a retired railroad fireman, has decided to get away from the toll and strife and noise of commercial life and settle down on a little Boone county farm. He doesn't even want to be in sight or hearing of a high type thoroughfare.

Mr. Brooks is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and his record of service in that conflict added to his years of riding the rails, has created in him an inveterate desirer of complete peace and quietude throughout his remaining years.

The desired little farm, away from the "marts of toil and strife," was located by the A. E. Renaker Realty Company and sold to Mr. Brooks, who expects to improve it and take up his residence there in the near future. The property formerly was owned by L. E. P. and is located on the Burlington and Lexington dirt road, not far from Burlington, and about a quarter of a mile from the new road just completed to Glen powder creek. There are 37 1/2 acres in the farm.

Patient Passed Away Tuesday, So "Let Dead Past Bury Dead"

(By Mark Vane Collier)

WASHINGTON—It is a good idea to "let the dead past bury its dead." Exaltations have now become about as tiresome as alibis. The patient passed away last Tuesday, and that's that. The autopsy has been held and the physicians disagree, and that's that. The election has become a matter of history and there is a little too much to be done just now to permit of much indulgence in historical research.

At the same time, in spite of our good resolutions, there has been in our minds that early evidence of Republican trepidation when they tried to pass the wheat-decline bill over to the Soviet government. This passing thought was made a mental fixture by that last-minute, despairing, straw-grabbing effort to place the blame for the stock market crash upon the shoulders of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. The secret of how the smash of a year ago was engineered, according to G. O. P. interpretation, was exposed for campaign consumption too late for timely contradiction, even if in view of the collapse of the Soviet speculation theories and other fallacies any contradiction were necessary.

Anyway, it didn't work. In fact, nothing seems to have worked except the Republican high command and its publicity—not even the decreeing of national prohibition as an issue in the campaign. No exception can be found to the statement that the Hoover administration has suffered a disastrous defeat. Neither the election of Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey, as United States Senator, nor that of Clifford Pinchot to the governorship of Pennsylvania, can mitigate the calamity. Mr. Morrow flatly repudiated the President's policy on prohibition and in spite of his own support of Mr. Hoover was looked upon by the bulk of his mottog party as the man to supplant the present incumbent in 1932. Mr. Pinchot has been and is an avowed anti-administration Republican, a formidable champion of the kind of Republicanism represented by the incumbent.

To say that the result was a normal expression of discontent in a period of severe economic depression is

POWER COMPANY

OFFERS SHARES HERE—7 PER CENT CUMULATIVE PREFERRED SHARES MAY BE OBTAINED THROUGH LOCAL EMPLOYEES

Announcement that a small block of the 7% Cumulative Preferred Shares of the Texas-Louisiana Power Co. will be offered to customers of the Kentucky Central Division of this Company is made by C. W. Ashcraft, local manager.

This security has proved particularly attractive to investors because it is not of a speculative nature but represents a sound investment in a stable industry with properties located in the section in which the investor lives.

The services of the Texas-Louisiana Power Co. are diversified both as to nature and geographic location. They include electricity, gas, water, ice, and transportation. The majority are electric properties, in the states of Kentucky, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

The shares may be purchased for $104 per share, and accrued dividend, for cash or on a convenient savings plan. On the savings plan, $10 per share per month is deposited and this earns 7 per cent from the time the payments are made. Shares may be obtained at the office of the company or through any employee.

Customer ownership of the sale of shares in the company to local investors has proved of mutual advantage to the utilities and their consumers. Stockholders gain by sharing in the earnings of the company, the company gains through a more cordial relationship, and the community benefits because money paid as dividends remains at home.

An explanation that does not explain. It might strike closer to the mark to say that Mr. Hoover's faulty leadership, or utter lack of leadership, or major issues of policy, deprived him of the prestige to "set in any degree the political reaction due to the depression. It is not doubted that in any conceivable circumstances the Republicans would have lost much this year, but with real leadership from the White House they need not have suffered such a disaster.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was not only an abomination inflicted upon the American consumer, but it put the finishing touches on the ruin of Mr. Hoover's reputation as an economic statesman. We were in the midst of a world-wide depression of trade, and his signing such a bill at such a time cost him the good opinion of the very business men who theretofore had been the most outspoken in his support. It is not even suggested that the tariff caused the depression, but it does seem clear that Mr. Hoover's participation in that iniquitous destroyed all confidence in him as a statesman qualified to lead a country through an economic crisis. White House conferences cannot counterbalance the egregious fact that during world-wide depression Mr. Hoover signed a bill which closed the doors against much of our commerce with our near and distant neighbors.

In the matter of prohibition, the only real impression Mr. Hoover made upon the country was that he was afraid to deal with the question, that whatever was to be done about it—enforcement, modification or repeal—he would not take command and lead. It is not to be doubted that such an impression is fatal to the prestige of a President. Was guidance on the prohibition question was looked for but there came evasion. Leadership in the economic crisis was called for and the tariff was handed out. Republican politicians ought to be congratulating themselves that they made as much as they did out of a calamitous situation.

The tremendous reversal of form recently evidenced, compared to the election of 1928, is startling. Two years ago the Republicans were swept into power by huge majorities every

SWINE DEMONSTRATIONS

Mr. Graddy Sellards, swine specialist and the county agent spent last Thursday visiting a number of leading Boone county hog raisers with whom swine feeding demonstrations were conducted recently. These farmers who fed their hogs recommended rationals seemed well pleased with their work.

Mr. S. B. Sleet, Walton R. D. 2, who sold fed 52 hogs and Mr. Everett Ryle Grant R. D. 1, who had fed 57 hogs during the recent drought conditions both came out with reasonably good profits that will help bring the farm into another year in good shape. Both of the above men kept records on the feed costs and returns. Mr. Sleet bought all of his feed during the feeding demonstrations while Mr. Ryle bought wheat and tankage to supplement with the corn feed.

WITH THE 4-H CLUBS

The final 4-H community club meetings of this club year are being held this week and next week according to county agent H. R. Forkner. The final scores for the club in group A and group B for awards are being made.

The records turned in to the county agent's office today indicate one of the largest project completions for regular project work and the largest number of special project completions on record. This is a bit unusual due to the particular bad crops and livestock year but it is an indication of the 4-H spirit, "Make the Best Better" and the four fold development of "Head, Heart, Health and Hand."

MELICENT ANN BERSHIRE, BURLINGTON, FINISHES FIRST IN GENERAL SCHOLARSHIP, WHILE GEORGE POWERS, VERONA, GETS OTHER FIRST PLACE IN HISTORY—FULL RESULTS TO BE PUBLISHED

The winners in the Boone County Graded School Tournament had a very enjoyable and profitable journey to Lexington last Friday and Saturday, where they competed in the state wide tournament. The county finished fourth in the entire state and county school authorities were very much pleased at the result.

The feat of Miss Melicent Ann Berkshire, of Burlington in finishing first in the general scholarship tests was being lauded by her friends early this week, as well as receiving praise from school authorities throughout the county. General Scholarship requires a test in all subjects.

Another performer which also stood out was the work of George Powers, an eleven year old child, from Verona, who finished first in Seventh and Eighth grade History. These were the only firsts, but the county gained enough other places to merit fourth standing. The Recorder was unable to obtain a complete list of names and places received by the county, but will endeavor to obtain them in time for our next issue.

The party of children made a trip in one of the new county school buses, driven by J. B. H. H.

"UP SALT RIVER"

Grant, Ky., Nov. 11, 1930

Mr. Editor: All I know is what I see in the papers. They held a election last Tuesday, and I went to Rabbit Hash. I saw some of the boys look very sad and some one said that they were going on a trip somewhere. Then the steamer Salt River landed here. Dick Stephens and Jim Wilson went aboard and shipped as deck hands. Joe H. Walton as laundry man, Geo. Walton boss cook or boot black. We never found out which office he got, also J. C. Kelly went aboard with a large carpet bag and Frank Higley had a bundle and his nose shoes. Looked like he might stay there a while.

The wives and sweethearts of those who went looked very blue and had tears in their eyes. But the boys stood on the Hurricane Deck.

Shelling peanuts by the peck. Some one on the bank yelled "Gone up Salt River sure as H-I-L." From Will Rogers little boy.

HOLD COUNTY

ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

Thirty-two interested Boone county 4-H club members and leaders from the Blue Ribbon, Corneracker, Norbex Champions and Union Booster clubs met at Burlington last Saturday to take part as a county group in the National and State 4-H Club Achievement Exercises. A number of the clubs that could attend the county meeting met at convenient points and listened in on the first national achievement day program that came from Washington and the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

Achievement means much to a 4-H club member. It means that a project undertaken voluntarily has been carried on and satisfactorily completed. It is the day for awarding to those members who have gained satisfactory goals certificates of award, achievement, accomplishment, distinction or honor according to the amount of work completed.

ERLANGER WANTS GAMES

The management of the Erlanger Christian church basket ball team has requested the assistance of the Recorder in obtaining games for their teams during the coming season. They have their own field and desire games for both boys and girls in intermediate class. The games are to be played on Monday nights. For further information call Mr. H. H. Jones 297.

DOING THINGS DIFFERENTLY

Sometimes a difficult situation can be altered by the simple process of doing things differently from the way in which they have been done. A case in point is the feeding of wheat to cattle and hogs.

Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board said the other day that the feeding of wheat has become so general that it may absorb enough of the surplus wheat to affect prices in favor of the farmer. A few progressive farmers started this several months ago, when the bottom first dropped out of the wheat market. If everybody who is feeding beef cattle or hogs would feed wheat, those who have tried it assure us they can produce more beef or pork per bushel of wheat fed than by feeding the same amount of corn. At the present comparative prices of these two grains, this is economy. As this is written, here is a spread of less than 3 cents a bushel between the prices of wheat and corn on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat is abnormally cheap, corn not much below a normal price for this time of year. The only reason why corn is usually fed to livestock and poultry instead of wheat is because corn is much cheaper. At anything like the same price, wheat is the more profitable feed.

The general feeding of wheat instead of or in combination with corn, through this winter, would do more for farm relief than any amount of new legislation could accomplish.

REDUCES BUTTERFAT PRODUCTION COSTS

Culling out poor producers, and better feeding enabled John C. Peterson, a Marion county dairy farmer, to reduce the cost of producing butterfat 11 cents a pound in the 1929-30 season, compared with the cost the previous year, according to a report of Austin Brinegar, tester for the Marion County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, to the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

In 1928-29 he produced butterfat at a cost of 31 cents a pound. Testing that year revealed the cows that were not worth keeping. There were eliminated from the herd, and some of the feed they would have consumed was fed to the rest of the herd. Special care was given to having cows in good condition before freshening. As a result butterfat costs were cut to 20 cents a pound, a saving of 11 cents, which increased Mr. Johnson's income by $419 for the year.

In September, this year, Mr. Johnson installed a filter in the pond that furnishes clean, pure water to his cows. An abundant supply of good water would make cows more profitable on many farms.

CARE WOULD SAVE MOST YOUNG CALVES

Suggestions about the care of young calves, made by Ted S. Besh, field agent for the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, indicate that there is little reason why practically all calves should not be raised. He told of one dairyman who raised 70 out of 72 calves.

Mr. Besh stresses cleanliness and regular feeding. Scours, one of the most common ailments of calves, can be avoided by using clean buckets and keeping calves in clean stalls. The following four details should be watched: Do not overfeed. Feed warm sweet milk. Feed at regular intervals. Use clean buckets.

Let the calf stay with the cow until it is three or four days old. Then when start with two pints of milk. Give a pint of milk for each ten pounds of calf weight. Keep good hay before the calf. It will begin to eat grain when two weeks old.

SAYS BUSH FRUIT NOT APPRECIATED

Currents and gooseberries should be more appreciated as delicacies for home use, in the opinion of C. S. Waltman of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. Both do well in Kentucky, and every garden should contain them, he believes. Both are hardy to winter cold, and they usually escape late spring frosts. The recommended planting time is early spring. Red Cross, Wilder and Red Dutch are considered good varieties of currants, and Downing and Houghton good varieties of gooseberries. A dozen currant bushes and half that many gooseberry bushes would supply the average family.

$324 PROFIT FROM THREE DRAINED ACRES

Stephen Keith, Sr., a Clay county farmer, reports an estimated profit of $324 from three acres of corn and tobacco, grown this year on drained bottom land treated with lime and superphosphate.

Following a survey by County Agt. E. R. Sparks and Earl G. Welch, a farm engineer for the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, Mr. Keith drained a swamp in the spring of 1929. That fall he cut two tons of swamp grass hay from the field and in November plowed the land to a depth of about 10 inches.

Last spring he disked the plowed land and applied a ton of lime and 500 pounds of superphosphate to the acre. Two and a half acres were planted to corn and a half acre set to tobacco.

Mr. Keith estimates he will secure 200 bushels of corn and 900 pounds of tobacco. He places a value of $200 on the corn, $175 on the tobacco and $41 on the fodder. The cost of drainage, fertilizer and cultivation totaled $92, leaving a profit of $324.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS the week of Nov. 17. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Nov. 17—Winter feeding of the thoroughbred colt, W. J. Harris.

Clothing talk, Miss Isabelle Story.

Nov. 19—Winter care of cream, J. O. Barkman.

4-H club work for girls, Miss Edith Key.

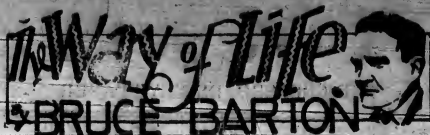

Nov. 21—What farm folks are asking, N. R. Elliott.

The county farm agent has arranged terracing demonstrations on four of the main roads leading into Russellville.

Forty farmers in Calloway county are cooperating with E. C. Vaughn of the Experiment Station in a tobacco-planting and curing project.

The Pastor Says:

To some, life is a wild ride; to others, it is an august pilgrimage.

"QUOTA MAD"

A famous advertising agent was talking with me about business in these United States.

It is his function to prepare the advertising for several large manufacturers, and to consult with them on their sales problems. He goes home every night all tired out. He says he doesn't know anybody in business who is getting any real fun out of it.

"I'll give you my program for a typical day," he said. "I come down to my office a little before nine, and there is the sales manager of a shoe company waiting for me. His pockets are full of charts. His company's sales are 20 per cent ahead of last year, but is he satisfied? Not for a minute. He must set the mark for next year 50 per cent ahead."

"Then I go over to the office of a food manufacturer. He has just closed up the best year of his history. And we try to figure out how he can do twice as much again!

"I lunch with the officers of a cement company. If they would act together with their competitors, and agree to curtail production just a little, they could all make more money. The price of their product might have to be raised a trifle, but I doubt it, because the sales expense would be that much less. But will they curtail? Never. Every year they must show bigger figures. The quotas must go up and up."

"The trouble with this country is that we have gone crazy on the subject of volume. We are quota mad."

As he talked I recalled a conversation I had some years ago with an American who represents a French manufacturer in this country.

"I have a heart-breaking time with that Frenchman," he said. "Every year I go over there and plead with him to double his factory. We could sell twice as much of his stuff if he would only turn it out. And do you know what he says? He just waves his hands in French fashion and says: 'Why should I double my plant and work twice as hard? I and my family are making money enough. We have a good time. We enjoy ourselves. Why should we work ourselves to death?'"

That seems to us Americans a very terrible utterance. It is treason to the spirit of modern business. Of course, a man should force his production, and his sales, and force his own poor mind and body until he dies at the age of sixty with an order blank in his hand.

Somewhere between the French attitude and our attitude there must be a half-way point that would combine the best elements of both.

"Life," says the Bible, "is more than bread, and the spirit than ratment." It also asks the question "What shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his own life?"

Or, in modern language, what is the use of killing yourself by being quota mad?

INTERMEDIATE CREDIT TO HELP AGRICULTURE

In communities of Kentucky where credit reserves have become depleted because of short crops, farmers can secure credit on satisfactory terms from the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank at Louisville, Ralph G. Sams, manager of this bank, told the annual conference of county and home demonstration agents at the University of Kentucky.

Money from this source is available to local banks and agricultural credit corporations at 4 per cent interest. The latter agencies, in turn, make loans to farmers for agricultural purposes. A margin of 2 and 2 1/2 per cent, plus certain minor incidental expenses, is allowed to these credit agencies in making loans to farmers. In Kentucky, however, because of the legal interest rate, farmers cannot be charged more than 8 per cent on loans. Until easier interest rates prevailed in the central money markets, this factor was a major deterrent to the extension of federal intermediate credit through commercial banks in Kentucky.

Not only can funds be obtained at a low rate of interest from the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, but there is no minimum to the size of loan which may be discounted, and farmer-borrowers may repay their loans in whole, or in part, at any time, without the assessment of any penalty.

That there is a growing interest in and appreciation of this source of credit, is evidenced by the fact that during the past two months agricultural credit corporations have been organized at Arlington, Murray, Prospect and Frankfort; that two such corporations are in the process of organization at Cynthiana and Marion; that a beginning has been made in direct discounting for local banks; and, finally, by a large daily correspondence of inquiries and requests for a direction and information.

This line of credit will not only aid the solvent, but temporarily hard-pressed farmer individually, but will allow local banks to maintain their deposits undisturbed with undiminished lending power, and in this way the entire community will share in the benefits to be derived through the judicious use of federal intermediate credit, Mr. Sams stated.

REPORT OF OCTOBER'S HEALTH ACTIVITIES

On the request of the Gallatin county Fair Board and the consent of the Boone County Red Cross, I went to Warsaw the 3rd of October to conduct a Health Contest for babies under one year of age, which was highly appreciated by the citizens of our neighbor county, and since our own county people go back and forth over the border into Gallatin, and Public Health Teaching to be effective must needs expand to meet all our contacts of life, our boundary lines become obliterated, and while a gave a day out of Boone proper, even so we may derive a reflex good, and one of the principles of the Red Cross is to be human at home, then to extend that humanitarian spirit the world around, so I learned in my visit to that many, many folks that are keenly interested in our Public Health Service, and as they expressed it are deriving benefit from the activities promoted here by our local Red Cross.

This gave me joy and I hope my people of Boone shall take satisfaction in knowing that they are leaving our surrounding counties with a Health consciousness, for a representative of Owen county has requested me to come to them and explain our program of work as carried on here.

I represented the Boone county chapter of American Red Cross at the State Regional meeting at Lexington on October 1st.

The Petersburg school has been visited during October and the children given general inspection, 117 in number, and we have plans for the further examination of some of the children.

On the invitation of the Florence P. T. A. I made a Health talk at their October meeting.

The last week of the month our nurse went to Cincinnati to the Murphy Memorial Hospital and had a physical correction made in the removal of tonsils. Now I call this really practicing what I have been preaching, for as I emphasized to children and parents the dangers of diseased tonsils I enumerate serious illnesses which they may cause. Not long since the advice was given me which was really news to me, that my own tonsils were contributing to a suffering which I was beginning to realize, so I took myself as I have taken so many children from our county, and had this correction made, hoping hereby to be rid of pain and enabled to stand the winter weather with less danger of illness, and I must say here a tenderer sympathy for the tonsil patient and a deeper desire to advise and teach early correction of such defects that pain may be avoided.

SCHOOL NOTES.

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

School was dismissed Friday on account of the teachers meeting which was held at Holmes High School in Covington. The teachers who represented Burlington were Prof. Neil Kirk, Hazel Cabbage, Sarah Cropper, Iallie Eddins and Mrs. Neil Kirk. After the meeting at Covington Prof. Neil Kirk attended the tournament at Lexington.

Zena Garrison was absent from school one day last week.

Several members of the Girls Reserve Club went on a hike Sunday afternoon.

The Girl Reserves are early risers, as well as good cooks, as they held breakfast at six o'clock in the school kitchen Saturday morning.

The students of our school are participating in a campaign to gain new members for our P. T. A. We are hoping in this way to gain many new members and to make this a growing year for this organization.

James Ogden is back after a two week's illness.

Last Thursday evening the Florence basket ball team played the first Bellevue team on the Burlington High school court. Bellevue sure lived up to their name by defeating the Florence team, both boys and girls. The score for the boys was Florence 26 Bellevue 27, which was interesting to the last minute. The girls score was Florence 13 Bellevue 16. We are always glad to have other teams play on our court.

The Tomcats and Kittens won again last Thursday night by defeating the strong Hamilton team. The Kittens score was 18 while the Hamilton girls were a close second by a score of 13. Phillips was like a flash of lightning. You could not find her in one spot. She was high point maker for the Kittens, making 15 out of 18 points that the Kittens made. Ayler was the point maker for Hamilton.

The Tomcats sure looked like champions when they rounded up 44 points against the Hamilton boys. Maurer was again high score man, making 20 of the Tomcats points. Hamilton was fortunate enough to get two points which were made by Iouls. The strong Bellevue team will play here again Friday night, November 14. Come out and root for your team.

The faculty and students of our school are rejoicing over the victory brought home by our students held at Lexington last week-end. Melicene Ann Berkshire is to be congratulated for winning first place in all around scholarship for Kentucky. Many other students won second and third places.

7th and 8th Grades

The Boone county bus arrived from Lexington Saturday night, having won twenty-one points, ranking about the fourth county in the state.

Wilford Fleek was absent from school Monday.

Russell Loomis has been absent for several days.

Thursday our room divided into two societies, each of which is to render a program every Wednesday morning.

THE BELIEVING CENTURION—A GENTLE WHOSE FAITH JESUS CONDEMNED

Matthew 8:5-13

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D. He is a wise man indeed who is able to give a true estimate of values. All kinds of ideas were in the minds of people while Jesus was in the midst of His ministry. The Teacher had a right to expect the best results from His disciples and was amazed one day when, in truth, He had to commend the faith of a Roman Centurion above that seen in any of His own school or race.

This man was a gentile, and Jesus might have the same attitude toward him as did other Jews. So the elders of the synagogue were sought to plead the case in their joint behalf. Later the Centurion makes personal approach to Jesus, for he had truly identified himself with the sick man.

It is still true that in proportion as we are conscious of being in the presence of Holiness we are the more aware of our own worthlessness in comparison. The very holiness of the Centurion is too humble for Jesus to even enter it. Then quick thinking and increasing belief help to solve the problem.

As a man of authority over others, his Roman commander gives his orders and they are obeyed, whether he follows through with his eyes or not Jesus must have still greater authority in the realm of the spirit. Therefore in boldness of faith request is made that healing be effected through the word of His power. Such faith is rewarded and the servant becomes well forthwith.

This act of sublime faith was prophetic and gave evidence that Jesus was to become the redeemer of mankind regardless of the race or condition of the individual.

Members of 4-H Clubs, students of Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture and adult feeders, will vie for honors in the ninth annual Fat Stock Show to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards, Nov. 12, 13 and 14.

W. S. Bell, president of the Louisville Livestock Exchange and chairman of the committee on arrangements, states that prizes totaling $4,000 will be offered in junior club classes and several prizes to the International Show at Chicago in December will be additional awards. Smith-Hughes agricultural students will compete for $1,650 in prizes and adult class prizes will total $1,100. In addition, there will be several prizes for the grand championship awards. More than 700 baby beefs will be shown by the juniors and the Smith-Hughes students.

J. W. Whitehouse, of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky is State leader of club work. M. S. Garalde is in charge of the beef project and Prof. F. G. Burd, assistant director of vocational training, is chairman of the Smith-Hughes feeding group. All of these officials indicate that the quality and finish of the cattle will be better than last year despite the drought and adverse feeding conditions.

Officials from the leading packing institutions of the country have accepted invitations to judge the events. The cattle will be on exhibit next Wednesday, Nov. 12. On Thursday the awards will be made with the sale on Friday. The public is invited.

Ten Davies county farmers sowed 1/2 a bushel of grain for the first time. Farmer who have sowed this crop before expect to make much larger seedings next year.

Five car loads of ground limestone were taken into Madison county last month. One farmer ground over 100 tons on his farm, and others are piling rock for the state crusher.

Thursday Mr. Albert Beason and Miss Anna Northcutt. Our marriageable young people are getting mighty scarce—only one young lady left.
Wm. Black and family, of Lebanon, Ohio, are visiting his mother Mrs.
Sim Tanner.

FIFTY YEARS AGO
Mrs. Church Clure has presented each of her sons, four in number with a handsome gold watch and chain.

Our ex-townman J. M. Riddell is in luck. He recently made $475 on a $25 investment. It cost him $25 to attend the Atlanta, Georgia fair, and he claims the trip was worth $500 to him.

A Query: Mr. Editor, please inform a friend what is the proper hour of the evening for a young man to call on a young lady in a country village?

We refer you to Dr. Furnish and

Mr. Jacob Lodge, of Petersburg, was visiting friends here last Sunday.

The Sunday school at this place was organized the 2nd Sunday in May. It has met 26 times and has 12 teachers, and 121 scholars enrolled. 25 of this number were new scholars brought in as follows: R.
W. Rouse, 11; Charlie Barnett, 5;
Tommy Knapp 3; Aggie Helm, 2;
Miss Addie McGlasson, 1; Albert
Popham, 1; Chas. B. Crigler, 1; E. T.
Clayton, 1. The total number of scholars during these six months were 1,448; book read 972, verses committed 1,445. The amount raised by penny collection $18.59.

Mrs. Bert Gaines has been visiting friends in Central Kentucky for several days.

V. W. Gaines has moved his butcher shop into one of the brick rooms at the Hotel.

Joe Weaver and Noah Tanner, of Union, were among the P. of H. members in town Friday. They are faithful to the cause. Mr. Tannehaving been a member for 26 years.

Stanley Clutterbuck moved his furniture to Florence last week.

Jas. Sebree shot and wounded a large gray eagle down on Gunpowder, last Wednesday morning. Only the tip of one of the wings was injured, but this so disabled the bird that it was easily captured. It was taken to Lewis Rector's where a great many persons have gone to see it. It measures seven feet and one inch from tip to tip, and has a very sharp beak and large talons. Mr. Rector will take the bird to town to dispose of it.

Petersburg has a foot ball team that is making a good record.

Limaburg

Snow fell here on the 1st and 8th.
Wm. Utz, son of James M. Utz, and Miss Dora Brown, daughter of Joe Brown, were married on the 7th inst., at 3 o'clock p. m., at Erlanger by the Rev. E. Stephens. They were given an old time serenade by the boys.

Geo. Rouse had a full days grinding Tuesday.

Bellevue

Pilot Ed. Maurer left his boat at Rabbit Hash and came to Bellevue to vote, arriving here just six minutes before the polls closed.

Miss June Clure is visiting her father near South Fork.

After attending his sister's wedding Clayton Rogers returned to

EXPERIMENT STATION FITTING SHEEP FOR INTERNATIONAL SHOW

The Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky is preparing to make its customary classic exhibition of fine Kentucky sheep at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago.

Harold Barber, master shepherd and showman, who has showed scores of Kentucky sheep to top places at the great International Exposition, is putting the finishing touches on a flock from which 24 head will be drawn to send to Chicago.

The show flock will include five head of each Hampshires and Southdowns, eight Cheviots and six grade and crossbreds. Among the Cheviots will be a yearling wether which as a lamb was champion of the breed at last year's International.

Kentucky sheep fitted by Mr. Barber have failed to win high places at the International. Scores of first places and a liberal sprinkling of championships have come back to the University of Kentucky. Two weeks ago both the grand championship and the reserve grand championship were won, in competition with some of the best flocks of the U. S. and Canada.

The Experiment Station also is planning to send three Aberdeen-Angus yearling steers to the International Live Stock Exposition.

SEED SITUATION AGAIN STRESSED

The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, again is appealing to farmers to give serious attention to the seed corn situation, which is said to be one of the worst ever faced in this state.

Where at all possible farmers should save some corn for seed. Even if the corn is not first quality it will be advisable to bag ears and hang in a dry, well ventilated place, to make sure planting time will not find one without seed.

Farmers who desire to purchase seed should place their orders early, so dealers will know the needs of these communities. Dealers should be able to secure plenty of seed, provided they know sufficiently in advance of planting time about what farmers will need.

Composition of Cabbage

Bolting Causes Political Upheaval Likened To 1860

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

(By Fred Holmes)

WASHINGTON—Now that the flag of victors waves lazily over the field, with the shell-holes filled up, the trenches deserted, the wounded removed, and most of the bloodstains wiped away, maybe we can say with Shakespeare, "For God's sake let us sit upon the ground and tell sad stories of the death of kings."

A famous base-ball singer once told a group of reporters that the secret of success in batting was to "hit 'em where they ain't." Business depression, unemployment, prohibition, general unrest, and even the drought may each have contributed much or little to the forces which resulted in the recent upset, but after all the proximate and remote causes of the various successes here and there may be summed up as the foresight and ability to hit the political ball "where they ain't."

And "they wasn't" with their thumbs on the bolter. Bolting in politics always has been more or less of a bug-bear to politicians, and evidenced itself this year to those of both parties to an extent which proved intriguing to students of politics and should have been a warning to partisan prognosticators that they would better open the other eye—the one that habit impels them to keep shut tight even when both are not closed in peaceful slumber.

The non-partisan, the independent, the mugwump, the insurgent, have always been with us, but not often in sufficient numbers to cause political hear-failure. This year, however, bolting may be said to have become epidemic—possibly some would call it a fad—among hard-boiled regulars. Bolting was born back in 1860 when, because of slavery and allied issues, the Democratic party, which had been the dominant party since Jackson's, and even Jefferson's time, split into three sections. Of course, a party thus divided could not win at the polls, and so Lincoln slipped in. The Republican candidate became a minority President, but that was good enough to establish him at the White House, as it has some other Presidents since. It was sad bolting for the Democratic party, for it kept that party out of the White House for 24 years. Notable Democratic leaders became Republicans.

General Grant was once a Democrat. Whether President Hoover deserved chastisement, or national prohibition has proven a dismal failure, or the tariff has added to the burdens of American consumers, or administrative policies were responsible for business depression and unemployment, what most glaringly stands out today is that if "stone walls do not a prison make nor iron bars a cage," much less do party lines an asylum make or party regularity a shackle. It was neither the Republican nor the Democratic party that spoke this week; it was the American people. They may not have agreed—for the time being at least—upon the elimination of partisan dictatorship.

In reflecting upon the country's economic ills, last week's favored ones may get a moment of gloomy satisfaction from the ousting of so many wicked Republicans from office. Those who loved and lost also may find more than a grain of comfort in the certainty of a reign of peace along the legislative front. Even the timidest Republican need not be awake nights worrying about what wicked Democrats in Congress may do, for the wicked Democrats in Congress can do exactly nothing. Such slender majorities as seem possible at this moment banish all thought of overruling the President's veto, and should any economic upheaval be attempted a practical deadlock is certain to be the result. Every one can draw a long breath and huckle down to work in the confidence that no new Federal interference is possible for at least two years.

In any case, the newly-elected House of Representatives does not come into official existence until March 4th, and in all human probabilities will not function until the following December. The possibility of a special session is remote. In the meantime the legislative machinery of the forthcoming " lame duck " session will have to be geared and geared for high speed to permit congressional action on the many varied proposals suggested for enactment.

In addition to numerous measures left over from the long session, a large number of bills calling for greater participation by the Federal Government in the activities of the States are expected by the leaders of both parties in both Senate and House. From the pronouncements of candidates in the off year election campaign, these leaders view with no little concern the proposals for Federal aid of vast proportions—for public schools, for feed and fertilizer loans to farmers, for increased contribution to the States' highway funds, for reimbursement to the States for damage by both drought and flood, for pensions for the aged, and for goodness only knows what else.

There are also expected proposals to broaden the act creating the Federal Farm Board to give more assistance to agriculture, as well as measures to curb inter-state stock market speculation. In addition, Congress expects to be confronted with the problem of enacting a uniform pension law for veterans of all wars. With a disparity of $20 a month existing between the pensions granted Spanish-American and World War veterans under the acts of the last session, President Hoover is expected to recommend that Congress make a study looking to enactment of a law to place veterans of all wars on a more uniform basis.

These are by no means all of the tasks which are set down for the coming short session of Congress. The list is long enough to indicate the futility of efforts to finish the job within three months. The same old Congress will be in session, here will be the same old anxieties to fill space in the Congressional Record, the same old filibusters will be still available to obstructionists. The prospects for much practical and constructive legislation are not encouraging, but there would seem to be no occasion for fear of impracticable or destructive legislation now or in the near future. The 72nd Congress will inherit the unfinished labors of the 71st but the same overseer will be on duty.

PATIENT PASSED

where a Republican President and big majorities in House and Senate were elected. The overturn in the recent congressional elections is a vivid indication of what may happen in a democratic form of government.

The gloomy G. O. P. prophets who predicted that the business of the country would touch rock bottom if the Democrats captured Congress have all precedent against them. If they will examine the records of business activity since 1880, they will find that those periods where there has been a Republican President and a divided Congress have usually been accompanied by active business. In eight Republican administrations prior to 1928 the Republicans had control of Congress for twenty-four years, and there was a divided Congress for eight years. Business was notably more active during this period of divided control than it was when the Republicans had full sway.

The records show that in so far as Washington can produce prosperity or depression, the happiest possible harbinger of increased business activity is the loss of either the House or Senate by the Republicans. According to the precedents of 50 years, the loss of both would mean a veritable boom.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to express my sincere appreciation to the voters of the Sixth Congressional District for the splendid vote they gave me. It was a fine victory but I realize I was very lucky in having the sentiment so strongly with the Democratic Party and that it was in no sense a personal victory, but a victory for the Party.

It will be my earnest endeavor to serve all the people in such manner that they may never have any regret for having voted for me.

JULIUS CARTER DEAD

News of the death of Julius Carter, of Williamstown, late of Erlanger, was received with sorrow by his many Boone county friends and friends of the Carter family, all of which are well known to Boone county people.

Mr. Carter was 39 years old and passed away at the Christ hospital, Cincinnati, following an operation for appendicitis. The deceased was son of the late Absolom Carter, a prominent contractor and builder, and who also was well known in Boone county. Immediately prior to his death Mr. Carter had been employed as a buyer for the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, of Louisville, with his headquarters in North Carolina.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nina Carter, one daughter, Dorothy B.; his mother, Mrs. Anne Carter, and five brothers, Rev. R. H. Carter, of Butler, and until recently one of the most prominent ministers and school men in Boone county, and Paul, David, Harry and Joseph Carter.

Miss Margaret Skahan, of Cincinnati, was the week-end guest of Miss Mary Furlong.

Don't fail to see "The Hoodoo" to be presented at Berkshir's Hall by the Petersburg P. T. A. on Saturday night, Nov. 22, at 7:30 o'clock.

SCHOOL TAX ELECTION NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the legal white voters residing within the boundary of the proposed Consolidated School District described below, of an election to be held on Saturday November 23rd, at Union School House and also at Beaver Lick school house between the hours of 8 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., upon the proposition as to whether or not there shall be levied a ten cent (10c) annual tax on each one ($100) hundred dollars worth of taxable property of persons and corporations subject to school tax within said boundary.

Said tax to be used to pay one-third of the cost of building and equipping a school house adequate to the requirements of accommodating all white pupils in said territory. Said building to be built just off the Federal Highway between Union, Ky. and Beaver Lick, Ky., near where the Hicks pike intersects with said highway on a plot of land now owned by J. M. Lassing.

Tax to be levied and collected each year until one-third of the cost of building and equipment is paid for. The following question shall be submitted to the legal voters at said election: "ARE YOU IN FAVOR OF A TAX LEVY OF TEN CENTS (10c) ON EACH ONE HUNDRED ($100) DOLLARS WORTH OF TAXABLE PROPERTY OF WHITE PERSONS AND CORPORATIONS IN THIS PROPOSED CONSOLIDATED DISTRICT?"

The boundary of the proposed Consolidated District is as follows:

Beginning at the mouth of Big Bone Creek, thence to the mouth of Mud Lick Creek, thence to John Binkley, Jr., excluding him, thence to Baker's farm, excluding him, thence up Big Bone Creek to Joe Bick's farm excluding it, thence to John W. Carpenter's including him, thence to N. S. Bristow's including him, thence to Pink Neal's including him, thence to Cynthia Mason's excluding her, thence to Rubc, Riley's excluding him, thence to Robert Allen's excluding him, thence following up Gunpowder Creek to the forks of said creek, thence up the South Fork of Gunpowder Creek to Long Branch, thence with the mouth of Long Branch with Gunpowder Creek to the bridge on the Union Highway, thence to Thomas Marshall's including him, thence to Walter Grubb's including him, thence to the Frog-town pike, at the Iron Bridge, thence to Claud Wilson's including him, thence to Lucy Carpenter's including her, thence to the Toll Gate House on the Richmond pike, including it, thence to Frank Robinson's including him, thence to Addie Paraly's farm excluding it, thence to Sharp and Skinner's excluding them, thence to Leonard Cook's farm including it, thence to J. J. Hudson's including him, thence with the line of the Walton Graded School District to its intersection with the Verona Graded School District, thence with the boundary of the Verona Graded School District to the Gallatin county line, thence with the Gallatin county line to the place of beginning.

Voters living in Union, Midway and Hathaway Districts should vote at Union. Those living in the Beaver Lick and Mud Lick Districts should vote in Beaver Lick. Those living in Richmond District may vote at the most convenient place.

Done by the Boone County Board of Education in Regular Meeting November 10, 1930.
HUBERT CONNER, Chairman
D. H. NORRIS, Secretary.

ALWAYS GOOD

In these hurry-scurry days, when Mr. Everyman keeps his eye on the clock while he is taking his skimpy breakfast, so as not to be a second late at his next performance—it is not strange that the same "hit-and-run" expert clean overlooks the cause of disease, as well as the best means of its prevention and cure.

Beyond any question of doubt, the factor of REST is the physician's most dependable asset in correcting human ills. Many ailments of very severe character are really cured by enforced rest, while poor, unscientific, undependable drugging takes the credit! I can ascribe a hidden virtue to my dose of pills, if they make my patient so infernally sick that he has to go to bed and get well! For, your sick man generally does the thing last that he should have done first.

To cure a fractured bone, we place the fragments in proper position and keep them there till REST does the repairing. Carry it further: Shattered nerves, for instance; rest is the absolutely imperative thing. Nerves are shattered by over-activity; rest moves the cause of the trouble—get away from it. Rest is the cure.

Many medicines are employed to enforce rest, to compel peace and quiet in patients that are so far along that they are clean out of sight of land, nautically speaking; then the physician drags them ashore with his bromides or worse. No other alternative left him. The lessor for you, dear reader,—steer wisely; there is plenty of time allotted you for rest: don't trifle with inexorable laws!

O, the stomachs that are abused shamelessly—never permitted to rest! The average hound pup knows how to care for his stomach better than the average business man does—it's a fact. Ballast is a good thing, but too much of it will sink the ship; to overload is to overwork. To be temperate in all things is the price of immunity.

Butler county reports a good soy bean crop, and hay is being sold to farmers in other counties.

Twenty-five purebred Jersey bulls are now owned in Marion county where dairying is being improved through a dairy herd improvement association.

Union county farmers are buying superphosphate in large quantities, following tests which showed a lack of phosphorus in the soil.

County Agent Joe Hurt of Boyd county says that the dry season has strengthened farmers' faith in better practices, since crops were surprisingly good where the soil was in a high state of cultivation.

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

Lemon Jelly

Two tablespoons granulated gelatin, one-half cup cold water, two to two and one-half cups boiling water, one cup sugar, one-half cup lemon juice, rind of one lemon. Sogk gelatine twenty minutes in cold water, then dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar, the lemon juice and rind; strain into a mold and chill. Beating the lemon jelly while it is jelly-like with a Dover egg beater will make it white and fluffy. Orange, raspberry or other fruit jelly may be made in the same way, using one-half cup of the fruit juice with lemon juice to taste.

A delicious lemon meringue pie—well, is there anything more delicious? Here is a good one:

Three-quarters cup sugar, three-quarters cup boiling water, two tablespoons cornstarch, one tablespoon flour, two egg yolks, three tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind of one lemon, one and one-half teaspoons butter. Mix dry ingredients, add boiling water. Stir constantly, cooking two minutes, then add butter, egg yolk, juice and rind of lemon. Line pie plate with crust, turn in mixture which has been slightly cooled and bake pastry until brown. Cool a bit and cover with meringue.

Meringue

Two egg whites, two tablespoons powdered sugar, one-half tablespoon lemon juice or one-half tablespoon vanilla. Beat whites until stiff, add sugar slowly, continue beating, add flavoring and sweeten with silver knife evenly. Bake fifteen minutes in slow oven.

And lemon sponge makes a most suitable dessert for a warm day.

Lemon Sponge
Mix the juice of four lemons with a cup of sugar and two cups of water. Cook in a double boiler, with the well-beaten yolks of four eggs (beaten until smooth and thick, stirring constantly, take from the fire, add half a package of gelatin which has been soaked and dissolved, and when cool, but not set, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Mould and chill. Serve with boiled custard or with sugar and cream.

Lemon tarts, too, are good, especially for one of the crispier spring days.

Commissioner's Notice

Boone Circuit Court
Plaintiffs
William Sheets et al.
Versus
John Black et al. Defendants
By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court rendered at the August Term thereof 1929, in the above cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court house door in Burlington, Ky. the highest bidder, at public auction on Monday, the 1st day of December, 1929, at 1 o'clock P. M., or thereafter (being County Court day) about a credit of Six and Twelve months the following described property to-wit:

Lying and being in Boone County, Kentucky, and bounded generally as follows:

On the North by the lands of Joe Cleek, on the East by the lands of Joe Cleek, J. M. Baker, Heira, Claude Moore and Richard Madden, on the South by the lands of Jesse Alphin and Richard Madden, on the West by the lands of John Binder, Neal Woods and J. M. Baker Heirs and containing 219 acres more or less. The said land was conveyed to said Henry Sheets by several deeds as follows: From W. H. Baker by deed dated Nov. 1, 1894, recorded in deed book No. 41, page 92, deed from J. M. Baker dated January 20, 1898, recorded in deed book No. 42, page 78, and from Commissioner by deed dated January 10th, 1898, recorded in deed book Commissioner's No. 2, page 5, Boone County Court Records.

The interests of the infant defendants, Joe Black, John Black and Edna Tanner herein shall not be paid but shall remain a lien upon the land herein until the said infant's arrive at the age of twenty-one years, or until their Guardian or Guardians shall execute bond as required by Section 493 of the Civil Code.

For the purchase price, the purchaser must execute bond, with approved security, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

REORGANIZING FARM

The story of reorganizing a Kentucky farm so that the income to the owner was more than doubled is told by Z. L. Galloway, of the department of farm economics, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture in a circular called, "The Kentucky Farm Which Was Organized into an Efficient Business Unit."

After a careful study of the farm previous to the reorganization some of its weak points were listed as follows:

1. Poor balance between crops and livestock enterprises.
  2. No adequate provision for maintaining soil fertility.
  3. No systematic crop rotation.
  4. Inefficient layout of farm.
- The strong points in the reorganized plan for the farm are:
1. A well balanced business unit.
  2. A systematic crop rotation.
  3. Efficient farm layout.
  4. Good selection of crop and livestock enterprises.
  5. Good balance between enterprises.
  6. Good farm practices in producing crops and livestock.
  7. Adequate farm records.

Previous to the reorganization the total value of products on the farm amounted to about $1,850 a year. The expenses were about $750, leaving only $1,100 as a return to labor and capital.

Under the reorganized plan, the total value of products normally produced on the farm will total $3,900. Expenses will be about $1,150, leaving $2,750 as a return to labor and capital.

Deaths

MRS. FANNIE LUCAS

Mrs. Fannie Lucas, beloved wife of A. S. Lucas, passed away Monday night at her home in Florence, Ky., after having been in had health for some time. Funeral services were held at the Florence Baptist church on Thursday at 2 o'clock by the Rev. C. E. Brown, pastor of the Walton Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Lewis, the local Methodist pastor, in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends, after which she was laid to rest in the Florence cemetery.

The pall-bearers were the five sons and one son-in-law.

She is survived by her husband, five sons, Elmer, Albert, J. D., Stanley and Broadus, two daughters, Archmarie Lucas and Mrs. Emmett Baxter, besides many other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Lucas had been a faithful member of the Florence Baptist church for many years.

Funeral services were in charge of Phillip Taliaferro.

MRS. SUSAN D. SURFACE

Mrs. Susan D. Surface, beloved wife of John S. Surface, passed away Thursday at her home in Florence, Ky. Funeral services were conducted at the Hopeful Lutheran church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 by the Rev. F. B. Heibert, pastor, in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and friends that taxed the capacity of the building, after which she was laid to rest in the private mausoleum in the near-by cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Stanley, Guy, Shelley, Llewellyn, Harold and Robert Aylor, all nephews.

She is survived by her husband and the above-named nephews, besides many other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Surface had for many years been a faithful member of the Hopeful Lutheran church.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Funeral Director Phillip Taliaferro.

As we go to press we learn of the death of Mrs. Eugene Tanner, wife of B. H. Tanner, of the Price pike, near Florence. Funeral arrangements are being completed by Funeral Director Phillip Taliaferro.

In memory of our dear mother, Annie Goodridge, who died Nov. 16, 1928.

"What would I give her hand to clasp,

Her patient face to see,

To hear her voice,

As in days that used to be."

Sadly missed by her Family

MRS. ELLA M. CLORE

News of the untimely death of Mrs. Ella M. Clor, widow of the late Joel C. Clor, former postmaster of Cincinnati, and prominent citizen of Boone county, reached here Tuesday morning. Mrs. Clor died of cerebral hemorrhage while sitting in her car preparing to make some calls about Cincinnati. She was found at the wheel by a janitor about four hours after her death.

Mrs. Clor was born at Walton, this county, on February 14th, 1868, and was married in 1887 to Walter S. Mendenhall, who died in 1909. In 1911 she was married to Mr. Clor, who died four years ago. She is survived by one daughter and one son by her first marriage.

J. W. WHITE DEAD

Just as we go to press on Wednesday afternoon we learn of the very sudden death of James W. White, which occurred near his home at Ashby's Fork, of Woolper creek. His body was found on the creek near his home by a fisherman, but the cause of his death has not been made known at this writing. For many, many years Mr. White has been a correspondent for the Recorder and still was at the time of his death.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their thoughtful kindness during the illness and death of our beloved husband, father, expressions of sympathy, beautiful flowers and music have lingered with comforting consolation, and all these we shall cherish with our sweet memories.

Mrs. Lucy A. Kyle and Family.

REVIVAL SERVICES

An eight day revival service will be held in the Hopeful Lutheran church, Rev. F. B. Heibert, pastor, beginning Sunday morning November 23rd, continuing every evening of the week, except Saturday, and closing on Sunday morning, November 30th, when new members will be received into the church. Visiting pastors will preach on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The pastor will preach on Sunday and Thursday nights. An enlarged choir, under the direction of Harvey Utz, leader, will sing every night except Thursday at the Thanksgiving service, when all former members of the choir will sing under the direction of the two veteran leaders, Ezra Tanner and B. A. Floyd. All evening services will begin promptly at 7:30 (fast time).

Everybody in Boone county is very cordially invited to attend.

APPRECIATION

The many thoughtful acts and expressions of sympathy which loving kindness promoted neighbors and friends to offer, on account of the home going of Mrs. Fannie M. Lucas, are greatly appreciated. It made the burden of our grief easier to bear.

We wish to express our sincere gratitude and assure all of our abiding interest and love for them.

A. S. Lucas and Family

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Rouse entertained a group of friends with a turkey dinner last Saturday. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Julius Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Huey, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lamb. It having been the first day for the open hunting season, the above ambitious nimrods ventured afield and bagged 96 bunnies and five quail. Mr. Rouse, the host, led the pack with 29.

Rev. T. G. Clark traded an acre farm on the Dixie Highway Monday for two pieces of property in Ft. Mitchell thru Geo. B. Miller, at Florence.

Mrs. Lona Hurling, proprietor of the Dixie Fashion Shoppe, at Erlanger, has disposed of her store at Walton and henceforth will devote her entire time to handling the ever increasing business at the Erlanger store.

Strange to say, until recently has been unknown to the world. Stranger still it lies only six miles from Campton, the county seat on U. S. Twenty-seven or Appalachian Way. The Calaboose property occupies two thousand acres is almost surrounded by a mighty gorge bounded by Red River and Swift Creek. It is a land of natural bridges. Within its confines there are three and the fourth is just on the outside. One of these is grand and is held on account of its graceful arch and its long span, which is nearly two hundred feet across and its great height. The bridge is eighteen feet wide and so high that some persons cannot walk over it. There has been more than one prayer offered upon it by persons who got part of the way over and their hearts failed them. There is more rugged scenery within this one spot than there is to be found East of the Rockies. Near the great bridge is a cave that extends entirely through a mountain, a distance of nearly two miles.

The Bear Hunt

One day an old gentleman came to our cabin and proposed a bear hunt. Nothing could have pleased my father better, as he was a hunter of the old school. Needless to say they were soon out and gone. We had a giant bull dog, about the largest I ever saw. On account of his strength and courage, he was a terror to the bear and wolf family. The old gentleman had a large hound which had quite a reputation as a bear fighter. The hunter had not been long before the dogs routed a bear. Running up behind him, they began to snap his heels. This he could not stand and went only a short distance before he sat down against a tree, they held him there until the hunters came up. Their first volley topped him over but he arose and the battle was on. This caused the dogs to take greater risks than before. Our dog ventured too close and the bear caught him. The old hound human, like knowledge told him that something had to be done quickly and he did the proper thing at the right time. Like a flash he sprang on the bear's back; the bear turned our dog loose and whirled to avenge the insult, but as quick as on, the hound sprang to safety. By this time the hunters had reloaded and their second shot ended the battle.

The Deer Hunt

Once when father was coming home from a hunting trip, he found two deer near the end of the great bridge; there were only two things for them to do. They had to run the gauntlet and pass father or to jump over, they chose the latter. Crossing the bridge they ran about six hundred feet beyond to the end of the great rock which supports it and jumped over a vertical plunge of nearly two hundred feet. The fall crushed the life out of one but strange to say the other was able to make its get-away. Our hound made their bed in a fence corner near the cabin. The big dog's bed was at the other end of the cabin. A bear came up one night and found all asleep. He took a great chunk out of one of the hogs back and when the hog let out that death-like squeal, the big dog was on the bear in an instant and put him over the

GOOD YEAR

IS HOPED FOR BY WALTON BEARCATS IN SPITE OF LOSS OF FOUR FIRST STRING MEN BY GRADUATION-BEARETTES ARE IMPROVED

The Walton High School Bearcats opened their basket ball season on Tuesday evening, November 11th. In spite of the fact that the Bearcats have suffered a severe loss by graduation this year they expect to have a good season. In addition to graduation losses they have sustained temporary losses from other sources.

The only regular left from last year's squad, Wilbur Aylor, has an infected foot and Paul DeMoisey, a regular this year, recently was stricken with appendicitis and will be unable to play until the first of this year. But, in spite of these difficulties, coach Beverly has welded his squad into a fast moving quintet which will be heard from before the season is over. Several other members of the squad have been prevented from participating in practice on account of scarlet fever.

The Bearettes, Coach Beverly's girl team, will be better than last year and hope to furnish the fans with some lively basket ball.

Last year Walton-supplied Boone county basket ball fans with a supreme thrill when they turned in some of the best basket ball ever seen in the state, but finally disappointed their ardent followers in their failure to defeat Corinth in the Regional tournament at Paris. Experts accorded them better than an even chance to go to Lexington and indeed, many thought that they might win the state championship. Over confidence, however, proved to be their undoing and Corinth, a team they had defeated, scored only a few weeks before, downed them by a narrow margin when the supreme test arrived.

Corinth, their conquerors, moved on to the state championship and gave the national champions a run for their money at Chicago. Coach Beverly has an entirely new squad this year and it may be that Boone county's best team of next year again may give the home fans some basket ball of championship calibre.

REMINISCENCES

OF OLD DAYS IN WESTERN LEAGUE ARE INDULGED IN AT HOME OF PUDGE ALLOWAY, OF WATERLOO, WHEN FORMER MANAGER AND PITCHER GET TOGETHER

Old baseball days in the Western League back in 1903 came in for plenty of discussion at the home of Arthur (Podge) Alloway on Thursday of last week, when Jack Ryder, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Bill Rourke, chief adviser and head scout of the Cincinnati Reds, and the writer, got together.

Of course the writer and Mr. Ryder were unable to enter into the discussion with any degree of intelligence, but Podge and Bill swapped some fine spun yarns, such as the game played above the clouds at Cripple Creek, Colorado, where the air was so thin that when strong men hit home runs they pulled up exhausted at second base. A dozen others of different color and length fell from the lips of these two old veterans.

Bill was the manager of the Omaha club in 1903 with Podge, Mordecai Brown, and two other strong arms to do his pitching. The four carried the entire pitching burden, winning the pennant for Mr. Rourke and, needless to say, he has not forgotten them. That was the year that Brown went to the Chicago Cubs, where he established himself as one of the greatest twirlers of all time.

Mrs. Alloway proved a most genial hostess and, assisted by Mr. Ed. Iamkin, supplied one of the most palatable dinners it ever has been our pleasure to imbibe.

W. W. Caddock and wife had as guests for dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Arnold, of North Bend, and John Caddock and Elmer Bollington.

Charles Maxwell and family had as guests for dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Harney Peano and son Homer, Pagent, and Cliff Webster, of Independence.

Cleveland Snyder and son Melvin of Cincinnati, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter Saturday to his many friends that the last day for taking subscriptions to The Sheepman has been extended to Tuesday, November 26th. Anyone wishing to read him a subscription should do so before the above date and be assured that it will be highly appreciated.

Catching Three Bears

One day my father was on the river and came upon a she bear with three cubs. She put them up a tree and took to her heels with the big dog close behind. She made only a few jumps and climbed another tree near a cliff and jumped off on the rock above, thus putting the old dog out of the chase. Father tied his coat around the tree and left the old dog to guard, and came home and got a sack and ax and my oldest brother and returned to the scene. They felled the tree, caught the cubs and brought them home. They were about the size of large cats. One was as gentle as a kitten and other only fairly so, and the third wild as a buck. He would fight you to a stand-still. But in two or three weeks they were all gentle as kittens.

Battle With a Rattlesnake

One warm spring morning my sister and I asked mother if we could go down to the old log barn and crib and play. She consented, but warned us to look out for rattlesnakes. In those days mothers were continually warning their children to look out for the deadly rattler. Before we reached the spot I saw a giant rattler lying between the logs of the old crib about seven feet above the ground. Running back and telling mother, we armed ourselves with eggs; these were spears for killing rats; these were spears for killing feet long. Thus armed we marched to battle. The rattler stood his ground as we approached. With a well directed thrust mother drove the forked prongs of her fork clear through his thick body and pinned him to the log above. With pioneer courage he held him fast. This left about three feet of each end of the snake to thrash about. He wrangled his extremities through the air with great force. His fine set of rattles

PETERSBURG WINS

At press time we learn of the victory of Petersburg High School over the Walton H. S. team at Walton last night. The score was 21-13.

An airplane from Elkhart, Indiana made a forced landing on the farm of Joel Gray, near Burlington, just before noon on Tuesday. After making some necessary repairs he announced ready for passengers. R. V. Berkshire and Albert Pettit made the first flight.

Mr. Joel Gray, who lives near town, has been making improvements in his outbuildings the past summer in the way of up-to-date hog and poultry houses.

Elmer Miller, of Hebron, who is employed with the State road force as grader man, slipped from the tractor one day last week fracturing a couple of ribs.

To say that the country was full of hunters last Saturday, is putting it mildly. They traveled all Friday night and Saturday morning thru Burlington.

Alfred Jones, carrier of R. F. D. No. 2, has been suffering from an attack of yellow jaundice for the past two weeks. His brother, Arthur, has substituted very capably for him during his sick leave.

Mrs. N. E. Riddell left for San Antonio, Texas, last Friday, where she expects to spend an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Piper. Judge Riddell accompanied her as far as Chattanooga, where he left the train and returned home. Mrs. Riddell has not been in very good health since an operation last spring and it is to be hoped that the Texas climate will benefit her.

Mrs. Alice Snyder and Miss Pamela Taylor are visiting Cleveland.

W. W. Caddock and wife had as guests for dinner Sunday Lee Caddock and family and Mrs. Eliza Arnold, of North Bend, and John Caddock and Elmer Bollington.

Charles Maxwell and family had as guests for dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Harney Peano and son Homer, Pagent, and Cliff Webster, of Independence.

Cleveland Snyder and son Melvin of Cincinnati, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter Saturday made music fit for the Gods. It was up to me to pierce that great head, which was nearly three inches across. This was hard to do as he kept warping it through the air and hitting everything in reach. I made thrust after thrust; at last I made the lucky shot and sent the prongs of my gig through his head pinning it to the wall above. The battle was over. Our prize had great spots on his body which shone like polished gold.

The rattlesnake is not dangerous though his bite is deadly. This comes through his gentlemanly traits and good nature. He never takes advantage of his victim nor bites before warning. Often he will let you step over him and never move. When I was four years old and in the woods with my father I stepped within six inches of one's head and he never moved. Those were days of poverty, nobody had money and there was no way of getting any. Everything was manufactured in the home from the sole of the foot to the crown of the head. I never saw sugar until I was near twelve years of age. They were happy days, though neighbors were few and far between. They would visit back and forth and when they did they enjoyed life. In the spring of sixty-nine we gathered up our scant belongings, carried them on our backs up the mountain, loaded them in a wagon near the great bridge and went north seven miles to a farm on which a small college now stands. About this time it began to dawn upon my father that the mountains were no place to rear a family.

So in the spring of seventy-one we again gathered our effects, which consisted of two feather beds, two chairs, a mountain lake oven, a road wagon, two horses, and a yoke of oxen. We journeyed to the north, not knowing where we were going, knowing only that we were leaving the mountains.

WILL "SPICE" PROGRAM AT SCHOOL BUILDING NEXT SATURDAY EVENING-DONATION PARTY, BASKET BALL AND SPELLING BEE

Next Saturday night at the High School gymnasium will be a sort of community get-together night.

Promptly at seven o'clock patriotic boosters for the Parent-Teacher lunch room will assemble at the school building, bringing with them anything of value to the school lunch kitchen. Anything in the form of vegetables, canned goods of any description, indeed any article of food that can be preserved for use during the coming winter season is needed and will be appreciated.

The lunch kitchen never has been much more than self supporting and the P. T. A. hopes at least to keep it on an even basis.

At 7:45 a basket ball game will be called. The first game will find the Southside Baptists of Covington, on the floor opposed to a local team. The former is class "B" team in the Covington "Y" league and should give the team that will be used against them a stiff battle.

The final on the basket ball program will take place when the local church team, a class "A" five in the Covington "Y" league, takes the floor against the Newport Baptist aggregation.

The Newport five is a member of the Campbell-co., church league and is reputed to be very fast. New uniforms for the local five have been ordered and the proceeds from all of the games on the home floor will be applied to their cost, after the payment of all necessary expenses.

At the conclusion of the games held in the gymnasium with prizes donated by the P. T. A. to the winning speller.

The P. T. A. membership drive, which has been in progress for several weeks, will close at 7:30 on the same evening. One fourth of the basket ball game receipts will go to the P. T. A.

ACHIEVING FAME IN NEW YORK AS WRITER OF BOOKS AND PLAYS-SLATER LAMASTER WAS BORN AT SLATER'S CROSSING NEAR BIG BONE LICK

Dr. C. R. Slater, of Erlanger, is being congratulated upon the literary success of his nephew, Slater LaMaster, of New York, who has a new play running in New York. Mr. LaMaster has gained considerable renown as an author and contributor to many high class magazines, but his new play is his most successful literary effort.

Not long ago the editor of the Recorder received a copy of Mr. LaMaster's latest book entitled "The Phantom in the Rainbow," which has been our pleasure to read and which proved to be an exceptionally clever and gripping novel.

His play is entitled "The Bigger" with subtitle "Prohibition Exposed." LaMaster was born at Slater's Crossing, near Big Bone, this county.

A report gained credence in some parts of the county last week to the effect that James Edward Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Stephens, of the Florence pike, had been arrested for a hunting law violation and that he was in the Burlington jail. This report was far from the truth and the Recorder is pleased to use its columns for the correction.

Ray Hickman, who is employed at the Fair Store, Cincinnati, injured a limb Monday when a box, which he was unpacking, fell upon it. He will be able to return to his duties by the latter part of this week.

Prof. and Mrs. C. G. Lamb leave today with R. E. Berkshire and family.

UNFAIR COMPETITION

In addressing the American Bankers' Association in Cleveland recently, President Hoover said: "I have never believed that our form of government could satisfactorily solve economic problems by direct action—could successfully conduct business institutions. The Government can and must cure abuses."

What a howl would go up from the business world if the Government of the United States, merely because it happens to have the necessary facilities in its navy yards, should go into the business of building merchant ships, in competition with the commercial ship builders. The U. S. Government owns an excellent airplane manufacturing plant in which it builds experimental planes for the navy. Suppose the Government should go into the airplane manufacturing business for the general public? It would be perfectly obvious to everybody that this was something which the Government has no business to do.

Printing of Government documents, maps, postage stamps and money, are a proper function for the Government's printing establishments. But when the Government of the United States engages in the business of printing return envelopes for private citizens, it is unfairly competing with the job printers of the nation. It would be unfair competition even if a fair commercial rate were charged for the work; it is worse than unfair when this work is done for less than cost.

The National Editorial Association and practically every other association of newspaper publishers and printers, have protested for years against this practice. This year a more determined effort than ever is being made to induce the Congress just elected, if not the one already in office, to take Uncle Sam out of this petty competition with his nephews.

FRUIT MEN TO HEAR ABOUT PEST CONTROL

Discussions of peach production and the control of insects and diseases will feature the annual winter meeting of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society, to be held in co-operation with the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky December 4-5.

T. H. McHatton, chief of horticulture, will speak on the commercial peach industry in the South. Georgia normally ships 12,000 to 15,000 car loads of peaches, and ranks next to California in the production of that fruit.

The control of curculio or common peach worm will be discussed by E. H. Rawl, horticulturist for the Louisville & Nashville railroad. He has studied this pest in South Carolina and other sections. W. P. Flint, entomologist at the University of Illinois, will give some recent developments in the control of orchard insects, especially the oriental and codling moths.

Dr. H. Van Antwerp, Farmer, Ky., Frank Street, Henderson, and other Kentucky growers will appear on the program. W. W. Hillenmeyer, Lexington, is president of the society.

APPLES HELP IN McCRACKEN COUNTY

Apples brought McCracken county fruit farmers through the drought, says County Agent W. C. Johnston, in a recent report on farm conditions. Prices ranging from $1 to $1.60 a bushel provided money when other crops failed.

Fruit, alfalfa and Korean lespedeza were least affected by the drought in McCracken county. Seventy per cent of the corn was but to be fed as corn stover. Rains since September 1 have resulted in improved crop conditions. Cowpeas, soybeans and late tobacco made good yields. Seventy-five per cent of the tobacco was late, and as a result was a good crop. Pastures were improved by rains and a large acreage of wheat and rye has done well.

Four car loads of cotton seed meal have been ordered by dairymen in Spencer county.

The Carroll County Farm Bureau reports the sale of 1,500 bushels of rye.

GOOD CARE REDUCES WINTER FEED BILLS

Attention to details of "management rather than spending large amounts of money is being emphasized in answers to inquiries which the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, is receiving about wintering sheep.

Balanced rations, regular feeding, exercise, water, and protection from severe weather will save money and tend to insure a good lamb crop. Grains, with the exception of corn, are not unusually high. Oats and wheat bran should be liberally used, with some old meal, though cottonseed meal which is low in price may be safely fed in small amounts to ewes.

While mixed hay, stover and straw may be utilized as part of the ration of breeding ewes, especially during the early part of the feeding period, it would be a mistake to depend entirely on such roughages. These roughages can be profitably fed only in connection with some good legume, such as alfalfa, clover, soybean or cowpea hay. Farmers who are fortunate enough to get rye established have done much to solve a major part of their feeding problem.

Successful sheep farmers know the care required in handling ewes. Not only should rations be balanced, but feeding should be regular. Water is also very important and is often overlooked.

As long as sheep can graze they will get all the exercise they need, but when the ground is covered with snow it will pay to feed roughage close distance from the barn so the sheep can get the needed exercise while walking to and from the feed. The breeding ewe should walk at least a mile a day.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of Station WHAS the week of Nov. 24th. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Nov. 24—Killing and curing home pork, Grady Sellards.

4-H Club work for girls, Miss Edith Lacy.

Nov. 25—4-H Club work for girls, Miss Edith Lacy.

Small fruits for Kentucky farmers, C. S. Waltman.

Nov. 28—What farm folks are asking, N. R. Elliott.

SAYS GROUND WHEAT IS GOOD FOR HOGS

A farmer owning 25 pigs weighing approximately 100 pounds each wrote to the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, for advice about fattening them to weigh about 200 pounds for market. The reply given reads as follows:

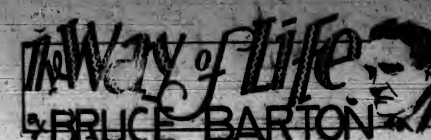

In most sections of Kentucky ground wheat would be the most economical grain to feed. This should be self-fed and supplemented with a mixture of 2 pounds of tankage and one pound of cottonseed meal, also self-fed. If there is no pasture it would be well to self-feed some sort of legume hay in a rack, preferably alfalfa. Feed salt in a separate trough.

Two hundred people attended a 4-H Club and farmers' fair at the Henderson Settlement school in Bell county. There were 300 farm and home exhibits.

The county agent estimates that 12,000 bushels of rye were sowed in Calloway county. Murray dealers sold 12,000 bushels of seed and the Red Cross distributed 3,000 bushels.

Twelve car loads of limestone were taken into Graves county last month. Several farmers applied 500 to 600 pounds of basic slag to the acre before sowing legumes.

Seven hundred bushels of wheat were sowed last month in Magoffin county, to be used for a cover crop and spring pasture.

GOOD MORNING DOCTOR

One day when I was working at my first job and was—needless to say—hard up, I developed a severe pain.

A stranger in New York, I had read in the newspapers the name of a diagnostician who was internationally famous. I went to his office, which was in his beautiful home, at eight o'clock in the morning. The waiting room was already full. There was a rich man who tugged impatiently at his watch. There was a haughty woman. And there were also a half a dozen shabbily dressed folk including a poor mother with a very sick baby.

Without favoritism, each was ushered into the consultation room in the order of his arrival.

Presently my turn came. I said to the doctor: "I cannot afford to consult you, but my health is my entire capital. Therefore, I feel that I simply must come to headquarters."

He gave me a careful examination, wrote a prescription, and told me that I would be all right again in a few days.

I pulled out my pocket book, which contained two weeks' salary.

"How much are you earning?" he asked.

I told him $25 a week.

"Well, if you'll promise not to tell anybody," he answered, "I'll charge you five dollars."

In the intervening years I have become the father of three children, and my salary has been raised a couple

CONSTANCE

Miss Irene Green, of North Bend, has been visiting Miss Martha Kottmyer the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens and children were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bates Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hood entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Kite and Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Purdy and son, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bates spent Monday with Mrs. Gussie Harris, of Bromley.

Miss Evelyn Lose entertained with a birthday party Saturday, this being her tenth birthday, she received many nice presents and all had a pleasant time.

Kathryn Dolwick spent last Sunday with Esther Kottmyer.

Glad to report little Edward Jackson is much better and is coming home this week.

Sorry to hear Mr. Geo. Murphy's baby is no better at this writing.

A state lime crusher has ground approximately 3,000 tons of limestone for 67 farmers in five communities in Allen county. It will operate in five other communities this year.

Five hundred Perry county farmers have sowed 2,300 bushels of rye this fall. This is the largest acreage ever sowed in the county.

Five hundred tons of pulverized lime were used in Powell county last month, and the county agent says half that much will be used in November.

Johnson county farmers sowed 100 bushels of turnip seed this fall, according to reports from local merchants.

Artillerist's Term

A pound of ammunition is ammunition for one shot by each soldier and of cannon.

Stocking Substitute

Women in oriental countries stain their feet with henna, sometimes binding their feet with ribbons and dyes before applying the dye in order to produce a patterned effect.

Sunday School Lesson

THE RICH YOUNG RULER, REFUSING A LIFE OF SACRIFICIAL SERVICE

Mark 10:7-27

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Here is a character in history from whom valuable lessons can be learned and yet his name is unknown to all. Knowledge of this rich young ruler persists because one day he crossed the path of Jesus and was identified with Him for a few minutes.

With haughty pride this young fellow who regarded himself as a model man said "All these have I kept from my youth up." He claimed that he had never wronged anyone. There is no special credit in that kind of a life. It is just being ordinarily decent and each one should be able to pass that kind of an audit.

That sort of clean living is merely a healthy foundation on which to build a worthy character. Every one of us should avoid doing the things which might get us behind the bars.

This self centered man did not reckon that he had any obligations to help his neighbor in distress. This great world of humanity was signally brought to his attention as Jesus told him to sell all that he had and distribute the proceeds among the worthy poor. Then he was to follow with Jesus in general ministries. He was not told to give up earning more money in honest occupations, for he had all of his former capacities for work.

Lacking heart for others he spurned the advice of Jesus, and the man who might have been chosen to take the place in the apostolic company after the betrayal of Judas "went away sorrowful." While Jesus could not help him it was possible to present great principles to the company that witnessed the event.

To the audience that observed the Lord said, as in the Golden Text, "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily, and follow me."

HAPPENINGS

(Too Late for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Robinson and family called on Thos. C. Masters and family last Thursday.

Miss Margaret Masters spent last week with her sister Mrs. John Hill, of Erlanger.

Mrs. Paul Garrett, of Cincinnati, spent a few days last week with her mother and brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thas. C. Masters had as guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Robinson and family, of Riverside, Mr. and Mrs. Josh Robinson and family of Cincinnati, and Josh Masters and lady friend.

EARLY & DANIEL CO. OPERATING SOYBEAN PLANT DAY AND NIGHT

The Early & Daniel Company, of Cincinnati, manufacturers of Tuxedo Feeds is now operating its Soybean Meal Plant twenty two hours a day.

A large sign is placed on the outside which reads "This Plant Working Day and Night." At night the sign is illuminated and as the plant is located close to one of the main arteries of the city it is of interest to the folks passing by.

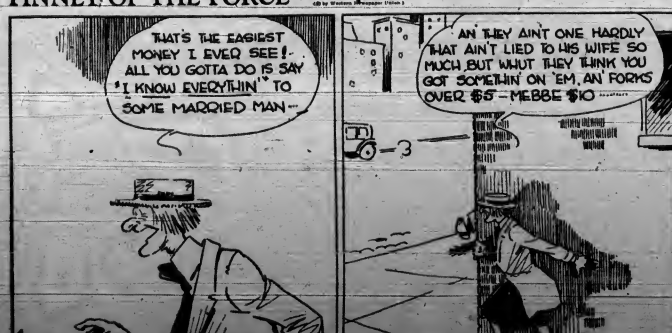

The plant has a storage capacity of 100,000 bushels and is rapidly being filled with beans. The balance of the beans are being stored in the Company's million bushel elevators located at Fairmount and Indiana polls.

The Soybean Meal is largely used in the manufacture of Tuxedo Feeds and only part being sold for meal. The oil is used in the Paint, Varnish, Soap, Oleomargarine, Salad Oil and other Industries.

THE UNITED PETROLEUM COMPANY'S

SUPER-SERVICE STATION

ON THE DIXIE HIGHWAY AT ERLANGER, KY.

FREE!*FREE!*FREE!

WITH THE PURCHASE OF ONE DOLLAR OR MORE A USEFUL SOUVENIR WILL BE GIVEN ON

OPENING DAY, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1930

You are Cordially Invited to Drive in and Inspect this Super-Service Station which we are Proud to Dedicate to the Service of the People of Northern Kentucky. See the Last Word in Gasoline Pump Equipment. Guaranteed Accuracy. The Only Pump that Removes all Air from the Gasoline Before it Reaches Your Tank. See it!

FLEET-WING

ETHYL

FLEET-WING ETHYL makes carbon the source of extra power. You need no longer be bothered by "carbon knocks." Just fill up the tank with Fleet-Wing Ethyl. Then try your car on a steep hill. The knocks have disappeared--the motor runs smoother and better--there is less vibration--more power. Then check up on mileage--you'll find Fleet-Wing Ethyl delivers not only more power and smoother operation but more miles per gallon. This better gas also saves you the expense of carbon removal. Fleet-Wing Ethyl is kind to your motor and your pocketbook too. So fill the tank with Fleet-Wing Ethyl, it "leads" all the way.

ZERO FLO

A Pure Paraffine Base Oil. Pours at 35 degrees below zero. Protect your motor and Battery during the cold weather by using this wonderful oil that insures quick and easy starting and perfect lubrication.

UNITED BENZOL

NOT A SUBSTITUTE. But a pure, guaranteed Benzol mixture. We earnestly solicit a comparison of this product with any Benzol sold. You are to be the judge. A trial will convince you of its merit.

FLEET-WING

GASOLINE

The Gasoline with the extra power and pep in every drop. It costs you the same as the ordinary gasoline--no more--yet a trial will convince you of the superiority of this FLEET-WING product. Fill your tank today and note how much more smooth your engine will run. Note how quickly it starts and the additional power it gives you over the ordinary gasoline. Try it! It costs no more!

HYVIS MOTOR OIL

The completely refined pure Pennsylvania motor oil. The oil that carries a One Thousand Mile Guarantee.

Our service department exists primarily for your benefit; not for repairing your car but to keep it fit and enable it to deliver its full measure of trouble free mileage.

We are sincere in our desire to help you avoid repairs.

Get our service manager's recommendations on motor oil. He is an authority on lubrication and wants you to use an oil that will best protect your motor. Striking evidence that car dealers are interested in recommending fine lubricants is found in the ever-increasing number of service managers who are supplying and recommending HyVIS Motor Oil to their users.

HyVIS is a completely super re-fined pure Pennsylvania lubricant that carries the approval, by name or specification, of every leading motor car manufacturer in America. It is natural that HyVIS should be found in the service departments of leading car dealers, as well as at better independent filling stations and garages from coast to coast.

Firestone

TIRES

Surpasses all others with Greater Tire Values

More Size--More Weight--More Thickness--More Plies--More Tread--More Rubber Volume--Most Miles per Dollar.

WE HAVE joined with Firestone to cooperate, and take advantage of the low prices of rubber and cotton--cut manufacturing costs, sales and distributing cost, and with smaller profits per tire we give you their new line of quality tires at these low prices.

Firestone has taken the mystery out of tire buying and has furnished us with actual sections not only of Firestone tires but of others. Come in and examine them for yourself.

A "Mail Order" or "Special Brand" tire is made by some unknown manufacturer and sold under a name that does not identify him to the public, usually because he builds his "first grade" tires under his own name.

Our Station is in charge of three experienced attendants--Mr. Courtney Pope, Mr. Franklin Hahn, Mr. John Broadus. They are anxious to serve you.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

W. J. Rice had a force of hands at work on the roads in this district last Friday and Saturday.

Noah Clure raised his large stock farm one day last week. James McAtee is the boss carpenter.

Clutterbuck Bros. have put an electric cigar lighter in their store. They are up-to-date merchants.

Mr. and Mrs. Ad. Robbins were guests of J. M. Eddins and family Sunday.

J. M. Lassing returned from a tour of Kentucky yesterday.

D. E. Castleman is attending Circuit Court at Warsaw, this week.

Mrs. Laura Martin left for Lakeland to accept a position under Superintendent Furnish at the Asylum.

Rabbit Hash

James A. Wilson was 86 years old last Saturday week. His children and neighbors spent the day with him, and were nicely entertained and went home glad they were there.

William Bevis and Miss Minnie Douglas were married last Thursday in Rising Sun.

Mrs. Bettie Stephens, who has been visiting friends and relatives here in the past two weeks returned to her home in Cass county, Mo., last Thursday.

Limaburg

Wallace Tanner has purchased a new shot gun, and will give the rabbits and birds some attention.

Henry Clure and wife, of Florence, were guests of Geo. Baker last Sunday.

Jacob Rouse's lame shoulder is improving nicely.

Harry Hicks, of Covington, was a guest of his uncle, James M. Utz, a few hours last Saturday.

The fine rain was greatly appreciated by our citizens.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Thomas Cowen and Henry Clure, two of Bellevue's prominent young business men, went in town Monday.

Mr. J. M. Barlow, wife and daughter, returned last Saturday after a four weeks very pleasant visit to relatives in Monroe and Rolls counties, Missouri. Mr. Barlow was well pleased with the country and people out there well and prosperous. They have had but little rain out there since June, but the people were so much interested in the election that they paid no attention to the inconvenience of the drought. Mr. Barlow put in some good work for the Recorder while gone, for which he has our thanks.

Misses Nannie Bristow and Mary Hedges, of Union, were in Burlington last Friday.

Mr. Grant Tomlin, Deputy Revenue Collector at Petersburg, was in town Monday. Mr. Tomlin is a pleasant gentleman whom we are always glad to meet.

Florence

The Hon. John S. Hoggins spent yesterday in town.

Albert Souther is about to establish a tobacco factory here.

The following has been handed us, and it will be interesting to both the parents and public: The roll of honor in Mrs. T. E. Kirtley's school for the month just ended is as follows: Chester Souther 97; Bessie Wilhoit 94; Sadie Kirtley 98; Ben Rice 92; Katie Laila 91; Florence Tanner 91; Harvey Brown 93; Chas. Souther 91.

Union

A monument costing $500 has been placed over the graves of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Utz.

J. L. Frasier continues in the noble work of teaching the children of Union how to sing—being a most talented musician his efforts are sure to bring about good results if the children only follow instructions. Hunting is the only unfinished business before this section at present, as the weather is so wet that everybody has given up all other business.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mr. Walter Brown and sister, Miss Mattie, are visiting their sister, Mrs. J. C. Huey.

On Wednesday Mr. George Walton and Miss Lucy Clure were married in the Bullittsburg church.

The benighted countenances of W. J. Rice and Filmona Wingate were seen on our street last Sunday.

1500 was the size of Irwin Balsley's tobacco crop, and $10 per 100 all round was the size of the price.

Last Friday evening a Literary Society was organized at this place with H. J. Foster, President; R. C. Green, Vice-President; Thos. Cowen Secretary, and W. L. Riddell, Treasurer. After disposing of necessary preliminary work the following question was selected for discussion next Friday evening: 'Resolved that there should be a property qualification allowing a man to vote.' W. L. Riddell, Thos. Stephenson, G. G. Hughes and F. Riddell, affirm, and Dr. J. G. Furnish, Walker Tolin, H. J. Foster and Dr. J. M. Grant, deny. Everybody is invited to attend and become a member of the society.

Florence X-Roads

John P. Utz is expected home from Sunbright, Tenn., this week.

Thomas Kirkpatrick is the boss butcher in this section.

Eph Utz contemplates a visit to Sunbright, Tenn.

There have been eleven additions to the Hebron church during the protracted meeting. Rev. Graw was called home last week on account of sickness in his family.

Plattburg

John W. Gaines gathered 200 barrels of corn from 15 acres of ground.

W. H. Hensley while plowing ground for wheat not long since, plowed up an entirely white mouse, having pink eyes.

Miss Lizzie Hersley and Laura Tolin have gone on a visit to Dillsboro, Indiana.

ITEMS FROM THE KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Kentucky's total production of tobacco, of all types, in 1930, is estimated at 333,124,000 lbs. in the November crop report for Kentucky issued here by the Louisville office of the U. S. Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates. This is about 3 1/2 per cent increase from the October 1 forecast; is 14.4 per cent less than the 389,277,000 lbs., produced in Kentucky in 1929; but is 0.6 per cent more than the state's average annual production of 330,999,000 lbs., 1924-1928 inclusive.

This year's Irish potato crop in Kentucky is estimated at only 3,654,000 bushels, compared to 4,401,000 bushels produced in this state in 1929.

The total apple crop appears to be 6% larger than was forecast one month ago, the estimated production being 162,262,000 bushels, compared with 142,078,000 last year, and an average production of 89,262,000 bushels the previous five years.

TURKEY CROP 1930

The turkey crop of 1930 for the country as a whole is about 3 per cent smaller than that of 1929, but larger than either the 1928 or 1927 crops, according to the turkey report of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The decrease in the states from which the commercial supply of turkeys largely comes, which are the states from the Dakotas to Texas and westward, was considerably more than 3 per cent decrease, amounting for that whole area to about 10 per cent decrease. The increases which tended to offset the decreases in the commercial area were mostly in the East Central States, being largely in the states where the drought of last spring and summer were most severe.

In general the dry hot weather of the past season was exceptionally favorable for raising young turkeys, and the proportion of turkeys raised to poulters hatched was larger than usual. This had the effect of offsetting to considerable extent the decrease in hatchings due to the relatively unfavorable prices received last year.

POINT PLEASANT

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

EXCESS OF EATING

"We Eat More and More," reads a recent headline. A writer and compiler of statistics quoted from the Literary Digest says, "One hundred and fifty pounds a year is our increase in food consumption during a generation." He adds that, "We consume fewer cereals and more sugar, fruits, and milk products."

He says quite an awful; he speaks of a time when dinner arrived at noon, and was the big meal of the day. Supper was usually cornmeal mush-and-milk, with fried mush butter and molasses for breakfast the next morning.

Those were the days when people got along with some 500 fewer diseases than we "enjoy" at the present time—and when a fellow died of old age. There is everything except wisdom in many of the dietary customs of this on-rushing age of early death and big inheritance taxes.

In the last generation we have jumped from thirty-four to forty-four to forty-four pounds in fat and cills; thirty years ago, we consumed sixty-one pounds of sugar; today we swallow our hundred-and-fifth pound for the year just past. We eat, according to this authority, 142 to 145 pounds of meat each per year—not varying much, except perhaps less when the price of meat goes up.

Our increase in dairy products is wholesome—from 840 pounds to 1840 pounds; the same may be said of fruits; the gain from 189 to 193 pounds of fresh fruit, points the way to better and more healthful living. There has been a most striking decline in the use of corn-meal, the summertime staple. And here is the best and most correct "roughage" of all! It's a pity we can't get any statistics on the per cent of increase of loaded colons and constipation.

My purpose in this letter is to induce thinking on part of my readers; I believe they will agree with me, that the old way of feeding, breakfast, dinner and SUPPER is productive of length of days.

sister Mrs. J. E. Rogers. Mrs. S. B. Scott is better at this writing.

FLORENCE

(Too Late for Last Week)
Elby Dringenburg and wife spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lucas.

Melvin Jones is ill at his home on Shelby street.

Mrs. Arch Lucas is seriously ill. Her daughter Mrs. Baxter, is spending a few days with her.

Miss Ora Wesley is at home over the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wesley.

Stanley Ryle and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Ryle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore in Newport.

The Junior Class of the Baptist Sunday School was entertained with games and a social hour Saturday afternoon. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Mesdames Surface, Tanner and Anderson were hostesses to the young people.

There was no school Friday as all the teachers attended the Education Association of Northern Kentucky in Covington.

L. T. Ward and family were dinner guests of Mrs. M. L. Laubach and family, Sunday.

Revival services continue through out the week at the M. E. church. Rev. Zimmerman is preaching some very good sermons.

A very happy occasion Sunday was the gathering of a number of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rector of Riceville, in honor of Mrs. Rector's birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Price C. Under and son J. D., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tabor, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. ## Freed From Pain After Suffering Two Years

"For two long years I was in agony, the pains were so severe I lost much sleep and became very nervous, my limbs were swollen. I carefully followed advice rendered me by people who were supposed to know. I took medicine daily, but none seemed to affect my condition.

"As time went on I became desperate, my kidneys were bothering me more than ever, my bladder had become weak, and I was compelled to arise many times during the night. Karnak was recommended and I decided to find out just what it would do. I have used several bottles and just what a glorious change, no one can ever realize. I have no pain whatsoever, my system is gradually becoming normal and I feel better than I have in years. I shall always praise and advise Karnak to anyone suffering from rheumatism."

NO LONGER CONSIDERED

Distance is no longer a consideration when calling a funeral director. Before the appearance of the automobile, a twenty or thirty mile drive took most of the day. Now that distance is easily covered in less than an hour. No matter how distant the call, whether from this community or miles away, there is never an extra charge in Chambers Service. Anywhere at any hour, Chambers Service is complete and satisfying in every respect.

 Mrs. Henry Atterkirk made a business trip to Covington Thursday.

PETERSBURG

In the passing of Col. G. C. Grady this town has lost a truly great man. He had the good of this town at heart. Thru his influence the gravel road leading to the cemetery was built, and "The Park" which for years afforded a cool place for persons to rest and enjoy, a friendly chat on hot summer evenings, was constructed and kept by this gentleman. Mr. Grady was a true Southern gentleman—a man of high ideals of splendid education. He kept himself young by thoughts of deeds of kindness. He has truly left his family a rich heritage—in the life he lived in this community, of honesty and integrity and love for his fellowman.
 Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was not a large crowd at H. W. Grant's sale Saturday.
 Mrs. P. T. Brindley returned Saturday from a visit with Mr. Brindley who has a good position at Terra Haute, Ind.
 Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crisler, of Liberty, Ind., spent Saturday night and Sunday here with relatives.
 Mr. and Mrs. Claude McWethy and daughter were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Allen. Mr. Allen has been ill for several days.
 Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Deck and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cox.
 Mrs. A. L. Stephens, Mrs. Justin Dolph and Miss Nell Stephens spent one day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith.
 Mrs. R. B. Huey and daughter were calling on relatives here one day last week.
 Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder were Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Chambers.
 Mrs. Reuben Conner and Mrs. Wallace Gribbs called on Mrs. H. C. Matthews Saturday.
 There will be services at the Baptist church every evening this week with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. White spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Walston.
 Joe Walston received the sad news of the "passing on" of one of his nieces at Seymour, Indiana, Saturday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Keim have moved to Covington for the winter.
 Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lefk are now citizens of our town.
 Miss Beulah Turner and friend were calling here Sunday.
 Rev. and Mrs. W. A. M. Wool were Sunday guests of Mr. Ella Acra and family.
 Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Helm are happy over the advent of a daughter Nov. 13—Patricia Ann.
 Miss Emelyn McCord was shopping in Cincinnati Saturday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Davidson spent the week-end at Pleasantville with Mr. Davidson's parents.
 Our basket ball team of boys won the game Friday evening against Owenton, 20 to 14 Hurray!
 Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Snyder and Mrs. Belle Jones spent Sunday at Big Bone, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Jones.
 Mr. and Mrs. Justin Dolph spent Sunday in Ballview with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dolph.
 Rev. C. D. Carter, Mrs. Lena Grant, Mrs. H. C. Matthews and Miss Laura May Matthews were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Rector and daughter.
 Mrs. Eva McWethy and son, Mr. E. Randall and family called on Florida Helton, Sunday.

 Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Black will move this week to the H. H. Grant farm and Wesley Fogle will go to the Asbury-Burton farm.
 Don't forget to see "The Hoodoo" Saturday night at 7:30 p. m., at Berkshire's Hall. Admission 15c and 25c.
 Whereas, as it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call from our midst our beloved President Emeritus Mrs. Laura Scott Chambers. Be it resolved
 1st. The Woman's Missionary Society of the Petersburg Christian church of which she was a charter member, has sustained a great loss—yet we realize to the fullest our loss is her gain.
 2nd. The church of which she was a valued member, and the community grieves today with her bereaved children.
 3rd. The women of this Society extend their deepest sympathy to her loved ones.

 Mrs. Nellie Garnett is nursing Mr. Walker and baby of Burlington.

MIDDLE CREEK

We are all enjoying the pretty autumn weather, but some folks who are fresh meat hungry would like to see cold weather.
 R. Z. Cason gave a rabbit roast Saturday night, which was enjoyed by everyone present. Folks came from far and near. Elmer Goodridge and wife, of Elsmere, Richard Marshall, of Rising Sun, Ind., Garnett Dolph and family, of Morrow, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Cook, of Petersburg, were some of the guests from a distance.
 Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Goodridge and daughter spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. Carl Cason and wife.
 Robert Eugene the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelly, has been quite ill, but is some better at this writing.
 Wm. L. Stepher is spending a few days with his daughter Mrs. Shelby Acra and family, and helping Mr. Acra husk his corn crop.
 Sherman Burcham and family spent Sunday afternoon with R. Z. Cason and family.
 Mr. and Mrs. Jess Loudon entertained company Sunday.
 Geo. Nabers and friend of Covington, were calling on Stanley Stephens Saturday afternoon. They also took a hunt while they were out.

OBITUARY

Home's a box of jewels more precious than diamonds or the rubies, and when the most holy tie that binds the family circle has been severed, and the wife and mother, the mainstay of the home, is taken away there is that bitterness of grief which those who have had the same experience can understand.
 The death angel has once more entered our town and removed therefrom another of our beloved citizens. On Nov. 11, 1930, at 2:30 o'clock a. m., God in his love and wisdom called to her eternal reward Mrs. Fanny M. Lucas, wife of A. S. Lucas, who was born near Verona, Ky., August 7th, 1846. She was the daughter of Jacob and Julia Wolfe (nee Coyle) her parents preceded her to the Great Beyond many years ago. She was united in marriage to Arch S. Lucas October 28, 1885. To this union were born seven children. Rev. Elmer Lucas, of Washington, D. C., Albert Stanley, J. D., Brodie, Mrs. Emmett Baxter and Arch Marie, all of this county. She became a member of New Bethel Baptist church at nineteen years of age, bringing her membership with her to Florence church where she lived a faithful member to the end. She loved the house of God and was a regular attendant as long as her health would permit. She was a devoted wife and mother and all that knew her loved her. Many Christian virtues adorned her life, the memory of which will continue to carry with it the fragrance of love, joy and peace.

 Her trust, which had ripened with her years, her steadfastness in God and gave to her life a radiance the warmth of which was felt by every one with whom she associated. There are sad and many sacred times and occasions when all nature seems tinged with sadness, even the sun whose golden shafts soon drive away the heavy fogs, seem to say that life is but a vapor that appeareth for a little then vanishes away. Such trials as death are hard to bear, and we cannot lift the curtain and see why the dear Master would pluck such a precious flower in the home, the one that put her trust in the Saviour and that never forgot to look to Jesus when the darkest hours would come, and when life's burdens were hardest to bear, but Christ doeth all things well, and he needed more gems for this kingdom and more stars for his crown.

 She leaves to mourn her departure besides her husband and children, two brothers, Rev. W. A. Wolfe, of Weson, Ohio, Dr. E. F. Wolfe, of Edgewood, Dixie Highway, and eleven grand-children. Her funeral services were conducted by Rev. Brown at the Baptist church at Florence on Thursday Nov. 15th, at 2 o'clock in the presence of a large assembly of sorrowing relatives and friends.
 The pallbearers were her five sons and one son-in-law. She was laid to rest in the Florence cemetery.
 There is never a day so sunny But a little cloud appears, There is never a life so happy But it has its time for tears.

FRANCESVILLE

A large crowd attended church here Sunday morning and evening. Service held by Rev. Phvera. The many friends regret to hear of Mrs. Jake Blaker being on the sick list.

 Frank Ayler and family, of Hebron, spent Sunday with Emmett Kilgour and family.
 Ernest Collins and wife and Chas. Beall spent Sunday with relatives near Walton.
 John Utzinger wife and daughter and Chas. Beall spent last Tuesday evening with Jake Blaker and family.
 The many friends of Chas. Scott-horn are glad to know that he is doing nicely after the operation he underwent at Christ hospital.
 Clifton Roberts, of Covington, spent Monday and Tuesday of this week in Burlington. Clifton is enjoying his annual vacation and is utilizing a part of it in pursuit of Bro's Rabbit.
 The Recorder has been unable to obtain the list of state tournament results this week, but we have promised it by next week, when it will be published.

"THE HOODOO"

ATTRACTS RECORD CROWD IN BERSHIRE HALL AT PETERSBURG—SELECT CASTE RENDERS HIGH CLASS PERFORMANCE

The play presented here Saturday night by the P. T. A. of this place was a perfect success in every way. The cast was selected with great care and each one did his or her part especially well. Several friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Witham came over from Lawrenceburg and furnished most excellent music for which we were very grateful. There never was as large an audience assembled for a play in this town before, which proves to us people are awake and interested in our school here. This play will be presented at Bellevue (Grant) on Dec. 6th. We will expect a large assembly there, as these good people always give "Pete" a good hearing when they come their way. On Tuesday afternoon Dec. 2 the P. T. A. will meet in regular session at the school auditorium. A splendid program has been arranged and everybody is invited to come. Be a Booster and help us make Petersburg P. T. A. a banner. Be an Optimist and say it CAN and WILL be DONE. Never it CAN'T. There is no such word in the vocabulary of Petersburg community.

Deaths

MRS. EUGENE TANNER

Mrs. Eugene Tanner, aged seventy years, beloved wife of B. H. Tanner, passed away Monday morning at her home on the Price pike, near Florence, after a long illness.

Funeral services were conducted at the Hopeful Lutheran church Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m., by the Rev. Harold Beemon, assisted by the pastor, Rev. F. B. Heibert, in the presence of a great assemblage of relatives and friends, after which the remains were laid to rest in the nearby cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Ed. Baker, Carl Clutterbuck, Johnnie Clutterbuck, Kenneth Tanner, Ira Walton and Hubert Grimsley.

Mrs. Tanner is survived by her husband, B. H. Tanner, her mother, Mrs. Frances Clutterbuck, who is 91 years old, in addition to several brothers and sisters and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

WILLIAM LEWIS LANDRUM

William Lewis Landrum, of 600 Greenup Street, Covington, Ky., passed away Monday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital, after several months illness with heart trouble.

The remains were immediately removed to the Taliaferro Funeral Home in Erlanger, from which establishment funeral services were held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock by Rev. Watson, pastor of the Elmore Church of Christ, after which he was taken to Keefe, Owen county, Ky., the land of his birth, for interment.

Mr. Landrum is survived by his widow, three sons, one daughter and two brothers, besides many other relatives and friends.

BEARCATS

OF WALTON DOWN STATE CHAMPION CORINTH FIVE IN DEFENSIVE BATTLE—BEARETTES LOSE CLOSE CONTEST WITH SQUAWS

In a game that literally was packed with thrills the Walton Hi School Bearcats downed the State Champion Corinth Braves on the Corinth floor last Friday night by the score of 11 to 8. Needless to say, taking the score as a criterion, it was an offenseless battle. Both teams played great defensive ball.

The Bearcats played the five-man shifting defense and it worked perfectly, as the Braves were able to drop but two field goals and they both were tossed from back of the center position. The Cats were aided materially by the services of "Jim" Allen, 125-pound forward, who has been out on account of scarlet fever. One defeat in four games has been the portion of the "Cats and that at the hands of the Petersburg aggregation, who handed them a trouncing to the tune of 21 to 13.

The Bearetties, who previously had defeated Petersburg by a 74 to 0 count, were unfortunate Friday nite, while their pals were winning at Corinth, as the Squaws handed them a 16-14 beating. Two of their best players were removed on account of fouls, causing their downfall.

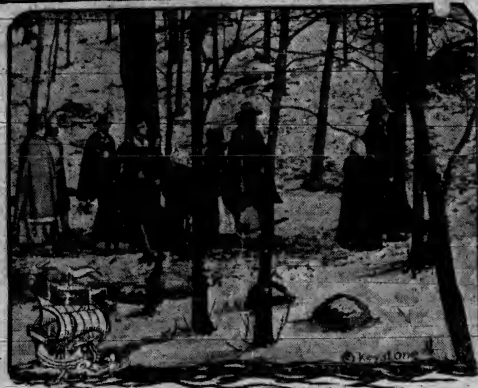

Walton will play Hebron Tuesday night, December 2nd and will meet Burlington on Friday night, December 5th, both boys and girls playing. Both of these games will be played at Walton.

Dr. E. J. Love, of Petersburg, and LeRoy Cox, his very efficient pilot, made Burlington a business call on Tuesday of this week. They made the Recorder office on their official itinerary.

Monday, November 24th, was a typical March day a high wind, interspersed with sunshine, rain and snow.

J. D. Baldon and O. R. Port spent Saturday night and Sunday in Indiana visiting relatives.

ON THEIR WAY TO GIVE THANKS

The photograph, posed after the famous painting "Pilgrims Going to Church" and "The First Thanksgiving" by Boughton, shows the sturdy founders of Massachusetts going to church to give thanks to the Almighty for the bounties bestowed on them. The picture is supposed to have been illustrative of the early spring of 1621, on the day that Governor Bancroft had set aside as a day of prayer and thanks.

DELIVERY

OF CHRISTMAS MAIL DEPENDS TO GREAT EXTENT UPON CO-OPERATION OF PUBLIC IN EARLY MAILING OF PARCELS

The postal department has sent to the Recorder a few printed suggestions for early and secure mailing of Christmas parcels, letters and cards.

Detailed descriptions of these mailing requirements may be had from your local postmaster. Postmaster Everett Hickman, of Burlington, says that early mailing is not only conducive to the best interests of the postal department, but to the mailing public as well.

Early mailing prevents a last minute overflow of mail matter, which crowds department employees and, while impeding the safe delivery, also delays it to a great extent. Christmas packages can be mailed as far ahead as two weeks or ten days and marked "Not to be opened until Christmas" and yet bear the same holiday message as if mailed at the last moment. If this is done it will enable the patrons of Uncle Sam's delivery to mail the necessary last minute parcels, letters and cards with more assurance of prompt delivery, for the rush will have been obviated by the early mailing of other matter that could be mailed at that time.

So, shop now and mail early for early delivery so that Uncle Sam's best facilities may be ready for you in case of necessity at the eleventh hour.

NOTICE OF RED CROSS MEETING

On next Monday Dec. 1st at Florence Building & Loan Room there will be a meeting of the recent Roll Call workers, to sum up the memberships of the canvases. Please bring to this meeting a report of all the precincts.

B. H. RILEY,
Roll Call Chairman.

Dr. John H. Walton and wife and Mrs. Adelaide Brooks and daughter, of Saylor Park, Ohio, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Conner and family.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter were visitors of Mr. Ben Corbin, who has been quite ill for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Craddock had as guests for dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Beech and son Ralph and Mrs. Ed. Kendall and son Vern, and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Frank and children.

Miss Mary Bass Cropper, of Hebron High School and Miss Hazel Cabbage, of Burlington Hi School, accompanied Misses Ruby Mitchell, Linda Lee Jarrell, and Sara Garrison of Burlington Hi Girls Reserve Club, upon a week-end meeting at Falmouth this week.

LOCAL GAMES

MAY ATTRACT RECORD CROWDS THIS WEEK WHEN TOMCATS AND KITTENS MEET WALTON AND HEBRON TEAMS

The Burlington Tomcats and Kittens will take on two worthy and formidable opponents this week when they entertain on their home floor the fast and furious Hebron and Walton quintets.

The Walton Bearetties and Bearetties will come here tonight (Wednesday) and promise to give the home team a veritable "run" for their money. While Walton, on dope, is favored to win these games, yet one never can tell in basket ball and Coach Lamb will have his diminutive Tomcats on edge for this game. The Kittens had little trouble in tuncing the Bearetties last year, but graduation has weakened them to no little extent. However, they have been putting up a fighting brand of net work and not only entertain hopes, but expectancy, of winning.

One of the biggest games of the year will be staged when the Hebron boys and girls teams come here for two games on Friday night of this week. The Hebron teams are going splendidly and promise to give the locals a battle royal. Indeed the dope favors them to win, but, of course, never wins basket ball games. The leather has to be dropped through the hoops with more consistency than that of the opposing team to bring home the bacon. Those who expect to see the Hebron games should make every effort to get into the gym early, as it is expected to be jammed to its capacity.

The probable line-ups for the Hebron games are as follows:

Burlington Boys	Hebron
James Ogden F	Elmer Tanner
Alvin Stephens F	Geo. B. Yates
Wm. Greenup C	Lloyd Siskman
Ralph Maurer C	Norris Riddell
Dudley Rouse G	William Turner
Burlington Girls	Hebron
Marj Phillips F	Martha McGlasson
Ethelene Ryle F	Grace Reeves
Anna Lee Burton C	Alberta Baker
Elva Akin G	Ethelene Jackson
Luelle Ryle G	Adelia Riddell

F. M. Voshell, administrator of the estate of the late J. W. White, deceased, placed an advertisement with the Recorder on Tuesday of this week for the sale of the personal property of Mr. White, who died last week. In this sale advertisement are incorporated many useful articles of household and farm which it might be well worth your time to investigate.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Sr., had as guests for dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Gamaliel Green, of Hyde Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Melloy, of Rosineville.

William Phillips made a business trip to Cincinnati, Monday.

Farm Facts

(BY H. R. FORKNER)

76 CARS OF FEED REDUCED RATES

Permits for reduced freight rates have been issued to Boone county farmers and dealers agreeing to pass the reduced rates on to Boone county farmers for 76 car loads of feed according to county agent H. R. Forkner. The feed shipped into the county on the reduced rates has been a direct saving of around $5,000. All the permits have been issued thru the county agent's office.

The saving per car load of feed on reduced rates granted by the railroads has meant a saving of approximately 50 per cent in freight rates on each car of hay or feed shipped into the county. The reduced rates have not only meant a saving in freight but have brought the localities of plenty in closer touch with the drought territory and through increased competition has made it possible for the farmer to buy feed to-day approximately one third cheaper than it was during the early part of the summer.

November 30th marks the last day the reduced freight rates are available. The dealers of the county report that a large per cent of the farmers have been supplied with sufficient hay and feed to last for some time in the future.

$8,236.08 PRODUCTS OWNED BY CLUB MEMBERS

$8,236.08 worth of agricultural products was owned and produced in 1932 completed Boone county 4-H Club projects during 1930 according to reports of club members turned in to the county agent.

Below last year's average but represents a good return per member. The tobacco project group represented the highest labor return per member while the girls sewing project represented the lowest labor return per member. The value of project work can not be determined by the dollars and cents return as some projects having a low dollars and cents return gave a great deal more educational training than other projects having a high dollars and cents return.

A total of 49 poultry, 27 dairy, 1 butter fat production, 5 sheep, 7 swine, 13 tobacco, 18 garden, 5 corn, 9 canning and 97 sewing projects were completed with reports turned into the county agent's office. A total of 58 daily 4-H habit record reports were kept in addition to the regular health record included in each project report. A total of 39 adult leaders cooperated with an unselfish spirit to carry on the 1930 club program.

UTOPIA ORGANIZATION MEETING

Twelve charter members met at Burlington court house last Wednesday night, November 19th and held the first meeting of the Boone county Utopia club. Mr. Carl Jones, specialist from the College of Agriculture was present to assist in the organization.

The first meeting included the election of officers and perfecting of the working parts of the organization. The following officers were elected: Grant Maddox, chairman; Robert Graves, vice-chairman; Frances Rennecker, secretary-treasurer; Wilton Stephens, one year director; Robert Graves, two year director and Robert Hafer program chairman. The regular meeting date was set for the third Wednesday night in each month.

The following charter members were initiated into the club: Cecil Conner, Robert Hafer, Paul Hafer, Wilford Siskman, John L. Cox, Elizabeth Tanner, Thos. Randall, Wilton Stephens, Ben Stephens, Grant Maddox, Frances and Robt. Graves.

Thos. C. Masters and brother LeMaster, of Bullittsville, and Idlewild, made the Recorder office a very pleasant call last Saturday morning, leaving with the office force a very fine assortment of choice mushrooms, which were very graciously appreciated.

CANDIDATES

FOR GOVERNOR COMING THICK AND FAST IN DEMOCRATIC PARTY—BOOMS FOR EASTERN WESTERN AND CENTRAL CANDIDATES

The crop of prospective gubernatorial candidates is growing by leaps and bounds and, verily, "we know not what the morrow may bring forth."

Probably inspired by their recent decisive victory in the senatorial and congressional races the booms have been confined principally to the Democratic party.

Sectional differences may not play an important part in the forth coming battle for the nomination in the party of Jefferson, but the names of prominent men are appearing on the front pages of various newspapers from the divers sections of the state, accompanied by a piquant news story or editorial, each prompted by a desire to see the favorite son of that particular section, in the seat now occupied by Governor Felm D. Samson.

From Eastern Kentucky come the names of such staunch and brilliant Democrats as Fred M. Vinson, of Ashland, and Ben Williamson, recently elected for the short term in the U. S. Senate. From Western Kentucky comes the name of Jim Breathitt, of Hopkinsville, now the Lieut. Governor, whose original boom comes from the Owensboro Messenger-Inquirer.

Then from Central Kentucky come the booms of Frederick A. Wallis, of Paris, his launching editorial coming from the Winchester Sun; and Clegg Coleman, of Harrodsburg, his boom appearing in the Harrodsburg Democrat, his home town. Mr. Coleman, as is well known, now is State Auditor of Public Accounts and for many years has been very prominent in state political circles.

A recent reference to him and his possible connection with the gubernatorial primary is uniquely chronicled in the Harrodsburg Democrat of recent date. The quotation follows:

They Want Him For Governor

Clegg Coleman, though not an announced candidate for Governor, had just as well be as a host of others are sure to land him in the field. There may be other candidates when the flag falls, but they will be, it is safe to say, "volunteers" and not "hand-planted."

Dr. M. Casper, in writing "Notes of Kentucky Foxhunting, Harrodsburg, 1930," in the November issue of "The Chase," the premier sport paper in the State, says:

"Hunt all you please and vote for Clegg Coleman for Governor." This was on a large banner over one gate. Sportsmen of Kentucky could go farther and do worse than get behind Clegg Coleman. He has always been the foxhunters' friend. They passed no drastic fool dog laws while he was secretary of agriculture. He has enjoyed Scotch blood in him to be thrifty and economical, and would soon save enough to get the State out of debt. He is a real business man. Ask around Burgin. Also he is a 'dirt farmer' and knows the needs. We have not had a man in the Governor's chair in years that could touch him."

WOMAN CLUB MEETS

The Woman's Club was delightfully entertained Thursday, Nov. 20th, at the lovely home of Mrs. Elizabeth Goodridge. Most of the members and several visitors were present to enjoy the occasion.

At the noon hour we were invited into the dining room where was spread a dinner that was enjoyed by all—especially was the home-made ice cream a treat.

In the afternoon a very interesting program was rendered consisting of scripture reading, music, readings, poems, etc.

The next meeting is the 15th of December at the home of Mrs. Missouri Rice.

Club Secretary

Edith Ryan and son were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Love, of Petersburg, Saturday night.

THANKSGIVING

Once more the people of the U. S. have been called upon by their President to observe the last Thursday in November as a day on which to give thanks for the manifold blessings which we have been vouchsafed.

Thanksgiving is one of the few days which is celebrated as a holiday in every part of the United States. Of New England origin, dating back to the days of the Plymouth Colony, more than 300 years ago, its appropriateness has appealed to all Americans.

For we of this country have been more abundantly blessed than have been the people of any other nation in the world. We may grumble at "hard times" and point to inequalities as between man and man, and think we are pretty badly off, but we must remember that by comparison with any other part of the world we are exceedingly well off, that the inequalities which divide our people into the successful and the unsuccessful are far less marked than the inequalities which exist elsewhere between the upper and the lower classes.

The Pilgrim Fathers gave thanks to God on Thanksgiving Day for material blessings with which their physical condition had been ameliorated.

We are all too prone today to take all of the credit for material progress to ourselves. Few today rely on Divine Providence to take care of them, in spite of the express promise:

"Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."

Our faith is less simple than that of our forefathers. We do not look for direct and instantaneous answer to prayer. But down deep in our hearts we, as a people, still believe that somehow, if each does his individual best to live up to the spirit of religion, he will not suffer for lack of food and shelter and the normal comforts of life.

There is still faith in the words of the Psalmist:

"I have been young, and now I am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

This particular Thanksgiving Day of 1935 seems to us to be one upon which the religious origin of the occasion should be kept in mind. We have been through a hard year. We are still not "out of the woods" so far as material prosperity is concerned. But we have lost nothing which counts if we have not lost the faith in ourselves, in our neighbors, in our Nation and its ultimate high destiny, which all of our history justifies. So long as we hold to that faith and continue to believe that something higher than human power is still guiding us, we have every cause to be thankful.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS WIN HIGH HONORS AT FAT STOCK SHOW

Junior 4-H Club members won highest honors at the annual Fat Stock Show held at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville. Paul Rich, a Garard county club boy, showed the grand champion calf, and the Garard county 4-H club had the grand champion calf load.

Three hundred and twenty-five 4-H club boys and girls from 23 counties showed 23 car loads of fat calves. After a spirited show in their own division they entered into competition with high school students and farmers, and emerged with two grand prizes.

The 555 four-H club calves sold for an average of $11.72 a hundred pounds, giving practically all of the boys and girls a liberal profit. The grand champion calf sold to Swift & Company, Chicago packers, for $31 a hundred pounds, while the Decker Meat Market of Louisville paid $14.85 a hundred for the grand champion calf load.

In addition to the money which the boys and girls made on their calves they won over a thousand dollars in cash prizes, several trips to the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago, and numerous other awards.

This classic exhibition of highly trained cattle represents one of the major extension projects of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in giving the best agricultural training to boys and girls on the farm. Through county farm agents, with the assistance of good local farmers, bankers, business men and others interested in educational work, the college takes to men, women and boys and girls on the farm the latest information on various phases of farming and homemaking.

GOOD TO DRINK

Vienna Chocolate

Put the milk in a double boiler and let it become thoroughly heated. Then add sweet chocolate, broken in small pieces and stir constantly until it is melted. Serve.

With Marshmallows

In place of whipped cream, put a marshmallow in the bottom of each chocolate cup. Then pour in the hot chocolate and the marshmallow, melted, will rise to the top. Use the cheaper marshmallows, as the more expensive ones do not melt.

Thick Hot Chocolate

Mix a teaspoon of cornstarch with a third of a cup of sugar and add half a cup of milk. Scald three and a half cups of milk and slowly pour the cornstarch mixture in, stirring all the time. In a double boiler melt two ounces of unsweetened chocolate, simply by omitting the cornstarch.

Chocolate Milk Shake

Put three or four tablespoons of chocolate syrup in a glass and fill it about seven-eighths full with milk. Then shake vigorously, in a shaker, if you have one, or else by putting a larger glass down over the first one, holding the two firmly in both hands and shaking back and forth.

Chocolate Syrup

To make chocolate syrup mix a third of a cup of cocoa with two cups sugar and slowly add a cup of boiling water. Stir constantly until the boiling point is reached, reduce the heat, and boil for five minutes. Less sugar may be added if this proves too sweet.

"READ THE LABEL"

Farmers who buy commercial feeds and manufacturers of such feeds may protect themselves against fraud if they only will exercise reasonable diligence and common judgment by reading the label attached to each bag, says a statement sent out by the Department of Feeding Stuffs of the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky.

If a feed is labeled with a manila tag and printed in black ink, it represents a simple straight feed made of one grain or plant only, and purchasers should have no trouble in recognizing it by a glance at the label.

If a feed is labeled with a manila tag printed in red ink, it represents a mixture of two or more straight products, and those buying should read the tag at least twice and study it carefully before buying.

If a feed is labeled with a yellow tag, it contains a material or materials of little or no feeding value as concentrates, or is "adulterated" and purchasers should read the tag half-dozen times and consider it carefully before buying.

All feeds must be registered and labeled with a Kentucky tag before they can be sold legally within the State. If a feed is not labeled when offered or exposed for sale, it is in violation of the law and buyers should not consider its purchase.

SHOW HIGH PRODUCTIVE AVERAGE

Three leading Boone county demonstration flocks including six hundred and fifty laying hens closing October 31, had a yearly average of 151, 158 and 198 eggs per hen respectively, according to county agent H. R. Forkner. This is an extremely good average when the 56 eggs per hen for the state of Kentucky is considered.

The above flocks were fed recommended balanced rations, well housed, given reasonably good care and were all purebred birds. While many farm enterprises were unprofitable this year all three of the above flocks gave a good return. The owners received from 26c to 77c per hour for all labor expended. The hens averaged from 48c to $6.95 per hen raised.

RECIPE FOR MAKING A MILLION

A friend of mine who is still under thirty-five has made a fortune and I asked him how he did it.

"I've been to your office several times," I said, "but you seem reluctant to be there."

"No, I don't go to the office every day," he answered. "A good deal of the time I just sit and look out the window and think."

When I make a decision I go out and put it into effect, and a little more than half the time I have had the good luck to be right. When I find I have made a mistake, I sit down and say: "Now what did I do wrong? Were my facts inaccurate, or did I draw bad conclusions? How am I going to avoid that same mistake again?"

I knew another man who owned a small but profitable business. He was methodical in his habits. On a certain day of each month he stayed away from the office, and everybody in his employ knew that the old man was thinking. From breakfast time until sun-down or such a day he would sit before an open fire or on an open porch, without pen or pencil or paper, or records or reports, and quietly think.

He attributed his modest success to this unvarying habit.

Henry Ford remarked to me once that "thinking is the hardest job there is," and added that he could get plenty of ideas but not enough thinkers.

Most of us know from our own limited experience that thinking is hard, and we have insulated ourselves against it by a restless and rosy environment.

We are afraid to be found in a small audience, terribly afraid to be alone. Our unwillingness to take trips, or to retire, is not dictated so much by loyalty to the job as it is by the haunting fear that, removed from the protecting clatter of daily activity, we shall have "too much time to think."

Emerson tells the story of "a man who on his death-bed called to him his profligate son and left him large possessions, only exacting of him the promise to spend an hour every day alone. The son kept his word and became a wise and good man."

In another passage Emerson remarks that "the gods and the wild beasts are both fond of solitude; thought makes the difference between the solitude of the god and that of the lion."

Solitude and thought are responsible for the considerable fortune of the young friend whom I quoted at the beginning. I pass on his recipe free to all. I have not been able to apply it myself.

—having been too busy.

W. W. GAINES IS PRESIDENT OF ATLANTA SCHOOLS BOARD

(Atlanta Georgian)

Atlanta schools have progressed more under the present administration than ever before, and during the next few years there will be many new activities, it was said on Thursday by W. W. Gaines, new president of the Board of Education.

Mr. Gaines, a lawyer, is serving his fourth term as president of the board. He is the oldest member in point of service, having been first elected in 1921.

When Mr. Gaines was first elected there were only seven members of the board, with the Mayor as a member. Mrs. Gaines always has visited each of the Atlanta schools once during the year and says he will continue to do so. He has written many articles about the schools and published a short history of the schools in 1921 that still is in use.

"The one great problem of the schools is finances," he said. "The city has been loyal to us, but if it could see fit to allot us more for our schools we could have more teachers, better schools and no overcrowded conditions. I agree with Dr. M. M. Burns that the schools should collect their own revenue."

Mr. Gaines came to Atlanta after leaving college at Georgetown, Ky. He also is a graduate of Washington and Lee University.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to extend my thanks to my many friends and neighbors for their sympathy and assistance during the sickness of my wife, and to Brother Heibert for his consoling words, Bro. Lewis for his prayer, also Philip Taliaferro for his satisfactory service.

J. S. SURFACE.

Human Desire for Change

In the American Magazine, Ralph L. Polk, publisher of city directories, says that 65 per cent of the people in cities change their home or business address yearly. Even including the country, the person in a household avoids some sort of change every five years.

ZACCHAEUS THE PUBLICAN—A BUSINESSMAN CONVERTED

Luke 19:1-10

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

During the past summer tree sitting became a fad with many ambitious youths, and even some women who wanted to establish a new kind of record. Zacchaeus also used a tree when he had a supreme purpose in mind. It was while Jesus was passing through Jericho for the last time. Curiosity was doubtless the motive that impelled him to get a sight of the Nazarene, about Whom he had heard so much. When He tried to press near the bystanders would none too gently in elbowing him away. Then our man of determination ran around the crowd seeking some point of vantage on the road whither the company would pass. A sycamore tree with its outstretching, low-hanging branches revealed the possibility of an obstructed view and to this place he climbed.

No matter how busy Jesus had been in meeting the outcries of individuals who needed help He always was aware of every one else in the crowded throng. When in sight of the tree-sitter He looked up with recognition. Then the unparalleled thing occurred as Jesus in a kindly manner called Zacchaeus by name. There was still greater amazement when the Passerby invited Himself to be the Guest that day of the man who was held in contempt by this entire community.

When in the presence of Jesus there is instantly the consciousness of unworthiness. Involuntarily there is effort to measure up to His idea of righteousness. A quick audit of his record as tax collector revealed the excesses that had taken place in his office. What he had was wrongly gained called for restitution. At once one half of his goods are assigned to the poor.

Four new poultry houses were built in Knott county last month. Two poultry culling demonstrations were held where culling, feeding and housing were stressed.

The Parkville Raspberry Association held a meeting and made plans to sign a cooperative contract for five years. The acreage will be in creased and plants will be set in three other communities.

A study of funds will be the major project in eight 4-H Clubs being organized by Miss Mabel McKenney McCracken county home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Edmond Major, a Christiana county 4-H Club leader, has interested club girls in a scrap-book, in which will be recorded accomplishments, travel pictures, and aspirations.

Cr Magnon People

Four skeletons were discovered in the Dordogne area of the Cr Magnon cave, near Les Eyzies, France, in 1868. They indicated that a tall people with large skulls—larger than those of modern man—had inhabited that part of the world.

Visiting the Sick

Don't laugh, joke and hold loud conversation in the room of the invalid unless he is practically well. Otherwise your trying to be funny will only make him very nervous. Be cheerful, but in a nice quiet way.

Dire Warning

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By F. O. Alexander

A Cop Should Know

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

John C. Mitchell, from across Gunpowder, was the first to deliver to Conner & Hogan a crop of new tobacco.

J. J. Berkshire had a fine day's sport fishing down on Gunpowder, a few days since, and when he went home at night he took a long string of fine bass, some of which weighed two pounds or more. He hooked some during the day that snapped his line with ease. It was the greatest day's pleasure he has had on the creek in a long time.

Ed. Clegg, of Gunpowder, one of the best humored individuals in the land, made this office a call, last Thursday. Mr. Clegg is one of the many industrious farmers of this part of the country, and has everything in shape for winter.

W. E. Vest has sold his house and lot here in town to Dr. W. O. Rouse for $1200.

Mrs. Bert Gaines has returned from a visit to Harrison county.

Hathaway

Elmore Ryle is on the sick list. Some turkeys have been sold at 7 cents per pound.

G. A. Ryle and wife spent last Sunday with Wm. Sebree and family near Woolper.

W. L. Moore is confined to his room with chills and fever. Miss Cora Quick is staying with Mrs. Dora Bannister in Union.

Limbarg

Monday was turkey day here. Snow two inches deep and thermometer registered 34, Monday morning.

Legrand and W. J. Utz sold their turkeys to William Quigley at 7 cents per pound. They averaged 14 pounds. The store had a big sale of Klondyke boots, Monday.

Otha Garnett's baby is very sick. A sack caught in Robert Ron's crusher, yesterday morning, and five several cogs out of one wheel. He was just beginning on a big day's work.

FORTY YEARS AGO

R. E. Cloud expects to eat his Thanksgiving dinner in his new residence tomorrow.

Clarence Kirkpatrick, telegrapher at Rose Lawn, Ind., is spending a short vacation at home. Clarence is making quite a success of his business, and is well liked by the company with which he is engaged. He stays closely at his post of duty.

Judge Riddell passed the 71st mile post in his journey through life Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Dempsey expect to start to California next Sunday.

John Acra, who lives down on Woolper, is quite a successful trapper, to date. He has snared over one hundred rabbits and thirty O'Possums.

Big hop at Morgan Academy tomorrow night.

Col. Bruce Henry, of Francesville, was in town Monday. The Col. was in his usual good spirits.

Constance

Geo. Rosen has purchased a fine trotter.

Captain Kottmyer has gone to Madison to look after the building of his new boat.

James Klaserer has sold his interest in the blacksmith shop to Jno. Ernst.

The Constance Building and Loan Association has declared a three per cent semi-annual dividend.

Rabbit Hash

Mrs. J. Q. A. Stephens is quite ill. C. G. Riddell is complaining, but is able to be on his feet.

Hon. J. A. Wilson, celebrated his 76th birthday on the 17th inst. He is still able to be on duty at his store every day.

Johnnie Palmer, of Big Bone, has moved to the house vacated by M. F. Morrison, and will run the blacksmith shop at that place.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Married—At the residence of the bride's mother in Kenton county, Ky., Wednesday Nov. 24th, 1880, by the Rev. H. J. Foster, of Burlington, Mr. W. L. Riddell, Editor of the Boone County Recorder, to Miss Carrie Pace, of Kenton county.

Nice sleighing last week.

Mr. John H. Smith is visiting relatives in Madison county, Virginia, the place of his birth. He has not been there for 31 years.

Bert Hume, who lives in the Hamilton district, lost his barn and about 3,000 pounds of tobacco. The fire originated from riving the tobacco.

"Which Mr. Hume was a hurry to dry Benj. Craven, of Ripley county, Indiana, is visiting his relatives in this county.

The young folks had their first skating party of the season last Saturday.

Mr. G. W. Hughes and wife, of Paris, Illinois, have been visiting Mrs. Hughes parents at this place for several days.

Florence X-Roads

John P. Utz returned home last Saturday.

Very few hogs remain to be sold about here.

Mrs. F. M. Barnett, wife of Rev. W. C. C. Barnett, died on the 19th inst. She was in the 55th year of her age. The remains were taken to Dayton, Ohio, for interment.

Belleview

Maxwell, one of our enterprising suburbs, on the south of our town, and which is being built at our factory landing, is beginning to assume form, and presents an enterprise in improvement worthy of imitation by older towns. The principal business house in the place is the mammoth tobacco warehouse erected and soon to be operated by McCullen Bros., in the handling of tobacco.

We believe that Mr. Scott Rice has the finest field of corn in the county. It has been estimated as high as 100 bushels per acre.

OBITUARY

Filmore Ryle was born in Boone County, Ky., Feb. 18, 1856, and died Nov. 7, 1930, at the age of 74 years, 8 months and 25 days.

He was a son of David and Minerva Ryle, being the 11th child in a family of 13. Of this large family there now survive but three brothers, John, Ozark and Eddie.

Filmore Ryle was married Dec. 28, 1882, to Lucy Stephens, the eldest daughter of Lewis Lunceford and Heath Stephens. To this union were born six children, the first of whom died in infancy. A son Shelby Lee, a bright and promising youth died at the age of 17 in 1922. And one daughter Heatha Ryle Kelly died in 1926, when 38 years of age. They remain to mourn the loss of a kind generous husband and father the wife, one daughter Alberta Ryle Clure and two sons Dr. Clarence Ryle, of Georgetown, Ky., and Dr. Kenneth Ryle, of Burlington, Ky., also eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Filmore Ryle was quiet and unassuming, honest, kind and generous. He was a loving and considerate husband, an unselfish and generous father, a helpful neighbor, and a friend of the poor. He was never known to fail to heed any appeal for help, after making sacrifices in order to relieve the unfortunate, generously giving aid where he felt it was needed. He was a loyal and conscientious member of the Knights of Pythias of East Bend Lodge No. 114.

He was regarded by his neighbors and all who knew him with the highest esteem, with loving devotion by his faithful wife and with respectful affection by his children, who had ever been the objects of his tenderest care. His daughter and her family were especially dear to him, all of whom were unfailing in their loving care and tender service. His two sons were a constant source of pride and joy. He had, by precept and example, by effort and sacrifice, encouraged them to develop into useful, honorable and successful men, and they had become a solace and comfort in his declining years. Included in this unusually happy and harmonious family circle were the beloved daughters-in-law, true inevitably the inexorable Reaper doth sever the tenderest earthly ties. Yet the inspiration and the loving memories will linger on.

His daily life exemplified the wisdom of Solomon, when he said: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches and loving favor rather than silver and gold."

He will be laid to rest in the East Bend cemetery beside the beloved son who had gone on before, there to await the Resurrection morn.

A Friend of the Family.

MAX F. WOLLERING MANUFACTURING DIRECTOR

William J. McAneney, president of the Hudson Motor Car Company, announces the appointment of Max F. Wollering to be manufacturing director. Wollering has established an enviable reputation as an exceptionally able manufacturing executive in important positions with several of the largest and most successful production plants in the world, specializing in automobile mechanics and production line efficiency.

His most recent connection was with the Studebaker Corporation, where successive promotions carried him to the position of vice-president in charge of manufacturing. His combined knowledge of manufacturing and economics was recognized by his appointment to membership on the finance committee. He was also director of the company.

For the past five years he has been making a world-wide survey of successful manufacturing methods used by the largest plants throughout the world. During this executive research, Wollering has striven to find an economic method of combining the high quality, but prohibitively costly, and more leisurely methods of European manufacturers and the productive methods of the United States, with a view to joining the artistry of European master-craftsmen with the American artisan who works successfully at greater speed.

The manufacturing methods in effect at Hudson-Essex, which have been cited as the closest to productive perfection by the Encyclopedia Britannica, in Wollering's opinion, lend themselves admirably to the method he has in mind to establish higher quality and better craftsmanship at even lower costs.

The appointment is in line with the traditional Hudson-Essex policy of appointing only those who have long and successful automotive experience, and who have risen from the ranks, to executive positions.

W. M. U. NOTES

The regular meeting of the Big Pon Baptist W. M. U. held their teaming Thursday Nov. 13, at the home of Mrs. G. Butler, there being 19 members present. Visitors and members amounted to a total of 25.

All spending a most enjoyable day and made arrangements for our oyster supper to be given at the church Saturday evening Nov. 29th. The menu consisting of soup, sandwiches, celery, pickles and coffee. We would certainly appreciate any one who would kindly help.

After the meeting and business we adjourned to meet with Mrs. L. Love Dec. 11, requesting that each member be present.

MRS. PAUL AYLOE, Publicity Chairman.

Shakespeare's Income

Not all of the earlier authors were as badly treated as their legions have led the public to believe. Shakespeare, for example, may have been profitable but he was not necessarily penniless. He received about 10 pounds—the equivalent of $400 today—for each of his plays, and he produced them at the rate of two a year. He also made $500 a year and more as an actor during most of his active career.—Golden Book.

Temperature Tempered

If it were not for the earth's atmosphere, with its clouds and water vapor, the sun would raise the temperature at the earth's surface about 50 degrees higher than it is.

Relieving the Weary

In older days a convenient rest was provided on a London street for packmen and peddlers. It still stands in Piccadilly near Park lane. The rest is a horizontal plank placed shoulder high on two uprights and just right for the weary peddler to back up to it to rest and shift the weight of his load.

World's Oldest Game
The oldest game in the world is dice-throwing. In some form or another, dice have existed in every period of history.

On Cutting Characters

But life cannot be made to "fit" anybody, and the novelist who makes the attempt will find himself cutting something that gets smaller and smaller, finer and finer until he must begin cutting his characters next to fit the thing he has made.—Novels and Novelists, by Katherine Mansfield.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

"60%
Egg Production
All Winter!"

"Did you get that many eggs last winter? I did. In fact, my hens do at least that well every winter. The reason is, I keep Tuxedo Eggmas before them. It's the best egg producer I've ever fed."

"Take my word for it—I know you'll like Tuxedo. And don't let the thought of price scare you—Tuxedo is really the most economical feed you can buy."

Every year Tuxedo Eggmas sets marvelous records of egg production. Feed Tuxedo for the next 6 months, and see for yourself. Formula, plus High Quality—that's the secret. Remember, it's made by Early & Daniel, the specialists in Molasses feeds. And it's made to meet your own local conditions! Come in and see us.

Police Use Airplanes

Airplanes are now a part of the equipment of the police department of Paris, and are to be used, when the necessity arises, for patrol work over the city, watching the traffic and giving notice of any threatened disturbance of the peace.

Minute That Seems a Year

A day on the newly found planet, Pluto, is the equivalent of 250 years on earth. So we imagine a Plutonian could grow a beard and raise a family while awaiting the return of the gods whose sign says, "Back in Ten Minutes."

Useful in Canning

Pectin in preserves is a substance which appears in many vegetable tissues as a constituent of the cell wall. Hard, tart, ripe apples or oranges and lemons are usually used in the making of pectin. Apples need not be peeled. The outer yellow rind of oranges or lemons is not used nor the edible fruit. The white peel is the part used.

Electrical Treatment of Soil of Little Value

There is a great difference of opinion among agricultural scientists as to the value of electricity in the cultivation of various food crops. Many English authorities claim that grain and some garden produce is quite materially speeded up so far as growth is concerned and the quality improved, by a current of electricity passing through the ground and a network of wires suspended above the growing crops. A Finland farmer reports an increase of 50 per cent in the amount of produce and grain grown in this manner. The United States Agricultural department has been experimenting with the subject for years and the final conclusion is that no benefit or at least very little has resulted from the electrical treatment of the soil. In fact it was noticed that a slightly prolonged exposure resulted in killing the seed placed in the ground.

This conclusion is agreed in by some other authorities so that the preponderance of opinion is that the electrical treatment of soil is without result—Exchange.

Foreman of New Mexico

Jury Was Magnanimous
The defendant was charged with murder in the first degree. He had been tried and convicted by a jury of 12 men.

As provided under the laws of the state of New Mexico, the jury was polled. Of the dozen citizens composing that august body only one had knowledge of the English language. He had been elected foreman.

To the question, "Is this your individual verdict?" the foreman's reply was an emphatic "Yes, sir." The eleven others, upon being asked the same question, answered "Si, senor."

Immediately after the last "Si, senor" had been recorded the foreman rose and addressed the judge. "In the interests of harmony," said the foreman, "and to make this verdict unanimous, I desire to change my vote from 'Yes, sir' to 'Si, senor.'"

Woman's Long Fast

When Madame Hanau a short time ago completed her hunger strike of 28 days in a French prison, Scotland came forward with the assertion that the feat was by no means a record, and that it had been exceeded several times in Scotland. It cited a case in 1772 which became known as "Pennant's Fasting Woman of Ross-shire," from the fact that Pennant described it in his "Tour of Scotland."

Katharine McLeod, aged thirty-five, was attacked with a fever, which occasioned partial blindness, and almost total inability to take food. Her parents sometimes put a little into her mouth, but for a year and three-quarters they had no evidence that either food or drink passed her lips. By forcibly opening her mouth and depressing her tongue, they tried to compel the passage of food, but this suffocating constriction led them to desist.

When Mind Works Best

Here you ever tried to terminate at what time of day your mind works best? A scientific test with office workers indicates it is the second hour of the morning. Many nervous persons find to their dismay that their brain is most active when they are trying to go to sleep. Probably only a few have the experience of Sir Walter Scott, the novelist, whose observation on the subject are republished in the Golden Book.

"The half hour between waking and rising has all my life proved propitious to any task which was exercising my invention," Scott wrote. "When I get over any knotty difficulty in a story, or have had to fill up a passage in a poem, it was always when I first opened my eyes that the desired ideas thronged to me."

His Remuneration

The well-known Mr. Williams, author and economist, would have been delighted with a view of the jungle ambition, and to some extent of capitalistic oppression on State street recently.

Cleaning the sidewalk outside a candy store on the corner of State and Hancock streets, a youngster, hardly out of the stage of natural bowed legs, was sweeping with a broom, so large in comparison with him, that he scarcely reached above the brush.

"How much are you getting?" said a passerby.

"An ice cream cone," lisped the sweeper.—Springfield Union.

Salt Tax Is Old One

Modern Europe, it is commonly believed, inherited the salt tax from the Orient, or possibly from the Venetians who became noted makers and vendors of the pepperbush commodity.

France had vast natural stores of it, and was among the first nations of the western world to tax it. That resented impost, the gabelle du sel, or tribute of salt, was one of the causes of the French revolution, so heavily did the peasant have to pay the kings for a little seasoning in his pot.

Too Careless

Mary Emma noted that her older sister was thinking profoundly, and asked what was the matter.

"Oh, I can't remember where the Appalachians are," her sister replied.

"Well," said Mary Emma with great dignity, "that's just what you get for misplacing things."

Origin of Some Names of Garments Now Common

"Coat" comes from the word that formerly meant a frock as well, the same word being found in the Italian "cofra," a short surplice worn by the clergy. "Frock" is from a Latin word meaning a shaggy cloak. "Skirt" comes from the same word as "shirt."

"Trousers" is from the French "trouser," to tuck or fasten up. "Boot" is connected with the Italian "Gotta," a hollow shoe. "Sock" comes from "soccus," a kind of shoe originally worn by Roman comic actors, and "stocking" is from a Teutonic word, "stocck," the stump of a tree—hence, a covering for the "stumps," or legs! "Jacket" is from "Jaque," a coat of mail. "Jerseys" were made from yarn spun in Jersey. "Tie" is from a Latin word, "trahere," meaning "to pull" or "draw"—the clothes being once a treasured item of military "toot." "Beret" is derived from "brette," the black cap worn by clergymen and French lawyers. "Calico" came from Calicut, in India. "Serge" is from the Latin "serice," silk, so called because they were made by the seras, or inhabitants of China. "Muslin" is said to get its name from Mosul, Turkey, where it was first made. "Marcelin" traces its origin to Maroon—French for Morocco. "Tweed" was originally "tweel," but its association with the river Tweed led to its being given (readily mistakingly) its present name.

"Police Force" Keeping Insect Pests in Check

For a good many years now science has been fighting insect armies, and, curiously enough, amongst its most potent weapons are insects themselves.

It has been found that there is hardly an insect which is not preyed upon by some other. Nature has, in fact, evolved a kind of insect police force, which keeps marauders from becoming too numerous. The greenfly, which does so much damage to roses, has a powerful foe in the larva of the ladybird, while ichneumon flies serve to keep devastations of caterpillars within bounds.

But this police force is not always adequate, and science is engaged in the production of flying squads. Whenever a plague of obnoxious insects is noticed in any part of the empire, others which are known to prey upon the pests are bred in large numbers at an insect zoo in Hertfordshire village and are sent out to do battle.

Policeman insects have already been sent to Australia, New Zealand, Canada, India, Africa, and the West Indies, and every year the flying squad of the scientists is waging more and more relentless war upon insect robbers and pirates in all parts of the world.—London Tit-Bits.

United States Mails

The Post Office department says that mail is dropped in the box, picked up by the collector, and placed on the facing table in the post office. It is then picked up with all the stamps arranged according to the size of the envelope and run through the cancelling machine. The mail is then taken to a primary distribution case and there assorted into various boxes; then taken to a state case where it is distributed according to offices in the state and tied on in bundles according to train schedules. When it reaches the office to which it is addressed it is distributed by clerks to routes in the city by numbers, each number representing a city carrier. The city carrier on his next trip delivers the mail to the street address of the party addressed.

Pharaoh's Curse in Garage

Centuries before Socrates drank the hemlock men knew that anyone shut in a small room with a brazier of burning charcoal would be taken out dead. Even savages knew as they know now, that because of some terrible poison—the oldest known to mankind—safe fires are to be built only at the mouths of caves and not in the unventilated depths. We now recognize the poison to be carbon monoxide, and its presence in long-unopened caves or tombs probably explains the mysterious deaths of early excavators and tomb robbers, and may be responsible, it has been suggested, for the legends of Pharaoh's curse.—E. E. Free in the Forum.

Nineteenth Amendment

Wyoming was the pioneer suffrage state. It legalized the voting of women in 1890 and carried the provision into its state constitution when admitted in 1890.

Women of 12 states voted in the Presidential election of 1900. These states were Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, California, Arizona, Kansas, Oregon, Nevada, Montana and Illinois. On August 20, 1920, the United States secretary of state proclaimed the Nineteenth amendment in effect, it having been ratified between June 10, 1919, and August 18, 1920, by three-quarters of the states.

Defining Lobbyist

The following are among the prize-winning definitions of a lobbyist submitted to the Forum in a recent contest: A lobbyist is one who uses his political influence with members of a legislative body in order to secure the passage of measures which will be of benefit to him or to the interests he represents. A lobbyist is one who by persuasion, argument or artifice seeks to influence the thoughts and actions of a government body for the benefit of private or public interests.—Washington Star.

Few modern city children have ever seen a runaway horse and, in the apartments in which they live, daddy can't explain it to them.—Arkansas Gazette.

Mistake of Languages
"Africans" is the name given to the language spoken and written by the descendants of Dutch, French and German colonists who settled in South Africa prior to the British occupation of 1900. It is also known as Cape Dutch Afrikaans, developed from the Seventeenth-century dialects of the province of Holland.

Desire for Knowledge

Most men want knowledge, not for itself, but for the superiority which knowledge confers.—Smith.

Fault and Friendship

"Reprove not the fault of a friend," said Tit. Ho, the sage of Chinatown. Were he devoid of fault, he might prove too proud for simple friendship.—Washington Star.

HETHA ANN STEPHENS

Let us believe there is a balm for every heart that grieves. That somewhere, night turns to morning. Beautiful with light.

Hetha Ann Stephens, a daughter of Hiram and Harriett Brady Stephens, was born in Cass county, Missouri, May 6, 1850. She was married to Louis Lunsford Stephens Dec. 21, 1865. To this union were born six daughters, Lucy Ryle, Nettie Stephens, Vida Stephens, Dessie Ryle, Harriett Aylor and Bennie Clore. Two of the daughters, Mrs. Harriett Aylor and Mrs. Nettie Stephens and two infant sons preceded their mother in death.

Mrs. Stephens became a member of the First Baptist Church during the ministry of the Rev. Freau (Fre) and to this confession of her faith remained sincere during her entire life. Mrs. Stephens became a widow five years ago, but maintained her home which for so many years had been a haven of loving hospitality to her devoted family and extended circle of friends. During all of her life she had enjoyed giving loving service to those who needed her care. Many there are today whose first cry was hushed on her breast, many others have passed on who received their last ministrations from her tender hands. And this, this confluence of friends today is a testimony of how her life has touched others. Those of us who have only learned to know her during her late years are impressed that she was "just a dear old lady" who had kept sweet during life's trials and tribulations, and this in itself is sufficient recompense for a life well spent, realizing that in giving her love and service she has brought to herself a golden sunset.

"Mammy" Stephens, as we affectionately called her, passed peacefully away Wednesday evening, Nov. 12th, having reached life's normal span and stayed on for ten years in which to lovingly dispense the sweetness of her bright personality. She is leaving her four daughters, the grandchildren, several great-grandchildren and one great, great grandchild, which last relation only few survive to know.

There are stars that go out in the darkness. But those silver light shines on. There are roses whose perfume still lingers. When the blossoms are faded and gone. There are hearts full of light and of sweetness. When no longer their life-current flows. Still their goodness lives on with the living.

Like the souls of the star and the rose.

CARD OF THANKS

If we fail to express our personal thanks, we wish through this publication to extend our appreciation to all who with sympathy and kindness have rendered service during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Hetha Stephens, and in this way, made our sorrow more easily borne.

Frescoes and Furniture

Excavations at Pompeii have brought to light several important objects. A three-legged marble table, the top of which is missing, is one particularly interesting piece. Students have advanced the theory that this table was at one time the property of Cato, one of the murderers of Julius Caesar. The three legs are each in the form of a lion's leg, surmounted by a lion's head and on the top of each head is a square block, on which the actual table top rested. In fact, on the surface of each of the three resting blocks is carved the word "Cato." This enterprising Cato used to have a house in Pompeii, although students present at the time of the discovery are not certain that this was the house in front of which the table was found. Yet it is not improbable, noted archeologists say, that the table was purchased by some other patrician living at Pompeii and brought there from Rome. Beautiful frescoes adorning the interior of the house have kept their colors so vividly that today visitors may admire, for instance, on one side of a doorway Narcissus seated and at the other side a representation of Pyramus and Thisbe.

Characters That Live in World's Literature

Frequently in the world's literature a character wholly imaginary becomes so well known as to give his name to the language. Such a character is Rodomont (the Italian significance of the name being "one who rolls away mountains"), from which, according to Webster's New International dictionary, we get our useful word rodomontado, which means "valuing boasting, empty bluster or vaunting, rant."

Rodomont is a Moorish hero and warrior—brave, boastful, and fierce. He figures prominently as the king of Algiers in the works of two Italian poets of the fifteenth century, namely, in the "Orlando Innamorato" (Enamored) of Boiardo and in the "Orlando Furioso" (Mad) of Ariosto. A parallel example from English literature is Braggadocio, the personification of vain boasting in Edmund Spenser's famous masterpiece, "The Faerie Queene," from which, sometimes having two days, Braggadocio, which means "empty boasting, mere brag, pretension."

Westinghouse Memorial The memorial to George Westinghouse, inventor, is in Schenley park, Pittsburgh. The main part of the memorial, a bronze statue, was created by Daniel Chester French. It rises 20 feet from a Norwegian granite base and depicts a figure of the subject. At his sides are two figures, representing a skilled workman and an engineer. Facing this group is the figure of an American youth studying the achievements. The setting for the memorial was designed by Henry Hornbostel of Pittsburgh. The Picarilli brothers of New York constructed the models of the units for casting. The six panels, portraying the achievements of Mr. Westinghouse, were designed by Paul Fjelid. Subscriptions of employees of the Westinghouse industries in the United States and Canada made the memorial possible.

Federalists Gathered in

Fee's Last Silk Dress Captive balloons for observation purposes were used chiefly by the Union army during the first two years of the Civil war. Gen. Fitz John Porter made over a hundred ascensions. Count Von Zeppelin was a balloon observer with the Union army. A Confederate general writing in "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War" refers to the poverty which denied balloons to that side, except one patchwork ship made from silk dresses gathered up. "We had no gas except in Richmond and it was the custom to inflate the balloon there. It is securely fastened to the ground by a rope. The York River railroad to any point at which we desired to send it up. One day it was on a steamer down the James when the tide went out and left vessel and balloon high and dry on a bar. The Federalists gathered it in and with it the last silk dress in the Confederacy." The Zouave regiments that served in that war wore the brilliant uniform of the French colonials with feez, baggy trousers and a predominance of red.

Petulance Displayed by

Central American Tree A curious tree known as the "angry tree," grows in Central America. This tree, which is a species of acacia, grows to the height of about ten feet. At night the foliage of the tree curls up into strange coils, and if the tree is then touched, all the smaller branches begin to shake just as if the tree was thoroughly annoyed. S. Leonard Bastin writes, in St. Nicholas Magazine.

The angry tree was first noticed by some prospectors. In making a camp for the night, these men spread a blanket over a branch of the tree, which had curled its foliage for the night. At once the branch began to shake in a most uncanny way, and at the same time a most pungent odor was emitted. This was so powerful that the men were simply forced to move their camp to another position.

Chinese Bride Wears Crown

The wedding ceremony in China varies with the locality, but, generally speaking, it is a rather prolonged affair, sometimes lasting two days. More attention seems to be paid to the selection of the day than anything else and many things are taken into consideration before the date is finally fixed. The day must be a "lucky" one. There is no giving and taking or making of any pledges or promises. That is all taken for granted. In most of the provinces for the wedding garb and veil with a gorgeous crown and a lot of gewgaws. The two-day period is given up largely to feasting, but during the whole proceedings the bride does little but look on. The rule of feminine propriety requires that she should preserve modest silence throughout.

Snobbish Folly

The late Andrew Schroeder, the official rat catcher of Houston, who carried his wonderful rat-catching secret with him to the grave, was proud of his trade, and liked to tell story about the folly of snobbishness. "I knew a city missionary," he would say, "who invited a famous missionary bishop to dine at his stium residence and meet two local celebrities, a garbage collector and a rat catcher."

"Well, the bishop accepted the invitation gladly, and the rat catcher said that he too would be delighted, but the garbage collector spoiled the party. He must refuse, he said, to sit down with a rat catcher."

Ruminating Animals

The cow is not the only animal that ruminates or "chews the cud"; the class of ruminants includes also sheep, goats, camels, llamas, giraffes and deer. In all of these animals the stomach is divided into several compartments. The food is swallowed hastily and passes to the first or second compartment. Later when the animal is resting it is able to bring back this "cud" into the mouth for further chewing. After a thorough mastication, this is swallowed again and passes to the third and fourth sections of the stomach for assimilation. The rabbit does not belong to this family of animals.

Lenient French Justice

Terrible cruelty to an aged father was charged against three peasant sisters named Merdier at Le Pey-en-Velay in central France. It was stated that the father had refused to share his property with his three daughters, who confined him in the kitchen, and employed such brutal methods in an effort to force his submission, and make him sign the deed giving them the property, that he died as the result. The eldest was given only a year's imprisonment, however, and the other two were dismissed.

Keeping the Secret

"Darling," said the elderly happily married man, "I'm going to give you such a surprise for your birthday."

"Henry," she exclaimed wondering, "do tell me what it is?"

He took her in his arms.

"I'm going to give you a ten-dollar bill for each year of your life."

"Henry," she cried happily, "that is wonderful of you!" And then sadly:

"But don't let anyone see the checks."

Bitter Comment on the Passing of George IV "The remains of what once was George IV have now undergone the process of internment," said an article in the London Times a century ago, reprinted by the Desert News. We have been charged with two offenses diametrically opposite, in behavior toward the late king. One set of accusers will have it that we persecute his memory with the same hostile spirit with which we assailed his living reputation. Another party reproaches us with mean sympathy to the living, and still mean malignity towards the defunct prince. It might be sufficient for us to state those inconsistent calumnies, and leave them to neutralize each other; but we disdain to shelter ourselves by such an evasion, and we give the fittest contradiction to them both.

"The truth is, however—and it speaks volumes about the man—that there never was an individual less regretted by his fellow-creatures than this deceased king. What eye has wept for him? What heart has heaved one throb of unmercenary sorrow? Was there at any time a gorgeous pageant on the stage more completely forgotten than he has been, even from the day on which the lament was proclaimed his successor? Has not that successor gained more upon the English tastes and prepossessions of his subjects, by the blunt and unaffected—even should it be grotesque—cordiality of his demeanour, within a few short weeks, than George IV—that Levathan of the bant too—ever did during the 53 years of his existence?"

Sixteenth-Century Tale

Popular With Writers Faust and Faustus are different names of the same name, and, according to tradition, the bearer of the name was a famous magician of the sixteenth century, a native of Sualia, an ancient duchy of Germany. A rich uncle having left Faust a fortune, he ran to every excess. He made a pact with the devil, (who assumed the name of Mephistopheles and the appearance of a little gray monk), that if he might indulge in his propensities freely for 24 years, he would at the end of that period (coupled to the devil both body and soul). The compact terminated in 1550, when Faust disappeared. His sweetheart was Margherita (Margaret), and his faithful servant was Wagner. The German poet, Goethe, has a dramatic poem entitled "Faust," produced in 1788, and Gounod, the composer, an opera called "Faust et Margherita," produced in 1859. The English dramatist, Marlowe, who lived in Shakespeare's time, wrote a tragedy based on the same tradition.

Moon's Phases

The moon has no light of its own to give out but shines entirely by reflected light. Its phases depend on its position relative to the earth and the sun. When it is between, or nearly between, the earth and the sun, its unilluminated side is toward the earth and then its phase is new. A week after this, the moon is in the south when the sun is setting, its western half is illuminated and its phase is first quarter. In another week the moon is at its greatest angular distance from the sun and the full moon rises as the sun sets, the whole face of the moon turned toward the earth being illuminated by the sun. A week after this, the moon is in the south as the sun rises, with its eastern side illuminated and the phase is third quarter.

Landmarks

It had been a very convivial reunion dinner, and when the time came for the guests to depart Smith and Jones found that their last train to the suburbs had gone, and they were faced with a five-mile walk home. About an hour later, just as they had passed a church which had chimed out the hour of two, Smith broke a long silence.

"Does your wife miss you when you are late on such occasions as this?" he asked.

"Very seldom," his friend replied. "There are still two large lumps on the back of my head where she hit me the last time."—London Answers.

Low Barometer Pressure

The weather bureau says that one of the lowest authentic barometer pressures recorded in recent years was in connection with the hurricane of September, 1928. As the storm passed over Porto Rico a reading of 27.35 (reduced to sea level) was recorded on September 13 at 3 p. m. at Yabucoa, on the southeast coast of Porto Rico. Other records of exceptionally low barometer readings in the centers of hurricanes may be cited: Havana, Cuba, October 10, 1846, 27.06; False Point, India, September 22, 1855, 27.15; Tananan, Philippine Islands, October 12, 1897, 27.32; and Guam, Pacific, November 13, 1900, 27.30.

Pluto Planet Is Deliberate

Conversations and calculations of the complete orbit of Pluto places the new member of our planetary family as the most distant from the sun and the slowest in its revolution. It requires 90 years for Pluto to complete its orbit around the sun. This is nearly a century longer than Neptune, Pluto's oldest neighbor, which requires 165 years for one circuit. Pluto's orbit will bring it nearest our globe 58 years from now. In 1958 the new luminary will be distant 30 astronomical units of about 3,000,000 miles.

Light Wares Mariner

One of the most famous lighthouses to the world recently celebrated its jubilee. A slim white pillar, known to nearly all sailors, rises out of the sea fourteen miles from Plymouth, England. This is the Eddystone Lighthouse, or, rather, the fourth Eddystone lighthouse. For more than two hundred years, the light from this beacon has safeguarded mariners during the night against the treacherous reef which is its foundation, and which lies directly in the track of vessels entering and leaving the English channel. The first of the lighthouses erected on this reef was a queer affair. It was a tower that looked like a cross between a Chinese pagoda and a Turkish minaret. The outer walls were circled with wide galleries, and were ornamented with painted sails, wooden canopies, weather vanes, and strange gables. The tall candles in this wooden lantern were lit for the first time in November, 1698. For four years this queer structure withstood the onslaught of wind and sea. Then one fateful night a terrific hurricane swept away the lighthouse and its occupants. The present lighthouse was designed by Sir James Douglas, and its first stone was laid August 19, 1870.

Oldest and Costliest

Perfume Is Rose Attar Attar of rose is described in pharmacopoeias as the oil distilled from the petals of the damask rose (Rosa Damascena).—It is employed mainly in pharmacy for perfumeing lotions and medicinal washes, but has a certain reputation in the treatment of painful eye affections, being astringent, like most vegetable substances.

It requires two hundred pounds of almost feather weight rose petals to produce one ounce of attar of rose, so it is any wonder that the perfume in its quaint eastern phials, covered with quotations from the Koran, costs anything up to five pounds sterling a fluid ounce?

Persia and Turkey produce most of the attar of commerce. India has lost the monopoly, as she has lost the monopoly of cinchona (quinine) and opium, much to the benefit of other countries. Rose water itself is a far older perfume. It is referred to by Nicander in B. C. 100, and the Mohammedan pharmacists, although they introduced its use into Europe, undoubtedly learned it from India, as they learned many other secrets of medicine and pharmacy.—Montreal Family Herald.

Somewhat Hasty

Biggott looked up from his massive glass-topped table, and glared at the intruder.

"Well, what do you want?" he rapped out.

The young salesman coughed diffidently.

"Well—eh—sir, I came to see if I could interest you—if you needed—one of our—"

"Can't be done," snapped the other. "I've got three already."

The salesman's eyes goggled, but he went.

Alone, Biggott smiled at his own cleverness. Then his eye caught the card the other had left on the table, and he picked it up. Dark was his brow as he read, "Stickhem's Artificial Limbs. Consult our sales representative for cork legs, etc."

Beekeeping's History

At the eleventh international conference of the Apis club, held in London, Miss A. D. Betts, in her presidential address, recapitulated the history of beekeeping, showing how it appears to have attained its maximum of national importance among the worshippers of the mother-goddess in Neolithic or Bronze age times.

It has gradually fallen to its low status of a century ago through the loss of its religious standing, and by the economic difficulties caused by the substitution of other beverages for mead, the diminution of the wax market at the Reformation and especially through the effects of the use of sugar upon the demand for honey.—Nature Magazine.

Artificial Sunshine

Imitation sunlight, shining through false windows to approximate further the effect of real daylight, has been found to speed up the production of night workers, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Experiments in London by the national physical laboratory showed that the eyes are more at home under conditions as nearly as possible like natural daylight, and that better vision resulted in better work. A comparison of the hourly output of night clerks in offices working under ordinary artificial lights and under artificial sunshine showed a distinct balance in favor of the latter. Coloring of the light to approximate the sun's rays was found to be the most essential condition.

Poultry on Parade

The largest poultry plant in the world, operated at Reseda, Calif., says more than 1,000,000 hens were sent into incubators a week on average here. The statistically minded can calculate that if these 2,000,000 chickens were marching in a line a foot apart the parade would extend more than 90 miles. This company now uses the poultry inspection service of the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Chairman Legge of Farm Body "Doesn't fit Job" Says Holmes

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

(By Fred Holmes)
Washington Correspondent for The Boone County Recorder

WASHINGTON—A square peg will not fit in a round hole, but that is no reflection upon the peg.

Cyrus Hall McCormick gave his name to machines which revolutionized farm industry and perpetuated that name throughout the agricultural world. But except for his inventive genius it is doubtful if he was a greater man in his line than Alexander Legge.

Not only was Mr. Legge a great man in the agricultural machinery field but he was very much a man in his human relations.

There is no doubt that Mr. Legge accepted the call from Washington at a very great personal and financial sacrifice, nor is there any doubt that he did so in the hope and belief that he could render valuable service to his Government and to the farmers with whom he had been doing business for a long time. And in view of his remarkably successful career Washington had great faith that he could be relied upon to carry into the Farm Board the same productive rumen that made him the head of the International Harvester Co.; that he would carry out the Administration's plans for paternalistic economic uplift of the farmer.

As a private citizen in business life Mr. Legge was experienced, skillful, formal, sound and successful. But farm relief seems to have been a round hole and Mr. Legge a square peg. No one can doubt that he was a proficient business mechanic, but apparently an expert knowledge of reaping and binding machines is not much of a help when it comes to making the farm-relief machine work. Furthermore, economists assure us that business and speculation do not mix. "Old Hutch," Joe Leiter and Ogden Armour, each with millions back of him had his fling at bucking the law of supply and demand in the wheat pit, and it is not recorded that in any instances the law came out second best. Maybe the United States Government is rich enough to become a philanthropic speculator, but so far its experiment along this line has been costly and apparently a woeful fizzle.

On April 76, 1929, in his message to the special session of Congress called to consider the question of farm relief, President Hoover said: "No government agency should engage in the buying and selling and price-fixing of products, for such courses can lead only to bureaucracy and domination." A few weeks later Mr. Hoover signed a bill creating the Federal Farm Board which today through its stabilization corporations, holds some 70,000,000 bushels of wheat all bought with government funds in an effort to advance prices. As recently as last July Mr. Legge announced that the Federal Farm Board did not propose to buy any more wheat—that it was "out of the market." Now he confirms the report to the effect that the Grain Stabilization Corporation had again been a purchaser, justifying this reversal of the board's policy by the statement that the buying was for the purpose of preventing "panicky selling," and unwarranted declines in domestic wheat prices.

The entry of the Farm Board into the commodity markets as a purchaser is almost sure to end in a loss to the government with appreciable profit to the farmer uncertain at best. Where is it to find a market for the store of wheat it holds and continues to acquire? So long as production exceeds or even keeps pace with demand, Government wheat cannot be dumped on the domestic market in any considerable volume without forcing prices down and injuring the farmers. There is little probability of selling wheat abroad at higher prices. How, when and where does the Farm Board expect to dispose of its increasing holdings?

Probably for the first time in history every political utterance heard or read in Washington today, whether emanating from members of Congress, party spokesmen, government officials, the press or private citizens, whether the discussion relates to party coalition, what the lame-duck session of Congress will do or leave undone, interpretation of election results, prohibition, confirmation of appointees or the threatened special session after March 4, is qualified by the big little word "IF." Everything seems to depend upon what will happen in the forthcoming lame-duck session, and the whole situation at this time is so nebulous that even professional guessers are at a loss.

IF the suggested coalition becomes a reality, the emergency and relief bills will be passed without delay IF there is no recalcitrant filibustering. IF the Wickersham crime commission pronounces national prohibition a failure, Volsteadism is doomed IF President Hoover puts his stamp of approval on the report in his message to Congress, and Senator Fess, chairman of the Republican National Committee, will resign IF he doesn't experience a change of heart, and conclude that after all Republicans need not be read out of the party IF they do not openly espouse the bone-dry cause. And IF the old Congress fails to accomplish in 71 working days what would ordinarily require about two years, and new Congress will have to be called in special session IF emergency legislation is related to the tail-end of the list. Call one of a special session is preferable upon the largest number of the best IFs and has been an absorbing topic of conversation in political circles here.

What are the objections to a special session? The principle objection is the feeling of the business community that Congress can do nothing to assist the recovery, and might, in the highly political atmosphere which will exist, do much to harass the aching nerves of business men. The Administration, besides its natural distaste for the hazing in store for it when the uncontrollable Congress meets, has staked everything on the business recovery. It must hope and pray for that, not only in the public interest but also in the interest of the Republican party.

On the other hand, the Democrats not only desire a business revival in the public interest, but are naturally averse to taking the slightest responsibility if it is delayed. That they have no program for the restoration of prosperity is not to their discredit for no politician has, and in the present state of economic science and public sentiment no politician can have such a program. However, even if the Democrats had a program they lack the working majority to put it into effect. Therefore, they too have the best of reasons for not wishing a special session.

Thought to be inevitable a few days ago, it is now becoming increasingly apparent that there is hardly a chance that the Congress elected November 4 will be called in extra session after its term is begun, next March. Not only are the Republican regulars in both Senate and House opposed to the call, but as the Democratic Senators return to the Capital, or are heard from, it becomes evident that some of them are quite as much concerned over avoiding the assembling of the new Congress before December, 1931, its constitutional date of meeting, as are their political adversaries. They deprecate the declarations of James Hamilton Lewis and other Democratic Senators elect in favor of it.

No statement of the views of President Hoover on the subject has appeared other than the President's announcement that assurances he had received from both Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate showed that reports that an extra session would be forced through filibustering tactics in the short session were without foundation.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

(Taken by The Helm News Service)

The White House Conference on Child Health and Protection which President Hoover addressed at its opening session this week is the outgrowth of a movement instituted by him a few months after he assumed office. A great engineer with a great affection for children is likely to do something for them if the opportunity comes his way. President Hoover, with his well-known liking for boys and girls, was bound to attempt measures for the protection, conservation and improvement of the young lives whose course will coincide with that of this nation in coming years.

The wisdom of his heart is fully backed by the intelligence of his mind, and the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection will have the interest and support of every mother and father and every friend of children.

According to the latest rumors in circulation here, President Hoover will continue to embrace the dry side of the prohibition issue on the theory that the law deserves further trial and will be supported in this stand by a majority report of the Wickersham commission. The rumors are backed by the fact that the Wickersham commission has eliminated repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment from its deliberations, that Mr. Hoover is convinced the next Republican convention will have a good-sized dry majority of delegates, regardless of the Eastern wets, and that between coming out for some alteration of the Volstead act and standing pat Mr. Hoover is under heavy pressure from the dries to choose the latter course.

In announcing a program for filibustering for the lame-duck session of Congress which is to convene in December, Senator Brookhart says he speaks for most of the Republican insurgent group as well as himself. His legislative schedule, partly good and partly bad, includes the Norris lame-duck resolution, the Norris bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals, the farm debentures plan, anti-labor injunction legislation and liberal appropriations for federal aid in road building. Unless all this is attended to after his desires, he and others will favor an extra session, which President Hoover would be compelled to call if protracted and obstructive debate of these measures prevented the passage of supply bills.

Speculation concerning the forthcoming report on prohibition by the Wickersham Commission continues to enlist much public attention. Last week it was stated in "well-informed circles" that the commission was opposed to repeal and also to any Government dispensary system, but was divided on the question of some modification of present restrictions. According to later word from "authentic sources," the majority believes that prohibition has not had a fair and complete test and a further trial will be recommended. It is also said that the commission stands seven to four for some modification of the Volstead act, while favoring the present general plan of enforcement.

Congress, when it meets December 1, must have its style "co-operation" clothes on if there is to be avoided a special session of the Seventy-second Congress in the spring. Enough "fighting" subjects are due to come before the Congress, in one form or another, to swamp the three months' short session, which closes March 4.

Regardless of whether the Republicans or Democrats gain initial control of the next House of Representatives, the speakership will be in constant peril. Although it has never been done, the Speaker may be removed at any time by a majority of the members, and a successor elected. In view of the close balance between the parties in the House at the Seventy-second Congress—now standing at 218 Republicans and 212 Democrats, with 1 Farmer-Labor—leaders on both sides are giving close study to the possibilities.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

ASTHMA

The picture of a suffering asthmatic is most striking. The patient cannot lie down; he sits up, leaning slightly forward, breaths laboriously, sweats cold, clammy drops, can talk with great difficulty. The attack may simulate death, though not as a rule dangerous at the time. The family physician will be able to tell whether it is labored breathing of heart disease, or whether the patient has serious kidney disorder. True asthma is of bronchial origin, and attacks when the patient is run-down from worry, or from some hidden diseased process. Changes of season may induce asthmatic attacks.

I was called "on the run" to see my first asthmatic, whom his companions thought was dying young enough—a fat old German who himself was frightened within an inch of his life; I gave him three or four deep whiffs of chloroform, which stopped the attack almost instantly—and it made for me a reputation as if I had performed a miracle. This attack was due to spasmodic contraction of the lesser bronchial passages, on a damp, chilly evening; the chloroform at once stopped the spasm, and breathing returned to normal.

A point that determines the true asthmatic state is, the patient inhales quickly and easily, but he cannot exhale; the air gets out of the lung with great difficulty and slowly; the sufferer feels that his lungs will burst from air in them which cannot get out!

Of course, a physician should be called for the asthmatic sufferer; there is no valuable "family remedy," though certain leaves, burned in a metal plate, give off a smoke which is often effectual in quieting the spasm and drying up the load of mucous exudate which lines the tubes. Such "cures" do not remove the cause, of course—that is left for the doctor to combat.

A hypo of morphine and atropine usually diminishes the attack, but is a habit former. The asthmatic should carry tablets of "Luminal" and use as the physician directs.

COLLEGE REVIEWS

LIVESTOCK OUTLOOK

Prospective supplies of hogs for next year indicate higher prices than those which have prevailed this year, especially if demand conditions improve, says the department of markets and rural finance of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

In seasons of short corn crops a much larger than usual percentage of hogs is marketed in the fall months, which tends to make hogs scarce the following spring. With the relative low prices of feed the corn-hog ratio is now higher than it has been since last March, and higher than during the fall of either 1928 or 1929.

Cattle feeders have two factors in their favor, continues the statement. These are feed prices in relation to beef prices, and stocker and feeder prices in relation to fat cattle prices. Fewer cattle so far this fall have been shipped to the feed lots in the corn belt than in 12 years, which would indicate a shortage of fed cattle later in the year.

The shipment of feeding lambs in to the 11 corn belt states for the months of July to September, inclusive, were 23 per cent less than for the three months in 1929, and 20 per cent less than the five-year average movement. The October movement, however, increased and was larger than a year ago. Feeder lamb prices were low in relation to fat lamb prices.

Fall poultry receipts have almost equalled demand, and as a consequence storage stocks have been little reduced. Prices have fluctuated sharply, but generally have tended down, although consumption continues good.

Butterfat prices are lower than year ago, but prices of farm products in general are down. Concentrated feed prices now are lower than for several years, and as a consequence the relation between them and butterfat prices still is favorable to dairy farmers.

FARMER FEEDS WHEAT WITH GOOD RESULTS

C. A. Meeks, a Carroll county farmer, fattened 100-pound hogs on wheat at a cost of approximately 5 1/2 cents a pound gain in weight. The wheat cost 91 cents a bushel and was ground on the farm. It was fed in a self-feeder. Daily gains averaged almost 2 pounds per pig. Six meetings which County Agent Clyde Watts held to discuss rations were attended by 2,000 farmers.

A ration suggested by County Agent H. R. Forkner made a profit of $3 per hog for S. B. Sleet, a Boone county farmer, when he expected to lose money because of the high price of corn. Last July Mr. Sleet had 52 hogs but no corn. Mr. Forkner suggested a ration of corn, middlings, tankage, linseed and cotton seed meal, fed in a self-feeder.

AVOID ARGUING AT THE TABLE

Don't get excited and start an argument about politics, religion, or other controversial subjects during the meal, says Miss Florence Inlay, in a new extension circular of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, entitled, "The Family Meal Hour." A list of 13 points in good table manners to teach children and the part of the circular dealing with hints to guests should be read by many men and at least a few women. The circular discusses sociability at the table, table setting, table service, serving the meal, but service, afternoon teas, decorations, manners and other subjects. Copies of the circular may be obtained from county and home demonstration agents or by writing to the College at Lexington. Ask for circular No. 235.

"Karnak has done me such a wonderful amount of good that I believe every rheumatic sufferer should give it a trial.

"No one will ever know the tortures I have gone through with rheumatism during the past three years. I ached all over. At night the pains were so great that I walked the floor and lay position out in the middle of the night to go to the doctor for a hypodermic I tried every thing in an effort to get relief. Even serum treatments failed to help me. My relief finally came when a friend advised me to try Karnak. To my surprise this medicine went right to the roots of my trouble, and brought complete relief. Every ache and pain has disappeared, and I am now in condition to resume active duties once more, thanks to Karnak."

WHY SACRIFICE?

Every family wants to provide a suitable tribute for their loved one. Yet to go beyond their means is indeed false pride.

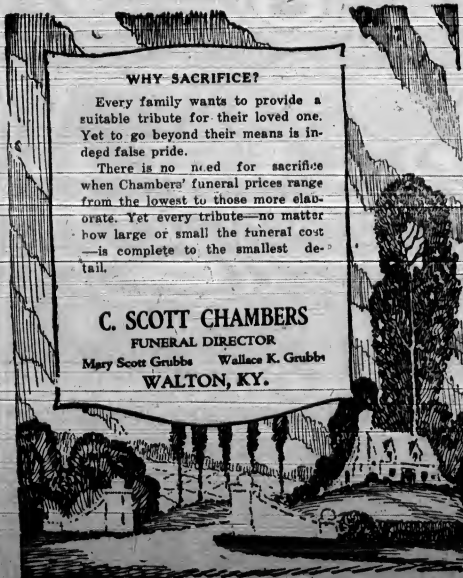

There is no need for sacrifice when Chambers' funeral prices range from the lowest to those more elaborate. Yet every tribute—no matter how large or small the funeral cost—is complete to the smallest detail.

Mammoth Fighting Fish

Put Up Hot Contests

Meet Mr. Wat Chant Air Bopier, two inches of forked and flailing lightning, famed fighting minnow of Siam. This ferocious though diminutive fish lay immersed in a bowl in the New York aquarium, the object of admiration of a huge crowd, according to a report in Time, the News-magazine.

In Siam, fish fighting occupies much the same place that cock fighting once did in the United States. In each of Bangkok's ten halls there are several tables about which are grouped seats for spectators. When the audience is ready, two bowls, each containing a contestant, are placed on a table. A fight is guaranteed if they charge at one another and pump their noses on the intervening glass. The betting commissioner books bets, the limit being $44. The two fish are then dumped into one big bowl together. They charge furiously, first ripping off each other's scales and fins. Next to go is the red top fin, while frequently they bite off chunks of side meat, drawing blood. With good fish a fight will last for six hours. Unpedigreed ones are exhausted in 15 minutes. After a fish has lost a battle he is bred no more but spends his declining days in a small fry. Trainer fish constantly have their bodies mutilated as do United States flatstick trainers. Their advantage over the United States equivalents: they can regenerate broken parts.

Damage Done to Trees

When the Sap Freezes

Sap in trees frequently freezes during the winter. The freezing point of water is decreased by the addition of substances in solution. Since sap contains various solutes its freezing point is considerably below 32 degrees and accordingly it does not freeze in moderate freezing temperatures. Trees are further protected by the fact that the moisture content is not so great near the surface in the winter as it is in the summer. But the sap freezes during extremely cold spells and sometimes much damage is done to the trees.

The United States forest service says that in the Canadian woods when the temperature is 40 to 50 degrees below zero the rupture of tissues in trees caused by freezing can often be heard as a sort of sharp report. As a rule freezing that produces sufficient pressure to rupture the tissues results in vertical cracks running up and down the trunk.

In succeeding seasons of growth the tree attempts to heal over these cracks but ridges of protruding scar tissue remain as evidence of the ruptures. The wood of trees is frequently frozen, but generally no serious rupture results because the moisture is evenly distributed through the tissue. Pathfinder Magazine.

Two of a Kind

Thomas Harly was once dining with Gen. Sir Redvers Buller of Boer war memory, when the subject arose of social blunders. Buller described what he called a "double-barreled" one of his own, says Mrs. Florence Emily Harly in "The Later Years of Thomas Harly".

"He inquired of a lady next him at dinner who a certain gentleman was, 'like a hippopotamus,' sitting opposite them. He was the lady's husband."

Buller was so depressed by the disaster that had befallen him that he could not see it off his mind. Hence at a dinner the next evening he sought the condolences of an elderly lady, to whom he related his misfortune. And remembered when he had told the story that his listener was the gentleman's mother!

Pretty Roofs in Norway

Perhaps the roof over one's head has something to do with the happiness and love in the home beneath it. The American shingles were appropriate for the pioneer, the English slates practical, the tiles of Latin countries cool and picturesque, but even better is the old straw thatch laid on sometimes to a depth of two feet. However, of homes in country places Norway has the loveliest roofs of all. Sod is used for a thatch there, and after a season or two the entire house-top is a meadow of grass and wild flowers, on which young goats may often be seen feeding, and where butterflies and honey-bees always hover.

Gob Forbidden to Whistle

A gob can sing his heart out if he cares to, but he can't keep his whistle in his pocket. Whistling has never been permitted in the navy. This prohibition is not designed to repress one of nature's elementary means of expressing joy, or boosting one's courage, but is forbidden because it might be confused with the boat's pipe at a distance or below decks. In foggy days at sea sails were handled and much work accomplished by means of calls with the boat's pipe, the boatswain's badge of office.

Elementary

"My boy," said the business man to his son, "there are two things that are vitally necessary if you are to succeed in business."

"What are they, dad?"

"Honesty and sagacity."

"What is honesty?"

"Always—no matter what happens, nor how adversely it may affect you—always keep your word once you have given it."

"And sagacity?"

"Never give it."

SCHOOL NOTES

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Burlington High School basketball team broke even last Friday night, November 21st with the Mason High team, with the Mason girls winning, while the Burlington High Tomcats marked up another victory by defeating the Mason boys. The Kittens had a bad start and when the final whistle blew they were 7 points behind the Mason team. A Burton was the star for the Kittens, making 6 of the Kittens points. E. Ryle, E. Akins and Phillips played a good game. When the game ended the Kittens had 12 points, K. Laurence was the high point maker for the Mason girls, making 9 of their 19 points, that making the score Mason 19, Kittens 12.

Coach Lamb and his Tomcats marked up their fifth victory for the season by defeating the Mason boys 28 to 8. R. Maurer was high point maker, making 12 of the Tomcats points. Stephens and Ogden were tied in points making 6 each. Capt. A. Greenup played a fine game, taking the ball down the floor to his goal where his warriors were always ready to make goals. "Red" Rouse is some guard, so when you play against "Red" you will have to watch your step for he is always on the job. Scroggin was high point maker for the Mason boys, making 5 out of their 8 points. The Tomcats and Kittens will play two games this week Wednesday Nov. 26 with the strong Walton team. On Friday night Nov. 28 the Burlington team will play the fast Hebron team. Both of these games will be played at Erlanger. If you want to see some real class basketball come out and see these games.

The delegates of the Girl Reserve of Burlington High School returned from the Conference at Falmouth Sunday night. They reported a wonderful time and said that they had never been treated with more hospitality than they were while there. They returned with a better knowledge of what the club really means and are determined to show their appreciation by applying some of the many things which were learned at the Conference. The delegates wish to thank the other club members for sending them.

Zena Garrison and Ruby Mitchell were absent from school one day last week.

*****

We are glad to welcome Irvin Ryle back to school this week.

7th and 8th Grades

Jeff Eddins and Cassius Sullivan were absent from school Monday.

*****

One of our societies, which has chosen the name of Lincoln, rendered a program Wednesday morning which was enjoyed very much.

3rd and 4th Grades

The 3rd and 4th grades gave a chapel program Friday afternoon which was enjoyed by all. We were glad to see so many visitors and wish they would come real often. The next chapel program will be given by Mrs. Eddins.

A group of Cincinnati hunters visited the home of W. W. Craddock one day last week. After asking permission of Mr. Craddock to hunt on his farm one of them requested the use of a gun, which Mr. Craddock very generously accorded him. They took themselves to the rear of his farm to hunt, where, instead of hunting, they proceeded to shoot at his barn, to the utter disgust of Mr. Craddock, who immediately ejected them amid remonstrations from the intruders. Mr. Craddock now claims that he will look over prospective nincompoops more thoroughly.

Mrs. Sarah Carpenter left Sunday for Hyde Park where she will visit her brother, Gamaliel—Green and wife.

Mrs. B. L. Norman, Mrs. Ben C. Houston, A. H. Norman and Laverne Sullivan, drove to Bellevue Friday morning to attend the funeral of J. W. White.

LIMABURG

Mrs. C. L. Gaines, of Florence, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Baker.

Mrs. W. N. Utz spent Wednesday afternoon with her mother Mrs. Sara Brown.

Mrs. James Pettit and son and Leonard Utz, spent last Thursday in Covington.

Mrs. Harriett Utz spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Mary Baker.

Miss Rachel Utz spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Maude Baker.

Mrs. Robt. Brown and Mrs. Stella Waters spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Irene Buckler and family.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pettit and son and Mrs. Harriett Utz, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Utz and family.

CONSTANCE

There will be an oyster supper at the Constance Christian church on Saturday night Dec. 6th, given by the Ladies Aid. Supper served from 6 to 10 o'clock.

"The Hoodoo" will be presented at Bellevue under the auspices of the Petersburg P. T. A. next Saturday evening, Nov. 29th. This play went over with a bang at Petersburg last week. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

The Burlington P. T. A. will have a meeting next Friday evening at the court house. Members are urged to be present.

JEFF MILLS

ACCUSED OF KILLING OF CHAS. YOUNG, AWAITS ACTION OF GRAND JURY NEXT WEEK—STILL PROTESTS HIS INNOCENCE AND STICKS TO ORIGINAL STORY

Next week the regular term of the Boone Circuit Court will convene on Monday morning. The principal matter to come before the court will be the investigation of the death of Charley Young, which took place near Big Bone on Sunday morning, Nov. 14th.

Jeff Mills, accused of the killing of Young, was arrested a few hours after the shooting was alleged to have taken place and placed in the jail at Burlington where he has remained since. Mills has been making every effort to obtain counsel and no examining trial has been held, it appearing that the action of the grand jury will be the first step in the case.

Mills continues to protest his innocence and has not wavered from his original story, in which he contended that Young had taken the gun which he (Mills) had brought from Young's house for the purpose of shooting a coon out of a tree.

Mills stated that Young took the gun to the tree and shot while he held the dogs. At the report of the gun the coon dropped to the ground, according to Mills, and he followed the dogs until they lost the trail. Mills did not return to the coon tree, he said, the body of Young having been found there by Mrs. Young and Cecil Beasley, a brother of Mrs. Young, after day light the next morning. Mrs. Young and Beasley, however, had arrived in the vicinity of the tree, from where they heard the shot fired, immediately thereafter, they have stated.

The fact that 128 shot wounds were found in Young's breast, scattered over a wide area, is regarded by officers here as conclusive proof that Young could not have shot himself and Mills never has contended that he saw any other person in the vicinity at the time the shot was fired. Neither has Mills ever given any reason for not having returned to the tree to see what had become of Young, with whom Mills states that he had been hunting all night.

Should the grand jury return an indictment the Commonwealth will urge immediate trial, according to County Attorney B. H. Riley.

VOTERS O. K.

IS PLACED UPON CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL PLAN AT ELECTION HELD AT UNION AND BEAVER LAST WEEK—NEW BUILDING PROBABLY WILL BE READY FOR USE NEXT FALL

The patrons of the Union, Beaver and adjoining school districts are assured of a first-class consolidated school building, such as soon will be ready for service at Hamilton, as a result of the election held at Union and Beaver last Saturday.

Two polling places were maintained, one at Union and one at Beaver. Union carrying in favor of the consolidation by a vote of 164 to 36, while Beaver went 101 to 86.

Previous to the election the committee, named for that purpose, had designated the location of the new building. The place was set at a point on land owned by Judge J. M. Lassing, near where the Union pike joins the new Federal highway. The building will be situated a safe distance from the concrete thoroughfare, will be constructed along the most modern lines and will have a spacious campus.

The result of the election indicates the growing sentiment in favor of consolidated and better facilities. It is hoped that the new building will be ready for occupancy by the time that the opening bell rings next autumn.

Mrs. Bea Rouse spent the past week with relatives in Avondale, Cincinnati.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Robert Woods, of Big Bone, was in Burlington on business last Monday and, while here, had his name entered on our subscription list. Not so many years ago Bob was a very capable southpaw pitcher for the Big Bone team, the writer having taken a number of swings at his left handed slants. He says that he might still be able to do his stuff if Big Bone had a team.

Ben Black, of the Hathaway-Gunpowder neighborhood, was a court day visitor in Burlington. Mr. Black found time this summer, aside from his horse shoe pitching and base ball pitching, to raise about eight hundred bushels of very fine corn in the fertile bottoms of Gunpowder.

If any reader of the Recorder has a copy of an old song entitled "Pickinny's Lullaby" a loan of it would be appreciated for a few weeks. A safe return to the owner is guaranteed. Just mail the copy to the editor of the Recorder. Thanks!

Harold Garr, of Detroit, Michigan, who is visiting his uncle A. W. Corn, in Erlanger, for a few weeks, was shaking hands with old friends in Burlington Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Conner and Harold Conner and wife spent last Thursday (Thanksgiving day) with Dr. J. H. Walton and family, at Saylor Park, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Conner left for St. Petersburg, Florida, Tuesday of this week, where Mr. Conner will race his fine string of greyhounds this winter. The Conners will be shipped from here the latter part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Hall left last week for Newport, where they will spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. H. W. Shearer and Mr. Shearer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McKim and daughter were in Burlington Sunday and attended services at the Baptist church, where Mrs. McKim rendered a very beautiful vocal selection accompanied on the piano by her daughter.

At the Parent-Teachers spelling match, held last week at the school building, Mrs. Wilford Rouse carried off the honors.

Miss Maurine Lyles, of Benton, Ky., spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her sister, Mrs. C. G. Lamb and Mr. Lamb. The community should be flattered that after this short stay, she decided to remain until the Christmas holidays, when she will return to Western Kentucky with Prof. and Mrs. Lamb. Just what the unusual attraction is no one has been able to determine.

Miss Aline Taylor, of Cincinnati, spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. O. S. Eddins.

"The Hoodoo" at Bellevue Saturday night, Dec. 6th, to be given by Petersburg, P. T. A. By mistake it was advertised last week for November 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. San Ryle entertained the following with a Thanksgiving evening supper: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirkpatrick and son Warren, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Ayior, Mr. Geo. Cook, Mr. William Phillips and Miss Mary Amelia Phillips. Mr. Howard Kirkpatrick and nephew Donald Kirkpatrick were unable to attend on account of illness. All reported a good time.

HERE AND THERE

Robert Hensley spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hensley.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenters were Sunday guests of C. L. Gaines and family, of Florence.

Roberta Hensley of Petersburg, spent Thanksgiving with her grandmother, Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Sr., and Mr. Sullivan.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wingate and little daughter, of Erlanger, were Sunday guests of Edward Easton and wife, of Woolper creek.

LEGION MINSTREL

WILL ANNOUNCE DATES AND PLACES FOR SHOWING IN NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE OF RECORDER—TO BE EXHIBITED IN SEVERAL COMMUNITIES IN COUNTY

Members of Boone Post No. 4, American Legion, are preparing to stage a minstrel for the edification (?) of the various communities in Boone county.

Rehearsals have been in vogue for several weeks and it is almost ready for the stage. It will be played in several communities in the county and full details and dates for showing will be announced next week.

Just take a look at the end men—Sufus Tanner, Proc Brothers, Collier Simpson, Ross Russ, Capt. Kelly, Bob Berkshire, Bob Eastman and Bill Doyle. C. L. Cropper will act as interlocutor with Ben Riley on the ivories.

Fitz Tanner and a number of other accomplished performers will be on the program. Watch for the dates and places.

BELLEVUE SCHOOL

The High School is practicing on a play which will be given before the Christmas holidays. The title of it is "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose." Watch for its announcement later.

POOL CONTRACT

WILL BE OFFERED BURLEY TOBACCO GROWERS—IS SAID TO PROVIDE VERY LIBERAL TERMS

C. O. Hempling, President of the Northern Ky. District Warehousing Corporation, and for many years one of the most ardent backers of the pooling of tobacco by farmers in the Burley belt, visited the Recorder office for a short time last Monday on his way to Carrollton.

Mr. Hempling stated that an innovation in the form of a pooling contract will be offered the farmers this year and which will be binding only for this year's crop. It is said that this contract has been considered a very liberal one by all who have examined it.

The plan, as announced by Mr. Hempling, will permit the signing of this contract by a grower even after he has offered his tobacco for sale on a loose leaf floor. He may reject any part or all of his crop and place the remainder with the pool, which organization will commingle it and make an advance of as high as seventy-five per cent of the grade price, Mr. Hempling stated.

According to Mr. Hempling this plan has the full sanction of the Federal Farm Board, of which James C. Stone, former President of the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association, is a member.

BURLINGTON P. T. A.

The Burlington P. T. A. will hold the regular business meeting Dec. 4, the second Monday in December. (Instead of the 1st Tuesday) as we have been meeting. This change was made to give our members a better time, as they attend a class at Florence every Tuesday night. When the class is finished our meeting will be changed back to our regular night. As this is the last meeting of 1930 let everybody come and help plan a big year for 1931. Time—7 p. m. Place—Court House.

BREAKS RECORD

Master Commissioner R. E. Berkshire claims to have broken the record for cheap farm land at his sale of the Sheets farm in Big Bone precinct last Monday which sale was held at the court house door. The farm of 219 acres was sold for $11,750, or an average of $7.19 per acre. The more or less run down condition of the land and the general farming conditions no doubt militated against a better price. Omer Kite was the purchaser.

GAINES—KIRKPATRICK

The marriage of Miss Mildred Gaines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gaines, and Albert Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kirkpatrick, of Burlington, came as a distinct surprise to their many friends here on Wednesday of last week. These splendid young folks, both of whom were born and reared in this community, command and deserve the best that there is in life and their legion of friends here and in many other communities of the county extend to them their heartiest wishes for just that. A group of enterprising and impulsive young friends gave them an old fashioned charivari Tuesday night.

Judge N. E. Riddell was absent from his post on Monday and Tuesday of this week at the regular court and fiscal court sessions. He was called to Ft. Worth, Texas, very suddenly Sunday afternoon on account of the serious illness of his wife, who went there to visit her sister a short time ago in the hope that the Texas climate might benefit her. C. L. Cropper has been appointed Acting County Judge during Judge Riddell's absence and bears the title with becoming dignity.

"The Hoodoo" at Bellevue Saturday night, Dec. 6th, to be given by Petersburg P. T. A. By mistake it was advertised last week for November 29th.

Irene Cason

Lou Ella Berkshire.

Dorothy Sprague.

William Brown.

Deaths

SARA D. TUCKER

Sara D. Tucker, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Tucker, passed away Tuesday morning at the home of her parents, Kantabow Ave., Erlanger, Ky., aged 7 years, after a short illness of diphtheria.

Private funeral services were held at the residence Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock after which she remains were taken to Highland cemetery for interment.

Sara is survived by two sisters, in addition to her parents.

Funeral Director Philip Talaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

DEMOCRATIC

OBSTRUCTION PROGRAM WOULD BE "UNTHINKABLE," SAYS CORRESPONDENT—HOWEVER, SONG OF "CO-OPERATION" SHOULD NOT RUSH THEM OFF THEIR FEET, HE SAYS

WASHINGTON—It may now be safely predicted that if there is a dog in the congressional manger this session it will be nothing more than a cute little puppy—much bark, perhaps, but no bite. For Democrats and insurgents to obstruct action on supply bills and other routine legislation with the deliberate intention of forcing a special session is unthinkable. Even if the revival of business and the country's welfare were not enough to deter them, such a course would not be good politics. But this does not mean that there is anything reprehensible about the refusal of Democratic and insurgent members of Congress to be rushed off their feet by Old Guard Republicans shouting "Co-operation! Co-operation!"

Furthermore, it would be just as reprehensible and just as poor politics for the Old Guard, particularly in the House, where it has unquestioned control, to ban discussion of general legislation favored by Democrats or insurgents on the pretext that such discussion would be so grave an interference with the supply bills as to force an extra session—in short, for the Old Guard to take a partisan advantage of the disposition to keep partisanship within bounds.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Republican of New York, chairman of the powerful Rules Committee, has just come out with announcement of his willingness for the House to act on Muscle Shoals legislation and even to vote for government ownership and operation if it wishes to do so. The Norris plan has won the support of the Senate repeatedly, but the Longworth-Snell-Tilson domination of the House has halted it for long periods and then tied the question into a knot by substituting the Rees plan, which would give the President authority to lease the Muscle Shoals property to private interests. It is discovered that Mr. Snell, while still opposed to government ownership and operation of power plants, now believes that many people in the country want an experiment made at Muscle Shoals. With a like change of heart, he also thinks it entirely proper to take the sense of the House on the Lane Dusk amendment and the Wagner unemployment bills.

Chairman Snell is one of the luminaries which has ruled the House with iron discipline. To read his recent utterances no one would imagine for a moment that Mr. Snell, with Speaker Longworth and Floor Leader Tilson had practiced suppression upon independent tendencies in the House with a ruthlessness that in the old days would have won his admiration of either "Gus" Read or "Uncle Joe" Cannon. Now it appears that Mr. Snell believes that by giving members of Congress an opportunity to vote upon heretofore taboo measures an extra session may be avoided.

All of which means, of course, that in spite of the fervent talk about "co-operation" some of the Democrats and insurgents insist upon their right to a few opinions.

BAPTIST FIVE

WINS OPENING GAME IN COVINGTON Y. M. C. A. CHURCH LEAGUE—TO OPEN OFFICIAL SEASON HERE IN NEW UNIFORMS SATURDAY NITE WITH WARSAW TEAM AS GUESTS—FATS AND LEANS TO STACK COMEDY GAME AS PRELUDE

The Burlington Baptists won their opening tilt in the Covington Y. M. C. A. Church League last Saturday evening by the score of 36 to 25.

The Warsaw Baptists were their opponents and certainly furnished some very formidable opposition. In fact the issue was in doubt until the final four minutes of play. During the first half the margin was 10-0 back and forth with first one team and then the other in the lead, although at the intermission Burlington held the upper hand by a 17-13 count.

This lead mainly was amassed thru the sharpshooting of Bob Uts, veteran forward of the Baptist five, who was responsible for 11 of the local team's points. Uts was always there or thereabouts, when the proper moment arrived to slip the leather thru the hoop.

However, during the second half Bob was not so lucky and Warsaw gradually drew up until they were almost alongside with less than four minutes to go. When there were three minutes and forty eight seconds left of playing time the score board showed the count to be 25-23. But that was the signal for Ray Hickman, "Sheep" Lamb and Wilton Stephens to start the fire-works, and when the "unconscious" efforts of these three all were chalked up the score stood as first related with victory firmly in the grasp of the locals and a percentage of 1000 per cent a certainty for a starter.

While speaking of the offensive efforts of four of the local team's lineup the great defensive work of Wilford Rouse, stellar back guard for Burlington, must not be overlooked. "Ding" always one of the most reliable players, this year is finishing the best form of his long and patient career.

The Covington Y officials have extended their best efforts to make the season a successful one and their treatment accorded the local management, both at practice sessions and at the league opening, has been of the most courteous and considerate type. R. E. Berkshire, as manager, and W. C. Brown, as assistant, anticipate a most pleasant and it is to be hoped, successful, winter season on the hardwood under the auspices of this organization.

"FATS" VS. "LEANS"

Next Saturday night the local season for the Baptist five will be officially opened on the local court with the fast Warsaw, Gallatin county, five as guests of the locals. Natty new uniforms will decorate the home team. Frans Maurer, one of the most clever forwards, ever to show in this community, endowed with a world of speed, will probably find his way into the lineup for a few minutes. Frank has been incapacitated with a lame leg throughout the early portion of the season, but is recovering rapidly. Stanley Ryle, another member of last year's high school team, also has been out of the Baptist line-up on account of illness, but is recovering and may be able to re-enter the lineup after the holiday season.

A rare treat is in store for the home fans next Saturday evening when the Fats will play the Leans as preliminary to the Warsaw-Burlington game. This game promises to be the "big shot" of the local basketball season. In the lineup for the Fats will be found such competent hardwood artists as Professor D. H. Morris, Deputy Sheriff W. B. Cotton, Dr. M. A. Yelton Newton Sullivan, Jr., Albert Pettit, Ransom Ryle, L. A. Conner, D. R. Blythe, Bailey Greenup, and several others, while opposed to them will be seen J. O. Hoey, Wendell Hatten, "Bag" Ogden, Stanley Hatten, Shelby Pettit, L. C. Weaver, Jack Ranes, Mauley Ryle, Walter Brown, with much else also to be added to this team.

THINGS ARE LOOKING UP

From what we hear from different parts of the United States, it is New York City that is deepest in the slough of despond right now, while in almost every other section the sunshine is beginning to shine thru the clouds of business depression.

It has been a tough year; there is no denying that. What with the financial slump that began more than a year ago, and this year's wide-spread drought, and the tumble in the price of wheat and cotton, and the shutting down of factories, we haven't been through such a "hard time" year since 1921. But it has its compensations, by comparison with previous similar situations. Commodity prices have not gone up but have come down. Most of those thrown out of work had something ahead of them.

The main thing the matter with the country right now is timidity. The head of a big bank said the other day: "Our bank has more money in it right now than it ever had, but where is it? It is mostly in time deposits, drawing interest, or in savings accounts. People are hoarding instead of spending. If everybody would spend even ten per cent of what they have saved up, it would start the wheels of industry going again speedily."

FOUR-H CLUB BOY GROWS 90 BUSHES CORN ON ACRE

C. Matt Kash, a 15-year-old Lee county boy, produced 99½ bushels of corn on an acre, despite the drought, and there's a chance the Kentucky 4-H Club corn growing champion for 1930, the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, announces.

The corn was grown on bottom land on the Middle Fork of the Kentucky river. The soil is four to five feet deep, according to the boy's report, and will produce a crop without much rain. He estimates that lack of rain damaged the crop about 20 bushels to the acre, while a storm reduced the yield 12 bushels.

The 1930 champion grew his corn in the customary manner, except that he applied 500 pounds of lime, 300 pounds of super-phosphate and 100 pounds of nitrate of soda on the acre. He cultivated the corn three times and chopped out the weeds with a hoe. Johnson County White was the strain grown. County Agent T. H. Jones weighed the corn.

Matt is the fourth member of the Kash family to win the State 4-H Club corn growing championship. His brother, Raymond won the honor last year when he grew 104 bushels on an acre. Homer Kash, another brother, was the champion in 1925 when he grew 141 bushels on an acre, and in 1926 with a production of 126 bushels. Rescoe Kash, now a physician in New York City, was the state's 4-H Club corn champion in 1921 and 1922.

Three Washington county farmers who cooperated with the county agent and the College of Agriculture in demonstrating improved poultry raising methods reported net profits of $400 each.

And we hear that the "Buy Now" movement, which started a few weeks ago, has spread around the country and that people everywhere are beginning to take the times out of the savings banks and the dollars out of the checking accounts and buy the commodities which are for sale everywhere at bargain prices.

This is going to be a "useful" Christmas, from all indications. People generally are planning to give as Christmas gifts things which are not merely ornamental or luxurious, but such useful presents as new things for the home. That is all to the good, for it puts money circulating in channels where it is most needed.

Some smart fellow proposed a few weeks ago that everybody ought to spend ten cents a day that he had not intended to spend. That sounded foolish to some, but a lot of people have taken it up, and accumulation of dimes thus started on their merry way is beginning to show its effect.

"Big money" is not timid. One large financial house announced the other day that it had clients ready to invest anything from a million dollars upward. They didn't want to bother with trifles worth less than a million, but they would buy into anything profitable in million-dollar units. The ones who are holding back are the ordinary folks like us. But if we believe in the future of the United States we can prove our faith by beginning again to spend our money for necessities and a little bit more, and when we are all doing that the "hard times" will be over.

RUSSIANS INSPECT POULTRY
PLANT AT EXPERIMENT STA.

Two Russian scientists who were in this country studying the poultry industry recently inspected the Experiment Station at the University of Kentucky. They were visiting leading Experiment Stations, commercial poultry plants and poultry equipment factories in the United States.

They were especially interested in Kentucky because the climate and other conditions here are similar to those in a part of southern Russia, they said. They praised the Kentucky Experiment Station flocks and poultry plant equipment, which they termed among the best they had seen in the several states in which they had traveled.

The Russian government is planning to establish poultry plants with a capacity of 1,000,000 eggs and 500,000 birds each, where experimental work will be done and from which breeding stock will be distributed to farms.

The visitors spent two days in central Kentucky and inspected several large farms, as well as poultry plants and the Experiment Station.

Korean lespezeza is so popular in Simpson county that the whole crop of 4,000 pounds of seed probably will be used in the county.

Four Todd county farmers will cooperate with the county agent in demonstrating improved methods of handling baby beavers and nine will test out new poultry raising practices.

Fulton county farmers report good yields of alfalfa hay on bottom land and many farmers are planning to sow considerable acreages next summer.

KENTUCKY FARM
RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS the week of December 8. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Dec. 8—A review of the 1930 International, W. J. Harris, Trends in sheep as shown at the International, R. C. Miller.

Dec. 10—Recent developments in lespezeza, Ralph Kenney. Kentucky's 3-00 pound herds, Ted S. Besh.

Dec. 12—What Farm Folks are Asking—L. C. Brewer.

COMMITTEE ASKS LOAN FOR DROUGHT RELIEF

Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, was chairman of a committee which during the recent drought-relief conference in Washington voted to ask Congress for funds from which loans could be made for the purchase of seeds, fertilizers, feed and other needs in drought stricken areas. The committee stressed the need of further relief in Virginia, Kentucky, Arkansas and other regions, and urged employment in road building and other ways as one of the most effective methods of relief.

URGES CARE IN USE OF LESPEDEZA SEED

A warning that much Korean lespezeza seed contains dodder this year, has been issued by Ralph Kenney, secretary of the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association.

"Ninety-nine per cent of all Korean lespezeza seed harvested this year contains dodder," he said. "Samples of seed received at the Experiment Station seed laboratory frequently show one dodder seed in 350; one in 35; one in 15, and often as many as one in four or five."

"Thresher-run samples of seed are ranging in purity from 48 to 91 per cent, and if this year is a repetition of the last two years much of the thresher-run seed will be rejected without further cleaning."

"Korean performed so remarkably well in last summer's drought that growers will no doubt buy all seed obtainable. It is highly advisable that they buy certified seed that they secure a sample of the seed under consideration and have it analyzed before they buy it."

"There is some good seed already on the market, however, and all indications are that the man who buys early will secure seed at lower prices, provided he has not bought a lot of weeds in low-grade seed."

"Growers of certified seed are having their seed laboratory tested, a requirement to seeing under the association name. Yield expectations, which fluctuated widely from high hopes in mid-summer to very little during September, rose again as harvest began, and then dropped sharply in many cases after re-cleaning. From 50 to 100 pounds of clean seed to the acre seems to be a normal crop this year."

DATES SET FOR FARM AND HOME CONVENTION

The dates of the nineteenth annual Kentucky Farm and Home Convention at the University of Kentucky are announced as Jan. 27-30, inclusive. Speakers of national and international note will appear on the program.

The county agent prescribed rations that resulted in profits on lambs in Trimble county, despite low prices.

E. E. Pittman, of Hardin county, secured 1,600 pounds of Korean lespezeza seed from 15 acres.

VICTORY

Three interesting and very different experiences occurred one Sunday last fall.

In the morning we sat in the chapel of an historic academy in New England and, while the preacher prayed, we peeped a little. Our eyes wandered over the bowed heads of the boys; our imaginations were busy with thoughts of what might be in store for them.

Riding back to New York on the train we read an impressive speech by the President of the U. S.

When the train stopped at Hartford we looked out of the window to see a crowd filling the air with rice and confetti, and presently an embarrassed but happy young couple hurried through the car into a drawing room.

Of these events—the prayer in the academy chapel, the speech of Mr. Hoover, the marriage of an unknown and apparently common-place young couple—which was the most important? Which will leave the most lasting impression on history?

No one can possibly tell. If every child and every happening were labelled, "This is important" or "This is unimportant" the business of living would soon lose its zest. The eternal uncertainty of it keeps it exciting.

For example, a King of England, coming down from Scotland, stopped for refreshment at a little town called Scrooby. The young man who waited on the table was so obscure that the king probably never noticed him. But who is more important in the light of history, the weak King James I of England or the strong young man William Brewster who sailed on the Mayflower and became the first governor of Massachusetts?

In 1704 occurred the Battle of Blenheim. Most of us remember nothing about it except the last lines of Robert Scott's poem:

"And what was the use of it all?" asked little Tweedledee.

"I don't know," the maid said, "but 'twas a famous victory."

Just one year before, not far from the battle-field, was born a red-faced baby. His name was John Wesley.

Battles, kingdoms, fortunes—they are all part of the great human drama. But the thrill lies in the fact that a word dropped into the fertile mind of a boy, or a young couple starting a new home or a helpless infant uttering its first cry—these also may have undying significance.

And any one of us, quite unwittingly, may be a part of a famous victory.

POOR NURSERY STOCK
PEDDLED IN STATE

Reports received by the State Entomologist at the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, indicate that unlicensed agents are selling inferior nursery and ornamental plants in the State. This material often consists of discarded plants from reputable nurseries and wholesale gatherings from unlicensed nurseries.

Some agents, according to complaints, tell prospective customers that they are representing reputable nurseries either in or out of the State. Such misrepresentation not only does serious damage to the reputation of a reliable nurseryman when the plants prove of little value but also means real loss to buyers.

The law requires that each package of nursery stock delivered in Kentucky must bear a copy of a certificate of inspection from an official inspector. It also provides that any person soliciting orders for or delivering trees or plants in Kentucky shall be required to carry with him a copy of his Kentucky permit to be shown prospective buyers, county officials or agents of the State Entomologist.

It would be good business, says Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist, to insist on securing an itemized receipt showing the name of the nursery and the size and quantity of plants delivered.

Curb Market Old

The curb market in New York city had its origin in 1792.

LINCOLN AND PULASKI
MAY TRY STRAWBERRIES

The possibilities of commercial strawberry production were discussed at a recent meeting of farmers living around Waynesburg, Eubanks and Science Hill in southern Lincoln and northern Pulaski counties.

The meeting, which was called by Truman Taylor, teacher of agriculture in the Waynesburg high school, was attended by more than 100 farmers and business men. W. W. McGill, extension field agent of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, discussed strawberry growing and the operations which it involves. Farmers told of their experiences with strawberries, one reporting a yield of 200 crates to the acre this year.

E. P. Hilton of the Science Hill High School, County Agent M. F. Goff of Pulaski county, business men and farmers expressed a desire to introduce strawberries as an additional source of farm income.

STEPHEN

Acts 6:7-10:54-60

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
Will it work? is a question that many ask when the ideals of Christianity are presented. The best answer is to turn to the lives of multitudes who are expressing the teachings of Jesus in their daily experiences. Stephen is one of the first to do this very thing and has the distinction of being called the earliest Christian martyr. Leaders in Jerusalem followed closely the activities of all propagandists just as the authorities do today in any country with an orderly form of government. And yet the mind must always be open to a fuller understanding of truth since the realm of facts can never be regarded as a closed book.

Stephen comes into prominence when the necessity of church organization arose. A poor fund was started for part of the teachings of Jesus called for distribution by those who had any excess to those who were in need of daily bread.

Soon this servant of God became a marked man and was regarded as dangerous by those who were determined to stop the progress of this radical teaching of brotherly love that had been announced by Jesus.

The case was tried before the Sanhedrin and Stephen had to make his defense before the Seventy. He showed them that Jesus was the long looked for Messiah, and that He had been treated with base consideration, even as the forefathers had despised the instructions of the prophets. When the judges could not deny the facts they determined to kill the messenger. Sentence of death by stoning was pronounced and it was executed outside the city wall in the midst of his death throes he sprays as did Jesus, "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge."

FARMERS INSPECT
NEW POULTRY PLANT

Marion county farmers recently inspected the modern poultry plant on the farm of Ballard Thompson near Loretto. He had just completed a 20 by 60 Kentucky shed-roof poultry house, where 300 White Leghorn pullets were beginning to come into production. Mr. Thompson started in a small way to develop a good flock of poultry and a good herd of dairy cows. He cooperates with County Agent J. E. Summers and the College of Agriculture in demonstrating the value of good farm practices. Dr. J. Holmes Martin, head of the poultry department at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, and C. E. Harris, field agent, attended a poultry tour which County Agent Joe R. Thompson conducted in Bath county. Five farms were visited, and a meeting held at Ernest Wells' place where 200 Barred Rock pullets were inspected.

A show sponsored by the Montgomery County Poultry Association at Mt. Sterling attracted 1,200 chickens and 300 turkeys, ducks and geese. The birds were of exceptional quality, many of them having been exhibited at the State Fair. Farmers and business men, cooperated with County Agent Floyd McDaniel in making the show a success.

Eight hundred tons of limestone were ground in Upper Silver Creek community in Rockcastle county last month.

College of Agriculture engineers assisted Frank Hinton in arranging tile drainage of an 18-acre field, the first project of its kind in Fleming county.

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By F. O. Alexander

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

W. E. Vest sold for John Bentham his farm of 62 acres, near Florence, to Joseph Wisenberger, of near Covington, for $4,075.

J. M. Conner sold on the Cincinnati market last week at 5 1/2 cents per pound, eleven of the cattle that he bought of the Rice boys, of Utzinger. They averaged 1,318 pounds.

Bentler & Blythe are hauling a purchase of 40-cent corn from Bellevue. They deliver to Richard Uis for whom the purchase was made.

Timothy Westbay, who worked in this office for several years, is now engaged as salesman at Dan Cohen's shoe store, Covington, where he will be pleased to serve Boone county people.

Gordon McKim came home to spend his Thanksgiving vacation.

Waterloo

Doc Clore took a lot of sheep to the city, Wednesday.

Leonard Kite sold to Harvey Edington the three minute horse he bought in Cincinnati.

Marcus Ryle was the first in this neighborhood to take his tobacco off.

Tony Rue was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Wisgate, of this place Sunday.

Belleview

Our local huckster, Jos. M. Birkle, hauled 100 turkeys to the city for Thanksgiving.

Miss Clara Maurer has just returned from Newport after a visit of two weeks with friends at that place.

John Smith, Jr., and Rel Sullivan sold to some Burlington parties 400 bushels of corn at 40 cents, the purchasers doing the hauling.

Dan Lawell delivered 20 hogs weighing 200 lbs., each to Clore & Co., on Saturday. Price $4.70.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Dr. E. W. Duncan, of Walton, spent Monday and Tuesday, in Burlington.

Last Thursday was a fine day for hunting and man, rabbits and quails were bagged that day.

Omer, son of W. H. Ryle, who lives down on Quipowder, died Sunday night, after a short illness of typhoid pneumonia, aged 20 years. His parents have the sympathy of the entire community in the loss of their son.

Last Saturday Geo. Blythe gave us a minnie ball that was found in a plank sawed out of a beech tree that was cut near the first covered bridge on the Petersburg pike. It was probably shot in the tree during the war by one of the soldiers who passed this way.

Bert Gaines, who is attending Nelson's Business College in Cincinnati, spent Thanksgiving vacation at home. Bert is pleased with his school.

Attorneys Tolin and Stephens attended Mayor Holman's court at Petersburg, last Saturday, while attorney Lassing was attending court at Florence.

Beech Grove

County Supt., Lassing visited our school last week.

M. S. Rice, of Burlington, has recently surveyed the land belonging to the heirs of the late James Ryle. Wm. Rogers, of Walton, was in this neighborhood two days last week.

Several from this neighborhood attended the Allen-Aylor wedding at Big Bone church last Thursday.

H. C. Eggleston, of Dillsboro, Indiana, visited his sister recently.

The following pupils of the school at this place received a general average of 85% and over: Fifth Grade—Albert Clore, Emma Marshall, Sam Pope, Ephraim Clore, Louis Williams, Lon Clore, Kirby R. Smith, Bevis Shepard. Fourth Grade—Bessie Walton, Homer Clore and Doc Pope.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A LIE

We can't tell it. Lots of sickness.

Harry Blythe will be a star.

Miss Galt ought to be President.

The mail always gets in on time.

Hogs are worth 5 cents per pound.

The boys are afraid to go hunting.

Tom Cowen supports a huge mustache.

Prof. Tice knows all about the weather.

Ev. Foster expects a position at Heucka.

Charles Fowler don't like to go to Indiana.

Bill Riddell knows all about house-keeping.

R. C. Green is going to buy the snake show.

Joe Reed will build an Opera house in Union.

This paper has 2500 subscribers and all are paid up.

Jim Westbay is still crying over Garfield's election.

A. W. Bradford will be married on the 20th of December.

S. K. Dempsey has taken a contract to chop 100 cords of wood.

Since Thanksgiving Billie Piper stays in the store until 10 o'clock at night.

The marriage of W. L. Riddell and Miss Carrie Pace was the occasion of a very elegant reception given them by Mr. and Mrs. Fount Riddell, and all those who enjoyed the bountiful and sumptuous dinner, and the enjoyable, social communion, will ever attest the hospitality of the kind host and hostess. And the young people of Burlington, who presumed upon their good nature, and extended the affair into the "wee-wee" hours, are indebted to them for one of the most pleasantly spent evenings of their lives. Nor would we forget to mention Misses Nettie Gardner and Mary Light, who in assisting Mrs. Riddell in the capacity of hostess, so well knew how to see that every one present had a jolly good time.

CUPID'S CAPERS

Piper—Kirkpatrick—On Thursday afternoon, November 25th, 1880, at 2 1/4 o'clock at the residence of the brides parents in Burlington, Mr. W. E. Piper to Miss Nettie Kirkpatrick.

Martin-Cowen—On the same day and time Mr. Allen Martin of Ludlow Ky., to Miss Laura Cowen, of this place.

Aera-Aera—At the residence of Rev. Edward Stephens, Wednesday evening, November 24th, 1880, Mr. Will Aera to Miss Tabitha Aera.

SCHOOL NOTES. BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

The two basketball games played Thanksgiving week against the Walton teams and Hebron teams seemed to be the "junk" against the Tomcats and Kittens. The Kittens winning from the Walton girls by a score of 22 to 16, and the Tomcats losing their first game of the season to the Walton boys by a close score of 18 to 17. Hebron High School won both from the Tomcats and Kittens Friday night Nov. 28th. The Kittens losing to the Hebron girls 24 to 9. The Tomcats losing to the Hebron boys 22 to 15th. Friday night Dec. 5th, the Tomcats and Kittens will play the Walton teams at Walton. So let's all be at Walton Friday night and see two fast games.

We have resumed our studies after enjoying a very pleasant vacation since Wednesday afternoon.

Marie Snelling was absent from school Wednesday.

7th and 8th

Our other society has chosen the name of Jeffersonian.

Carlyle Landrum was absent from school Monday.

We were glad to have Jeff Eddins back after a week's absence.

All enjoyed their Thanksgiving vacation.

Richard Snelling has been absent from school for the last week on account of work.

We had an old time spelling match—one side led by Betsy Eddins and the other side led by Harry Cook. Harry's side won.

First Grade

Pupils neither tardy nor absent during the month:

J. C. Dykes.
Mamie Holbrook
J. D. Jarrell.
Leslie McMullen.
Joseph Pepper.
James Gayle Smith.
Edward Stevens.
Geraldine Yelirn.
Elaine Vice.
Ada Sorrell.

We were pleased that so many parents came to our Thanksgiving entertainment. We hope that you will come again soon. We are always glad to have visitors.

The scholarship prize was won this month by Helen Cress of the first reader class; by James Gayle Smith of the first primer class and by J. D. Jarrell of the second primer class. James Gayle ranked highest in the room.

BEECH GROVE SCHOOL

Honor Roll of Beech Grove School for the third month.

Grade IV—Clifton Cline, Martha J. Hightower, Frances D. Presser, Wm. Kyle Presser, Norma M. Presser.

Grade VII—Margie Lee Brown, Alvin Clore, Harry Stephens.

Grade VIII—Jessie Lee Bagby, Frances Clore, Clifton Stephens.

Miss Iva Pearl Presser, Teacher.

Simple Formula

It isn't hard to build a resort town. You just stock up with silly souvenirs and charge too much. Akron Beacon Journal.

Romans Introduced Snail

The Romans took to Britain a large edible snail, which they cultivated for food, and this still survives in some parts of England. If it had not been for the fact that the almost helpless creature could retreat quickly into its shell it would have disappeared long ago.

Poor Kind of Invention
"Speaking of inventions," said Uncle Eben, "do men dat puts in his time inventin' stuff? but excuse don't stand much show."—Washington Star.

Largest Arch Bridge

The largest arch bridge in the world is across the harbor of Sydney, Australia. The main arch has a span of 1,650 feet. The bridge cost $30,000,000, and has a maximum capacity of 168 trains, 6,000 vehicles and 40,000 pedestrians an hour.

Bells Peal After 100 Years

After a silence of more than 100 years, the bells of the ancient church of Southfleet, England, will peal again. The three bells, among the oldest in the country, were cast in 1070, 1135 and 1136. Parishioners recently established a fund for their complete restoration.

English National Game

The game of cricket seems to have revived slowly from an older game. It is probably a specialized form of club ball. It was certainly being played under the name of cricket by boys of the free school of Guildford as early as 1550.

Work and Leisure

The balanced good life consists neither of work and service alone nor of leisure alone. Recreation implies work, and the pleasures of travel, contemplation, reading and enjoyment of the finer arts and graces are greatly enhanced by plenty of methodical and useful work.—Exchange.

Under Federal Control

The District of Columbia is under the commission form of government, administered by appointive officials. These officials are appointed by the President and a committee of the senate and a committee of the house are, in practice, the lawmaking bodies for the district. The citizens of the District of Columbia are without a vote in local as well as national affairs.

Snowfall Calculated

The weather bureau says that snowfall that occurs at the government observing stations is reduced to its equivalent in rainfall and included with the latter in determining the amount of precipitation during the year. As a rule the ratio of unmelted to melted snow is 1 to 10—that is, 10 inches of snow will ordinarily make about 1 inch of water.

Typhoid Toll Reduced
Since 1910 the typhoid death rate in large cities has been cut in half with regularity every five or six years.

Has Long History

The Worshipful Company of Weavers of the city of London which claims to be the oldest of the city companies, has celebrated its eight hundredth anniversary, the Great Pipe Roll of the exchequer showing that this company paid dues to the crown as early as 1120 A. D.

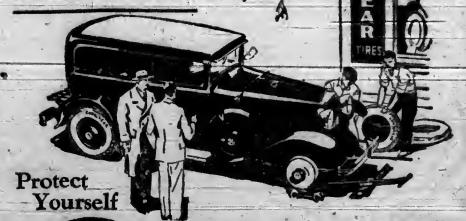

One Out of Ten Thousand
Ay, sir, to be honest, as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of 10,000.—Shakespeare.

Causes of Earthquakes

Earthquakes are occasioned by two principal causes, subterranean concussion from tectonic or volcanic causes. Strains accumulate in the strata to a point at which the elastic limit is exceeded and the fault results, probably due to shrinkage in the earth's interior by reason of cooling.

teams, while Hubert Rouse will be found as mentor on the opposing bench.

Now this game will be "all for fun and fun for all," so don't miss it. But, on the contrary, the Warsaw game may be one of the fastest contests that will be seen here this season. "Zeke" Rigney, former short stop of the local base ball team, and one of the regular referees in the Covington Y League, will officiate in this game, assuring the teams and fans of a fast, clean contest.

The admission for the game will be 15 and 25 cents, with one-fourth of the proceeds to go to the P. T. A. A season ticket to all of the games in the Covington Y League will be given away at this game to some one—so be there.

DEMOCRATIC

Centally the Old Guard has concluded that it would better pay in this short session a few prices that have to be paid soon or later in any case, and not take chances of higher prices. Therefore, there is the comforting outlook that not only will the supply bills and other routine legislation be taken care of in the short session, but action will be had on at least some of the measures that have been flagrantly suppressed by the Republican conservatives.

Of course, Mr. Snell's plan resolves itself into a recognition of the fact that while the Old Guard Republicans will control the House which assemblies on Monday, their control depends upon the votes of representatives who have been defeated at the polls. The lame ducks have it within their power to obstruct the progressives' measures until March 4, but if they exercise this power the progressives in the Senate can exercise their power to force the President to call the new Congress in special session. By conceding the opportunity to vote now on the progressive projects, Mr. Snell will do away with the strongest public reason for a special session.

At last, it would seem, partisan interest coincides with the national interest. Undoubtedly the Republicans have political objects in view.

The conservatives want to demonstrate that they are not hide-bound. They may count, however, vainly, upon making some semblance of harmony between the two wings of the party. Whatever their hopes, they would seem to have learned something from their recent calamitous misfortunes.

HAMILTON P. T. A.

The P. T. A. of the Hamilton Consolidated school will meet in the new school building on Thursday evening, Dec. 11th. After business meeting the school will render a program. Lunch will be served after program. All patrons are invited to be present at this meeting.

MRS. L. M. MOORE,

Publicity Chairman.

UNION P. T. A. NOTES

Union P. T. A. held their regular meeting Nov. 19th with Mrs. Anna Smith president in charge. At this time we launched a drive for more new members. After our business meeting was turned over to Mr. J. Gaines Huey, our efficient program committee. Mrs. Chas. Hodges gave us a splendid talk on "What Books are best for our Children?" Mrs. Arch Dickerson gave us a splendid reading from the Grist Mill. Our program was concluded by a beautiful Thanksgiving prayer by Mrs. J. L. Huey. We will hold our next meeting Wednesday Dec. 17. Please come and enjoy our splendid meetings.

The P. T. A. of Petersburg, will present "The Hoodoo" at the Uni school auditorium on Saturday night, Dec. 18th, at 7:30 o'clock. Come out and see this fine play. Children 15c. Adults 25c.

MRS. RAY NEWMAN,

Postmaster Everett Hickman was called to Van Buren, Indiana, Tuesday on account of the illness of a sister. He hoped to be able to return to his post here within a few days. Mrs. W. C. Hughes has charge of the postoffice duties during his absence.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE

Flames, originating from an unknown source, razed the residence known as the Tony Rue homestead, on the Bellevue pike, opposite the home of W. B. Arnold, last Saturday afternoon.

JERRY DELPH DEAD

Just as we go to press we learn of the death of Jerry Delph, who lives near Burlington. Mr. Delph was 83 years of age and had been suffering from paralysis for the past ten days. During that entire period he had been unable to eat or drink and death was inevitable since the time he was stricken. Mr. Delph always has been known and recognized as one of our most honorable and respected citizens and his death, although expected, is a source of grief to his many friends.

A five hundred party of ten tables was enjoyed by a number of local folks in the hall over the Peoples Deposit Bank on Thanksgiving eve.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lamb and Miss Maurine Lyles dined Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Greenup and family.

Tide's Effect Felt Afar

The Pan-American Union says that the Amazon tide is felt hundreds of miles up the Amazon.

And They Keep Busy

All blood-sucking insects are provided with suckers or lancets, with which the tissues of their victims can be pierced.

Builders of Famous Tunnel

Clifford M. Holland was the original engineer of the Holland vehicular tunnel, and this tunnel was named for him. After his death, the work was continued under the direction of his assistant, Milton H. Freeman. Six months later Mr. Freeman died, and the position of civil engineer of the project was given to Mr. A. Singstad, who saw the construction through to its completion.

English Treasure Trove

About a year ago a jar of relics was unearthed at Broadhurst manor, Horsted Keynes, England. These are gold coins of the fifteenth century and of great value from an antiquarian point of view. Even in London ancient hoards are found. A man digging a trench for a water main at Croydon found two earthenware pots, stuffed with coins, which proved to have been minted between A. D. 1257 and A. D. 1274. Though green with age, they were in excellent preservation.

Definition of Time

Time is continuous and limitless duration as the necessary condition of all actual occurrences, whether physical or mental, and at the same time, whether material or spiritual. The discussion of the origin, nature, and applicability to the real world of the time-concept has been, in the history of philosophical speculation, always closely connected with the similar discussion of the concept of space. Literary Digest.

Named for Benefactor

Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., was established by act of the general assembly of the state of Indiana following the act passed by congress concerning land-grant colleges. In 1869 John Purdue, a philanthropic business man of Lafayette, and other citizens, contributed $200,000 and a tract of 100 acres of land to the school. The major part of the contribution was from Mr. Purdue, and hence of the institution was called Purdue university.

Ass in Biblical Times

One writer says, "The most noble and honorable amongst the Jews were wont to be mounted on asses." Traditionally Mary made the journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem mounted on an ass.

The Dumb Fish

Fish, according to London Humorist, is not brain food. Perhaps some fish we eat are the ones too dumb to stay away from the hook.

Driftwood Travels Far

Great quantities of driftwood from Siberia are found up on the coast of Greenland, while camphor trees from Japan have been found on the shores of Alaska, after having floated across the Pacific.

Books in Hospitals

Books, it is proclaimed by a prominent Chicago hospital, are of definite therapeutic value. They make patients calm, according to physicians and officials of the hospital, and they hasten convalescence.

Negroes in World War

There were 42 divisions of American troops during the World war. Of these 40 were white divisions, and two, the Ninety-second and Ninety-third were negro divisions.

Unmarried Mothers Honored

In Lille, France, there is a statue of a mother and child which is dedicated to war mothers who were with out benefit of clergy.

Old Art Revived

Artists in England are reviving tempera painting, the ancient method whose secret process was lost for years, and are using yolk eggs and wax as part of the ingredients.

Eastern Wisdom

A Hindu gem of wisdom runs: "If an enemy befriends you because of a necessity which drives him to you, then with the removal of that necessity is the removal of the friendship itself."

Soup for the Invalid

Before serving soup or beef tea to a child or invalid, take a piece of tissue paper and draw it two or three times over the top. This will remove every sign of fat, which is usually so objectionable to invalids.

Mechanical Toys Seen

as Scientific Wonders
Among African negroes, a doll is supposed to have magical powers, and may be used to ward off evil, or offered up as a sacrifice.

Not so many years ago it was believed that to overcome an enemy it was only necessary to fashion a wax doll resembling him and melt it slowly before the fire, when he, too, would waste away with illness.

Toy animals, like those in Noah's ark, miniature picnics, shovels and household articles, such as miniature tea services, were buried with the dead or were offered to the gods as imitation sacrifices. Thus a farmer would present at his temple little wooden sheep or horses; the housewife would offer small reproductions of household utensils.

Mechanical toys, such as trains, dancing bears and swimming ducks, had quite a different origin. They were produced as scientific wonders, by the great experimenters of long ago, and were regarded as playthings fit for a king. The more ignorant people believed them to be miraculous and sometimes the makers had narrow escapes from execution as wizards.

"Roses of Old Virginia"

Praised by Englishman

In old Virginia there were many kinds of wild roses. As soon as tobacco and cotton plantations were established and houses were built and there was time for beauty, a rose garden was planned, laid out and planted with native roses and the fashionable roses of the Seventeenth century which were brought over from the old country.

These rose gardens are an important and very beautiful feature of every Colonial place. They are very often walled in, and low-clipped box hedges formally divide the beds. The box may be planted in most intricate fashion, as at Mt. Vernon, George Washington's home, or it may be simpler, but it is always well trimmed and cut, as the new owners of these historic old places which were left derelict for long after the Civil war take a great pride in restoring and preserving their beauty and tradition.

—Correspondent of the London Times.

Cremona Violins

Carlo Biondi Cremona was an Italian violin maker. He lived from 1600 to 1740. This master has always been considered one of the best pupils of Stradivarius. He made several models usually flat, giving to the inferior part of the body of the instrument in width whatever the superior lost or gained in length. The sound holes, rather far apart, are very near the edges. The scroll lacks roundness, but at the same time has character. His varnish, always rich and transparent, although thick in places, varies from light red to brown red, sometimes amber yellow, and has a tendency to crackle slightly. The tone is particularly beautiful, combining refinement and power, and any violins made by this man are superlatively.

Commemorative Stamp

The Battle of Fallen Timbers commemorative stamp issued by the Post Office department is a memorial to Gen. Anthony Wayne, and to commemorate the one hundred and fifth anniversary of this battle. "Mad Anthony" Wayne of Revolutionary war fame was called upon to end the Indian trouble at the frontier, when Harmar and St. Clair had failed. He began his campaign in Ohio in the fall of 1798. In 1794 he was active on the Maumee, and on August 20 defeated the Indians decisively at Fallen Timbers, and in August, 1795, he and 127 of the Northwestern tribes signed the treaty of Greenville, by which the United States acquired a large tract of territory.

Ancient Mulberry Gardens

Probably few of the guests at the king's garden parties at Buckingham palace associated the beautiful grounds with an attempt to found an English silk industry. In the reigns of Charles I and Charles II, these grounds were known as the Mulberry gardens, a place of fashionable resort mentioned by both Evelyn and Pepys. Dryden, it is recorded, used to repair here to eat mulberry tarts. The mulberry trees had been planted by James I to provide food for silkworms, one of his whims having been an attempt to encourage the production of silk.

History of Harpers Ferry

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., was named for Robert Harper, who founded it in 1747. He was born in 1703 at Oxford, England, and emigrated to America at the age of twenty. He bought the site of Harpers Ferry for 50 guineas—about $290—for the good will of a squatter named Stevens and a patent from Lord Fairfax. It was purchased from Harper's heirs by the government in 1794 for the purpose of founding a national armory of 125 acres. Later the site passed under the control of the new state of West Virginia.

New Game

After his second week in school, Billy came home with the announcement that an older boy was going to show him how to play a new game. "And what is the game?" asked his mother. "Hokey is what he calls it," responded unsuspecting Billy.

Few Learn Wisdom in

School of Experience

The notion that experience is a good teacher is one of the most baseless of human obsessions. Were it otherwise, mankind would have reached perfection long ago. "Learning teaches more in one year than experience in 20," wrote Roger Ascham in the "Schoolmaster" with profound wisdom.

The path of civilization through the ages is littered with splendid but wasted ideas. The largest visions, the deepest insights, the most compelling arguments, have been spread before the minds of men by prophets and by seers, by statesmen and by nation builders, and then let fall into the darkness of forgetfulness. Nearly everything that man has said well was best and most finely said by those ancient Greeks and Romans who after 2,500 years still rule the mind of the western world. Material waste is nothing compared with the intellectual and moral waste which follows upon our not heeding the cognates that have been offered us from generation to generation and from century to century.

He who is in advance of his time is called a prophet and he who is behind his time is called a laggard, but often laggard appears to count for as much as the prophet. It takes time, much time, to catch up with an idea. The inertia of habit is powerful. Indeed, and it struggles mightily against change even when that change is demonstrably for good.—From the Path to Peace, by Nicholas Murray Butler.

Ruins Show Design of

Ancient Indian House

In a plowed cotton field in Mississippi the complete plan of a prehistoric Indian house was discovered recently, according to Henry R. Collins, Jr., of the United States National Museum. The plan showed three shallow circular trenches, the outermost of which was 60 feet in diameter. The builders set posts firmly two feet deep within the trenches as supports for the roof. The wall of the structure was very likely of wattle-work of reeds, plastered with clay.

Traces of a fire pit were inside the house. In the outermost trench were found kitchen and household refuse, including bones of deer, bear and smaller animals, fish jaws, arrow points, a pipe and much broken pottery. Some of the pottery was of a red-and-white kind, heretofore found only in Arkansas.

Mother Cat Adopts Rabbit

Another supposed law of animal life has been proved to have an exception and the proof can be seen at the shop of M. W. Bergel at Bangor, Maine, where an old mother cat nurses and cares for a tiny wild rabbit along with her litter of kittens. Mr. Bergel found the little creature in the woods and brought it home. He was at a loss as to how he would care for the rabbit until he thought of placing it with the kittens. Mother cat gazed in a sort of perplexed manner at the strange visitor and then, as though taking pity on him, reached out her paw and drew him to her. Now the rabbit is her favorite kitten.—Boston Globe.

The Parasite

The late Secretary of War Good said at a luncheon in Washington: "It's wrong, when war comes, to conscript the youth of the country while the are at the country stays at home and produces. So we must have conscription for all, or conscription of none."

"The partial conscription of the World war reminds me, in its shameless injustice, of young Jones."

"The lazy and impunctious young Jones said to his oldest friend:

"Well, I'm going to get married. Congratulate me!"

"I do," said his friend. "But what will you live on? Love?"

"No," said Jones. "Love's father."

Success and Failure

Uncle Joe Cannon on his ninetieth birthday talked to a reporter about success and failure.

"Too many of us," he said, "are like a fisherman I came across one day on a walk in the country."

"Catching anything, friend?" I said to him.

"Naw," said he. "Every time a car goes over the bridge it scares all the fish down stream."

"Well, friend, why don't you move down stream a little?"

"They ain't no comfortable rocks there."

Radio Aids Fire Fighters

When a fire breaks out at any point along the 150 miles of docks which are under the patrol of the marine division of the New York city fire department, and the John Puroy Mitchell is dispatched to render aid, communication by means of a newly installed radio telephone is maintained with the fire fighting craft from the time it leaves its berth at the battery until it returns.

Didn't Mind 'Em

A poultry farm was infested with rats and the handy man bought a dog. After the first encounter with the pests the mistress inquired:

"Is the new dog a good ratter?"

"He is O. K. for the rats. He didn't seem to mind them at all," replied the nonplussed helper.

Camel's Swimming Power

Proved by Experience

Camels can swim if the occasion demands, despite their long association with desert travel.

While making an investigation in the archives of the Mormon church, in Salt Lake City, Frederick S. Dellenbaugh of New York found an article written in 1857 by a member of Beale's expedition in the Southwest in 1857 and 1858. The purpose of the expedition was to determine the utility of camels for transportation in the American desert.

The article, according to Mr. Dellenbaugh, related how, when the expedition reached the Colorado river there was some doubt whether the camels could swim the 200-yard stream. Lieutenant Beale led one of the animals to the water and drove it in. As soon as it found itself out of its depth, the article related, the camel struck out with ease and swam the stream. The others were sent across in batches of five or six.

This despite the writings of Huck, which describe the detention of the author at the Yellow river, in China, on account of the difficulty of crossing with camels, which, he said, could not swim.

Why Attempt to Define

Reason for Laughter?

Why do we laugh? Why do we ever begin to laugh? A psychiatrist explained the whole thing to the British association. He took the laughter of a child and divided it neatly into ten stages of development. At eighteen months the infant had discovered most of the reasons for laughter which adult minds possess.

And, lucky child, it had no more ideas at the end of it all than the rest of us have that laughter was not just a simple uproarious part of the whole jolly business of being alive. Shade of Iliabets, shade of Cervantes, shade of English Shakespeares, why did you laugh? Would you have been merrier with a list of reasons for merriment in your hands like the list of "distinct damnations" which Browning wrote about? Why do we laugh? Stuff!—Montreal Standard.

Aviator's "Reckoning"

Dead reckoning means navigating, or laying the course, taking into consideration the following factors: Air speed of the plane, true course from starting point to destination, magnetic variation at start and at destination which would affect reading of compass, miles between start and destination, wind, its direction and velocity (this would affect speed and direction of travel of plane). Considering these factors, one would figure what the true direction would be; then, applying the comparative speed and direction of the plane and how much he would have to "crab" it to keep him on his course; he would get his compass reading for his flight to make it. That is dead reckoning.

Course Ancient Tales

Fabliaux is the plural of fabliau, which is one of a kind of short metrical tale composed chiefly in the Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries by the trouvères and told for amusement merely. Fabliaux are usually comic and satirical and strictly coarse, and are often cynical, especially in their treatment of women. They throw light, however, on the state of society and the manner of everyday life. Such are the fabliaux proper, from which Boccaccio and other Italian tale-tellers, Chaucer and Moliere got directly or indirectly some of their material.

Odd Musical Instrument

The R. C. A. Theron is a development of the Theron, an invention of Prof. Leon Theron of the Institute Physio-Technique of Leningrad. It is a musical instrument operating entirely by electrical circuits. It has no stops, keyboards, or any of the other mechanical contrivances with which musicians must labor. The music which can be obtained from the device depends upon the operator only, and the motion of his hands with respect to two electrodes, one for controlling volume and the other for controlling pitch.—Washington Star.

Radio in Argentina

Radio reception is so good in Argentina that the country has become the largest importer of American made radio apparatus. The government supervises the twenty broadcasting stations, whose programs reach virtually every part of the country. Most of the 150,000 radio receivers in use are in Buenos Aires and about half of them are crystal sets, but one, two, five and eight-tube straight regenerative and three-circuit regenerative sets are becoming popular. Germany supplies most of the head sets because of their low price.

Massage the Gum

A sound tooth imbedded in a resorbed gum is not only pretty, but it is an indication of good health. The gum which is bluish red, too pale in color, or too brilliant a red, is not healthy. A gum which is coral pink is a healthy gum.

The color of a gum is due to the circulation and, as elsewhere in the body, rubbing stimulates the circulation. Consequently, brushing of the teeth is not sufficient. There should be connected with the daily brushing a careful attention to the massaging of the gums.

Chairman Legge of Farm Body "Doesn't fit Job" Says Holmes

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

(By Fred Holmes)

Washington Cor. for The Boone County Recorder

Washington—If a lawyer is like a restless sleeper he cause he "lies first on one side and then on the other," then there must be much the same similarity between the political prophet here in Washington and a man with the scabbies. Both are bound to experience discomfort no matter on what side they lie.

Pity the poor observer! To be torn by conflicting emotions in any circumstances is bad enough, but in politics to be caught between the warring elements of curiosity, uncertainty and perplexity, topped by equally balanced contradictory declarations, is calamitous. Congress settles itself down to—well, business, let us hope—and on its opening day no one has the slightest idea of what it is going to do.

Will efforts to enter untied racers in the draft-horse show be successful? If so, will the show "but up in a riot?" If not, will the show have to be given all over again after March 4? Will the elephant and the donkey slumber together peacefully in the same stall, to the discomfort of the excluded goat? If so, will it be tasks against heels in mortal combat when morning dawns, to the accompaniment of triumphant bleatings of the billy? If not, will the now semi-dehorned baa baa lose his other prong and retire from the political arena? Will the final report of the Wickersham commission mean the appearance of a camel in the judging ring? If so, will the tylopoede ruminant be ejected or permitted to remain—possibly awarded first prize? We give it up; ask us some more.

A single one of the many speculations is developing into a certainty, and that is that some compromise are just as sure as death and taxes. An offer to compromise is not a sweet morsel for any combatant to swallow. Some wisdom has aptly remarked that a compromise is most often a manifestation of "cold feet." It may be that the overtures now being made by Republican leaders of the House and Senate to the Insurgents are in that category.

Representative Snell, chairman of the House Rules Committee, has offered to facilitate votes on the Insurgents' legislative program at the present short session of Congress provided there is no pressure for a special session after March 4. Senator Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, has given this plan his approval, but with the stipulation that he will not compromise on any principle. Mr. Snell, however, does not share this compunction. Regarding the matter of Muscle Shoals, for instance, he plainly states that he is willing to "compromise" not only on the question of bringing the Norris proposal to a vote, but on the measure itself. Some say this looks more like a surrender than a compromise. Possibly it is one of those manifestations of "cold feet," for the fact is that the Government ownership crowd is anxious to strike while it thinks the iron hot. Passage of its pet measure now, even if it were vetoed, would have its psychological effect upon the next Congress. It is said that Republicans who yield now to the demands of the Insurgents are only storing up more trouble for themselves. And this applies to other measures besides Muscle Shoals.

There are also the anti-injunction bill and the Norris "lame duck" resolution. Killing the "lame duck" resolution of Congress has been prevented by the House for these many years, but at least one member of the Rules Committee is for it now. Representative Michener, Republican of Michigan, has just predicted that the Norris resolution to eliminate the short session would pass the House at this term. This is another of the items in the four point legislative program on which Senator Norris demands action as the price of affording a possible extra session in the Spring. Through amendment to the Constitution it would deprive defeated Representatives of legislative power thru seating each new Congress two months after election.

"If the people see fit to bring about a change in government by electing a new control of Congress," said Mr. Michener, "it should become effective as quickly as possible. As it is, the new Congress comes in a year later, when many questions new members are pledged to carry out may never be met."

Then there is that stumbling-block, farm debentures. This was to have been pressed as another bridge to cross before the threat of a special session could be outdistanced, but it now seems that the leaders have agreed to omit the debenture from the short-session program, and this includes some of its ardent adherents. Strong congressional support for continuance of the Federal Farm Board's wheat-buying policy was disclosed recently at the end of a two-day conference on the grain situation and agricultural legislation conducted by members of the Senate Committee on Agriculture with Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, Alexander Legge, chairman of the Farm Board, and leaders of farm organizations.

Senator McNary indicated that the conference had resulted in a better understanding all around among the Farm Board, the farm organization leaders and the committee. The organization heads recommended no legislation in the short session, but favored further trial of the present law. It was brought out that opposition of the grain trade to the Farm Board program of upholding the wheat market is causing the farm organizations to support the board more fully than they might do otherwise.

Just as conflicting have been the forecasts of the Wickersham Commission's report to be submitted next month. Predictions have ranged all the way from a recommendation for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to a flat stand for a further trial of Prohibition under existing laws. That some change will be proposed is no longer doubted, and as the best indication of this there is pointed out the sudden combative stand of the professional dry leaders in Washington. One cannot read the recent statements of Dr. Wilson and others without concluding that they are convinced the report will not please them. The dries are out in the field at the country cross-roads and in the urban residential sections everywhere doing an evangelistic work of a type they have never done before. Hitherto they have relied almost wholly upon the work of such organizations as the Anti-Saloon League. Now the dries are going beneath this leadership down to the grass roots among the rank and file voters.

It has been asserted that the Democratic party now stands committed to the wet cause, but along comes Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader of the Senate, returned to Washington after a summer in far-away, soothing Samoa, to throw down the gage of battle to his co-leaders on prohibition. Peaceful so far as is concerned the question of cooperating with the Republican Administration in passing the appropriation bills and needed measures to readjust the Nation's economic fabric, Senator Robinson flared a little on the wet-and-dry question, indicating that the rift in the Democratic party is no trivial matter. The Arkansas statesman cannot see his party favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in the next national convention, in spite of the appeal for this action by Chairman Raskob and other leaders.

Doubtless there is writing on the wall, but it is in hieroglyphics beyond the ken of a student in either politics or statecraft. What is needed at this time is a supernaturalist.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

OVERWORK

He came into my office last week, cycled me suspiciously. I thought: acted as if he'd fainted. I thought: thing happened that was unusual to him. He gave his age as 52, had been behind a counter all his life; hadn't had the time to get married, or to attempt anything not directly beneficial to himself. He had within the last month sold his business, and felt relieved by so doing. He was of foreign extraction, weakened, tremulous, greedy-looking. Examination revealed no organic disease whatever.

But there are human disorders graver even than organic disease. Here was a man with a worn-out nervous system. Every thought of rest and recreation had forsaken him long ago. He had one obsession—that he might be compelled to go to the poorhouse or starve to death before his time.

I all but lost my temper when he skittered all over the room as I tried to take his blood-pressure—made more noise than a frightened child—this man of over fifty. I told him he ought to be turned over my knee and warmed with a bed slat. He looked at the door wistfully I thought, and I told him he was perfectly welcome to decamp; go back to "business" and wind up in the bus-house! This aroused his ire a little, and he told me he hadn't been born yesterday; that he knew what he was doing. I congratulated him for his first natural expression in my presence, and told him he had probably been born, but he had never lived—he had just existed! We finally agreed and shook hands—on a schedule of conduct for him.

There is a man, a perfectly good man—headed straight for the insane asylum, unless he reforms right now, and it may be too late. Why is he in this condition? Just the mad chase for a dollar! He has it—at the price of all health and comfort. There are thousands of good men, doing the same foolish thing. This letter is just a warning; learn to rest while it is today.

EMERGENCY HOG FEED PROVES VALUABLE IN TEST

The value of Tuxedo Emergency Hog Feed as a substitute for Corn in successful hog-raising is shown by feeding tests completed by Thomas Keadrick, prominent Hamilton County Farmer on his farm near Harrison, Ohio.

Mr. Keadrick carried on this test through the sponsorship of The Early & Daniel Company, of Cincinnati, makers of Tuxedo Feeds. Five hogs were put on the test and fed six parts of Tuxedo Emergency Hog Feed to one part of a protein supplement. The gain in weight per day was approximately one and one-half pounds which is conclusive evidence that the Emergency Feed may be substituted for Corn.

Tuxedo Emergency Hog Feed is made from Cracked Wheat, Crushed Barley and Crushed Rye with Molasses. Crushing the grains instead of grinding them leaves the feeds less doughy and pasty. The Molasses increases the palatability of the feed and stimulates the appetite of the animals.

Wind Unjustly Blamed

Pollen of poison-ivy and poison oak is sticky and is not distributed by the wind as was once believed.

BOY IS MASTER CATTLE FEEDER

Paul Rich, a 10-year-old Garrard county 4-H Club boy, proved his mastery of cattle feeding when he won the grand championship of the recent annual Fat Stock Show at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville. It was his second grand championship in a show that attracts 800 to 1,000 highly finished cattle. Paul's purebred Aberdeen-Angus calf sold to Swift & Company of Chicago for $31 a hundred or $257. He also won about $150 in prizes.

TOBACCO SALES

Henderson, Ky., Nov. 27.—Dark tobacco sales at two of Henderson's warehouses averaged $8.52 per hundred pounds here Wednesday. At the Ogden warehouse, 265,735 lbs. brought a total of $25,165.10 for an average of $9.75 per hundred. The day's high basket sold for $35.

At the Tri-County warehouse 53,310 pounds were auctioned off for $5,296.37, an average of $9.75.

Time Added to Value

Pineapple Salad

More and more we are using canned pineapple for salad. It combines well with many things, and is good with French Mayonnaise dressing. Served with cream cheese ball in the round cavity in the center it is delicious.

With three dates stuffed with cheese.

With a pile of diced orange and grapefruit pulp in the center.

With a candied cherry or a fat prune in the center.

Sprinkled with coarsely ground or chopped pecan nuts or walnuts.

All these combinations with either mayonnaise or French dressing.

Here is another good pineapple salad. Use a cup of chopped or minced pineapple, not the slices. Add a grapefruit, in small pieces, and half a cup of chopped celery, finely cut and the sweet, tender heart section. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Another salad is made with endive. One stalk of endive on each plate is filled with alternate chunks of grapefruit pulp and pineapple and the whole is served with French dressing, made very oily.

Pineapple Omelet

Beat three eggs with a tablespoon of sugar and at the least a teaspoon each of lemon juice and pineapple juice and a pinch of salt. Grease and have hot an omelet pan and put the omelet mixture in it and cook in the regular way. Have ready a cup of grated pineapple and when the omelet is still quite soft add a cup of grated or chopped pineapple. Fold over the omelet and serve.

A BOOST FOR W. W. GAINES

(Atlanta Journal of Labor)

It was a good day's work when the board of education elected W. W. Gaines president. No member of that body has the confidence of the workers to a greater degree than does Mr. Gaines. And every bit of this confidence is well deserved. As we look at him, Mr. Gaines is one of the sincerest, most spiritually minded, golden-hearted men in public life. During his decade of service to the schools at Atlanta he has not been growing old alone with the children, but he has been growing young along with them. And as we hear the children talk and as we hear of the splendid influence he is having on them, we are convinced that no single person, except, perhaps, Supt. Sutton, has left his stamp on the children of Atlanta more plainly than has Mr. Gaines.

Early Users of Tobacco

On the Admiralty Islands in the Pacific, children of both sexes begin to smoke tobacco at the age of three.

Rat Made Trouble

Rats have been known to select most unusual places in which to build their nests. A farmer in Stratford, New Zealand, who uses his car only occasionally was startled to see smoke curling up between the floor boards as he drove along. He promptly searched for the cause of the smoke and found it in a rat's nest which had been built on the exhaust pipe of the engine, and had been ignited by the heat of the pipe.

"Parting Shot" Is Will

The will has just been proved of a man living in a suburb of London who died last November, in which he left to his wife: "One pair of my trousers, free of duty, and carriage paid, as a symbol of what you wanted to wear in my lifetime, but did not." That was one time a woman didn't get in the last word.—Capper's Week.

Named for the Days of the Week

In the South Pacific ocean there are islands bearing the names of Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The tradition is that with the exception of Thursday Island, they are so-called because those are the days on which Captain Cook visited those shores. It may be that the name of Thursday Island originated in the same manner, but natives insist that such was not the case.

Forest's Place in Nature

It would seem that eventually the world must come back to a second and permanent age of wood for fuel, almost all construction materials, and many other uses. The forest is the only resource that may be consumed and yet not exhausted, and it is the only material that can take the place of coal, oil and iron—Exchange.

Railways Found Wanting

In 1835 it was stated in the British house of commons that the experiment of conveying goods on a railway had been tried, and had completely failed. The best locomotive that could be found had been selected, and the average rate on a plane surface was less than three and three-quarters miles an hour, which was slower than canal conveyance.—Detroit News.

Freed From Pain After Suffering Two Years

"For two long years I was in agony, the pains were so severe I lost much sleep and became very nervous; my limbs were swollen—I carefully followed advice rendered me by people who were supposed to know. I took medicine daily, but none seemed to affect my condition. As time went on I became desperate, my kidneys were bothering me more than ever, my bladder had become weak, and I was compelled to arise many times during the night. Karnak was recommended and I decided to find out just what it would do. I have used several bottles and just what a glorious change, no one can ever realize. I have no pain whatsoever, my system is gradually becoming normal and I feel better than I have in years. I shall always praise and advise Karnak to anyone suffering from rheumatism."

Jeff Mills Indicted For Willful Murder In Killing Of Young

TRIAL IS SET FOR NEXT MONDAY—COURT APPOINTS A. M. EDWARDS, JR., OF WALTON, TO DEFEND ACCUSED—UNABLE TO OBTAIN PAID COUNSEL

The December term of the Boone Circuit Court opened promptly at nine o'clock Monday morning with Judge J. G. Vallandigham at the helm. Judge Vallandigham was on hand at the appointed hour due to the fact that he had arrived here early Sunday afternoon, doing away with the long drive from Owenenton before the opening of court on Monday.

A severe cold handicapped Judge Vallandigham to a great extent Monday, though he appeared considerably improved Tuesday. County School Superintendent D. H. Norris opened court Monday with prayer, after which the usual routine of empaneling the grand and petit juries followed.

Newton Sullivan, Jr., of Burlington, was named as foreman of the grand jury with the following men completing the panel: E. G. Stephenson, J. L. Bullock, Alva Wood, W. L. Crigler, P. J. Allen, G. S. Aylor, Cecil Frazier, N. W. Carpenter, R. L. Vest, Andy Cook and E. H. Clure.

Petit Jury No. 1 was made up of William W. R. Garnett, O. R. Bush, W. B. Woodward, S. C. Garnett, S. L. Aylor, Edgar T. Aylor, Chas. L. Aylor, J. C. Aylor, James C. Aylor, and J. C. Aylor.

Petit Jury No. 2 was composed as follows: D. A. Morris, H. S. Tanner, W. E. Jones, Leland Snyder, Harry Brown, J. H. Fealy, O. T. Easton, Charles Carpenter, Grant Williamson, J. B. Lamb, L. D. Renneker, and H. L. McGinnis.

Visiting attorneys at the bar for the first session Monday included John W. Heaver, of Newport, and James T. Hooper, of Covington. It was Mr. Hooper's first appearance in the local courts. A. M. Edwards, Jr., of Walton and Cynthia, was enrolled as a member of the local bar. Mr. Edwards is a graduate of the University of Kentucky Law College and is a member of a prominent law firm at the county seat of Harrison county, with a constantly growing practice.

Members of the Boone county bar, who were on hand the first day were O. M. Rogers, Covington, D. E. Castleman, Erlanger, John J. Howe, Covington, B. H. Riley, County Attorney, and Ward Yager, Commonwealth's Attorney.

The absence of two regular practitioners at the local bar was a source of deep regret to other attorneys, as well as court officers and members of the jury. County Judge N. E. Riddell and Senator S. W. Tolin both were kept away from the opening session of the term. The illness of Mrs. Riddell in San Antonio, Texas, required the presence of Judge Riddell there, while Mr. Tolin's own illness rendered him unable to attend to his practice.

It is the first term of court in more than fifty years at which Senator Tolin has been incapacitated from duty, while it is doubtful if Judge Riddell ever has missed a term in his long practice. John J. Howe is handling the business of Mr. Tolin, while B. H. Riley attends to matters in the hands of Judge Riddell.

Mills Is Indicted

The first matter to come to the attention of the grand jury was the investigation of the death of Charles Young, which occurred on Sunday morning, November 9. This investigation resulted in the returning of an indictment for willful murder against Jeff Mills, who had been arrested a few hours after the tragedy, and placed in jail here, where he has been awaiting the action of the grand jury since that time.

Mills was brought into court Monday morning, immediately after the report of the indictment by the grand jury, and informed of the charge. He said that he had no counsel and, although he had made every effort to raise funds for his defense, had been unsuccessful. Judge Vallandigham gave him until Tuesday morning to

NEW UNIFORMS

PROVE JINX TO BURLINGTON BAPTISTS IN OPENING WITH WARSAW—BUS WILL GO TO COVINGTON THIS WEEK

The Burlington Baptists initiated two things last Saturday evening on the local basketball court.

They initiated new uniforms and a losing streak. They intend to stop the losing streak, though the new uniforms they propose to wear through out the season will, they hope, both honor and success.

The defeat they suffered was at the hands of the Warsaw Baptists and the first they have sustained this season. It will be recalled that the Warsaw Baptists were defeated by the locals in their first tilt in the Covington Y church league the previous Saturday. The game was so fast and interesting that R. E. Berkshire, manager of the home team, selected them as suitable opponents for the official opening of the local season and dedication of some very new uniforms. It must be admitted that his choice was bad, very bad. For the Warsaw boys demonstrated that new uniforms have no terrors for them, while Burlington played as though Red and Black flannel made them itch in spots.

That the defeat irked the home boys is saying nothing—they were sore, very sore, and promise to redeem themselves at the expense of the Latonia Christians in the Y league next Saturday eve. Of course an alibi has to be in order. Ray Hickman, star running guard of the Baptists, was kept away from the game on account of overtime work at his job in Cincinnati. Frank Mearns, crippled and not having been in the gymnasium, and the fact that the Warsaw lads claim that they can repeat the dose at any time and place and the two teams may meet again.

As for the game as played—the score was Warsaw 73, Burlington 20. Utz sank the leather for a total of eight points with Lamb accounting for six while Witt with seventeen and W. Kemper with eleven were the whole works for the Gallatin county boys.

Bus to Covington

Next Saturday the Baptists play the Latonia Christians at the Covington Y gymnasium and a bus has been engaged to take the team and rosters to the game. The transportation charge will be 25 cents for the round trip and it certainly is reasonable. Since the team treasury will have to stand the balance of the cost of the bus, after the extra passengers have paid their fare, it behooves all loyal home town boosters, who like basket ball, to be on hand at exactly 5:45 (slow time). The game starts one hour and fifteen minutes later, or at 7:00 (slow time). Don't forget the time—bus leaves Burlington at 5:45 and game starts at 7:00 (slow time).

The above is a replica of the 1930 Christmas Seal which is being sold for a penny apiece throughout the State of Kentucky to aid in combating the disease of Tuberculosis and preventing its spread.

These Seals are being sold in Boone County, Mrs. Mabel Sayre, of Florence, has charge of the sale and is mailing them out to people whom she believes will want to help in this great work, however anyone wishing them who does not receive a sheet of them may write her for as many as desired. They are the prettiest and stickest of Christmas Seals, which make a Christmas card or package a gift for Health for next year.

News of the improvement of Mrs. N. E. Riddell has been received here since the arrival of Judge Riddell at the home of her sister in San Antonio, Texas. Both Judge and Mrs. Riddell are planning to return to Burlington about January 15.

VICTORY

OF LEANS UPSETS LOCAL BAS BALL DOPE IN "FREAK" GAME SATURDAY NIGHT—FATS CRAVE REVENGE

While "heavy" odds were offered on the Fats, and the Leans were not even accorded a "slim" chance by the local dopsters, yet, like the Roekne Ramblers of Notre Dame had done just a few short minutes before, they upset the old dope bucket and plastered a humiliating defeat on the spacious racks of the Disciples of Compulsivity in the feature game on the Burlington High School court last Saturday evening.

The contest had attracted a record crowd for the home gym and the rooting was spirited, though accentuated at times by raucous yells from the sidelines when a Fat or a Lean missed a crisp shot. The final score was 20-0 and with one minute to go the count was tied at six-all. The score at the half stood at this "double zero, showing" either some sterling defense, or, as 101 per cent of the crowd agreed, some terrible offense.

Bill Cotton, agile center for the Fats, started the game's scoring when he dropped a nice shot just after the second half had started. This marker was followed by a goal from the hands of Lanky Shelby Pettit. Then Norris, who displayed dandling speed throughout the evening, made a free throw to make the count 2-2 in favor of the Fats at the third quarter.

Both sides turned loose a barrage of field goals in the final period, with Shelby Pettit making another and E. P. Motts, a city forward, sinking a pair. A free throw by Motts counted the scoring for the Leans.

Local fans, who had been known to be in the crowd, were in evidence.

To the surprise of both players and fans there were no "kicks" after the game. All of the boys were able to stand on both feet Sunday morning with no evident signs of suffering.

Those who did their bit for the Fats, included "Doc" Yelton, "Prof." Nelkirk, Dud Blythe, Ransom Ryle, Bill Cotton, "Supe" Norris and A. Pettit, while the victorious Leans used, Burton, "Shoats" Easton, Windy" Easton, "Knights Pythias" Lotte, Slim Pettit, "Juby" Huey and "Bug" Ogden.

Both sides want to repeat the performance and, if the suffering public will stand for it, the dose may be handed out in the near future.

SHEEP RAID

DISASTROUS TO FLOCK OF CHAS. MAXWELL SMITH AND GAINES ALSO SUFFER—TWO DOGS KILLED

Dogs raided the flocks of sheep belonging to Charles Maxwell, Smith Brothers and Hubert Gaines, on the Petersburg pike near Burlington last Sunday morning.

One was killed and one wounded in each the Gaines and Smith flocks while only two sound animals in a flock of fourteen remained of Maxwell's. Four were killed outright, while the remainder, with the exception of one ram and one ewe, were wounded very badly.

Two dogs were seen and recognized by the Smith Brothers in their flock. One was shot and killed on their farm, while the other was wounded and followed to Burlington, where it was killed.

AYLOR—PHILLIPS

While it is not news to many of their local friends, we announce the marriage this week of B. E. Aylor and Mrs. Blanche Phillips, which took place at Warsaw, Gallatin county, on November 20th. They were accompanied to Warsaw by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eddins. Mr. and Mrs. Aylor have been receiving the hearty congratulations of their host of friends and in which the Recorder joins with extreme pleasure.

All members of Patriarch Camp No. 12,004 are urged to go to the home of Albert Brown in Saturday afternoon, December 12th, to assist with the preparation of his grave.

Death Claims Thomas Brewer, Serving Term In State Reformatory

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

On Thursday of this week the Woman's Missionary Society of the Union Baptist church will observe the Day of Prayer for foreign missions. At this time the Little Moon Christmas Offering will be taken for the advancement of Missionary work in many lands.

The program, in charge of Mrs. N. S. Bristow, begins promptly at 10 o'clock at the church, and is planned in such a way as to give inspiration and help and also missionary information to all who attend.

Misses Mellicent Ann and Helen Berkshire spent the week-end with Miss Helen Hall Shearer at her home in Newport, where they were delightfully entertained.

The many Boone county friends of Miss Rose Lindenburg, of Newport, were sorely grieved to learn of her untimely death, which occurred on Thursday of last week. She is survived by her two brothers, Henry and Jack, veteran steamboat pilots, who have a world of friends in this section, and who extend to them their sincere sympathy. The Lindenburgs formerly lived at Bellevue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Rice, of Walton, were in Burlington on business of this week. Mr. Rice, who is president of the Walton Spanish Club, was one of the youngest and best presidents in the state.

Don't forget to see the American Legion Minister, which will be exhibited at Petersburg, Burlington and Walton on dates announced in other columns of this issue. That is, if there isn't a law passed against it before the schedule is finished.

B. B. Grant observed his seventy-first birthday at his home here last Sunday, when his sons Chester and Robert and families, of the Idlewild neighborhood, gathered at his home for the event. Another visitor at the Grant home that day was Mrs. Grant's mother, Mrs. Barroet, of Lawrenceburg, Indiana. Few men have the privilege of entertaining a mother-in-law on their seventy-first birthday.

Quite a number of the patrons of the local school attended the chapel exercises in the school auditorium last Friday afternoon. Students of the seventh and eighth grades and the first two years of high school participated in the program, which was prepared with less than two days' notice. It was a splendid performance, thoroughly enjoyed by everyone, and a credit to those who took part, as well as to the editor Miss Hazel Cabbage, assistant High school principal.

The Fiscal Court at its regular meeting on Tuesday of last week re-elected County Farm Agent H. R. Korkner and Public Health Nurse Miss Eunice Willis for the year 1931. This news will be welcomed by the many citizens of the county who have benefited, or have seen the splendid results of their work.

Mrs. Myrtle Charles, of Cincinnati, spent the week-end with Mrs. B. B. Aylor here.

HERE AND THERE

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brady have as guests for dinner Sunday, B. S. Molloy, of Ohio, and Mrs. S. E. Carpenter.

Cleveland Snyder and family, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Alice Snyder, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter.

Mrs. Bea Rouse is visiting Mrs. Hildreth Dolwick, of near Lincolnton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Aikens and Mrs. Victor Rouse, all of Cincinnati, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Lavada Rouse, of near Lincolnton.

SUCCUMBS TO ATTACK OF SPINAL-MENINGITIS AFTER SERVING LESS THAN ONE YEAR OF TEN YEAR SENTENCE—MILTON'S RELATIVES WORKING FOR PARDON

With the trial of another of Boone county's rare cases impending this week, memories of the last such trial were revived in court here Monday when two sisters of Leroy Milton appeared here to take the first steps toward gaining a pardon for their brother.

They also brought the news of the death of Thomas Brewer, who was convicted of complicity in the killing of W. L. Johnson at the last December term of this court and sentenced to ten years at Frankfort. Brewer died of spinal meningitis, according to Milton's sisters, who were visiting their brother at the time of his death about three weeks ago.

It will be recalled that the commonwealth sought the death penalty for three men—Milton, Brewer and Keplinger—Keplinger having been sentenced to 10 years, while Milton drew the life term. Ironically enough Brewer was given the death penalty by a Higher Court.

The Milton sisters claim that their brother is afflicted with tuberculosis and that it is only a matter of a short time until he will follow the same path of Brewer.

Confinement at Frankfort. There he has made almost successful attempts to escape, but recently regained the good graces of prison officials as a reason of his heroic efforts in a prison fire, it is said.

WOODMEN

HOLD BIG MEETING HERE TUESDAY NIGHT—CLASS OF 23, INCLUDING 12 WOMEN—TURKEY FEAST ENJOYED

The largest meeting of Woodcraft ever before held in Boone county was held at Burlington Tuesday evening when representatives of many of the Boone county camps assembled in the meeting hall of Patriarch Camp, where 28 candidates were adopted, 12 of whom were ladies. It also was said to be the largest class of ladies in Northern Kentucky.

State Deputy J. M. Chifford, of Louisville, was present and made a very interesting talk.

At the close of the camp a delicious turkey feast was served by the ladies of the local camp.

A GREAT DAY

The members of the W. M. S. of Petersburg Baptist church were delightfully entertained in an all-day meeting with Mrs. Maude Howard on Friday Dec. 5th, the occasion being our "Little Moon" offering. The morning session was taken up with the usual devotional and business of the Society, followed by the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Mrs. O. S. Watts, President.
Mrs. Earl Acra, 1st V-President.
Mrs. Maude Howard 2nd V-President.
Miss Arlie Kyle, Secretary.
Mrs. J. M. Grant, Treasurer.
Mrs. Mary Theegee Personal Services.

After this came the noon hour of social fellowship and a bountiful lunch. The afternoon program was full of good things to think about. One of the leading features of interest was the report from the W. M. U. Convention at Louisville by our Group Leader Mrs. Etta Snyder.

Her message was full of inspiration and helpfulness. The Little Moon offering was made graciously and completely full the joy of having accomplished the purpose of the offering.

THE BLUE RIBBON OF COOKING

Sam H. Thompson, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has awarded the title of "Culinary Champion of all Farm Women Cooks in America" to Mrs. M. L. Friese of Redwood Falls, Minnesota. Mrs. Friese won this contest because she stuck to tradition and got up precisely the same kind of a Thanksgiving dinner that our own folks had.

There was turkey, of course. Can't have a real Thanksgiving dinner without turkey—with parsley dressing and giblet sauce. And cranberry ice and glazed sweet potatoes and mince pie and pumpkin pie, besides all the other vegetables and "fixings" that go to make up a genuine old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner. We just aren't going to put them all down here. We'd starve to death waiting to get home to dinner if we didn't stop writing about good things to eat right now.

What we were starting out to say is that with all the new-fangled notions about balanced meals and reducing diets and vitamins and calories and suchlike, we had been wondering whether the art of cooking wasn't becoming a lost art, outside of the homes of those ladies we spoke about a little way back. It's not, praise be. The country is safe. There are still good cooks left in the land, and they know what a good dinner ought to consist of, and Mrs. Friese and her five hundred other who competed for the Farm Bureau are not all of them, by a long way.

SCHOOL NOTES.

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

The two basketball teams from Burlington High School journeyed to Walton last Friday night December 10th, and went down to a defeat to the Walton teams. The Kittens lost to Walton girls by a one sided score. Jones was the high point maker for Walton, making 9 of their 20 points. The Kittens were not able to get but one point in last half so they lost the game 20 to 7.

The Tomcats again gave the Walton boys a hard fight but finally lost by a close score of 16 to 12. In the first half the Tomcats had the Walton boys 7-2. Maurer was high point man for the Tomcats, making 6 of 12 points. Next Friday night, December 12, two Grant County teams, this time represented by Dry Ridge, will play the Tomcats and Kittens in Burlington Gymnasium. Dry Ridge teams have been defeating some of the strongest teams in northern Kentucky. So if you want to see some fast games be on hand next Friday night.

Emily Cason was not able to attend school Monday.

We are very sorry to hear that Irvin Ryle has withdrawn from school.

Marie Snelling was absent from school Monday.

The program given by High School and seventh and eighth grade pupils was attended by a large number of visitors and all reported a very enjoyable afternoon. Come again.

The H-Y boys are planning to have a field meet one day this week under the direction of Mr. William Ewald, District Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

The Girls Reserve has chosen four women as members of the Woman's Council: Mrs. R. E. Berkshire as handicraft manager; Mrs. Walter Brown as Religious Manager; Mrs. A. B. Renaker as Vocational Manager; and Mrs. W. B. Cotton as Entertainment Manager.

could have given Mrs. Friese a run for her money if they had entered the Farm Bureau contest. In fact, we know several ladies who, in our humble judgment, can make a cook-stove perform more miracles than Edison ever dreamed of. And we feel that Mrs. Friese won this contest because she stuck to tradition and got up precisely the same kind of a Thanksgiving dinner that our own folks had.

There was turkey, of course. Can't have a real Thanksgiving dinner without turkey—with parsley dressing and giblet sauce. And cranberry ice and glazed sweet potatoes and mince pie and pumpkin pie, besides all the other vegetables and "fixings" that go to make up a genuine old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner. There are still good cooks left in the land, and they know what a good dinner ought to consist of, and Mrs. Friese and her five hundred other who competed for the Farm Bureau are not all of them, by a long way.

Our High School has at last decided to enter the field of Debate. We have six students working hard on the state question of "Resolved that the Chain Store System is Detrimental to the American Public." We have our first debate next Friday Dec. 12. Harold Kelly, Claude, Martha, Blythe and Hallie Stephens are upholding the affirmative side of the question while Marvin Moore, Bailey Greenup and Wilma Cotton are for the negative side.

7th and 8th Grades
We were glad to have Carlyle Lamm back Monday after a long absence.

Anna Mae Lennhoff also came back Monday after an absence of a week.

HEBRON

Clarence Jansen, of Covington, spent the day with Elmer Carpenter one day the past week and enjoyed a hunt.

Some tobacco has been stripped, but few are ready to deliver.

Henry Dixon is working for the Consolidated Telephone Co.

Quails are scarce and the few found seem to be of the Mexican strain and are wild and good fliers. Rabbits are plentiful.

Some of our boys are watching every porly man that arrives, and will until the big twelve adjourns.

Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Hunter left Friday for a trip to Italy.

Rumor says that Mrs. Jackson will rebuild the store that burned.

Wm. and Everett Dixon have been on the sick list.

The Mutual Telephone Co. voted down the Consolidated Telephone Company's proposition Saturday at Union.

Many of our feeders are feeding wheat with corn to hogs, and report favorably as to results, and it helps rid the wheat surplus.

GUNPOWDER

E. K. Tanner butchered his hogs on Tuesday of last week.

Uncle Steve Ro bins, a retired farmer, is making his home at present with his daughter Mrs. Willis Berkshire and Mr. Berkshire at Florence.

John Rich is helping Earl Waters

CONQUERORS

A great merchant of my acquaintance, who is a friend of Gene Tunney, told me that what occurred after the final Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Gene, who never loved the crowds or was greatly loved by them, wanted to get away immediately. His idea of the way to spend the evening of victory was to hide himself with a few companions in a hotel bedroom.

His friend said: "Gene, you could have done that if you had lost. But you won. You are champion of the world. Whether you like it or not you must pay the price of championship. And part of the price is to be seen by the crowd."

In telling the story the merchant enlarged upon the theme.

"When I became manager of one of our stores, I had to do a lot of things I did not like to do," he said. "When I became head of all the stores my unpleasant duties increased. Now I get to the office before nine o'clock every morning, and a large part of my day is consumed in duties that are more or less distasteful. The only man who can do as he pleases is the failure. Every step up that you take means that you belong less to yourself and more to other people."

As he spoke I thought of some examples that have come under my own observation.

The partners of Morgan & Company are the princes of the modern strip his large crop of tobacco.

Harve Tanner of near Florence, was in our burg on Thursday of last week, and made this pencil shaver a brief call.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pettit spent Sunday in the Long Branch neighborhood and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rouse and Mrs. Myrtle Adams.

Robt. Newman is handling a lame back very carefully.

Ernest Horton sent a truck load of porkers to market on Thursday of last week.

The new house of Lyman Rice is about completed and he will probably occupy it by the first of the year.

RABBIT HASH

The Missionary Society met with Mrs. Adah West Thursday. One new member was added to their society.

Mrs. Wm. Ogden, whom they were glad to get.

The Ladies Aid Society met with Mrs. Addie Scott Thursday, which was a special meeting.

A few from here attended the play at Bellevue Saturday night.

Mrs. L. C. Craig and son, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., spent a few days with Mr. S. J. Stephens and sons and assisted in their hog killing last week.

Mrs. S. B. Ryle spent last Saturday with her daughter Mrs. Iva Walton and family near Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brady, of Waterloo, spent Thursday with Mr. Robert H. Wilson and family.

Mrs. Anna Wilson has been quite poorly the past week.

Mrs. Blanche Phillips and daughter Mary, of Burlington, were in our town Saturday.

Jesse West, of Indianapolis, has been visiting relatives here.

Charles Craig and daughter Hazel, were shopping in the city Friday.

Mrs. Sallie Bodie called on Mrs. Lucy A. Ryle Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Stephens entertained company Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Glor called on Mrs. Emma Craig Wednesday afternoon.

Hugh Stephens and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Scott, Sunday.

Mrs. Eugene Wingate spent Wednesday and Thursday with her niece business world. If you stand outside their building on almost any winter's evening you will see the lights burning in at least a part of the private offices. The lower floors may be dark. The clerks and accountants have gone home. But almost some of the partners are still on the job.

I spent a day with Coolidge while he was still President. He was supposed to be on vacation. He fished a little in the morning, but it was the least relaxing job of fishing that I ever witnessed. A secret service man stood at his elbow and another kept watch from behind the bushes on the bank.

Once, for a week I travelled in a private car with the president of a great corporation. Every morning we left the car at eight o'clock and called on dealers in their stores. We lunched with a group of them at noon, and had another group with us until midnight. At midnight we went to bed, to awake up the next morning in another city and do the whole thing all over again.

It was a tougher week than any actor ever spent.

The big jobs look attractive from a distance, but when you get close to them you find a large price pinned on each one.

Some of us who have been close enough to read the figures on the tape find it quite easy to reconcile ourselves to remaining quietly and contently below.

Mrs. Press West and family in East Pond.

J. H. Walton and family entertained company Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Stephens entertained quite a few for dinner last Sunday.

A few from here attended the Teachers meeting at Burlington last Saturday.

The Baptists sent an offering to the Louisville Orphans Home Saturday. Thanks to everyone who gave.

VERONA

Killing hogs and stripping tobacco is the order of the day.

The Sunday school and the Baptist members here sent a nice lot of things to the Orphans Home at Louisville, on the eve of Thanksgiving.

Last Thursday G. E. Powers, of Rising Sun, Ind., and A. C. Roberts and wife were called to the bedside of Mrs. Maggie Powers, who is quite ill at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Johnson, south of Falmouth.

Edgar Powers, of Rising Sun, Ind., visited Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Roberts last Wednesday.

We were blessed with a good rain last Saturday which was appreciated by everybody, as water was very scarce.

Raymond Stephenson is putting a roof on his garage, which will soon be completed.

James Ransom, who is attending college at Lexington, spent Thanksgiving here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ransom.

Achieving Success

Some men succeed by what they know; some by what they do; and a few by what they are.—Elbert Hubbard.

Christian Church History

Mageburg centuries was the name given to the first great work of Protestant divines on the history of the Christian church. It was begun at Mageburg by Matthias Flacius in 1552 and published at Basel in 1560-74. They were called centuries because each volume contained the history of a century and there were 13 volumes, carrying the history of the church from the first to the fourteenth century.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Sunday School Lesson

SAUL OF TARSUS

Acts 22:3-15

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
A person can be conscientious and wrong. This was illustrated in Saul of Tarsus, than whom there was no more positive Pharisee. He was devout and faithful in all that he understood to be right.

Saul had been especially honored in being entrusted with letters of authority and accompanying soldiers that he might proceed to Damascus and bring those who confessed faith in Jesus Christ there back to Jerusalem for trial. He was in such haste to reach his destination that when he neared Damascus as noon approached he refrained from the usual mid-day siesta that he might the more speedily arrive at his destination and begin the investigation. Then the miracle occurred that changed his entire viewpoint.

Above the brightness of the noon day sun there was a manifestation of the glory of God in the open heavens. Others were aware of the vision but they did not hear the voice that demanded of Saul "Why persecutest thou me?"

Glory from the throne had blinded the man who a moment before had been so sure of himself. He had to yield himself to the hand of another as entrance was made into the city.

Then came three days of meditation and personal communion with the Lord, in Whom he now believed as the Saviour of mankind because of His redemptive work on the cross at Calvary. In a vision Ananias is directed to go to Saul and naturally he hesitates until he is assured that this once fierce man has experienced a change of heart.

"Brother Saul" is the gracious salutation and this is suggestive of the brotherhood of man that exists through the right understanding of the Fatherhood of God. Saul was encouraged. Then his joy was without bounds as sight was miraculously restored to his eyes.

F. C. Giltner, Forest Reeves and Dr. A. G. Ellison, three Henry county farmers, have been admitted to the state time honor roll for having limed three-fourths of their tillable land.

Friendship's Demand

The condition which high friendship demands is ability to do without it.—Emerson.

Work for Scientists

It has been estimated that the blindness in the world could be reduced by half in the course of a generation, if intensive scientific effort were given to the problem.

Original "Alarm Clock"?

The story is told of Aristotle that his love of study was so great that he devised the plan of holding in his hand while at work a ball of copper, which, if he fell asleep, would rouse him by falling into a metal basin.

Jamaica's Momentous
Jamaica is filled with interest for the tourist. Kingston, the capital and principal city, is the usual port of call for ships. Here, in one church, are the burial places of Morgan, one of the most famous of the buccanniers that roamed the Spanish main, and the coat of arms of Admiral Nelson, who once made his headquarters at Kingston.

Listing a Few Faults

A California man, suing his wife for divorce after less than two years of marriage, says that she is "sullen, mean, irritable, morbid, disagreeable, nasty, gruesome, cold, bitter, jealous, heckling, playful, loathsome, insulting, brazen, miserly, gluttonous, temperamental, selfish, contemptuous, inattentive, uncivil and inconsiderate."

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Edwin Gaines made a record as a bird hunter, one day last week, of which he is proud John Baldon, who heard Edwin describe the excellent work of his dog, says he went into the particulars too extensively.

Chas. Fortwood and Jack Sandford examined a few days ago, what were supposed to be Indian graves, on the farm of the late E. A. Hughes, but they found no traces of the remains of an Indian.

Attorney James Terrill and wife, of Covington, were guests of Dr. E. W. Duncan and wife, Saturday night.

Born—To Arlie Adams and wife, a fine daughter.

James Allen is making a big sacrifice, serving on the jury this week. He wanted to go hunting.

Gasburg

Ben Berkshire shipped 54 fat hogs to the city, Monday.

While hunting one day last week, Philip Klopp was seriously hurt by his gun bursting. A part of two fingers on his left hand were so badly mangled that amputation of them at the second joint was necessary, another finger and the palm of his hand were badly injured. The gun was discharged with smokeless powder.

Hal Wells, who was raised in this place, died last Thursday at his father's in Ohio County, Indiana.

Plattsburg

Will Wofford is home from Ill. J. W. Berkshire, of Petersburg, was buying tobacco in this neighborhood, a few days ago. He bought two small crops, paying $5 and $2 for one, and $4 and $2 for the other.

Miss Lou Sebrer has been spending a few weeks in the city.

Ben Akin and family spent last Sunday with Henry Jarrell.

FORTY YEARS AGO

James White from down on Gunpowder, dropped in to see the Recorder last week. He said the scarlet fever had made its appearance in G. A. Ryle's family.

J. Wood Riggs of the Constance neighborhood, called in to see us Saturday.

County Attorney Tolin has been quite sick since last Friday.

Timothy Westbay and wife mourn the loss of their girl, aged 10 months. It had pneumonia, and although all that could be done, for her, the stubborn disease could not be conquered, and the dear little one died Wednesday night. The remains were buried in the old cemetery Friday afternoon.

The little crib is empty now,
The little clothes laid by,
A mother's hope, a father's joy,

In death's cold arm doth lie.

J. F. Blythe and wife, were quite sick with a severe cold last week.

J. M. Lansing made a visit to Union, Monday.

James Hogan's little son who has been quite ill with pneumonia for several days is getting better.

Uttinger

M. F. Wingate will pack 250 hogs this season.

Squire Ott Gaines is said to be the best wing shot in the county.

Esra Aylor, of Big Bone, was visiting the Rice boys several days last week.

E. P. Walton has ordered new boxes for the postoffice at this place. They will be in place by the first of the new year.

James and Morgan Tolin have been engaged for several days repairing the large barn of Rice Bros. This barn was built over 100 years ago, and two men were killed raising it.

N. S. Walton sold his hogs to parties in Lawrenceburg for $3.50, and his cattle for $2.50. Cattle are hardly worth raising at any more.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

The Jailer, Mr. Samuel Cowen, has kindly consented to allow the Dramatic Club to occupy the Court House during the holidays, with the express understanding that the building and furniture are not to be injured.

Mr. Dudley Rouse has greatly improved the front of his store by putting glass in the front doors.

One day last week Robert Sanford and Joe Minor, who were covering Mr. Ed. Baker's barn, narrowly escaped a serious accident occasioned by the falling of a scaffold. Minor was on the scaffold and was not hurt, but Sanford was immediately beneath it, on a ladder. He was knocked off by the falling timbers, and fell about fifteen feet, receiving an ugly wound on the side of his head, besides hurting one arm considerably.

We are glad to learn that Master Frank Smith has about recovered from an attack of typhoid fever.

Belleview

Gov. Moody has completed his new residence and moved in last week. N. W. Botts Esq., has moved in the mansion of the late R. H. Botts with his mother.

The thermometer has reached 12 degrees below zero during the late cold weather. We heard great consumption of vegetables, fruit and plants freezing in cellars.

We are sorry to say that L. H. Kelly, who has been confined to his bed for so long with typhoid fever, is in a critical condition.

Petersburg

Corn is selling at 45 cents in this market, Irish potatoes 50 cents, and wheat $1.00.

Berkshire, Stewart & Parker did not make much money on their hogs they took to the city, but had (lots of fun at Finnegan's.)

People are so anxious to see the Petersburg news in print we thought we would put the mill in order for getting a few prints.

Production of United States Paper Currency

The paper used in making United States paper money is of the toughest linen and is made by a secret process protected by statute penalizing its manufacture for other purposes. Supplies of blank paper are guarded as carefully as the finished money, for if a counterfeit can obtain this distinctive paper he has made a good start toward producing spurious currency. The plates from which money is printed are made with the most exacting care. The public is not permitted to see the engravers at work, nor does any one engraver prepare an entire plate. It usually takes about a year of continuous work to complete one of the original plates. The money never is printed from these originals, but from duplicates made by a mechanical process. The fine lines on paper money are made upon the original plates by a geometric machine which has as many combinations as the best safe lock, each combination producing a different design. Each bill contains many symbols which tell the initiated from what plate it was printed, who engraved the plate and who printed the bill. It requires about 20 days to complete the intricate process of getting a piece of paper money ready for circulation, during which period it is counted about 50 times. The average life of paper money in the United States is less than two years.

British Royal Palace

Likened to Mausoleum

The exterior of Buckingham palace gained considerably by its refacing soon after King George V took possession. Before that its appearance made it the subject of many gibes, and so long ago as 1830, while it was being built, Joseph Jekyll, the famous man in character, wrote of it as reminding him of nothing so much as a mausoleum—an opinion shared by William IV, who kept away from it as much as possible, writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian.

The late King Edward, too, never concealed his dislike for the appearance of his town residence. "What a magnificent workhouse it would have made!" he confided to Lord Farquhar when he first went to live there. Shortly after, passing to watch painters at work on the exterior of a well-known West end store, he remarked: "That is what Buckingham palace needs, but unfortunately I am not a successful draper."

Weeping Willow Ancestry

A twig placed in a vase of water which was sent by a traveler in Asia to Alexander Pope, English poet, is said by nurserymen to have been the ancestor of all the weeping willows in this country today, reports Better Homes and Gardens.

The twig, from one of the weeping willows beside the rivers of Babylon, was planted by the Thames and became a tree. During the Revolutionary war, a British officer brought with him a slip from this tree, which he gave to John Curtis of Virginia. Curtis planted it, and the tree which grew from it still stands on the Curtis estate and is said to be the first weeping willow in the United States.

The Censor's Hint

Representative La Guardia said at a dinner in New York: "Censors aren't the fools that the censored make them out to be. The present English censor called on Sir Alfred Butt one day in his theater and said:

"Butt, my boy, I've gone over this new revue of yours, and I've passed every scene, there's some of the stuff is pretty risqué. Now remember, Butt, nothing more is to be put on without my approval."

"Then the censor nodded toward a group of pretty dancing girls dressed in strings of beads and said: "And nothing more is to be taken off, either."—Detroit Free Press.

More Clothes

A. L. Erlanger, of theater fame, said to a New York critic:

"Women will wear more clothes next season. That's a good thing. They couldn't wear less clothes, could they? "Maybe you know the story about the man they threw out at the dinner party? He proposed a toast that was considered offensive—Ladies, here's looking at you!"

"Then there's another story about a man at a dinner party whose toast was:

"The ladies—God dress them!"—Detroit Free Press.

White Sugar Sweetener

Sucrose is the sweetening agent in sugar. White granulated sugar is 99 per cent sucrose, while brown sugar is between 90-99 per cent sucrose. Brown sugar may seem sweeter at times, but white granulated sugar really contains more of the sweetening agent.

Spare the Rodding!
Do not blame sensitiveness in a child until you have determined whether or not it is a reflection of your own sensitiveness.—Woman's Home Companion.

Glue for Violins

Cologne glue is most commonly used in mending violins and stringed instruments. It is manufactured in the form of tablets of pale yellow color and has the advantage of not forming a thickness between the pieces it unites.

Jade Held Preservative

The ancient Chinese buried jade carvings with the dead, in the belief that this stone was potent in preserving the body from decay and promoting its resurrection, explains an anthropologist of the Field museum at Chicago.

Bird-Nest Decoration

Some birds like to decorate their nests with fresh flowers or green stuff. The starling's favorite is the bright little rockery flower, the aubrietia, so if you find some of the heads snapped off in your garden, you will know who is to blame. The buzzard has a similar taste, but his preference is for something green.

Evolution of "Gossip"

A gossip was originally a godparent, from the Old English godsbib, meaning "akin" or "standing in relation to." Gossip soon came to mean a friend or acquaintance, either of the parents of the child baptized or of other godparents, and hence women friends of the mother present at birth. The transition of meaning to an idle chatterer is easy.

End to Railroad Passes

The Pennsylvania railroad directors voted December 13, 1905, to discontinue the issue of passes and free tickets of all kinds from and after January 1, 1906, and other big railroads took similar action shortly thereafter. All issuance of passes was not stopped, however, until the interstate commerce law was amended in June, 1908.

Alphabet Long in Use?

That Semitic merchants who lived before 2000 B. C. in Asia minor knew the use of the alphabet, is the conclusion of a scholar who builds up his evidence without having any of the writings of these Semites, since their records were on perishable parchment.

Hardening Copper

An old coppermith says copper can be hardened for ordinary purposes by hammering it or submitting it to great pressure between heavy rollers. He further says that putting red hot copper into dies that are too cold and submitting it to an enormous pressure until it is cold will make it as hard as steel.—Exchange.

Umbrella Long Matter

for Public Ridicule
If the history of the umbrella or parasol is one of dignity and more or less solemnity, not so the umbrella. Its development is attended by considerable ridicule and hilarity. The origin of the umbrella, that is, the use of a covering to protect one from rain, is somewhat obscure. It is said that in 1710 Marius of Paris invented an umbrella with jointed stock, that could be folded, put in a case, and carried in the pocket. But it was not satisfactory and faded into obscurity.

In the Eighteenth century the umbrella became known, and used all over Europe—Germany, France, Italy, Holland—and was sold on the streets of Paris by hawkers for from 15 to 22 francs.

England did not take kindly to the umbrella. In 1710, Dean Swift mentions seeing one made of eliotch, and used by ladies only. A young man attempted to carry one, but was ridiculed in the press. Robinson Crusoe and his umbrella did much to popularize it, and it was often called the "Robinson." Jonas Hathaway (1786) is said to be the first man in England to carry an umbrella, and he carried it courageously for 30 years in spite of jeers and ridicule, and the "crass obscurantism" with which he is said to have been met by the public.—Exchange.

Truth, if Not Grammar, in Answer Geisha Made

The prominent westerner says he's going to start a geisha's English class in Osaka if the Tokyo experiment proves successful. "I've had a little experience in that line," he explained, "and I have found that geisha are very apt pupils. "Once, for example, I was asked by a geisha to teach her a few simple phrases. It so happened that the first one I thought of was the query 'You love me?'"

"Oh, I know that already," she cried. "Just a moment now and I'll give you the correct reply . . . Oh, yes!"

"I love me!" "Her answer," smiled the prominent westerner, "may not have been 100 per cent grammatical, but it wasn't long before I found out that it was absolutely true."—Osaka Mainichi.

Preserved by Frost

A Russian scientific mission sent out by the Bolsheviks from Leningrad to the Altai mountains in Central Asia, has discovered the burial mound of a Hun chieftain of 27 centuries ago. From Asia the Huns swept into Russia. This leader of the Huns had his fortress among the high peaks of the mountains. From there he swept like a vulture on to the plains. To his exile he returned with his spoils. There he lived and died. Thousands of winters have passed over the burial place. None can tell who the chief was, or what tyrant he committed, or how he died. But time, which has effaced his memory, has preserved his body. The cold has embalmed it in its rock tomb.

Hard Knock

Samuel Insull, the Chicago capitalist who runs the Chicago opera company, said in an interview: "Our company is the best in the world, but from its yearly deficit you'd think it—well, you'd think it was like the band. "A band, playing away for dear life, marched proudly along a city street when a pale-faced woman ran out of a house and grabbed the bandmaster's arm. "Oh, sir," she gasped, "will you please stop playing as you pass our house? My husband is very, very musical!"

Old Virginia House

Mount Airy, on the Harpahanneock river in Richmond county, Va., was built in 1750 by Col. John Tayloe. The interior, as well as the cornice, chimneys and roof, were destroyed by fire in 1844 and hastily restored with consideration only for comfort and economy. The exterior is of native brown sandstone, with trim of fine white sandstone said to have been brought from England. The formal setting and character of the house and the monumental scale of the gardens suggest a European designer.

Race-Horse Locomotives

Flying engines and flying horses are synonymous to the London and North eastern railway. It has named eight new locomotives after famous race horses. The engines, which are of the Pacific type, and which will haul passenger trains on the east coast route over the track of the Flying Scotsman, are as follows: Trigo, Manana, Galusborough, Rock Sand, Book Law, Call Boy, Spearpoint and Cicero. Their engine prototypes, with one exception, Book Law, have won the Derby in the last twenty-seven years.

Primitive "Webster" Found

What is claimed to be the oldest known dictionary in the world has been discovered in southern Syria. A French archeological expedition under the leadership of Dr. F. A. Schaeffer of Strasbourg made the find. The expedition has reported many important discoveries, principally in the ancient city of Zaphon. The "dictionary" consists of large tablets of baked earth, some of which show an unknown script and language going back to about 1400 B. C.

Cistercian Robe
When the order of Cistercian monks was established in 1008 the habit was brown, but it was soon changed to white.

Beauty in the Bulb
What is in a bulb? Form, fragrance, color, all of spring's delights. A charm not possessed by flowers that come from fibrous roots, a stiff drawing that makes the tulip and the hyacinth particularly perfect for a little formal planting; a grace that fits the blowing daffodil for use in woodland spots.—In short, the very sign and symbol of the "gray world's darling, spring."—Mrs. Francis Kling, in "From a New Garden."

Abraham and the Oak
There is a sturdy tradition, still existing, that the tree under or near which Abraham pitched his tent "in the plains of Mamre" (Genesis 18:8) was an oak and generations of the Jews spoke familiarly of "Abraham's oak," although as a matter of fact the Bible knows of no connection between the Father of the Faithful and the oak tree.

Glorified Cordial

The cordial, Benedictine, originating with the monks of that order on account of its supposed recuperative properties, was named by Francis I of France in 1534 Benedictine and named Del giorian (for the greater glory of God). Liqueur is now distilled at Fecamp on the site of the old abbey and the bottles bear the ecclesiastical initials D. O. M. or Deo Optino Maximo (to God most good, most great).

Deaf-and-Dumb Alphabets

The art of communicating by means of the deaf-and-dumb alphabet is termed dactylology. The one-hand manual alphabet was perfected by the Abbe de l'Epee, who died in 1789, and the two-hand alphabet, probably based on that of George Dalgarno of Aberdeen, published in 1680.

Choice of Usage

The original and correct form of hair-brained is "barebrained." It means slightly, reckless, skittish, and refers to the characteristics of the hare. "Mad as a March hare" had a similar application. The word, however, is now frequently written "hair-brained," even by good writers.

Would Need Much Smoothing
English would make the most suitable international language, if its irregular spelling could be simplified and a few other complexities smoothed out, a Swedish professor of languages argues.

Original Pullman Car
The first pullman car was built by George M. Pullman in 1865 at a cost of $20,000. This was hurriedly completed so that it might form a part of the train that bore the body of Abraham Lincoln from Washington to Chicago, and thence to Springfield.

To Scare Off Witches
Zig-zag patterns so often painted on walls, fireplaces and other parts of a house were not put there for mere decorations. According to Stuart Pigott, an authority on English folk lore, this type of decoration was used in olden days to keep witches out of a house. Since most of them were supposed to enter by a chimney, these lines were traced on the hearthstone.—Detroit News.

Monarch's "Cold Cure"

This prescription for a cold was advised by Queen Elizabeth: Take a quart of new milk, put into it 2 spoonfuls of honey, 4 ounces of linseed, and as it boyles put in pieces of scarlet or red cloth and have one peece on your stomack and one opposite to that on the backe, and see goe to bedd; sweat and you shall be well.

Communion Token
The token which was used by many of the early Presbyterian churches as an identification of the person expecting to participate in the communion was a small metal disk, usually inscribed with the name of the church or some other designating mark, which was presented to each person as admitted to full church membership. It was shown at the communion services.

Use of Window Glass
Glass was once common in the houses of the well-to-do; then it seems to have been forgotten. The Romans had it and the Romanized Britons must have had it after them. Window glass has been discovered in the ruins of a Roman villa in Kent, having lain buried and unknown for perhaps 1,500 years in a windowless land.—London Mail.

Girls of Arabian Race

Eager for Instruction

Beirut, the leading center of education in the Near East, has more schools and colleges, native and foreign, than any city of its size in the world. But its girls' schools, before the World War, were all foreign and more or less of a missionary character. That is why Moslem parents refused to send their daughters to them.

But during the war, when all the foreign schools were closed, a Syrian woman, Mary Kansub, opened a native school in the building of the English mission. The success of this school was such, that the attendance in a few years rose from 20 to 300, and an enthusiasm for education was kindled in all the neighboring countries. From Iraq, from Palestine, from all parts of the Arabic-speaking world, girls of all creeds—Moslems and Christians and Druses—came today to the Arabian school of Mary Kansub. The secret of its popularity, according to a writer in the New York Times, lies principally in the fact that, besides being native, it is non-sectarian. Technically and executive also it enjoys an unusual reputation.

Verses From Job Meant as Payment for Dinner?

The little houses on Camac street, where live the artists and even some ordinary mortals, become used to engaging and peculiar visitors.

In one of these houses six worthy souls were making high wassail. Came a knock on the door.

The host, shouted "Come in!" The door opened and a lank, seedy man strolled inside. He nodded affably to the merry-makers.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I come to ask contributions to a sacred purpose—my dinner. If you would be so kind—"

He collected an assortment of dimes and nickels. Then he put his right hand into his hip pocket. The guests ducked, but all that came forth was a small, leather-bound Bible.

Standing before the hearth he read aloud a few verses from Job. Finished, he patted the book fondly and remarked, "I always carry that book, gentlemen," and strolled out, closing the door behind him.—Philadelphia Record.

The Challenge

Chairman Herbert S. Houston, of the international chamber of commerce, said of world politics at a dinner at the Century club in New York:

"The militarists of each power yell out challenges to one another, but they are weak challenges after the way the militarists know in their hearts that they haven't got the people behind them any more.

"These absurd challenges remind me of Henry Peck.

"No man alive dare call me hen-pecked," he shrieked one night over a near-beer.

"Not? Why not? laughed the near-beer drinkers round him.

"Because if he did," shrieked Peck, "I'd tell my wife on him!"

Porto Rican Violet Trees

In Porto Rico they look for the first sweet violets of early spring on trees instead of under them. In that country alone, says the American Forestry association, are to be found violet trees. These trees tower to sixty feet, with trunks twelve to fourteen inches in diameter. They are densely covered with thousands of violet-covered flowers.

But there are only six known living specimens, because the wood, being very hard, has been so greatly in demand for use as tool handles, parts of wheels, axles, or yokes and other necessities of the natives, that the trees have been sacrificed without thought of their possible extinction.

Ancient Indian Canoe

Discovery near Fontana, Wis., of a 12-foot Indian canoe, split lengthwise, by William Koepcke, Wisconsin, is to be a historic find dating back to the days of 1830, when the Pottawatomie Indians departed from Lake Geneva. Koepcke was walking along the shore of the lake when he discovered the relic. It is believed that recent storms washed the canoe up from its resting place on the lake bottom. It will be placed on exhibition in the Geneva Y. M. C. A. building by the Geneva Lake Historical society.—Indianapolis News.

Detects Tough Meat Cuts

To tell just how tough or tender a cut of meat may be, the Department of Agriculture has devised a simple tester which is being used extensively in research to find out why meat from one animal is more tender or tougher than that from another.

A knife blade is pulled through small round pellets of the sample by means of a crank, and a scale in the center of the apparatus records the amount of pressure required to make the cut.—Popular Science Magazine.

Noises Disturb Stomach

That loud noises will momentarily disturb digestion by either contracting or relaxing the stomach muscles, is the claim of a Cologne university experimenter. Small balloons connected to a resisting apparatus, were placed in the subjects' stomachs disclosed the internal reaction to the noise. In other cases, however, the momentary interruption of the digestive function was followed by increased muscular activity.

Gifts From All Nations

in Hague Peace Palace

The following is a list of the gifts that have been made to the Peace palace at The Hague by the governments of various countries:

United States of America, marble statue; Argentina, a bronze statue; Australia, a writing desk with silver inlaid; Belgium, bronze doors of the main entrance with smaller doors to match; Brazil, palisander and cedar wood (stems) for hall and room woodwork; Chile, group of bronze statues in the grounds; China, four cloisonne vases on pedestal; Denmark, a fountain of Copenhagen porcelain in the inner court; Germany, the iron railing with gates to the main entrance of the grounds with carved work of natural stone; England, four windows of stained leaded glass; France, a painted scene (Besnard), a sketch of a gobelin which has not been delivered, a painting (Chigot); Greece, a marble seat; Haiti, fine woods to be used for woodwork; Hungary, four large vases of baked earthenware; Italy, marble to be used for columns; Japan, wall coverings of handwoven silk; the Netherlands, the site of the Peace palace, seven windows of enameled leaded glass, the permanent loan of four paintings by Ferdinand Bol; the Netherlands-East Indies, a quantity of teakwood (stems) to be used for woodwork; Norway, worked granite for the drive at the main entrance; Austria, six bronze candelabra; Rumania, four small rugs; Russia, a large vase of jasper marble; Salvador, fine woods (stems) to be used for woodwork; Spain, 12 silver inkstands with penholders; Turkey, a large rug; Sweden, carved granite for the facade, and Switzerland, carillon with four clock faces.

Attribute Quakes to Earth-Shaking Giants

In southern Italy, where earthquakes are of frequent occurrence, old peasants have many queer legends which have been handed down for centuries. In the neighborhood of Mount Etna one of the strangest of these is widely believed.

The peasants still tell you that centuries ago their ancestors won the land from a race of giants. They compelled the giants to take refuge underground. There they remain and cannot escape, but from time to time they cause earthquakes, showing that they have not forgotten and that they still take their revenge upon mortals.

No one knows what really causes earthquakes, though it is believed that some distance below the earth's hard crust there is a plastic layer in which tides, just like those of the sea, are set up by the attraction of the sun and moon. The crust is strained by these tides, and one day a part of it, deep down, gives way. Then the surface trembles and widespread havoc occurs as buildings rock and fall.

Riley "Checked Up"

Hamlin Garland has a new James Whitcomb Riley story in his reminiscences, "Roadside Meetings." Years ago Garland was visiting the Hoosier poet at his home and had praised his fidelity to farm life. Riley smiled.

"Sometimes a country boy gives me a round turn by criticizing me on my farm poems," he chuckled. "For instance, one youngster came stepping up to me. 'You never lived on a farm,' he says, 'why not?' said I, 'Well, he says, 'turkey cock gobbles, but he don't kyouck as your poetry says he does.' He had me right there! It's the turkey hen that kyoucks. 'Well, you'll never hear another turkey cock of mine kyouckin,' I said to the boy."—Kansas City Star.

Odd Religious Sect

The word "abecedarian" is derived from the first four letters of the alphabet and is applied to one learning the alphabet; hence an Abecedarian is a tyro or beginner, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. As an adjective the word means rudimentary. The Abecedarians were a sect of extreme Unitarians in Geneva during the sixteenth century. They were so nicknamed because they maintained that the holy spirit would grant the elect all the knowledge necessary to truth; they despised all learning, including theology, and regarded knowledge even of the alphabet as sinful.

Time Sense in Animals

Some people have the time sense, but the vast majority of the human race is sadly deficient in this faculty. But many of the lower animals possess an extraordinarily keen time sense. Note the way in which the animals at the zoological garden become restless at the approach of the feeding hour. On the farm the horses and poultry know exactly the times they are due to be fed. Ducks are particularly clever in this way, and they will raise a small riot if their evening meal does not arrive to the minute.

Saves Wear on Stockings

Every time Charley Payne, Jr., played marbles in Brooklyn his mother wondered how much longer she could go on buying stockings for the lad. Surely, she argued, there must be an inexpensive way of playing marbles without the fear of torn stockings, and so she began to work out an idea. With the aid of her husband, there presently appeared an object which was subsequently patented. It was a device for projecting marbles and the like and could be operated by a boy who stood up while he played.

Wire Cable With "Teeth"

of Sand Cuts Out Slate

A saw with teeth of sand is used to saw out large blocks in the slate beds of Pennsylvania.

This ingenious device consists of a three-strand wire cable, which is built into an endless belt. The cable is guided by orienting pulleys, which adjust themselves to the face to be saved. As it arrives at the point to be cut, sand is spilled over the cable by means of a stream of water, the particles of sand lodging in the twists of the cable.

The cable drags the sand, under considerable pressure and at high speed, against the bed of the slate and rapidly cuts its way through, the cutting being a trifle larger than the diameter of the cable.

The savings effected by this means run into a figure as much as 50 per cent of the usual amount of waste. Experimenting is going on to work out a method of cutting the slate into the size of sheets to be shipped out by piling several slabs on top of each other and cutting them all at once with the wire saw.

Sand Frequently Trap for Traveling Snakes

Snakes, when not in a hurry, can climb a leaning tree or the slippery slope of a wet rock. They are brisk travelers on the levels, and can turn on an extraordinary speed when in chase or flight they slither downhill. But any wide stretch of loose sand or dust pulls them up. Between the scrubs of Poole's point and the mangroves of Tibbo beach, on the N. S. W. south coast, lies an expanse of drifting powdery sand, writes a Sydney Bulletin contributor. Sometimes a snake trying to cross from one cover to the other gets stranded. As the crawler advances upon the sabbile surface he pushes forward a wave of sand with every sinuous heave. Sickening of the heavy going, he turns back, scooping out of the yielding sand a basin the rim of which affords no scale hold. He squirms frantically to escape but only deepens the depression. In the end he dies of exhaustion or is scooped up by a swamp hawk or a kookaburra.

Noted English Porcelain

Spode is the name of an English porcelain made at the pottery of Josiah Spode in Staffordshire, England. Spode was born in 1764 and died in 1827. He manufactured dessert services, Spode cups, and Spode jugs or pitchers, large and long-lipped with a capacity of a gallon. When sixteen years of age, he is credited with having begun to make felspar porcelain at Stoke-upon-Trent, and introduced into his composition crushed bone which was a soft base giving a very transparent body. His pieces were highly decorated with floral and ornithological designs, and were highly gilded. Succeeded by his son, the firm he established became one of the leading houses in the industry.—Literary Digest.

Famous Police Quarters

Scotland Yard in London derives its name from the palace, which from the time of Edgar to Henry II, was assigned for the residence of Scottish kings whenever they visited that city. Scotland Yard in London is the headquarters of the Metropolitan police force. The first police office was located in Whitehall in Scotland Yard and from there removed in the autumn of 1800 to the new building on the Thames embankment, now known as New Scotland Yard, in which all the branches of the Metropolitan police force, including the famous criminal investigation department, are located.

Cattle Differentiation

The Department of Agriculture says that it understands that in Holland there have been for many years both red-and-white and black-and-white Holstein-Friesians. A great many of the breed in this country carry recessive hereditary factors determining red color. Consequently, not infrequently red-and-white calves will be secured from registered black-and-white parents. The Holstein-Friesian association, however, will not register the red-and-white offspring in this country even though they come from registered Holstein-Friesian parents.—Washington Star.

Valuable Rubber Tree

The latex of Euphorbia tirley, which flows from any cut in the plant, coagulates in the air without further treatment. The latex of rubber shrub is of very high quality. This shrub or small tree is native to Madagascar and with its discovery in 1801 and the following commercial exploitation the plant has been almost exterminated. The United States Department of Agriculture has secured specimens and is experimenting with them in a hope of adapting this remarkable rubber tree to growth in this country.

Actors Without Jealousy

The performers in the Oberammergau number about 700 persons, and it is said to be the only band of its kind where there is no professional jealousy and no exhibitions of artistic temperament. The actors receive only a very small sum for their efforts, the main proceeds going to charity. And as taking a part in the play is looked upon as an act of natural devotion, none of the 700 tries in the slightest way to outshine the rest.

Wonder of Nature

Even the strongest men find it difficult to lift more than their own weight. Yet, a bluebottle fly can lift more than 80 times its own weight, while it can draw a load that is 150 times heavier than itself.

Helium Production

The United States is the only country which has developed helium. It has a monopoly on its use so far. However, helium is likely to be found wherever oil is found; for instance, in Alaska, Russia and Siberia. The richest helium section is in northern Texas and in the surrounding area of 200 or 300 miles, taking in Kansas and Oklahoma. It is found in this section in quantities sufficient for extraction.

"Doughnut" and "Cruller" Years ago the difference between a doughnut and a cruller was marked. A doughnut was made of raised bread dough, to which sugar, spice and eggs were added, while the cruller was made of a mixture containing baking powder or cream of tartar and soda. Now the term doughnut is made to include both kinds of fried cakes.

Tribute to Goldfish

D'Annunzio, the famous Italian poet, once had a goldfish on his desk to inspire him. One day, when the poet was in another city, the goldfish died, and the news was wired D'Annunzio. He wired back to give the fish a decent burial and to erect a tablet in its memory. Unfortunately, some one had thrown the dead goldfish away meanwhile, but another goldfish was quickly bought, killed and the poet's directions carried out.

Jury Disagrees After Deliberating Fifteen Hours In Mills Case

JURY ROOM "GRAPEVINE" HAS IT THAT SEVEN VOTED FOR ACQUITTAL ON FIRST BALLOT, WHILE TEN VOTED FOR TWO YEARS IN FINAL HANG-UP—WILL BE RETRIED IN APRIL

After having deliberated for more than fifteen hours a Boone county jury finally ran into a stone wall of disagreement in the trial of Jeff Mills here Wednesday morning.

The case went to trial Monday, after Mills had been indicted last week by a Boone county grand jury, and continued thru Tuesday. The jury received the case for consideration at 8 p. m., Tuesday and was excused for the night after having considered the case for approximately two hours.

Wednesday morning they returned to the court room at nine o'clock and reported as eleven they were hopelessly deadlocked.

The final standing of the jury is reported to be ten for two years in the penitentiary, one for three years and one for five years. It was reported that seven stood for acquittal as the first ballot.

Contrary to many predictions a jury was selected shortly afternoon Monday. Eleven men had been accepted by both commonwealth and defense before the noon hour and at which time Judge Vallandigham issued an order for the sheriff to summon the jury to complete the selection.

Immediately afterwards and by 1:30 o'clock the commonwealth had started the presentation of evidence.

The jury was composed of the following men: D. A. Morris, B. E. Grant, Hugh Stephens, W. E. Jones, L. D. Rennecker, R. Z. Cason, Walter Garnett, C. T. Easton, Grant Williamson, Eldridge Carpenter, J. Huey, Charles C. Carpenter.

The defendant was represented by his appointed counsel, A. Monroe Edwards, of Walton and Cynthia, and who was assisted by his partner, J. Prentiss Lait, also of Cynthia. Mr. Edwards is a Boone county boy, having been reared at Walton, and only recently was enrolled as a member of the Boone county bar. After finishing school two years ago these two young men entered the practice of law at Cynthia under the firm name of Lait and Edwards. They have started a thriving practice. This was their first murder case and they were receiving the congratulations of their friends Wednesday morning for the manner in which they had conducted the defense.

Immediately after the discharge of the jury Wednesday Judge Vallandigham set the case for re-trial at the next April term.

The evidence, as brought out in the actual trial of the case, differed only in minor details from the story as told officers by the witnesses and defendant the day after the body of Charles Young was found from his home on the farm of Tom Huey, near Big Bone.

Witnesses for the commonwealth stated that Mills had come to the home of Young early Sunday morning, November 9th, and had asked for a gun, saying that he and Charlie had treed a coon back of the barn. Mrs. Young had given him the gun and two shells, she said, but had immediately thereafter dressed and, accompanied by her brother, Cecil Beasley, had gone down to the barn. Upon arrival at the barn she said they had met Jeff Mills running very excitedly thru the barn lot. He inquired, whether or not they had seen the coon, and ran on. Mrs. Mills shouted: "Where is the gun?" and Mills answered: "Down there in the hollow with Charlie."

Mrs. Mills and Beasley shouted for Charlie, but got no answer. A search was started for Young, but the body was not found until daylight. Beneath a cullipacker, near the foot of the tree in which Mills had treed the coon was found near a gate to the barn yard forty-five steps from him.

the body, while a well defined path, indicating the body had been dragged, led from the gun to the cullipacker.

While Mills stoutly denied any knowledge whatever of the manner in which Young had met his tragic fate, yet he offered no explanation of the fact that there had been but one shot heard, or seen, fired in that vicinity that night and he alleged that he had seen Charlie fire once at the "coon in the tree." The coon, he said, jumped to the ground and he gave chase, following the dog.

Undertaker C. Scott Chambers and Dr. M. A. Yelton, both of whom examined the body, stated that that they had found 128 shot wounds in the breast of Young, scattered over a space approximately one foot square, tending it was claimed to discount any theory of suicide that might be advanced.

Mills, in relating his story on the stand, was very deliberate and told of how he had been to the home of a neighbor on Saturday night, and upon preparing to leave, Young had suggested a coon hunt. He demurred, he said, for a time, saying that it was "too late to go coon hunting," but finally acceded. After they had tramped about for a while they had heard the dog strike a track with the result that the coon was treed near the barn on the Huey farm, situated a few paces from the Young house.

The effect of the commonwealth's case, as presented by the prosecution, was that had occurred over the cashing of a check at the neighbor's home on the Saturday night of the alleged coon hunt and death of Young. The commonwealth also brought out evidence to show that Mills had at one time stated that he would kill Young "if ever he crosses my path." No clear reason, however, was established for any bitterness between them and Mills alleged that Charlie was one of the best friends that he had.

The two families lived within a short distance of each other, Mills, with his wife and six small children, living on the farm of B. L. (Tom) Rich, just to the rear of the tenant house on the Huey farm, which shared Young and his wife and three brothers and mother of Mrs. Young. The Youngs had no children of their own.

Both commonwealth and defendant closed their respective cases late Tuesday afternoon. By agreement the defense was given an hour in which to argue their side of the question, whereas the state was accorded a like period. Messrs. Edwards and Lait divided the time given the defense, while Ward Yager occupied the entire period of one hour for the commonwealth.

Each of the attorneys for the defense was making his maiden argument in a murder case and these speeches seemed to have a very decisive effect upon the jury. However, Mr. Yager is said to have made a splendid argument in presenting his case, in fact one of the best he ever has been heard to deliver before a jury in this court.

CONSTANCE VOTE CORRECTED

Our attention has been called to the fact that an error occurred in the tabulated vote of the last election as published by the Recorder and which the editor neglected to correct until this week. In the Constance column it showed that Mr. Spence received 11 votes, when, as a matter of fact, he actually polled seventy-one votes in that precinct. This correction should have been made sooner, but, due to an oversight, it was not done.

In response to the call issued thru these columns last week a number of members of the Modern Woodmen Lodge met at the Albert House some last Saturday afternoon and gathered a large quantity of corn for the

OPEN MINSTREL CIRCUIT WITH SPLENDID RECEPTION AT PETERSBURG — AT BURLINGTON TONIGHT WITH OTHER ANNOUNCEMENTS TO FOLLOW

Members of Boone Post No. 4 American Legion exhibited their minstrel to a large and appreciative audience at Petersburg on Monday evening of this week.

In spite of the sudden cold snap and the additional fact that the cast contained no local people, yet a large crowd turned out for the performance and for all of which the committee and cast are truly grateful.

Those who witnessed the first performance were unanimous in their praise and it is hoped that those who see it at other points in the county will enjoy it as well. The show will be given to-night at Burlington, with Monday night finding the boys at Walton and Thursday night Dec. 23rd at Florence.

This is entirely a home grown production. There is nothing imported about it, not even the lines, so critics, please be considerate.

PETERSBURG

BASKET BALL TEAM WILL MAKE FIRST APPEARANCE OF THE SEASON HERE FRIDAY EVENING

One of the big games of the current high school season will take place on the local court on Friday

Petersburg gamblers appear here for their first game of the present season.

The Petersburg girls team is not nearly so strong as that of last year, though their boy five has been going fine. They have listed among their defeated opponents the strong Walton five, which has defeated the Burlington aggregation twice in succession. However, the Walton girls have twice succumbed to the prowess of the locals, while the same team inflicted a humiliating defeat upon the girls from Petersburg upon the occasion of their first meeting this year.

Accordingly the dope appears to favor a victory for the Burlington girls and the Petersburg boys. Nevertheless there are arguments both pro and con and the following line-up will decide the issue Friday night:

Boys Teams
Petersburg	Burlington
Huey	F. Maurer
Holton	F. Stephens
Smith	C. Ogden
W. Bradburn	G. Greenup
R. Bradburn	G. Rouse

Girls Teams
Petersburg	Burlington
Nixon	F. Phillips
Waiston	F. E. Ryle
Klopp	C. A. Burton
Edwards	G. Akin
Randall	G. L. Ryle

ONE YEAR

IS VERDICT FOR CLAUDE PENN IN GRAND LARCENY CASE DECIDED HERE WEDNESDAY

Last Wednesday afternoon a jury returned a verdict in the case of the commonwealth against Claude Penn. They fixed his punishment at one year in the penitentiary. He was convicted of grand larceny, the commonwealth having alleged that he had stolen a type writer and radio from the office of the Walton Advertiser.

Mr. Penn, who lives in Erlanger, disclaimed all knowledge of the stolen goods, although the articles were found in his home a few days later by officers.

The defendant was represented by Attorney Keenev, of the firm of Blakely & Murphy, of Covington.

THANK YOU

CARD IS PASSED OUT BY COVINGTON Y TO THOSE WHO HELPED WITH CONSTRUCTION OF NEW ROAD TO SUMMER CAMP ON GUNPOWDER

We the undersigned, wish to thank the Boone County Fiscal Court, Mr. James C. Macht and all others who by their gifts of time or money made possible the construction of the new road on Beggs Lane. Special mention should be made of the splendid cooperation of all members of the Fiscal Court, Mr. Macht, who in the face of many handicaps did a splendid job of construction and Mr. Mark Cobb, who performed a fine service as Superintendent. The new road is a credit to the county and will be of service not only to those whose farms adjoin it but to the public who will have advantage of the opportunity to use this section that formerly was inaccessible for many months of the year.

LOCAL TEAM

EMERGES VICTOR IN HARD FOUGHT GAME SATURDAY NIGHT AT COVINGTON—BUS LEAVES THIS WEEK AT 6:15

In a game that was regarded as more or less a set up for the Burlington Baptists the Latonia Chrys-tem team, in the Covington Y. M. C. A. Church League on the 4th floor last Saturday evening. The score was 12 to 17.

The Latonia boys were reputed to be a very fine defensive team, but were not accorded much praise in the way of offense. But the Burlington lads were not long in learning that Latonia also possessed something of an offense, by reason of several startling shots that spelled temporary terror for the local rosters who had followed the Baptists to the game.

Neither defense nor offense did Burlington show as they had on the occasion of their clash with Warsaw in the same league on the first night of the schedule. Lamb, who had started the onlookers with some unbelievable shots in the first game in the league, just couldn't get going, while the other boys also were badly off. No less than twelve free throws were missed with only three hitting. This eight field goals garnered by the Baptists were evenly divided between Hickman, Maurer, Stephens and Lamb, one by the latter being made with the score a tie and one minute to go.

Next Saturday evening the home team will tackle a worthy foe in their ancient rivals, the Elsmere Baptists. The Elsmere five has had long experience on the hardwood with four straight pennants in his league as their reward. Burlington will go into the game minus the services of Lamb at center, as he will be enjoying the holidays at his home. Frank Maurer, who has fully recovered from his early season ailments, will operate at center and his mates have every confidence in his ability to do the job properly.

This game starts at 8:30 (fast time) and the bus will leave Blythe's store promptly at 7:15 by fast time, or 6:15 slow time. Last Saturday the bus was filled to its capacity and the team will appreciate a big following again this week. If there is not room in the bus for everyone arrangement will be made for the accommodation of the overflow. So come on fans and help these boys defeat one of the toughest fives in the league.

Reports of the steady improvement of Mrs. N. E. Riddell continue to come from San Antonio, Texas, and it is regarded as certain that Judge and Mrs. Riddell will return to Burlington around January 1st.

SCHOOL NOTES.
BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

The Burlington High School team broke even last Friday night with the Dry Ridge High School team known as the "Cardinals." The Kittens winning their game by a very close score of 12 to 11. E. Ryle and Phillips were a tie in points, making 5 each. A. Burton and E. Akin had their eyes open when each got a goal from the center of the floor. L. Ryle played a splendid game as guard, preventing a lot of points from going through the goal. The Tomcats were particularly off their feet when Dry Ridge boys gave them the worst defeat that they have had this year by a score of 34 to 17. Maurer and Greenup were a tie, each making 5 points while C. Webb, a guard for the Dry Ridge team, made 11 of the 34 points made by this team. Next Friday Dec. 19 the two Petersburg teams will meet in the Burlington Gym at 7 p. m. This is expected to be the best game of the season.

The "dignified" Seniors are awaiting the arrival of their class jocks which are expected any day now.

Charles Hughes has been absent a couple of days on account of illness.

We are all looking forward to holidays which begin Friday. The entire school is to enjoy a Christmas tree and interesting program which is being prepared.

R. E. HUEY CHOSEN FOR OUTSTANDING QUALITIES AS FARMER, NEIGHBOR AND CITIZEN

Mr. R. E. Huey, Burlington, Ky., has been selected as one of Kentucky's class of eight Master Farmers for 1930 according to an official announcement received the past week from the College of Agriculture and the Progressive Farmer. Mr. Huey was selected on his record as an outstanding farmer, neighbor and citizen.

A committee appointed by the County Judge the past spring selected Mr. Huey as Boone county's representative in the state Master Farmer contest. His record was good enough that he was selected as one of the sixteen outstanding farmers of the state to be recorded by a state committee. It is with great pleasure we learn that Boone county's representative farmer has been selected as one of the 1930 class of eight Master Farmers in Kentucky.

The other Master Farmers of 1930 are Smith Broad ent, Trigg county; George W. Davis Owen county; C. Drysdale, Fulton county; John C. Boyl, Boyle county; O. S. West, Adams county; Jack A. Robb, Garrard county; and W. F. Pulaski county.

A complete report of Mr. Huey's work will be given at a later date.

GOOD RATINGS

Monday morning was an inside game. We have divided our class into two groups A and B. William Cook is captain of group A and Marjorie Henley is captain of group B. Each of these groups are making a chart of Treasure Island which is to be completed this week. This race is warming up. So come out and see the best selected.

Circular No. 156.

DAIRY

Roughage—Feed all the hay and roughage the cows will clean up without wasting. Usually around 20 pounds hay per day. 1 pound of hay equals 3 pounds of silage.
Concentrates or Grains
(a) With legume hay.
300 pounds corn or barley.
200 pounds bran.
100 pounds cotton seed meal (prime).
6 pounds salt.
16 per cent protein feed.

(b) With mixed hay.
200 pounds corn.
200 pounds bran.
100 pounds cottonseed meal (prime).
5 pounds salt.
20 per cent protein.

(c) Non legume hay.
100 pounds corn.
200 pounds bran.
100 pounds Brewers grains.
100 pounds cotton seed meal (prime).
24 per cent protein feed.
Reference—Kentucky Extension Circular No. 157.

Hogs—Reference — Experiment Station Circular No. 211.

Sheep—Reference — Experiment Station Circular No. 151.

Feed represents from 60 to 85 per cent of the total expense in livestock production. The farmers and farmers wives at the present time are interested in cheapening their livestock rations. All of the above reference circulars are available on request at county agent H. R. Forkner's office at Burlington.

When it comes to pig's feet Lloyd McGlasson, of Constance, should lead the field for production last week, as he was butchering his year's supply of pork, he discovered on the leg of one of his hogs two distinct and perfect feet. The most perfect of it all lay in the fact that Mr. McGlasson, although having raised the porker, never had noticed the freak until the first fall from the cleaver.

WOODMEN

ELECT OFFICERS FOR 1931, WHO PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO MAKE YEAR A BANNER ONE FOR LOCAL LODGE

At a recent meeting of Patriarch Camp Modern Woodmen the following officers were elected for the year 1931: Elijah Stephens, Consul; Arthur H. Jones, Past Consul; Wallace Ryle, Advisor; Benjamin C. Stephens, Clerk; A. G. McMullen, Banker; Rev. F. E. Walker, Chaplain; Wilford C. Stephens, Escort; Wilton E. Stephens, Sentry; Geo. N. Cook, Watchman and Walter C. Arnold, Trustee. These officers are strong for a banner year in 1931, so all members of the order are urged to come out and support them in this worthy enterprise.

KEEP THE MONEY MOVING

The president of the American Bankers Association said a mouthful the other day. "It isn't how much money is in circulation but how fast it circulates that counts," he said, in substance. "One dollar will do the work of two dollars, if it moves from hand to hand twice as fast."

Money lying in bank is not working. It is only when money is being spent that commodities move, factory wheels revolve, workers are kept on the payroll. In the reaction from an orgy of reckless spending, we seem to have swung almost as far the other way, into a state of mind which can only be called miserly. People are timid about letting go of a dollar for any purpose—and in communities all over the nation able-bodied men are peddling on the streets or taking money from charitable organizations for the support of their families.

This is more particularly true in the large cities; the country regions and the small towns have not felt the depression as keenly as have the large centers of population. Yet everybody in the United States, broadly speaking, knows that money is not circulating as fast today as it was a year ago, and that people who owe money are finding it hard to get cash with which to meet their obligations.

That would not be the case if everybody who has something tucked away would spend some of it now for the useful, necessary things which are needed and which will eventually be bought anyway. All kinds of merchandise are cheaper now than for years. To buy the necessary things now is economy. There is not a home in the land in which there are not some repairs to be made, some contemplated additions or improvements to be installed, some new furnishings required. To attend to these things now means putting money into circulation at a time when it is actively needed. Ten dollars spent today will do the community more good than a hundred dollars spent a year from now.

We have said it before, but it is still good advice. Take advantage now of the low cost of almost everything and do those little things around the house that will not cost much but which will help move merchandise and put money into workers' pockets.

WHY PRIDE?

As I stepped out of the Grand Central Station the other day I saw entering it a man whose face seemed familiar, and after a moment's thought I placed him. He is one of the most distinguished members of the legal profession in America. He was a member of the Cabinet of a former President, and was himself mentioned for the Presidency.

On a sudden impulse I turned and followed him.

The station was full of commuters hurrying to their trains. They looked at him, and through him and around him, but apparently nobody recognized him. He jostled his way across the great floor, down a pair of steps to the platform of the subway. And there the crowd crushed him into the minimum number of cubic inches and flung him into an express train.

My last view of him was as he stood with his face pressed against the glass of the door, a completely squeezed and harassed looking man, in no way different from the sweltering others in the car.

Not one of those others knew that he had been a Cabinet Minister, helping to shape the destinies of a nation during the greatest war. Nor would they have cared, probably, if they had known.

It has been remarked frequently that the really big man is almost modest. The reasons for this are two-fold. In the first place, he knows how much of his success has been due to causes beyond his own control—his birth, his education, his business opportunities. And he knows, too, what a thin and evanescent thing is fame.

He has walked through places like Central Park and looked at the statues. These are great men who lived only yesterday—fifty or a hundred and fifty years ago. Yet how few of them one can recognize without looking at the names. And if their fame is already so faded, what will it be in a thousand years, or two thousand, or ten?

Abraham Lincoln's favorite song was a mournful hymn entitled, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud? He knew that the river of life races on, and that even the most important of us is soon washed out into the big sea of oblivion.

He knew it because he was really big. It is only the little men who act as if they were permanent rocks in the river, towering high above the level, and destined never to be moved.

of mankind. Even the date in our calendar is Christo-centric. Those who refuse to believe in Jesus as the Son of God and Saviour of sinners are financially profited by that which took place in Bethlehem in B. C. 5.

When a principle is workable it becomes acceptable. Any thinker can propose a theory of life, but to be worthy of continuance it must be practical.

During the past six months men and women of the Bible have been considered. The last in the series of biographical studies is Timothy of Lystra. Paul may have first met him when as an apostle to the Gentiles he was being persecuted and carried as an injured man into the home of Timothy.

To get a good idea of the worth of this man read the two letters that Paul wrote which bear the name of Timothy. When Paul, the worn-out apostle, was in the midst of his second Roman imprisonment, he sent for Timothy, his son in the faith, to come as a helpful companion.

"Quacks" Reap Harvest

From Gullible Public

Burns a rabbit's heart on the fire to bring a mate for a lonely woman; paying half a crown for a quack consultation and a pennyworth of herbs; buying charms to ward off evil; burning incense at fortune-telling tea parties, and reading tea-leaves to discover whether husbands are faithful to their wives! These are among the many amazing performances carried on in the West riding of Yorkshire. Leeds and Bradford, in particular, are infested with these places, where people are induced to undergo "treatment" for all sorts of ailments and for all sorts of reasons. Incompetent people calling themselves "herbalists" or "advisers" make examinations of men and women and then prescribe some herb. Charms of various kinds are sold to neurotic women suffering from a fear complex. At Leeds one woman paid 75 cents for a rat's tail that was supposed to have been possessed of special powers. Many homes have been destroyed by the suspicious aroused in the minds of wives concerning their husbands. The police experience great difficulty in securing prosecutions, because people who have been gulled are ashamed to come forward to give evidence.—London Tit-Bits.

Great French Novelist

Lover of Good Coffee

To the many Americans who go to console in want of their usual coffee when traveling in France it may be a surprise to hear that a famous Frenchman, the novelist Honore de Balzac, was as fond of good coffee as they can be and extremely fastidious about the quality of the grains and their percolating.

He always had three kinds of grains mixed—Bourbon, Moka, Martinica, and had to go to three different grocers for them. He called his own coffee pot his "muse" and drank gallons of the dark beverage every day.

There he found the stimulus for those excruciating spells of inspiration, which sometimes lasted 48 hours and left him as weak and worn as any big fight. Another find of his, which perhaps helped him to survive such an unhealthy life, was fruit. He reveled in its beauty and adored its freshness. He was known to have eaten four pounds of cherries at a time.

"Tiddlers" Good Fathers

The "Tiddler," in common with the male stickle-back fish of every species, has remarkable parental instincts, building a nest, guarding the eggs, watching over the young fry whilst still in the nest, and then, when they are able to leave it, accompanying them as a guard until they are able to fend for themselves. Moreover, during the time that the baby "tiddlers" are in the nest, should one of them, stronger than the others, sail forth "on his own" to see what the world looks like, "papa" is after it like a flash, takes it in his mouth as a cat does a kitten and bundles it back into the nest.

End of Vandals as Nation

The Vandals were a Teutonic race which played a leading part in the disruption of the Roman empire in the Fifth century. They overran Gaul and Spain, and crossing to Africa established a kingdom there under Genseric (A. D. 429); committed all the excesses of barbaric devastation which have made their name proverbial; and wantonly destroyed works of art, monuments and priceless treasures of literature during the sack of Rome (455). The Emperor Justinian sent Belisarius against them, and after several defeats they were eventually routed (533), and as a nation ceased to exist.

Why Risk It?

Woodrow Wilson, playing golf one day with three friends, followed a particularly slow foursome with a habit of holding long and intimate discussions on every green. Coming to a short hole, the confab lasted for a full ten minutes, and the Wilson group reached the last stages of nervous exasperation.

"Outrageous," one of them exclaimed at last, stepping out on the tee, "I'm going to shoot."
"I wouldn't," advised the President, "You might miss them."—Collier's Weekly.

Double Duty Tree

In the garden of Stanley bay, Auckland, New Zealand, there stands an old lemon tree that produces not only its rightful fruit throughout the year but, in season, fine sweet oranges as well. At times the tree has a good crop of both fruits. Neither is tainted with the peculiarities of the other. A close examination of the tree gives one no explanation of the freak. The secret is that an orange root has been grafted to that of a lemon and the stem of the orange has grown into that of the lemon, forming what appears to be one tree.

Maligned

Sunny was driving through the country with the grandmother when he espied some pigs greedily eating in a field and asked what it was.
"They're eating clover," explained his grandmother, and when she noticed his puzzled expression, added, "clover is just the same to them as 'mash' is to you."

Sunday School Lesson

TIMOTHY

Christmas Lesson—Luke 2:8-20 and II Timothy 1:1-6; 3:14-16

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Attention should be given to both themes, and they are closely related. Christmas as a day that has its best expression as it centers in the life of the home. The influence of Jesus, whose birth is being celebrated, has done more to change the home than anything else in all time. Evidence of this fact is to contrast the positions of women and children in those parts of the world where the teachings of Jesus are not operative with the social life in those lands where His disciples are followed even in part. Having been in twenty-four countries the writer can testify to this as an eye witness.

No single event in the history of the world has so changed the life

From Our Early Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Conner & Hogan have bought about 50,000 pounds of tobacco at an average of 3 1/2 cents.

John Bentler, aged 74, of Florence, died Monday, after a painful illness of several days. He was the father of Tony Bentler, of this place. Sidney Clements and Miss Alice Scott, of East Bend, were married at the residence of Rev. Hoover this morning. Rev. J. A. Kirley officiating.

Rouse Bros. raised steam for the first time at their mill since its removal here, yesterday, and did considerable grinding. They will grind every Monday beginning next Monday.

Dr. Rouse has built a stable on the lot he recently purchased here in town.

Burlington Lodge No. 264, F. & A. M., conferred the Initiatory degree on four candidates, and gave one the third degree, last Saturday night.

Jake Cook, of Bellevue, H. O. Adams, of Hathaway, Lucy Rouse, of Gunpowder, C. M. Delph, of Union, W. C. Rouse and Ephraim Tennes of Linaburg, B. I. Hood, of Constance, W. Lee Cropper of Constance, each came within the money given by the Enquirer in its census guessing contest, neither of them getting to exceed $10.

Hathaway

Corn is selling at $2 per barrel. Robert Sullivan had a tobacco stripping last week.

Mat Kyle and wife returned home after several weeks visiting in Missouri.

Robert B. Husy, of Locust Grove neighborhood, attended church at Big Bone on the 9th, and was the guest of T. L. Uta.

Hal Presser and wife and Frank Rue and wife, were in Rising Sun shopping last Monday week.

Dave Williamson gave the young folks a party last Tuesday night. F. J. Rue was on the sick list last week, with quinsy.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Memra, C. L. Crisler, J. W. Duncan and J. B. Clutterbuck attended Dr. Duncan's sale at Walton, last Saturday.

J. J. Tanner, who has been quite sick with pneumonia, and threatened with other troubles for a week or more, is getting better.

C. G. Riddell, one of the floor-walkers in Wilson & Riddell's dry goods emporium at Rabbit Hash, narrowly escaped a serious accident. The engineer who has charge of the furnace, left early and the fire had gone down. The elevator boys were also off of duty, and the floor-walker had to go outside the building before he could replenish the furnace. The night being very dark he lost his bearings and collided with a street care horse that kicked at him most viciously with both feet, striking him a glancing lick on one hip, creating considerable pain, but fortunately breaking no bones. This occurred last Saturday night.

Only 23 marriage licenses have been issued by the County Clerk, to date this year. If that branch of business does not revive, the next census will show a decrease in Boone's population.

Union

Monday, J. M. Manning's wedding was held in our streets several days last week.

Tom Judge has closed up the horse market for the winter and has gone into the hog business. Talk about guessers.

Rev. Johnson filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sabbath morning.

Florence

Mr. and Mrs. David Buffington, on their return from their brilliant trip, will occupy their beautiful home on the Lexington pike near the residence of his brother, Rev. Geo. N. Buffington. They will be a great acquisition to the society of the neighborhood.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Uncle Church Clure planted 100 plants of tobacco and raised 500 pounds thereof.

L. S. Beemon sold four hogs that averaged 441 pounds.

Things Funny To See

Street lamps in Burlington. Petersburg pike put in good order. A man who won't prophesy about the weather.

A fat turkey sent to this office, as a Christmas present.

Turnpike from Florence to Roads to Constance. The taborine beating Joe Keel. Dr. J. M. Grant has sold his residence to John Glen, and has leave, for two years, Dr. I. R. McKenzie's property. Dr. McKenzie will be informed, will move to Covington the latter part of this month.

Stringtown

This is quite a little town situated on the waters of Ashby Fork creek, extending from the corporation limits of Fickertown, to the corporation of Gainesville. A new dwelling has recently been erected and is now occupied by B. F. Jarrell, who is a welcome citizen, making in all nine dwelling houses exclusive of a hotel, and dwelling house combined, known as the Magnolia House, with a population of about 50 inhabitants. We also have one tobacco warehouse, one college known as Owl College, school is in session under the management of an experienced Professor and by his untiring energies success is almost certain. Although but few students from a distance, there is a fair attendance. We are sorry to say owing to the neglect of the officers, the college is greatly in need of repair.

Petersburg

The dimagrate in this section of the kuntry seem to be anxious for somebody to start a newspaper in the city of Siasinatty. If that will work it, the intrust of the party, and give dem consolshun. We think so ourselves. Should such a thing occur, we mite git a chance to rite for de paper. This thing of writing for a kuntry nusepaper is like a hen, dat is rcting on one egg.

MASTER FARMERS TO SPEAK AT FARM AND HOME CONVENTION

Kentucky's eight Master Farmers for 1930 will have charge of one of the afternoon programs during the 19th annual Farm and Home Convention, to be held at the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, the last week in January.

These eight model farmers, who represent good farming, good living and good citizenship, will no doubt have interesting messages for the convention. Ben Kilgore, associate editor of The Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, will act as chairman of the program.

Speakers secured for the convention include Ralph Sams, manager of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Louisville, who will discuss how farmers can borrow money; and Charles Meacham, Union county farmer, and H. R. Jackson, farm agent in Shelby county, both of whom will speak on lespedeza growing. O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairying, United States Department of Agriculture, will address a special meeting of dairy farmers and also the general session.

Efforts are being made to arrange one of the best Farm and Home Convention programs. A feature of the women's meetings will be the naming of five master homemakers.

Made Use of Idea

Oil men borrowed an idea from dairymen by using the cream separator to extract petroleum from tar and sand.

Goes for Both

The old rule about making guests at home, "Show them they are welcome," is also the one great rule for raising children - Country Home.

Odd Medium of Exchange

Cacao beans were used as a medium of exchange among the prehistoric Mayas of Central America.

Nugget of Wisdom
To be happy it is first necessary to determine to be happy, not simply to hope to be happy.

Eggs in Fish Row

The various species of fish produce varying amounts of eggs. The Atlantic salmon (Salmo salar) averages 1,200 per fish, while the sturgeons average 1,800,000 eggs per fish.

Insidious Coconut Crab

The coconut crab has a way of pounding with its claws on the eye-holes of a coconut until a hole is made large enough for a small claw to enter.

DEMONSTRATION FLOCKS SELECTED

The poultry flocks of Grant Madison of Florence, R. & N. Chambers of Walton, L. R. Miller of Big Bone and Kite & Purdy of Burlington R. D. 2, have been included in the county demonstration poultry flocks this year according to county agent H. R. Forkner.

The above four demonstrators are keeping complete flock records beginning November 1st past. Three of the above flocks representing a total of 905 hens produced a total of 5757 eggs with a total of $203.80 receipts, $94.38 expenses and a net profit of $109.46 during the month of November.

The demonstration flocks are selected from the cooperators who agree to keep complete farm flock records and carry out recommended housing, feeding and breeding practices. Individual birds coming up to certain standards are eligible to be state certified at the end of the poultry year.

FARMERS MISLED

Many Boone county farmers are being misled into trying fake cures and remedies for contagious abortion and other livestock diseases. Many of these cures are naturally planned to appeal and fit into the least line of resistance to those farmers who are not up and thinking.

The Kentucky Experiment Station and other institutions in the county have the job of experimenting and finding the facts and when these facts are found to pass the information back to the farmer. Before investing time, money and valuable herds in remedies about which no reliable information is known it will pay to first consult the experiment station or some good local veterinarian which for most parts of Boone county will be Dr. Ryle at Burlington.

FRUIT GROWERS HOLD 75TH ANNUAL MEETING

Fifty fruit growers attended the 75th annual winter meeting of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society, held in cooperation with the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station.

Insect control, orchard machinery, soil management, cover crops, rodent control, and fruit growing prospects were among the subjects discussed.

Present prospects for a crop next year are good. W. W. Magill, of the College of Agriculture, told the growers. Many of the trees rested this year, and should bear well next year, provided there is no unseasonable weather during the winter and spring.

W. H. Stites, Henderson county county grower, was elected president to succeed W. W. Hillenmeyer, Lexington.

ington, and J. B. Jordan, Jefferson county, was elected vice-president to succeed W. F. Axton, Louisville.

BURLEY MARKET NEWS BY RADIO

Burley prices are being given daily from the extension studios of WHAS at the University of Kentucky at Lexington. James McDonald, well known tobacco man and formerly grader for the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, has been engaged by the Experiment Station to gather information on prices which is being broadcast at 12:45 each day except Saturday and Sunday.

Farmers, dealer and other persons interested in following the tobacco sales thus for the first time will have available daily information regarding prices of burley of comparable grade and quality.

A YEAR WITH A COUNTY AGENT

R. H. Lickert recently sent to the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, a summary of his year's work as farm agent in Fleming county.

Although a discouraging year, the use of lime on land increased by 30 per cent. Six thousand tons of limestone and 400 tons of marl were used, and more fertilizer than in any previous year.

In an effort to increase feed production, farmers were urged to sow 75 bushels of korean lespedeza seed, 250 bushels of alfalfa seed and 850 bushels of soybean. They also tried sudan grass and vetch with good success. Root-rot resistant tobacco was given a fair trial, and found superior.

Farmers who in previous years had set fruit trees and given them the care recommended by the county agent this year began to reap their reward.

Mr. Lickert devoted much time to encouraging dairying. Good cows and well bred bulls were purchased, and suggestions given in feeding and general care. Six farmers joined an association to test their cows.

Farmers were assisted to develop their production of sheep and hogs, given advice as to rationing, and shown how to dip and drench. Many farm men and women were taught how to cull chickens and helped to plan rations, housing and other care that would increase egg production.

One hundred and fifty-six boys and girls were enrolled in 4-H clubs where they learned and practiced the best methods of farming and at the same time made money.

The county agent spent 208 days working among farmers on their farms, making a total of 731 farm visits. More than 900 men called at his office. He held 181 meetings during the year, where ways of increasing farm returns were discussed and planned.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness and help shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father Jerry Delph. Especially do we thank Rev. Harold Beemon for his kind service, the singers, pallbearers and C. Scott Chambers for his efficient service.

The Family.

Famous English Radical Peter Porcupine was the nom de plume of William Cobbett when he was a Tory, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. "Porcupine Papers" are preserved in 12 volumes. Cobbett was born in 1762 and he died in 1835. He was one of the most brilliant and famous political and social agitators and pamphleteers of England. At one time he was compelled to leave his own country and he continued his agitation in America.

Commercial Bodies

Chambers of commerce originated on the continent of Europe with the disintegration of the old guild system. The first chamber of commerce on record is that of Marseilles, France, which grew out of a committee of merchants established in 1559. The movement spread to the United States, where the first chamber of commerce, that of New York city, was organized in 1793.

Chas. W. Riley, cashier of the Hebron Deposit Bank, was admitted to the bar here in open court last Thursday, December 11th. Mr. Riley will continue his classes in the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. Law School until graduation.

It is reported that there are four destitute families in Boone county. Local citizens are making an effort to obtain clothing for them. Anything you have will be appreciated, if you will send it to the Recorder office.

Silos are being considered by many Kentucky farmers who are giving serious thought to ways whereby they may increase returns from their farms. Silage has been found an economical feed for practically all kinds of livestock. Tests made at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky indicated that corn silage greatly reduces the cost of winter steers, according to circular No. 76, which discusses many phases of wintering cattle.

Our annual Christmas card has been received from Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fennell, of Detroit, and in return for which we extend to them the heartiest holiday good wishes.

Wall Street Term

The term "lame duck" originated in Wall Street and was applied to one who failed or was unable to fulfill his obligations. It became commonly used to describe a senator or representative who, having failed of re-election, was unable in the last session of congress to fulfill promises made to his constituents.

And Sometimes It's Dry
Drilling an oil well in the United States costs from $10,000 to $250,000, according to the depth and location, a petroleum specialist explains.

Destructive Area Varies
A tornado's path of destruction may be only 50 feet wide, or it may spread over half a mile.

Costly Kiss
The driver of a car was challenged by his lady friend to give her a kiss en route. The motor car was somewhat excited by contingencies and wobbled from the straight and narrow. A third passenger in the car was injured and got judgment for $11,750 in a California court. In bestowing kisses it would seem that no party should be omitted.—Los Angeles Times.

Jefferson Ditch Memorial
The Jefferson Ditch memorial, erected here in honor of the Christian county, Kentucky, in 1851, is high.

Historical River
The Roanoke River is about 400 miles in length and has a drainage area of 8,287 square miles.

"E" Most-Used Letter
According to "prufers" experience the letter "E" is used most frequently. Taking "E" as a base at 1,000 times, the other letters follow in this order: T, 770; A, 725; I, 704; S, 680; O, 672; N, 670; H, 540; R, 528; D, 392; L, 380; U, 236; C, 280; M, 272; F, 236; W, 190; Y, 184; P, 168; G, 168; V, 153; B, 120; K, 88; J, 55; Q, 50; X, 46, and Z, 22.

Male Costume
The male of our race takes costume to extremes. He wears a suit of armor, depending on the size of the armor. It takes approximately three hours to weave a shirt, the life of which is three days.

Historic Blarney Castle
Blarney castle was built about 1445 by Cormac McCarthy. It has walls which in places are as thick as 18 feet. The base of the castle is built up in the civil history of the country and the war of the Great Rebellion. The famous Blarney stone is near the top of the wall. Promises and flattering speeches delayed the surrender of the castle in medieval times and from this fact it is supposed that the tradition concerning the Blarney stone arose.

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY

Old Testament Writers
Not Botanically Exact
Perhaps it is not to be wondered at that the Old Testament writers writing in, or at least of, a remote antiquity, should not be extremely exact in their botanical or other natural history nomenclature.
In early days men were not very particular about the naming of the trees of the field. There seems to have been a tendency then, as now, to place trees in two classes, those that shed their leaves each autumn and those which do not. Just as we roughly speak of the first class as hardwood and the confers with their perennial foliage as soft wood. Under the generic term fir, or it may be gopher wood, they classed the cedar, the fir, theypress, the pine and the hemlock, while the wood oak covered a variety, possibly most of the trees of the hardwood or deciduous kind.
The sacred writers, we must always remember, were not concerned about imparting scientific knowledge or names. Their one great aim was to display the progress of God's revelation to his people and their attitude towards him, and his revelation.—Montreal Herald.

Ancient Burial Ground
Uncovered in Ireland
While digging for gravel in a field at Ballinasadden, Ireland, a workman discovered an ancient sepulcher in an excellent state of preservation. Inside the sepulcher there was an urn which contained the ashes of the dead lying among some snowy, charred bones. The sepulcher has a flat paving stone roof and base, and built up sides with a stone front. The interior was approximately 2 feet wide by 12 inches deep. The urn, which is slightly cracked, appears to be made of clay. It is 4 inches high and 18 inches in diameter and has an inch thick. It is adorned with several rows of indented markings. About 14 years ago a farmer found a similar vault less than 20 yards from the above. The vase, or urn, in this was broken by a fall of earth. It is believed there are other vaults in this field, as when the ground was prodded with a crowbar in various places a hollow sound was heard.

Grant's Correct Name
President Grant was named Hiram Ulysses, but by a curious error he became known in history as Ulysses Simpson Grant. When he was about seventeen years old he received his appointment to West Point Military Academy through Congressman Thomas L. Hamer. Grant had been familiarly known by his middle name, and Hamer, who was sufficiently acquainted with him to know that the young candidate's name was Ulysses S. Grant. Hamer was the middle name of his mother, and also was borne by one of his younger brothers. This circumstance was probably the origin of the error.

Jerusalem Chamber
At the foot of the Wren towers of Westminster abbey is a low, gray stone building known after certain tapestries which used to hang on its walls, as the Jerusalem chamber. It was built by Abbot Lityington in 1276, and in it the abbots of Westminster entertained their guests. Here died Henry the Fourth and here Henry the Fifth became king. Here the committee for the revision of the Bible worked for four years. Here Addison and Sir Isaac Newton lay in state. This beautiful chamber is cedar-paneled, and contains fine ancient glass and a contemporary portrait of Richard the Second.

Lake Ontario
Lake Ontario, while smallest of the chain of Great Lakes, is one of the most important historically and commercially. Its area is 7,200 square miles. It was discovered by Champlain and probably by Brule in 1615, the former at the east and the latter at the west end of the lake. It was also known as Lac des Iroquois and Lac St. Louis. Both Cartier and Champlain had heard of it from the Indians. Father La Moine, a Jesuit, and later explorers landed on its shores and navigated its length. La Salle seems to have built the first boat on its waters.

Identifying Herself
The theater queen had had a long, long wait. But at last they began to shuffle slowly forward as the early doors were opened. Suddenly a young dancer rushed up and introduced herself behind a stout and elderly gentleman. A keen believer in fair play, he turned upon her.
"How dare you push in there?" he demanded. "That isn't your place."
"Oh, yes, it is!" replied the girl, pertly. "I only went off to get some candy, and I put a cross on your back with my lipstick so that I'd know my proper place when I came back. Take your coat off and see for yourself!"

Not Quite the Same
A maid in the home of a well known Springfield individual caused a sensation in the kitchen recently when she announced that the head of the house had just informed her that "he wanted beer for dinner."
Since the man was known to be an ardent total abstainer, before the order was complied with a cautious inquiry was instituted. This disclosed that what was really said by the man was: "I won't be here for dinner."

Tricky Criminals Keep Law Officers "on Edge"
Growing a beard, dyeing the hair, and staining the face and hands with a mixture of butter and oil, nutgall, and permanganate of potash, are old-time dodges that have often been very useful to the hunted man. Stained with the above mixture, a fair-skinned man becomes as swarthy as a Spaniard or Italian; it once made a burglar "on the run" so confident that he actually had the audacity to sell ice cream within a stone's throw of Scotland Yard. Perhaps the most recent dodge for criminals who are anxious to give a wide berth to the police is going on the sick list. Hospital authorities in London and the provinces are much perturbed by this new and deplorable form of trickery. At one London hospital the suspicions of the doctors were aroused by the arrival in the course of one week of several individuals who, according to their own story, were in terrible pain, but whose ailments the medical men were quite unable to diagnose. The surprising speed with which these mysterious "patients" recovered at the end of a few days convinced the doctors that there was "something up." Inquiries were made, and it was learned that at least two of them were badly "wanted" in connection with a motor car theft.—London Times.

Had to Produce Proof of Claimed Accident
The man with a black eye and badly scratched face, who was smashing up a new, good-looking motor car with a sledge-hammer, naturally attracted a crowd. He would hit the car, pause, take a deep breath, and hit it again. He aimed blows at the running-board, mudguards, radiator and windscreen.
"Your car?" asked a bystander.
"My car," said the man, as he smashed his headlight.
He surveyed the result and grunted with satisfaction. Then he handed the hammer to a garage man—who, it turned out, had lent it to him—got in the car, and drove off. As he disappeared the garage man explained what it had all been about.
"That fellow got mixed up in a fight last night," he said. "Got badly knocked about, but he stayed at a hotel instead of going home. Called up his wife and told her he'd been in an accident. So the garage man shrugged his shoulders—"so he had to have an accident."

Scotland Scores Again
The tailor discovered when examining his stock that he had six 30-shilling suits.
"I can't sell them at all," he confessed to his friend.
"Why not wrap them up and put an invoice in for five suits at 40 shillings and send them to MacNab?" advised the other sharp business man.
"What will happen then?" asked the tailor.
"MacNab will think that you've made a mistake and buy them at once," the friend replied.
The tailor called on his friend three days later, and his face was white with rage.
"You've ruined me," he cried. "I sent the six suits to MacNab with an invoice for five, and he returned five suits saying that he did not order them."—Exchange.

Worse Luck
Two friends were discussing the various events which had taken place in their lives since last they met—a year ago.
"I've not done anything much at my job," said one. "I took a job as groom, and I've not had a minute's peace since—the go day and night, and ordered about."
"That's just how I've been treated," broke in the other.
"You!" said the first, surprised.
"How can you be putting up with my sort of life? You never took on as a groom!"
"I did," said the other, gloomily. "I took on as a bridegroom!"

Elastic Clause
Clause 13, Section 8, of Article I of the Constitution is called the Elastic clause. It reads as follows: "The congress shall have the power . . . To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States or in any department or officer thereof." This clause does not give any new power, but it does give congress a wide latitude in choosing means and passing laws for carrying out the powers granted elsewhere.

All Maryland Territory
The original District of Columbia, which was four miles square, included a tract south of the Potomac ceded by Virginia. No public buildings were erected on that tract and in 1846, upon petition of the inhabitants, it was reeded by congress to the parent state. The present District of Columbia, which comprises an area of about 70 square miles, was carved entirely out of Maryland territory.—Fathfinder Magazine.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM
The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHA S the week of Dec. 22. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Dec. 26—What farm folks are asking, L. C. Brewer.
GOOD WINTER CARE MEANS MORE EGGS
This is the time of year when farmers get intensely interested in poultry flocks, notes, C. E. Harris, of the College of Agriculture. University of Kentucky. The reasons are that eggs usually are a good price and because colds and other diseases tend to reduce egg production.
Mr. Harris stresses the need of proper feeding, good housing, and good care generally. One of the most important pieces of good equipment necessary to secure eggs is the proper type of mash hopper. It should be so constructed as to keep the feed clean, and also keep the birds from wasting feed.
Good egg production cannot be expected where the houses are not comfortable, light, roomy, dry and well ventilated. Unless the house is warm much of the feed will be used in keeping the hens warm. If it is damp and not well ventilated, colds, roup and other diseases will attack the flock.
Clean, warm water is important. Many good poultry farmers have found it profitable to buy a small water heater. One-inch mesh wire underneath the roosting poles has an indirect influence on egg production by helping to keep the flock free from worms.
Worthily Honored
Throughout the country trees have been planted at various times in honor of Stephen T. Mather, who was the first director of the national park service.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

IMMUNITY

It's a mighty comfortable feeling these winter months, especially in the northern states,—the consciousness that one is immune from "taking cold." Infections of the respiratory tract are so distressing, not to say dangerous, that one dreads them naturally, and would do most anything to prevent their occurrence. From quite an extensive experience, I believe immunizing vaccines have solved the problem as nearly as can be at this time.

Bacterial vaccines made by reliable people are harmless. They should be administered as a preventive, while the patient is in his usual health. Six or eight doses should be used, on alternate days—one each day, of course,—making about twelve to fourteen days cover the "course." Your physician will advise you for the best.

Just how long immunization lasts is not known. Personally, I have taken two "courses" of vaccine during a winter, and have escaped colds, grippe and influenza very nicely, though in almost daily contact with patients infected. I am, therefore, a firm and lasting friend of the vaccine treatment.

Indeed I have found vaccine very efficient in the treatment of respiratory infections. A cold will vanish more quickly if treated by this method—a dose daily, pushed till effect

The patient should stay indoors, better still, in bed, until perfectly recovered, thus preventing relapses which often pave the way for more serious difficulties. The most rational treatment for influenza, I believe, to be in the intelligent use of bacterial vaccines.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, says the old philosopher; I do not know where it may be more fittingly applied, than in the very common affliction known as "colds." Pneumonia is always dangerous to life; doubly so, when it follows influenza. And, is the one taken unawares that finds regret to be his chief heritage.

REPORT OF RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE FOR NOVEMBER 1931

November brought me a slate full of appointments for children to have complete physical examinations done and also some appointments for operations at the Children's Hospital in Cincinnati. I carried in seven children for examinations and operations, and I feel sure they shall all be much helped by their correction of defects. With regret I had to cancel appointments for five due to the fact that at the last the parents took fright and would not let their children go. It is such an opportunity for examinations and treatment by the best of Child's Appearances that I grieve over their loss since I have to stand in line so to speak in order to get my Boone county children into such a hospital. I appeal to the public to promote the teaching of prevention of disease by urging your neighbor who is thus fearful, to be more fearful of the outcome of neglecting to have defects in children corrected. I have taken hundreds of children in during my five years service here, and all have been benefited and not one met with harm.

On notification from Booth's Hospital that our patient Miss Marab Bradford must be brought home, I requested Mr. C. Scott Chambers to again give us his service and bring her back as he had taken her in two months ago, which he immediately did with the greatest of kindness and care. My! how I yearn for some county affiliation with a hospital whereby our people in such great physical need for care would be accepted readily to the satisfaction of all. It is surely a part of the job of the public that the health of the public be safe-guarded and promoted, and that the sick be successfully nursed.

I inspected 56 school children during the month and found among them much need of better health habits.

November brings us Red Cross Roll Call season and Thanksgiving, and we can show no greater thank for our blessings of Health and the peace of our land than to join the Red Cross which helped so wonderfully to remove the horrors of war, and in peace directs Health Service, Disaster Relief, and International Friendship.

I can add to my November Report in all sincerity my gratitude to everyone who has helped to promote the health work in Boone county. I am only a minute part of the Health program the Red Cross arranges for our rural people the nation over.

EUNIE B. WILLIS,
Red Cross P. H. N.

Caribbean

While English dictionaries indicate that the accent is on the syllable "be" in the word "Caribbean," it is to be observed that travelers returning from the Caribbean sea usually change their pronunciation to a form of local usage and accent in syllable "rib."

Thought-Jail Accused
In Germany the common courts are composed of three professional and two "lay" judges chosen like jurors. At a court in Berlin recently the presiding judge noted the meager demeanor of one of the lay magistrates. During the proceedings this man sat without any show of interest, looking miserable and casting appealing looks at the state's attorney. When the judge who had to pass the verdict was about to leave the courtroom, the presiding judge the unpaid magistrate speaking to the police sergeant. He approached and heard to his greatest astonishment, "I dare not go home, sergeant. I dare not tell my wife, who is ill in bed, that I have been found guilty. I have never been in court before. I have all my papers and testimonials with me; I was never asked to show them. Really, I have never done anything against the law in all my life." The judges crowded around, and under peals of laughter the poor lay magistrate was informed that he had not been asked to attend the court as an accused, but had been summoned to do his citizen's duty as a magistrate.

Monarch's Burial Place

Not Definitely Known
There is some uncertainty as to the final resting place of Alexander the Great, who died at Babylon. The body was prepared for transportation to Macedonia, and Philip Arrideus, whom the army chose to succeed Alexander jointly with the latter's post-humous son, was entrusted with the funeral rites. He left Babylon with the body, intending to convey it to Greece. The accounts as to what happened after that are conflicting. It seems that Philip learned that during his life Alexander had expressed a desire to be interred in Egypt. Philip therefore altered his course and went to Egypt. Lagus, one of Alexander's favorite generals, who was master of Egypt, got possession of the body and placed it temporarily at Memphis. Later, it is supposed, it was interred with great pomp at the new city of Alexandria.

The Ampersand

The sign "&" is called the ampersand. The term is a corruption of the expression, "and per se and," meaning "and by itself in and," which refers to the fact that the sign when followed by a c (&c) means and so forth. More common nowadays in this use is "etc.," the abbreviation of the Latin words et cetera. The script ampersand, a cross made with one stroke of the pen, is still very common. In type the ampersand is most commonly used in the abbreviation of firm names.

More Suitable

A young man bought a very old car, informing his father of the fact, he said, "I say, Dad, he a sport. I need one or two accessories to complete the car. Will you give me one?" "Very good," said his father, indifferently, "I'll give you a pedometer." The son laughed. "Why," he scoffed, "you've made a mistake. You mean a speedometer. A pedometer measures the miles you walk." "Yes," said the father, grimly, "I know that."

Helping the Cause

Two men attended a village church tea for which the tickets were sixpence each. The profits were to go toward providing comforts for the aged poor of the village.

Billion, after accounting for ten cups of tea, eight sandwiches, three plates of bread and butter, five jam tarts, and four small buns, was passing his cup for the eleventh time when he turned to his companion and said: "I think every one should encourage a thing of this sort, as it's for a good cause."—London Humors.

Life Spans Compared

According to the Argentine bureau of statistics, the average life span in Buenos Aires is thirty-eight years, which is eleven years shorter than the average span of life in New York and seventeen years shorter than that of Berlin. The life span in several cities as estimated by the Argentine bureau is as follows: Berlin and Amsterdam, 53; London and Washington, 53; Vienna, 51; New York, 49; Chicago, 48; Paris, 47; Montevideo, 35; Tokyo, 30; Leningrad, 27; Rio de Janeiro, 23.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Turning the Tables

The husband, who had a great habit of teasing his wife, was out motoring in the country with her when they met a farmer driving a pair of mules. Just as they were about to pass the farmer's turn-out, the mules turned their heads toward the motor-car and bellowed vociferously.

Turning to his wife, the husband remarked, cuttingly, "Relatives of yours, I suppose?" "Yes," said his wife, sweetly, "my marriage."

"Apple-Jack"

The word "apple-jack" will pass its centennial anniversary before many years. It first appeared in the American language in 1840, according to the new dictionary of the American language compiled at the University of Chicago by Mr. William Craig, who edited the Oxford dictionary.

Much Hidden Treasures

Awaits Lucky Finders
It's funny that people should spend thousands of pounds in fitting up expeditions to Trinidad, Cocos, and other islands reported to contain treasure, when the soil of Great Britain hides great hoards of gold and plate and jewels, says a writer in London Answers.

History tells us that King John's treasure lies in the sand at the edge of the Wash. It includes his golden crown and a wonderful collection of jewels. Another royal treasure, that of Edward II, lies buried in a rocky chasm in Wales, where he hid it when he fled from his cruel queen and her confederates.

Great hoards lie buried under the ruined walls of the old baronial castles, and much treasure was hidden in similar fashion by the abbots of the monasteries at the time of the Reformation.

Buried treasure is constantly coming to light. Not long ago a wonderful find was made in a Peasland cave. It was a collection of Saxons coins, along with other articles of gold and silver, buried more than 1,000 years ago by a Wessex king. The dates of the coins vary from A. D. 837 to A. D. 930. The finder was Reverend G. H. Wilson, a Methodist minister.

Scientists Puzzled by

Erratic Compass Needle

The puzzle of the deviating compass needle remains unsolved by scientists despite all the recent discoveries and explorations of the Arctic regions.

In the United States, there is a crooked line beginning just north of Savannah, extending across South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and passing a few miles east of Marquette into Lake Superior and Canada. This erratic line, which is constantly changing, is the line of zero declination. Anywhere along this line, the compass points to the true north; everywhere else in the United States it deviates.

In San Francisco, an article in World's Work relates, the variation is 13 degrees to the east. In New York the variation is to the west, 11 degrees; 10 years ago it was 10 1/2 degrees. A gradual shifting is going on all over the earth, nowhere uniformly.

A striking example of reversal of trend is given in the records of Boston. In 1670 the needle in Boston pointed 11 degrees west of north. By 1785, it had moved back and was only seven degrees west. Then it reversed and now is 14 degrees west and still going.

"Thalers" and "Dollars"

A rich silver mine was discovered in Joachimsthal, Bohemia, in 1516, and in commemoration a large number of silver coins were struck, having the effigy of St. Joachim. These were called joachimsthalers or thalers, a name that was modified to "dollar" and was applied to other silver coins of a similar size. The Spanish dollar was current in America before the Revolution and it was natural that this name should be given to the coin of the new republic. Various explanations of the dollar sign have been suggested, but the most plausible one is concerned with the design of the old Spanish dollar. This bore on one side a representation of two pillars, symbolic of the Pillars of Hercules. Our dollar sign shows these pillars with the ribbon or scroll interlaced.

Average Human Hair

According to one authority, the average head has about 1,000 hairs to the square inch. As the adult scalp area is from 95 to 140 square inches, this gives a figure of 95,000 to 140,000 hairs on a head. The number varies according to texture and other factors, blond hair having the highest number, while red hair averages about 90,000. Women's hair averages higher than men's. The annual growth is estimated at 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 inches and the weight of hair grown annually varies from .009 ounce per square inch on the thinnest-haired scalp to .05 ounce per square inch on the densest.

First American Books

It is supposed that "Pierce's Almanac" was the first pamphlet published in the United States. It was issued in 1633 or 1639 by the Cambridge press, ancestor of the present Harvard University press. The first full-sized book published in America was Steven Day's "The Whole Booke of Psalmes, Faithfully Translated into English Metre," issued in 1640 from the same press. The Spanish in Mexico and South America issued books in 1540, exactly one hundred years earlier.

Cotton Consumption

The average annual consumption of cotton in the United States was 4,911,200 running bales during the ten years 1904-05 to 1913-14. The average annual cotton consumption for 1916-17 and 1917-18 was 6,677,000 running bales. The average annual consumption from 1920-21 to 1929-30 was 6,308,000 bales.

Never Something for Nothing

Compensation is one of nature's immutable laws. Much of life's unhappiness, and many of its tragic failures, come from the futile effort to take something without being willing to pay the price. You can't get something for nothing.—Gilt.

Goldenrod Given Place

as "Desirable Citizen"

Goldenrod is not so much of an appendix after all. It is to become a balloon tire and hold up the weight of the world. The rubber in it is its real gold. It has been trying to tell the world its worth for ages, and man has just sneezed at it. It may still have its blowouts; but they will not be in the face of the public.

There was a time when goldenrod was driven out of the fields to the roadside and along the hedges as an undesirable citizen. It was a tramp plant that had to beg for even standing room. Now it will run along luxuriantly in broad acres; for it has suddenly become a commercial possibility.

Once the goldenrod was sneezed at all over the republic. Now it will occupy the chief place and show case in the tire factory and will be the comment of salesman and motorist. There has seldom been a more striking reversal of form in the history of man or plants. It has risen from the most lowly place to the choice of the magnate and millionaire. It has ceased being an outcast and has become the object of search by great scientists. Kerchool Bang!

Alaska Offers Much to #### Attract the Tourist

Unique picturesqueness may be found in America's northernmost possession, Alaska. Glaciers, about which its fantastic and grotesque although beautiful formations. Mountains, plateaus and lowlands are many. Lofly peaks and deep valleys abound. The coast line is fringed with islands wooded on top and with sheer sides marked by glacial action. The great fisheries and the immense mining prospects are found to be of unusual interest to the visitor.

The primitive practices of the natives, their customs and manners; the relics of the old boom days, when precious metals were first found there, which have been preserved in song and story, will appeal to the tourists who know them only by their literary descriptions.

The Yukon river has been described as one of the most beautiful of the North. Many of the cities still retain some of the characteristics of the old gold rush days, while here and there is but a vestige of what was once a prosperous mining town.

Fishing Superstitions

If a Buckie fisherman's nets become tangled at sea he spat upon a piece of grass and threw it overboard. This mysterious act was supposed to untangle the line, writes Gerald Griffin in an article on Scottish fishermen and their superstitions, in the Baltimore Sun. The Nairn fishermen held it unlucky to shoot nets on the port side, to taste any food before fish were caught, to fall to draw blood from the first fish caught. No fisherman of Morayshire would carry a parcel for a friend or go to sea before blood had been shed, although to accomplish the latter very often a fight had to be started. The fisherman's wife would not comb her hair after sunset while her "guid man" was at sea.

Latvia's Historic Capital

In 1818 Latvia was made an independent republic with Riga as its capital. One is accustomed to think of the Baltic states as little countries, yet Latvia's area is 25,000 square miles and is as large as both Holland and Belgium together. Riga is a dignified city with many parks and broad boulevards. Its wide paved streets are so thickly fringed with lime trees that one may walk beneath them when it is raining without need of an umbrella. Riga was founded in 1201 by Bishop Albert, who built the cathedral. This cathedral is one of the most ancient of Riga's many places of worship, and has one of the largest organs in Europe.

Proving Earth's Motion

A ball suspended in the National Academy of Sciences is a Foucault pendulum. The action of this pendulum depends upon the fact that, according to the laws of motion, a freely swinging pendulum tends constantly to move in the same plane. The experiment proves that the earth rotates eastward, and the rate of deviation of the pendulum proves the rate of rotation of the earth with respect to the stars is due entirely to its rotation and not to the motion of the stars around it.

Clever Herbert

In the stillness of the night there came a noise from the dining room. "Some one's moving," whispered Mrs. Brown. "Go down, Herbert." "I don't think it's anything," faltered Herbert. "Herbert, are you afraid to go down and face that burglar?" demanded his wife.

"Afraid? Certainly not!" he stammered. "But you know, my dear, how I hate meeting strangers."

Cautions

Mrs. Bonnie Carter of Pasadena was poking about in the shrubs when she suddenly called out: "Look! Look! Here's a little green snake!" "You better look out," cautioned Junior. "It may be just as dangerous as a ripe one."—Los Angeles Times.

French Mind Slow to #### Wander in New Paths

The critical intelligence of the French at its best is very far from mere fault-finding, and has a limpidity which is unmatched in the mind of any other people. Philip Carr writes, in the London Fortnightly Review. Even at its best, however, it has its limits. The Frenchman is always reasoning, and not often imagining, or rather his imagination for him is characteristically an artist—always has a reasoning quality. Perhaps it would be more true to say that he is hardly ever dreaming, for he is really interested only in what can be defined, and as he has too highly developed the art of getting the very best out of the material before him, he is often unfairly accused of caring only for the material side of it. A love of system, of generalizations, of abstract principles, makes the logic which is always working in every French mind almost entirely deductive. It gives to the Frenchman the tendency which he always has to take a legal view of all questions, unless he takes an even more closely reasoned scientific view. It prevents him from trying in practice any expedient of which he has not first attempted to understand the principle, but it also prevents him from being vague and happy-go-lucky.

"Grail" Legend Traced

to Fables of Antiquity

The origin of the Grail legend was discussed by speakers at the international Arthurian congress at Truro, England. Prof. Roger Loomis, of Columbia university, discussed the Celtic connection of the Grail legend. It was popularly supposed, he said, that this "Grail" was the cup used by Christ at the Last Supper, and that the story of the quest was always a Christian story. As a matter of fact, however, the earliest form was non-Christian. The Grail legend was full of details quite incongruous with a Christian interpretation. It was a reasonable conclusion that this, the most fascinating of legends, gradually evolved in Ireland and Wales and passed through Cornwall and Brittany to the French. Doctor Lewis, of St. Andrews university, suggested that the source of the Grail story was the famous legend of the House of Atreus, especially the story of Orestes, avenger of his father Agamemnon.

Importance of the Mace

The present mace in the British house of commons dates from the Restoration, and was supplied pursuant to an order of the house, dated May 21, 1660. It was made by Thomas Maudslayi, a London goldsmith, and cost approximately $733. It must always lie upon the table when the house is in session with the speaker in the chair. When the house goes into committee the mace is placed on two supports below the table to show that the house is not properly constituted. After the election of a new parliament before a speaker has been chosen, the mace is also kept under the table, upon which it is placed as soon as the speaker is properly completed. It is lent to the speaker by the sovereign, who resumes possession of it when parliament is prorogued.

The Limit

An American, visiting this country to have a look at our poultry farms, did not hesitate to say how much farther advanced was the art of poultry-keeping in America, and told some tall yarns of his achievements. Twenty-five chickens from a dozen coops appeared to be a daily occurrence in the United States.

But a good old English farmer was game for him.

"Perhaps," said the old man, "you have never seen a hundred chickens hatched by one hen at a sitting?"

"Waal," answered the American, "I can't say I have, but—"

"Well, then, it happens that I have," returned the farmer. "Dows Devonshire way we always fill a barrel with eggs and set the hen on the bangin'!"—London Tit-Bits.

Father's Little Weakness

Father and son were out walking when the former stopped and picked up a rather nicely made man's glove. "There's nothing like honesty," he said to the boy. "I will place it on this railing, and perhaps the owner will return for it."

They continued their walk, but a little while later the man picked up another glove.

"Goodness me," he exclaimed, "this is the neighbor to the other glove!" He tried it on. "And my size, too!" he harked, Sonny, and fetch the other glove."

Habit the Cable-Tow

Habit has been well described as a cable, waving only a thread at a time, but at last so strong that it cannot easily be broken. Eliminate in your self every weak and undesirable habit. Take a determined stand for every thing which enlarges and ennobles your life. Resolve to live your highest possible life where you are today. Take stock of your habits. Character comes from repeated choice.

That's Napoleon

Napoleon was the type that telephoned to his contractor and said: "My wife's arriving tomorrow. Build me an 18-room house at once."—Woman's Home Companion.

Mother Nature Provides

Protection for Insects

Many animals, birds, fish and insects are shaped and colored by nature in such a way as to protect them from their enemies. This marvelous provision is seen at its best in some groups of stick insects and leaf insects which recently arrived at the zoo. The stick insects have come from the East Indies, and they are of a light greenish-brownish color, measuring from 2 inches to 4 or 6 inches in length. They are very thin, indeed, and they are so much like tiny twigs or sticks that it is almost impossible to distinguish them from their surroundings. They imitate the twigs exactly, folding their slender legs close to their bodies, and hanging from the smaller branches just like leafless stalks. Leaf insects are of a bright green tint, and are shaped exactly like leaves, their wings being folded over one another and marked with veins. Even their six legs are shaped like smaller leaves; and as they hunt among the foliage of trees for the smaller insects they feed upon, they are quite safe from the birds which they are merely leaves.—London Answers.

Pilgrims Attracted to

Historic Swiss Church

The wanderer in the heart of "Franconian Switzerland" sees from afar the two towers of the "Church of the Pictures of the Holy Trinity," which celebrated its two hundredth anniversary recently. It is one of the most famous goals of pilgrims in Europe. For two centuries these have been coming to pray before its wonder-working picture of the Virgin. Most of the pilgrims still wear the costumes of an earlier day. When one of the Franciscan monks of the church dies the body is tied to a board and carried through Gosweinstein before being placed in a small niche in a catacomb-like cave dug into a cliff. The place in Gosweinstein is said to have served Richard Wagner as a model for the Gralsburg in "Parsifal."

Youth's Zealful Day

The zest of life does not endure forever. The days of pursuit pass and the days of reflection come, and the man who has slinging through his memory what is noble and stirring, who can turn with joy and relief to those perpetual friends of his bookshelves, has laid up for himself true riches. It is a great thing for anyone that, before being plunged into the exacting work of his life, he should have had time in which to make himself familiar with some of the great things in his own history and literature, and with actions of deep minds on problems where the search is the reward.—Principal R. Bruce Taylor.

Summerless Year

The year 1816 was popularly known as "the year without a summer." Of course this term is a misnomer, and is not to be taken literally. But in the northern states there were frosts in every month of the year, and similar adverse weather conditions prevailed in Great Britain, France, Spain, Italy, and other parts of Europe. Data collected by the weather bureau, however, show that the worst features of this summer were exaggerated by writers, and only a few of the less hardy crops and plants suffered from the cold during the summer of 1816.

Lost!

The minister having failed to appear at the hour for service at a church in a Highland glen, one of the elders, a sheep farmer, entered the pulpit to conduct the service.

He got through the preliminary exercises without mishap, and then gave out the text: "I am the good shepherd." Three times he repeated the words "I am the good shepherd," but could proceed no further.

"No, no, Donald, you better come down," said a member seated in a front pew; "you're just a common sheep like one of ourselves."

Too Prolonged an Experiment

Somerset Maugham, playwright and novelist, says that the witliest after-dinner speech he has ever heard was made by an American at a London dinner party. To the visitor had been allotted the toast of "The Ladies." He began by saying that a distinguished man of letters had suggested that marriage should be on the basis of a seven years' lease, renewable at the option of both parties.

Followed a pause. Then—with sad deliberation: "Now, gentlemen, seven years is a very long time."—Kansas City Times.

Reversing the Route

Two workmen were having a quiet chat. "Who's that chap over there in the blue overalls?" asked Ted of his companion.

"That's the boss' son. He's working as a laborer," came the reply. "I see," ventured Ted, "starting at the bottom and working his way up." "No," replied his companion. "He started at the top and they pushed him down!"

Trusting Mothers

When a woman says, "My daughter tells me everything," you know that the little girl is putting something over on mother, because no human soul ever entirely discloses itself to another, unless it is mentally defective.—Woman's Home Companion.

Large Garden Herds

In Mount McKinley National park, Alaska, caribou run in herds of a thousand or more.

Pipe Lines Vary

Oil pipe lines range in diameter from four to twelve inches; natural gas lines are sixteen inches and up.

Attaining Perfection

Perfection is attained by doing common things uncommonly well, not by striving to do something out of the common.—Exchange.

Distinctive Mountains

The Ozark mountains are not regarded by geologists as being part of either the Rocky or the Appalachian systems, but as an independent and distinct unit. They lie in southern Missouri, northern Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma.

Practice Cheerfulness

A face that cannot smile is like a lantern without a light. A long face is no passport to heaven or any other place worth going to.—Cappers' Weekly.

Bank Barred by Moslem Law

Moslem law, forbidding payment of interest, has prevented establishment of a native bank in the kingdom of Hedjaz, Arabia.

Illegible Numeral

In a survey of 135,000 numerals written by more than 5,000 persons it was found that the figure 5 was responsible for nearly half of the illegibilities, due to the incorrect placing of the dash.

Chinese Lipstick in 1730

Among the Chinese paintings on glass recently shown in a London gallery was that of a Chinese young woman at her toilet in a well-to-do home. Although the date of this picture is about 1730, the miss was using a lipstick with all the skill of a modern tapper.

Small Boy Honored

The little boy buried in Arlington cemetery and called the "Little Corporal," was the son of Sgt. Frank Lankton, General Pershing's orderly during the World war, and was always called Little Corporal by the general. He is buried in the civilian portion of the Fort Myer post section of Arlington.

LOCAL FIVE

FALLS DOWN BADLY IN FINAL TEST AGAINST ELSMERE BAPTISTS SATURDAY—ABSENCE OF LAMB CREATES VACANCY IN TEAM THAT IS SADLY NOTICEABLE

Defeat ambushed the tribe of the Burlington Baptists at the Covington Y. M. C. A. last Saturday evening when the Elsmere Baptists humiliated them to the tuneless dirge of 24-9.

The story can be told in very few lines. The locals, while not offering it as an alibi, were "shot" without the services of Lamb at center. An alibi is an alibi, but that is just the plain truth, and it will be attested by all who saw the game. It is not to unduly extol the merits of the individual, nor to detract from one whet from the ability of Frank Maurer, who attempted to fill his shoes, but Frank always has been a forward and Lamb has played every game at center for the home team for the past two years, which should tell the story.

The score at the half was 14-0. The locals however rallied during the second half and for a few minutes appeared to be on their way, but the offensive combination just wasn't there. Uta led in the scoring with two field goals, while Maurer and Stephens each shot one, the latter also making a foul. McClurg was the leading offensive star for Elsmere with 12 points to his credit.

The boys will play Shinkle M. E. next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock (fast time). The bus will leave Blythe's store at 5:45 (slow time).

BERT SMITH

SUCCESSFUL TO HEART AILMENT AT NEWPORT HOME—WAS NATIVE OF BOONE COUNTY AND BORN ON WOOLPER CREEK, WHERE EARLY YEARS OF HIS LIFE WERE SPENT

After suffering for many months with heart trouble Bert Smith passed away at his home in Newport Saturday morning at 5:30 o'clock. Mr. Smith is survived by his widow, six sons and two daughters.

Mr. Smith was a son of the late Lystra A. Smith and wife and was born on Woolper Creek, October 20, 1877. He attended the local school on Woolper under the tutelage of ex-circuit Judge Sidney Gaines, and many other noted instructors of that day.

BERT SMITH

Sixteen years ago he left Boone county to take a position as mail carrier in Newport and which position he had held with merit and distinction until illness caused him to relinquish his post recently.

Funeral services were held in the First Baptist church of Newport, Tuesday morning, after which the remains were brought to Burlington for burial in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Bert Smith had a world of loyal friends throughout northern Boone county, as well as in Newport, his late home. He always was a loyal friend of this newspaper, which was thoroughly appreciated. He never failed to pay on a visit when in town and his genial personality invariably found a welcome with us.

NO PAPER NEXT WEEK

As has been the practice of the Recorder since its institution more than a half century ago there will be no issue of the paper during the holidays. The open date this year will fall on New Year's Day, so until January 8th, 1931, au revoir.

CORNCRACKERS

OF CONSTANCE, ARE WINNERS OF FIRST LEG OF BOONE COUNTY BANKS' TROPHY IN CLASS "A" ACHIEVEMENT CONTEST FOR 1930

The Corncracker 4-H Club of Constance came out winner in the Group A 4-H community club achievement contest scoring a total of 2745.5 points per member winning the first leg of the Banks of Boone County trophy. The Norbels Champion club of Hebron was the runner up in the contest.

The Corncracker club under the adult leadership of Prof. R. V. Lents and Mrs. R. V. Lents, community leaders, Mr. A. D. Hunter, Mrs. Will Zimmer and Mrs. Henry Kottmeyer enrolled 18 members who completed their project work 100%, health work 100%, project study 100 per cent and took an active part in all community, county and a number of important state events. The officers of the club are Allan Kenyon, president; Gilbert Dolwick, vice-president; Madge Reeves, secretary-treasurer and Melvin Kenyon, cheer leader.

The Norbels Champion club of Hebron was a strong second contender for the championship. This club having the largest community enrollment in the county, scored strong even into the close of the contest. When the final scores were checked they showed splendid sportsmanship and gave promise of being a contender for the 1931 championship. The officers of the club are Robert Graves, president; Norris Riddell, vice-president; Alberta Baker, secretary-treasurer and Vaughn Hemphill, cheer leader. The adult leaders of the club are Lloyd Seikman and Prof. R. V. Lacy community club leaders; Mr. O. C. Hafer, Mrs. H. H. Conner, Mrs. Casper and John Origer, project leaders.

DR. L. C. COWEN WEDS

Dr. L. C. Cowen, this city, and Mrs. Mittie Griffin of Artesia, Miss., were married at Miami, Fla., Dec. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Cowen will make their home on Bay Shore Drive, Miami, this winter and will come to their home here in the early spring time.

Dr. Cowen is one among the leading citizens of Rising Sun. He possesses those qualifications which are essential in the forming of the highest type of manhood and citizenship.

Mrs. Cowen is known to several persons here, all of whom declare that she is a most charming woman, adding that Dr. Cowen is to be congratulated on winning such a splendid woman for a life companion.

For many years Dr. Cowen successfully practiced medicine here, retiring from his activities some few years since. Previous to coming here he resided at Rabbit Hash, Ky.

He left here a few weeks ago for Miami, where it has been his custom for several years to spend the winter. While he did not announce his approaching marriage, yet the news of that interesting event will not come as a surprise to his host of friends.—Ohio County News.

Miss Hazel Cabbage departed for her home at Leitchfield, Ky., immediately after the school exercises Friday afternoon, while Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lamb, accompanied by Mrs. Lamb's sister, Miss Maurine Lyles, left after the basket ball games Friday evening for their holiday visit with parents and relatives at Harlan, Kentucky. Miss Lyles will be missed by a number of intimate friends and acquaintances gained while visiting here for the past several weeks. All teachers and students will be back at their respective posts on Monday, December 28th, when school will re-commence.

"Who Are Obstructionists?" Is Question Hard To Decide

(By Mark Vane Collier)

It is not so easy to determine at whose door-step lies the responsibility for obstructive tactics. When each of two youngsters in a game declare "I can't be it, I won't play," it makes little difference to an interested spectator which is the "obstructionist." Evidently there is something in the way of "obstruction" on both sides. If neither "gives in," the game is over—that's all.

It is all very well to indulge in such platitudes as "playing politics at the expense of human misery," but it is not always so easy to decide just who is "playing politics." The pot is not necessarily black because the kettle says so; maybe it is a nickel-plated or has a bright green enamel.

When a large part of the world is struggling along under temporary but severe business depression and the effect of far-reaching natural calamities is a poor time to lay upon the American people the wholly unnecessary burden of a controversial deadlock between the President and Congress. Yet the controversy was precipitated and is likely to continue unless Mr. Hoover has the wisdom and the foresight to seek advisors outside his circle of tyros and counterfeit statesmen who know as little of the art of statescraft as he himself.

President Hoover has and has had before him the problem of persuading Congress to pass the normal appropriation bills plus such bills for public works as can be effectively carried out forthwith. To accomplish this he was offered the cooperation of the Democrats. As the Administration controls the House, the President's principal task is to convince the leaders of the two parties in the Senate that his emergency relief measures are sound.

That Mr. Hoover believes in his own program there can be no doubt. It may safely be presumed that he has had before him authentic reports which have proved to him that the emergency money he has asked for is all that reasonably and profitably can be spent. Undoubtedly Mr. Hoover's figures were not reached by speculation but by exhaustive study and calculation. Assuming that to be true, one would suppose that a statesman would turn at once to the leader of the opposition and request him to examine the same data in the hope that a mutually acceptable program could be evolved.

Evidently so such thing was

Robinson, in his behavior at the national conference, demonstrated beyond question that he knows how to deal with national problems in a nonpartisan way. It would seem that the obvious course to have followed would have been to act on the assumption that the bulk of the Democrats would follow Senator Robinson's leadership provided he and they were given the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the whole process of reasoning behind the program on which they were being asked to cooperate. Certainly they cannot be expected to cooperate effectively by simply becoming an Administration rubber stamp.

Of all people Mr. Hoover should have remembered that as a rule nothing is gained by losing one's temper, that in no such manner can he exhibit forcible leadership, that violent language is not indicative of strength, that one does not hit with effect who hits at random. In a situation like his the strong leader is the man who knows exactly what he wants and why he wants it, and then proceeds to win over every important person in the opposition who is open to reason by logical premises, persuasive evidence and calm and convincing argument. Then if he has to strike he can strike for a decision instead of goading to fury those who did not agree with him.

By this time, surely, Mr. Hoover must be aware that he is not getting good advice. In the crisis of his career he should not attempt to carry his burden without the help which would be given him readily once he sincerely sought it.

TOMCATS AND KITTENS GET EVEN BREAK WITH P. H. S

The wearers of the blue for the local high school came off with an even break in the basket ball games with Petersburg High School on the home floor last Friday evening. The Kittens had an easy time with the Petersburg girls, but the Tomcats found tough picking against the Bulldogs. With the Bradburn brothers leading a fast attack the Bulldogs led at the first quarter 9-0, but from then on the "Cat" put up a game battle holding the Petersburg boys even. But the nine point lead was too much and the game ended 22-14.

HOPEFUL LUTHERAN CHURCH

The pastor of this church and his wife have gone to Akron, Ohio, to spend a short Christmas vacation with their son, Dr. Arthur C. Herbert and family. There will not, therefore, be any preaching service at the Hopeful church, Sunday-Dec. 28th.

MT. ZION

WINS FARM BUREAU TROPHY IN COUNTY-WIDE 4-H CLUB COMMUNITY ACHIEVEMENT CONTEST IN CLASS B

The Mt. Zion Eagles scored for first place in Group B 4-H club work for 1930 and is winner of the Boone County Farm Bureau trophy awarded for outstanding community club achievement. The club scored a total of 2121.7 points per member and then edged in ahead of the Silver Leaders club of Hamilton winning second place and the Union Boosters club is mentioned in third place due to their high score which almost put them in second place honors.

The Mt. Zion Eagles 4-H club has grown during the past three years from one of the smallest to the second largest club in the county. Under the adult leadership of Grant Maddox and Miss Rachel Pottinger, community club leaders; Mrs. Henry Holtzworth, Mrs. Robert Robinson, Mrs. John Hendy and Mr. Ira Tanner, project leaders the club has taken an active part in all 4-H club events, special project study, health work and project competitions. The officers of the club are: Henry Holtzworth, president; Duella Carpenter, publicity chairman.

The Silver Leaders 4-H club of Hamilton enrolling eighteen members came thru the year with 100 per cent project completion and with a splendid community, county and state record. The Mt. Zion Eagles however got an early start that was hard to overcome. The adult leaders of the Silver Leaders club are Prof. E. E. Kirkwood, Mrs. J. L. Jones, Mr. Whitford Aylor and Mr. and Mrs. Lou Miller. The officers of the club are Sarah E. Aylor, president; Paul Setters, vice-president; Elizabeth Craig, secretary-treasurer and Wilma Aylor, publicity chairman.

FARM TEAM

BURNS TO DEATH ON FARM OF WM. STEPHENS NEAR PETERSBURG—COW ALSO DIES IN DESTRUCTIVE FIRE, WITH LOSS ONLY PARTIALLY COVERED BY INSURANCE

Esquire Wm. Stephens, of Petersburg, paid this office a visit Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Stephens sustained a considerable loss last Friday evening when a large barn on one of his farms was destroyed by fire. His loss was partially covered by insurance.

Clifford Hensley, a tenant on his farm, however, was even more unfortunate. Mr. Hensley lost a team of fine work horses, harness, farming implements and considerable feed. None of this property was covered by insurance. One cow, the property of Owen Allen, was in the barn and this animal also was destroyed. A crib containing 250 bushels of corn was saved by the heroic efforts of a bucket brigade formed by neighbors.

Construction work on the new addition to the Hebron Consolidated school is moving forward as rapidly as possible under existing weather conditions. It is said that the new structure may be ready for occupancy by February 1st, under favorable conditions, otherwise completion will be delayed according to the severity of the winter. When completed Hebron will have one of the most modern basket ball courts in this part of the country.

ANNEXATION

IS BONE OF CONTENTION BETWEEN ERLANGER AND ELSMERE AS THEY "DO ALPHONSE GASTON" IN LEGAL DISPUTE OVER WHO IS ANNEXING WHO?

This Elsmere-Erlanger squabble about annexation is getting all mixed up, like one of those old-time Kentucky feuds.

In fact its getting to be a serious thing. The big question now is, who's annexing who? Both have got their dander up and, each is trying to take a big slice out of the other.

It started November 30 when the Erlanger city dads passed an ordinance to annex 500 acres to Erlanger. Elsmere protested when it found that the tract included a part of Elsmere.

The idea was so obnoxious to Elsmere that Elsmere Trustees went in to Court with an injunction suit. A temporary injunction was granted, and the permanent one is still standing.

Then the Elsmere Trustees got busy and passed an ordinance to annex Erlanger. This cropped out yesterday when the formal notice of such action was posted in Elsmere.

And there the matters rest. Erlanger, with her 2,000 residents, trying to annex 700 more residents, with a part of Elsmere along with them, and Elsmere, slightly larger than Erlanger, trying to annex the whole town of Erlanger.

The new ordinance is to become effective in 30 days, so that the next move is up to Erlanger.

Great Shopping Center

Once Royal Grandstand

Six hundred years ago Cheapside was the scene of magnificent tournaments, in which knights from all parts of England came to compete. The tournaments commenced on September 21 and lasted for three days. In the year 1331, however, according to a historian writing of the times, disaster marred the proceedings. A scaffold had been erected for the purpose of seating Queen Philippa, wife of Edward III, and her gay troop of ladies, so that they might watch with comfort the knights show their skill in deeds of arms. The tournament had not long been in progress when the upper part of the scaffold on which the ladies were seated "broke in sunder, whereby they were (with some shame) forced to fall down, and many knights and others which stood beneath, much hurt."

Gave Life to Further

Fight on Yellow Fever

In order to "discover the yellow fever germ" Dr. James Carroll sacrificed his own life by permitting an infected mosquito to bite him. He was a member of the board that was appointed by the United States government to investigate the acute infectious diseases then occurring on the island of Cuba. He submitted himself to inoculation, with a consequent severe attack of the fever. He recovered, but died seven years later in Washington, September 16, 1907. His death was regarded as an ultimate result of the disease. Doctor Carroll was born in England June 5, 1854, and was a physician and surgeon in the United States army at the time of his appointment to the Havana yellow fever commission.

The other members of the board were Maj. Walter Reed, also a physician and surgeon of the United States army, Dr. Jesse Lassar and Dr. Aristides Agramonte. Doctor Lassar accidentally contracted the disease during the experiments and died, and Major Reed died of appendicitis in Washington the year following the conclusion of the experiments, his death occurring on November 23, 1902.

United States Coinage

In the reign of William and Mary copper coins were struck in England for New England and Carolina. Lord Baltimore had silver shillings, 6 pence, and 4 pence made in England to supply the demands of his province of Maryland, Vermont and Connecticut established mints in 1785 for the issue of copper coin. New Jersey followed a year later. But congress had the establishment of a mint for the confederated states under way, and in the same year agreed upon a plan submitted by Thomas Jefferson, and the act went into operation on a small scale in 1787. After the adoption of the Constitution of the United States in 1789 all the state mints were closed, as the Constitution places the power of coining money in the federal government.

Famous Old Bible

Among the relics of the old Fairfax family of Yorkshire are the famous Bible, prayer-book, and psalter of Archbishop Nells. They date from 1618 and were given to the first Baron Fairfax by this celebrated prelate of York, who was the son of a tallow chandler, became dean of Westminster, and passed through five bishoprics on his way to the primacy. As bishop of Rochester he had as his chaplain Land, afterwards the celebrated archbishop of Canterbury. The Bible contains an entry of the baptism of Thomas Fairfax, the general who was commander in chief of the army of the parliament (1645-50). He was one of Charles I's judges, but afterward became a supporter of the Restoration.

Tablecloth's Contract

Rather dirty, and with much pencil scribbling on it, a tablecloth recently was taken from a table in a London cafe and sent to Paris by air. Tablecloth scribbles had made it a contract. Round it not long before sat five business men at luncheon discussing an important deal. As they talked they made notes on the cloth. When they had finished they realized that the whole agreement was there before them in black and white. So they agreed to sign it. It was then sent to Paris to be produced as evidence at a meeting of business men there.

Much Matchwood Used

Swiftly upon its appearance the match displaced the tinderbox and the twisted paper lighter, but no modern invention has taken the place of matches. Simple, efficient, indispensable, they roll up their decades of usefulness, more in demand than ever. Vast tracts of forest are consumed for them and also—alas for human carelessness!—by them, so that the future may lose its penny packages unless more trees are planted now to furnish matchwood to last for a second century.

Australian Ballot Now

Universal in America

Australian ballot is the name given to a system of secret voting. The name arose from the fact that the essential features of the system were first introduced in 1835 in South Australia, one of the states of the Australian commonwealth, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. A system of voting modeled after the Australian system was adopted in England in 1872. In the United States this method was first employed in local elections at Louisville, Ky., in 1888, and in the same year Massachusetts adopted secret voting for all state elections, beginning in 1890. The Australian ballot, in one form or other, finally was adopted by every state in the Union and it still is employed except where it has been supplanted by voting machines, which retain the essential features of the Australian system.

According to the original Australian system, the names of all candidates appeared on the same ballot, which was compiled, printed and placed at the polls under the direction of public officials and at public expense; in other words, the ballot (now strictly official). The system had a threefold purpose—to prevent dishonesty in counting votes, to insure absolute secrecy and to protect the voter from outside influence while casting his vote. These were accomplished by giving each voter a separate ballot and compelling him to go alone into a booth where he indicated his choice by making a mark opposite the names of the candidates whom he preferred. The ballot then was folded and dropped into a ballot box.

Diary Reveals Arctic

Tragedy of Long Ago

Away back in 1633 seven Dutch sailors were left on Jan Mayen Island in the Arctic by a whaling expedition. When the whaling ship returned the next year all were dead. The bodies were placed in wooden coffins and a cairn of rocks built over them. For nearly 300 years the existence of this burial place has been known but it was not found until a wireless operator named Olonkin from the Norwegian whaler service discovered the cairn. Only fragments of the wooden coffins were found under the stones, but most interesting of all was the diary of one of the seven unfortunate, Outgert Jacobsen, which told of their sufferings. "We are all in bitter need and dying," an entry early in April, 1634, stated. "I crawl on hands and knees and help the others as far as I can." The last notation was made April 30. It read: "Wind as before. Sun shines. Who? That was the end. The hand of the writer had failed him before he could put down another word.—Capper's Weekly.

Quaint Epitaph

The proudest boast of the obscure village of Bolsover is that one of the quaintest epitaphs in England is inscribed in its churchyard.

The epitaph is that of a watchmaker buried nearly 100 years ago. It reads: "Here lies in a horizontal position the outside case of Thomas Hinde, clock and watchmaker—who departed this life wound up, in hope of being taken in hand by his Maker, and being thoroughly cleaned, repaired and set going in the world to come on the 15th of August, 1834. In the 19th year of his age."

Nearly is the two-line epigram of a butcher: "Here lies the body of poor John Higgins, A famous man for killing pigs."

Shakespeare Home Seized

Researches in the calendar of Old Chancery court have revealed a document about which beliefs were once in possession of Shakespeare's old home at Stratford-on-Avon, to receive judgment for debt. "They did break open ye doores of ye study of said house and rashly seize upon and take divers books, boxes, desks and moneys," says the document. But it was not Shakespeare's trouble. The house had passed into the hands of his daughter, and his son-in-law had contracted the debt. Shakespeare himself had played his last part a few years before the time of this document.—London Mail.

Hedge's Many Uses

One of the most important uses of hedge plants is for screening purposes and dividing the grounds into different parts. For instance, the service yard, drying yard, vegetable garden or garage court might well be set apart from the rest of the grounds with a tall growing hedge. Besides for this purpose, if to be clipped, can be grown from such plants as buckthorn and honeysuckle. These two plants adapt themselves to clipping and make a dense, impenetrable barrier. Wherever a screen, head-high, is needed and there is little space available, plant a hedge.

"Joss" Corruption of Deos?

In pidgin-English the word "joss" is applied to Chinese household gods and deities, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. It is believed that the word is a corruption of Portuguese "deus," which was applied to the household gods of China by Portuguese sailors who visited eastern ports during the sixteenth century. A joss-house is a temple or place of worship. The word is used in other religious connections. For instance, a joss-stick is a stick which is burned as incense, and joss-paper is paper containing prayers.

Comfort For Kids

The reason everybody likes children is that they're not self-conscious and don't try to put on airs. If they do you see through them at once and they know that you see through them.—American Magazine.

Ancient Well Still Used

Excavations at Pompeii brought to light an artesian well with a number of connecting pipes. It still furnishes a large quantity of water which is used to supply the fountains that have been unearthed.

Tyranny Corrupts

Many of the greatest tyrants in the records of history have begun their reigns in the fairest manner. But this unnatural power corrupts both the heart and the understanding.—Burke.

Large Brazilian State

The state of Minas Geraes is in Brazil. Minas Geraes is north of the cities of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo. It is bounded on the north by the state of Bahia and on the west by Mato Grosso. It is fifth of the states in area and ranked first in population in 1920. It has rich iron deposits and was the location of Brazil's once rich gold mines, now exhausted.

Point Moral Idea

Little Apes of Nikko, sometimes known as the "Three Wise Monkeys," is the name of monkeys which appear in a mural decoration among ancient tombs at Nikko, Japan. The three monkeys are as follows: Mizaru, who sees no evil; Kikazaru, who hears no evil; and Mizaru, who speaks no evil. The legend connected with these monkeys is simply a moral idea to point out the wisdom of minding one's own affairs and the folly of scandal.

Theory in Dispute

The quantum theory is the theory that radiation from a body is emitted only in discrete units, called quanta, and, according to some forms of the theory, that absorption occurs in the same discontinuous manner. This theory is now widely accepted by scientists. It has, however, been criticized by Frank Wigglesworth Clark—Washington Star.

"White coal" is a figurative name for falling water capable of being used for power purposes. The name, it is supposed, was suggested by the fact that falling water usually appears clear and white compared with coal.

Composite Language

Richard C. French, in his book entitled "On the English Language, Past and Present," says: "If the English language were to be subdivided into a hundred parts, forty-five of these might be Anglo-Saxon, or Old English; forty-five Latin (including Latin that has come through the French). Five, perhaps most of our scientific nomenclature, are from the Greek, such as the names of new instruments and processes (lithography, telephone, telegraph, etc.)."

Historic Communion

The first communion service held on American soil was that held on the little island in the James river, where the settlement of Jamestown was built. On June 11, 1607, Rev. Robert Hunt administered the Anglican communion to the little band, who knelt on the ground under a ship's sail to receive it.

Beautiful Elms

The elm is one of the most highly valued trees in many regions, but particularly in New England. Beautiful specimens may constantly be seen, and occasionally a village or town street will be arched over by lines of them. The sixty varieties are of various shapes and contours. The vine glass elm is, perhaps, the most beautiful.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

PLAIN TALK

The high cost of being sick has come to everybody who has felt the need of the doctor's services within the past few years. This sort of "tariff" is very depressing indeed, it seems to burden oppressively the victims, when they are least fitted to deal with heavy loads.

Nevertheless, our people seem willing always to buy the "big in the poke." One notorious quack within easy radio distance has rolled up over a million dollars in a comparatively short time, getting well up toward a thousand dollars as his initial payment in advance, before he touches the complainant. That looks to me like pretty fancy fees, when our people complain of the high cost of being sick.

I know of advertising concerns that are in the medical BUSINESS, that exact two or three hundred dollars in advance, and they are usually crowded with suckers who seem to like the parting with their money. And, I have met numerous "doctors" who look wise, charge never less than five dollars for an interview, and simply walk away from the brethren who strive for scientific knowledge, and who are devoting midnight hours to study. A wag once said to me, "It's got so you don't have to know anything to be a famous doctor."

I hate to think of it as a possible fact. When I see an ordinary man, sear, without knowledge of pathology, bacteriology, chemistry or materia medica, give himself the title of "doctor," and sally forth to treat the public, demanding and getting much bigger fees than the man who has put in four or more years in the college and university—then I am inclined to agree with the wag as quoted.

"People who keep the army of American quacks rolling in wealth should not complain of the high cost of getting cured. The good physician's equipment costs money; his money; his education did not float into him on the tide; he is worth all he costs—often very much more. A good doctor is always worth his hire."

LETTUCE CARE

Before using lettuce always dry all moisture from it with a towel. Serve the lettuce crisp and cold. Use tiny cup-like leaves to hold chowchow, tartar sauce, chili sauce, mayonnaise or jelly as a garnish for cold meat, fish, or sandwiches. Include a leaf or two of lettuce in sandwiches with other fillings. Use lettuce plentifully for salads, always having the lettuce stand up around the salad.

BAKED APPLE DUMPLINGS

Cut rich pie crust into six inch squares. In the center of each, place a small apple, pared and cored. Fill the apples with sugar, cinnamon and a whole clove. Wet the edges of the pastry with white of egg, fold it over the apple, pinch and flute to look well. Bake about 40 minutes. Toward last brush the top with white of egg and sprinkle with sugar. Serve with hard sauce.

Green Peppers, Onions and Tomatoes, when cooked together slowly in a casserole and seasoned with salt, pepper and butter, make an appetizing dish during the cold weather.

Japan in Autumn

The dying maple leaves are thought by many to be the most beautiful sight that Japan has to show during the autumn months. Pointing in his book on the Nippon says: "They certainly share the honors of autumn with the Imperial flower, and are so beloved as to hold full social rank."

Comfort and Peace in

Glow of Hearth Fire

When the frost nips the pumpkins and the autumn leaves turn yellow, and the chill of the fall slinks into our homes, then the fire upon the hearth becomes a cheerful companion of the advancing season. Its snapping flames invite one to contemplate thought and bright conversation. Some of man's wisest thoughts have been uttered in family and friendly circles as people gathered about the hearthstone, and mused and meditated over their observation of life.

The fire on the hearth gives a very cheerful touch to a cool fall evening. Fire is a symbol of home, it stands for arts that bring comfort and well-being. The household that has good arrangements for fire making is well warmed and fed through the cold winter.

As we look at the dancing flames, home seems good. The intense desire of our age for motion and wandering is repressed to some extent. Blessings on every man who adds a good hearthstone to the dwelling he erects. He adds to human happiness and wisdom.—Nassau County (Fla.) Leader.

Unique Indian Fortress

Preserved by Canada

The Southwest earthworks in Higin county, Ontario, declared by Canadian archeologists to be the only double-walled Indian fortification existing in America, have been acquired by the Canadian government as a national historic site. A unique double-walled fort erected by the Attiwardanok or Neutral Nation of Indians was protected by a double line of earthworks which completely enclosed it. Between the walls lay a most thirty feet wide. It is believed that the superstructure of the earthworks was a palisade of high sharpened logs. This old stronghold is thought to be the place at which the Attiwardanok made their last desperate stand against the Iroquois, who finally drove them from Ontario about 1650. Although these Indians were visited by French traders, the ruins have yielded nothing that would indicate contact with European civilization. Flint arrowheads and bone needles of the most primitive type have been unearthed.

Ancient Norwegian City

The first Christian king of Norway, Olaf Trygvesson, founded Trondheim in 996 A. D. It is not only the most important town in the northern half of the country, but it is the largest city in the world to stand at so high an altitude. It is situated on the large fjord of the same name at the mouth of the River Nid. Here the first Christian church in the country was built. The most interesting building in the city is the famous cathedral, built in the twelfth century over the tomb of St. Olaf, who was killed in battle against King Canute in 1030 A. D. However, the first structure was destroyed by fire and restored into a more modern building, which is now used as the coronation place of the Norwegian sovereigns.

Needed Inventions

Many ideas have been compiled from time to time as needed inventions. These lists differ radically. Such a list was reported at one time as having been suggested by the British patent office. The items were as follows: Shrinkless flannel, a non-skid road surface, a furnace that will conserve 95 per cent of its heat, glass that bends, noiseless airplanes and some that children can manage safely, a motor weighing a pound per horsepower, harness for tides, a pipe easily and effectively cleaned, talking moving pictures, and a temperance drink that will not pall on the palate. The talking pictures have now been invented.—Washington Star.

Youth Not So Bright

Youth is not so precocious after all. Research and comparison in schools here prove that adult pupils learn languages and most studies better than the juniors. It was thought that the kids, not being hampered with a lifetime of English and having more impressionable minds, would pick up alien tongues more readily. But not so. The student beyond thirty years of age could apply himself more quickly and deeply than the youngsters. The idea is that when he takes up a study he really wants to learn. With the kid it may merely be an unpleasant duty to perform.—Los Angeles Times.

Origin of Common Expression

The expression "to put a spoke in the wheel" would suggest adding strength to a wheel, although actually the saying is used to indicate that somebody's progress has been barred. It has its origin, no doubt, in the far-off days when vehicles had solid wooden wheels. Holes were made in some of these so that the driver who wished to put on the brake could do so by pushing through one of the holes a piece of wood, called a spoke, and thus prevent the wheel from revolving.

Why Men Starve

Dr. Sidney Jones of the Aquitania, who is retiring after 36 years of sea service, was talking about time's changes. He thought the greatest change was in woman's dress, and on this subject he said wittily: "It isn't the clothes that make men stare; it's the girl that should be in them."

Before Steel Highways

The term "passport," signifying the privilege of leaving or entering a port or harbor, originated in the days when journeys were made largely by water.

Feels Better Than Any Other Time in Life

"So great was my suffering that I hardly cared whether I lived or not. Every bit I ate gave me the most severe pains—the indigestion, heartburn, bloating and biliousness were simply terrific. Even nights were torments to me—night after night sleep would never come. I began losing flesh rapidly. I began to look twice my age. I was truly in a terrible condition. My neighbor advised Karnak for which I will thank her to my dying day. It is the most marvelous medicine in the world. It not only rid me of my suffering but it has caused me to gain in weight and I feel better than I ever felt in my life and sleep like a child. I thank my neighbor and I thank Karnak."

Collapse Of House Influence Is Due To Losses In November

Editor's Note—The opinions expressed in this article are those of the author and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Recorder. A house had been erected for the purpose of seating Queen Phillips, wife of Edward III, and her gay troop of ladies, so that they might watch with comfort the knights show their skill in deeds of arms. The tournament had not long been in progress when the upper part of the scaffold on which the ladies were seated "broke in sunder, whereby they were (with some shame) forced to fall down, and many knights and others which stood beneath, much hurt."

The carpenter was severely punished by the king, but to prevent the South Sea Island war-dance becomes a game of Pussy wants a Corner.

What is inconceivable about the political situation at the Capital today—a situation that had a bad start about three weeks ago, went steadily from bad to worse, and now evokes from many astute observers the prediction that "the worst is yet to come"—is the fact that those Senators and Representatives who are continuing to oppose and obstruct the President's emergency relief program cannot realize the extent of the popular disgust and resentment which their performances are provoking. For it is unthinkable that if they knew how the country feels about it they would persist in their course. Since they have been playing what they evidently imagined was a profitable political game, self-interest alone should have caused them to quit it as soon as they perceived their mistake.

President Hoover made certain recommendations to Congress with respect to appropriations for unemployment and drought relief. Congress was anything but averse to tapping the Government till for such proportion of its contents as the President and his advisors thought might safely be spared. In fact, Congress was not averse to tapping the Government till for a few billion dollars more than it was known to contain. What Congress did object to was delegating to the President, even in emergency, the power to direct to whom, when and where the money should be disbursed. Exit, statesmanship! Exit, all consideration of general public welfare! Enter, the expert fence repainer!

To a certain extent the collapse of administration influence over—not to say control of—the House of Representatives may be due to a loss of prestige resulting from the apparent defeat of the administration in the November elections. To a larger extent, however, it is due to the deeper fact that where the representative of the population of a minor area of the United States has to choose between voting direct, immediate, tangible money to his constituents and the more abstract considerations of general policy, the temptation of expediency is too great for the average legislator. With suffering such as exists in the drought areas, with the seemingly inexhaustible resources of the treasury, it is almost more than political human nature can stand to refrain from voting dollars.

The President's stand against the "dole" feature of the drought relief bill won non-partisan and authoritative support when John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross announced that his organization was prepared to handle all necessary direct relief work in the twenty-one drought-stricken States. With a $5,000,000 emergency reserve fund to fall back upon, said Mr. Payne, the Red Cross is confident that no one will be faced with starvation in the drought regions this winter. Demands upon the reserve fund thus far have been very small.

Mr. Payne's statement that the Red Cross was able to cope with any needs for personal relief in the drought areas comes at a time when the principal controversy in the Senate is the drought relief bill. One proposal in connection with that bill, to which the Administration is unalterably opposed, is a clause which would permit the use of funds to purchase human food. This so-called "dole" provision is a part of the $50,000,000 bill, which passed the Senate, but Administration leaders in the House are still seeking to keep the clause out of the House legislation and limit the appropriation to $25,000,000 recommended by the President. It is known to be the President's opinion that direct food was necessary and would establish precedent. And it is our belief that the impregnable shock-troops, that now cast aside all tact and guidance and become edifying raiders.

It is held that the House representatives will be able to reduce the Senate in check and reduce to a minimum without making a special session unavoidable. The fathers of the Constitution, as almost everyone knows, originally intended that the Senate should act as a brake upon unwise legislation in the House. What a difference today! In the last few years the respective roles of these two bodies have been reversed, and now it is the House to which the country looks for conservative action. Certainly it is a curious reversal of ideas which makes the House the solid protection against wildness in the Senate, which was supposed to be the bulwark of conservatism. The term of six years was intended to protect a Senator from sudden storms. His election by a legislature was another safeguard against popular instability. That has been done away with, which is partly responsible for so much mediocrity and buncombe in the upper chamber.

The country is becoming exceedingly tired of these long-drawn-out debates, with no other purpose than glorification, which are hindering the Government's additional contribution to emergency relief. It is fearful also that the procrastination may bring near the bogey of an extra session of the next Congress. Nobody outside of Congress wants an extra session and the leaders of both parties in Congress are manifestly afraid of it. Nothing would so menace recovery, Speaker Longworth asserts, as "a continued period of legislative uncertainty." This Congress should cut out politics and clean up its business by March 4, so that its successor will not have to assemble until next December.

The action of the Senate and House conferees in restoring the provision granting the President discretion in the distribution of the $116,000,000 construction fund pointed the way to their recalcitrant colleagues to redeem themselves. If Congress cares anything for the good opinion of the country it will get down to business, and now that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to postpone consideration of the World Court question until next December there would seem to be no vestige of excuse for its failure to do so.

NONPARIEL PARK

Miss Katie Corbin has been very ill the past week.

Emmett Baxter and family, of Hebron, spent Sunday with A. S. Lucas.

Mrs. Ruth Aylor entertained with a lovely dinner Sunday at her home on the Burlington pike.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzhugh Tanner attended a Xmas party in Covington, Saturday evening.

Frank Sayre has been on the sick list the past week.

Harvey Baker and family have returned home after enjoying a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Markberry, of Carrollton, Ky.

Mrs. John Utzinger and daughter and Chas. Beall of Francesville, were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Miss Minnie Baxter.

Miss Frances Blankenbaker, of Lexington, arrived home Friday to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents—G. Blankenbaker and wife.

A number from here attended the dance at Hebron Friday evening. All enjoyed a most delightful time.

Lillian Buckner and family, of Hebron, visited Robt. Brown and family, Saturday.

Mrs. Anna Souther and Miss Jeanie Crisler, were entertained at the home of Dr. Chas. Souther and wife in Cincinnati, Sunday.

Most children are uncomfortable in stiff starched clothes. The idea that the garments stay clean longer if starched may be true if the little ones do not indulge in their usual active play because of their clothes. But it would be better to choose closely woven, firm-wash fabrics, in smooth finishes that shed dirt, and in colors and patterns that do not lose disconcertingly dingy after a short wearing. Then starching is unnecessary.

UTOPIA CLUB MEETS

The Boone County Utopia Club met at Burlington Wednesday night, Dec. 17th for their second regular monthly meeting. Special business in reference to the project work of the organization for 1933 was voted upon. The regular meeting date was changed from the Wednesday of the third week of each month to the Thursday night of that week.

Mr. Carl Jones specialist in Utopia Club work from the College of Agriculture was present at the meeting. He discussed the Utopia Club dairy, poultry, small fruits and Home Economics improvement projects that will be conducted during the 1933.

Early Razors

The ancients used to shave themselves with bronze razors. They made a bronze or brass of tin and copper, which they hardened so that it took an edge like steel.

Feature-Length Film

There are about 7,000 feet of film in a feature-length photograph. To produce this footage it is usually necessary to take 100,000 or more feet of negative. The 7,000 feet of the finished feature is made up of many short scenes pieced together. There are as many as 200 to 500 scenes in the average film.

Seasonal Light In Sky

The zodiacal light is a soft, hazy wedge of light reaching from the horizon along the ecliptic just as twilight is ending or as dawn is beginning. Its base is 20 or 30 degrees wide and it generally can be followed 90 degrees from the sun. Sometimes it is seen as a narrow, very faint, band entirely above the sky. The spring months are most favorable for observing the zodiacal light in the evening, and the autumn months for observing it in the morning.

New Idea at Barbecue

Natural gas solved the problem of roasting a ton of beef at a barbecue in the Southwest, at which 3,000 customers of a utility company were fed. A trench three feet deep and about fifty feet long was dug and burners of perforated casing were placed below a double layer of loose brick. A heavy wire grate was stretched above the brick and on it was placed the ton of beef to be roasted.

Indian Peace Medals

The early peace medals given to the Indians were struck in any design to suit the fancy of the donor. Beginning with Jefferson's day, a standard official medal was adopted and those following were the same size, design and metal, with the names of the respective Presidents, until the administration of Fillmore in 1850, when the reverse was entirely changed.

Symbols of Jewish Faith

A papyrus is a reminder. It is, in reality, a small leather box containing slips of parchment on which are written Scriptural passages. Two such boxes are worn by Jews, one on the head and one on the left arm, during the time of prayer on all mornings except those of Sabbaths and holy days. The passages are Exodus, 13:1-10, 11-16 and Deuteronomy, 6:4-9 and 11:13-22, and are reminders of obligation to keep the law.

"Queen of Heaven"

The Egyptians in invocations to the deities used the term "Queen of Heaven," and in Jerusalem 7:18 it is recorded: "In the streets of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem, the children gather wood and the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead the dough, to make cakes to the queen of heaven"; also 44:17: "We will certainly perform every word that has gone forth out of our mouth, to burn incense unto the queen of heaven."—Washington Star.

"Guess Who"

(89TH OF SERIES)

The picture in last week's issue was that of Miss Ruth Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kelly.

DAIRYMEN SHOULD CULL COWS

Many Boone County dairymen would make more money this winter if they could cull from one third to one half of the low producing cows from their herds and give the same amount of feed and care to the remaining cows, according to O. W. Moore, tester in the Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association. If this should be done the remaining cows could be made to not only return more total profit but the total amount of milk produced in most cases could actually be increased.

The big problem that confronts most dairymen who would carry out the above recommendations is the disposing of the surplus cows. Many of the cows that are now unprofitable could be put on a profitable basis by feeding a balanced ration. Bran, corn meal, cotton-seed meal and many of the other concentrate feeds are cheaper per hundred lbs., than hay at present market prices when the analysis of these feeds are taken into consideration. Most hays will run around 80 per cent fibre or more whereas the grain feeds will run from 4 per cent to 10 per cent fibre. Fibre is very little digestible.

About a teaspoonful of tea to a cup is a good average proportion according to tea specialists. More or less can be used for different tastes. First scald the pot—an earthenware one, by preference—to warm it. Put in the tea, pour on boiling water, but do not boil. Let stand about 5 or 6 minutes, then pour off into another warm teapot. If you use a tea ball, remove it.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

A Christmas program was rendered by the entire student body at the local school last Friday afternoon, and at which time all participated in a general exchange of gifts about the annual yuletide school tree. The program was a very clever one while the gift exchange was so arranged that each pupil received at least one present. A number of patrons of the school attended the exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Smith have moved to Latonia, Mr. Smith having recently secured a very fine position in Cincinnati as secretary to a prominent business executive in that city. Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith recently obtained a secretarial certificate from the Littlefield College in Cincinnati.

The workmen on the State Highway to Bellevue will be given a three day holiday beginning to-day (Wednesday) and lasting through Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clore have moved to Covington for the winter months. Mr. Clore's work is in Covington and he spends the winter there in order to avoid the long, cold drive to, and from his post of duty.

Calvin Cross received the very sad news of the death of both a sister and a brother during the past week.

Arrangements have been completed for the dedication exercises at the new Hamilton Consolidated school and which will take place on Sunday, January 4th, at 1 o'clock p. m. Hon. John L. Shuff, of Fort Thomas, will make the dedicatory address.

Ed. Hawes, of Moores Hill, Ind., arrived in Burlington Monday of this week to spend the holidays with relatives and friends here.

J. H. Feeley killed and dressed 350 turkeys for the Cincinnati holiday trade and delivered them Monday night to a commission merchant who has supplied for the past sixteen years.

The Burlington Parent-Teachers Association recently demonstrated their value to the community and school by presenting the school with a check for seventy-five dollars to apply to the purchase of books for a school library.

Omer and Charles Easton were guests of Edward Easton and wife, Tuesday.

Miss Mary Louise Renaker is the guest of her parents here during the holidays.

HERE AND THERE

Gladys Kelly, of Elsmere, is quite ill at this writing of plural pneumonia.

E. S. Ryle, of Florence, spent one day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Sr.

Miss Alta Rouse, who is nursing at Bethesda Hospital, Cincinnati, is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rouse.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter were shopping in Covington, one day last week.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

In as much as it has pleased the all Omnipotent to call from our midst Mrs. Fannie Lucas, we offer the following resolutions.

First—She was a most faithful member of the Florence Baptist church and W. M. U. Society.

Second—The community lost one of its best citizens who never failed to shield the light of the Gospel in all her pathways.

Third—The Kingdom of God has lost one of its most valued workers.

Fourth—The church and society will miss her for she had her interests always uppermost in her heart.

Fifth—We commend ourselves and all her family and friends to Him who is the source of all comfort.

And be it further resolved we set apart a page in our minute book to her memory, and a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Boone County Recorder and Walton Advertiser, and one to her family as well.

Reasons for Secrecy

of Batak Literature
Marco Polo and the emperor of China landed on the Batak coast, to avoid a storm in the Thirteenth century, and had to erect block houses to avoid being eaten by the natives. For the Bataks, they had a cannibal, eating, rendered individuals, not for dietetic reasons, but that his strength and wisdom may be incorporated in the banquets. The choice cuts are the fingers, toes and the palms of the hands; and according to a cannibal chief, who confided in an explorer, the popular term among cannibals for human flesh is "long pig," as the general taste is like that of the pig.

This tendency on the part of the Bataks is probably the reason why libraries are not usually furnished with Batak literature, because very few agents could be induced to look for rare works within reach of people with such ideas. Indeed, the Cleveland public library is probably the only library in the world to possess a pustaka—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

German Heroes Honored in Temple of Valhalla

More than a century has passed since King Ludwig I of Bavaria laid the cornerstone of Valhalla. This white marble temple, in the style of the Parthenon stands on a wooded hill above the Danube near Regensburg. King Ludwig conceived the idea of a memorial temple to great Germans in 1807 during the Napoleonic occupation of the country, but not until 23 years later was the work begun.

The monarch himself chose the site, and also decreed that the temple should be named Valhalla, after the name of the old Germanic abode of fallen heroes. More than a hundred busts and memorial tablets in the main hall of the temple commemorate famous men and women in Germany's history, beginning with the time of the battle of the Teutoburg forest, which broke Rome's domination in Europe.

"Naturopathy"

The term "naturopathy" isn't to be found in dictionaries, so the District of Columbia commission on licensure to practice the healing arts made up its own definition. It naturally took quite a bit of study, and in Washington the practice must be confined within the definition. Here is the commission's official definition: "Naturopathy is the practice of the healing art in the use of such physical force as air, light, water, vibration, heat, electricity, hydrotherapy, psychotherapy, dietetics, or massage, but shall not include palpating, analyzing and adjusting the articulations of the spinal column, the administration of drugs and medicine, surgery or the application of X-rays or radium."—Pathfinder Magazine.

That Mouse Ear Theory

Long before phenology became a science, farmers discovered the advantage of the native vegetation in the spring furnished reliable guides to the best time for sowing and planting crops. One old-fashioned rule, probably derived from the Indians, was that corn should be planted when the leaf of the white oak was "the size of a mouse's ear." Several traditional rules of this kind are current among farmers, and one of the tasks of the phenologists is to check them up on the basis of actual statistics.

Mirror Superstition

Lillian Eichler, says in her book, "Customs of Mankind": "Since very early times the mirror has been used in divination, in attempts to read future or past. An early belief was that one saw the will of the gods in a mirror. To break one accidentally, therefore, was interpreted as an effort of the gods to prevent a person from seeing into the future. This was construed as a warning that the future held unpleasant things. Among highly superstitious people the breaking of a mirror came to be looked upon as a death omen. Somehow this superstitious belief has prevailed and still exists, even among educated people."

Valuable Invention

The autogiro was invented by Juan Ciera. In the autogiro there is a fuselage 15 feet long and an air-cooled Genet major engine of 100 horsepower. Two small wings have bent-up tips to increase the lateral stability while in the air, and the "windmill" has four blades which are set in motion by air thrown up to the horizontal propeller by a deflector, maintained about the horizontal stabilizer, placed at the end of the fuselage. The power thus developed gives a rotation of 130 r. p. m. to the vane, a speed which must be maintained before the plane takes off.

Toledo Moorish City

Toledo is very much today as the Moors left it centuries ago. When you pass through its gates and find your way amid the network of cobble alleys, encountering lumbering ox wagons. It is easy to imagine one's self back in the Middle Ages. It is one of the oldest cities of Europe. Toledo, Ohio, has a population ten times as large as its Spanish kinsman, but has the lovely tower of Santa Tome, or the medieval bridge of San Martin, or the ancient gate of Puerta del Sol.

"We invade a new field with vastly improved cars at the lowest prices in our history"

BY WILLIAM J. McANEENY
President, Hudson Motor Car Company

WE have built these models up to and beyond the 1931 standards of performance and quality in every way, and have never in our history offered so many improvements. Quality is greater down to the last detail. Every phase of performance has been greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars is substantially greater than ever before. Motors are larger and more powerful. An efficient system of oil cooling is introduced. A marked improvement in carburetion increases flexibility and economy. Bodies are longer and wider. These cars possess the finest, easiest riding qualities. For the first time, such comfort is available at these low prices. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer the public the greatest combination of quality and low prices in our entire history.

Owner-Management Permits Exclusive Value Advantages

Owner-management enables Hudson Essex to give you outstanding advantages in quality and price. The men who are now guiding its destinies have been with the company since its inception twenty-two years ago. Its department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners. Their independence is backed by unusually large resources in capital and plant facilities. It enables Hudson Essex to lead in design and engineering quality. It permits economies in manufacture and distribution that bring exceptional quality direct to the public at distinct price advantages.

THE CHILDREN'S SEASON

Christmas is, of all times of the year, the children's season. The giving of presents to children to Christmas-time is as old as Christianity itself, for it was begun by the three Wise Men of the East who came to Bethlehem, where the Child lay in the manger, bringing gifts.

It is easy to forget what it is that Christmas commemorates. It is easy to think of it merely as a holiday time, a time when there is a great deal of shopping to be done, when the stores are crowded and everybody is busy wrapping up Christmas packages, and the postmen are overloaded and grown-ups as well as children are looking forward expectantly to see what they are going to get for Christmas presents.

The spirit of Christmas is, of course, the spirit of universal love, of peaceful goodwill between all mankind. Christmas marks the anniversary of a new era, the setting of the old laws of vengeance and hatred, of exact and even justice regardless of mercy. We too often forget that. We too easily forget that the message which the Heavenly Host brought to earth on that night nearly two thousand years ago was a message of love and joy.

It is meet and proper that we should exchange presents among our friends and loved ones, but the greatest joy of Christmas time comes from the gifts we give the children. Joy for the children, even greater joy for the giver. Whatever our own state of happiness or sorrow, we grown-ups owe it to ourselves, to the spirit and tradition which Christmas commemorates, and to the children themselves to see that every one of them, at least, has a Merry Christmas.

EIGHT MEN HONORED AS MASTER FARMERS

The Progressive Farmer and the Southern Ruralist and the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, announce the selection of the following eight Master Farmers:

Smith D. Broadbent, Trigg county.
George W. Davis, Owen county.
C. L. Drysdale, Fulton county.
R. B. Huey, Boone county.
Jacob A. Robinson, Garrard county.
Jno. C. Robinson, Boyle county.
O. C. Whitfield, Hopkins county.
W. F. Wilson, Pulaski county.

These men were honored because of their accomplishments as farmers and citizens. They were selected according to their farming methods and for what they have contributed to their communities and to the state and nation.

Each man is a bona fide or "dirt" farmer, and made his way up from the bottom, so to speak, paying for his land from the proceeds of his farming. Each has distinguished himself not only from a financial standpoint but as a good citizen.

The eight men will be honored during the 19th annual Farm and Home Convention at the Experiment Station January 27-30. They will be given gold Master Farmer medals at a banquet on Tuesday night, January 27. On Wednesday afternoon a special program will be put on at the

THE VALUE OF FERTILIZER

It looks, at first glance, as if it was a long jump from a great Wall Street financial institution to the farmer a thousand miles away. It doesn't occur to some folks that whatever affects the farmer affects the biggest banks in the country. The bankers know that, whether the farmer does or not.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York, for example, has just printed a study of fertilizers, not primarily for the information of the farmer, but for the information of the big business men who are the Trust Company's customers. It is important news to them that sales of fertilizer in the United States have continued strong during the financial depression, so that the total for the year will probably equal the record of 1929, which was next to the largest year in the fertilizer business.

From an investment point of view, the Trust Company argues, the fertilizer business ought to be a good one, since farmers are learning more and more the dollar value of fertilizers. "The average yield in the principal wheat-growing sections of the country," the Company reports, "without the use of fertilizers, was only 12 bushels to the acre; the average cost per acre was $13.73 and the average cost per bushel was, therefore, $1.14. What grown on the same land, under the same crop conditions, but with a properly balanced fertilizer, yielded an average of 28½ bushels to the acre, with an average cost of 67 cents a bushel."

That tells the story of the dollar value of fertilizer to the farmer. And if it be argued that what is needed now is not more wheat, which is probably true, it is also true that, no matter what the market price of wheat may be, the farmer who grows it most cheaply will come nearer to making a profit than the one who does not use every possible method of increasing his acre-yield and cutting his bushel-cost.

Farm and Home Convention at which time the Master Farmers will discuss their farming practices.

FIGURE THESE OUT

If he is looking for new riddles to grapple with, we can suggest a whole lot of them. What happened to prosperity, Judge Crater, and the yo-yo?

Who discovered spinach, and why? What becomes of safety pins? How to rescue a pushed-in cork from a bottle of olives.

Where is the next generation going to throw its old razor blades?

HELP!

The best bag of the Unemployment Era is about the sheriff who mounted on his window a sign, "Murderer Wanted."

Seven people applied for the job!

A Perry county farmer reports flock average of 208 eggs and a profit of more than $5 a birds for the year ending Nov. 1, while another had an average of 196 eggs and a profit of more than $3 a hen. Eggs were sold in mining camps.

Leslie county farmers sowed a record-breaking rye crop, the 400 bushels sowed in November making the total seed used 2,900 bushels.

EXPOSING MACHINERY TO WEATHER EXPENSIVE

If half of Kentucky's farm machinery is standing out in the weather, farmers are losing $2,000,000 annually, estimates Prof. J. B. Kelley, head of the agricultural engineering section of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. The total value of farm machinery used in Kentucky is placed at $60,000,000.

A survey made in another state showed that the average life of farm machinery when housed is 15 years, and when left in the open it is only a little more than seven and a half years.

Prof. Kelley made a plea for housing machinery, for cleaning it carefully when putting it away, and for making repairs during the winter. Now is the time for tractor owners to order repairs and to have their outfits put into running condition before spring work begins, he said. All machinery should be examined for needed repairs, and shovels, shares, discs, harrow teeth, mower blades and the like sharpened and put into condition.

NOW TIME TO BUILD HIGH LAYING FLOCK

Persons who are sincere in their desire to raise poultry should not fail to take advantage of the present time to secure good stock and otherwise to arrange to build up good flocks of bred-to-lay strains, declares Dr. J. Holmes Martin, head of the poultry section of the Experiment Station and College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Southern poultry farmers, especially, should in no way be discouraged, he declared but should resolve to raise stock of higher quality than ever before.

"There never was a better time to secure well-bred stock at reasonable prices," he said. "Such stock is now available in most sections of Kentucky, and can be purchased at reasonable prices. Now is the time to lay the foundation for future good times. It takes some time to build up a good flock, and those who begin now should be in a desirable position when prices come back."

Prof. Martin pointed out that high laying chickens are more necessary than ever during periods of low prices. Unless hens lay well now they are not worth keeping. Every Kentucky demonstration flock that laid more than 12 dozen eggs per hen returned a profit this year, despite low prices.

Poultry raisers should consider for next spring the early hatching of chicks from hens that have been flood-tested and found free from lacillary white diarrhoea, Prof. Martin advised. Such chicks, from heavy laying strains, and properly managed will do much to insure good returns from poultry in 1934, he believed.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS the week of Dec. 29. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Dec. 29—The use of lime in Kentucky in 1933, S. C. Jones.

Selection of the breeding pen, J. E. Humphrey.

January 2—What farm folks are asking, L. C. Brewer.

Six thousand tons of limestone were used by Russell county farmers this year, some of them using ten times as much as they ever used in any previous year.

Knott county farmers who followed suggestions of the county agent regarding fertilizers, use of good seed and better cultivation, secured an average of 11 bushels of corn more to the acre.

"A FORM OF SUICIDE"

A certain friend of mine prospered mightily in his business and investments. I used to see him often, and it distressed me to observe that his increase in wealth had apparently added nothing to his peace of mind. He seemed to be always worried. His health was not too good. With each added million he developed a new complaint.

The other day I saw him again for the first time in nearly a year. His eyes shone. He was full of pep and plans—a wonderful transformation. "You know, I used to talk about retiring," he said, "and I had just about made up my mind to do it when the stock market crashed. Then I discovered that I couldn't afford to retire."

"I've gone back to work, and it's the greatest tonic I ever had. I doubt now if I'll ever retire. When you come to think of it," he added, "idleness is just a form of suicide."

The phrase is striking, but the thought which it expresses is not new. Many men have made the same discovery, and usually at the price of unhappiness.

Charles Lamb, when released at last from his drudgery of desk work at the India office, cried out that he would not go back to his "prison for ten thousand pounds."

"I am free! Free as air!" he wrote ecstatically to a friend. "I will live another fifty years. Positively the best thing a man can do is nothing."

Two years passed. Idleness lost its charm. Time, which had seemed to pass slowly when he was chained to a job, now hung around his neck like a millstone. With his days free for writing he actually wrote less than in the years when, with all their dull routine, he had been stimulated by daily contact with the active world.

"I assure you no work at all is worse than overwork; the mind preys on itself—the most unwholesome of food." So he wrote to the same friend. "I have ceased to care for almost anything. Never did the waters of heaven pour down on a forlorn head. What I can do, and overdo, is to walk. I am a sanguinary murderer of time. But the oracle is silent."

Henry Thoreau, who saw many things clearly, looked forward to a time when every man's life would be reasonably divided between hard work and happy leisure.

"Why should the hen set all day?" he asked. "She can lay but one egg, and besides, she will not have picked up materials for a new one. Those who work much do not work hard."

Both idleness and unrelieved drudgery are forms of suicide. Somewhere between them is a happy medium which is really living.

HOMEMAKERS WALK 14 MILES DAILY

Discovery that they were walking 14 miles daily in performing their household tasks caused a great stir among Davies county farm women, according to Mrs. Helen M. White, county home demonstration agent.

Women in four communities were organized to study the possibilities of reorganizing their work. The specific title of their course of study was "back saving" kitchens. If the time between the first and second lessons one woman strapped a pedometer to an ankle. At the end of the first day, travel about the kitchen the mileage registered 14. Thinking there might be some mistake she repeated the test the next day, and found the instrument showing practically the same distance.

Meanwhile a survey has been made of 240 kitchens, and 70 of these work shops have been scored. The heights of tables, sinks and other working surfaces have been measured and adjusted; stools have been installed so the women could sit while they work; wheel carts have been added to the equipment in several kitchen cabinets and shelves have been installed, kitchens rearranged generally, and numerous improvements made.

Water systems are being considered in a large number of homes, as a result of interest aroused by the home agent, assisted by progressive women of the communities.

Christmas Cocktail—Over a chilled grapefruit cup, sprinkle chopped green pepper or green garnishing cherries. Center with a star cut from pimiento or maraschino cherry.

Eating an uncooked ripe apple before retiring is one of the oldest of beauty and health prescriptions. This keeps the digestive tract clear, thereby giving a clear complexion.

Knox county announces its largest tobacco crop, 126 farmers producing a total of 190,000 pounds from 239 acres. The use of fertilizer increased crop yields.

CRANBERRY SHORTCAKE

Here is a cake that will delight every lover of pastry:

The required foodstuffs include 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2½ tablespoons shortening, 1 cup milk or water, cranberry sauce and 1 to 2 tablespoons melted butter.

Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together, cut in shortening with knife and add liquid. Roll on slightly floured board. Cut to make two layers for cake pans or individual portions. Place one layer in pan, spread with melted butter and cover with other layer; bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes. Separate. While hot place cranberry sauce between and on top.

Serve hot with either plain or whipped cream.

The United States is the greatest apple growing country in the world.

John Hogan, Boyd county, says his stand of red clover is in direct proportion to the amount of limestone used. A rank stand was produced where four tons were applied to the acre, the stand growing poorer as the amount of limestone was reduced.

One hundred and three farmers attended two tobacco judging and stripping schools in Grant county, held under the auspices of County Agent J. E. Wilson. The mornings were devoted to stripping and the afternoons to judging. Tobacco company representatives and specialists from the College of Agriculture made suggestions regarding classification, arrangement and stripping in the interests of better prices.

Linwood Hardy, a Trigg county farmer, reports threshing 21,600 bushels of seed from five acres of lespedeza.

A well baked, meanly potato is the most easily digested of foods.

Almost 28,000,000 boxes or oranges are grown in the U. S. every year.

REVIEW

Devotional Reading: Matthew 5:3-16
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

During the quarter the studies have been about Representative Men and Women of the New Testament.

For about 400 years no prophetic voice had arisen in Jewry, but that did not indicate that Jehovah was unmindful of His people. When the fullness of time came God was quick to send a messenger to announce the further unfolding of His plan of salvation. Zacharias, a priest ministering in the Holy Place of the Temple in Jerusalem, was startled by the presence of Gabriel. There was unbelievable joy when told that he had his equally aged wife Elizabeth were to have a son born in nature. John the Baptist was that child.

Six months later Gabriel fulfilled another mission as he made the announcement to the Virgin Mary that she should conceive a Son by the power of the Holy Spirit. Though this was harder to believe than that which was told to Zacharias, she accepted in pure faith. Jesus was that babe, born in Bethlehem. Many marvelled at his birth and among them were aged Simeon and Anna, worshippers in the Temple.

An ideal is effective as it is lived. One of the charms in Christianity is that it can be lived practically. Peter is a rich example because he had so much human nature in his makeup. Thomas had his doubts concerning the resurrection but, one good look at the Risen Lord convinced him without making use of any of the proofs that he had demanded.

Curiosity has helped man into obtaining unusual values. Zacharias merely wanted to see Jesus but soon found in him the Saviour from Sin. Stephen, Saul and Timothy introduce us to the Acts of the Apostles, and that list of notables in continuing right down to the present age.

GRAPEFRUIT AND ORANGE RECIPES

Orange or Grapefruit Juice.—Extract juice. Strain if desired. Serve glass of juice in larger glass of chopped ice or chill in refrigerator. Always serve fresh as the flavor of these fruit juices alters upon standing.

Orange Tulip.—Cut skins of orange into eight sections from center of top down to within ¼ inch of center bottom. Peel back without detaching at the base. Separate the orange sections, almost to the bottom, starting at the top. Spread in flower-like form, the skin sections making the outside darker petals and the orange sections the inside petals.

Sliced Orange.—Peel orange, sliced thin. Place overlapping sections in circular arrangement. Center with a prune, a cherry or a small slice of orange, or divide a number of slices in half, arranging two rows of overlapping sections.

Keep fertilizer in a dry place, preferably on a wooden floor above the ground, level. Fertilizers usually become less "drillable" when stored in the field, in a damp place, or on the ground.

Some people think that allspice is a mixture of all the spices. This is not correct. Allspice is really a kind of pepper. It is the dried, unripe fruit of the pimento tree, which belongs to the same family as the clove tree. It gets its name, allspice, from the fact that it has been said to have the odor of all spices.

Fruit of Ill-Mating
The offspring of ill-mated things is disagreement.—Ovid.

Sarcasmic Humorist

Barling that natural expression of villainy which we all have, the man looked honest enough.—Mara Twain

Antisocial Ears

"Keen antisocial is often displayed toward the man at the top of the ladder by those beneath him," says a business man. Especially if he is one of those rather careless house painters.—Humorist.

Billions of Paper Money

The amount of money made by the United States bureau of engraving varies, but the bureau of engraving says that the average production is $4,000,000,000.

Odorous District

Gorgonzola is the center town of cheese-making in Lombardy. The cheese takes its name from the place—not the other way round.

Metaphysics

When the man to whom you speak does not understand, and when the man who speaks does not understand himself, that is metaphysics.—Voltaire.

Marvelous Precocity

Pascal, the great French philosopher and scientist, at the age of twelve, with a few strokes and circles, discovered mathematics. At sixteen he had written the most learned treatise on conic sections known since classical times.

Who Conquers Himself

Uses for Nitrogen

Nitrogen is used in the manufacture of photographic films, artificial teeth, artificial silk, imitation ivory and dyes.

Japanese Sacred Flower

The Japanese interpret the symbolism of the lotus as "life symbol of triumph over self; of extinction of the fires of passion; of abnegation and self-control." The flower is the token of all that is best in man and woman. It is the Buddhist emblem of death.

Speaks on Windshields

During the summer there are myriads of small insects in the air. When driving they are smashed against the automobile windshield, causing the glass to be covered with fine specks.

Mosquitoes Real Pest

So thick are the clouds of mosquitoes that swarm about Alaskan airplane fields in late summer, that pilots have been forced to use smoke screens at times in order to take off for a flight.

Heavy Logic

Camping Cook Note—The way to tell the difference between a grindstone and a flapjack is to stick a knife in each. If the knife breaks it's a flapjack.

Frenchman's Claim to*Be "Father" of Films

Nobody quite knows who was the originator of the cinematograph, and there are several claimants for the distinction. Though Americans hold that Edison was the first of the filmers, there is no doubt that a Frenchman named Louis Aime Augustin Le Prince actually produced films several years before Edison.

Le Prince was a huge man. He stood six feet four inches and was broad in proportion. He came to this country as a young man, and at Leeds, in 1888, he photographed pictures with a one-lens camera and also made a projector. His invention attracted considerable attention, though he was never able to exploit it commercially, for he came to an untimely and mysterious end. On September 16, 1889, he entered a Paris train at Dijon and was never seen again. His widow always believed he was the victim of foul play and that he was "bumped off" by an unscrupulous gang that wanted to obtain control of his invention.

Leeds citizens firmly uphold the claims of Le Prince to be the inventor of the "movies," and he is honored in the Yorkshire city this year by a memorial.—London Tit-Bits.

Pompeii Wears Color*of Its Day of Tragedy

Perhaps it is natural that nearly every tourist who visits the Roman remains which have been dug out of Pompeii, dreams of seeing "Pompeii Red." In all the glory of original design and color, which modern Pompeiians' hotel balconies have made popular all over the civilized world. Except for a chance bit of ancient mosaic or frescoes on a few walls, the sight of the wonderful carmine is so rare as to be startling. The prevailing color impression of Pompeii is the lava gray which old Vesuvius painted there at the time of its destruction.

This is the color which shades walls and streets from the moment you enter the Marina gate, as you wander past the Temples of Apollo and Jove or even enter the House of the Vettil.

It is fittingly so, for whatever our expectations may have been, the tragedy of that awful day needs a gray draping more than artistic glory of brighter hues. It is a city of ashes, of marble and stone and the pastory with it watchful, not fail to note that nature with butterscup and convolvulus has tried in many a gray corner to beautify the ancient chariot-worn streets.

Curls for British Soldiers

Curls, which some Parisian enthusiasts are adopting in memory of the fashion current at the revolution of 1830, were once insisted upon in the British army, writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian. When the Twenty-ninth regiment—now the Worcesters—were stationed at Weymouth in 1797 an order was issued directing that the hair of the head was to be dressed "with one curl on each side," and the effect seems to have been regarded as so pleasing that other regimental commanders followed suit. Even the Guards did not escape. For in 1789 the commander of the Grenadiers issued an order for officers and men alike to dress their hair with "side locks, which may come down so as to cover the ears, and must be frizzled so as not to blow about."

Puppy Spoiled Scheme

An actress on tour became tired of paying railway fares for her small dog so she bought a basket with ventilation holes.

On the first occasion when she attempted to use it, the ticket collector at the station barrier asked what was in the basket.

"Hats," replied the actress, and went on to the platform.

Before she had proceeded many yards, she was recalled by the grinning ticket collector, who, pointing to a stump of fuzzy tail which wagged joyously from one of the ventilation holes, remarked: "You'll have to pay for that one with the feathers."

Pity Poor Hubby

On her birthday she moved her low chair close to her husband's side as he sat reading. She placed her dear little hand lovingly on his arm and moved it along softly toward his coat collar.

He certainly expected a kiss. "Hubby," she said, "What, my love?" he asked, "I was just thinking—"

"Were you, my love?" "I was just thinking how nicely this suit of clothes you have on would work into a rag carpet."

Modern

A woman applying to go to the poor farm stated that she had five children. "But they don't help me any; they all grew up and married off." "I suppose that made you pretty lonesome at home," remarked the judge kindly.

"Oh, no," said the woman. "Every once in a while one of them gets a divorce and wanders back."

Aim High

Every worthwhile man has some objective towards which he is striving. And the higher your objective, the greater your effort. Remember that really to succeed in the full sense of the word, a life must fall short of its aim.—Grit.

Yellowstone's Attractions

There are more than 4,000 hot springs to Yellowstone National park, large and small, and 100 geysers, big and little.

Federated Republics

A federal republic is one which has a central republican government with limited supremacy over the constituent republics.

Spider Has Well Been

Called Natural Marvel
It is agreed by scientists that the spider is supreme in cunning, ruthless ferocity, inventiveness and courage. Careful study of various kinds of spiders has shown an intelligence that leaves mankind amazed, and their engineering skill and inventive ability is far greater than that of the average human.

A silken thread spun by a spider is often as thin as thirty-two millionths of an inch in diameter. If it were enlarged two thousand times it would be as big as an ordinary horsehair. Human hair enlarged the same number of times is six and a half inches in diameter. With this transparent wisp of line, spiders are able to bind animals several thousand times bigger than themselves, for they attack tadpoles, frogs, lizards and bats.

A small ringed snake, nine inches long, was found trapped by a spider. The spider, its body hardly bigger than a good-sized pea, had spun a web in the form of an inverted cone, from the top of which hung a silken cable. The snake was suspended by this cable still alive. Its mouth muzzled with multiple strands of web and its tail tied by silken cord.—London Tit-Bits.

Something Lost When

"Family Dinners" Went

This country should revive the fine old custom of having family dinners, when the extension table was pulled out to its limit, relatives or neighbors invited, and a dinner fit for a king served. An appeal for a revival of the art of eating was made at recent convention of grocers in New York.

The family dinner social custom flourished in the pioneer days. In the modern day of rush and hurry it has lost out. It is too easy to telephone the restaurant and order a dinner for a certain hour.

Most people can recall family dinners where joy reigned and sweet domestic peace was all about. They helped make the home the most popular place known to members of the family, helped build up family life and agreeable understanding. The family dinner has a place all its own and it might be revived with good results.—Ohio State Journal.

Foundation's Purpose

The Judge Baker foundation was incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts on April 26, 1917, "for the purpose of promoting the better understanding of juvenile delinquents which admit of desirable development and the ways and means by which to develop them, establishing and maintaining a clinic, medical, psychological or other kind, which shall study, examine and make diagnoses, prognoses and reports on juvenile delinquents." The foundation aims to carry on civic and educational purposes, thereby establishing and maintaining a living memorial to Harvey Humphrey Baker, first justice of the Boston Juvenile court.

Curious Cockpit Country

The "cockpit" country is known only to those who have taken a West Indies cruise and not all of those. It means a trip to Jamaica and a journey when there to Balcayva and the glades of the Black river, Jamaica's longest navigable stream, famous for its dye woods and alligators. Between Appleton and Breadnut valley you will see a number of lovely waterfalls and at Ipswich, about 90 miles from Kingston, the Cockpit country begins, a land of conical limestone hills, banana-plantation glades. It is a region never fully explored and the Mafoons had their fastnesses here in the days of runaway negro adventures.

Early "Dictionaries"

Before there was a dictionary, people literally "died without." Over 2,500 years ago the Assyrians had one of their languages pressed in cuneiform characters on clay tablets. One authority says: "The Arabians, the Greeks, and the Romans, too, compiled dictionaries; they did make any attempt at giving all the words of a language, but contented themselves with listing rare or difficult words." Lexicons were a development of the Middle Ages. The first English dictionary which aimed at completeness was that of Nathan Bailey, published in 1721 and called the "Universal Etymological English Dictionary."

The Old Mohawk Church

The old Mohawk church, the oldest Protestant church in Ontario, is on the Six Nations' reserve near Brantford, Ontario. The grave of Chief Joseph Brant is on the site. The church is proud of the silver communion service and Bible presented by Queen Anne. The service is inscribed: "The gift of Her Majesty Anne, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, and Her Plantations in North America, Queen, to Her Indian Chapel of the Mohawks, 1712." The church is a popular mecca for tourists.

Salt and Sugar

A young woman entered an east end drug store and bought some supposedly salted peanuts.

"There's no salt in these peanuts," she protested.

"Well, we don't salt them much—salt hardens your arteries."

"Oh, is that so? Try eating a little sugar sometime and see if it won't soften your heart!"

Here endeth the conversation fit to print.—Indianapolis News.

Might Be Excused for

Using Strong Language

A few nights ago a spectacular fire left a warehouse a smoking ruin. Five alarms were sounded. Eleven reporters—two working and nine out to enjoy the fire—rushed to the scene. A columnist, who had no business there but loves to run after the engines, got his feet wet and caught cold.

The conflagration was the destructive sequel to a minor blaze that had scorched the establishment a few hours earlier. The first fire was discovered by the owner of the building, who sent in the alarm, watched the fire-fighters apparently extinguish the flames, and then went home.

Before retiring he telephoned a contractor to call around the next morning to see about repairing a few windows, painting the doors, and otherwise touching up the place here and there.

At seven o'clock the next morning the contractor called upon the owner at his home and together they went downtown. Arrived where the building should have been, the contractor looked at the smoking pile of debris and then at the owner. "Just what was it you wanted me to do?" he asked, puzzled.

Because of the owner's fine Sunday-school record, we don't like to tell what he replied.—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

How Volcanic Islands

Act as Safety Valves

Niunfou is one of the Tonga, or Friendly Islands, situated halfway between Samoa and Fiji in one of the most restless geological areas in the world. Stretching across the South Pacific from Samoa to North Island, New Zealand, there is a huge fissure in the earth's crust. Volcanic islands, such as Niunfou, strewn along this gigantic crack, act as vents for the molten mass within the earth. The Jack-in-the-box island of Falcon has popped up from the ocean's bottom at least twice, only to be washed and blown away each time by sea and wind. Only recently it has made its reappearance again in larger size, acting as one of these famous safety valves for the earth's mighty internal furnace.

To passengers of steamers passing close, the island looks like any other tropic isle, green with vegetation and coconut palms. Clean white houses and thatched native churches set in grassy lawns dot the hillside. When wind and sea are quiet, landings are made in small open boats which are guided skilfully into a nook partly sheltered by fingers of lava flow. Such landings are dangerous and exciting, because the boats bob up and down with the lurching rollers and scrape against the steep, jagged cliffs.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Obeying Instructions

Farmer Smith had a supply of winter cabbage to plant.

Arriving at the farmyard, he called over one of his laborers.

"George," he said, "I want you to plant these cabbages, but remember to plant them well apart."

"Ay, sir," replied George, and went about his task.

The following day the farmer again went in search of George.

"Well," he said, when he found him, "did you plant those cabbages as I told you?"

"Yes, sir," was George's reply. "I planted some in your garden and some in mine. Is that far enough apart?"—London Answers.

Jewish Emblem

Just as the oak from which came the navy that made Britain mistress of the seas, became the national tree of England, so did the beautiful lofty palm, which gave oil, timber and dates to its people, become the national tree of what we like to call the Holy land, Judah. Maccabaeus had it engraved on his coins as a symbol of Jewish valorous. Vespasian, the Roman emperor under whom the Jews were finally defeated, engraved it on his coinage as a token that he had vanquished Judaea. The palm tree was well understood to represent the Jewish people in ancient days, as, indeed, it does in a sense today.—Montreal Star.

Chivalry in 1867

"When you tread on a lady's train in the street, you are not required to apologize," observed the Providence (R. I.) Journal on July 13, 1867. "You have a right to be in the street. So has the lady; but she has no more right to carry her train with the expectation of having it respected than she has to bring her child to Market square and rock her baby in it. You have a right to stay on the sidewalk, and if any foolish woman chooses to lay five yards of satin between your feet and the flags, it is her risk, not yours."—Kansas City Times.

Chinese Immigration

Prior to the discovery of gold in California in 1848 there were no Chinese laborers in the United States. From 1840 to 1850, according to immigration records, only 35 entered the country, but during the next decade 41,397 came to the port of San Francisco. About 1870 Chinese coolie immigration began to be a political issue and the treaty signed November 17, 1880, gave the United States the right to regulate, limit or suspend the immigration of new Chinese laborers, but not to prohibit it altogether.
